FERRO

After a weeklong trial, attorneys for the defense and prosecution in the second-degree murder trial of Nicholas Ferro, 26, rested their cases Friday afternoon in Key West.

Chief Monroe County Circuit Court Judge David Audlin allotted 90 minutes to

Ferro, of Hollywood in Broward County, stands accused of stabbing to death Key West each side for closing arguments beginning at 9 a.m. Monday at the Freeman Justice Center.

Defense asks for summary dismissal in murder case; judge denies request native Marquese Butler around 4 a.m. Oct. 31, 2009, during the annual Fantasy Fest.

Ferro took the stand on Thursday and again on Friday, saying that to some degree, he feels victimized by the entire proceeding but that he harbored no malice, anger, hatred or evil intent (key words in meeting the defined threshold of second-degree murder) toward Butler.

Ferro reiterated his story that his friend Jorge Averoff was being attacked by a large group just off Duval Street near Caroline and Simonton streets when he entered the fray to help his friend.

Defense attorney Ed O'Donnell Sr. of Miami started his questioning of Ferro Thursday by asking: "Did you murder Marquese Butler?"

"Absolutely not," Ferro replied. "Did you stab him," O'Donnell asked? "Yes," Ferro calmly said.

Ferro said his entrance into the fight was a "split-second decision," a phrase that prosecutor Breezye Telfair would later use when cross-examining the defendant.

Ferro testified that Butler, identified by his yellow shirt, hit the back of Ferro's head, taking him down to one knee.

"He was much bigger than me," Ferro said. "I'm still on one knee. He's coming right

On a hot July night in 2007, Key Largo firefighter Chris Fleming was checking on his boat at the Gilbert's Resort marina when he noticed a foul stench in the air.

Prevailing winds that time of year usually come out of the southeast, but that night, at about 9 p.m., the wind shifted and was coming from the north, the direction of the boat belonging to Fleming's marina neighbor, Edward Bozarth. Fleming, 54, has been on the Key Largo fire department for 27 years - long enough to know what death smells like.

The veteran first responder had permission from Bozarth to check on his vessel when he wasn't there, and vice versa. When he went to Bozarth's slip and opened the hatch, the smell got worse, and Fleming called the Monroe County Sheriff's Office. A deputy arrived and the two men searched the boat.

It was cool inside the cabin of the Screw U 2. The boat's air conditioners were set to 60 degrees, their lowest setting.

Fleming first noticed a kitty-litter pan and thought the smell was a dead cat. But after finding no cat, Fleming and the deputy lifted the engine hatch cover below the vessel's two beds and made a grisly discovery - Edward Bozarth's badly decomposing body, stuffed in a canvass sack being feasted upon by maggots.

Three days later, on July 3, the county medical examiner concluded the cause of death was blunt force trauma to the head.

Bozarth, 62, had been murdered. Investigators estimate he was killed about a week before he was found. This week, almost five years since the homicide, detectives arrested Denise Bozarth, his 39-year-old wife. She was taken into custody in Walton County and is being transported to the Keys to face a first-degree murder charge. Sheriff's Office spokeswoman Deputy

There will be no beach umbrellas or other gear for rent at Sombrero and Coco Plum beaches in Marathon, at least for the foreseeable future.

The City Council on Tuesday voted 3-2 not to consider a pitch by local real estate agent Josh Mothner on behalf of businessman Asad Kahn to open a rental concession at Sombrero. Vice Mayor Dick Ramsay and Councilman Mike Cinque dissented.

Cinque said any money generated — Mothner proposed $18,000 per year while the city suggested $25,000 to start — would benefit the city. "I don't think it commercializes the beach," he said.

Mayor Pete Worthington and council members Ginger Snead and Rich Keating disagreed, as did three public speakers who argued against the idea.

"I spend my day working with people and since this became a topic, every day I have someone in my clinic who says, 'You wouldn't do that, would you?' I don't know that it's a win-win for the city," Snead said.

"I've had the exact same response; people have told me not to change anything. What can't be measured is who might not come here because this beach is not what they're looking for," Keating said.

Resident Jody Gyokeres pleaded with the council to maintain "the unspoiled beauty and solitude of

Suspended FDLE agent set for trial

No plea deal on the fraud, theft charges

Keynoter Staff

Negotiations over a plea deal for a suspended Keys state law enforcement agent charged with homestead-exemption fraud have fallen through, and now he's set for trial on April 23 in Key West.

Following the breakdown in talks, Vince Weiner, 47, demanded a speedy trial and on Thursday, Monroe County Circuit Court Judge Mark Jones set the trial for the Freeman Justice Center.

The Florida Department of Law Enforcement arrested the Key West-based Weiner, an FDLE agent, last Aug. 17. He's charged with felony grand theft and misdemeanor homestead-exemption fraud.

Florida homeowners are allowed one homestead exemption, which allows for a property-tax break on their permanent residence. It can be claimed only when the owners live in the house. Prosecutors say Weiner bought a Big Pine Key house in 2005, then got assigned to Fort Myers in 2006. While living in Fort Myers, Weiner rented his Keys house out but claimed the homestead exemption, they say.

The FDLE says Weiner claimed the Big Pine exemption for the tax years 2007 to 2010. As a result, the FDLE

"When you walk on Coco Plum Beach, the feeling is so peaceful. It's different from anything you experience anywhere else in the Keys," she said. "What an intrusion that would be on the natural beauty at Coco Plum Beach."

City staff, at the council's direction, had compiled a list of 25 possible provisions for a lease. The council never discussed them but among them were:

- A one-year lease with two one-year options and a minimum bid of $25,000 in year one, $27,500 in year two and $30,000 in year three.

- Insurance must be provided as mandated by the city.

- The space for the rental business could not exceed 144 square feet and would be chosen by the city.

- Hours would not to exceed 9 a.m. until 6 p.m., including daily setup, cleanup and storage.

Crashes tying up highway all week

Keys record 10th fatality of the year

Keynoter Staff

With the islands filled to the brim with snowbirds and Spring Breakers, it's been a dangerous week on U.S. 1 in the Florida Keys with numerous crashes, including fatalities.

The latest crash happened Friday at noon at mile marker 23, when two autos, a car and minivan, collided head-on. A firefighter on the scene said the car, going north, swerved into the southbound lane, striking the minivan.

The minivan had seven people in it, the car had two. Two people were airlifted to Miami trauma centers, a 14-year-old and an older man. The Florida Highway Patrol was reporting a "possible fatality" but the firefighter said no one died at the scene. No other details were available at press time.

The crash closed U.S. 1 in both directions, leaving traffic backed up for miles both northbound and southbound. The road opened back up a little after 2 p.m.

Late Thursday morning, a van drove off into the water around mile marker 90.5, killing one occupant. It was the 10th traffic fatality of the year in the Keys, and the third in a week. The FHP identified the dead man as Manuel Lopez-Mercedes, 68, of Key Largo.

Troopers said that around 10:20 a.m., he drove to the end of Old County Road 905 to a private parking area, backed up, then accelerated forward, striking rocks before heading into the water. He was driving a 1996 Ford van. Witness pulled Lopez-Mercedes from the water.

A day before, a man was killed after he walked into the path of an oncoming car on U.S. 1 in Key Largo. According to the Florida Highway Patrol, the man, whom troopers described only as an "unknown white male," walked in front of a 2003 Honda driving south on U.S. 1 at mile marker 99 around 7 a.m. The driver of the car, 32-year-old Dawn Trentine, stopped after she hit the man. He died on the road, according to the FHP.

On March 11, Anthony Cash, 44, was driving a 2008 Hino truck south at mile marker 10 about 7:50 a.m. He was behind a 2006 Toyota Tacoma driven by Timothy Dion, 48, of Sugarloaf Key.

The Highway Patrol says Cash struck the back of Dion's SUV and overturned before hitting a utility pole, and died at the scene. Traffic was slowed for about four hours.

back at me. I went to my pocket and grabbed my knife and thrust it at the person coming toward me."

After the stabbing, Ferro testified, he threw the knife and took off toward Duval when — although versions testified to have varied — he came to the attention of police who ultimately subdued him with a Taser.

In the immediate aftermath of the stabbing, Ferro told police he wasn't involved in the fight.

Telfair, an assistant state attorney in Miami-Dade County, asked Ferro about his "split-second decisions" to jump in and help Averoff; reach for his knife and stab Butler; throw the knife; then lie to police.

"You made some heroic decisions," Telfair said. "Now, hours after being in custody, you make the decision to lie? Why would you tell the detective hours after you stabbed Marquese Butler because he hit you in the back of the head that you didn't get in a fight?"

"At that point," Ferro said, "I had been sitting in the police station for hours. I was scared. I wanted to get out of there. I thought that would get me out of there."

Then Telfair asked Ferro if he feels like a victim.

"In a way, I do," he said. "I was arrested and charged with murder."

O'Donnell asked Audlin for a summary dismissal of the case because, he said, the state failed to prove the tenets of second-degree murder.

"There is not a scintilla of evidence that shows in any way, shape or form that the necessary elements of second-degree murder are present. [Ferro is] the only person on the face of the planet that can testify to [what happened]. He has and it's un-rebutted."

Audlin said no. Earlier in the week, Audlin excused a juror after she complained of being made to feel uncomfortable in the jury box by one of the onlookers in the crowd of more than 50.

Telfair and Miesha Darrough, another assistant state attorney in Miami-Dade, were assigned to prosecute the case by then-Gov. Charlie Crist due to personal relationships between Butler's family and staff of the Monroe County State Attorney's Office.

Denise Bozarth is led away on Thursday in Walton County. She'll be extradited to the Keys to answer a first-degree murder charge in the death of her husband.

Cops: Her story changed

From Bozarth, 1A

Becky Herrin said Denise Bozarth told Monroe County detectives Thursday morning that she killed her husband.

Monroe County State Attorney Dennis Ward said he will convene a grand jury in the case. Assistant State Attorney Terri Hunnewell said the grand jury deliberation will likely take about a day.

If Denise Bozarth is convicted, she would serve a mandatory life sentence. Hunnewell said her office likely won't seek the death penalty against Bozarth.

The Bozarth's were married for about nine years and had two young children. They lived together aboard the Screw U 2. But friends and neighbors told investigators that the couple had a volatile relationship, and that Denise Bozarth was having an affair with another man - David Campbell, whose boat was also docked at the marina that summer.

About a month before Edward Bozarth's body was found, Denise said she wanted to end the marriage, according to the arrest affidavit written by Detective Jason Madnick.

Denise's parents came to the Keys and took the children to their home in Defuniak Springs on June 16, 2007. Denise left her husband and reunited with the children at her parent's house on June 23. She told investigators that was the last day she saw her husband.

Madnick said he and Florida Department of Law Enforcement investigators interviewed Denise Bozarth several times over the years since that day, and she made numerous inconsistent statements to them about what happened.

Madnick said in his report that Denise Bozarth also failed a polygraph examination she agreed to take. County and FDLE detectives also interviewed the couple's friend, Bonnie Colon, who stayed on the Screw U 2 for a time during the 2007 summer. Colon told investigators that Denise repeatedly talked about specific ways she could kill her husband. Colon said Denise even described how she could kill him, wrap him up in plastic and stuff him into the vessel's bilge. She also said that on June 23, Denise told her to stay away from the Screw U 2.

Denise was also excited about an inheritance of more than $650,000 that Edward Bozarth recently received from his deceased mother, Colon told investigators.

Campbell, Denise's alleged lover, told investigators that the two were involved in an affair, and that Denise offered to pay him $10,000 to kill Edward Bozarth. Campbell said he refused.

Talks fail, trial set

From Weiner, 1A

says, Weiner received at least $5,918 in tax exemptions to which he was not entitled.

Weiner had hoped he could cop a plea that would allow him to retain his state police certification. But prosecutors wouldn't go for a misdemeanor plea.

Weiner was assigned back to the Keys from Fort Myers in May 2010. He has worked in Fort Myers or Key West since becoming an FDLE agent in 1993. He previously was a Florida Highway Patrol trooper.

32 nonprofit groups to split $183,000

Money comes from crime forfeitures

Keynoter Staff

Thirty-two Florida Keys nonprofit groups will split $183,028.57, a Monroe County Sheriff's Office committee decided Wednesday.

That's how much is available this year from the Sheriff's Office's Shared Asset Forfeiture Fund, which is financed through the seizure of goods related to crimes. Approval now goes to the County Commission in April; usually the commission OKs the funding with no discussion.

Meeting at the Marathon

Government Center, the committee, after reviewing applications that were due Feb. 2, split the money, with the Domestic Abuse Shelter getting the most ($9,357.114) and what's called the Hope Class/Driver Education getting the least ($500).

Making the decisions were committee members Rick Roth, a former Keys sheriff; Islamorada attorney Nick Mulick; accountant and Marathon Finance Director Peter Rosasco; Key West attorney David Paul Horan; Samuel's House chief Elmira Leto; Middle Keys retiree Lynn Mapes; and former Lower Keys Habitat for Humanity director Bill Loewy.

The 32 organizations represent a wide range of interests Keyswide, from Lower Keys health provider Womankind to Habitat for Humanity of the Upper Keys to the Guidance/Care Center, a countywide mental-health facility based in Marathon.

Separately, the County Commission, meeting at 9 a.m. Wednesday at the Marathon Government Center, will discuss its Human Services Advisory Board funding for the next budget year. There is $2.22 million available, the same amount as in the current year.

County Grants Administrator Lisa Tennyson said Wednesday's discussion is just the first step in the funding process; applications from social-service groups are still being received.

More cuts coming at the School District

Superintendent: School programs 'already hurting'

By SEAN KINNEY
skinney@keynoter.com

Monroe County School Board members are at odds over how much money the district should keep in reserves. Two board members said this week the School District is being too austere, and students and teachers will suffer as a result.

Discussion Tuesday by the five board members about a $484,000 bill that's come due shifted into a wide-ranging discussion about the 2012-13 budget, still in its formative stage, and forthcoming cuts Superintendent Jesus Jara promised would be "painful."

The School District owes the Federal Emergency Management Agency the six-figure sum. The feds determined they sent too much disaster recovery money to the district following Hurricane Georges in 1998.

Jara said half the money would be paid before the fiscal year ends on June 30 and the other half after that, with the funds coming from the district's already-low reserve fund.

Thursday, Jara said projections for the next budget year indicate expenses around $83 million compared to revenues of $78 million, meaning a $5 million shortfall.

But "if the board wants to go to a 5 percent fund balance, it's about $750,000 a percentage, so that's another $2 million. So we're looking at $7 million [in reductions] if we want to get to a 5 percent fund balance and that's if everything comes in where we expect it to come in."

In January, four of the five board members said they want the reserve fund to be 5 percent of revenues in the fiscal year starting July 1.

Jara had to notify the state Department of Education last year when reserves dipped below 3 percent, about $3 million. If reserves fall below 2 percent, the state can empanel a financial oversight committee and Gov. Rick Scott can go so far as to remove board members.

Upper Keys board member Ron Martin, usually reserved during meetings, initially signed on for the 5 percent goal, but reversed himself Tuesday in comments to board Chairman John Dick.

"Some of the things I'm seeing coming out that we're ping enrollment in fast-growing Keys charter schools.

Of the teacher cuts, Jara said the positions would mostly be lost at the high-school level, the result of "right-sizing the district."

Estimating the average teacher salary, plus benefits, at $70,000, Jara said the move would save around $3.5 million.

"I'm meeting with every department head at the district office and going line by line," Jara said. "Cutting $5 million from a budget that we already cut $9 million from, it's going to be tough. We're already hurting the education programs in our schools. We'll try not to hurt the system but this is going to have severe impacts."

Dick acknowledged the cuts would hurt, but stood by his promise to vote against a budget that doesn't include the 5 percent reserve.

"Be very careful when you decide how you want to do your fund balance," he said. "If we do not clean this up, the governor will have the ability now to remove the School Board members. I will not be a party to something like that. I will stand very strongly on holding us at a fund balance that will keep us out of problems."

Andy Griffiths, the one board member who hadn't committed to a 5 percent reserve, said the time isn't right to try to build up the reserve.

"Every percent you talk about in that fund balance is programs for students. We're finally, finally at the point where we're going to have a negative impact on students. We're really now there, and it's going to get worse. You fill the piggybank when times are good for when times are bad. When times are bad, that's not the right time to build a piggybank."

Dick disagreed: "You're playing with fire."

going to have to do, Mr. Chairman, I don't know if I can be beholden to a 5-percent [reserve] sometimes. I might have to go down a little bit. We're already cutting into the muscle at the schools and they're bleeding right now, and I'd hate to see us go out and buy more buckets to catch the blood."

Although the 2012-13 budget won't be up for final approval until September, ideas already floated to close the gap include cutting 47 teacher positions, combining the all-girls Keys Center Academy with the mostly male Academic Connections for Excellence, outsourcing food service and possibly other departments, and cap-

Two indicted for murder

In both cases, knife is used in the slaying

Keynoter Staff

A Key West grand jury on Thursday formally charged two men with murder in separate cases.

The grand jury indicted Tod Helfrich, 47, of Lynn, Mass., on a first-degree murder count in the Sept. 2 killing of Carl Eric Johanson, 66. He was found dead in his apartment at the Henry Haskins Senior Citizen Plaza on Kennedy Drive, bound with his throat slashed.

Orlando police arrested Helfrich the day after the slaying after a statewide be-on-the-lookout was issued. He was driving Johanson's allegedly taking Johanson's phone and credit card.

Law enforcement officials have said Helfrich met Johanson at a Duval Street gay bar in the days leading up to the murder.

Helfrich served state prison time from Sept. 19, 1999, to Nov. 22, 2001, for grand theft.

The grand jury also indicted Francisco Marquez, 36, on a second-degree murder charge stemming from the Feb. 17 stabbing death of Giovanni Perez, 29. It happened near a houseboat while drinking. Both Marquez and Perez worked at Ibis Bay.

Like Helfrich, Marquez has a criminal past.

According to the Monroe County Sheriff's Office, he was jailed for two days in October 2006 for carrying a concealed weapon and possession of cocaine; from Dec. 20, 2006, until Feb. 6, 2007, for aggravated battery; from June 8, 2007, until July 5, 2007, for violating probation; and from Oct. 8, 2008, until March 20, 2010, for again violating probation.

Robbery suspect is ex-con

Roberts spent time in state prison system

Keynoter Staff

A Stock Island man arrested Tuesday for allegedly going on an armed-robbery spree the past week is hardly a stranger to the criminal-justice system.

Lemuel Roberts, 36, served six months in state prison in 2010 — he had been sentenced to a year and a half — on four counts of obtaining prescription drugs under false pretenses.

Roberts, whom jail records say is a truck and taxi driver, also has Monroe County arrests going back to 2004 for possession of a controlled substance, violating a domestic-violence injunction, retail theft, violating probation, battery and grand theft.

Now he's charged with two counts of armed robbery and one of robbery without a firearm.

Key West police and the Sheriff's Office say he robbed two Duval Street clothing stores and a Stock Island Chevron; he confessed to committing the crimes using an air-powered replica gun, police say. Police were able to identify him as the suspect after a woman in custody at the Stock Island jail on unrelated charges gave "detailed descriptions of the crimes, which she said Roberts had told her," according to Key West police spokeswoman Alyson Crean.

An employee of Stitches clothing store, 533 Duval St, reported the first robbery just after midnight March 10, telling police he was closing up when a man entered the store and pointed a gun at him.

Crean said, "The robber grabbed the money [from the cash register] then said, 'Don't move or I'll shoot you!'"

The next night, March 11, Monroe County Sheriff's Office deputies responded to the Chevron gas station, at U.S. 1 and 5th Street, at about 3 a.m. when the clerk called for help.

She said she was mopping up the store when a man wearing a ski mask came in and demanded money and displayed a handgun.

Then, for the third night in a row, on March 12, around 11 p.m. police responded to a robbery report at Flirt clothing store, 330 Duval St.

The clerk reported a man came in and tried on three pairs of jeans, according to police reports, took the merchandise to the counter then "ordered the clerk to open the register and hand over all the cash. The robber got agitated when the victim was unable to open the register and he lifted his shirt to show a bulge that looked like a gun."

When the clerk was unable to open the register, Lemuel allegedly grabbed the jeans and a watch and fled the store, Crean said.

Police found Roberts at a house on Roberta Street. He's being held without bond at the Monroe County Detention Center.

We call foul: Our flag's bigger

Guinness proclaims Little Havana flag world's biggest, but it easily isn't

Who holds bragging rights when it comes to hoisting the biggest flag?

The Kiwanis Club of Little Havana in Miami made headlines last week with its Calle Ocho Festival's Flag of Nations. Representatives from Guinness World Records arrived in Miami to document that its flag is the record-breaker for biggest flag.

The Key West rainbow flag is unfurled in 2003.

However, we can verify the Calle Ocho flag was a puny contender compared to the rainbow flag that was unfurled in Key West back in 2003. The original gay pride flag, created in 1978, became a highly recognized symbol internationally. Variations of it have appeared all over the world.

To set the record straight for the Guinness folks, here's a comparison of the two flag events:

Key West 2003: 1.25-mile-long flag, more than 2,000 volunteers needed to hold it aloft, and a banner that stretched from the Atlantic Ocean at South Beach to the Gulf of Mexico at Key West's western harbor.

Little Havana 2012: 250 feet, more than 100 volunteers to hold up the flag, and a banner that didn't even stretch the length of a football field (360 feet).

No comparison.

Unfortunately, Key West's 2003 rainbow flag wasn't entered in any Guinness record competition, so that stellar achievement awaits some future recreation.

That flag has since been distributed in pieces to gay pride groups around the world, so it has spread quite literally far and wide, much further than the flag of nations on display in Little Havana last weekend.

Gilbert Baker designed the first rainbow flag in 1978 and gave some of the earliest versions to his friend Harvey Milk, a San Francisco commissioner (who was murdered in November that year). The flag, widely displayed in San Francisco, then migrated to New York, Los Angeles, Chicago and other urban centers.

To mark the 25th anniversary of the rainbow flag, Gilbert constructed the Key West flag — the real record-holder. Gilbert said it took three months working in Key West to make it. He used about 17,600 linear yards of fabric, which weighed more than three tons. The rest is history. Now if only Guinness would make it official.

National Pig Days at the Stuffed Pig Restaurant in Marathon is always highlighted by races around a small track.

Children get support

Henry David Thoreau said: "Goodness is the only investment that never fails."

The Grace Jones Community Center and Daycare cannot thank everyone enough, especially Mike Cinque and Karen Dennis, for hosting National Pig Days once again this year to benefit our center. Every year this benefit grows larger and larger with more and more volunteers, locals and visitors. We would also like to thank the sponsors who made it possible with their immense generosity.

This year, we are happy to report that we have received almost $23,000 once everything was said and done. This needed money goes directly to provide the necessities that a day-care center with 73 children needs to operate with high-quality standards.

It truly takes a community willing to help and one that understands the need we have to take care of our children on their paths to adulthood. Karen and Mike couldn't be more gracious when it comes to giving.

Note clinic's changes

The Good Health Clinic is greatly appreciative of all the support your paper has provided to us and the community over the years, especially over the past six months when we were financially strapped. You continued that support this year when we needed help to get the word out to clinic patients that our qualification process changed.

Unfortunately, there are still a number of people that did not read about that back in January. I am hoping this time patients of the Good Health Clinic will read this section of the paper, since it contains important information that will affect their ability to receive free healthcare through our nonprofit organization.

Effective back in January, all applications, no matter when the patient applied, are good for six months only.

Beware some coconuts

I'm writing in reference to the white fly invasion in the Keys. One thing that concerns me is the chemical treatment that some individuals use to control the flies.

The treatment is a liquid that is poured into the root base of plants, then is absorbed throughout the plant. Coconut palms have been heavily infested with the white flies and some are being chemically treated.

My worry is that many of the coconuts are used for human consumption. This could possibly be a serious health hazard.

Ronald Randall
Marathon

Because of new guidelines established by our community partner, Baptist Health South Florida, the clinic has a large number of patients that are no longer covered by our free health-care program.

It is the responsibility of the patient to reapply within 30 days prior to their expiration date, so we desperately need them to apply for their continued care, as well as those patients on a monthly prescription program that require physician approval for refills.

We are encouraging all uninsured residents that have lived in the Upper Keys for a minimum of six months and fall within 200 percent of the federal poverty guidelines to also apply. Once applications have been approved through Pastoral Services of Baptist Health South Florida, qualified residents will be able to receive free health care for six months.

Once again, we need to remind our patients they need to have a prescription from the clinic in order to be seen in a hospital's emergency room. If they do not have approval from one of the clinic's attending physicians, there is a chance they will be held accountable for the expenses incurred by that visit.

Applications can be picked up at the clinic Monday through Thursday between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. Patients with questions concerning the changes are encouraged to call the clinic at 853-1788. The Good Health Clinic is at 91555 Overseas Highway, Suite 2 in Tavernier.

Are we a smart nation?

Who determines when we go to war? Is it the president? Is it Congress? Is it the special interests? Is it foreign governments? What does the Constitution say? And what about the American people — do they have any say?

Reading the papers, one gets the impression that the business of going to war is an entirely ad hoc proposition. That is, a happening without defined rules or specific criteria. We seem to just plunge ahead based on secret information from spies, informers, military people, supposed experts and friendly allies.

And it is so easy to start a war. We have the planes, the bombs, all ready to go at a moment's notice. There is seemingly no requirement for an after-the-war plan or a cost analysis in dollars, lives and longer-term regional effects before the bombs fall. There is no time to think. Time is running out. "Everyone" says so. Some red (blood?) line is about to be crossed.

Haven't we been here before? Haven't we learned anything about trusting the predictions of anything that might or might not happen in the Mideast? Ask yourself — are we a smart nation?

CELEBRATING OUR PAST

Numerous movies have been filmed in whole or part in the Florida Keys, including 2002's 'Red Dragon' with Anthony Hopkins, Harvey Keitel, Edward Norton, Ralph Fiennes and Mary Louise Parker (Islamorada); and 1994's 'Drop Zone' with Wesley Snipes and Gary Busey (Key Largo) and 'True Lies' with Arnold Schwarzenegger and Jamie Lee Curtis (Marathon). Here, in November 1974, Peter Fonda films '92 in the Shade' in Key West. The plot: A young drifter (Fonda) returns to his native Key West to open a charter fishing business, pitting him against a veteran fishing captain (Warren Oates). It also starred Margot Kidder, Burgess Meredith, Harry Dean Stanton and Elizabeth Ashley.

More traffic solutions

With a sympathetic eye, I read the letter to the editor on March 10 from Mr. Way of Big Pine Key regarding the traffic snafu on Plantation Key during the Gigantic Nautical Flea Market.

His suggestions for alleviating the problem are worth considering. After observing similar congestion on March 10 during Woofstock, where traffic was backed up northward to Tavernier Creek, I came up with a few more.

- Install slingshots at several locations along the Old Highway across from Founders Park. Festival goers could pay a modest fee to be hurtled over the highway, landing softly in large air bags. The process could be reversed for those leaving, perhaps landing in safety nets held aloft by Boy Scouts (with paramedics standing by). These structures would be temporary. Catapults could be substituted.

- Set up a zip line. These are all the craze nowadays. After ascending ladders (or hoisted up with cherry-pickers), festival goers could fly in over the crowds, perhaps ending up in large air bags somewhere down by the amphitheater. A higher fee could be charged for this thrill.

- Dig a tunnel under U.S. 1, pedestrians only. Close the tunnel when no festival is in progress or when the tide is extra high.

- Build a flyover express lane for southbound traffic. Use the SunPass toll collection method. The flyover would end just north of the Snake Creek Bridge. After all, we don't want those through-drivers and tourists to miss out on the time-honored ritual of raising the draw-bridge.

As for me, I'm going to invest in some large air bags.

Leave Harriette's alone

We always stop by Harriette's Restaurant in Key Largo either on our way down to the Keys or back home. Those ladies that work there are wonderful.

We found it a little difficult to find it last time with all that construction going on. Besides, it was just featured in Florida Travel & Life (the March/April issue) and it sure would be a shame to have visitors trying to find it and it's not there. Let's keep that little landmark.

Many finding retirement tough

The reason: Stock market money losses
McClatchy-Tribune

A ruthless job market, suffocating household debt and a shocking decline in the stock market have left millions of Americans feeling fragile and with little confidence they will ever have the money to retire.

Retirement confidence is at a historic low: Only 14 percent of Americans are very confident that they will be able to retire with adequate money, according to research released Tuesday by the Employee Benefit Research Institute. About 60 percent of workers say their household savings and investments total less than $25,000.

EBRI has been surveying retirement confidence for 22 years, and the number hasn't improved since 2009. That's when about 17 percent of workers were unemployed or underemployed, and when a 57 percent decline in the stock market left workplace 401(k) retirement savings accounts in ruins. Confidence hasn't snapped back despite improving employment numbers and a 110 percent climb in the stock market since the devastation of the 2008-09 crash.

"We were quite shocked," said EBRI research director Jack VanDerhei. He had assumed people would be more optimistic after "a fairly decent rebound" in the stock market and economy in 2010.

On the other hand, behavioral research shows that sharp losses can leave people feeling vulnerable for years. Even teens who watch families struggle through recessions doubt their control over their careers, said Antonio Spilimbergo and Paola Giuliano in a National Bureau of Economic Research paper.

EBRI also found that many people don't trust their jobs or investments to provide the money they will need for retirement. Fewer than three in 10 are very confident that they will have paid employment for as long as they need it. And 42 percent identify job uncertainty as an immediate concern. Only 16 percent are very confident that their investments will grow, and a mere 8 percent of workers are very confident the economy will grow at least 3 percent a year for the next 10 years.

Debt continues its stranglehold on households. Almost two-thirds of workers consider their current level of debt to be a problem.

Savings used up

Under the pressures of the past few years, many have used up savings, and fewer people are stashing anything away. In the recent EBRI survey, 58 percent said either they or a spouse was saving money for retirement. That's significantly less than 2009, when 65 percent were saving.

"Workers are falling further behind, and they know it," said Mathew Greenwald of Mathew Greenwald & Associates, who worked on the study with EBRI. About 67 percent say they are "behind schedule" with saving.

In 2005, 12 percent thought they were lagging behind where they needed to be. Then, Greenwald said, people were overly optimistic. They were counting on the climbing stock market and equity in homes to make up for meager savings.

Now, people are more realistic, Greenwald said. But without adequate savings, they will struggle in retirement. Although that will leave many with lifestyles different than they hoped or assumed, it also leaves the nation's political leaders with a quandary. Social Security and Medicare will be more important than ever to generations that have inadequate savings. Yet, with the federal deficit looming at historic highs, there has been a push by some in government to make cuts in those programs.

Much to the surprise of the researchers, though people realize they aren't going to have enough for retirement, they are not saving more.

Developer proposes fishing lodge on Old Highway

Plan calls for 60 guestrooms in the village

McClatchy-Tribune

A Coral Springs developer is proposing to build a sportfishing eco-lodge in Islamorada.

Fort Lauderdale-based design firm EDSA has come up with designs to develop roughly 7.5 acres owned by Coral Springs developer Bert Vorstman for what would be called the Sportfishing Lodge. The land is at mile marker 83 ocean side, along the Old Highway.

The plans — which have not officially gone before village officials — call for about 60 guest bedrooms clustered in buildings around a main lodge. There would be seven structures on the site. The main one would incorporate the arrival area, common dining and gathering spaces with five connected casitas providing guest bedrooms.

Also planned is stormwater control with natural filtration systems and an enhanced tree canopy; energy efficiency in lighting, heating and buildings; solar power; recycling; and fuel-efficient vehicles, among other features.

Whether the project could get permitted is iffy. For example, Islamorada might not have enough hotel-room permit allocations to offer.

This is the developer's rendering of the proposed Sportfishing Lodge.

Keys jobless rate falls

It's far less than the rest of the state

By DOUGLAS HANKS
dhanks@MiamiHerald.com

South Florida's employment rebound continues, though not at an overwhelming clip. Statewide, Florida posted the worst month in terms of job creation compared to all other states.

Florida saw its unemployment rate drop in January from 9.9 percent to 9.6 percent, its lowest since March 2009. But a separate survey showed employers actually cut jobs statewide since December. Florida's loss of 38,000 payroll positions was the worst in the country.

However, in Monroe County, the unemployment rate dipped from 6 percent to 5.7 percent, as the Keys continue to putt along relatively unscathed by the unemployment crisis hitting the rest of the state.

Broward's unemployment rate dipped slightly to 8.3 percent, using a raw measure of joblessness. The decline came for discouraging reasons: Fewer people were listed as employed, but people also dropped out of the labor pool. That combination can cause the unemployment rate to drop even if employers aren't hiring more.

In Miami-Dade, the seasonally adjusted unemployment inched up in January, but for more encouraging reasons. More people were listed as employed, but the jobless rate climbed because more people joined the workforce — generally a sign of optimism that hiring conditions have improved.

Miami-Dade ended January with an unemployment rate of 10.3 percent, up slightly from 10.2 percent in December.

MONROE COUNTY SCHOOLS

Troubled charter school plans to expand

By SEAN KINNEY
skinney@keynoter.com

With charter school management firm Academica now at the helm, the Key West Collegiate School board is expecting rapid growth in the coming years for the struggling Stock Island high school.

Concurrently, Monroe County School District Superintendent Jesus Jara is crafting policy that would place enrollment caps on the six Florida Keys charter schools in an effort to avoid budgetary surprises in the fiscal year that starts July 1. Founded in 1999, Miami-based Academica operates more than 60 schools in Miami-Dade and Broward counties, plus schools in California, Texas, Nevada, Utah and Georgia. The company charges $450 per student, presently being deferred at Key West Collegiate. Collegiate School board President Todd German said he sees Collegiate and Keys charters in general growing stronger in terms of enrollment. "We have stated our goal is to have 100 students enrolled in the Collegiate School for our second year," German said. There are now around 40 students and the school has been through two principals since opening in August. "Going forward," German continued, "it is hard to provide definite numbers but it is easy to speculate that the school will grow rapidly and dramatically." Jara said that in recent meetings with Academica staff, the goal is to grow up to 200 students at Collegiate, which all involved have agreed would present a challenge, as the school leases just a handful of classrooms on the Florida Keys Community College campus.

There are more than 1,100 students in Keys charters, with 200 of those coming after the current school year started — and after Jara and his team had fixed the budget contribu- tion to all charters at $6.27 million. The new students required corresponding funds, about $900,000, that had to come out of a reserve fund, further damaging an already perilous financial situation. Charter schools are public schools not held to the same rigorous testing, reporting and curriculum standards as traditional public schools. Local school districts act as state funding conduits, channeling money to charters and retaining a 5 percent administrative fee. Jara said the concept of enrollment caps isn't meant to discourage growth, but to allow for precise budgeting. For more on this story, go to www.KeysNet.com.

Navy exercise may mean traffic delays

A weeklong security exercise planned for Lower Keys U.S. Navy installations could slow traffic in some areas and create delays getting onto base. Exercise Solid Curtain-Citadel Shield will be conducted at bases across the country, Naval Air Station spokeswoman Trice Denny said. The goal is "to enhance the training and readiness of Navy security forces to respond to threats to installations and units." The U.S. Navy operates Boca Chica Field on Boca Chica Key, and bases in Key West on Trumbo Point, Sigsbee Park and Truman Annex. Expect heavy traffic near Sigsbee Park and Trumbo Point. The exercise will run from all next week, through March 24.

Canes and the Dolphins split in tennis

Each squad victorious with sweeps

Keynoter Staff

The Marathon High School and Coral Shores tennis teams split their Tuesday match in Tavernier.

The Dolphin boys won 7-0 while the Hurricane girls won by the same score. Marathon coach Chris Bull says "a virus has been going through [his] team and both the No. 3 and No. 5 [girl] players were home sick, leaving the girls team down to just four players on the travel team."

"The boys once again took it on the chin but played tough," Hurricane coach Blake Fry said. "Each match was pretty close. Once our guys get a good off-season in, they will turn things around. They are all returning next year."

On the girls' side, Coral Shores' Erica Williams beat Marina Wiatt, 8-2; Hurricane Ellie Leopold defeated Jackie Clairmont; Coral Shores' Savannah Koval upended Regan Durkin by the same score; and Dolphin Arianna Patterson fell to Katie Fry, 8-0.

In doubles, Wiatt and Durkin were upended by Fry and Williams, 8-0, and Fry and Leopold defeated Clairmont and Patterson by the same score.

For the boys, Marathon's Vincenzo Massaro defeated Guy Snell, 8-0; Dolphin Jamine Guo topped Nick Hortensi 8-5; Marathon's Emilio Alvear got past Cole Houser 8-3; Marathon's Jake Coldren stopped Sean Anderson 8-4; and Dolphin Stevie Nelson upended Garrett Munshews 8-6.

In doubles, Dolphins Massaro and Coldren teamed to defeat Snell and Anderson, 8-2; and Coral Shores House and Hortensi fell to Cory Benton and Alvear.

On Wednesday, Marathon's boys beat International Studies, 4-3, at the Marathon Community Park.

The difference was the No. 1 doubles match — 40 minutes long — won by Massaro and Coldren over Augusto Tomszay and Paul Miniet, 8-6.

"That was a great experience for Vincenzo and Jake. They were grinning ear to ear coming off the court," Bull said.

Also winning in doubles were Guo and Alvear, 8-0, over Gonsalo Haner and Pablo Sanchez. "The boys knew they had to win both doubles matches and Jamine and Emilio started hot and finished their match quick," the coach said.

Hughes replaces Hughes on sidelines

The former assistant say 'it's my turn'

By DICK WAGNER
Keynoter Contributor

John Hughes, a 44-year-old physical education teacher at Poinciana Elementary, is the new football coach at Key West High School.

Known as Johnny, he succeeds his uncle, Jerry Hughes, who resigned on March 2.

"A committee of five made the recommendation and I concurred," said Principal Amber Bosco, a longtime friend of Johnny Hughes. A former offensive-line coach and defensive coordinator for the Conchs, Hughes has never been a head coach, although he dismissed that as a detriment.

"You have to start somewhere, and it's my turn now," he said Thursday. "This will be a total team effort. We want to get people excited about going to Conch games."

Athletic Director Ralph Henriquez said there were four other applicants, three from out of town plus Robert Bulness, the police resource officer at Key West High.

Hughes "wowed us,"

John Hughes succeeds his uncle Jerry as coach of the Key West High football team. He says stressing academics among his players is a priority.

Robert James and Jerry Hughes — said he may install an option offense similar to the one run by Navy, which would give the Key West team a new look.

Because the Monroe County School District is financially strapped, it is possible, school officials said, that the $3,500 stipend received by coaches may be dropped in the fall. Asked if he would mind working for free, Hughes laughed and said, "I'm not in it for the money."

With spring practice six weeks away, Hughes needs to select a staff and put together a fall schedule. A spring game, he said, has not yet been lined up. He said that Dave Van Loon, a former Conch assistant, likely will be his defensive coordinator.

The Conchs were 5-4 last season and 22-15 in four years under Jerry Hughes.

It had long been believed that Bosco wanted Johnny Hughes to be the next coach, but in an e-mail Thursday, the principal wrote: "Mr. Hughes earned the position because of his coaching abilities, comprehensive plan to build a program with strong goals, and his knowledge and passion for Conch football. Any personal friendship with anyone at Key West High School was not a factor."

KEY WEST SOFTBALL

Price homer lifts Lady Conchs

Team is now 4-7 after an 0-7 start

By DICK WAGNER
Keynoter Contributor

The surging Key West High School softball team pulled out an extra-inning victory over St. Brendan on Wednesday in a District 16-4A game in Miami.

The Conchs broke a 4-4 tie in the top of the eighth inning when they scored four runs, the last three on an inside-the-park home run by Britney Price.

"It was a bomb," said coach Steve Wells. "I've never seen her hit a ball better."

It was the second time in three games that Price was a hero; last Saturday, her homer in the last inning beat John Carroll.

The Conchs led, 2-0, after the first inning, but the Sabres scored four in the third. Key West tied it at 6-6 in the sixth.

Senior pitcher Rachel Quad went the distance for the victory, and was backed by a 12-hit attack. Lauren Schoneck, Raquel Schoneck, Devin Osterhoudt, Kendall Galvan and Leci Archer each had two hits.

It was the fourth consecutive victory for the Conchs, who improved to 4-7 and 2-0 in the district. "We're starting to click a little bit," Wells said. "When you're doing good, you're going to do better because it's contagious."

The Conchs will play University High at noon today at the Back Yard.

Conch girls split two in tennis

The boys team defeats Pace, is now 7-3

By DICK WAGNER
Keynoter Contributor

The Key West High girls tennis team split two matches this week and the boys team won the one it played.

On Thursday, the Conch girls lost, 5-1, to Venice High, which had come down on the ferry from Fort Myers and spent a day bicycling around the island.

The only Key West victory was in doubles with Bridget Behmke and Olivia Delaune winning, 8-5.

In singles, No. 1 Behmke, No. 2 Delaune, No. 4 Savannah Robinson and No. 5 Fernanda Caceres all lost, 8-2. No. 3 Tori Fitzsimmons fared better, losing, 8-3, mainly because of double faults.

Coach Bill Butler's team, which fell to 3-7, won, 5-1, on Wednesday against Monsignor Pace in Miami.

The Venice High School girls tennis team on Thursday heads on rented bicycles toward Key West High and a match with the Conchs.

Behmke lost, 8-0, but Fitzsimmons (8-1), Robinson (8-1), Caceres (8-0) and Jase Schilleci (8-2) all won. Behmke and Fitzsimmons won the doubles match.

The Key West boys also defeated Pace, 4-2, on Wednesday to improve to 7-3. Only No. 1 Justin Poon lost (8-4). "He beat himself," said coach John Moeller. Singles winners were John Quinn, Sonny Knowles, Griffin Saunders and Colin Hetzler.

The Conch teams will conclude the regular season at 3 p.m. March 29 at Marathon.

Shade can equal lower energy bills

Need to know sun's direction before planting

When it comes to energy in the Keys, solar can go both ways: You can install solar panels to power your home to reduce or eliminate your monthly electric bill — or the sun can heat up your house so much that your bill is sky high.

Installing solar panels can be expensive and might not be an option. But with the right landscaping, you can reduce the impact of the sun's heat on your house and lower your bills.

Solar heat absorbed through windows and roofs can increase your air conditioner use. Incorporating shading concepts into your landscape can help reduce the solar heat gain, reducing your cooling costs.

Shading and evapotranspiration (the process by which a plant actively moves and releases water vapor) from trees can reduce surrounding air temperatures as much as 9 degrees. Because cool air set-

A Marathon duplex gets a lot of shade from this tree, helping to keep the energy bill down.

Trees near the ground, air temperatures directly under trees can be as much as 25 degrees cooler than air temperatures above nearby blacktop.

Using shade effectively requires you to know the size, shape and location of the moving shadow that your shading device casts.

Trees can be selected with appropriate sizes, densities and shapes for almost any shading application. To provide continuous shade or to block heavy winds, use dense trees or shrubs.

Trees with high, spreading crowns (i.e., leaves and branches) can be planted to the south of your home to provide maximum summertime roof shading. Trees with crowns lower to the ground are more appropriate to the west, where shade is needed from lower afternoon sun angles.

Although a slow-growing tree may require many years of growth before it shades your roof, it will generally live longer than a fast-growing tree. Also, because slow-growing trees often have deeper roots and stronger branches, they are less prone to breakage by windstorms. Slow-growing trees can also be more drought resistant than fast-growing trees.

A 6-foot to 8-foot tree planted near your home will begin shading windows the first year. Depending on the species and the home, the tree will shade the roof in five to 10 years.

Trees, shrubs and ground-cover plants can also shade the ground and pavement around the home. This reduces heat radiation and cools the air before it reaches your home's walls and windows. Use a large bush or row of shrubs to shade a patio or driveway. Plant a hedge to shade a sidewalk. Build a trellis for climbing vines to shade a patio area.

Vines can also shade walls during their first growing season. A lattice or trellis with climbing vines, or a planter box with trailing vines, shades the home's perimeter while admitting cooling breezes to the shaded area.

Shrubs planted close to the house will fill in rapidly and begin shading walls and windows within a few years. However, avoid allowing dense foliage to grow immediately next to a home where wetness or continual humidity are problems.

Well-landscaped homes in wet areas allow winds to flow around the home, keeping the home and its surrounding soil reasonably dry.

MARATHON

The 'Titanic' sunk in 1912 without even making it through its first voyage.

'Titanic' meal is planned

An April 15 community dinner from the students in the Marathon, Key West and Coral Shores high schools culinary programs is themed around the last meal on the Titanic.

The Titanic left on its maiden voyage from Southampton, England, on April 10, 1912, and sank after hitting an iceberg April 15 while crossing the North Atlantic on its way to New York Harbor. Seven hundred passengers and crew survived but 1,500 died.

Students and instructors from all three high schools will participate in the 11-course dinner, which replicates the last dinner served aboard the Titanic. It's at Sombrero Country Club in Marathon. Tickets cost $100 per person and benefit all three schools' culinary programs. First Course, hors d'oeuvres, oysters; second course, cream of barley; third course, poached salmon, cucumbers; fourth course, filet mignon, vegetable marrow farci; fifth course, lamb, mint sauce, roast duckling, apple sauce, chateau potatoes, green pea, creamed carrots; sixth course, punch Romaine; seventh course, roast squash and cress; eighth course, asparagus vinaigrette; ninth course, pate de foie gras, celery; 10th course, Waldorf pudding, chocolate and vanilla eclairs, French ice cream; 11th course, cheese and fruit.

Tickets are available by sending an e-mail to dolphinbistro@yahoo.com or calling 289-2480, Ext. 55422.

LIVING BRIEFS

Side Dish Challenge deadline approaches

The Marathon Alumni Athletic Club has its second annual Side Dish Challenge, a judged cooking competition, slated for April 26 at Marathon High School — but the deadline to sign up is noon March 31.

Cost to enter is $10, with proceeds going to the Marathon High School sports booster group. The winner gets $300, second place is worth $200, third is $150 and fourth is $100. To enter, participants must live within Marathon school boundaries.

To sign up, call Kevin Woodland at 743-1853.

St. Patrick's Day parade is today

The folks who live and visit Key Colony Beach will be wearin' the green today for the annual St. Patrick's Day Parade.

A tradition that has fallen by the wayside, it's coming back this year, according to organizer Jack Crowley.

The American Legion color guard will lead the floats and marchers, with parade participants gathering at 4 p.m. at Coury Drive at 12th Street. The parade kicks off at 5 and travels down Ocean Drive West.

Tours, reception at diving museum

The History of Diving Museum at mile marker 83

bayside is offering guided tours Monday through Wednesday at 5 p.m. each day.

Leading them is Sally Bauer, who, with her husband Joe Bauer, founded the museum with artifacts they spent four decades collecting. Tours last about 90 minutes. Cost is $5 in addition to admission. Call 664-9737 to reserve a space.

Also at the museum, from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday, there's a reception to celebrate the return of the Commercial Diving Hall of Fame Monument. It includes food and drinks, and costs $15 for museum members and Florida Keys Community College students, $25 for others.

Ophthalmologist talks eye health

Mariners Hospital in Tavernier hosts "The Aging Eye," a seminar led by ophthalmologist Zachary Segal, on Tuesday. The free seminar will be held from 6 to 7:30 p.m. in the hospital's main conference room at mile marker 91.5 bayside.

As with other parts of the body, the eyes undergo changes as they age. Cataracts, one of the top three aging eye issues, are a normal part of that process. Segal will discuss new technologies available with cataract surgery, including lens options. He also will cover the impact of diabetes on eye health.

Reservations are required. To reserve a space, call 434-3400.

Everglades missiles on tap Wednesday

"Missiles in the Glades: How Everglades National Park was Squeezed Between Cold War Superpowers" is the focus of a Wednesday talk at the visitor center inside John Pennekamp Coral Reef State Park, mile marker 102.5 oceanside.

Everglades National Park Ranger Ryan Meyer, who works at the Nike missile site at the park, will discuss the intense national security situation of the Cuban Missile Crisis and how the River of Grass was caught between the two superpowers in the struggle to defend our nation.

His presentation is part of the Delicate Balance of Nature lecture series sponsored by the Dagny Johnson Key Largo Hammock Botanical State Park. Doors open at 7 p.m., the talk starts at 7:30. To find out more, call Elena Muratori at 451-1202

A comedy/mystery explores loneliness

'Match' comes to The Red Barn Theatre

L'Attitudes Staff

The Red Barn Theatre's production of "Match," a comedy written by Stephen Belber, opens Tuesday, March 20.

Tom Luna plays "Tobi," the eccentric dance instructor, choreographer and teacher.

The role was made famous by Frank Langella's 2004 New York run, which brought wide acclaim for Langella, who played with such intensity the New York Times reviewer wrote the actor "fills the space with the social energy of Le Cirque 2000 during a weekday lunch hour."

There's the scarf knitting, toenail cutting, repeated trips to the kitchen to set out bowls of snack food, a manic energy that drives this character study.

Orchestra brings history of innovation to the Keys

"SONYC is a rarity among instrumental ensembles of its size, its members possess the vision and talent to communicate with great authority the full breadth and emotional power of the string repertoire."

— Robert Spano - Music Director, Atlanta Symphony (formerly Music Director of the Brooklyn Philharmonic)

L'Attitudes Staff

No conductor, no bow ties, just strings.

Now in its 12th season, the String Orchestra of New York City has established itself as one of NYC's leading young ensembles.

They regularly perform at New York's Merkin Concert Hall and Weill Recital Hall at Carnegie Hall.

And they're coming to the Keys for a three-concert series March 18-20.

At 4 p.m. Sunday, they'll perform at St. Paul's Church in Key West; then Monday, March 19, they play at San Pablo Catholic Church in Marathon, and finish their Keys run on Tuesday, March 20, at Island Community Church in Islamorada.

The Key West program is sponsored by Impromptu Classical Concerts of Key West; the Marathon and Islamorada appearances will be the closing offerings this season from the Florida Keys Concert Association.

Tickets for Sunday's concert cost $20; the Monday concert costs $30 and $25 for Tuesday's concert in Islamorada. San Pablo Catholic Church is located at 550 122nd St., oceanside, off the Overseas Highway at mile marker 53.5. Marathon. The Islamorada concert will be at the Island Community Church, mile marker 83.5 in Islamorada. St. Paul's Episcopal Church is located at 401 Duval St., Key West. Monday and Tuesday concerts begin at 7:30 p.m.

A conductorless chamber ensemble, SONYC members rehearse in a collaborative effort "that allows each musician to have an impact on the artistic process. The flexibility and intimacy of a string quartet are thus fused with the power and scope of an orchestra."

Chocolate Festival goes bananas March 25

All forms of sweet treat on the menu

All things chocolate are on the playbill Sunday, March 25, when the Southernmost House hosts the 10th Annual Willie Wonka Chocolate Festival.

This fund-raiser for the Cancer Foundation of the Florida Keys relies on local businesses and individuals donating money and in-kind for this event, which features lots of cakes, cookies, candies, doughnuts, cupcakes and other culinary creations that employ chocolate.

A popular feature from last year returns: the chocolate fountain draws a crowd with an array of goodies to dip - strawberries, Krispies, bananas, pretzels.

The Aztecs are credited with inventing chocolate as a beverage used in ceremonial drinks and given elite status among the emperor's court.

Chocolate was served cold and frothy. Aztec artwork shows the preparation included creating foam, sort of like today's expresso concoctions. The foam was believed to hold chocolate's fundamental essence.

Based on artwork, preparation involved pouring the chocolate mixture vertically from one vessel to another, back and forth to make it froth.

Recent research places the initial use of chocolate as a beverage in Puerto Escondido, Honduras, roughly circa 1,100 B.C.

Ironically, scientists analyzing the cacao residue now

Montezuma, ruler of the Aztecs, depicted with cacao pods. Beans were crushed and used to make a frothy beverage.

believe the Aztecs actually set out to make beer.

No matter, both are intoxicating in their own way.

If you love chocolate, the Southernmost House, 1400 Duval St., Key West is the place to be March 25 from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

For more information, or to contribute, call Doria Goodrich at 293-7104.

The Cancer Foundation of the Florida Keys is an all-volunteer, grass roots, non-profit organization dedicated to helping cancer patients while they are undergoing treatment to battle cancer.

All funds received are given to those in need, paying rent/mortgage, utilities, and other living expenses during treatment.

Cacao beans were first used in beverage making around 1,100 B.C.

LITERATURE

Pulitzer finalist talks at library lecture series

Studios hosts Joy Williams 6 p.m. March 19

Novelist Joy Williams, finalist for the Pulitzer Prize for her fourth novel, "The Quick and the Dead," will speak at the Friends of the Key West Library lecture series Monday, March 19.

The Massachusetts-

born writer, who has taught at the University of Houston, University of Florida, University of Iowa and University of Arizona, was a finalist for the National Book critics Circle Award in 2001 for a collection of essays, "Ill Nature."

Conde Nast Traveler described her 2003 book, "The Florida Keys: A History and Guide," as "one of the best guide-books ever written," calling it "a magnificent, tragic-comic guide."

Her talk will be delivered at The Studios of Key West, 600 White St., Doors open at 5:30 p.m. and seating is first-come, first seated. The program begins at 6 p.m.

Troy Anderson performs March 30

Satchmo trumpeter plays Keys concert at Cultural Center

Broward musician cut his teeth with Bridgemen

Troy Anderson can't be the the world's only singing bartender, but he may be the only singing, trumpet-playing bartender who turns into Louis Armstrong.

Anderson, who work's at Ohara's Jazz & Blues Cafe in Broward County, will perform a concert at the Murray E. Nelson Government and Cultural Center, mile marker 102, bayside, on March 30.

A reception begins at 7 p.m. with the concert to follow at 8 p.m.

Anderson will be accompanied by Doug Bickel, keyboard and musical director at the Cultural Center; Gary Thomas on bass, and Danny Burger on drums.

Tickets cost $20 at the door.

The event is being sponsored by the Friends of the Key Largo Cultural Center.

Here's what Stu Grant, a South Florida jazz radio DJ, had to say about Anderson: "Mr Anderson has had the pleasure of sitting in with jazz personalities such as Jesse Jones, Nicole Henry, Don Kaufman, Danny Burger, Ben Champion, Coco Rouizer, Mike Harvey, Nick Orta, Nicole Yarling, Dave Shelly, Jeff Watkins, Eric Allison, Rick Harris and Brian Murphy.

"Mr. Anderson not only plays like pops, sings like pops, if you didn't know any better; well, you know where I'm going with this."

The jazz trumpeter and singer began playing at age 10, growing up in a Bahamian family in New Jersey, where he played in church brass bands and later with the Bayonne Bridgemen Drum & Bugle Corps.

He later spent a tour in the U.S. Army, performing in Germany where he played trumpet with German Dixieland bands.

"Anderson is simply amazing as Louis Armstrong," wrote Sean Piccoli, reviewing Anderson's performance for the Sun-Sentinel newspaper.

Art is happening at Casa Marina March 18

AIDS Help auction theme 'Life begins'

The Casa Marina's Grand Ballroom will be transformed Sunday, March 18, into a giant art happening for the 22nd annual AIDS Help Theme Art Auction. A preview and reception begin at 4:30 p.m. with the auction starting at 6 p.m. The theme this year: Life begins. Seeds, seed pods, nuts and other organic materials will be seen in abundance in artworks presented for this show. Organizers "chose the subject to reflect, in part, the new beginnings represented by the completion of the 50-unit Poinciana Royale ho using project." Artists are likely to employ Poinciana seeds among other materials used in their interpretations, which range from ceramic to fiber, paint and even precious gems. Former Key West City Commissioner Ed Scales will be the celebrity auctioneer. "AIDS Help is grateful for the loyalty and continuous support from the artists and, as always, hopes that they will find artistic curiosity and satisfaction in this year's theme," said Betsy Dietz, event chair. Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres will be served during the preview, along with a cash bar. There is no admission charge. For more information, call 296-6196 or visit: www.aidshelp.cc icians and soloists, who are members of outstanding chamber groups and have won international competitions, band together for larger-scale orchestra performances. The group has given more than 100 performances and more than 70 educational outreach concerts for children of all ages and backgrounds in NYC's public schools. A pioneer in the concert hall, SONYC has given 17 World and U.S. premieres. Pulitzer-Prize-winning composers Paul Moravec and Aaron Jay Kernis had this to say about the group: "SONYC is a composer's dream" (Moravec), and "[SONYC is] opening up the world again for the audience to become more emotionally and experientially involved" (Kernis). The group won the 2006 Meet the Composers Residency Grant, which funded performances and outreach projects throughout New York City. MUSIC

Key West Pops stage musical 'Kiss Me Kate'

For Cole Porter fans, the music is the thing. And the Key West Pops Orchestra hopes to demonstrate just that with "Kiss Me, Kate," which plays the Tennessee Williams Theatre March 24-25. "So In Love," "Too Darn Hot," and "Another Opening, Another Show" are among the tunes that many remember. "Kiss Me, Kate" won the Tony Award for Best Musical in 1949. And it turned out to be Porter's biggest Broadway success, running for more than 1,000 performances after its 1948 debut. The musical is structured as a play within a play, with a musical version of William Shakespeare's "The Taming of the Shrew."

Posters show 'Kiss Me Kate' productions over the years since the Cole Porter favorite was first produced on Broadway in 1948.

The Pops presentation will feature Susan Powell and Broadway veteran Richard White. Others in the cast include Kyla Piscopink, Eric Davis and Eric Haley. Lee Roy Reams directs the show, which closes out this winter season for the Key West Pops. Performances begin at 7:30 p.m. March 24-25. Ticket prices range from $30 to $100 and can be purchased by calling 305.295.7676; or buy online at www.keystix.com.

much of his career living and working abroad, and most of his work has been for opera, where dance plays second fiddle on stage. As the audience figures out this couple's real motive, the story hearkens back to events that took place 40 years earlier. Curtainup.com writes:

"The plot hinges on a situation driven by a is he or isn't he? and will he or won't he admit it? and where do we go from here?" The New York Daily News reviewer wrote: "Uproariously funny, deeply moving, enthralling theatre. Belber's Match has great beauty and tenderness and abounds in wit." Langella won a Tony Award nomination for his work in "Match," which was Belber's Broadway debut. Belber's career spans not just theatre. He won an Emmy nomination for his writing on "The Laramie Project," an HBO Films production. His TV credits include "Rescue Me" and "Law & Order SVU" (where he was staff writer). He has received commissions from Manhattan Theater Club, Playwrights Horizons, The Huntington Theater and Arena Stage. "Match" runs through April 20. Tickets range from $30-$65. Call 296-9911, or visit: www.keystix.com. The Red Barn Theatre is located at 319 Duval St., Rear.
