BEST OF THE BLOTTER
JAY MEISEL

Some criminal cases are unusual, humorous or just outright odd. And there's no shortage of them on the Treasure Coast. This column will highlight cases that often leave observers shaking their heads.

Incriminating thyself

A St. Lucie County woman reported she discovered a man on her property. After he left, she found some lithium batteries were missing.

She gave deputies a description of the suspect and they eventually found him.

He told the investigators he was only looking for junk. He also said he didn't take any batteries.

The only problem with that was no one had told him batteries were missing. Oops!

At the wrong place

A Martin County man probably didn't expect what happened when he dropped off a co-worker after work.

When they arrived, the co-worker and his girlfriend started arguing and the girlfriend started yelling and cursing.

The driver decided to make a quick exit, but it wasn't quick enough. The girlfriend turned her attention to him and started yelling and cursing.

Then she started pushing him and grabbing his shirt.

The man was able to get in his vehicle, but that wasn't the end of it. The woman picked up a shovel and threw it through the

Grant to go toward creating school vegetable gardens

By Jessica Tuggle
jtuggle@hometownnewsol.com

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — The Pelican Island Audubon Society hopes to plant a seed of gardening fever into the hearts of Indian River County students this school year, thanks to a conservation grant.

The nonprofit organization, known for its love of birds, is bringing its focus down to the ground after receiving a $9,890 grant from TogetherGreen, a collaboration of Toyota and the National Audubon Society.

Peter Sutherland, Pelican Island Audubon Society director, said conservation education is a bigger part of the Audubon's mission, so providing students an opportunity to learn about vegetable gardening matches perfectly with their organization.

The group will work with schools to introduce students to square-foot gardening, a gardening technique for growing plants in a smaller area that saves water and avoids excessive fertilizer.

"And kids need to know about the link between real food and Publix or produce stands," Mr.

Student gives socks to foster children

By Jessica Tuggle
jtuggle@hometownnewsol.com

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — With new florescent pink and blue stripes, lime-green frog faces and multi-colored polka dot socks, a few dozen foster children will have happy toes and big smiles on their way to a new school year.

Leslie Moshman, 11, gave the Vero Beach branch of the Children's Home Society 277 pairs of brightly colored socks on Monday. The socks will be given to various children in the foster system, children Leslie has a lot in common with.

The Children's Home Society representatives ooed and aahed over the donation and exclaimed at the rainbow of socks on display at the office.

Until two years ago, Leslie was in the foster system and knows what it is like to live in a home with other foster children, having very few things to call their own.

"I was in foster care for five years," Leslie said in a press release.

"I was mostly given plain white socks to wear. I hated those socks. The other kids had colorful socks with fun designs and cartoon characters. It was another way I felt different," she said.

She decided giving colored socks to other children would be a way of spreading smiles, and so she began purchasing and collecting socks from her family's circle of friends.

Once the news of the "Socks for Smiles" project spread to the blogosphere and Facebook, she received socks from around the country.

At the end of July, Leslie had purchased and received more than 350 pairs of socks, and every week more socks have been donated, said Rachael Moshman, her mother.

Frank Avilla, adoption marketing specialist for the Children's Home Society thanked Leslie for her generosity and caring.

"It is amazing to have someone your age that is so

Soldier visits 'cookie ladies' after new assignment

By Jessica Tuggle
jtuggle@hometownnewsol.com

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — While stationed in Afghanistan, Capt. Nathan Ferguson had limited access to affordable daily essentials such as shaving cream. And when it came to finding sweet treats, well, that just wasn't an option.

One day, Capt. Ferguson was offered some cookies, and not just any cookies, homemade cookies from the U.S. — Vero Beach, to be exact. To share his appreciation, he emailed the senders, the "cookie ladies" of Vero Beach.

The cookie ladies of Vero Beach send dozens of boxes of cookies to soldiers stationed in Afghanistan and Iraq every month, sometimes not even knowing who will receive them, said founder Rose Tufano.

"It's been four years since we started and we haven't missed a month," Ms. Tufano said.

Originally from Titusville, Capt. Ferguson and his family were delighted to transfer to Patrick Air Force Base, and after a few more emails, decided to make a trip down south last week to visit the cookie ladies.

"It's nice to hear from people caring and sending stuff like that," said Capt. Ferguson.

The cookie-baking and packing volunteers currently meet at the Vero Beach Elks Lodge 1774. The captain, his wife, Lisa, and two young daughters, Ava and Anna, joined more than a baker's dozen of cookie volunteers for dinner last Friday. They were joined by many members of the lodge who were glad to meet a military family who had sacrificed for their service.

Ms. Tufano said several soldiers have emailed their thanks to the vol-

Students excel in karate championships

By Jessica Tuggle

VERO BEACH — In class, the students listen intently and concentrate on obeying the voice of their instructor. Quietly, they follow his directions and make smooth, fluid motions, but when the time comes to stand tall and be strong, the students quickly transform into fierce competitors.

Championship in Chicago and brought home a total of 57 medals.

Derek Deleon, 11, brought home four medals from national competition.

"When you go there, you want to know if there are people there you've beat before," Derek said.

"You want to go up against as many people as you can and win," he said.

Trey Schiflett, 11, said he was happy about winning his three medals and always enjoys the big tournaments.

"It's very loud and there's a lot of people. We all train the whole year for it," he said.

"Sometimes you don't do as good as you want, but when that happens, you just say you will train harder next year. And you see your mistakes and try to fix them over the next year," Trey said.

The national championships attracted about 1,600 athletes from ages 5 to 65. All of the athletes had to qualify for the tournament by advancing through their district and regional qualifiers, said David Roth, owner and head instructor of Florida Karate Academy.

About 20 percent of his students participated in the competition teams, Mr. Roth said.

"Most people that get involved in karate do it for the health benefits, self-defense or recreation, which is excellent. The competition team is the 20 percent that work harder to get themselves to another level," Mr. Roth said.

"I was very pleased with the team performance this year. It was outstanding," he said.

While winning is great, Florida Karate Academy isn't about churning out superstars. Martial arts are arts of self-improvement; physical, mental and spiritual improvement, Mr. Roth said.

"It's not just about winning a tournament, it's about doing your best in all of your life," he said.

Gardens

Sutherland said.

The society's ultimate goal is to distribute 40, 4-foot by 4-foot garden boxes and kit materials to 40 classrooms, including all 29 schools in the system.

Mr. Sutherland said he expects they will start with two schools, Sebastian Charter Junior High School and Vero Beach Elementary School, once final approval has been given by the Indian River County School Board.

Square-foot gardening incorporates raised garden beds with a specific soil recipe. The proponents of the gardening system claim gardeners can reap a harvest in 20 percent of the space people would use in a conventional garden with 10 percent of the water, 5 percent of the seeds and 2 percent of the work.

"This isn't rocket science. It's a raised bed garden and it's just a case of learning it and doing it," Mr. Sutherland said.

He said the gardening project would be an education enrichment project where students could learn life skills growing vegetables, gain nutrition knowledge and have hands-on math and science experience in crafting the boxes, filling them with soil, spacing the seeds and more.

"They could even quantitatively calculate how much water they would use per square foot," Mr. Sutherland said.

Aside from the obvious education benefits, gardening itself is fulfilling, rewarding and just plain fun, he said.

"It's so great to get some dirt under your fingernails. And we want to share the wonder of a little seed growing," Mr. Sutherland said.

When a garden is in full bloom, it can lift the spirits of the gardener and passers-by.

"The plants can have all sorts of different color leaves, almost like a tapestry," Mr. Sutherland said.

The Pelican Island Audubon Society is hoping to receive help from other gardening aficionados when the time comes to plant the gardens and welcomes anyone who wishes to donate materials or time, he said.

For more information about this project or the Pelican Island Audubon Society, call (772) 567-3520 or visit www.pelicanislandaudubon.org.

"When they tell us about the war, we are really overwhelmed by it, but it's a real thrill to meet them," Ms. Tufano said.

Sisters Kathleen Reynolds and Loretta Allen are among the volunteers who bake and package the cookies each month.

"I make chocolate chip cookies with walnuts. Everyone says they are something else," said Ms. Allen.

"When you bake the cookies, you always wonder who is going to get them," said Ms. Reynolds, whose specialty is molasses chocolate chip cookies.

"When we meet them, we get to put a face onto that," she said.

Ms. Tufano said she hopes when soldiers receive their small taste of home, they receive encouragement and some joy that people are remembering them back home.

The Vero Beach cookie ladies (and men, too) meet to package the cookies on the third Thursday of each month. Donations of cookies or money to mail the boxes are always welcome, Ms. Tufano said.

Doing what you have to do

A Martin County man walked into a store and walked out with numerous cases of beer without paying.

When a clerk noticed him walking out, he said, "I've got to do what I have to do."

The clerk no doubt felt he/she had to do what he/she had to do when he/she notified authorities of the theft.

And it turned out surveillance showed the thief had previously stolen beer.

The Martin County deputy who found the man did what he had to do and arrested him for theft.

Association opens respite program

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — Alzheimer & Parkinson Association of Indian River County added a new location for its Care for the Caregiver social respite program, at Roseland Community Center, 12973 Bay St., Roseland.

Care for the Caregiver is a three-pronged program designed to offer caregivers temporary relief as they face the overwhelming challenges presented to them on a daily basis.

The three respite formats include in-home, companion-level care, adult day care in collaboration with Senior Resource Association and a social respite group held at the Roseland Community Center and at the Alzheimer & Parkinson Association Activities Center, located at 2300 Fifth Ave., suite 150 in Vero Beach.

The social respite program is held five mornings a week in Vero Beach and on Monday mornings in Roseland.

Alzheimer & Parkinson Association is an independent, nonprofit organization that is 100 percent supported through generous donations derived from grants, events, individuals and businesses.

The program is funded through a grant from John's Island Community Service League and a local philanthropist.

The program, provided free of charge for county residents, is designed to provide a positive environment for clients affected by memory disorders and to provide caregivers a three-hour window of respite.

The nonprofit organization is currently seeking program participants and volunteers to assist with morning activities at the Roseland Community Center location.

"Since our financial support is limited we depend almost entirely on volunteers to provide this program free of charge. This is a wonderful volunteer opportunity because we have non-stop fun from the moment our clients arrive," said Peggy Cunningham, executive director of Alzheimer & Parkinson Association.

"If you are looking to have fun for three hours, then this is the one for you."

Alzheimer & Parkinson Association of Indian River County is not an affiliate of a national organization

For more information about volunteer opportunities, making a donation to the program, enrollment, or about other programs available in the county, visit www.alzpark.com or call (772) 563-0505.

Employees raise money for sneakers

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — The Education Foundation of Indian River County recognized the employees of the School District of Indian River County who raised more than $1,200 to support the first three Sneaker Exchanges at the start of the new school year.

More than 65 employees who work at the school district office contributed up to $1 each Friday to the "denim day fund."

Participating employees earned the opportunity to wear denim by donating to the philanthropic effort to provide children in need a pair of socks and sneakers.

"The really neat thing about this gift is that it was the employees' idea," said Fran Adams, superintendent of schools.

"The money came through them and they wanted to use the dollars that they accumulated to support this cause. So I applaud them for wanting to give this money back to the community," she said.

The program's mission is

Group decides on name

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — A year ago, several families and friends of individuals with special needs decided it was time to pool their combined accumulation of experience, resources and knowledge and help other families in the same situation.

Recently, the group conducted a contest to choose a name. Thanks to Karen Critelli, mother of Genna, 22, who has Down syndrome, the name for the group is Parents/Families Educating and Exchanging Resources or Peer.

The Peer Group is sponsored by SunUp ARC, a nonprofit agency dedicated to meeting the needs of people with developmental disabilities in Indian River County.

For information on SunUp ARC, call (772) 562.6854, Ext. 219.

For information about the group or to become involved, email nancymoody@live.com.

to provide sneakers and socks to more than 2,000 children in need in kindergarten through 12th grade.

These efforts help keep students on a path of learning with renewed confidence and self-esteem. The sneakers also allow students to participate safely in all school activities. The average cost to serve a student is $20.

The program is about meeting a child's needs. But there is also an even deeper component to the program. More than 100 volunteers from Holy Cross, local businesses, the Indian River County Chamber of Commerce Young Professionals and other community groups give their time from September to May to help students at weekly Sneaker Exchanges.

Small business forum slated for Tampa

FLORIDA CEO
JEFF ATWATER

This morning, approximately 2.2 million Florida small businesses unlocked their doors believing that if they could put their talents to work they could make a difference for their families, and in the lives of their employees and communities.

We are fortunate that many talented business leaders have chosen Florida as their home base. We have heard a lot about the need for the diversification of our economy, which is critical to our long-term prosperity. However, it is equally vital that the heart of our economic lifeblood, our small businesses, is not forgotten.

Small businesses have an enormous impact on the health of Florida's economy, contributing $566 billion or 75 percent of our state's GDP and employing four out of five Floridians. Florida is a small business state and our small business community is a required component for our continued economic success.

While government does not create jobs, government can help support business development, promote innovation and growth, and reduce red tape.

Although we are seeing positive trends in business and employment growth, I know we can do more to assist small businesses already established in our state.

That is why I partnered with the Jim Moran Institute of Global Entrepreneurship at the College of Business at Florida State University to host the 2012 Small Business Leadership Forum, which will be held in Tampa on Sept. 6-7.

The forum aims to connect business owners with the right tools and information to help them succeed. But more importantly, the forum will serve as an opportunity for us to hear from small businesses on what they see as obstacles to growth and prosperity in our state.

The forum will also bring social media for small business development to the forefront. Over the past few years, the growing popularity of social media sites such as Facebook, Twitter, Foursquare, Google+ and LinkedIn, have changed the way entrepreneurs do business. Social media has reinvented word-of-mouth and has opened the doors for businesses to connect and engage with their customers in a way that was not as easy or even possible before.

Our keynote speaker, Gary Vaynerchuk, will speak to social media's influence and its return on investment for businesses. Mr. Vaynerchuk's business success and passion for digital integration will bring a unique perspective to the forum and provide attendees insight on how to grow their business using social media.

In addition to our dynamic keynote speaker, the forum will cover key topics and panel discussions including short- and long-term forecasts and trends of Florida's economy; ideas for attracting and creating an environment for investment, including improving access to capital; and ways to leverage resources and programs available through our public universities and small business development centers.

I am a firm believer that it is not enough to just provide information to our small business community. If we are to make a real difference, we must also listen to our business owners to learn how we can make the business climate better.

With this first-hand knowledge, we can bring policy recommendations back to Tallahassee and facilitate policy that will help nurture an environment for stronger economic growth.

To find out more information about the forum, including a list of panelists and how to register, visit www.flsmallbusinessforum.com.

CIRCULATION AUDIT BY CIRCULATION VERIFICATION COUNCIL

VERO BEACH

Summerfest 2012 comes to Vero

Cliff Partlow/staff photographer

Maestro James Brooks-Bruzzese conducts the Mission Chamber Orchestra of Rome during the American Airlines Symphony of the Americas Summerfest 2012 at Christ by the Sea United Methodist Church Wednesday, Aug. 8. The summer concert, sponsored by the Cultural Council of Indian River County, included a conductors masterclass and a reception before the concert.

Rants & Raves

Got something to say?

Call the Hometown Rants & Raves line at
(772) 465-5504
or e-mail news@hometownnewsol.com.
Callers are asked to refrain from making slanderous statements. Statements of fact will be checked for accuracy.

Fair rants equal happiness

I'm really happy that the paper finally had rants that covered both sides of the fence. Usually, you're way too slanted. It was a real pleasure to read rants that covered things fairly.

Code enforcement should step up

Thank you for allowing me to voice my opinion.

I've got many letters into code enforcement. Every day, there's a yard that holds a bunch of junk for sale. It's not a yard sale. There are cars and all types of trash there and all kinds of riff raff in and out. I'm tired of looking at the junk.

I'm sick of my tax dollars going to waste and my time going to waste. I won't tolerate this anymore. It's ridiculous.

And when you drive by the residence, they give you signs of profanity with their hands. I will continue to complain and I just don't know what my next move will be.

I will end up going to the next council meeting and tell them that I've sent something to the paper that will probably do nothing about it, as well.

Buy American

In response to the letter 'A lesson about flags' there are websites that have not only clothes made is America, but also American flags. The price points are not much more than foreign made products. My New Year's resolution is to try to only buy "made in America" and, so far, I've been pretty successful.

More happiness

A couple of weeks ago, a person wrote to the Rants & Raves and stated that contrary to other people's experiences, s/he usually receives excellent treatment by the frontline workers in the establishments they frequent.

I too, seem to live what appears in this day and age to be, a charmed life. Personally, I never, ever am treated rudely by any frontline workers be they at the bank, the library, the grocery, the post office or any other place including the medical establishments.

The other writer mentioned their dentist as "Dr. Tom" and his wonderful staff. I have been a dental patient of Dr. Tom Cogsil for several years and if this is the dentist they were referring to, I agree, his staff is spectacular!

Kids in a candy store

Rave for printing so many different opinions from a diversity of people.

Rant: What the Democrats lack is any responsible adult supervision. With the Democrats in charge, this country is like a kid in a candy store.

Who will act like an adult and say no, all that candy will make you sick? No, we can't afford all that. I think health care for everyone is an absolutely wonderful idea but who is going to pay for it?

The Democrats say we'll just tax the rich. Already the richest 20 percent pay 90 percent of the taxes (a fact no one denies). Do you think they'll just sit idly by and have all their money taken away? They will go somewhere else or do something else with their money, especially in the global world we live in today. Look at the mess Greece, Italy and Spain are in. That is where we are headed if we don't wake up and grow up and take responsibility for our actions.

Based on laws

This is a nation based on laws. For most of us, our parents or grandparents came here legally, assimilated and became loyal Americans. This is far different from today's illegal immigrants.

Once we start to forget the reasons for our laws, God help us.

Abusing the system

Paying taxes is painful. But when we learn how the money is wasted, it is excruciating. Welfare cheating may be the worst. Recipients use tax money, which is supposed to keep them in necessities, for all kinds of frivolous things.

Some money goes to liquor stores, strip clubs and for gambling, cruises and porn. If they had the will, our politicians could stop these abuses. Reforms have wide populist appeal in both Democratic and Republican states. That Washington ignores the taxpayer is an outrage.

Who paid?

As a young man, Barack Obama went to college. Who paid for it?

He went to graduate school. Who paid for it?

He took a job as a community organizer. What's that?

He has been given things all his life. He's never had to meet a payroll.

No wonder he fails to appreciate the American value of honest, hard work.

thoughtful," Mr. Avilla said.

When Leslie came into her new family's life in 2010, without even knowing her love for brightly colored socks, her mother, Rachael Moshman, had a whole drawer full of socks of every color waiting for her.

"I didn't know it was a big thing that helped her feel comfortable in her transition. I heard about this a year later," said Ms. Moshman.

"The only reason there weren't any white socks is because I like colored socks, too," she said.

The next batch of donated socks will be to members of Leslie's biological family in their foster homes in Texas, Ms. Moshman said.

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — With the tropics stirring up, the Humane Society of Vero Beach and Indian River County is urging pet owners living in designated evacuation areas to preregister for housing at the county's pet-friendly disaster shelter.

Evacuation areas for the county include the barrier island, manufactured homes, areas prone to flood and areas east of U.S. 1.

Registration for sheltering at Liberty Magnet School, located at 6850 81st St., Vero Beach, is being handled by the Humane Society and Indian River County department of emergency services.

"This should be an option of last resort," said Ilka Daniel, HSVBIRC director of animal protection.

Pet owners are encouraged to seek out family and friends first due to limited space at Liberty Magnet.

Pet owners must be able to care for their own animals and bring at least three days worth of food, water, medications and other necessary supplies for themselves and their pets.

Pets accepted at the shelter include dogs, cats, birds, rabbits and small animals such as gerbils and hamsters.

Proof of county residency, as well as current pet vaccinations including rabies is required.

The Humane Society provides a pet emergency supply checklist on its website www.hsvb.org along with instructions on how to create a pet first-aid kit.

Health care professionals, disaster responders and pet owners with special medical needs must also call the shelter at (772) 388-3331, Ext. 28 to preregister their pets for emergency housing.

Applications can be obtained at www.hsvb.org or www.irces.com. Individuals without computer access can call (772) 388-3331, Ext. 28 or pick up a registration form from the Humane Society, located at 6230 77th St., Vero Beach.

New wellness coverage in effect

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

TREASURE COAST — Women's Health Specialists is urging area women to begin now to learn more about important changes in wellness coverage under the Affordable Care Act. The new wellness coverage began Aug. 1.

"We are urging our patients and women throughout the region to become familiar with provisions of the Affordable Care Act that can improve the health of women in general and may help to save lives," said Bill Hughes, administrator of Women's Health Specialists, a team of obstetricians, gynecologists, certified nurse-midwives, nurses and support staff.

The Affordable Care Act helps make prevention affordable and accessible by requiring new health plans to cover and eliminate cost sharing for preventive services recommended by the U.S. Preventive Services Task Force, the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices and the Bright Futures Guidelines recommended by the Academy of Pediatrics.

The law also requires insurance companies to cover additional preventive health benefits for women.

For the first time, HHS is adopting new guidelines for women's preventive services to fill the gaps in current preventive services guidelines for women's health, ensuring a comprehensive set of preventive services for women.

Additional women's preventive services that will be covered without cost sharing requirements include:

• Well-woman visits: This would include an annual well-woman preventive care visit for adult women to obtain the recommended preventive services, and additional visits if women and their providers determine they are necessary.

•Gestational diabetes screening: This screening is for women 24 to 28 weeks pregnant, and those at high risk of developing gestational diabetes.

•HPV DNA testing: Women who are 30 or older will have access to high-risk human papillomavirus DNA testing every three years, regardless of pap smear results.

•STI counseling and HIV screening and counseling: Sexually-active women will have access to annual counseling on HIV and sexually transmitted infections.

•Contraception and contraceptive counseling: Women will have access to all Food and Drug Administration-approved contraceptive methods, sterilization procedures, and patient education and counseling.

•Breastfeeding support, supplies, and counseling: Pregnant and postpartum women will have access to comprehensive lactation support and counseling from trained providers, as well as breastfeeding equipment.

•Domestic violence screening: Screening and counseling for interpersonal and domestic violence should be provided for all women.

New private health plans must cover the guidelines on women's preventive services with no cost sharing in plan years starting on or after Aug. 1.

Services at Women's Health Specialists include wellness exams, prenatal care, menopause management, cancer screening and prevention provided in a personalized and comfortable environment from headquarters located adjacent to the Treasure Coast Square Mall in Jensen Beach with branch offices in Okeechobee and St. Lucie West.

Women's Health Specialists' headquarters is located at 3498 N.W. Federal Highway in Jensen Beach.

Breakfast, lunch with Italian flair

By Jessica Tuggle
jtuggle@hometownnewsol.com

VERO BEACH — In downtown Vero Beach, 14th Avenue is known as the arts district. And one restaurant in that area is putting its own artistic stamp on breakfast and lunch.

Baci Trattoria is a charming Italian breakfast and lunch restaurant in Vero Beach's "gallery row." Breakfast is served with a smile all day, and the lunch items keep customers coming back for more.

Whether a dinner party is seated indoors in the chic black, white and gray dining area, or the cute outdoor patio in a breezeway, the service is prompt and the seats comfortable.

Owner Karen Fulchini, though raised in New Jersey, comes from a strong Italian family background. With the help of her husband and cousin, she is bringing the tastes of her home to Vero Beach neighbors and guests.

"I grew up on peasant Italian food, all made with fresh ingredients," said Ms. Fulchini.

"With olive oil, onions, garlic, basil and a little bit of pepper flakes, there's not much you can't make," she said.

Not all of the items on the menu are traditional Italian fare, but they all bear the Baci flair, from their names to their presentation.

The "Dirty Face" Belgian waffle is an all-in-one breakfast and dessert.

taken something old and unwanted and transformed it into something new and beautiful, said Vicki Wild, executive director of Keep Indian River Beautiful.

Hollowed out wood for candle arrangements, wind chimes made from glass bottles and art from crayons will be among the items on display, she said.

More artists, even those who do not necessarily specialize in up-cycle art, are welcome to join the fun art show.

Vendor spots are also available, Ms. Wild said.

Art show attendees are invited to purchase the art and other products in the store.

The nonprofit's store in the mall is a microcosm of the reuse and recycle idea, Ms. Wild said.

Cookie cutters, canvas, pipe cleaners, picture frames, chop sticks, magazines and neckties are just some of the items available in the reuse and exchange center for residents to breathe new life into.

At the same time as the art show, as part of a county-wide initiative, Keep Indian River Beautiful will be offering a build-your-own rain barrel workshop.

Workshop participants can pay $55 for a blue barrel to take home with them, or $65 if they want to decorate their barrel with help from local artists onsite, event organizers said.

Some rainwater barrels collect water directly from a downspout during rainfall and eliminate water collecting near the foundation of a home. Once collected, the water can be used to water plants, either by watering can or by connecting a hose and directing the water flow.

Rain barrels can also provide some protection for rivers and other bodies of water from runoff pollution.

Many times, rain barrels are constructed by modifying large containers that carried food.

Some other projects Keep Indian River Beautiful will be looking into for the future is creating gardening boxes or shelving from wooden pallets, Ms. Wild said.

To preregister for the rain barrel workshop, call (772) 226-7738 or email keepirbeautiful@gmail.com.

chocolate chips and dressed with fresh red strawberries, cream cheese glaze and a dollop of whipped cream. The waffle's crowning glory is the Bosco chocolate sauce, which customers can add to taste.

"Bosco is kind of like Hershey's chocolate syrup. I guess because it sounded Italian, that's what we always bought back home in Jersey," Ms. Fulchini said with a laugh.

Risotto is an Italian rice dish cooked in broth and containing vegetables or seafood and parmesan cheese. Baci's shrimp risotto features creatures of the sea and the dish smells heavenly.

The creamy rice dish is served in a hot pot, so every last spoonful is hot.

On Wednesdays, customers flock to Baci's for the chef's special Italian rice balls, a dish that requires extra preparation time, so it is not served daily.

"People come here just for those rice balls," Ms. Fulchini said.

The house special dessert is another reason to stop at Baci. The panna cotta is a light, silky egg-less custard served cold and accompanied with fruit compote. Depending on the season, the panna cota can be served with mangos or strawberries. Its light texture, combined with fruit, makes it the perfect summertime dessert.

Baci can accommodate groups such as baby or bridal showers and other larger parties with advance notice.

Restaurant hours are Monday through Sunday from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Baci Trattoria is located at 1918 14th Ave., Vero Beach. For more information, call (772) 794-4747.

Performing arts department holding auditions

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

TREASURE COAST — The Indian River State College performing and visual arts department is holding auditions for production of the musical "Ragtime," on Aug. 29 at 5 p.m. in the Wynne Black Box Theatre on the main campus located at 3209 Virginia Ave. in Fort Pierce.

"Ragtime" tells the story of three groups in the United States in the early 20th century; African-Americans, upper-class suburbanites and Eastern European immigrants.

"Ragtime" is an epic, turn-of the-century story of racial tension, love, family and hope in the American dream.

Historical figures such as Booker T. Washington, Harry Houdini, J.P. Morgan, Henry Ford and Adm. Robert Peary are represented in the performance. Because of the varied cultures represented in the show, "Ragtime" presents a unique performance opportunity for students around the ages of 18 to 30 from diverse backgrounds.

The audition will consist of a short vocal solo (16 measures of music) prepared by the student, followed by a short movement audition, which will be presented by the dance instructor.

Students should be comfortable with whatever they sing and bring a copy of the sheet music for the accompanist. Auditions with CDs or a cappella are not accepted.

Charming course will test your skills

GOLF
JAMES STAMMER

Watching the PGA Championship this past weekend made me long for playing a course near the ocean where the wind blows, and then blows some more. Being honest, I didn't really long to play in such wind, but I was up for the challenge.

The Island Links at Aquarina, located on South A1A in Melbourne Beach, just north of the Sebastian Inlet, fit the bill nicely. The course sits with the Atlantic Ocean on the east and the Indian River Lagoon on the west. If ever a course can be windy and tricky, this may be it.

Designed by my late friend, Charles Ankrom, the course opened in 1996. Of all the courses he designed, this is probably one of which he was most proud. The challenges presented by the sand dunes, the salt air, the wetlands and more made designing Aquarina difficult. Some of the innovative ideas he came up with won him awards from his peers.

Closed for more than a year, the development's home owners' association purchased the club and reopened it the day after Christmas in 2009.

Located on the barrier island and adjacent to the Indian River Lagoon State Preserve, the course features an abundance of wildlife including bobcats, horned owls, turtles, alligators and even an occasional Florida panther.

Most golfers wouldn't consider a course that plays to a par of 62, measuring just over 4,300 yards from the tips, to be a true test of golf. Ankrom, however, was a master of finding ways other than length to defend a course, yet make it fun, playable and fair for all.

The course follows the natural lay of the land with undulating greens and fairways. There are a couple of wetlands that require you to carry your ball to the green or to the fairway from the tee. The 14th and 15th holes feature a set of tees that won an award. Here you face a tee shot from a dock-style tee over the wetlands. A bit of advice here: when on the 14th tee, aim just to the left of the fairway bunker that you see. Anything right of that may find trouble.

Aquarina starts off with a straight-forward, no frills par-4. From there it's onto a couple of par-3s, followed by a pair of tricky par-4s. The front nine ends with a lovely par-3, measuring 158 yards from the back tees.

The tees tend to be hidden in the trees, shielding you from the wind. This forces you to pay careful attention to the flag and the tops of the trees to figure out what the wind is really doing and make your club selection accordingly.

Since the course cannot defend itself with length, the greens' complexes are quite challenging. Proper placement of your tee shot on the par-4s is paramount to having a good angle at the green. Otherwise you risk a difficult chip, pitch or sand shot should you miss your target.

The back nine starts off with a par-4 that requires two precise shots. The 11th hole is my favorite par-3 on the course. Measuring 181 yards from the back tees, it requires a confidant tee shot. Depending on the wind and pin location, you could find yourself playing as much as two clubs extra or less from the tee.

Sixteen is a very tough share a few secrets. You don't have to give everything away, but allow others in by sharing some personal information.

SCORPIO – Oct. 24-Nov. 22

Scorpio, though you don't shy away from challenges, you do know when to pick your battles. When something inconsequential comes up this week, let it pass.

SAGITTARIUS – Nov. 23-Dec. 21

Sagittarius, when a past conflict resurfaces this week, push it aside because that is ancient history. It is better to focus on the positive things that are in store for you.

CAPRICORN – Dec. 22-Jan. 20

Capricorn, when you love someone, it can be difficult to step aside and let this person make his or her own choices. But this is what you have to do for lessons to be learned.

AQUARIUS – Jan. 21-Feb. 18

Your eyes are bigger than your stomach at work this week, Aquarius. Delegate some tasks so everything goes smoothly and your project is completed on time.

PISCES – Feb. 19-March 20

Learning from your weaknesses can help you to grow stronger, Pisces. Accept a challenge that is presented this week, even if it scares you.

Memorial tournament slated for Sept. 22

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

TREASURE COAST — The second annual golf tournament to raise money for the Austin Erlanger memorial scholarship will be held Sept. 22 at noon at Indian Pines Golf Club.

The shotgun scramble tournament will include a practice range prior to the start of the tournament, complimentary water and beer during the tournament, lunch, prizes and raffles. Cost is $85 per golfer.

Foursome requests will be granted. All others will be randomly paired.

For more information, call (772) 201-5229.

mid-length par-3. With water and sand guarding the green, and a hurting wind, you need to select the right club and make a good swing. Eighteen is the longest hole on the course and probably has the largest green and the widest fairway.

While the course doesn't have any par-5s, the eight par-4s and 10 par-3s will challenge your skills. After my round, I ran through my shots and found that I hit all but two clubs in my bag.

To find out more about the renewed and improving Island Links at Aquarina, call the pro shop at (321) 676-8923 or visit the website www.islandlinksgolf.com. Summer rates are in effect and a better value for your money may be difficult to find.

A couple of quick pointers before you head out to experience the course for yourself. Bring along a few extra balls, there are some water hazards and mangrove hammocks that will eat those stray shots. Also, bring along your best bug spray. The same mangroves that will eat your golf ball, also house some very hungry mosquitoes.

College taking lead in public service education

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

TREASURE COAST — Through the new National Preparedness Institute, Indian River State College is taking the lead in public service education with up-to-the-minute training and consulting services in the public service sectors of law enforcement, homeland security, fire, emergency management, legal assisting and human services.

The institute is based at the college's Treasure Coast public safety training complex in Fort Pierce, a 50-acre living laboratory that has engaged public safety professionals from around the nation and world in mock disasters, simulations and exercises using the latest methods and technologies to keep the public safe.

NPI has already secured training contracts with Ineos New Plant Bioenergy in Vero Beach, to conduct emergency response to ethanol fires and hazardous waste operations and emergency response training, a report-writing consulting contract with the Florida Department of Law Enforcement and will play a lead role in the 2012 Great Florida Fire School, a five-day training school for firefighters throughout Florida.

Additional one-day training programs are also in the works with local agencies in an effort to strengthen the local first responder workforce.

"The transition to the National Preparedness Institute was a natural one; after five years of partnership with Workforce Florida, IRSC recognized that Homeland Security is a developing industry with unique needs," said Evan A. Berry, assistant dean of public service education.

"As the National Preparedness Institute, Indian River State College will continue to serve organizations and individuals alike as a clearinghouse for education, research and training."

With direct input from businesses and public safety agencies across the nation, the NPI will provide relevant, cost-effective training and consulting services that reflect current needs and issues and boosts the knowledge, skills and abilities of public safety providers.

The institute will provide a pipeline of workers, entry-level to advanced, for the homeland security industry.

By developing responsive programs and curriculum, NPI will also become a resource for other colleges and institutions offering training in this field.

NPI will host conferences, seminars and workshops for professional development and lifelong learning, attracting public service professionals to the region and providing a cost-savings to local agencies that would normally pay to send employees to these out-of-town events.
