Midterm Picnic

Meet the new ELI Students!

On Thursday, July 2nd, we will be holding our Midterm Picnic. This is also the Welcome Picnic for the new B-Term students. All ELI students, staff, and friends are invited. This will be a picnic across the street at Broward Beach. There will be sports, games and great conversation.

WHEN: Thursday, July 2nd at 5:30 pm, after classes are over. Check www.cipupdates.blogspot.com for rain plans.

Even though this is not a carpool trip, you must sign up on the activities board by 4:00 PM on Tuesday, June 30th so we know how much food to order. Please also sign up your family and friends that you plan to bring!

WHERE: Behind Broward and Yulee Halls (Across 13th Street from the ELI).

COST: This trip is completely FREE!

WHAT TO BRING: Wear tennis shoes and sunblock. We will provide the food so come hungry!!

Notes from the Office

- New Students – You may notice a rise in the activity level in the office and around the ELI this week. Our B-term students are checking in and testing and doing all that stuff that you did at the beginning of the C-term!
- Independence Day Holiday – On Friday, July 3rd, there will be no ELI classes and the ELI offices will be closed for our Independence Day holiday.
- Lost and Found – Be sure to check in the ELI Main Office if you lose anything in the classrooms or in the hallways. The lost and found box is usually full of interesting stuff!
- Bulletin Boards—Students, please do not post anything on any of the ELI bulletin boards without obtaining permission from the ELI Main Office, Room 315.
- TV Crew—Next week, we will have a television crew visiting from Korea on Tuesday and Wednesday to film some of our new students. They probably won't be in any of the C-term classes, but you might see them setting up and moving around.

The Next Trip

Our next ELI activity will be the second Volunteer Day of the semester, on Saturday, July 11th. Details will be on the Activities Board and in the next Weekly.

Birthdays

The following are ELI Birthdays for the weeks of July 3-9:

Students:
July 3: Songchai Asawaprecha
July 4: Eugenia Hernandez
July 4: Bernardo Pinzón
July 5: Sungjun No

Staff:
None this week!

Happy Birthday, one and all!

Manners and Culture

Q: If I am late to an appointment with an American, what should I do?

A: Well, the number one answer here would be for me to tell you not to be. However, unavoidable things do happen. The main thing that you should do when it is unavoidable is to call as soon as you know you're going to be late. Calling after the fact is better than nothing, but it's better to keep the person informed at the time they are waiting. Here in the US, we consider it rude, arrogant, and selfish to be late without a good reason (like, maybe you're in the hospital)--and borderline unforgivable to not show up without calling personally. It implies to us that you think that your own time is more important than ours.

Q: Sometimes friends offer me rides because I don't have a car. Is it enough for me just to say, "Thanks!"?

A: It's a good start. If it's one or two friends who do it a lot, then you might want to occasionally offer to buy them some gas, particularly these days.

Q: Why don't teachers here dress formally? For example, they wear shorts to school.

A: This is not so much an American thing as it is a Florida thing. Fashion here is just much more casual than in some other parts of the country, largely due to the weather and the resort-like atmosphere that pervades much of the state. I personally am one of the teachers that you mention in your question. When I first started working here 14 years ago, I didn't wear shorts. And then I noticed that many of my colleagues did, so I adopted the practice. Fashion is often dictated by local custom.

Grammar

Editor's Note:

Folks, I have had several people ask me to explain the use of the definite and indefinite articles (a, an, and the) here in the column. I just want to let you know that I'm not ignoring the requests completely, but I really haven't ever figured out a way to condense something that complex into a space this small! This is an issue that gets entire textbook chapters devoted to it.

Q: What tenses can I use with the expression, "from time to time"?

A: This is a frequency expression that basically indicates a habit. So, you can use any of the simple tenses, plus "used to" and "be going to".

Q: Do "though", "even though", and "although" have the same meaning?

A: At the beginning of a dependent clause, yes. "Though" by itself has a special use, though. It can be used at the end of a sentence to indicate that the speaker or writer is going to add or just added an extra idea. As I just did in the second sentence in this paragraph.

Q: What's the difference between "borrow" and "lend"?

A: It's the same as the difference between "take" and "give". You borrow something from someone. That someone lends it to you. Interestingly, we are involved in a shift in usage. Also, the verb "lend" is rapidly disappearing and being replaced by what used to be exclusively the noun "loan".

Quote of the Week

Fight for your opinions, but do not believe that they contain the whole truth, or the only truth.
