Top Gun Turned Blue Angel Soars Over Beach

Look Up! Blue Angels Ready To Roar

The spirit of everyone who loves Pensacola Beach will soar sky high this week as they look up at the heavens and not down to the sand. Oil spill problems will be on the back burner for the few days of Red, White and Blues Week while Beach locals welcome thousands of visitors to enjoy the spectacular, world famous Blue Angels Air Show. The festivities will begin on Wednesday, July 7 at 8 a.m. with the Blue Angels flying circle and arrival maneuvers. Wednesday is the perfect day for guests and locals to enjoy breakfast on the Beach and observe the first portion of the event.

The Practice Show will be at 2 p.m. on Thursday, July 8. A full dress rehearsal of the Beach Air Show will begin at noon on Friday, July 9. The complete Air Show, which is like the eighth wonder of the world to Pensacola fans, will begin at noon on Saturday, July 10.

Warm-up acts will include local Beach hotelier Julian MacQueen flying his Grumman Widgeon G-44.

Others performing in the pre-show will be Skip Stewart flying Prometheus, Team RV, and Red and the Dragon, presented by Dragon Aviation.

The skies heat up and the crowds along with them when Fat Albert, the C-130 Hercules arrives, announcing the beginning of the thrilling air show at 2 p.m.

Blue Angels pilots are hand-picked for their ability to fly. They do not receive extra pay, but consider it to be an honor to be chosen as part of the flight team. Their contributions to the community are perhaps less well known than their exploits in the air.

Kellie Price is assigned to maintenance control with the Blue Angels Flight Demonstration Team. She is also a volunteer assistant teacher in Debbie Campanella's second grade class at the Pensacola Beach Elementary School.

Price is well-respected and loved by the students for reasons evidenced in an interview with second grade journalist, Sophie Faircloth.

"I do enjoy my job as a Blue Angel," Price said. "As well as volunteering at PBES. Both are very similar but different."

Price's duties include tracking pilot, engine and aircraft hours and all maintenance performed.

"Giving back is a feeling of fulfillment and happiness knowing I can share what I have learned," Price said.

Blue Angel volunteers pop up almost everywhere, like Harry Ramsahai who took his job as a judge at the Pensacola Beach Sandcastle Contest during the Fiesta very seriously.

"Some of the entrants certainly put a great deal of thought into their creations," he said. "I was pleased to see the quality of the work as I judged in the teenage division."

This year's Blue Angels officers include: Commander Greg McWherter, Lieutenant Jim Tomaszewski, Lieutenant Rob Kurrle, Major Christopher Collins, Lieutenant Commander Frank Weisser, Lieutenant Ben Walborn, Lieutenant C.J. Simonsen, Lieutenant Amy Tomlinson, Major Brendan Burks, Captain Edward Jorge, Captain Benjamin Blanton, Lieutenant John "Ted" Thompson, Lieutenant Johannah Valentine, Chief Warrant Officer Adolfo DeMontalvo, and Chief Warrant Officer

Beach School volunteer AZ2(AW/SW) Kellie Price has many Beach fans who admire her for her service with the Navy's Blue Angels and the positive impact she makes on her young friends.

Clive Dixon.

A few facts about the Blue Angels:

- ☞ The Blue Angels were established in 1945 by the Chief of Naval Operations, Admiral Chester W. Nimitz.

- ☞ The name was originated by the original team in New York who came across the name of a night club Blue Angels in New York City.

- ☞ An estimated ten million spectators view the air shows each year.

- ☞ The team is stationed at Forrest Sherman Field, NAS, Pensacola.

- ☞ The Blue Angels are scheduled to fly 68 air shows at 35 sites during the 2010 season. For reams of additional information, go to www.blueangels.navy.mil.

Spectators are cautioned to come to the Beach early. Bring sunscreen, water and the other paraphernalia for your safety and comfort. The Air Show is visible from all over the Island, but show central is set up at Casino Beach.

The Vendors Tent hosts a variety of food and merchandise vendors as a convenience to spectators. Ice, cold bottled water will be available to quench your thirst with proceeds going to a good cause.

"Each year the Beach Chamber provides us a place at the Show Central to sell water to benefit the Santa Rosa Kids House," said coordinator Karen Cook Cowen of Cook Realty. "One hundred percent of our proceeds are donated to help the children."

All hotels, restaurants, bars, gifts shops and vendors renting miscellaneous types of land and water equipment will be open. The other weekend attractions will be the Sounds of Summer concert featuring The Blenders, Friday through Sunday on the Boardwalk at 6 p.m. The concerts are open to the public at no charge.

Baptist Hosts Mole Patrol During Blue Angels Weekend

Blue Angels fans can visit with the Mole Patrol prior to the Show each day. Baptist Health Care, Moffitt Cancer Center and AAA Auto Club South are joining together during Blue Angels weekend to host the Mole Patrol®, a free skin cancer screening and education event, on July 9 and 10, from 8 a.m. to noon.

The Mole Patrol® tent will be located by Casino Beach's Public Safety Building to offer screenings on a first-come, first-served basis. Participants will have the opportunity to discuss areas of concern with onsite oncologists from Moffitt and dermatologists from Baptist Health Care. Participants will be provided with local resources on how to receive follow-up care if needed.

Moffitt's Mole Patrol® celebrates its fifth year of prevention and education during the Blue Angels Weekend. Last year's team conducted more than 500 screenings. Mole Patrol® program travels to venues throughout Florida offering free skin cancer screenings and cancer education to the public.

Barefoot on the Beach

By Jane Waters Cooper

We were total strangers. We were not relatives. We all lived on Ariola Drive on Pensacola Beach and therein lies a tale. By some ironic stroke of fate, two of us were named Jane Waters and one went by JJ Waters.

All of us – JJ, who lived on lower Ariola; Jane I, who lived in middle Ariola; and Jane II, who lived on upper Ariola, soon became close friends as exclusive members of the “Same Name Sorority.”

It was a time of great frustration. The postman never could figure out which Jane got what mail. Delivering the mail to the wrong person was routine for him. He knew that Jane Waters lived on Ariola. He just was never quite sure which was which or who was who. A day rarely went by when I did not receive Jane I’s or JJ’s mail and vice versa. At least, the postman was consistent. He did not believe in addresses. He believed in people.

Several times I went to the Post Office and explained to them that there were three J. Waters living on Ariola Drive. Would the postman please deliver to the address? They responded by looking at me like I was the five-year-old who took the last cookies out of the jar...like I was making this all up.

As it turned out, others joined the confusion, florists, UPS, furniture stores, Federal Express. It was like a contagious disease. If I was sitting home waiting for the delivery of a new dishwasher, JJ was arguing with the delivery man, explaining it was not for her.

One time I received an award from Clean and Green for my environmental writing. Only problem was that it went to JJ’s house. She and her then husband, liked it so much they kept it for a couple of days and enjoyed it. By the time they brought it to me, the balloons were losing their air and the plant was fading fast. Thanks, Clean and Green!

One Christmas Jane called and asked me if I knew anyone in Houston. I told her, yes, my sister lived there. She said, “Oh heck, I thought all these packages I got today were from my long lost Aunt Allene. I guess they are yours.”

There could have been mass confusion over the utility bills which almost always went astray. Fortunately, we looked at the addresses and made the proper exchanges, so our electricity was never cut-off.

The stories are endless and boring, so no more. Except one.

Jean Curtis called Shelley from the Visitor’s Center to ask if her mother was all right. I think so, Shelley replied. Why?

Jean said a report had just come from the police station that Jane Waters had flattened a thief in the Tom Thumb driveway who was trying to steal her car while she was filling it with gasoline. It seems that “Jane I” had received her college degree that day and had bought a new car. She was not about to let some hooligan take off with it. Yes, that was the other Jane.

Time and marriages ended our little “Same Name Sorority.” JJ is still a Waters and she lives on Ariola in the same house. She has two grown sons and is the Sales Director for CAT Country radio station.

Jane I married Frank Taylor (yes she, too, married a Frank). He used to be the chef at Jubilee; and he and Jane now own the popular, upscale restaurant Global Grill in Pensacola. Jane lived for many years in Gulf Breeze, but now is in Pensacola, I think.

They have one daughter and twin sons.

And, me. I used to be the publisher of The Islander Newspaper. Now, I am retired. Sort of. I have had a new last name for 15 years, thanks to my husband, Frank, so “Cooper” has forever put an end to the Waters saga. I still live in the same house where I have lived for more than thirty years.

I think of those two other J’s often. They are both charming, witty, smart and pretty. A smile crosses my face when I realized that we bonded by name only. And how we carried that strange linkage into a lifelong friendship.

Our Lady Cooks Up A Fun Time

Our Lady of the Assumption is putting out the welcome mat and firing up the grill for a free “Pick Me Up Picnic” Sunday, July 18 from 3 to 7 p.m. The Church is located at the corner of Via de Luna and Avenida 18 on Pensacola Beach.

“As part of our effort to provide a little relief from the obvious stresses causes by the oil spill, we have decided to throw a community party,” said Stacey

Lewis, public relations director for the St. Ann Parish which includes Our Lady. “We will be serving up hot dogs and hamburgers and provide activities for the kids. Hope to see you there!”

Everyone is invited to the free event. A waterslide will be available for kids of all ages.

Our Lady of the Assumption Catholic Mission hosts Mass each Sunday beginning at 9:45 a.m. The Church is also the site of a variety of community meetings and events.

Waters Withdraws From SRIA Race

Campanella Is Unopposed

JJ Waters, who has lived on Santa Rosa Island for over two decades and serves aboard the Island Beautification Steering Committee, has withdrawn her name from the list of candidates running for the one elected seat on the Santa Rosa Island Authority Board.

With the recent oil spill, the demands of her current job with CAT Country radio station have grown.

“Due to the circumstances, I must withdraw. I will continue to do whatever I can to support the welfare of the island and the well being of our islanders, and intend to be involved at whatever capacity I can, to that end,” she said.

Incumbent Dr. Thomas Campanella, who has held the seat for the last 8 years, will continue to serve. He is running unopposed.

peas, porridge & a dry martini

by Kathi Lewis

I am so proud of our Woolly Booger Queen Shugah Shelley Johnson. (I call her my Deuce Queen ShelleyBean because she's also the Queen of the Krewe of Wrecks) What a fabulous job she's done with her very first storm. We have nothing to worry about Islanders; we are in very good and powerful hands. See, y'all thought that whole altar thing was just a bunch of hoo-haa. Well you were wrong; it was a whole bunch of Hoo-Doo, We-Doo and other powerful stuff happenin'. You need to believe..... you'll see.

I certainly believe this is the quietest summer I've ever seen on this Island. I called one of the local eateries and ordered dinner to pick-up one Saturday evening at 6:30 in late June. I easily found parking and there was only one customer when I entered the shop. Normally I would not even consider trying to order food from anywhere on the Island during the summer. At the most, we would just order pizza and let them fight their way through the crowds and traffic. I am almost at a loss for words -

Well, not really! Had you going for a minute there, though, didn't I? But hey - we've got a lot of fun stuff that happens in July. If it's just us Islanders here to enjoy it, then we'll put our tiaras on and go enjoy. And while I certainly don't have enough money to keep all our business establishments in the style to which they've become accustomed during the summer, I will spend what I have right here. And I will spread it around to as many places as possible.

Some of you may have to take turns, or I will see you the next month, but I'll get there. And I won't be alone. (Wow! That kinda sounds more like a threat, huh?) No, really I do have a couple of friends.

I hope all of you will join me this month for COLORS (Celebration of Life on the Republic of Sandspurs). It's on Thursday, July 15 from 5-7 p.m. and we'll be visiting Castaways. I talked to the manager Jimmy Wilcher and they're expecting us, so it's all set. It's lots of fun and there's nothing to join.

Just socializing, celebrating our lives and taking advantage of the Happy Hour prices. I've seen their advertisement (in this newspaper, of course) and I do believe these people really know how to make an hour happy. I'm going to find out for sure!

One of my friends, Peggy Henshall, recently asked my advice on wearing those see-through dresses I like so much. "Do you need to wear a slip?" she inquired.

Unfortunately, she sent me an e-mail instead of calling me and she was leaving for a trip the next day. I'm much faster with the telephone. So I'm just now answering her question and I believe it needs to be shared. Peggy is not the only one with this dilemma because those dresses are very "hot" this year in the Island fashion world. It's because they are cooler than anything else. And, to me, a slip totally defeats the whole "cooler" purpose. The only thing anyone can see "through" the dress is the outline of your legs. I swear it! Don't let anyone fool you because these same legs would be completely exposed to viewing if you wore shorts or a swim suit. So, if someone tells me, "I can see through your dress" my standard answer will always be, "I don't care!" If you do, then you need a slip!

In the meantime, I'm getting ready for the friends who will be joining Bill and me to watch our beloved Blue Angels mesmerize us with their always amazing performance. We have an excellent view from our deck so we invite friends for the full dress rehearsal performance on Friday. Of course, we make sure to have plenty of good food and beverages. Although who knows what it will be this year? If it's as hot as usual, then that means lots of cold stuff. Maybe some nice cold chicken salad with ice-cold grapes and I've got to have a frozen banana covered with chocolate.

Since it has been so very, very hot lately, (you know that "too hot to move" kind of heat?) I've come up with the perfect dessert. I'm sharing it because it's so easy, very versatile, will feed a crowd or your entire family very economically, can be eaten anywhere, can be personalized to your exact specifications and you only have to go in the kitchen once. So, let's cook...

Individual Dessert

1 Bag miniature marshmallows
Chocolate Bars of your choice (I like Doves)
Small fold-top sandwich bags

Each person places as many marshmallows they want into a sandwich bag. Then choose your favorite chocolate bar. Take your chocolate and marshmallow dessert ingredients "to go" where ever you plan to enjoy them.

Place a piece of the chocolate bar in your mouth, let it melt 5 seconds then add marshmallows. You can add as many as you like to get your exactly perfect mixture of chocolate & marshmallows. Can even use chocolate bars with nuts. Kids loves this, and so do adults.

Lord, I love this dessert....

Enjoy, share and watch the Blue Angels from the Beach! Don't forget to "Blow & Believe" (face south and blow the storms away) while you're enjoying the show!

See ya in the kitchen.....

Together, We Can Do Anything

Beach Chamber Links Arms Asks For Local Patronage

Togetherness has deep meaning for the members of the Pensacola Beach Chamber of Commerce as they make plans to convince guests to continue to come to the Beach, oil or no oil. At their meeting on June 29, the 123 member organization vowed to stick together and keep Beach business alive.

Jeff Elbert, president, told the members, "We have a great Chamber. Our work is worthwhile. We need to work together to get through this. We need to support our neighbor businesses, shop, eat and emphasize this to our families, friends, customers and clients."

Maureen LaMar, executive director, said the parking lot at the Casino Beach would be cleared of oil related equipment for the Air Show.

"Parking availability is important as well as the overall impression and look of the main beach area," said Robbie Lofty, Santa Rosa Island Authority events coordinator.

During the report from businesses, most reported that volume was down, especially at hotels.

Mike Nixon, director of operations for Innisfree Hotel Corporation, said, "May should have been way up. We were trending up, but the numbers will be a little flat if not down. When June's report becomes available, I think you will see the impact of the oil spill. The perception is terrible and it does not need to be."

The Chamber Board has been invited to the Hospice Evening of Comedy, August 14 at the Hilton as a thank you for their coordination of the Go Irish on the Island donation to Hospice.

Robert Gleim, district manager for Homestar Restaurants sent the members away laughing when he told them to look at the three white swans swimming in the Sound.

"They are still all white," he said.

The next Chamber meeting will be at 8:30 a.m. at the Days Inn on Tuesday, July 27. Business After Hours will be the same day at 5:30 p.m. at the Sabine Sandbar.

THE SEAGULLS SING

The disaster in the Gulf has the Island Poets Society on high alert. Many have submitted poems, songs and free verse to share.

Gulf Disaster

By Lloyd Hess

It started with an explosion
Far out in the Gulf.
Eleven men lost their lives
And that was bad enough.

The amount of water put on the fire
Caused the rig to sink.
That may not have been the cause
But it's what the experts think.

They couldn't get the well head sealed
Though they tried for about a week.
BP tried to tell the world
That it was a tiny leak.

That proved not to be the case
As the oil continued to flow
The country watched in horror
As the slick began to grow.

Louisiana was the first state
To see oil come ashore.
At first it was just some tar balls
Then later so much more.

They tried to save the animals
Covered in oily slime.
Many thousands of them will die.
It's just a matter of time.

Mississippi then got hit
And it reached Alabama, too.
Floridians watched night and day
For we knew that we were due.

Overnight our snow white sand
Was turned to an oily mess.
How long before it's clean again
We can only guess.

Countless people along the Gulf
Will lose everything they own.
The total impact of this disaster
Will probably never be known.

The Vein

by O.D. Vie

It carries the precious liquid.
Now the hemorrhage
That will bring death
Only then will oiled tears dry up.

The Heart of the Fisherman

A Song by Karen Rimer Jurkowich
©6/7/10

In the eyes of the Fisherman I ask you now, sir,
Can you see the heartbreak of generations gone?
A sweet glance, a shared hope for what used to be.
Will we ever get back there again?

In the soul of the Fisherman, the spark is fading fast,
As he looks out to sunsets and marshes steeped in oil.
The precious coast is calling him, but there's nowhere he can go.
Will he ever get back there again?

Refrain:

*Our shores were pristine then and children would play;
Families would gather and while away the day.
Hearts filled with memories – oh, where can we turn?
To the heart of the Fisherman.*

To the family of the Fisherman, our hope is with you now.
A new day, a new dawn, we'll get there once again.
Walk with me strengthening our purposeful stride.
Yes, I know we'll get back there again,
To the heart of the Fisherman.

Refrain:

*Our shores will be pristine again and children will play;
Families will gather and while away the day.
Hearts filled with memories – oh, where can we turn?
To the heart of the Fisherman. Yes, the heart of the Fisherman.*

We are the Ocean

By Taylor Beddow and Addie Sims

Oriole Beach Elementary School

We are the fish. We are the sea life, and we are the ones who are being killed by your oil. So please keep saving.

We are the dolphins. We are the beautiful sea turtles, we are the ones whose babies are covered in your oil.
Please take action, for all the animals who have died. For all the animals who are being saved...Please keep saving!

We are the birds whose wings are all covered in your oil. We are the pelicans who are dripping in your oil.
We are the white beaches of the Gulf of Mexico; we are the fisherman who have lost our jobs.
We are the small businesses who have very little business.
This is our home the beautiful Gulf of Mexico.
Please make a difference and let's start saving.

Thank you for all who are helping.
Thank you for helping our wild life, to give them a second chance.
We are the ocean of the Gulf of Mexico; we are the beautiful beaches of the Gulf of Mexico, so please save our Gulf of Mexico.

Florida Governor Charlie Crist, right, joined hands with Joan Jackson, center, as a cloaked constituent discusses the oil spill impact with them. The Hands Across The Sand event was staged on Pensacola Beach, Saturday, June 26 at noon to protest offshore drilling. Other protests were held simultaneously at Perdido Key and Navarre Beach.

Kids Squeeze Lemons To Help Oiled Wildlife

Jonathon and Kaitlyn Wagner, ages 7 and 9, from Port Charlotte, Florida, donated the $800 they raised from a lemonade stand to the Gulf Winds Wildlife Relief Fund to support the Wildlife Sanctuary of Northwest Florida.

"My children were devastated by the pictures of the oil-covered birds on the news," says their mother, Carolyn Wagner. "They immediately got to work and raised all of this money on their own."

The Wagner family drove to Pensacola, June 29, and presented a check to the Wildlife Sanctuary Director, Dorothy Kaufmann, and the Gulf Winds Wildlife Relief Fund.

The Wildlife Sanctuary of Northwest Florida is a non-profit organization working to provide appropriate care to injured and orphaned indigenous wildlife.

Buck Lee Clarifies Confusion Over Closing Gulf To Swimmers

Buck Lee, Santa Rosa Island Authority Executive Director, made every effort to clear the air around the oily waters which are often making their way to the shores of Pensacola Beach.

Members of the local and national media attended his press conference on Wednesday, June 30 when he told them, "The Beach is never closed. The Beach is open for sunning, picnicking, playing horseshoes or doing whatever you want to do on the sand."

The Gulf of Mexico is a different matter.

"Last Wednesday (June 23) we had a large influx of oil and by products so we closed the Gulf water to swimmers," Lee said.

Frustrations arise when it comes to closing the water. Apparently, there is no real way to determine the safety of the water for swimming.

In view of the lack of scientific reports, Bob West, SRIA Director of Safety, and Lee, rely on aerial views of the water, maps regarding the position and locations of oil, updates on all official reports and test results.

"We are making visual inspection by flyovers from the air. Each morning lifeguards patrol in vehicles over eight miles of the beach. They report results to Bob West," said Lee.

Lee stood firm in his belief that closing the Gulf is a public health issue, not a safety issue.

"People need to use common sense before entering the Gulf. In my opinion there is a real need to be able to test the water quality and receive an immediate result. Until that happens we will have to continue to observe by land and by air," Lee said.

Keith Wilkins, Escambia County Bureau Chief, voiced his frustration as well with the lack of scientific evidence of the water quality.

"As a scientist, I have been quite frustrated with the fact that there is no science in place to tell us what the acceptable levels of hydrocarbon in the water is," Wilkins said. "Agencies at all levels, federal, state, local and health departments are trying to develop water safety standards. Based on the lack of data we have to err on the side of caution."

The University of West Florida is taking water samples in six swim locations and testing it, but it takes days to get the results.

Buck Lee said to the press, "You must believe me when I say that West and I had to make a decision on June 23 of what we thought was best for the safety of our residents and visitors."

West added, "We will use common sense in deploying lifeguards into the Gulf when there is oil present. If the water looks bad, please use common sense. The oil is not really a public safety issue; it is a public health issue."

In answer to the press corps' questions, Wilkins said some people would be more sensitive to the oil than others, so the health issue varies.

Lee closed the meeting by sending a request through the media that visitors and locals should come to Pensacola Beach.

"We will continue to monitor this situation day by day and expect things to change with the tide. The Blue Angels will go on as scheduled. God Bless America."

BYTES AND BITS

By Joe Stukey
Your Computer Pal

Q: "Can I recover a file that I deleted?"

A: Recovery of a deleted file is simple if the file went into the "Recycle Bin" on your desktop. To see if the file is in the Recycle Bin, click on that icon to view its contents. If the file is found there, right-click it with your mouse and then click "Restore." The file will return to its original location.

If the file is not in the Recycle Bin, the task becomes more difficult. If it is critical that you restore the file, you should immediately turn your computer off. The file, even though deleted, may still be intact but hidden on the hard disk. Continuing to use the computer might cause the deleted file to be over-written by the Windows software.

The hard disk would have to be removed from the computer for examination with specialized recovery software. The software can be purchased, or downloaded as a trial copy, through the Internet.

It should be installed on a separate computer, so that you do not risk over-writing the deleted file. The hard disk containing the deleted file can be attached to a computer by inserting it into an external case, then connecting the case to the computer with a USB cable. The recovery software examines the hard disk and locates the deleted file. You can then save the file to a new location on the computer.

If all that sounds too complicated, the hard disk can be shipped to a recovery service, such as On Track Recovery. There it will be examined by trained specialists, who are usually successful at retrieving all or most of the data. It is an expensive operation though, with recovery costs starting in the $1,000 range.

Thinking Out Loud

Just imagine that everything you have been told is not exactly true. And further imagine that your ancestors are not from this planet. What would you do if all of a sudden, visiting extraterrestrial beings showed up and said, "We're Grandma and Grandpa!"

Would you faint, run, hide, embrace them, shake their "hands," ask them questions? And what if your next door neighbors' family looked totally different – a group of beings from another galaxy – what would you do then?

I think about these things a lot. I rather like the idea of having "other people" from another planet in this Universe or possibly another Universe. I would hope that they understand the meaning of peaceful coexistence, something humans haven't figured out yet.

What if Earth as a planet was beginning to shut down? What if Earth could no longer support her multitude of inhabitants? What if you had the opportunity to go to another planet – to become the "Pilgrims or Robinson Crusoe" of the planet? Would you consider leaving Earth? Would you want to travel and explore the Star systems? What if "your people" offered that to you as an alternative to staying on Earth? Would you go?

I wonder what it would be like to discover other dimensions rather than just living with the ones we have. This, of course, brings to mind one of the best episodes of "The Twilight Zone."

Do you think that we will discover another dimension in this century?

It is good to think. Maybe it should be promoted more in school – to think for one's self.

What do you think?

Three Wins Puts Trio Into Tie for Player of the Month Honors

The Texas Hold 'Em 4444 Fun Poker Commissioner stayed sequestered for days unraveling the tie for Player of the Month honors for Pensacola Beach. Justin Scher, Tex Atkinson and Todd Lentini each earned three wins during weekly tournaments in June. Scher had two second place finishes which gave him the points to secure the title.

"These are three fine poker players," said Waldo Defindorf, Beach poker commissioner. "We are lucky to have the high quality of play that we do."

Todd Lentini, who posted a first place on June 27 at Paddy O'Leary's over Les Archer, said, "I will be back in July. I have already earned a second place finish on July 1."

This pair of Beach poker players just made themselves into three-of-a-kind. Congrats to Trace Lewis and Jenny Doherty on the birth of their daughter Coralyne Jenna who was born on June 27. Mom is fine and the diminutive baby girl was still at Sacred Heart Hospital as of press time. The Poker Family sends congratulations and prayers.

The Lizzard's TONGUE

by E.K. Hewson

While Pensacola Beach is gearing up to welcome home its favorite frequent flyers -- the Blue Angels -- I am anxiously awaiting the arrival of my international traveler, The Kid. He's been away representing the state of Maryland as a student ambassador while touring the European cities of London and Paris. My biggest fear, however, is that our tiny rural town will be way too small for him upon his return.

I have a feeling the brand new cell tower that was erected in his absence will not pass as a replica or a tribute to the Eiffel Tower. I also cannot offer him public transportation such as the London Tube or a high speed ferry ride like the one he took across the English Channel. The Prius will have to do and a leisurely sail on our family boat, "The Tempest," is our only mode of transportation while cruising on the Potomac River.

There is no historic tour of dark and dank castles with dungeons and torture chambers that once housed medieval lords and knights. Down by the college there is a group of houses with no roofs or walls, only support beams, that represent where the earliest settlers colonized St. Mary's City. The County Fair won't return until the fall, so I can't even barter rides on a squeaky ferris wheel, a rickety roller coaster and super slide against the London Eye. Of course, he can just forget about sidewalk cafes or world renowned artists. At best, we could sit on the front step at Dent's Deli and wait to see if any Amish artisans come by in horse and buggy with handmade quilts to sell.

I can guarantee him that if he asks classmates where is the loo, they will think he is talking about a man named Lew and not a toilet. That the local burger joint that advertises chips with its sandwiches means as in Lay's, not as in fries. And that the only thing crisp around here is the fall weather and new one-hundred dollar bills. Neither of which you eat. He is headed from the land that produced Culture Club to the soil that screams culture shock.

I know there is no way our little rural community can even begin to replicate the sights, sounds and smells of London and Paris for The Kid, nor would I want it to. Because we have something here so special that no place abroad could ever match. I call it home. Until next time...enjoy the Blues.

Former Pensacola Beach resident Holly Shelton will perform with Don Snowden's Big Band All Stars July 15 during Evenings in Olde Seville Square in Pensacola. Concertgoers can expect to hear sounds from various artists such as Glenn Miller and Benny Goodman to the more contemporary sounds of James Taylor and Sting. Holly Shelton is the featured vocalist for the band. Her timeless interpretations of the great American Songbook brings the audience to their feet year after year.

FINS UP PENSACOLA BEACH -

Parrotheads flocked to the grand opening of the Land Shark Landing beachfront bar on the Margaritaville Hotel property June 27. Manager Ray White, left, and Pensacola Parrothead President Willie Hubbard made sure everyone had an island welcome to the open air pavilion. Hundreds packed the bar, while staffers danced and served trays of hot dogs, chicken and cheeseburgers...in paradise.

Fall Music Festival Announces Line Up

The mellow October breezes will carry the sensational sounds of De Luna Fest across the sands of Pensacola Beach this fall. The festival organizers, Five Flags Tourism Group, announced the lineup for its inaugural year including performances from Stone Temple Pilots, 311, 30 Seconds to Mars, Michael Franti & Spearhead, Edward Sharpe & The Magnetic Zeros,

The Bravery, Rebelution, and Better than Ezra. The two-day festival, scheduled for October 15-16, will feature musical performances on three stages directly on Pensacola Beach.

"There will be something here for everyone," said Nick Bodkins, festival organizer, Five Flags Tourism Group. "We're bringing amazing live performances to our area with ticket prices that will encourage everyone of all ages to choose to support Pensacola Beach while having fun."

A concert of this magnitude has not been produced on Pensacola Beach in many years, so the management continues to fine tune details with the Santa Rosa Island Authority. Festival organizers will appear before the Santa Rosa Island Authority Board, July 14 to give an update and request approval to proceed.

Tickets are available online at delunafest.com.

Slater Trout never forgets where he spent his early years before moving to Hawaii to become a professional paddle boarder. During a recent visit to Pensacola Beach, Trout, left, spent time with his former school teacher, Debbie Campanella.

Trout, who calls Maui home, competed in the Gulf Coast Stand Up Paddle Championships in Maderia Beach, Florida on Saturday May 22. He finished the 9 mile race in first place in the Elite Class paddling division.

Jeff Cartwright is spending his summer fishing with his dad Johnny for Redfish in Santa Rosa Sound. The beach youngster landed this beauty on June 22. Jeff will be in fifth grade at the Beach School in the fall.

readin' the water by Saltwater Rick

Shark is on the menu this week as the boys, Justin Scher and Big Brandon Carey, took in a couple of Black Tips off the coast using kayaks to set their bait.

"Cut Ladyfish on the bottom and we weren't out there an hour before we were beached and were packing to head home," Justin said. "Get the fillet knife out!"

The shallows are full of the Gulf's bounty with everyone trying to find fresh saltwater to live in. The inshore fishing has been great with the Big Three- Specks, Flounder and Redfish - ready and waiting for something to do. Harvesting and freezing is a good idea right now. It is very hard these days to go fishin' and write about what I find.

Everyone, call your Congressman or better yet call The White House and make yourselves heard before we can't Go Fishin' at all.

Be kind to each other.
