Song brings awareness to those with Autism

By Anna-Marie Menhenott
news@hometownnewsol.com

TREASURE COAST — When Mozart Sobrinho was asked to sing a song at a community event for Autism awareness in 2013, he stepped up…

With only a few short hours to prepare, Mozart, who at the time was a sophomore at Port St. Lucie High School, not only prepared to sing a song in front of a large crowd, he wrote it and composed the music to accompany it.

"He didn't have much time to prepare," said Jessica McLaughlin, a teacher at Westgate K-8 and organizer of the Community Walk for Autism.

"When Autism Speaks pulled out of organizing the Treasure Coast walk and Westgate took over so it could continue in our area, I asked Mozart to compose a song for us. We needed some quality, but free entertainment and he was willing to help."

Mozart was given some key words to inspire him such as the butterfly, puzzle pieces and cure. After Mozart wrote the song, he paid for his own studio time to record it.

"The first time I listened to 'Stay with You,' I thought that it was possibly the most beauti-

Community pulls together to help local business

Fundraising event for Undercover Skate Shop will take place June 7

By Anna-Marie Menhenott
news@hometownnewsol.com

FORT PIERCE — When Aaron Jewett, owner of Undercover Skate Shop, discovered the store had been burglarized of most of its merchandise, he wasn't sure what he was going to do. But, after other businesses in the community came together for a benefit in his honor, he knew that there was a light at the end of the tunnel.

"We lost everything," Mr. Jewett said. "From complete skateboards to blank skateboard decks, all of the clothes, cash register, lap top, and even the coin machine from the vending machine… everything was taken. They

Club honors outstanding officers at fundraiser

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

ST. LUCIE COUNTY — Six emergency services agencies honored their top officers Wednesday night at the St. Lucie County Hundred Club's annual awards banquet at Gator Trace Country Club.

Founded in 1987, the St. Lucie County Hundred Club serves the emergency services professionals of St. Lucie County by providing financial support to families of law enforcement, corrections officers and firefighter/EMTs seriously injured or killed in the line of duty.

Those who were honored for outstanding accomplishments were:

- Special Agent Eric Jester of the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, presented by Resident Agent in Charge Michael Bartus;

- Lt. Tom Mikovsky of the St. Lucie County Fire District, presented by Fire Chief Ron Parrish;

- Port St. Lucie Police Officer Scott Johnson, presented by Chief John Bolduc;

- Fort Pierce Police Detective Tyrone Campbell, presented by Chief R. Sean Baldwin;

- Florida Highway Patrol Trooper Justin Gitto, presented by Lt. Harry Coker

- St. Lucie County Sheriff's Detective Paul Pearson, presented by Sheriff Ken J. Mascara.

The St. Lucie County Hundred Club's website 100clubslc.org has details about the organization and how to become a member.

For more information on the St. Lucie County Sheriff's Office, visit www.slcso.com.

Every day when I open my email, I am flooded with spam

COMPUTE THIS
SEAN MCCARTHY

I get messages trying to sell me everything from Viagra to discount mortgages to memberships at adult Websites.

I even get an occasional message from a "dethroned prince" from Nigeria promising that if only I help him (by giving him my bank account information) he'll be able to get access to his frozen assets and give me several million for my troubles.

It's gotten to the point that out of 60 to 70 messages, only a handful are legitimate.

How is it that I, a computer fixer with decades of experience, can get flooded with spam?

Don't I, of all people, know how to manage this scourge any better? Frankly no. But it's not from a lack or trying.

Unfortunately, just about everything I've tried to stem the flow of spam has had either negative or short-term effects. I've found the most effective way (for me anyway) is to just scan the subject headers and click the delete button and nuke all the unwanted e-mails one by one.

I know what you are thinking. Many of you are successfully using some sort of spam filter and are thinking, "If Sean would just switch to this method, all of his spam woes would be over. All I can really say to that is thanks, but no thanks.

Over the years, as I have tried one method after another to manage unwanted email, I've noticed a common thread; many spam filters are too aggressive and have a tendency to delete messages I actually want. Many spam filters will look at the sender's domain name and filter the message that way. The problem with that is I may actually want messages from that domain and the spam filter can unintentionally red flag messages that I actually want to read.

An example of that would be the time I was trying to refinance my home. My father, being ever helpful, sent me an e-mail listing the mortgage rates of a certain lender. The spam filter spotted the key words "low mortgage rates" and filtered that message as spam. Then, since the offending message came from my dad's email address, all future messages from him were filtered. The really frustrating thing was that I didn't know my dad's e-mail was getting filtered, so I didn't know he was trying to email me until he called annoyed that I was ignoring his emails.

Other methods have had mixed results, too.

One question that always comes up is "how do these spammers get your e-mail address in the first place?

It's not like you go to some site and sign up for spam. I've seen cases where people get new e-mail accounts and within a week the flow of spam begins.

How's that?

There are dozens of ways that e-mail addresses end up as targets for the spammers, but I'll just cover a couple.

Forwarding e-mail messages to everyone in your address book (or just corresponding with someone who engages in this practice) can expose your address to the spammers, because as the messages gets forwarded on and on, so do all the addresses listed in the email. Then,

Commenters are asked to refrain from making slanderous statements. Statements of fact will be checked for accuracy.

Dear 'Get a clue'

The only thing you got right in your article is that you are clueless. The minimum wage has little to do with knowledge or how long an individual has been on a job, it is supposed to reflect a minimum wage to survive in today's economy.

Your attempt to suggest that you and other business owners would have to let workers go or not hire additional workers if the minimum wage were to go up is ridicules. You don't hire people because of what you have to pay them; you hire them because your business needs require more people.

In response to your irrational comments regarding $1,000 per hour vs. 10 cents per hour, there is real life proof of your thinking; China. They pay workers 10 cents an hour and look how well that is working for the masses.

There are thousands and thousands of educated people of all ages in this country who are working at minimum wage jobs (sometimes two or three at a time) just to make ends meet and many more who cannot find even a minimum wage job. So, I suggest you get off your high horse and thank God that you are not in their shoes and show some compassion.

More to 'Get a clue'

It seems to me that clueless does not have a clue on what raising the minimum wage would do. He exaggerates the pay scale at the max of $1000 an hour and the minimum of $0.10. That is not the real world. Will people spend less if they are making more? I think not! Raising the price of drinks and burgers a dime or quarter would not stop people from buying. You can take that to the bank. They spend $3 or $4 dollars on a cup of special coffee and do not blink. These are not the rich who spend that much on special coffee but everyday people.

Now look clueless, if you were making $7.25 an hour and then got an increase to $10.10 an hour would you not be spending more. Duh! I really think you and the majority would. Where does this extra spending go? Yep to businesses everywhere. Mom and pop restaurants would raise their prices too but the consumer making $2.85 more an hour I really think could afford it. Those businesses that seem to be crying the most about raising the minimum wage seem to be those whose profits are in the multiple millions every year. Poor babies!

In regards to the starting pay and increases upon learning more skills I have seen where some stay at just above minimum for years and not because their knowledge of the job has not progressed but the business just does not want to pay that worker what he or she is due. It is called greed and the businesses do not want to part with their almighty dollar.

I say to clueless, see what happens when the minimum wage is raised and then write back not justifying the resulting increase in the economy.

A mouthy Mr. President?

We have elected as president an individual who talks and talks and talks.

He seems infatuated by the sound of his own voice. Someone should tell this man who is so impressed with his own intellect that he should not speak unless he can improve the silence.

A terrifying experience

At 9:30 a.m. this morning my wife and I were out fishing at FPL No. 1. We were drifting along as most of the boats do there. I looked up as a 25-foot, I believe a Mako Dual Engines, Tee Top white vessel, with six or more people on board headed right for our boat. At approximately 200-feet I started getting worried. At 150-feet My Wife and I started screaming at the vessel heading right for us broadside at roughly 10 knots. A passenger on the vessel screamed at the so called captain of the vessel to turn fast. Let me tell you I have never in my life seen prop wash 25 feet from my boat. You know who you are. I don't or I would have reported your numbers.

To all boaters this summer season. I call them weekend warriors…..your GPS Chart Plotter isn't a television screen – pay very closed attention to who is around you at all times.

You probably would have killed us this morning.

Then the so call Captain said, "Oops, I'm sorry" he didn't even bother to stop, like he didn't even care. I can't write here what I screamed at him. Needless to say we headed in back to our Marina. This is the very first time this has happened to me with 25-plus years on the water.

Florida needs to raise the minimum wage!

We are way overdue, as it is time to raise the minimum wage in Florida.

Google may be your best bet if your mechanic can't fix your car

Earl Stewart is the owner and general manager of Earl Stewart Toyota in North Palm Beach. The dealership is located at 1215 N. Federal Highway in Lake Park. Visit www.earlstewarttoyota.com, call (561) 358-1474, fax (561) 658-0746 or email earl@estoyota.com.

ON CARS
EARL STEWART

Most everyone has encountered a problem with their car that baffled the dealer's service department or your own mechanic. One of the most frustrating things we encounter with car problems is being told "We are unable to reproduce or experience the problem you've described." Another favorite of car dealer service department is "That condition is normal for this model car." With the former, the implication is "you're imagining this nonexistent problem."

With the latter, they are telling you that just because this manufacturer built a model that's defective, you had better learn to live with it because they all are defective! In both of these situations, you are often told, "we've had no complaints like this from anyone else."

Now, this is when you go to Google! If you are one of the few people who has refused to join the "cyber world" and are not computer savvy, just check with a younger friend, your children or grandchildren because they are. Type into Google, in your own words, what the condition is with your car and the exact year make and model. For example, "2014 Mustang rust." The reason I chose this subject is that an owner of new Mustang called me last Saturday for advice on what do because is car was rusting badly and it had only about 800 miles on it. The dealer told him that all of them rust just like that and offered to paint over the rust. He Googled his problem and found out that lots of Mustang owners were complaining about the same thing. He has contacted Ford directly and they are calling him today about replacing his Mustang with another model that doesn't rust.

The wonderful thing about the "social media revolution" on the Internet is that everybody now has an amazing and easy way to share their stories of happiness and woe. We can hop on Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, Myspace, or any of dozens of others. Google finds all of your comments and groups them together by subject. In my opinion Google should be recognized as one of the greatest inventions in the history of the World. It rivals the printing press, fire and splitting the atom. Google has become a part of our brains. Today, if you don't have the answer to something, Google does because Google can instantly recall the answer to every question for which there is an answer. You can open Google on your smartphone and ask (voice recognition) or type, "How old is Brad Pitt or who won the Heat game last night?" But you can also find out if somebody else with a new Mustang is having rust problems.

You will be amazed how many people have experienced the same problem that you have with your car! In some cases you will find out that they found a solution to their problem, either with their mechanic or with the manufacturer. You might find out that the manufacturer even agreed to pay for the repair. In some serious cases you might find out that the manufacturer bought back the car or paid you money so that you could trade your old car back in for another car without losing any money from depreciation.

I've written a column about TSB's which are "Technical Service Bulletins" issued by auto manufacturers to their dealers. These are not made public and there are so many issued that too often, even the dealers don't know about them. You probably have read the negative publicity about GM cars with the faulty ignition systems. There are millions of these on the roads and if you have too many keys hanging on your key chain, dangling from your ignition, the engine can turn off suddenly right in traffic! With no power, your airbag is deactivated. My point is that GM issued TSB's on this issue years ago, but very few people outside of GM and some of their dealers knew about them. Why nobody, even GM engineers, understood that airbags won't deploy with the car's engine turned off, we may ful song written about autism ever," said Mrs. McLaughlin, whose daughter has Autism. "I thought that other people needed to hear it. I wanted everyone I knew to listen to it. My husband and I created a commercial that had the song featured as the background music and it has over 450 views on YouTube. It was played on the Education Channel and even posted on the St. Lucie County School District's website. With that kind of reaction, Mozart offered to put the song on iTunes and give a portion of the proceeds to children with autism in St. Lucie County."

'That's the cool thing about it," Mozart said. "When people buy it on iTunes, almost all of the money comes back into the county to help children with Autism."

Mrs. McLaughlin spearheaded this year's Autism Walks event, which had more than 600 participants. She hopes next year's event, which is already scheduled for April 11, 2015 will be even bigger.

"There are lots of events that bring awareness and hopes of a cure for Autism," she said. "With the amazing help from the community, all of the organizations that offer support and assistance to the families and people like Mozart, we're well on our way to a cure."

Mozart would like to study music when finished with high school and is currently teaching music to younger students.

"He is an extraordinary young man with a kind and gracious heart. His commitment to bringing awareness, acceptance and love to autism gives my heart hope," said Mrs. McLaughlin. "To think that knowing me and my child could have possibly inspired such beauty is amazing."

On July 10th the Jensen Beach and Stuart locations of Mulligans will donate a percentage of each meal to Westgate K-8 school. The event lasts from 5- 8 p.m. Mozart and Mrs. McLaughlin will be at the Jensen Beach location.

pretty much wiped me out. Because we don't have a certain type of alarm system, insurance won't cover my losses. We really are having to build from the bottom."

After thinking that he may have to close the doors on the popular skate shop, Sailfish Brewery suggested an all-day fundraising event for the shop.

"I thought it was a great idea," said Mr. Jewett. "They're going to have a DJ, eight bands will play live music all day, games like corn hole, raffles and plenty of ways to help out."

The brewery is located around the corner from the skate shop in the Edgartown area of downtown Fort Pierce.

"It's a really cool spot," Mr. Jewett said. "There's an inside place to relax and outdoor areas to enjoy the weather."

Mr. Jewett is trying to put a positive spin on the hardship he's facing.

"I just decided that everything happens for a reason," he said. "This gives me a chance to bring in all new items and gives me a clean slate with inventory. I can't worry about what has happened, I just have to face it and move forward. We have changed the alarm system and have lights on at night… we won't let this happen again. So, lesson learned."

Undercover Skate Shop is also having a hip-hop half-pipe show on June 21 that he hopes will bring in some money for new merchandise.

"It should be a really cool show," he said. "There will be some hip-hop talent coming in from Miami performing on the half-pipe that's located in our store. It should be a fun time."

Another exciting event coming to Undercover is their summer camp. Starting June 9 and running for six weeks, the camp offers skateboard lessons, filming and editing of skateboard tricks, movies, basketball and a lot of entertainment.

"This is our first year having a summer camp," Mr. Jewett said. "The cost is $90 a week, from 8 a.m. - 4 p.m., and will keep kids from ages 6-14 occupied during the day. We'll even have early drop off and late pick up for $30 extra. There's going to be lots of stuff for the kids to do. We're really excited about it."

Undercover Skate Shop is located at 208 Avenue A. Sailfish Brewery is located at 407 N. 2nd Street.

For more information about the summer camp, the June 21 show, or the fundraiser at Sailfish Brewery, call (772) 489-6558, visit www.skateundercover.com or visit their Facebook page.

Local officer receives award at state ceremony

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

PORT ST. LUCIE - The ASIS International, an organization for security professionals, held their annual Southeast Florida Law Enforcement Officers Awards at PGA National Resort and Spa in Palm Beach Gardens, Florida. ASIS International recognizes outstanding law enforcement efforts in 10 different categories.

During the awards ceremony, Port St. Lucie Police Officer Robert Steinkraus was awarded the Peers Award for his dedication and perseverance in working to pass "Brittnay's Law."

The push for "Brittnay's Law" began in July of 2006, when Officer Steinkraus, then detective, was called out to investigate a homicide investigation at the Tropical Smoothie Café on SW Port St. Lucie Boulevard. Previously, Detective Steinkraus had investigated incidents involving the victim of this homicide, 17-year old Brittney Carleo, and the suspect, registered sex offender Scott Uslan. Just before the homicide in July, 2006, Detective Steinkraus walked a warrant through for Mr. Uslan for harassing phone calls and ensured that he was arrested.

In the follow-up investigation after the homicide, Detective Steinkraus determined that if the suspect had been held for first appearance on his recent arrest, the crime may never have occurred. Detective Steinkraus also recognized that a law needed to be passed which would hold a sex offender until first appearance and a bond hearing.

Detective Steinkraus consulted with elected officials including State Representative Gayle Harrell, State Senators Fasano and Altman, and Mayor JoAnn Faiella, as well as lobbyist for the City of Port St. Lucie, Jordan Connors. During the second quarter of the 2013, after a long process and several trips to Tallahassee, house Bill 7035 was sent to sub-committee hearings where Detective Steinkraus testified several times.

The hard work by all involved did not go unnoticed and the House and Senate passed House Bill 7035. It was signed by Governor Scott on June 14, 2013, and became "Brittnay's Law" on July 1, 2013.

In attendance at the ASIS International LEO Awards were Port St. Lucie Mayor JoAnn Faiella, Vice Mayor Linda Bartz, City Manager Jeff Bremer, Chief John Bolduc, and Assistant Chief William Vega.

Chief John A. Bolduc spoke to the audience after the presentation of the award and recognized Officer Steinkraus and Mayor JoAnn Faiella's hard work and perseverance making House Bill 7035 a reality.

In the nomination letter submitted to ASIS International, Master Sergeant Richard Schichtel wrote that this accomplishment ensures that sex offenders when arrested for crimes are held until first appearance and a bond hearing, which will undoubtedly have a positive effect in the prevention of over 60,000 sex offenders reoffending.

Rants

Other states have successfully done this.

I specifically call out to big box companies, like Wal-Mart and fast food companies like McDonalds, who can more than afford to pay their employees a living wage.

Instead, they pay the bare minimum that they can get away with and leave taxpayers footing the bill for the food stamps and welfare, since they make so little.

I am not singling out small employers with a handful of employees. I'm specifically referring to the large-chain employers that simply need to keep their pay up with the cost of living. For employees to simply be able to buy groceries to feed their families, pay rent, bare necessities, etc.

If you don't know what a "living wage" is, look it up and educate yourself.

Nearly 2/3 of minimum wage workers are women, many who are raising families alone. Many minimum wage workers are educated and cannot find a job in their field.

If we raise the minimum wage, we help women, families and the economy. Many minimum wage workers are hard-working folks – both liberals and conservatives – paying poverty wages does not discriminate.

Why does it always come down to conservative cheap corporate greed?

Rules of the road

I think most of the drivers down here forgot the rules of the road.

That white line, you are supposed to stop before it, not all the way after it.

And yield signs? Forget about it. If you don't stop and let them in, they will hit you.

I mean, this is ridiculous. I had them pass me on a double line, just to get one car in front.

I don't what's going on with these guys.

I'm 81 years old. Thank God, I've never had an accident. I travel about five miles over the limit, and when I turned 80, I took a safety driving course, and I gave it to my insurance company.

And my insurance company gave me a letter back.

They said, "Happy birthday. Your insurance went up $200."

I think that they should get after these young guys, who don't obey the rules. They take off with jackrabbit starts, and then they jam on their breaks at the lights.

They didn't get any further than I did.

Thank you.

American voices needed

I am tired, tired, tired of foreign (individuals), broadcasting our American golf tournaments.

I can't see where an Australian accent adds anything to the game.

They get the big bucks, but they don't add anything that an American pro could do.

They are all good; but they are all here, and we don't need them.

How many people feel the same way we do? Let us know.

Gas prices and taxes

I just read that they want to raise all kinds of taxes and gas prices 6 cents a gallon to fix the roads, because they have lax on doing things.

Let's get rid of all these high-prices, who are in there, who are doing nothing, sitting on their duffs … instead of raising all these taxes.

There is no need for it. Tell Tallahassee, we don't want it.

once out in cyberspace, there are a number of ways that the addresses can get harvested from that email.

Another method is the old "random e-mail address" trick. What they do is use a computer program to generate thousands of e-mail addressed using random letters and numbers before the @ symbol and the domain name. Then they send out test messages to the randomly generated addresses and the ones that don't get rejected by the mail system as a bad address, they keep. They end up with a list of addresses that they know go somewhere. If you have ever gotten an e-mail with no subject and no message it's possible that that's where that message is coming from and unfortunately, by the time you get the message, it's too late. They already know that the email address is a good one.

Until I find a method to manage the flow of spam that does not have unwanted side effects, I guess I will just continue to just delete them as they come in. At least I don't have to walk out to the mailbox in the rain to get my junk mail.

never understand. If more people had Googled this like the NHTSA, it may have dawned on somebody sooner and a lot of lives might have been saved.

OK, let's assume that you've just Googled your problem with your car that your dealer told you they had never heard of before. Or, they may have told you that they were unable to duplicate your problem (aka, you're nuts!). And, of course, there's the absurd explanation that that your car's problem exists with all cars of that particular year-make-model and this somehow makes it OK. When you contact your mechanic or dealer service department you can show and tell them how many others have experienced the exact same problem with the exact same car you own. You may even be able to give them the number of the TSB that the manufacturer issued telling the dealer how to fix it. You might learn that the manufacturer has paid for these repairs out of warranty (called goodwill). Your chances of winning an argument with the mechanic or dealer are greatly increased and you may even be doing them a favor by telling them something they didn't know.

If I was the director of the National Highway Traffic Safety Associations, I would have a "Google Division" that would tap all of the social media for comments, complaints, and suggestions from car owners about their cars.

For great meals, prices stop by Lenzi's Diner

By Anna-Marie Menhenott
news@hometownnewsol.com

FORT PIERCE — For an incredible breakfast, a delicious lunch, a chat with friends or a place to read the newspaper, Lenzi's Diner in Fort Peirce is the perfect place to stop and relax.

The seaside décor makes any visitor feel like they are stepping away from the hustle and bustle of everyday life and the amazing food makes them feel as though they've stepped into a five-star restaurant.

"I've really tried to keep prices reasonable while keeping our dishes top notch," said Dottie Stonestreet, who owns the diner with her husband Allen. "Our coffee prices have never gone up. There's not too many places that you can get a great cup of coffee for fifty cents."

The menu is full of great deals on breakfast and lunch items.

"We are really busy during breakfast time," Mrs. Stonestreet said. "Everyone loves our pancakes. Our breakfast specials can't be beat. We have regulars who come in and know exactly what they want to have. It's a really friendly environment.

My guest and I visited Lenzi's during the lunch hour and decided to try some of Mrs. Stonestreet's recommendations. We were lucky enough to be there on a day when they were serving rustic potato soup. This delicious soup is full of chunks of tender beef, celery, and potatoes can be served as a cup or bowl. The soup can also be served in a combo which includes and of the deluxe sandwiches.

I tried the Philly cheese steak with grilled onions, mushrooms, peppers and melted cheese. This sandwich was incredible. The flavors were perfect making this mouth-watering sandwich a must try. The sandwich was served with a huge helping of onion rings.

My guest tried the seafood platter. The dish was full of perfectly fried clams, shrimp and fish. The fish served is the same type of fish that is in the fish sandwich, something that Mrs. Stonestreet said is very popular.

"We serve fresh Swai, which is a type of catfish. Its mild flavor and versatility makes this a really incredible item," Mrs. Stonestreet said.

After finishing our meal, it was easy to see why so many people make this beautiful diner their stop for delicious meals. Next time I make a stop there it will be for some of their incredible pancakes and coffee.

Lenzi's Diner is located at 800 Virginia Ave., in Fort Pierce. They are open from 7 a.m. - 2 p.m. For more information, call (772) 461-0221.

ARIES - March 21/April 20
Aries, let your creative side take over this week. Your imagination is ready to run wild, and this burst of creative energy will have long-lasting positive effects.

TAURUS - April 21/May 21
Taurus, though you are known for being a tad stubborn, this week you are open to any and all suggestions. You may surprise a few people by being so open-minded.

GEMINI - May 22/June 21
Gemini, while you may have natural leadership abilities, most of the time you do not want to pull rank. This week you may need to step things up a bit.

CANCER - June 22/July 22
Cancer, now is a good time to travel, even if it means just a quick jaunt. But if a big vacation is on the horizon, know that you will likely have a smooth trip ahead.

LEO - July 23/Aug. 23
Your powers are magnetic this week, Leo. Others find you simply irresistible, which can bode well if you are looking for a romantic partner or want to step things up.

VIRGO - Aug. 24/Sept. 22
Virgo, a busy week at work will require lots of cooperation among you and your coworkers. If ever there

Bass Pro Shops provides free family summer activities

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

PORT ST. LUCIE — The Bass Pro Shops Family Summer Camp features activities, and workshops where families can learn the skills they need to enjoy great outdoor adventures together. It begins Saturday, June 7 and continues through Sunday, July 13 at 64 Bass Pro Shops located across the United States and Canada.

During the Family Summer Camp event, free workshops, which are conducted by experts, will be held every Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday, and Sunday June 7 - July 13. The entire family will enjoy learning the basics of camping, fishing, archery and hunting. Other workshops include kayaking, water and travel safety, backyard adventures, and all workshops are approximately 20 minutes in length and kids will get a free lanyard and then earn a free, collectible pin for every workshop completed (while supplies last).

Families can participate in the following workshops from July 7- 13:

In addition, kids can try free craft activities such as coloring a wooden ring toss, creating a rainbow thermometer, designing a magnifying glass, making a personal camp journal, coloring a wooden wiggle fish, and painting a wolf track. A different craft activity will be featured each week on Saturdays, Sundays, Tuesdays, and Thursdays from noon - 2 p.m. (while supplies last).

At the stores, kids can enjoy several free hands-on activities including:

- Fishing at catch and release ponds

- Casting at targets
- Shooting arcade, archery
- Daisy BB gun ranges
- Souvenir photo opportunities are available Saturdays and Sundays only from noon-5 p.m., June 7-8, and June 14-15.
- Plus, each Saturday throughout the event families can enjoy the great tradition of homemade ice cream sampling from 5 - 6 p.m.

Note: Not all special activities will be available at all stores.

Don’t forget dad and his love of golf

GOLF
JAMES STAMMER

Most dads are always giving. On Father's Day, it's time to give him a little something back. If you need a few ideas on what to get him, here are a few.

Men love gadgets. Golf Buddy's (www.gpsgolfbuddy.com) Voice+ and WT3 are GPS watches that give you accurate yardages anywhere on the golf course. With over 36,000 courses preloaded on this watch, your dad will never have to ask, “How far is it to the green?” again.

Both products provide easy to read distances, and the Voice+ even talks, giving you the yardages you need to select the proper club.

If dad would rather go with a laser than a GPS system, try the line of products from Leupold (www.golf.leupold.com). With five choices, there is bound to be one that fits his needs.

Leupold rangefinders are simple to use, just aim and squeeze. The latest designs feature a bright, vivid display for easier reading. You can use the scan mode to find yardages to several targets quickly and easily.

Another neat gadget is perfect for traveling golfer. ShaveTech (www.shavetech.com) is a USB rechargeable shaver that is about the size of a deck of cards. With its sleek, lightweight design and compact size, dad can take this shaver anywhere he goes, allowing him to always be well-groomed.

Being USB chargeable, means that dad can quickly and easily charge his ShaveTech anywhere in the world without the need for adapters or wall outlets. Comes in two colors, black and white, along with a soft protective case and cleaning brush.

Dads can always use some fashion sense. So how about a new belt? The NexBelt (www.Nexbelt.com) is cut to size and features no holes. Instead there is a unique ratcheting system that allows for one-quarter inch adjustments. There are more than 80 designs to choose from and the buckle even flips down to reveal a ball marker.

A recent study showed that 70 percent of the dads surveyed said that they would love a pair of sunglasses for Father's Day. The right eyewear not only helps dad perform his best, but helps him with his mental game as well.

Oakley (www.oakley.com) has golf-specific eyewear starting at $150 a pair. The company's Polarized G30 lens helps players analyze the slope and detect the smallest variations in grass and terrain, and enhances depth perception. Many choices in frames are rimless allowing for unobstructed downward vision and ventilation to prevent fogging.

Oakleys also feature nose and earpieces that grip as you perspire so that they stay in place during the golf swing. Many of the frames also allow you to switch out lenses as conditions change.

If dad is going to protect his eyes, he should also protect his face and head from the sun as well. Head'n Home Handmade Hats (www.headnhome.com) are the finest shade hats you can buy. These are proudly handmade right here in the USA by the same family that founded the company in the early 1970s.

Head'n Home hats are stylish and most are made from water-repellant suede or smooth leather with a UPF 50+ rating. They also have a nylon mesh that provides cooling airflow while blocking 70 percent of the sun's rays. Their most popular hat, the Breeze, is available in eight colors, comes in six sizes and has a removable chinstrap for windy days.

You cannot play in Florida without getting surprised by a rainstorm at some point. The Dry Hood by Sun Mountain (www.sunmountain.com) is just what dad needs to keep his clubs and grips dry when that sudden downpour catches him.

Designed to fit any golf bag the Dry Hood completely covers the top of the golf bag while its accordion style allows for easy access to clubs. It comes with a carry case and slips inside longer pockets of any golf bag.

Dads are usually quite busy. Some find time to practice putting at home or in the office or even at the course over a lunch hour.

In my opinion one of the best putting aids on the market is the Putter Wheel (www.putterwheel.com). It teaches you to “roll” putts instead of “hitting” them.

The Putter Wheel looks like a golf ball with the top and bottom thirds removed. When you place the wheel on the green and stand over it, you immediately know if your eye line is over, inside or outside your target line. If your stroke isn't square and down the target line, the wheel immediate starts to wobble like a drunken sailor. Dad can even use it before every round to “dial-in” his stroke.

Decorating your garden with Society garlic

GARDEN NOOK
JOE ZELENAK

I hope everybody has been enjoying the wonderful weather we have been experiencing so far this summer season. Why not start the summer out right with a unique plant called Society Garlic.

Many of us use garlic as a supplement along with our daily vitamin but not many of us think of planting garlic in our gardens, society garlic, that is. Society garlic is not really garlic at all. Its only similarity to real garlic is that it is a member of the lily (Alliaceae) family. Society garlic can create a splash of purple color that can accent any garden or landscape. It looks best when it is planted in groups but it can also used as a border around larger trees and shrubs. One of the most distinctive aspects of the plant is the smell. They smell just like garlic cloves. Although they are fragrant almost any time of day, the fragrance is strongest at night.

Society garlic are easy to grow and will grow well in well-drained, light sandy soil. They will tolerate full sun to partial shade however they will require regular watering during the hot summer months. Dividing them as they multiply can easily propagate the plants.

I have read from some sources that the plants are edible, however I probably would not recommend that practice. It is best to use them as an ornamental plant. I have also been told that they deter moles but I have no actual proof of that. If anybody experiments with that, please let me know if you had positive results with the experiment.

I almost forgot to mention one other added bonus, the plant is a perennial and it blooms from spring to mid-summer.

If you grow hibiscus, one of the most annoying, and destructive pests are little critters called aphids. Aphids are small soft-bodied insects that congregate mainly on tender new growth and also right around the bloom of the plant. These creatures feed in large colonies and can multiply quite rapidly. Aphids can often cause the leaves of ornamentals to curl up and the insects can hide in these curls thus escaping the effects of insecticides. Aphids do their damage by sucking life-sustaining juices from the plant thus making it weak and vulnerable to disease. Since hibiscus are somewhat tender, you cannot use Malathion as an insecticide of choice as it will cause your plant to drop leaves. The best remedy and protection is to use a systemic insecticide such as Orthene or Orthenex. Orthenex does double duty as it takes care of the pests and also helps with some diseases. You can also use a rose and flower insect spray, but be sure aphids are listed as one of the insects it kills.

That's all for this week's column and I hope you found the content useful and entertaining. Remember, you can direct your garden questions to me either through the e-mail address below or now through my garden forum, located at www.hometowngarden.com.

Joe Zelenak has more than 30 years experience in gardening and landscape. Send e-mails to hometowngarden@gmail.com or visit his Web site www.hometowngarden.com.
