City to look at annexation in upcoming meeting

By Dawn Krebs
dkrebs@hometownnewsol.com

PORT ST. LUCIE – A portion of property west of Range Line Road is scheduled to be back in front of the Port St. Lucie City Council at the June 24 meeting.

The property, known as the McCarty Ranch property, has the potential to be annexed and become part of the city. The property is approximately 3,000 acres of land in size.

The city is the owner of the property, as it was purchased in November of 2012 for a future water treatment, storage and recovery system. There is also the possibility of the land being eventually used for recreation, camping and conservation purposes as well.

Currently, portions of the property are being used for pepper and tomato farming, as well as cattle grazing.

The property was actually part of a larger group back in 2009 which wanted annexation under a project known as the Treasure Coast Intermodal Campus. The campus was being created to eventually construct an industrial inland logistics center. The city council voted against the project in 2011.

In March, Interim City Manager Jeffrey Bremer filed a petition for voluntary annexation.

A public meeting was held in April at the Allapattah Flats K-8 School to present the annexation project to the community and get feedback.

At the May meeting, the city council was asked to provide the team working on the annexation an extension, and unanimously voted to table the issue until the June 24 meeting.

School board votes to extend search for leader

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

ST. LUCIE COUNTY – At a June 17 meeting, the St. Lucie County School Board decided to extend the search for a new superintendent.

The school district's current superintendent, Michael Lannon, announced last year his plans for retiring at the end of the school year this year.

Since that time, the school district contracted with search consultant Jim Huge to help narrow down the list of interested applicants.

At the June 17 meeting, however, Mr. Huge informed the school board that one of the finalists, Scott Bailey, had withdrawn his candidacy for the position due to personal health issues.

After the board could not agree on the next potential choice, they narrowed their selections down to three potential finalists: Agnella Perera, Mark Rendell and Darci Mohr

After a discussion with Mr. Huge, the selection pool will again widen as he not only contacts the three candidates selected for further consideration by the board, but also contact qualified candidates who were not available when the search process began, but have since shown an interest in the position.

Superintendent Lannon will officially retire in July. During the selection process, Deputy Superintendent Genelle Yost will serve as acting superintendent.

Children's Home Society of Florida holds annual meeting

Children's Home Society of Florida's Transitional Living Program clients Daniel and James with Executive Director Sabrina Barnes; Child Advocate of the Year Honoree Marta Schneider; Stephen Bardy, vice president of operations, south region; Treasure Coast Board Chair Kevin Grady; and Anthony Sudler, chief philanthropy officer at the 2013 annual meeting.

TREASURE COAST — The Children's Home Society of Florida, Treasure Coast Division, held it's annual meeting for the board of directors on May 16 at PNC Wealth Management offices.

The evening's highlights included presentations by two of the clients of the Transitional Living Program.

James, who after many years of being homeless and struggling to remain in high school, became a resident of Baines Hall a few months ago. Without the worries of where he will sleep each night and where his next meal will come from, James is able to attend school every day and focus on his schoolwork to obtain his diploma. He is participating in the International Baccalaureatte program, and hopes to study cooking as a passion in the future. James feels that as a "survivor" of homelessness and abandonment, he can help others in need and hopes to do just that in the future stating that "if you love what you do, you will never work a day in your life." James is also president of the Youth Advisory Board, which acts as a liaison between the residents and the staff.

Daniel, a former foster care client, moved into the Youth Transition Center when the living arrangements he had with a friend did not work out. Daniel had a good relationship with his foster families but when you turn 18 and are a foster child, the options to continue care for these kids is removed completely. Daniel is part of Youth Shine, a group that legislates in Tallahassee for foster care bills that will better serve the youth in the system. He is also attending IRSC and has successfully transitioned to living on his own in the community.

The annual meeting also presented the opportunity for Children's Home Society of Florida to recognize Board Member Marta Schneider with the prestigious R. David and I. Lorraine Thomas Child Advocate of the Year Award.

Created in 1982 by the late Dave Thomas, this is the single highest honor CHS bestows upon an individual or organization. The award honors passionate child advocates who have given their time, talent and financial resources in hopes of creating happier tomorrows for children and families suffering today.

"As an organization that represents our community's most vulnerable children and young adults, we are proud to have strong members of the community on our board who have a heart for our mission," explained Executive Director Sabrina Barnes.

The group also heard from Anthony Sudler, chief philanthropy officer from CHS corporate offices in Winter Park. There were prospective new board members as well as seasoned members, and time was also spent planning for the coming fundraising year, board recruitment and publicity that will help improve the public's knowledge of what the programs offered do for our community.

The Children's Home Society of Florida Treasure Coast Division, which is one of 15 divisions in Florida, serves nearly 12,000 children and their families each year in Indian River, Martin, Okeechobee and St. Lucie counties. Children's Home Society of Florida is not a government agency and must rely on the support of individuals, civic groups, foundations and businesses for the funds to give children and young adults the opportunity to be safe, healthy and prepared for life.

Officer prevents crash

On June 8, Port St. Lucie Sergeant John Holman witnessed a driver of a gold sedan slumped over the wheel of her car while it was traveling south on California Boulevard through the intersection of Crosstown Parkway.

Sgt. Holman pulled his police cruiser in front of the car, allowing it to bump into the rear of the patrol car.

By doing this, he was able to bring the car to a stop before it could travel into the intersection.

Fire rescue arrived and transported the driver of the vehicle to a local hospital with a non-threatening injury. There was no damage to either car, and the police officer was not injured.

Man arrested for animal cruelty

Port St. Lucie police arrested an Avon Park man on June 13 on two counts of animal cruelty charges when he left his two dogs inside his car at Keiser Golf College.

According to reports, a witness saw the dogs in the car with the windows partially rolled down.

The dog's owner and college staff responded to the car and removed the dogs, which were taken inside the college and treated with wet towels and ice.

One dog died at the scene, and the other dog died overnight while being treated at an animal emergency center in Fort Pierce.

Woman arrested for leaving child in car

On June 16, a Port St. Lucie police officer noticed a car with the engine running parked in the parking lot of Walgreens, located on Port St. Lucie Boulevard.

The officer noticed that the right rear window was rolled down, and there was a two-year old child unrestrained in a car seat.

The child's mother, Marisha Johnson, 26, of Port St. Lucie, was found shopping inside Walgreen's. Police learned that she had driven to the store without a valid driver's license.

Reports state she was arrested for child neglect and the child was turned over to family members in good health.

County commissioners earn achievement awards

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

ST. LUCIE COUNTY — For the fourth consecutive year, the St. Lucie County Board of County Commissioners earned recognition from the National Association of Counties' Achievement Awards program, winning in two categories.

The Board of County Commissioners earned an Achievement Award in the Civic Education and Public Information Category for its Sea Turtle-Friendly Beaches Campaign and in the Public Safety Category for its Fleet Watch Program.

"Once again, it's wonderful to be recognized on a national level for the efforts of our Board and dedicated staff, especially for two programs that have such a positive impact on public safety and the environment," said Tod Mowery, St. Lucie County Commission chairman.

The Sea Turtle Friendly Beach Campaign is a program that educates St. Lucie County's coastal residents about proper sea turtle lighting regulations.

Administered by staff members from the IFAS/St. Lucie County Cooperative Extension Office, Media Relations, the Mosquito Control and Coastal Management Services Department, the Tourism Division and Code Compliance Division, the program has resulted in improved code compliance, record numbers of sea turtles nesting on County beaches since 2001, and increased public knowledge of sea turtle biology and conservation.

Created by the County's Solid Waste Division, the Fleet Watch program works with law enforcement agencies to train field crews on how to spot and report suspicious activities in the community. The program has put an additional 2,000 eyes and ears on the streets, helping law enforcement agencies observe, report and solve criminal cases.

The awards recognize innovative programs development by counties in 21 different categories. Award winners were announced last week.

St. Lucie County was one of 12 counties to be recognized in the 2013 Achievement Award program, along with Broward, Dade, Flagler, Hillsborough, Leon, Manatee, Okaloosa, Palm Beach, Pasco, Polk and Sarasota counties.

During the past four years, St. Lucie County's has received 12 Achievement Awards for its various programs and services.

The National Association of Counties is the only national organization that represents county governments in the United States. Founded in 1935, its membership totals more than 2,000 counties, representing more than 80 percent of the nation's population.

Understanding what happens when you click the mouse

COMPUTE THIS
SEAN MCCARTHY

One of the most basic moves one needs to master in order to get anything done on a PC is the "click." Sounds simple and obvious, doesn't it? Well, it is, but as many new computer users are finding, it's not necessarily simple. There are a few things that need to be kept in mind in order to master that one basic action.

A frequently asked question is: "How do I know whether to click or double-click?"

My answer is: "Easy! Click once, and if nothing happens, then double-click."

If that seems self-explanatory, it is. Just think about it; if clicking twice gives you a different result than when you click once, and you aren't sure which is which, then start off with a single click first. That's important, because double-clicking will often open a new window or launch a program or typically do something more drastic than a single click. In fact, the results of double-clicking will often cover the icon you were working with.

The single click has its place. When you click once, you should notice that your target object (whatever it is that you just clicked) will often turn blue (or whatever color your computer is set at). This change in color indicates to you that this particular icon is now highlighted or "selected." In other words, when you single click an icon and it turns a different color, you have focused the computer's attention at that particular object.

Then, once something is selected, the computer knows that whatever you ask it to do next should be done to the object that's highlighted.

What kind of things can you do to a selected object? You can copy it by pressing the control (ctrl) key and the "c" key on the keyboard simultaneously. You could press the "Enter" key (which gives you the same results as if you double-clicked). You could also delete the item or rename it if you clicked on the name. There are lots of uses for the single click; the important thing to remember is that's how you make sure the computer is "looking" at the same thing you are.

As for the double-click, when you double-click an icon, it's absolutely essential that the mouse be kept completely still for both clicks. If you are trying to double-click an icon that's in close proximity to a folder icon and you double-click while the mouse is still moving, you run the risk of dragging the target icon and dropping it into the folder and moving it to another location on the computer. That can be a real puzzle to figure out where the icon went – it just disappears!

Many people who have trouble double-clicking hold the mouse with their wrist suspended in the air and a death-grip on the mouse. You don't have to grip it that tightly; just let it sit on the mouse pad. Rest the heel of your hand on the mouse pad and just push the mouse around with your fingertips. Once you loosen your grip, you'll find that the mouse will stay put.

If you still have problems with the pointer wandering around when you are trying to click, you may want to consider a trackball. A trackball is like a mouse that's been flipped over on its back. You roll the ball around with your fingertips, and the base is stationary. Unlike a mouse, where the buttons go along for the ride, the buttons of a trackball are built into the non-moving base. So, when you click a trackball, keep your fingers off the ball and click the button. That usually ends the "wandering clicker syndrome."

True Crew Dance Company, led by owner and artistic director Toni Pressimone, entered and excelled at three major dance competitions so far this year. At the Starbound Regional in Orlando, 58 routines were entered, and 45 gold and 13 high gold awards were won by students. This qualifies them for Nationals, held at the end of June in Orlando. The second competition was the State Dance Championships in Lakeland, 58 routines were entered and True Crew won 33 gold, 23 platinum, and two double platinum. The third competition was the Show Stoppers Dance Competition in Lakeland, where 59 routines were entered. From those, True Crew won 38 gold and 21 platinum. The annual company production number for competition this year was "The Amazing Spider Man."

On a positive note

I never noticed how many unhappy people lived on the Treasure Coast. Because of that, I want to send in a rave. I want to say that I am happy that I live in the best place in the whole world and the beauty that surrounds us.

I'm happy for our military that sacrifices so much for the good of our country. Thank you to the police and fire departments. To the Hometown News that gives us news, computer tips, good information on local restaurants and merchants, all for free.

And to all those people and organizations that actually do something to help us be the best country, thank you.

I want to fish

I just recently went and got my Florida identification. I took my passport, Social Security card, rent agreement, power bill, etc. I just went to get a fishing license, and none of that is good enough. So with all my documentation, I have enough to fly to Pakistan and get information to build a bomb, or go terrorist school but I still can't get a fishing license?

Visit museum and say thanks

Articles were ever present in the local newspapers and online about the June 6, 1944 commemoration of the D-Day Invasion. It brought back memories of my own father and his involvement in World War II. I remember the stories of his trials as a paratrooper of the 101st Airborne on the Normandy Beaches. I can envision him parachuting from the sky surrounded by men who had lost their lives before they hit the ground. We need to give thanks on a regular basis to all the men and women that have served this great country through all wars and conflicts. We need never forget to say those two key words thank you. The Road to Victory Museum, behind Veteran's Memorial Park in Stuart, preserves the past for the present and shows their gratitude for our veterans.

Nowhere clean to sit

This rant is about the very unsightly conditions at the fishing pier under our beautiful bridge going across the Indian River.

There are many benches to sit on, but they are used for cleaning fish. What a picturesque spot to relax and enjoy the scenery without any place to sit.

Stop rumors before they start

Rumors in a small town can be highly entertaining for some and worrisome for others. Too bad for you if you believe any rumor.

A rumor can be started by anyone, true or false. Half true, half false or highly embellished.

Webster's dictionary definition of a rumor is unsubstantiated facts, which means without confirmation of the truth.

So, before you spread information about others you might go back to the source and get their side of the story. It most likely will be very different than the rumor!

A story of an incident may have as many sides as there are people involved. A story can also be missing a few facts (if someone is hiding their little secret).

And certainly, like my friend, who'll embellish, enhance, improve a story through exaggeration to make it better, others will do the same.

And, however many people this rumor feeds through, the facts can become that much more skewed (a slanting position) to their benefit.

So, before you know it, "that someone" has murdered, raped, pillaged, done the worst anyone could imagine, when, indeed, none of this has even happened.

But it has put fear into you and most often there's something else that's true that doesn't even make the story, like the person who started the rumor is actually the awful human being.

Most human beings are becoming lower and lower on the evolutionary chain because of the way they think of others. So take rumors with a grain of salt.

If you weren't there to observe what happened, you'll have no idea of the truth in a rumor. Ask questions like, what did you do to create such behavior in others? Some people pretend they are so innocent, when they're not.

You are actually showing your ignorance if you participate in a rumor. Uneducated people are the easiest to brainwash with rumors, along with people who live with fear and hatred of others. You can see people living in fear. This will be a slow death from the stress.

So if you want to evolve into a higher intelligence, don't get involved with rumors. Don't believe it if it sounds too awful to be true. Do your homework.

A plea made to drivers

The speeding and the red light and stop-sign running drivers are out of control lately. Hey, what's your hurry, you're already here.

Unfortunately, the county sheriff's department, when I called them, has told me it is too expensive for them to set up speed traps anymore.

Don't they at least get some of the income from tickets?

Mostly, I wish to plead with aggressive or hurried drivers: Please don't try to change the clock with your speedometer. In reality, speeding and running red lights and stop signs won't get you where you're going much sooner than by obeying the lights and signs.

Really and you won't waste gas and risk lives.

Learn from your mistakes, USA

If we reward illegality, we get more of it. That's the lesson America should have learned in 1986. That year, Congress passed a flawed immigration bill. It was supposed to give illegal immigrants citizenship and, at the same time, close our borders. Congress failed to close the borders and millions more illegals were attracted to sneak into our country. Today, we face a similar situation. Proposals before Congress place legalization first and promised border enforcement later, perhaps much later, perhaps never. It's a bad deal for America.

Some bike advice

I've been driving for 40 years and riding a bike for 50. I have safely operated taxis, dump trucks, garbage trucks, moving vans and even some heavy equipment on the roads of this country all over the place, in all kinds of conditions, from coast to coast, mountains and deserts.

If I, for any reason, had ever felt the least bit confused, I would have pulled over until my head totally cleared.

You, obviously, are exactly the person my rant was directed toward. Yes, you are confused and conveniently omitted the fact that the statutes on bikes have several sections and should be read in their entirety to be fully understood.

Anyway, law aside, if you are confused by a bike, dog, kid on a tricycle, skateboarder, wheelchair or pretty much anything at all, then maybe you should do us all a favor and park it, baby.

Modern accessories, technical advancement make for unsafe driving

ON CARS
EARL STEWART

Ford Motor Company just announced that they are going back to "buttons and knobs" instead of their high tech touch-screen and voice-recognition multimedia systems in their cars. They made this decision because of too many complaints, although they said that the features were a motivation for customers to buy the car in the first place.

This means that the high-tech gadgets seemed like a great idea until you tried to use them while driving. They were too complicated, sometimes didn't function the way the driver expected and required too much focus which detracted from keeping their eyes on the road.

In case you haven't noticed, technical advancements in cars are progressing at warp speed. We have far more computer power in a car today than in the rocket that took the first men to the moon. Most of this is hidden under the hood and requires very little driver knowledge or participation.

But car manufacturers have also started loading up the "cockpit" with high-tech gadgetry like multimedia equipped with Bluetooth, touch-screens and voice recognition. Your smart phone is automatically connected to your multimedia system when you start your car.

Some cars have "micro radar" that detects cars approaching alongside in your blind spots or coming toward you as you back out of your parking spot. There's even a camera mounted on the front of some cars that will tell you when you begin to move out of your lane and actually correct the steering wheel if you don't hear the audio warning. This camera will sound a warning and automatically apply the brakes if you approach an object too fast.

To qualify for a driver's license today, you have to learn all of the traffic rules and prove that you can drive a car on the road and park it. The driver's test today is no different than it was 50 years ago when cars were far simpler to operate. Fifty years ago, cars didn't have cruise controls, navigation systems, front and rear video cameras, radar, Bluetooth, touch-screens, multiple warning lights and sounds, integration with smartphones, automatic braking and ability to keep the car tracking between the two white lines in the road.

Where we find ourselves today is on the verge of a driverless car. In fact, driverless cars are allowed on the road today and legal in several states, including Florida. Five or ten years from now when driverless cars become a reality, there will be virtually no accidents on the road.

Computers are far smarter and coordinated than we are and even taking into consideration the occasional computer failure, they are safer. Computers don't ever lose their focus. They don't get mad at other drivers, look at pretty girls on the side of the road, drink too much or fall asleep at the wheel. Car insurance premiums will go down drastically when driverless cars become a standard.

Until all the complicated high-tech gadgetry on today's car is completely taken over by the computer, we need to think about being sure humans are capable of safely focusing on their driving while they operate their complex accessories. Car buyers should be thoroughly trained on the operation of all of the high-tech gear on their cars. A human being cannot focus on driving safely at the same time they are trying to figure out how to disconnect their iPhone from their Bluetooth when a call comes in that they want to keep private. It can be distracting just to change the station on a radio that has satellite, AM, FM, and interfaces with your smartphone. A driver should be so well trained that it's almost reflex with no conscious thought required.

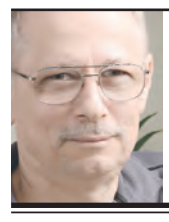
When I'm using my navigation system, guided by a woman's voice, and I reach the point where I know the rest of the way and don't require guidance, I can never remember how to "make her stop talking." I take my eyes off the road while I try to figure it out. I know I should pull over to the side to do this, but if it's rush hour on I-95, this can also be dangerous.

When a person takes a driver's test, he or she should have to prove that they can easily and quickly operate the cars' high-tech accessories while safely driving. When a person buys a car with new gadgetry, the dealer should be required to train that buyer in the fast, efficient operation of all accessories and the buyer should complete a test to demonstrate that they did in fact learn what was taught. If the test wasn't passed, the particular accessories that the buyer couldn't demonstrate competence in would be disabled until that time that they can demonstrate proficiency.

Currently, all a car salesman does for a new buyer is give her or him an owner's manual which nobody reads. Even if a buyer was inclined to study the owner's manual, they are way too lengthy and written in a boring, non-user friendly style. The navigation systems are so complex that they have their own owner's manual at least a couple of inches thick.

Governor Rick Scott recently signed a bill into law making it illegal to text while driving. Actually, texting with voice recognition is no more unsafe than talking on a hands-free cell phone while driving. If a driver can demonstrate that they can text safely while driving, they should be able to do so. But they should also be required to demonstrate that they can safely operate all other accessories on their car while driving safely.

It's best to know potting soil basics



GARDEN NOOK
JOE ZELENAK

One of the most important items for a successful garden or landscaping project is the soil that is used for planting. When you visit your local nursery, you will have a multitude of choices and varieties of soils from which to choose. You will find potting blends, top soil, soil with cow manure and soil with fertilizer already added, just to name a few. Where you plan on planting your plants will have a lot to do with which choice will be best you your needs.

If you plan on doing primarily container gardening, you will want to use a good quality potting mix. There are several brands on the market in a variety of price ranges but personally; I have had the best results with Miracle Gro potting mix. The product is a blend of soil and moisture-retaining amenities to make for an excellent product. There are, of course, other options such as Hyponex, Jiffy etc. All these companies make great products and often it is just a personal choice of what brand works best for you.

At the very least, look for a soil blend that is light in consistency and is not sopping wet in the bag. Using an inferior potting soil can cause that "dried, caked-up look" after the soil begins to dry out between watering cycles.

Unlike food products, soil manufacturers do not have to list their ingredients on the bag. If a particular bargain brand of soil does not mention what is in the bag, it is often wise to steer clear of that option.

Many people like to make their own blend of potting mixes by stirring together different flavors of soil. For example, I like to mix Miracle Gro potting mix with another soil that contains cow manure. Simply use about a 3 to 1 ratio. Use 3 parts of the Miracle Gro to 1 part of the soil with cow manure. This creates an excellent mix for getting your new plants a good start when you plant them. With all the concerns of water shortages and restrictions on watering, you can also add a couple scoops of plain old-fashioned peat moss. The peat will help the soil retain the moisture much longer thus reducing your watering requirements. I can still remember in the old days receiving a truckload of the pure Canadian peat shipped direct with the ice and snow still on the truck! Although harder to find than it used to be, some nurseries should still have it available.

Adding these extra ingredients can make your soil drain better, keep it from caking and also allow more nutrients to reach the roots of your plants.

If you are planting in containers, you can add some extra ingredients to the recipe. Perlite is a good choice of additives if you want your soil to "breathe." This volcanic substance (which is actually glass) will help create air pockets in the soil to make it lighter and less likely to cake up. The substance also has good water water-retention properties. Perlite also has many other uses in our daily lives including being an ingredient in plasters, mortar and insulation.

Depending on what type of plants you plan on using in your garden, the Ph of your soil can be an important factor.

For example, if you are planting Ixoria or gardenia, you want your soil to be on the acidic side. You can add aluminum sulphate to the soil to increase the Ph. If you are planting a vegetable garden, you want a lower Ph and adding some lime will help to sweeten the soil and give you great tasting vegetables.

Senior Swap deemed a success

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

PORT ST. LUCIE -
The inaugural "Senior Swap," an event geared to help seniors and families exchange or donate items such as electric scooters, walkers, wheel chairs and canes, was held on June 8 at The Gardens of Port St. Lucie.

Anne Branen, director of community relations at The Gardens and organizer of the event, said the idea for the swap came from her experience with the assisted living residents she works with daily.

"We see how expensive this equipment is for them to obtain, but once an individual no longer needs it, it often ends up being discarded even though it's still in good condition," she said. "We thought it would be great to give it a second life in the hands of someone who needs it, either locally or in Haiti. Hospitals in Haiti are functioning without many of the basic necessities we take for granted."

The Gardens partnered with OxyProsPlus, Confi-Care and Madetric Woods, a geriatric nurse practitioner, to host the event. Medical equipment was brought in by individuals, along with a truckload of items donated by Trinity United Methodist Church of Jensen Beach.

Mark Hassett, general manager of OxyPros Plus, along with one of their technicians, performed some wheelchair and walker maintenance, and Barry Becchio of Confi-Care was available for screenings and assistance in matching folks with the right equipment.

Madetric Woods, who has been instrumental in collecting medical supplies for Missionary International Flights to Haiti, brought along her daughter, Keisha, to help clean and sort equipment.

Several people were able to exchange items they brought in for wheelchairs and walkers that were better suited to their needs. At the end of the event, More than 50 items remained that will be donated to Bob's Closet, a charitable outreach of OxyProsPlus, or sent to Haiti.

Deb Shieber, sales assistant at The Gardens, said it was rewarding and a fun event.

"We didn't know what to expect since this was our first one," she said. "Overall, we were pleased with how it went and we're already planning for the next one in January."

"My dad had Alzheimer's disease for years, and Vivian and I took care of him in our home. A friend told me how Treasure Coast Hospice can help. They provided Dad's medications, a wheelchair, a shower chair and oxygen. The RN and hospice aide showed us their love and patience as they helped us give Dad all the care he needed. We suggest calling Treasure Coast Hospice as early as possible."

The Aaron Project, a fundraising event held June 12 at Big Apple Pizza and Pasta, hosted by the Van Duzer Foundation in Fort Pierce, is a family fund designed to recognize St. Lucie County students for excellence in academics, athleticism and leadership. The project is named for Aaron Beauchamp, the nine year old who was killed in a school bus crash on his way home from school in 2012. Aaron excelled in academics, athletics and the visual arts, so the Beauchamp family created the Aaron Project which, in addition to an annual scholarship, also provides for an annual grant to a St. Lucie County teacher who has visual arts in his or her curriculum. Morningside Library offering Summer teen scene events

NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

PORT ST. LUCIE – The Morningside Branch Library is offering teens a cool place to hang out this summer on Fridays at 2 p.m. from June 21 through July 27.

Designed for students in grades 6th through 12th, Morningside's Summer Teen Scene events are free. Sorry, no little children or adults are allowed.

• Friday, June 21 – Gadgets and Gizmos of CSI Detectives. Presented by the Port St. Lucie Police Department, hear what it's really like to be a Crime Scene Investigator and see some of the tools they use in their work.

• Friday, June 28 – Wii Party. Compete with your friends or work as a team at this Wii Party event. With more than a dozen games to choose from, teens can play on two big-screen televisions and enjoy pizza and drinks.

• Friday, July 12 – An Interactive Wizardly Mystery. Take on the role of a sleuth as the cast of Clapping Monkey Productions retraces the steps and delivers clues to aide you in solving the mystery. Participants who select the guilty party will join in the "trivia ceremony" to determine the winner.

• Friday, July 19 – Library of the Living Dead. Come for an afternoon of Zombie Survival Training. Practice your Zombie Target Practice skills, earn your Zombie Hunting Permit and take the Zombie Survival Challenge. Be sure to dress in your best Zombie outfit. Pizza and drinks will be provided.

• Friday, July 26 – Ancient Graffiti. Presented by Kevin Gidusko of the Florida Public Archeology Network, this fun, hands-on program explains the use of symbols in rock art and how archeologists use these symbols to understand the people who created them. You will then create graffiti of your own to tell future teens your story.

This program is sponsored by generous donations from the local community and the Friends of the St. Lucie County Library Association, Inc. Special thanks to Travola Pizza for providing the pizzas for these events.

Teens who would like to get involved in the planning of future library events are encouraged to join the Morningside Teen Advisory Board, which meets on the third Tuesday of each month from 4:30 – 5:30 p.m. in Room 103.

For more information about Morningside Library events call (772) 337-5632 or visit http://library.stlucieco.gov. The Morningside Branch Library is located at 2410 SE Morningside Blvd. in Port St. Lucie.

Treasure Coast Hospice moves up in veterans program

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

TREASURE COAST — Treasure Coast Hospice has achieved the Level 2 designation in the We Honor Veterans partnership.

"We Honor Veterans" is a program of the National Hospice and Palliative Care Organization in collaboration with the Department of Veterans Affairs. Treasure Coast Hospice first attained Level 1 in April, 2011, recognizing that veterans and their families have special needs that other patients don't often face.

"As an organization, Treasure Coast Hospice is focused on building partnerships in the community, says Lori Posdal, director of community relations. "Adding this level of partnership with We Honor Veterans shows we are moving in the right direction."

The Level 2 designation reflects Treasure Coast Hospice's commitment to ensuring veterans have access to quality end-of-life care, and will help Treasure Coast Hospice partner with other organizations in the community to improve care for veterans, enabling us to extend our reach within the community and tell more people about Treasure Coast Hospice services.

Treasure Coast Hospice is a nonprofit community organization of caring professionals and dedicated volunteers whose mission is to provide compassionate, comprehensive, high-quality care for patients and those who share their lives in St. Lucie, Martin and Okeechobee counties. Services, including respite care, counseling and bereavement services, are available to anyone regardless of their ability to pay.

Parish contribution funds mammograms

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

TREASURE COAST — For the twelfth consecutive year, Holy Cross Parish has held its' annual golf tournament for the benefit of a local 501(c)3.

This year Treasure Coast Community Health benefitted from the record turnout and the $22,210 raised under the stewardship of Tom LaRocca, the event chairman. The monies will be contributed to the Women's Healthcare Safety Net Fund and will pay for screening mammograms and PAP smears for hundreds of women without financial resources.

Recent gifts from others have enabled TCCH to test more than 103 women, of which five were diagnosed with breast cancer.

Mr. LaRocca and a team of eight dedicated volunteers spent hundreds of hours seeking sponsorships and participants for the event. Debbie True, the Holy Cross Administrator, works tirelessly to make this annual event a success.

The parishioners and Reverend Father Murphy have been extraordinarily helpful and supportive of TCCH in the past by donating funds for the purchase of two fetal heart monitors.

The supporters of this annual event have enabled many 501(c)3s to continue their missions in the Community, including Harvest Food and Outreach last year.

FORT PIERCE – The St. Lucie County Amateur Radio Emergency Service and St. Lucie County's Public Safety and Communications Department will stage an Emergency Preparedness Training Exercise on Saturday, June 22, and Sunday, June 23, in conjunction with the annual American Radio Relay League Field Day.

Members of the all-volunteer St. Lucie Amateur Radio Service will be honing their emergency communications skills and testing their equipment at the baseball field complex on southwest 35th Street at Indian River State College's Fort Pierce campus.

The public is invited to view demonstrations of this emergency communications exercise from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, June 22. Admission is free.

The actual exercise is conducted over a 24-hour period from 2 p.m. Saturday until 2 p.m. Sunday, but set-up and tear down extend these times to fill most of the weekend. Various modes of communications will be employed, including single-sideband (SSB) Voice, Morse Code, teletype, and other digital modes to contact other stations all over the country. The Community Emergency Response Team, sponsored by Indian River State College's School of Public Safety Training, also will participate in the exercise.

The American Radio Relay League Field Day event is open to both expert and novice amateur radio operators. While the Field Day is focused on setting up temporary portable stations running on emergency power, stay-at-home and mobile units also are allowed to participate.

Sunrise Theatre offers jazz, comedy

By Dawn Krebs
dkrebs@hometownnewsol.com

FORT PIERCE – Even though summer is usually a slow time for the arts, Sunrise Theatre is busy keeping residents entertained with a number of events in its Black Box theatre.

On June 22, Maryellen Hooper, winner of the 1998 American Comedy Awards "Female Comedian of the Year," takes the stage.

A veteran in the stand-up comedian world, Ms. Hooper has been seen on Jay Leno and Comedy Central.

She pulls her material from her own life as a mom and wife, and just finished taping her stand-up special, "Stinky Flowers," that will be airing in the fall.

Her opening act will be performed by comedian Jim Moran, who uses crowd interaction in a hilarious and entertaining way.

The comedy performances begin at 8:30 p.m.

In the same week, on June 25, the Fort Pierce Jazz and Blues Society presents their Jazz Jams. The jams take place from 7 to 10 p.m. every Tuesday in the Black Box Theatre.

The cost is just $5, and a cash bar, snacks and refreshments are available.

Sunrise Theatre is located at 117 South Second St. in Fort Pierce. Tickets for the CNS Comedy Corner featuring Maryellen Hooper and Jim Moran are $15. Tickets for the Jazz Jam are $5.

Day trip offers golfing experience, time with family

GOLF
JAMES STAMMER

Nothing beats a weekend away with the loves of my life, my family and my golf clubs. If you ask my wife, she may just tell you that it's not always in that order, either.

Living in Florida, we're blessed with a plethora of places to escape for a couple of days. Wanting to enjoy a special Father's Day weekend, I chose a special place. The Inn on Fifth in Naples, an elegant boutique hotel, comes complete with its own spa, signature restaurants, fitness center and a dazzling pool. Judging from my brood's reaction, I chose well.

Located in the heart of old Naples, the Inn on Fifth isn't close to everything, it's the centerpiece of it. This lavish hotel was originally a bank building built in the late 1940s. In 1998, work was completed to turn the 50-year-old building into a hotel fashioned in the spirit of popular 1920's Palm Beach architect, Addison Mizener.

The Inn features an abundance of Spanish archways, private terraces, lavish fountains and pineapple finials. Each of the 87 rooms offers an assortment of views from the sparkling pool and courtyard to fabulous Fifth Avenue. There are also oversized suites with walkout balconies, Jacuzzis, Italian marble baths and separate living rooms. Each room comes decorated in relaxing rich tones and classic European art.

The doors of the Inn on Fifth open to a celebrated collection of upscale boutiques, shops, gourmet restaurants, sidewalk cafes and art galleries. Just a short, sunny five-block stroll away is the white sand beaches of the Gulf of Mexico.

Everything one needs to enjoy a relaxing stay is within a stone's throw of your room.

After enjoying the sunset and a hand-in-hand stroll along the beach with my wife, we picked up the kids and found the best place for an evening of casual food and lively entertainment.

Our choice, McCabe's Irish Pub and Grill, is located on the first floor of the Inn. The pub was originally hand-crafted in Dublin, then shipped and reconstructed in Naples.

McCabe's offers great food, cold draft beers from around the world, live music and one-of-a-kind ambiance. The old vault was kept and incorporated into the bar. It's easily the most popular spot on Fifth Avenue for a fun evening.

After taking care to see that one love of my life was being properly pampered by the Inn's superb staff, it was time for me to play golf. The Inn on Fifth offers several golf packages that include many courses in the Naples area. I was fortunate enough to play at the Hammock Bay Golf & Country Club.

Designed by PGA and Champions Tour star Peter Jacobsen and his partner, renowned designer Jim Hardy, Hammock Bay is truly a spectacular golf experience.

The course features one of the highest golf course elevations in southwest Florida and was named one of the top ten new private courses in the world when it opened in 2004.

Golfers at Hammock Bay experience a variety of environments as the course winds through rolling terrain, natural dunes, native lakes, mangroves and beach-like areas.

The course, developed by WCI Communities and located between downtown Naples and the beaches of Marco Island, features five sets of tees, allowing golfers of any ability the option to play the course as difficult or as relaxed as they desire.

"We set out to create a memorable golf experience at Hammock Bay and the finished product has, frankly, surpassed our own expectations," states Jacobsen.

I found the course immensely enjoyable. The SeaDwarf Seashore Paspalum greens rolled fast and true. Jacobsen and Hardy's design offers a constant variation in difficulty, taking full advantage of the unique environment and forcing golfers to use nearly every club in their bag as they travel the course.

The diverse visual experience brought on by the contrast between the white sand and shells and the fairways and greens, along with the elevation changes and mangroves, provides a most beautiful setting for great golf.

Hammock Bay's signature hole may be the shortest hole on the course. The par-3 11th is visually spectacular with native grasses, shell rock and sand framing the elevated green. Depending on the wind and pin location, the hole can play as much as 40 yards different from one day to the next.

There is even a short, tempting par four that begs you to play aggressively and drive the green. I succumbed to the temptation, but paid a price as I missed the green and had to play my second shot from the shells and sand.

It doesn't have to be a holiday weekend to treat the loves of your life to a relaxing stay, with a little golf thrown in. Contact the Inn on Fifth at (888) 403-8778 or online at www.innonfifth.com. For information on Hammock Bay call (239) 259-1100 or visit www.hammock-baygcc.com.
