Businesses hurry to claim last available land parcels next to BJ's

By Paul Burziakowski
For Hometown News

With the construction of BJ's Wholesale Club nearly complete and work on the four-lane extension of Yorktown Boulevard almost done as well, the remaining vacant land north of the Altamira Village Shopping Center, owned by Dunlawton Yorktowne Investors LLC, is drawing strong interest from businesses looking for the last of the prime retail locations in Port Orange.

The brokerage company that is generating interest and bringing deals to the table for future shopping center parcels is Charles Wayne Properties. According to Vice President Ted Lightman, interest has been really strong on the sale and ground leasing of four outparcels and one junior box site. The sites will be bordered by Dunlawton Avenue, Yorktowne Boulevard, Superwash Express and the BJ's Wholesale Club.

"We've had activity on every piece of property that is out there, so we are really happy about that," Mr. Lightman said.

There are already deals pending on two of the four outparcels. Mr. Lightman was unable to specify the businesses by name but did reveal that one outparcel would be a high-end convenience store with gas operations and the other a restaurant.

There are several businesses that are already up and running in an adjacent lot of the Altamira shopping village, including Golden Corral, CVS Pharmacy, Aspen Dental and Orange Leaf Frozen Yogurt. Moe's Southwest Grill will soon be joining Aspen Dental and Orange Leaf in the multi-tenant building. Space Coast Credit Union, which will be located between Superwash Express and the Aspen Dental building, is anticipated to submit development plans to the city for review. Moe's Southwest Grill is already in the permitting phase and should begin construction soon after

Spaceport picking up more support

By Estella R. Fullmer
For Hometown News

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — In a recent meeting, the City Council agreed to support Space Florida in its efforts to create a commercial spaceport just north of Cape Kennedy and the Kennedy Space Center.

Created in 2006 by Chapter 331, Part II Florida Statues, Space Florida is an Independent Special District of the state created to foster growth and development of a world-class space industry by promoting aeronautical education, industry and commerce in an effort to create a commercial spaceport.

The federal government leases much of the land around Cape Canaveral Air Force Station from the state. Space Florida has petitioned the federal government for the transfer of title back on certain property near Cape Kennedy, part of which is in Volusia County, and is awaiting an answer.

Space Florida has asked several cities along the east coast to support its efforts by fostering economic and educational developments that will expand and enhance a sustainable space industry in eastern Volusia and Brevard counties.

The Volusia County Council and the cities of Edgewater and Oak Hill have also agreed to support Space Florida.

In reviewing the proposal, city staff determined there would be no specific fiscal impact and recommended to the commission to adopt the resolution. In the May 28 meeting, the council adopted it without discussion.

Space Florida is requesting support from the cities and counties so it will have the infrastructure, economic base and industrial

Seniors not getting tax break

By Paul Burziakowski
For Hometown News

The state House of Representatives voted 116-0 in favor of it. The state Senate gave a final approval of it with a 40-0 vote. A little more than 61 percent of Floridians voted in favor of it. Of the 12 amendments on the ballot back on Nov. 6, it was only one of three that passed. Still, Amendment 11, also known as the Florida Senior Homestead Tax Exemption, has yet to make much impact.

The amendment enabled the state legislature to authorize counties and municipalities to offer additional tax exemptions on the homes of low-income seniors. According to long time Port Orange resident John Thomas, many local governments are dragging their feet when it comes to the matter.

John Thomas of Port Orange has been pushing local governments to enact a new homestead exemption for the elderly that 61 percent of Floridians voting last fall approved.

"This constitutional amendment appeared on the state's ballot because the state Legislature voted to put it before the voters," Mr. Thomas said. "It is now the local government's responsibility to put this into motion whether they approve or reject it."

At age 74, Mr. Thomas has resided in his Port Orange home for 25 years, meeting the homestead portion of the Amendment 11 tax exemption, but not the income requirement. When his wife retires from her job in a couple years, he has a good chance of qualifying and that is what makes Mr. Thomas such an avid sup-

Civil Air Patrol introduces itself to the community

By Erika Webb
ewebb@hometownnewsol.com

Time in the U.S. Air Force and a science project led Lt. Col. Charles Pirnat, Ph.D., to his place in what is now the DeLand Flight of the Seminole Composite Squadron of the Civil Air Patrol.

At an open house June 1 at the DeLand airport, the mission was to raise awareness and recruit cadets and senior members.

"One of our biggest headaches is that the Civil Air Patrol is one of the best kept secrets in the world and we don't want it to be," Lt. Col. Pirnat said.

The open house featured airplane static displays and information on the patrol's three primary missions: Emergency Services — Search and Rescue and Disaster Relief; Cadet Programs; and Aerospace Education.

Also on display were teacher materials to reinforce STEM — science, technology, engineering and mathematics — for students in kindergarten through high school.

"The National Defense Education Program, as managed by the Air Force STEM Outreach Coordination Office at the Pentagon, is partnering with CAP, CAP-USAF, and AFJROTC to provide financial support to promote increased STEM education for America's youth in the 21st century," according to www.cap-members.com.

"The conduit for that is the creation of the CAP STEM Kit Program for CAP Unit Aerospace Education Officers, CAP Educator Members, and AFJROTC Instructors nationwide," receiving city approval.

According to Port Orange Principal Planner Tim Burman the traffic signal installation is taking place at the intersections of Dunlawton Avenue and Taylor Road. A final layer of asphalt and landscaping will soon take place followed by certification and approval processes with the City.

"Much of the work done in recent weeks has been on the exterior and interior of the BJ's Wholesale Club building," Mr. Burman said. "The new roadway has been proceeding on schedule and once it is completed and approved, BJ's can open.

Mr. Burman also noted the developer has indicated to city staff that permit applications for LA fitness will be submitted later this year or early next year at the latest.

Port Orange has seen dramatic retail development in the last several years with parcels of land east of Interstate 95 drawing the most interest. Businesses that move into Altamira Village Shopping Center will be in an extremely desirable and active corridor with major retailers such as Walmart, Publix and Home Depot nearby and a great deal of residences scattered throughout.

"Retail stores and restaurants want to be located as close to I-95 as possible and be anchored by big box stores like Super Target and Lowes which bring lots of traffic through the area seven days a week," one of the principle owners of Dunlawton Yorktown Investors LLC, Paul Holub said. "That's what brings the real value to this location."

Maybe you could solve an automotive mystery

LAND LINES

DAN SMITH

About six months ago I caught a glimpse of the remains of a land speed record car on the TV show "American Pickers."

That sent me looking for the car all around the Ormond Beach-Holly Hill area. Few clues to its whereabouts were offered on the program and the producers at the History Channel would give out no details. I approached practically everyone I knew for help and drove out several tanks of gasoline in my search. Imagine my surprise when about a month ago I received an email from James McLynas asking for my assistance in verifying the history of a car he had just purchased.

Yep, it was my car.

Now I was supposed to help the new owner. The irony was not lost on friends, family and me.

Of course, I agreed to help. I take my job as unofficial beach racing historian for the city of Ormond Beach very seriously and considered it to be my duty. The car in question is a 1931 one-off Pierce Arrow racer that is powered by a factory straight eight engine with four one barrel down draft carburetors. The car has full instrumentation, including a 300-mph aircraft speedometer. The outer shell is missing, but was obviously made of fabric and dope, as were the airplanes of that period.

Soon after that first email, I met with James at the Halifax Historical Museum. He had driven over from his home in the Tampa Bay area at my suggestion to pore over the archives at the museum. Did the car ever run our beach? Who built it? Was it entered in a class other than Malcolm Campbell's Bluebird, which then ruled the beach? In 1931 and '32, the Bluebird set records in the 250 mph range and I knew this car would not be able to reach such speeds. After two days, few clues were produced.

What we do know is the car was last purchased in 1988 in Ormond Beach. Before that it may have rested in the basement of Pappy Hankinson's hotel in Orange City. That big wood framed building is now The Heritage Inn. How long the car could have been there is not certain, but it may have resided there for 40 years or more. Another lead suggested the car could have been built by "One Finger" Fengler who worked at the Indianapolis Speedway for many years. That proved to be a dead end when we discovered that Fengler did make a similar streamlined racecar, but not the Pierce Arrow.

Another tip was the car was only a movie prop built for the 1937 Jimmy Stewart movie "Speed." I discounted that right away for this car is much too complete to be a prop. Besides, no one would begin a movie car with such a high dollar machine as a Pierce Arrow.

Eventually James discovered the car may have a connection to Preston Tucker, the famed auto builder whose life was captured in the movie starring Jeff Bridges. Tucker was an exec at P. A. in Buffalo, N.Y. during the early 1930s and was very interested in racing. He had been impressed by a speed record set at the Bonneville Salt Flats in a stock Pierce Arrow driven by Ab Jenkins. It seems entirely plausible he ordered the car be made to try and better that record. So far we have been unable to nail that down.

In my search I have contacted Bill Warner of the Amelia Island Concours, Buz McKim of the NASCAR Hall of Fame, and recently got off a letter to Jay Leno. James has reached out to Don Davidson of the Indy museum, and is trying to reach Francis Ford Coppola, the director of "The Godfather." Coppola has ties to the Tucker family and is a car collector.

In the meantime, I know one of you reading this could have a tip for us. Search your memory. Did you see the car on the beach? At Ormond Beach? At Orange City? Anything could be a help in solving a mystery. (Please direct any information to my email or phone number that follows this column.)

Dan Smith is on the board of directors for the Ormond Beach Historical Society and The Motor Racing Heritage Association and is the author of two books, "The World's Greatest Beach" and "I Swear the Snook Drowned." Email questions and comments to fishwdan@att.net or call (386) 441-7793.

LEGAL CORNER

The Importance of Uninsured/Underinsured Motorist Coverage ?

Uninsured/underinsured motorist insurance is vital if you are going to operate a motorcycle in the State of Florida. By law this coverage must be offered to an individual who purchases liability insurance on a motorcycle, truck, car or other personal land motor vehicle and can only be avoided if the named insured signs a special rejection form that is approved by the Florida Department of Insurance. Uninsured/underinsured motorist coverage protects you while operating your motorcycle, anyone else operating your motorcycle or any passenger that you may have on your motorcycle if you are involved in an accident with someone who doesn't have any bodily injury liability, or who has minimal amount of this insurance.

What is Uninsured Motorist Coverage?

What is commonly referred to as uninsured motorist coverage in the State of Florida actually has the legal name of uninsured/underinsured motorist coverage or UM/UIM coverage. Uninsured or underinsured motorist coverage protects you, anyone operating your motorcycle, or any passenger on your motorcycle in situations that involve an at fault driver who does not have any liability insurance or does not have enough liability insurance to compensate you for your injuries, medical bills, lost wages or loss of earning capacity. Uninsured motorist coverage applies in situations where the at-fault driver has no liability insurance at all. Underinsured motorist coverage applies in the event that your injuries or damages exceed the amount of liability coverage that the at-fault party has purchased. In this situation, your underinsured motorist coverage will apply after the bodily injury coverage that the negligent party purchased has been exhausted (used in full). Your UIM coverage will then compensate you for the balance of your injuries and damages up to the policy limits of the amount of UIM coverage you purchased.

Florida is one of the few states in the country that offers stacking uninsured motorist coverage.

· Non-stacking uninsured motorist coverage applies uninsured/underinsured motorist coverage on a particular vehicle. That means that you can only access the amount of uninsured/underinsured motorist coverage that you purchased on the motorcycle and only if you are operating that motorcycle or some other vehicle that you do not own.

· Stacking uninsured motorist coverage is much broader and allows you to access multiple policy limits from every vehicle that you own that has the stacking form of uninsured motorist coverage. In addition, if you have stacking uninsured/underinsured motorist coverage, you can access that insurance if you're injured in another vehicle that you own, regardless of whether that vehicle is insured for uninsured/underinsured coverage or not.

Why Should You Purchase Stacking Uninsured/Underinsured Motorist Coverage?

There are steps that you can take to help reduce the chances of being involved in a serious motorcycle accident. You can wear protective clothing, eye protection and a motorcycle helmet. You can avoid following too closely to the vehicle in front of you, avoid blind spots on vehicles that you are traveling next to, and obey the posted speed limit. You can avoid going through intersections with yellow lights and give yourself extra distance before pulling out in front of traffic. However, regardless of how cautiously and defensively you drive your motorcycle, you cannot control the actions of other motorists who are in a hurry, on the phone, not paying attention, or driving a vehicle under the influence of alcohol or drugs. The best way to protect yourself, your family, and any passenger on your motorcycle in the case of an accident with an uninsured or underinsured motorist is to purchase adequate stacking underinsured/uninsured motorist coverage on all of your automobiles and motorcycles.

If you have questions regarding your car or motorcycle insurance coverage, contact your insurance agent today and ask them about uninsured/underinsured motorist coverage. If you or a loved one has been involved in a motorcycle accident, you are always welcome to contact a personal injury attorney for legal help. At Rue & Ziffra, P.A., we have 9 attorneys with over 30 years of combined experienced helping individuals receive compensation for motorcycle accidents, car accidents and other types of personal injury claims. porter of Amendment 11. He has spent the last two weeks actively contacting city and county representatives to find out why this matter is not being addressed by cities in Volusia County, or by the county government.

"I'm willing to bet not one low income senior has been helped by this amendment yet, even though it passed over 6 months ago," Mr. Thomas said. "I believe the voters deserve an answer. The county people that I talked with seem to be giving me a run around like they want it to go away. They need to do their job and step up to the plate."

Mr. Thomas did, however, find Councilman Donald Burnette and the City of Port Orange to be extremely cooperative in their response to him.

"I'm in favor of Amendment 11," Councilman Burnette said. "While this matter affects a small segment of people in the community and has a minimal effect to the city's finances we have the ability to make a big impact on the poor. The plan is to get this topic on the agenda for the June 18 City Council meeting where the council can discuss it further."

Under Amendment 11 an additional homestead property tax exemption is given if a person has a legal or equitable title to a property, the homesteaded property has a market value less than $250,000, the property has been the permanent residence of the owner for at least 25 years, the owner is at least 65 years old, and the owner's household income does not exceed $27,590. The final requirement is the counties and municipalities providing the additional exemption must do so by passage of a local government ordinance.

While Lake County passed Amendment 11 in December, it was a different story in Marion County. Commissioners there voted 3 to 2 on Feb. 19 against implementing a property tax reduction for some senior citizens. That led to a heated County Commission meeting three months later on May 21 with several proponents of the amendment coming up to the podium to express their anger and frustration.

Advocates say seniors have every right to be upset over this matter because many of them live on fixed incomes and the tax exemption would go a long way in helping them with cost of living increases and medical bills.

This leaves the question of why so many state and local governments are delaying or rejecting the passage of Amendment 11. Could it be due to mounting budget shortfalls from diminished property tax returns or from the global economic downturn that seems to be affecting everyone these days?

"This amendment passed during a national election, and possibly left it overshadowed," Councilman Burnette said. "Most of these become law and don't require further local action. I think many municipalities were waiting on guidance from the state or the local property tax assessor's offices on how to implement, which never came. With other issues, it probably fell off of most people's radar."

When it comes to Port Orange, why have they waited this long to address the issue when Lake County approval it six months ago?

"I think with the many issues and challenges we faced in the past few months in our finance and water departments, as well as bringing on a new city manager and new finance director, our attention was diverted," Commissioner Burnett said. "Solving these issues took precedence, and it fell off our radar. As we are now working through these vital issues, we can start to pick up where we left off on things like this to move the city forward."

Need kitten help

I was slightly impressed with the response letter by Pat Mihalic, but unfortunately she never gave an immediate solution to the overpopulation of kittens.

I agree a trap, neuter and release in every city would help decrease the problem far faster than killing all feral cats, but in the meantime, I still have one question. What should one do immediately with the amount of kittens being born? When the shelters are full and have no more foster cat mothers nor do they have any more people who can take on feeding newborn kittens every two hours, where should these kittens be taken?

Some shelters will be honest and say we are full if you insist we take these kittens, they will be put to sleep. Other shelters just say sure and as soon as the door closes, the kittens are put to sleep. So, if you are truly wanting to take the kittens away from their mothers when they are so young, do you have a place or organization that will take these kittens, feed them and care for them until they are old enough to be spayed or neutered and adopted out?

TNR is a long-term solution, but right now I feel that if the shelters can no longer take on any more kittens, they should be left with their mothers. If you have a solution, please be kind enough to print this solution. What organization is willing to take on all these kittens? That would be helpful.

Meter prices need meter

Reading about Daytona Beach considering parking meters reminded me about meeting a parking meter salesman in another city years ago.

I asked him why parking meters, which are simple clocks, cost so much? He said his company could break even at $50 per meter. Later he told me that his company won the bid. The price was published in the local paper as $150 per meter. That was one third for the meter and two thirds for profit. If that ratio is true, it is no wonder we have pricey government studies that give no help.

Don't butcher trees

My rant is prompted by the butchering of trees in the older neighborhoods of Port Orange. Through our neighborhood associations and concerned citizens, we residents are fighting to keep our standards up and the city is woefully neglectful. The last survey showed that above all else residents want underground utilities.

Port Orange's tax base is not small, and steadily growing — Raydon, the Pavilion, the new Publix at Westport, for example.

City Center has a beautiful canopy of oak trees thanks to underground utilities. Now, our 100 year old neighborhood trees are raped and pillaged beyond recognition, destroying our own canopy and the ambience we are fighting to keep, and all for the sake of outdated utilities and poles.

Mismanagement of our tax dollars and lack of concern for all citizens has run rampant for way too many years. The city's failure with Riverwalk brought us down even more. Every smaller city around us has stepped up and looks 10 times better. It is time for Port Orange leaders to grow up, accept responsibility for their misdeeds and be responsive to the needs of all taxpayers, not just the few chosen neighborhoods.

Much as the city officials cite lower property values as the reason we are at the bottom of priorities, it is not a valid argument. The fact is their favored areas may have $300,000 homes on a 150-foot by 200-foot lot. Our neighborhoods have mostly 50-foot lots and a $100,000 home on each lot — three or maybe even six homes on the same square footage of land depending on depth of the lot. That appears to be a near equal tax base area-wise, but still we are singled out and treated as lower class.

What a cop-out! Yes, I know I can move and I have indeed considered it often. These older neighborhoods have much value and charm if we weren't fighting a brick wall for a fair share of the taxes we pay to be returned in services to our areas.

Money misdirected

I like your article on closed charter schools. I am for charter schools, but not with taxpayers' money. Is Burns accredited? A good profitable school should not need any state assistance.

Why are teachers getting raises instead of putting out of work teachers back to work?

Are lawmakers' heads in their pockets more than for the betterment of our country?

In response to: 'Guns don't help'

The figures in the letter are not correct according to the latest available statistics from the Federal Bureau of Investigations.

Firearms, including so-called assault weapons, were cited in 8,583 homicides in 2011; knifes were cited in 1,694 homicides. These are nationwide figures. They do not include accidents.

The 30,000 figure is very exaggerated. I am not sure where the number came from.

I shot my first deer at seven. I am a Vietnam veteran and a law officer.

I believe guns have their place and do save lives and stop other felonies.

I think this gentleman needs to do some research.

Editor's Note: The letter from the May 24 issue stated that 30,000 Americans are killed "or injured" by guns each year.

Kindness appreciated

This is a very belated rave, I want to thank the person who found my purse in the middle of Nova Road and returned it to the police department. I got my purse back with everything in it.

It is very good to know there are such wonderful people who do such good deeds. I was having a very difficult time. I was having problems and I cannot tell you how much I appreciate the kindness. Thank you.

More code enforcement needed

I moved to South Daytona a few years ago. I was told by a resident at the time the area wasn't as kept up as it had been during previous years.

I am surprised someone would complain about the grass seed. When we have cars parked in front yards on the grass, boats sticking out past the front of houses. People don't take pride in their neighborhood. Neighbors don't want to go against neighbor. What we need is the citizens committee to go around and complain about people who aren't their neighbors. We only have one code enforcer, which makes it very hard.

Computers don't help

Let's see what computers have given us.

No. 1 — a huge expense out of pocket for the machine itself
No. 2 — a monthly bill
No. 3 — a fear of losing our privacy
No. 4 — a fear of someone getting our Social Security number
No. 5 — a fear of someone getting our personal id on our debit card
No. 6 — a loss of jobs for the hundreds of thousands of people who were replaced by these machines
No. 7 — loss of government secrets to foreign lands
No. 8 — jobs being given to many unprofessional people who cannot deal directly with the public
No. 9 — expensive fee for repairs
No. 10 — an easy access for children to high forms of sexual display
No. 11 — a loss of privacy to all Americans with the simple press of a computer key
No. 12 — a new service policy in banks, airports, etc. when they go down, or should I just use a good old American term "when they break"
No. 13 — unlawful matter of selling so a child answers with a press of the key that says they are 21 years of age
No. 14 and the greatest loss to me — the total amount of lack of interest and personal understanding when dealing eye to eye with another individual

The computer is a cold hearted uncaring machine that we now use to make our major decisions many of which culminate in true cases of heart breaking answers.

Disrespectful guest speaker at Ormond Beach Memorial Day ceremony

I participated in this morning's Memorial Day Ceremony at Rockefeller Gardens in Ormond Beach.

What was supposed to be a solemn occasion, recognizing the sacrifice of our American service members who gave the ultimate sacrifice for their country, was soiled by the guest speaker's presentation for his company's solar-powered windows. He even tried to demonstrate his window during his speech. Cmdr Colbert, USNR-Ret, soiled and disrespected the memories of our fallen war heroes by using this solemn and sacred ceremony for his own agenda.

I served more than 26 years in the U.S. Air Force and have been retired since 1998, participating or attending at many veteran's events and recognition ceremonies as I can. I have never seen such a blatant and disgusting display by a military member for his own gain. Talk about "war-profiteering"! He brought it to a new level. His behavior was inappropriate, disrespectful, despicable and aberration to all that is sacred to us warriors. I pray that Cmdr. Colbert is never asked to speak in a public forum for veterans again.

VOLUSIA BUSINESS
CECIL G. BRUMLEY

It was a slow business week as a lot of folks headed out on vacation with the Memorial Day weekend. Of course, a lot of people headed this way, which means June should be a busy month for the hospitality industry.

Two recent reports point to the Volusia County economy continuing to gain steam in June. Passenger traffic at Daytona Beach International Airport increased 3 percent in April compared with April 2012. The county-operated airport recorded 54,313 incoming and outgoing passengers, compared to 52,765 travelers last year. The increase came despite fewer available seats.

Airport Director Rick Karl said Delta Air Lines and U.S Airways reported 1,826 fewer seats offered this April and passenger loads increased from 85 percent in April 2012 to 90 percent in April this year.

It still doesn't look like that will mean more seats, though. For June, Delta Air Lines is offering its usual five daily flights. US Airways is offering three daily flights, but two additional flights on Saturday.

Taxable retail sales in Volusia were up 5 percent in March as bikers and spring breakers helped push sales upward. Nearly every sector improved, except food and beverage stores, which continue to lose ground to the supercenters, dollar stores and drug stores.

Sales of building supplies to contractors and for home improvement were up substantially in March as a result of a pickup in new home construction and sales of existing houses.

There's not anything on the immediate horizon that would change the economic trends we've seen this year, so it should be a good summer businesswise.

In one of the few new projects to show up, a land owner wants to use his property on East Rhode Island Avenue in Orange City for a 30.5-acre industrial park. It would include a landfill for landscapers to deposit yard debris.

It's difficult to get excited about International Speedway Corp. getting a new partner to develop its property around Daytona International Speedway and across the road where General Electric was located. After a while, when you don't see anything materialize, you've got to wonder if it ever will.

Still, ISC has hooked up with Jacoby Group of Atlanta to build a huge complex. It could include 1.1 million square feet of buildings and would be called One Daytona. It would have apartments, 500,000 square feet of retail and two hotels.

If it does happen, it would provide a huge boost for the west side of Daytona Beach.

Managing Editor Cecil G. Brumley has been tracking business in Volusia County for more than 16 years. Contact him at cbrumley@hometownnewsol.com or follow him on Twitter @cecilbrumley.

Builder defies economy, opens own business

By Laurie Sterbens
For Hometown News

A sour economy sends your industry into a nose-dive. Your employer is forced to downsize and you find yourself out of a job. Some people might choose to seek work in another field or face unemployment until the economy recovered.

An option most wouldn't consider would be opening up a brand new storefront in the same troubled industry. Yet that's exactly what Paul Rechichar decided to do four years ago when he opened Platinum Building & Remodeling in Port Orange.

Mr. Rechichar's risky move paid off. The company's sales have doubled every year since opening, he said.

"Yes, we did take a chance putting a storefront up, opening up a business, but it has worked out, fortunately," he said.

Mr. Rechichar operates the business with his wife, Melissa, who handles the financial end of business and permitting. A son, Nathan, works as a site supervisor for the company.

Though in a troubled economy, the Platinum Building & Remodeling's beginning wasn't a complete gamble. Rechichar has more than 25 years of experience in building and remodeling, and had developed a rapport with customers he had worked with previously.

"I opened the company up because we were getting a lot of requests for remodeling work," he said. "It seemed to me that when the new housing slowed down, a lot of customers stayed in their homes and remodeled."

Thanks to word-of-mouth, a Spruce-Creek Fly-In remodeling project led to other major remodeling jobs that kept the company busy for two years on one street.

"It just snowballed and it kept us very busy," Mr. Rechichar said.

The company's remodeling division offers a wide range of options for upgrading an existing home, from replacing doors and windows to kitchen and bathroom remodeling and additions, such as mother-in-law/guest suites, home theater rooms and sunrooms.

Platinum Building also specializes in creating outdoor living spaces. Mr. Rechichar is an experienced pool contractor who works with customers to create custom pool and spa designs. Ideally Mr. Rechichar designs the outdoor space at the same time as the customer is designing a new home, which he said allows the company to offer a better price for the project.

"We like to control the design and function," he explained. "It gives the customers more options of what they can do. We try to conform the house and the pool, not try to add it later."

However, Mr. Rechichar takes a similar approach when installing or renovating pools for existing homes, working with customers to create a functional outdoor living space that is in harmony with the look of the home. Available upgrades include custom paver and stone decking; outdoor fireplaces and fire pits; waterfalls, fountains and rock design; accent lighting; and screening, gazebos and walkways.

Now that the housing market is beginning to turn around, Platinum is beginning to build new homes. The company recently bought 53 lots in Arbor Lakes at Venetian Bay, a development in New Smyrna Beach that features an 18-hole golf course, fitness center, restaurants, and biking and walking trails.

Response to the Arbor Lakes development has been "tremendous," Mr. Rechichar said. He hopes to have the Arbor Lakes project built out within the next three years and is looking at other sites for the future.

"We're very optimistic about what we see coming down the line," he said.

Platinum Building & Remodeling is at 4639 Clyde Morris Blvd., Suite 607, Port Orange. For information, call (386) 547-1941 or visit www.platinumbuilding-remodeling.com.

the website reported.

The Civil Air Patrol was founded by New York Mayor Fiorello LaGuardia in 1941, a week before the attack on Pearl Harbor.

In the late 1930s, more than 150,000 volunteers with a love for aviation argued for an organization to put their planes and flying skills to use in defense of their country, according to www.gocivilairpatrol.com.

"Thousands of volunteer members answered America's call to national service and sacrifice by accepting and performing critical wartime missions," the website reported.

Assigned to the War Department under the jurisdiction of the Army Air Corps, the contributions of Civil Air Patrol included logging more than 500,000 flying hours, sinking two enemy submarines and saving hundreds of crash victims in World War II.

"All during the war we did homeland security, observation of submarines off the coast and ferrying military aircraft from where they were manufactured to the base," Lt. Col. Pirnat said. "It was probably the first time in history that women flew in military aircraft."

A year after the U.S. Air Force was established as a separate department, CAP was commissioned as the official auxiliary.

CAP's cadet program uses aviation as a motivator and a cornerstone.

"The cadet program is for ladies and gentlemen ages 12 through high school," Lt. Col. Pirnat said. "It's a good way for younger people to find out if they like military customs and courtesies and wear of the uniform."

Thousands of young people from 12 years through age 21 are introduced to aviation through the program, which allows them to progress at their own pace through a 16-step regimen including aerospace education, leadership training, physical fitness and moral leadership, according to the website.

"Cadets compete for academic scholarships to further their studies in fields such as engineering, science, aircraft mechanics, aerospace medicine, meteorology as well as many others. Those cadets who earn cadet officer status may enter the Air Force as an E3 — airman first class — rather than an E1— airman basic," the website stated.

Lt. Col. Pirnat must have been a quick study in taking orders. He served in the Air Force from 1959 to 1963. During the time of the Cuban Missile Crisis, in 1962, he was hospitalized for hernia surgery. When he was released, he returned to an empty barracks. His comrades were busy loading aircraft as "the world waited."

He tried to explain to the squadron First Sergeant that he'd just been released from the hospital, but without a note excusing him from physical duties he was ordered to load aircraft, too.

"So I went down to the line and I loaded aircraft," Lt. Col. Pirnat said. "Then I went to the hospital, got a note and answered phones for three months."

Lt. Col. Pirnat said the CAP Character Building program is designed to instill values such as responsibility, respect and self-discipline.

"I think parents feel (CAP) is a character building experience because (cadets) learn discipline, they learn how to follow as well as lead. They start out as followers and wind up being leaders if they go through the whole program," he explained.

He said cadets learn to respect themselves and others.

"The hard thing is self-discipline," Lt. Col. Pirnat said. "They're responsible for learning the things they need to know for military customs and courtesies as well as aerospace education."

And they'll get a workout.

"We have a physical fitness portion of the program, to progress from one rank to the next. As they achieve these goals, they move up through the ranks," he said.

Lt. Col. Pirnat has been with CAP since 1985 when his son's science fair project — aviation, naturally — progressed to the county level and won an award from the Experimental Aircraft Association.

"A person from the EAA was the squadron commander of the local CAP unit and he invited us to a fly-in lunch at Bob Lee Airport. That's how we became involved," he said.

Lt. Col. Pirnat has a bachelor's and master's degree as well as a Ph.D. in electrical engineering. He is a certified flight instructor, and taught flying and aircraft maintenance at the University of Illinois. He was Dean of the College of Aviation Technology at Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University in the late 1970s before going on to build lasers in Orlando for 18 years.

"Civil Air Patrol is an opportunity for someone to be of service and learn skills that are useful in building our community," he said.

Local students part of champion Enactus team

Jennifer London and Julian Naranjo, both of Port Orange, and Randol Hentges of Enterprise were part of the Flagler College Enactus team that won the U.S. Enactus National Championship on May 23:

They will represent the nation at the Enactus World Cup in Cancun, Mexico, on Sept. 29.

Flagler beat out teams from Brigham-Young University-Hawaii, Drury University and Blue Ridge Community College in the final four of the 2013 Enactus USA National Exposition on May 23 in Kansas City, Mo. To get there, Flagler had to first win opening and semifinal rounds of the competition that included more than 150 schools from across the country.

Executives from major U.S. corporations judged the competition, evaluating year-long community outreach efforts and how successful they were at using business concepts to improve the quality of life and standard of living for those in need.

Mr. Naranjo also won an Emerging Leader Award.

The team helped St. Augustine's St. Francis House with Passport Pretzels, a hybrid job-training program that taught culinary skills to homeless men and women as well as working with St. Augustine Youth Services to create Soapy Tales, a company that develops, makes and sells all-natural soap.

Health department offers free door alarms for safety

For Hometown News
newsdy@hometownnewsol.com

The state Department of Health in Volusia County is offering free door alarms as part of the statewide Waterproof Florida drowning prevention campaign.

The alarms can be placed on a door or window leading out to a pool. The alarm will alert homeowners whenever the door is opened.

"Supervision plays a crucial role in the protection of our children," said Dr. Bonnie J. Sorensen, director of the state Department of Health in Volusia. "We hope that by providing these alarms to our residents we can help to provide them with a safer home for their families."

The campaign promotes three layers of protection to raise awareness about pool safety measures.

No. 1. Supervision, the first and most crucial layer of protection, means someone is always actively watching when a child is in the pool.

No. 2. Barriers. A child should never be able to enter the pool area unaccompanied by a guardian. Barriers physically block a child from the pool.

No. 3. Emergency Preparedness. The moment a child stops breathing there is a small, precious window of time in which resuscitation may occur, but only if someone knows what to do. Even if you're not a parent, it's important to learn CPR. The techniques are easy to learn and can mean the difference between life and death. In an emergency, it is critical to have a phone nearby and immediately call 911.

The free door alarms are available while supplies last at:

•121 W. Rich Ave., DeLand

•717 W. Canal St., New Smyrna Beach

•1845 Holsonback Drive, Daytona Beach

•3151 Howland Blvd., Deltona

Votran changes include increased frequency on some routes

For Hometown News
newsdy@hometownnewsol.com

Bus service on the U.S. 1/Ridgewood Avenue corridor in the Greater Daytona Beach Area, the busiest routes in Votran's system, is about to be improved with enhanced frequency.

According to Steve Sherrer, Votran's general manager, upcoming route and schedule changes that begin June 10 have the buses running every 30 minutes instead of hourly.

"Increasing the frequency on U.S. 1 core service routes 3 and 4 has been a long-standing priority," Mr. Sherrer said. "The Volusia County Council voted unanimously last October to accept Florida Department of Transportation grant funding that will pay for the additional cost of operating these routes every 30 minutes. We have people standing on these routes."

Time points along west Volusia routes 20, 21 and 23 and east Volusia routes 3, 4, 18 and 19 have been adjusted. Routes 1 and 60 are no longer interlined, which means passengers will need to transfer buses at the Transfer Plaza to travel to DeLand. The most significant changes are the increased frequency of Routes 3A/B and 4.

The daytime routes were identified for improvement to 30-minute frequency in the 2012-21 Transit Development Plan. The finding was reinforced by an east side transit study. Route 3 serves U.S. 1 north of International Speedway Boulevard almost as far as Interstate 95 — roughly 10 miles. Route 4 serves U.S. 1 south of International Speedway Boulevard to Nova Road — roughly 10 miles. Weekday and Saturday service operates between about 6 a.m. and 7 p.m. The routes are operating at capacity in most recent years, frequently requiring unscheduled additional vehicles in busy tourism months between September and May.

"We try very hard to make sure we serve as many people as efficiently as possible," Mr. Sherrer said. "We don't take making changes lightly since so many of our riders don't have other transportation alternatives."

For the fifth consecutive year, Votran's ridership continued to increase, with fixed route ridership reaching nearly 3.6 million, 6 percent higher than the previous year.

For more information, call Votran Customer Service at (386) 761-7700 in Daytona Beach, (386) 943-7033 in West Volusia or (386) 424-6800 in Southeast Volusia or stop by Votran headquarters, 950 Big Tree Road, South Daytona, for a detailed review. Information on the changes can be viewed at votran.org.

support to build a comprehensive commercial spaceport that will be in close proximity to Kennedy Space Center and Cape Canaveral Air Force Station but will be jurisdictionally independent of the federal government. It also promotes educational programs and competitions designed to expand aeronautical knowledge to better compete with the world space market.

The plan is to utilize the talent and manpower that already exists in Florida to create a world-class commercial launch pad facility. According to Space Florida documents, a generation ago 100 percent of the world's commercial satellites were launched from Florida and the state has a proven track record of working with environmentalists to have the least impact on the surrounding environment possible.

"There are 34 private spaceports planned or underway worldwide, including 17 in other states in the U.S., such as Arizona, Texas and Georgia," states Space Florida, which claims most of the commercial launches have gone overseas in the last decade. The goal is to bring the jobs back to Florida.

"The relationship between this nation's space program and the enjoyment and preservation of our natural environment is a history of successful partnership for over 50 years. The citizens and communities of the Space Coast have paid a high price for being solely reliant upon the government launch programs, and there now exists the opportunity to diversify into a broader more robust and unlimited commercial marketplace," states a Space Florida document explaining the need for the city resolution.

With the acceptance of the resolution to support Space Florida, New Smyrna Beach will now be considering how future development can enhance the space industry. Once Space Florida garners the support it needs, it will begin the process of building the infrastructure to create the spaceport. You can find out more about Space Florida on its website at www.spaceflorida.gov.

Hippiefest and its '60s vibe will lay a groove on Peabody Auditorium Sunday, June 9, with a street festival and indoor concert.

Out in the street, the party starts at 3 p.m. with live music from Tie-Dye Road, Taragonna Way and Steam. There will be food, drinks, '60s merchandise, art, plants, pottery, face-painters and psychics. The street festival is free and open to everyone.

The Happy Together concert hits the auditorium stage at 7 p.m. with the return of the most-requested duo, The Turtles featuring Flo and Eddie, and, for the first time, Gary Puckett and the Union Gap and Gary Lewis and the Playboys. Also performing are returning artists Chuck Negron, formerly of Three Dog Night, and Mark Lindsay, former lead singer of Paul Revere and the Raiders.

In the three years since The Turtles featuring Flo & Eddie brought back some friends for the 25th Anniversary Tour in 2010, "Happy Together" has become one of the most successful summer tours in existence, constantly hitting the road and celebrating the music of the '60s for thousands of "Happy" fans to enjoy across North America.

"Happy Together Tour 2013 will be the biggest and most successful tour we have done in the past 7 years," said Mark Volman (aka "Flo") of The Turtles. "It's 54 cities over nine weeks, and the groups on this year's show bring with them hours of hit songs and memories certain to please every fan of the 1960s. We are so excited to be a part of this great show. You don't want to miss it."

In all, the five artists on this year's tour have more than 60 Top 40 hits to

Controlling mosquitoes in your yard

GARDEN NOOK
JOE ZELENAK

Baseball, apple pie and mosquitoes — all of these things are synonymous with our American way of life.

Since we spend more and more of our free time relaxing outdoors, these pesky creatures can make life extremely uncomfortable and in some cases, dangerous. Mosquitoes can be more than just a menace; they can carry diseases such as Malaria and West Nile Virus, just to name a few. West Nile Virus has been a menace for the past few years and its presence has been spreading yearly. As you can see, controlling mosquitoes in your yard can be both beneficial for your sanity as well as your health.

Before we talk about ways to help control these pests, here are a few mosquito facts. Mosquitoes have four stages of development: the egg, larva, pupa and adult. Their larva and pupa stages are spent in water. When the adult mosquitoes emerge into the adult stage, the first thing they want is your blood. Keep in mind that only the female will bite. The blood supplies the mosquito with the protein they needed for the development of her eggs. The cycle then begins all over again. You can see that if this continuous cycle were allowed to go unchecked, you would be in for a miserable summer.

This year will probably be a bad year for infestation because of the heavy rains we have had the past couple of months. There is plenty of standing water for these critters to breed in.

There are, however, many steps you can take to help control these pesky critters. The first thing you need to do is walk around your property and try to remove any old tin cans, containers and old tires. Clean your gutters so they are not clogged and holding standing water. If you have an ornamental pond, stock it with fish. If you have birdbaths and fountains, change the water twice a week to keep the water from getting stagnant.

There are also other steps you can take to control the infestations such as spraying the perimeter of your yard with a designated mosquito spray. These sprays can be purchased at most retail garden centers and come in sprayer containers that can be attached to your hose. Use and follow label directions carefully!

If you don't like to use insecticides, there are a number of natural ways you can utilize to make your outdoor activities more enjoyable. One that works really well for me is a combination of lining the perimeter of your recreation area with garden torches. Not only are they functional, but they also add a great atmosphere to your evening entertaining. Another great idea is to use your chiminea. Lighting a fire is not just for wintertime. The smoke from the fire is a natural deterrent to mosquitoes and it also adds a warm feeling to your outdoor palace.

There is yet another way to help deter the pesky critters. You can line your outdoor area with Citronella Geranium plants. These plants are an annual that can grow to be as large as 2 feet. The plant has a distinctive citronella scent. The scent is readily released when you rub or crush the leaves of the plant. It has been said that the plant can deter mosquitoes, but I have not been able to actually prove it. Since the plants are attractive, it is worth trying.

The plants are easy to care for, so plant in full sun and in an area where they will get good air circulation. The plants require a steady source of a good fertilizer to keep the leaves from turning yellow. The plant can also be grown indoors in a container providing you have a good light source. The plant is also known as the "Mosquito plant." The plant is in the geranium family, as you will see by the leaf structure. The plant is often hard to find so you may have to shop around or try ordering them online.

Hello sea trout, so long mullet in the Mosquito Lagoon

FISHING WITH DAN

DAN SMITH

After the long tow down to the Lopez Fish Camp in Oak Hill, I guided my 16-foot Carolina Skiff to Tiger Shoals in the Southern Mosquito Lagoon.

Each year, as soon as the weather warms, that area calls me for the spotted sea trout that live there. Working just north of the big sand bar, I began throwing a blue and white Zara Spook Junior.

There were jacks in the area crashing on the small schools of baitfish that rode the outgoing tide, but my first hit was a two-foot long ladyfish. After a spirited fight that included two jumps, the lady released itself.

As the sun came up over the Atlantic dunes, small trout began to hit. Pretty good fun, but early on I always hope to take a big sea trout with my top water. As I manned the foot pedal on my trolling motor I made the Spook walk-the-dog in that famous zigzag motion. A couple nice ones took a whack at it, but missed, leaving behind an impressive boil near my lure. After a while I was near the old Coast Guard station and there a good 17-inch trout took the plug.

Once the sun was full up, I switched to my chartreuse shrimp tail jig. In that area, I use it with a 1/8-oz. white lead head jig. The lighter weight keeps the bait from settling into the sea grass so quickly. Back up in Ormond Beach I usually throw a 1/4-oz. jig for there is little grass to deal with. I also like the extra weight for the longer casts it affords. Moving west along the big bar the chartreuse was getting a hit on most every cast, Trout were coming to the boat but all were in the 13 to 14 inch range and not legal to keep.

When the action slowed a bit, I switched to the white and pink Peppermint Crunch from Grandslam Baits. I was reminded that about a year ago, the very first two times I threw that bait, I landed two flounders. I was reminded because on this trip the first time I threw it I had a 15-inch keeper trout.

After that, I went back to catching undersized and by noon the little trout had tired of playing.

Now I moved over west of the clinker islands to look for red fish. Through the years I have spent many an hour stalking reds on those flats. It's always hard work in the afternoon, because of the wind, and this trip was no different. I decided to drift north with the wind, using the push pole only to keep the boat straight. On this day, I never saw a red drum pushing water and, after an hour or so, I began to fish the channels between the islands.

Once more the small trout went at my jigs with a purpose. Good enough I thought, I will take my fun where I find it. Soon a pod of 3 or 4 dolphin came near to feed in the deep channel. When a mullet made one of those relentless jumps for which they are famous, it came down right in the mouth of a dolphin. The 10-inch fish had leaped high and forward and the dolphin played center field like Willie Mays. As the fish landed in that smiling face, the sea mammal seemed to be saying "come to pappa." The hapless mullet was swallowed in an instant. That would have been a great photo, but no one would have been quick enough to capture it.

Soon after, I put the boat back onto the trailer. I had found no reds, but the reason for my journey was sea trout and I had a couple to take home while releasing maybe 30. It was a good day for me, but not so much for the mullet.

Remember to honor dad on Father's Day by getting him a gift at your local bait and tackle shop he can actually use. The pros there will be happy to help.
