Pompano Beach incumbents returned to seats

Pompano Beach - On Jan. 31, three commissioners in Pompano Beach were re-elected by acclamation as none of them faced challengers.

On March 20 at noon, Commissioners Barry Dockswell, George Brummer and Rex Hardin will serve additional two-year terms.

In addition, commissioners will select one commissioner to serve as vice-mayor for a one-year term.

The ceremony will take place at city hall, 100 W. Atlantic Blvd., Pompano Beach.

Beach nourishment not a popular idea in sand-rich LBTS

By Judy Vik

PELICAN STAFF

Lauderdale-By-The-Sea - A proposed multi-million dollar beach nourishment project received mostly negative reviews Monday after the commission heard a county administrator describe the plan.

Eric Myers, natural resources administrator for the county, said two sections of the town's beach could be part of a larger nourishment project which will place sand south of Anglin's Pier to Terra Mar Street in Fort Lauderdale and north of the Ocean Colony Condominium to Southeast 4 Street in Pompano Beach.

Myers said he wanted to take the town's response to the county commission in April.

Cost of the revetment is estimated at $38 million if material is pumped from offshore and $45 million if it

Town attempts to charge condo residents for bridge repairs

By Judy Wilson

PELICAN STAFF

Hillsboro Beach - Residents of Island House had a nasty shock recently when they received a letter from the town making them responsible for a costly bridge repair.

Former condo president Joe Germano brought their case to the city commission this week asking in essence if the entrance bridge to their condominium was deeded to the town in 1966, how can the 64 unit owners now be liable for the repairs?

Germano said gas tax money designated for transportation costs is collected by the town each year. Germano said he understood at one time there was $100,000 set aside to maintain the bridge. "Now that the bridge needs repairs, they want to give it back," he said.

North beach doomed unless sand restoration is ongoing experts say

By Judy Wilson

PELICAN STAFF

Hillsboro Beach - The town's north beach, continually scoured of sand, is likely to always be a 'hot spot' ocean engineers told the commission this week.

Of seven possible erosion-prevention options, only one - submerged breakwaters - appears to have any value here and obtaining permits for such structures is almost impossible, said Tim Blankenship, Director of Coastal Systems

International, or CSI.

The town commissioned CSI to study available solutions to the constant loss of sand on the north 5,000 feet of beach. Last year, a $6 million nourishment project placed 340,000 cubic yards of sand there. Today, due to winter winds and tides, none of it is visible. "It's still there under the water," said Commissioner Claire Schubert. "Some of it will come back this summer."

Seeking a solution to the ongoing sand shift, CSI engineers studied seven scenarios: 1. Do nothing. 2.

Nourish every four to six years. 3. Modify Deerfield's groin system to the north which is blamed for creating the hot spot. 4. Extend the groin system into Hillsboro Beach. 5. Install T-groins in Hillsboro Beach. 6. Install a breakwater that rises above the surface a short way offshore. 7. Install a submerged breakwater.

The results of all the models in the study are contingent on sand from the Boca Raton Inlet continuing to be pumped into the littoral drift which

Tip-A-Cop at Bru's Room on March 22 and help Special Olympic Athletes make it to regional games

By Michael d'Oliveira

Pompano Beach

Members of the Broward Sheriff's Office will soon temporarily trade in their badges for serving trays.

On March 22, from 5 to 9 p.m., Bru's Room, 235 S. Federal Hwy., Pompano Beach, will become the latest restaurant to host Tip-A-Cop, a fundraiser benefiting Special Olympics athletes in Broward County and the Law Enforcement Torch Run for Special Olympics.

"It's not just BSO, its pretty much every law enforcement department in Broward County," said Erika

Huerta, Pompano BSO road patrol deputy. "It's just a way for law enforcement to get together for the Special Olympics."

During the event BSO personnel will assist Bru's Room's staff, serving drinks and bringing food orders to tables. And at the end of the meal an envelope is left for customers to leave a tip with 100 percent of the amount going to Special Olympics.

"We don't take the waiters' tips . . . that's separate," said Huerta. And diners who come out for the event will have a chance to meet those benefiting from it. "The athletes will be at the event helping us serve the food," said Huerta.

Bru's Room has hosted Tip-A-Cop for at least the last 10 years.

"We do a lot of events where we give back to the community," said Barbara Gobbi, marketing director for Bru's Room. "That comes from the culture of Bru's Room. We've been really blessed here. We like to pay it

Building permits go virtual for faster service

Pompano Beach - Builders anxious to get their plans reviewed may be able to put the shovel in the sand sooner than ever.

This month the city began offering e-reviews. Builders can submit their plans to the city's web site which allows different departments to check them simultaneously.

Needed revisions will be highlighted and returned electronically.

The change also reduces driving time and production costs. A presentation of the e-review took place this week at city hall. For information, call 954-786-4601.

Blanche Ely Tigers win state basketball championship 78 to 46

By Michael d'Oliveira

PELICAN STAFF

Pompano Beach – In the end, it all came down to defense.

On March 3, the Blanche Ely Tigers varsity boys basketball team defeated Oak Ridge 78 to 46, winning the Class 7a state championship.

“That’s all we practiced on,” said forward and co-captain Clide Gifford about defense.

The 30-point blow-out was standard fare for the Tigers, who regularly defeated opponents by wide margins and only lost two games all season; the state title brought Ely’s winning streak to 18 games.

The day before, the Tigers beat Saint Petersburg 62 to 29. “They’re extremely well-coached. They have incredible depth, and they play as a team,” said Malcom Spence, assistant principal of athletics. “People don’t know but all the stars have to align. We were mostly injury free and had won the tough games.”

Gifford thought the competition would be a little harder but victory was no less sweet, saying he had something similar to tears of joy. “I didn’t cry though.”

Co-captain and point

Guard Dallas Cameron also credited good defense for their state title. He added teams outside of South Florida weren’t prepared for their style of defense. “They weren’t used to really seeing the depth, the speed.”

Cameron said good defense forces teams into a lot of turnovers and brings in easy points.

The school and community will be celebrating the Tigers’ victory, the school’s “A” state rating and the state finish of the school’s cheerleader and wrestling teams tomorrow. There will be a parade at 9:30 a.m. followed by a pep rally at 10:30 a.m. with food and music at the school’s football stadium at 11:30 a.m.

“We can balance academics with athletics,” said Johnson. “I’m proud of the students, the community, the teachers, the coaches, all the staff members.”

The team has been invited to the 2012 ESPN National High School Invitational Basketball Tournament, March 29 to 31 in Maryland.

Chamber board plans 'new direction' without 10-year veteran leader

By Judy Vik

PELICAN STAFF

Lauderdale-By-The-Sea

The board of directors of the Lauderdale-By-The-Sea Chamber of Commerce has terminated the employment of Judy Swaggerty, longtime chamber executive director.

The decision was nearly unanimous, according to Mark Silver, newly elected board president. The vote was 11 to 1 in favor of asking for Swaggerty's resignation.

Swaggerty was asked to sign a letter of resignation last Friday.

Silver said he didn't believe she has done so. He did not want to go into details of what the letter offered in terms of severance pay.

Asked why she was terminated and if any one incident led to the board's decision, Silver said, "I believe things happen for a reason. Sometimes people move on and go to another chapter in life. It's all in God's time. It's what it is."

"It was a board vote, and directors do the voting. They're in control," Silver said.

Swaggerty had been chamber executive director since January 2001. Prior to that she had been program manager for Lauderdale-By-The-Sea Main Street organization.

Asked about the decision to terminate her, Paul Novak, a board member and former chamber president, said only, "The board has spoken." He referred questions to Silver.

The chamber is moving in a new direction, Silver said. The board decided to form committees, such as finance, marketing, events and membership, so they can better delegate and keep more organized.

At this Thursday's meeting committees were to be formed. "We'll get ideas and take baby steps to move forward in a positive way. That's very important," Silver said.

Silver, owner of Argenti Designer Jewelers, is taking part in a new ad hoc business group working with the town to plan a Family Fun Week in June.

"We will do all we can to bring together a brotherhood with the chamber and Connie [Hoffmann, town manager] and Pat Himelberger," Hoffmann's assistant.

"Pat's doing a lot of wonderful work on a great idea," Silver said, referring to the June event. He is attempting to get chamber members involved. "We're trying to do something at a time when business is very slow," he said.

The chamber board named Malcolm McClintock, a board member, as interim executive director. He is owner of Alabaska, Inc., a restaurant consulting business, and a restaurant review columnist for The Pelican.

Silver said the board is not looking for a new executive director now. Instead they're "reorganizing and straightening out."

Ron Piersante, a chamber volunteer for 14 years, was not happy with the decision to terminate Swaggerty. In his dealings with her, he said, "I find her to be most cooperative and efficient."

City and management union at odds; contract in mediation

By Judy Wilson

PELICAN STAFF

Deerfield Beach

– The city and the union representing mid-level managers are engaged in an impasse hearing today after prolonged negotiations to write employment contracts have failed.

The city's chief negotiator, Personnel Director Mike Milanowski, said attempts to obtain an agreement with the Professional Managers and Supervisors Association, or PMSA, began in August of 2010 and quickly went to impasse because the parties were "not even close."

Sticking points were the city's demand to rollback merit raises, ask employees to take a five percent decrease in pay and contribute 10 percent to their healthcare plans. The city's other unionized employees have accepted those conditions.

A mediation hearing was held Dec. 1 which resulted in a settlement and a ratification vote Jan. 13 by union members. The city commission approved the contract on Jan. 24. On Jan. 23, the union notified Milanowski it could not stand behind the ratification vote and subsequently it was reversed 22 to 0 leading to today's hearing.

Affected are 52 employees in mid-management positions such as facilities manager, fleet manager, office supervisor, recycling supervisor, parks and recreation managers. Milanowski said annual pay scales range from $50,000 to $85,000.

For today's hearing, the city has added another condition to its demands, a further reduction in pay of 15 percent in an attempt to recoup some of the money lost since January.

Attorney Brett Schneider will represent the city at the impasse hearing being held at the public works facility. The executive director of the PMSA had been representing local employees

Lauderdale-By-The Sea commissioners should rethink their take on beach re-nourishment

On Tuesday, when Lauderdale-By-The-Sea commissioners turned their backs on beach re-nourishment, placing cost over value, we think they erred.

Re-nourishing our beaches is an expensive and troubling headache. Months of dust, heavy trucks and piles of sand will be offensive to beach goers, tourists and hoteliers.

The federally-funded project, expected to be in the millions with some costs sustained by the state and county, will leave about 12.5 percent of the bill to rest on the shoulders of the taxpayers who live in this small tourist mecca.

We believe they should go ahead and write the check for a much larger cause--that cause being the future viability of tourism here for generations yet to come.

It won't be fun, and it really isn't fair.

It's not fair mainly because earlier pioneers and later real estate moguls traded the future of the beach for immediate wealth. We all rue the day that Florida beaches were fair game for builders.

But now, the idea of "fair" rests on the shoulders of town and city leaders who will not promulgate this problem.

Florida beaches will need re-nourishment for as long as we live on them, and that's the tough pill to swallow. But this is about nature itself as well as the nature of man.

Commissioner Stuart Dodd offered some thoughts this week to his colleagues.

"I don't think we can bury our heads in the sand," Dodd said. "What if we needed the sand? They are our neighbors."

Erosion is the enemy of Florida beaches. It is an enemy as real as a platoon of soldiers determined to ruin us. Erosion will swallow our beaches wherever it occurs, and when that sand has washed away, the enemy will seek more of the shore.

Dodd's words are wise. We hope the rest of the commission will open up their ears and rethink the critical importance of re-nourishment for their beach and for this town's future.

Message: We must stand together to face the common enemy especially before it turns on us.

Bike lanes offer insane alternatives for cyclists on Federal Highway

U.S.1 and Copans Road, a truck makes a right hand turn forcing cyclists to change lanes.

We must share the road, like it or not

The photograph above depicts Federal Highway where a bicycle path has been routed across traffic to allow vehicles to pass to the right for a right-hand turn. Tricky business for vehicle and cyclist.

With this maneuver, the bike path puts the cyclist between two vehicle pathways: the car moving ahead and the car turning.

While the idea of having cyclists weave through traffic appears to be an insane idea, it is legal.

According to the U.S. Department of Transportation, cyclists have a right to travel on all roads with the exception of turnpikes and Interstate Highways.

This month is bicycle safety month, and it's a good time for drivers to reconsider their habits at the wheel.

Now is the time to remove all distractions from our driving so that we can control the wheel, remembering that we cannot control the cyclists.

The phones need to be off-limits along with make-up applications, iPads, arguments with passengers or anything else that distracts us at the wheel.

And for the cyclists, there are laws. Here are some.

A cyclist on a roadway must ride on the side reserved for his direction of travel. Riding in the opposite direction, so as to face oncoming traffic, doubles the risk of collision with a motor vehicle and is a contributing factor in about 15 percent of bicycle-motor vehicle crashes.

A bicycle operated between sunset and sunrise must be equipped with a lamp on the front exhibiting a white light visible from 500 feet to the front and both a red reflector and a lamp on the rear exhibiting a red light visible from 600 feet to the rear. Over half of fatal bicycle crashes in Florida occur after sunset, even though most cycling is done during daylight hours.

A bicycle rider or passenger under 16 years of age must wear a bicycle helmet that is properly fitted, fastened securely and meets a nationally recognized standard. Head injuries account for about one-third of hospital emergency room visits for bicycle-related injuries. The role model effect of adults is an important factor in enhancing helmet wearing by youth.

Bicyclists must use a fixed, regular seat for riding.

A bicycle may not be used to carry more persons at one time than the number for which it is designed or equipped.

An adult bicyclist may carry a child in a backpack or sling, child seat or trailer designed to carry children.

A bicyclist may not allow a passenger to remain in a child seat or carrier when not in immediate control of the bicycle.

At least one hand must be kept on the handlebars while riding.

Every bicycle must be equipped with a brake or brakes which allow the rider to stop within 25 feet from a speed of 10 miles per hour on dry, level, clean pavement.

Message: We need to get there without killing each other

New adult discussion group on the Middle East

Pompano Beach - With a military junta ruling Egypt, the bloodbath in Syria, and Iran's nuclear sabre-rattling, how safe can it be for Israel these days? Indeed, what can American Jews do to assist our Israeli brothers and sisters? We can become well-acquainted with the background and politics of the area.

Join Rabbi David Mark as he describes a brief history of Israel's founding, the philosophy of Zionism, and the strange amalgam of secularism, religion, and nationalism which comprise the political and sociological makeup of the Jewish State.

The group will examine different aspects of Modern Israel through news sources, websites and organizations dealing with the Middle East, from all points on the political spectrum, left, right, and centrist.

"If not we, then who? And if not now, when?" The series is free and open to the public on Wednesday nights in the Temple Sholom, 132 SE 11 Ave., Pompano Beach, Bet Midrash/Chapel at 7:30 p.m. The series continues through April 18. Call 954-942-6410.

Cardinals beat Giants in opening day of Pompano Baseball at Kester Park

By Michael d'Oliveira

PELICAN STAFF

Pompano Beach – After giving up 8 runs in the first inning, the Cardinals battled their way back in three innings of baseball to beat the Giants in a squeaker, 16 to 15.

This was the season opener for the two teams, played on Saturday at Kester Park.

In a game mostly determined by runs scored on stealing home base, the lead changed hands three times.

Tyler Cissone, #9, gave the Giants their first stirrings of life, knocking in Kevin Wright, #4, from second base for the game's first run; earlier, Wright stole second after he was walked.

But the Cardinals responded immediately, racking up eight runs of their own, including two runs from a triple hit by Timmy Dorn, #6, who later brought himself in for a run by stealing home on a pitch that got past Giants' catcher.

After a tied 8 to 8 first inning, the Giants tacked on three more runs in the second inning but gave up five to the Cardinals in the bottom of the inning.

Dorn gave a verbatim performance in the second inning, stealing home base again after hitting another triple, which drove in two runs; Dorn stole home and tied the game up with the Cardinals getting in two more runs after and taking the lead 13 to 11.

But the Giants weren't done and scored four more at the top of the third inning, forcing the Cardinals to score or lose.

But, after getting four more runs off solid base hits, the Cardinals' Nicholas

PELICAN STAFF

When The Pelican arrived at Dr. Laura Evatt's dental suite of offices, on the third floor of the 4800 NE 20 Terrace medical building just off Federal Highway, in Fort Lauderdale, a fluffy white dog barked his greeting.

He was on a leash held firmly by a smiling Dr. Evatt who gently handed the leash and dog over to her office manager so that this interview would not be interrupted.

She said, "I just picked up that little bundle of energy earlier today from a family that could no longer afford to take care of him. He's pretty neglected so as soon as this interview is over I'm taking him to the vet to be examined and treated. I think I have found a home for him. One of our associates in the building fell in love with him, and offered to adopt, bless her."

This is not an unusual event in Dr. Evatt's life.

One of her patients, author Sachin Mayi wrote, "There seem to be many saints for animals these days. Dr. Evatt stands out as one of the greats. She has personally rescued 200 dogs in addition to her full-time dentistry practice in Fort Lauderdale. Rescuing dogs is her passion. She continues to find those desperate souls in need of her unconditional love."

Mayi was so moved by this unusual woman that he wrote a charming book, 101 Salvations, about her first amazing rescues. In his book, the dogs tell their tales expressing their love and gratitude to their patron saint for saving them from the horrors of abuse and neglect.

Just one example is Gary, an English Mastiff mix, who writes, "The couple I was staying with were elderly and after some time, my new mother passed away. Shortly after that, my new father had a stroke. Their son had to come to handle affairs. I was one of those affairs. In spite of my friendliness, he took me to Animal Control. I wasn't as skinny as the first time I was homeless. I scratched around trying to find the micro-chip Laura had put in me. Instead I felt the prick of a needle. I turned to see someone in a white coat holding the needle. I asked why? Don't you know about Laura. Didn't you know that someone cared about me? And as I thought these thoughts, everything faded into darkness."

Gary didn't make it, but readers of 101 Salvations will read the stories of 100 luckier abandoned dogs who did.

Dr. Evatt will tear up if you ask about Gary. Asked how this obsession to rescue dogs began, she sits back in her chair to tell her story. "When I look back over my life, I know my love of animals started when I was a child. My baby book is filled with photos of me and I'm always holding

New agreement may save Hillsboro trees

Deerfield Beach – The city is amending a $150,000 grant application in hopes of saving 121 Hillsboro Boulevard median trees ordered removed by the Florida Department of Transportation.

If the new application is accepted, the scope of the project will be reduced to the area between Powerline Road and the Tri-Rail Station and the number of trees removed reduced to 17.

City Landscaper Harold Hoyt told commissioners Tuesday that the 17 trees are either diseased or in motorists' line of sight. They will be replaced by 77 palm trees.

Originally the project was intended to beautify the median between Dixie Highway and Powerline Road. The large trees in the median did not meet the highway department's standards and so were marked for removal.

Public outcry caused the city to rethink the project, said Assistant City Manager Keven Klopp. "These trees existed without issue for years," he said. Among the species are yellow tabs, gumbo limbo and mahogany trees.

Dixie Flyover close to opening

– The Dixie Flyover will open for traffic in mid-March according to state transportation department spokesperson Barbara Kellaheer.

The four-lane span across the Hillsboro Canal connects Northeast 2 Street in Deerfield Beach and Southeast 18 Street in Boca Raton. It was built with $48 million in federal stimulus funds.

Kellaheer said the project is ahead of schedule. A formal dedication ceremony will be held in July when the landscaping and other

Lauderdale-By-The-Sea – Despite their concerns about new ethics rules, commissioners will continue to chair town-sponsored special events – Easter, July 4th and Halloween. Town manager Connie Hoffmann will determine when to involve her staff and when to hire outside help.

It has been traditional in this town to have a commissioner chair the three holiday events and enlist volunteer help.

Vice Mayor Scot Sasser, who favored hiring outside help when the issue was first discussed last year, asked for reconsideration of the matter citing a need for consistency.

Town Attorney Susan Trevarthen has issued a safe harbor opinion that commissioners can continue to chair town-sponsored holiday events . . . although they will have to be careful about the potential for being offered gifts from town vendors or contractors that may be involved in the special event."

"We can be the figurehead, but there's a need for consistency on how we operate and how inventory is taken," Sasser said. "We've had some problems in the past. If we had a staff person, it would free us up to get volunteers."

Commissioner Mark Brown said he didn't think commissioners should be soliciting funds for events. In addition to the town's events, the Chamber of Commerce sponsors "Taste of the Beach"

The place to have a baby - West Boca Medical Center with Birthcare Pavilion and Level 111 Neonatal ICU

In addition to the birthing rooms, there are 26 postpartum rooms plus two upgraded Princess Rooms for new mothers who want something special.

By Phyllis J. Neuberger

PELICAN STAFF

Boca Raton - West Boca Medical Center is a 195-bed acute care hospital that has been serving the medical and healthcare needs of the community and surrounding areas for 20 years. Located at 21644 State Road 7 in Boca Raton, one of its well known services is the Birthcare Pavilion which includes a level 111 Neonatal Intensive Care Unit. HealthGrades ranks West Boca's maternity program among the top five percent in the nation. No wonder women travel from as far south as Miami and as far north as Port St. Lucie to have their babies in this Center's well equipped birthing unit.

Toby Harris, director of maternity services, says, "We have over 2,000 births a year here.

"Moms choose us because we have 18 labor/birthing rooms. Each room has a bed that breaks down to ease delivery for the patient and the doctor. There's a full length mirror if Mom wants to watch her baby being born, a sleeper bed for her husband or partner, a monitor for baby's heart plus a walk in bathroom, telephone and television. An attractive piece of art gives the room a homey look. Behind the art work is necessary equipment, like oxygen and other devices. There's even an infant warmer for the newborn. Unless there is a need for her room, the new mother can stay in it for two days if the delivery was vaginal and three days if it was a C-section."

In addition to the birthing rooms, there are 26 postpartum rooms plus two upgraded Princess Rooms for new mothers who want something special.

Jennifer Vogel, Boca Raton, says, "I had both of my children at West Boca Medical Center and had a wonderful experience each time. The care I received was top notch, and I felt safe and secure knowing I had a great team of nurses and healthcare professionals around me to deliver my children."

Harris continues. "We are the only hospital in South Palm Beach and parts of Broward with a 111 Neonatal Intensive Care Unit for babies of one pound and up where exceptional care is needed. We have Neonatal doctors on call 24/7, and perinatologists available for moms with special conditions or multiple births when

Ducks get royal treatment at John Knox Village

Village dedicates sanctuary to resident

For many years, Betsy Bousfield, a John Knox Village resident, has supported wildlife that are attracted to the three lakes in the Village. On March 21 at 10 a.m., Bousfield will be honored when a newly completed sanctuary on Rex Foster Lake will officially bear her name. Since 2004, the Village has been an official Wildlife Habitat that continues to attract a variety of birds and butterflies by supplying food, water and a safe haven.

Peggy Barber is the founding director of the Nova Southeastern University Community Singers – one of South Florida’s leading choral groups. At the conclusion of each concert, Peggy comes home to John Knox Village AND YOU CAN TOO!

Sand

is trucked in. Normally, the federal government pays half the cost, the state and county split the rest. Lauderdale-By-The-Sea's share would be 12.5 percent. Less than 20 percent of the project is in LBTS.

The county is hoping to pull permits in about a year with construction due to start in the fall 2013. It could take up to three years to complete the work which must be halted April through October for turtle season.

LBTS has relatively little erosion because it benefits from sand being dredged at the Hillsboro Inlet.

The public reacts

Shirley McCollum of the Fountainhead at the south end of LBTS is a 20-year resident. "My philosophy is sand comes and sand goes. The county has needs in many more areas. Is this the best use of our money? The answer is no," she said emphatically. "Nothing I've heard keeps me from being very violently opposed to the whole project."

Michael Gittings, also of the Fountainhead said, "We haven't seen any sand loss in 45 years. I don't see any need to put sand in place where we haven't lost any."

Noting there is no access to adjacent Galt Ocean Mile beaches, Gittings said, "We don't want a dump in our front yard for three years. It's absurd to have trucks hauling sand for three years." Dan Clark, director of Cry of the Water, a group that works to protect Broward's reefs, urged caution. With these projects, Clark said, there is much sediment in the system and sediment is an enemy of coral reefs.

"We call ourselves the shore-diving capital of South Florida. Are we going to be able to say that if we put this project in place?" asked resident Ron Piersante.

But Paul Novak, a hotelier, was more concerned with the long-term impacts. "This area is a tourist area, and people love wide beaches. We don't see these projects come around that often. I'd hate to see us lose our beaches and have to wait 20 years to replenish them."

Commissioners respond

Commissioner Mark Brown asked about the damage to Fort Lauderdale if LBTS opted out of the project.

"It wouldn't kill it for Fort Lauderdale, but it would make for a much less desirable design and less longevity," Myers responded. "It might result in a redesign to the detriment of the Galt," he said.

One of the most critical erosion areas is along the Galt Ocean Mile.

"Suppose we wanted to aggressively plant sea oats and dune grass?" Brown asked. "Could we piggybank onto this project or would we have to do that on our own?"

Myers said that could be considered if that's the commission recommendation. "Planting sea oats doesn't make the beach any wider. It captures windblown sand and creates a dune. It's not the same benefits as this project."

Brown said he is concerned this is a one-shot opportunity and there may not be another shot for 30 years. "I'm very concerned about Fort Lauderdale. Their beaches are in need of protection," he said. "But I have a hard time justifying it here, where the beach is wide."

Commissioner Chris Vincent said he didn't see any sense of urgency in this project.

Steve Higgins, a coastal planner and engineer, said there is a case in Destin where property owners stopped a project, but the case is on appeal, adding that when an erosion control line is established, everything seaward of that belongs to the state.

"It's not a whole lot of sand," Commissioner Scot Sasser said. "It would have a negative impact to our reefs, turtles, tourism and safety. I see no value whatsoever."

"I don't think we can bury our heads in the sand," Commissioner Stuart Dodd said. "What if we needed the sand? They are our neighbors . . . we have to look at the totality of the project."

Hillsboro Beach

carries sand southward.

None of the options presented a plausible remedy Blankenship said and each, except the first, would require continual nourishment to maintain the beach. Doing nothing would mean the loss of the beach entirely in 10 years, he added.

Reconfiguring the groins in Deerfield Beach would not provide enough erosion relief, he said and installing groins in Hillsboro Beach would only move the hot spot south. An emergent breakwater would stabilize the beach, but also create hot spots. The only viable solution Blankenship said is a submerged breakwater that dissipates wave energy and “really helps” to stabilize beaches. Such structures would slow sand loss making revetment projects necessary only every 15 years.

The reality is, however, that it is almost impossible to get permits for such structures. A decade-long attempt at Singer Island is being abandoned after millions were spent in the effort, Blankenship said.

Asked by Schubert to name a figure if Hillsboro decided to pursue a breakwater application, Blankenship estimated it would cost $500,000 to get in front of the necessary agencies. Another problem with a submerged breakwater here is it would likely have to be placed on the hard bottom which is “impossible to permit.”

The study recommends the town continue to bring sand to its beach when necessary and to develop sources for sand and funding. It suggests small truck hauls every two years might be the best solution. And the town might piggyback its nourishment projects with others in the area.

Looking for options other “than throwing sand at it,” Schubert asked what the impact would be on Deerfield’s beach if the groins there were altered. “We’d just be taking rock away from the five southern groins, she said. “I’m wondering about the cost and would it harm Deerfield’s beach?”

Blankenship said less rock would mean more damage to Deerfield’s south beach which already needs revetment from time to time.

Contacted after the meeting, Rene Meles, a north beach resident and member of an ad hoc committee delving into the erosion issue, said he was disappointed that the study produced no good solutions. “There should be some way to increase the littoral flow from the Boca Inlet shoal and capturing some of it,” he said. “I am disappointed that a modification of the Deerfield Beach groins didn’t show a better result.”

Mayor Dan Dodge said, “I’m concerned about hot spots too, but I have to tell you, residents are skeptical about structures ... overall I would be cautious about doing anything.”

The mayor said he was surprised that the CSI options did not provide more relief and added that nourishing the beach every four to six years would be a “financial strain” on the town.

Dodge said the CSI report will go up on the town’s website and a workshop to explain it to the public will be held in April.

County backs off support for possible ethics lawsuit aimed at local cities

By Michael d'Oliveira

PELICAN STAFF

Broward – Wilton Manors resident Richard Ives said he was ready to sue the city over its bypassing of two sections of Broward's ethics code – but now he's backing down.

On Jan. 31, residents in Wilton Manors, Hillsboro Beach and Sea Ranch Lakes voted to allow their part-time elected officials to be exempt from the recently passed county ethics provision that requires them to report their income and how they earned it.

Ives says his change of heart stems from a change by the county commission, which reversed itself over a Feb. 7 vote to back any resident in those cities who wanted to sue his or her city over the ballot question.

"Even though I know about the County Code of Ethics I still got tripped up by the wording of the ballot question . . . As I left the polling station I had a sinking feeling that I'd just been duped," wrote Ives, a producer for WLRN Radio, in an email to Broward Mayor John Rodstrom's office. Ives, who said he thinks commissioners intentionally mislead voters, blames himself "for not going with my gut feeling that the ballot question was misleading and voting no."

In a brochure, Wilton Manors officials wrote that reverting to state ethics laws instead of adopting the county code would allow city commissioners to serve and keep their jobs.

Both state and county codes allow outside jobs. The major difference between the codes was what those outside jobs could be.

Lobbying is the only activity the new county code prohibits for elected officials.

Ives said he thought the

Bridge

Former mayor Carmen McGarry also said there had been an account for the bridge, but after 2006, it disappeared from the budget as a separate line item.

"At that time over $100,000 was budgeted for repair of this bridge. The town also gets a check every year from the Florida Department of Transportation, or FDOT, to be used only for roads and bridges. FDOT yearly reports are sent to the town as the owner. The deed is also in the name of Hillsboro Beach. How can you throw this back on the condo owners who have never budgeted for this item, when suddenly, after several years of disrepair, it needs major work?" McGarry asked.

FDOT, hires consultants to make safety checks of bridges abutting their roadways.

Germano alleges the town knew for at least seven years that repairs were needed to the span.

The latest inspection in August, 2011 rated the bridge as "structurally deficient" and the substructure as "poor" and cited cracks and corrosion, enough to "warrant a review."

The bridge, at 1160 Hillsboro Mile, crosses the Hillsboro River, a narrow slough between A1A and the Island House.

There is also a small marina for Island House boaters. Although the bridge is public property, there is no public parking along the river.

Commissioner Jim Lambert said he was unaware the bridge existed and he did not see it "as a public asset. "Someone made a mistake when they accepted it from the developer," he said, but he acknowledged the town "has a little responsibility." Lambert suggested deeding the bridge back to the condo association "with compensation involved."

Making the repairs would be far more expensive for the town than for the condo owners, Mayor Dan Dodge said, perhaps twice as much in both time and money. He suggested that discussions with the condo board continue. "No one wants to get into litigation," the mayor said.

Although Germano said the bridge has not been declared unsafe, "the bottom line is when DOT says 'fix the bridge,' you have to fix it."

Reproductive issues the topic at Democratic club meeting

SPECIAL TO THE PELICAN

In March, the Democratic Women's Club of NE Broward celebrates Women's History Month by welcoming Dr. Jane Caputi, professor of Women's Studies at Florida Atlantic University. Dr. Caputi will be speaking at the club's March 21 meeting at 7 p.m. at the Emma Lou Olson Civic Center, 1801 NE 6 St., Pompano Beach. The topic of conversation will be the History of Reproductive Justice. Refreshments will be served.

Dr. Caputi will be accompanied by Sarah Tucker Jenkins, a master's student in women's studies. Dr. Caputi arrived at Florida Atlantic University in 1997 as one of two faculty in women's studies. Prior to coming to FAU, she was professor of American studies at the University of New Mexico.

Her primary research is in contemporary cultural studies, including popular culture, gender and violence and environmental feminism. She is the author of three books, The Age of Sex Crime; Gossips, Gorgons and Cronos; The Fates of the Earth and Goddesses and Monsters: Women, Myth, Power and Popular Culture. She also collaborated with Mary Daly on Webster's First Inter-galactic Wickedary of the English Language, and has made an educational documentary, The Pornography of Everyday Life. She also was FAU's Distinguished Teacher for 2001, and received FAU's Research and Scholarly Activities award for 2005. Call 954-942-8711.

Cardinals

Waksmacki, #1, scored the winning run with a stolen base.

Mike Carlson, head coach Cardinals, gave his game ball to his son, Jack, who pitched at the end of the game and helped preserve the Cardinals' lead. "I hate giving it to my son . . . but he saved us."

Asked what he thought his team needed to work on most, Andrew Cissone, Giants assistant coach, said "base running."

In the second inning, one Giants player ran to second while it already had a runner who wasn't allowed to advance. By the time he realized his mistake, the Cardinals swooped in to and tagged him out. "All the little rust will be worked off in a couple of days," added Cissone.

Positive change is ongoing at area's most challenging course, Deer Creek Golf Club

By Judy Wilson

PELICAN STAFF

Deerfield Beach – One of the area's most highly-rated golf courses has made a move that insures almost every golfer will have a good day. Deer Creek Golf Club recently added silver tees to the championship course that establishes a 4,180-yard executive course within the very challenging fairways and greens.

"This has extended the careers of many of our golfers. Some of them are proud they can now shoot their ages. It has been a great success" said Marty Martinez, general manager and director of golf.

This latest renovation may be the best. Golf architect Arthur Hills rebuilt the course in 1994 and again in 2004, "This is one of the better golf courses in South Florida, especially for a residential course," Martinez said.

Luxury homes and condominiums are set well back from the playing field, and the club is distinct because it offers both the amenities of private membership and a daily, public fee.

"It is so nice here everyone thinks it is a private club. That's a real compliment, but we want everyone to know they are welcome," Martinez said.

The newest improvement happens this summer in the Key West Banquet Room. The ceiling will be lifted to 17 feet, with new French doors and 15-foot arched windows installed, increasing seating to accommodate 100 additional diners.

The waterfall and gardens will be enhanced with a bougainvillea-covered trellis, a gazebo, enlarged patio and lush landscaping. It's a $1.2 million renovation. The Bridal Suite and rest rooms will also be updated. Last summer, the smaller Biscayne Banquet Room, the lobby and the Grille were refurbished.

"We hope to have the finest facilities in the area," Martinez said. The waterfall and garden already attract wedding parties, and Martinez said the new design will make guests feel they are in an exotic location.

"This is very exciting. The owner has been so generous in investing in this facility, $5 million in the last 15 years."

At 7,050 yards and with a difficulty rating from the championship tees of 75.3, Deer Creek is still a fun place to play. "You can find your ball and recover from a bad shot," Martinez said. "It's more challenging around the green than off the tee. The course has little water and the bunkers are playable."

The most challenging hole is probably the 18th, a 451-yard par 4.

It could be called an Arthur Hills signature with its dogleg to the left, a water hole short of the green and prevailing winds that blow left to right. "You are always fighting the wind," Martinez said. "It makes for a very difficult par

Brain-jocks get fundraiser in Oakland Park

High school students win MIT grant for water filtration system, now need travel funds for Boston.

By Judy Vik

PELICAN STAFF

Oakland Park

— A spaghetti dinner for the benefit of the Northeast High School InVenTeam is set from 5 to 8 p.m. tonight, at Jaco Pastorius Community Center, 4000 N. Dixie Highway.

The Oakland Park Kiwanis Club and City fire department are hosting the event to help the students raise funds for a trip to Boston. Tickets are $10 per person; $5 for children under 12.

The 14 team members received a $9,570 grant from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to create an emergency water filtration system for disaster relief in tropical areas.

The team, led by teacher Randa Flinn, is one of 16 in the nation and the only one in Florida to be awarded a Lemelson-MIT InVenTeam grant this year.

The students recently received generous donations from H. Wayne Huizenga and from Oakland Park Commissioner Shari McCartney and Broward School Board member Katherine Leach to help the team get to Boston to show their invention at EurekaFest, according to Flinn.

Ford Lincoln Mercury of Pompano is helping the students with a “Drive for Your School” event during the first week of April from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the school, 700 NE 56 St. The company will donate $20 per adult who test drives one of their cars.

The students have raised $9,000 but still need about $2,000 more.

For information on tickets for the dinner, call Flinn at 754-322-1550, Ext. 3058.

is difficult and challenging without being overly penalizing." "Off-season rates, after April 23, are $50 weekdays; $75 on weekends and for twilight golfers, $35. Despite the rates or the time of year, play at Deer Creek remains steady year round, Martinez said.

Although it is off the beaten path, a block north of Hillsboro Boulevard between Military Trail and Powerline Road, the clubhouse offers many social and dining opportunities.

The club also caters to private parties and charity events.

Especially popular are early bird dinners and Sunday brunches. The Grille serves lunch and dinner and on Thursday night is home to one of the area's hottest musical groups, Joey and the Gigolos who continue to pack the room. The Grille also offers an all-you-can-eat buffet at lunchtime, Wednesday pasta nights and other specials with no entrée more than $15.

St. Pat's Day will be celebrated with a $12.95 corned beef and cabbage dinner and on April 8, an Easter Brunch will be served from noon to 6 p.m. for $23.95. Reservations are encouraged. Call 954-421-5553.

complications might occur. We're alerted beforehand if there will be a need for these specialists. All of that, plus house anesthesiologists who are always available and lactation consultants for new mothers makes it clear that we are ready for everything that can possibly happen."

With a laugh, Harris adds, "We have a lot of returns. The mothers come back for further deliveries because they like the care from nurses who have been in birthing areas for a long time. And they are secure knowing we have all of the knowledge and equipment to deal with early, complicated and multiple births. Currently, most women want an epidural which numbs the lower body when delivery is imminent.

About Toby Harris, director of maternity services

Harris says, "I've been an RN for 30 years. I'm also a midwife. I've been in maternity hospitals since 1980 and here in West Boca since 1989. Since coming to West Boca I have been a staff nurse, promoted to charge nurse, to clinical manager and am now director of maternity services."

Along the way Harris has earned her B.S. degree in health sciences, her B.S.N. in nursing and master's in community health. She is a member of Association of Women's Health and Neonatal Nursing.

For support classes, call the Call Center at 866-904-9262.

For further information about the birthing unit, call 561-488-8000.

About West Boca Medical Center

This medical center offers many specialties in addition to general medical and surgical care. They include cardiac and surgical intensive care, outpatient surgery services, 24-hour emergency services for adults and children, diabetes education, a cystic fibrosis program for adults and children, outpatient rehabilitation services, a sleep diagnostic center and comprehensive services designed to care for women throughout every stage in her life. a dog, or on the beach with a turtle, or sitting on a horse. Animals are a big part of my life. When I was a student in dental school, I considered changing my major to veterinary medicine. I discussed this idea with my vet at that time and he said, "Knowing you, you'd take all the stray dogs home. That was almost a self fulfilling prophecy."

In dental school, she recounts, she had a black lab mix whom she named Buckwheat.

A happy waiting room is the dentist's back yard. Most of the dogs shown here will all be adopted by loving owners in short order thanks to Dr. Laura Evatt.

into action. I find a holding place for the dog. This could be a short term foster home, a vet who works with me or my own back yard. My two dogs welcome these short term strangers. I get a medical evaluation from several vets or the people at Bayview Animal Hospital who also help me. Once we know what is needed, I take care of it. I foot the bill. I consider it my special charity. It can cost up to $2,000 depending upon what is needed."

In response to raised eyebrows over the money she spends on rescuing, she laughs and says, "I know. I may end up in the poorhouse, but what matters is how I lived my life. I sometimes think I have a big heart, but I need my head examined."

It's not surprising to learn that all of her employees have become dog parents as have many of her patients. Office manager, Bonnie Faust, who has been with Dr. Evatt for 15 years, has Rickey, a pug beagle mix and Bessie, a red haired cocker spaniel. Faust says, "When the doctor's eyes open, so do her arms. Did she tell you what she does for St. Teresa's Missionaries of Charity?"

Face flushed, Dr. Evatt admits that she volunteers every year in the Dominican Republic fixing children's teeth. "Many have never seen a dentist," she sighs.

And if that isn't enough, she does regular pro-bono dental care for the Sisters of the Missionary when they come up from their convent in Miami. On holidays, she can often be found serving in the soup kitchen in Miami. When this news elicited praise, she shook her head in denial and said, "Don't praise me. What I do is more gratifying to me than any present I could receive."

The Pelican agrees with author, Sachin Mayi, that Dr. Evatt is indeed a candidate for sainthood in dog heaven, and maybe people heaven too. Thank you, Dr. Evatt.

Ethics

and "Christmas by the Sea and a new ad hoc marketing group is planning a "Family Fun Week" in June and a lobster mini-season dive event in July.

"I don't know who you are marketing these events to, and I'm not clear about the town's marketing strategy," Brown said. "We need to hire a professional marketing firm. I'd rather not have a staff person marketing these events. We need a strategy as far as I'm concerned."

Commissioner Stuart Dodd said he chaired the July 4th event twice. The first time it cost over $100,000 and included car shows and sand castle contests. "It was an enormous amount of work, shared by Commissioner (Birute Ann) Clotey and myself." Last year's event had a lower budget and was organized "with a great deal of assistance from businesses and the Volunteer Fire Department," he said.

Dodd said an event organizer was hired in the past and the expense was much more than anticipated.

Hoffmann said she sees the tasks separately: an event organizer, an operational person who follows through, and someone else to market events. "Is it someone we hire by contract or a staff person?" she asked, looking for commission direction.

Hoffmann said her assistant, Pat Himelberger, is coordinating the family event, and Steve d'Oliveira, the town's public information officer, is coordinating the lobster fest.

"I think this should be the town manager's scope of responsibility," Mayor Roseann Minnet said. "We need more help from staff. This needs to be in your hands."

Hoffmann said she will come back with a budget request. Commissioners will be honorary chairs of the holiday events.

Minnet then asked commissioners to take event assignments for the next two years. She volunteered for the Easter event April 7.

Brown wanted more assurance that fundraising wouldn't be the responsibility of the chairperson noting, "The issue in ethics law is the appearance of conflict. Let's say a restaurant contributes food or money or a band to an event. Then a couple months later something comes up with that restaurant that requires a commission vote. Somebody files an ethics complaint against the commissioner who chaired the event. In public office, it's 'guilty until proven innocent.'"

He added, "I'm really reluctant to put myself out there where someone may file a complaint, and I can't vote on an issue because that restaurant contributed to an event I chaired."

Minnet responded, "Commissioner Brown, then you won't chair any event. I'm proud to stand up and do it. I can understand where you're coming from. I'm not doing anything ethically wrong," the mayor said.

Dodd said he totally disagreed with Brown and volunteered to chair Halloween. Sasser said he would chair the Easter event in 2013. Vincent will chair the July 4th celebration this year. At that, Brown said he would chair July 4th in 2013, "after I see how many ethics complaints get filed against everyone else."

Only one resident, Ron Piersante, a regular volunteer at holiday events, spoke up.

"We elected you to run the town, not to run special events," he said. "Most of you work. The town manager said we should hire someone to plan events. You could be chairperson, but we need someone to coordinate. You need something in the budget for special events. I hope this is not going on deaf ears."

Pull up dockside and solve your craft's problems at Garden Isle Marine Services

John and Tracey Hall, owners of Garden Isle Marine Services are proud of their water location with forklift, enabling them to offer repair, replacement and maintenance services for boats up to 35-feet. [Right] Eddie Spiller, pushing 70, is the team's dedicated bottom painter. Shown here, ready to paint.

John and Tom Woods use the forklift to get boats out of the water and ready for maintenance and repair.

Drive to the back of McCulloch Marine lot to find Garden Isle Marine Services on the water at 641 S. Federal Highway in Pompano Beach. That's where to find John Hall and his team servicing boat problems so that boaters can rev up and hit the waves with peace of mind.

John and Tracey Hall, owners of Garden Isle Marine Services, took the plunge and rented McCulloch's back lot to open their business in 2003. "It took a lot of courage to give up a good pay check and take on the headaches of being a business owner," John says, "but with my wife Tracey running the office and my hands-on team of Tom Woods, Tom Ferrick and Eddie Spiller working with me, I've never regretted the move."

"We met working at Hide-away and married in 2003, the same year we opened Garden Isle. It was a busy year. It's been an adventure and we're glad we did it," Tracey said echoing her husband's feelings. "Business came to us one customer at a time, and now it's all referrals and responses to our Pelican ads that bring boaters to us. Our clients are a mix of fisherman and pleasure cruisers."

They keep busy in the summer because John says, "Permanent residents know that summer offers better boating conditions than winter. When the snowbirds fly in, we're even busier. Water access is very important. With our forklift, we can haul a craft out of the water, do the necessary work and then drop the boat back in the water. Because of the Federal Highway Bridge and our lift capacity, we are limited to servicing boats from 13 to 35-feet."

One long time customer is David Bobst, captain and owner of Calypso Poet Yacht Services, who says, "I have used John to service all of my smaller boats and I've been a more than satisfied customer for many years."

Greg Bennett is another. He says, "I highly recommend John and Garden Isle Marine Services to all of my boating friends. I've been a happy and loyal customer for over five years. John does all of the maintenance on my boat, including bottom painting twice a year and that way everything stays ship shape."

is very important to every boat that sits in the water. "It keeps growth away, allowing a boat to perform better, enjoy maximum speed and save on fuel."

The mechanics handle all mechanical and electrical problems, and do zinc replacement. John says he's equipped to repair or replace any kind of engine. Parts are readily available and the work is done as quickly as possible to get folks back in the water. "I've been in the business since I was 14 years old. I'm certified by many different factory schools."

One of his mechanics, Tom Woods has been on the team for five years and says,

"I love my work. We have many interesting and pleasant customers and they're good to deal with. You're always learning because the problems are never quite the same."

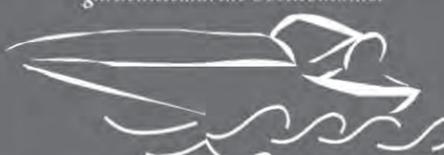

When he has a minute John enjoys getting out there himself and occasionally hooks a dolphin. "It's fun being in my own boat instead of working on other peoples' boats.

But the ocean is not for Tracey who gets sea sick. "I like cruising the intracoastal, looking at the mansions, sipping my wine and nibbling on cheese."

For information, call 954-785-7181. Open Mon. to Fri. 8 a.m. to 5:30; Sat. 8 to 12 noon.

Pompano Beach. Century Plaza Condominium Celebrates its 40th Anniversary

Pompano Beach -
Last month Century Plaza celebrated its 40th Anniversary with a dinner/dance at the Lighthouse Point Yacht & Racquet Club. The event, sponsored by the Century Plaza Women's Club, was attended by almost 140 residents who enjoyed an evening of fine dining. Aurora Jebejian, president of the Women's Club, welcomed guests and introduced 32-year association president, Tony Coletta, who gave a brief early history of Century Plaza. Tony and his wife, Rose, the "First Couple of Century Plaza," will soon celebrate their 72nd wedding anniversary. After remarks by vice president, Ron Vercesi, festivities began with Paul Anthony and the Live Wire band. During the program Women's Club Treasurer, Joan Larkin, recognized the "Century Plaza Pioneers;" Verna Davis, Anna Gerres, Jean Krupp, Tom and Leslie Roe and Angela Galland., owners who still live at Century Plaza and signed their deeds 40 year ago. Joan also recognized the "kids" - those offspring of original owners still living at Century Plaza...Diane Seiwert, Chuck and Shirley Cooper, Arthur and Roberta Gualtieri, Adriann Weir, Ron and Susan Vercesi, Marie Boroski and Pat Titone. After the group honored Tony Coletta, 99-year old resident, Jerry Miller, read a heartfelt poem he wrote about life at Century Plaza. Attendees were then given a commemorative Book of Memories that was created and published by resident Kay McPherson. The booklet included a 1971 Fort Lauderdale News article announcing the opening of Century Plaza; photos from past parties and other condo events; meeting minutes from the past; and letters from residents.

Great Food and Lively Ambiance make LBTS Taste of the Beach a resounding success

By Malcolm McClintock

PELICAN STAFF

Once again this year, the great white tent on El Mar Drive signaled the coming of Lauderdale-by-the-Sea's much anticipated annual culinary event. Hundreds of area residents and visitors attended the classic gastronomic soiree known as Taste of the Beach.

Presented by the LBTS Chamber of Commerce, the Taste of lived up to expectations by featuring over 30 area restaurants. The maelstrom of aromatic scents, lively music and good cheer created the perfect atmosphere for fine dining.

"Everyone seems to be having a good time" said event organizer Guy Contrada as he walked the floor making sure guests and restaurateurs were enjoying the experience. In addition, several wine and spirits purveyors were present to showcase their particular brands of tonic. Ambrosial vintages, flavored vodkas and frosty beers were great complements to the toothsome fare on hand. "We also had many fantastic gift baskets and prizes for the silent auction," adds newly installed Chamber President Mark Silver.

One of the most rewarding evenings of the year, Taste of the Beach is a memorable occasion that should always be marked on one's calendar. Simply drop by the Chamber Welcome Center to plan next year's visit.

ballot was a self-serving move by commissioners to allow them to lobby. Wilton Manors Mayor Gary Resnick, an attorney who is registered as a lobbyist with the county and lobbies on behalf of his law firm, has said he is not commenting on the ethics code.

County commissioners also called the ballot question misleading. "We went down this road is because there was discussion on the board that the ballot titles in those three cities were misleading," said Commissioner Ilene Lieberman. In a previous interview, Wilton Manors Commissioner Julie Carson said she thought it was insulting for county officials to say voters didn't understand what they were voting for.

The county vote was 6 to 2 to rescind support of residents who wanted to sue their cities. Sue Gunzburger and Lois Wexler dissenting. A motion to bring the issue up again failed 4 to 3 because the county requires at least five votes to pass a motion; Rodstrom was the one who tried to change sides.

Commissioner Barbara Sharief, who voted to rescind, said it's the right of every city to change whatever it feels needs to be changed. "I know our ethics code is horrible. What we have to abide by is horrible. Why are we so adamant about going out and suing these cities when they've figured out a way, I guess, to modify it to allow people to continue to work?" she asked. "I think that we're out there fishing for somebody to come forward, and I just think it's inappropriate what we're doing right now."

Responded Rodstrom, "You asked why would anybody want to [sue a city] . . . and my answer is that it gives us a forum, if you think this ordinance is so horrible, it gives the ordinance a forum to have it tested in a court of law, and so the parts of it that are unconstitutional may or may not be dealt with potentially in court."

The Pacific waters off Costa Rica yield some big catches

Capt. RJ Boyle is an experienced angler in South Florida. His studio is located in Lighthouse Point. Call 954-420-5001.

RJ Boyle

RJ BOYLE STUDIOS

If you ever have the chance, you need to take a trip to Costa Rica and do some fishing.

We got back two days ago from a short four-day trip to Los Suenos Marina. And what a time it was.

We caught a bunch of big sailfish around 100 lbs each. The sailfish are much bigger in the Pacific Ocean than the Atlantic. We also saw a 250 lb. blue marlin, which was caught by a 12-year-old girl.

We fought the fish for about 45 minutes before we brought it beside the boat. She was so happy and her dad couldn't have been more excited.

The marina is five-star and the restaurants are off the chain. The flights are about $350 and it only takes about two and a half hours to get there. It is truly amazing to take a flight and be in a third world country so quickly.

Above all, what is so cool about fishing there is that it is flat calm most of the time. You can relax and really enjoy the boat and your friends without having to worry about spilling your cocktail.

Most of the natives there speak English so you don't need to worry if you don't speak Spanish. So, get off the couch and put a trip together and charter a boat there for a few days. You won't regret it!

If you have any questions about putting a trip together, call us at the shop at 954-420-5001.

Get Tight!

County, city officials don aprons for Sample-McDougald House

Dirk DeJong, president of Frank H. Furman Insurance, serves breakfast to a table of diners at John Knox Village. DeJong was one of many local celebrities to donate time at "Breakfast at the Big House," a fundraiser for the historic Sample-McDougald House. PELICAN STAFF

Pompano Beach – It's not everyday that a candidate for Congress works as a waitress but Kristin Jacobs, Broward County Commissioner and candidate for U.S. House Dist. 22, recently slapped on an apron and served Sample-McDougald House benefactors at Breakfast for the "Big House."

The event, held at John Knox Village in Pompano Beach on March 22, was a fundraiser for the nearly 100-year-old structure.

Jacobs, Pompano City Commissioner Rex Hardin, Pompano Chamber of Commerce President/CEO Ric Green, City Manager Dennis Beach and others worked as waiters and waitresses for the event. "We keep knocking down our history and we keep forgetting," said Jacobs about the importance of preserving the site. "It's a beautiful building," she added.

Now in its fourth year, the fundraiser is put on by the Sample-McDougald House Preservation Society, which was formed in 1999 to relocate, promote and preserve the historic digs.

"It's great," said Hardin, who has been a waiter four times. "They realize you're not a professional server . . . they cut you some slack."

Recently, Sample-McDougald received its certificate of occupancy, or CO, allowing it to open to the public. "This has been 12 years in the making," said Dodie Keith-Lazowick, Sample-McDougald board member and president of Keith & Associates.

Responsible for obtaining the CO was JWR Construction Services. Along with a $20,000 donation, which was used to pay off creditors, JWR also took over management of the project.

"They said 'we're going to run the entire project for you and by the way, we're going to charge you zero,'" said Dirk DeJong, president/COO of Frank Furman Insurance and president of Sample-McDougald. "Our success is 100 percent due to JWR," said Keith-Lazowick.

Jerry DuBois, president of JWR, said he "couldn't guess" how much time and materials JWR and other contractors have donated. "The house has been such a great piece of Pompano," he said.

Private donations, public grants, including $400,000 secured by Jacobs, have helped fund the restoration. At the breakfast, Jerry Bowman, Centennial Celebration Committee board member, donated $5,000 from the Centennial Celebration fund to Sample-McDougald.

The first official event at the house will feature a Florida Highwaymen art exhibit from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. on March 23. Admission is $3. Proceeds benefit the Pompano Beach Historical Society and the Sample-McDougald House Preservation Society. "The house will be open for the community on a year-round basis," said Dan Hobby, executive director of Sample-McDougald.

Built in 1916 by Albert Neal Sample, a Pompano pioneer, the house was purchased in 1943 by William D. McDougald, a Deerfield Beach lawman and farmer. Members of the McDougald Family lived in the house for six decades and eventually donated it to the city. In 2001, the house was moved from its original foundation to its current location at Centennial Park, 450 NE 10 St.

HUMANA

A Coordinated Care plan with a Medicare Advantage contract and a contract with the Florida Medicaid program, available to anyone who meets the specific eligibility requirements of the SNP and is enrolled in both Part A and Part B of Medicare. To qualify for a Dual Eligible SNP, you must also receive Medicaid assistance from the State. Premiums, copays, and deductibles may vary based on income. Please contact Humana for further details. You must continue to pay your Medicare Part B premium. The benefit information provided herein is a brief summary, not a comprehensive description of benefits. Applicable to Humana Gold Plus SNP-DE H1036-152, 154, 159, 161, 162, 163, and H5426-025 (HMO SNP) plans. Sponsored by Humana and the State of Florida, AGENCY FOR HEALTHCARE ADMINISTRATION.
