HOW WEIRD IS THAT?
SEAN MCCARTHY

Spend any time surfing the Web and you are bound to find stories that are just too bizarre to be true. Here's a sampling, edited for length. And remember, just because it's online doesn't mean it's true!

Boy fakes kidnapping to hide bad grades

From news.aol.com: An 11-year-old boy got high marks in storytelling after staging a hoax to cover up his bad grades.

Police said the boy faked his kidnapping to avoid bringing home a bad report card, saying a man with a pistol snatched him after he left Ed White Middle School.

The boy said the man forced him into a "beat-up car" and threatened to kill him.

The student said he escaped by jumping out of the car but wasn't able to grab his book bag, which contained the report card.

He ran to his grandparents' house and later confessed to lying. His grandfather called police to apologize. Sgt. Mark Roberts said police were suspicious the boy was able to "escape" with his band instrument, but not his book bag.

The boy faces no charges at this time.

Using balls and bats to build homes

By Jessica Tuggle
jtuggle@hometownnewsol.com

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — Government officials will go up against local celebrities in a charity softball game on Nov. 14 at historic Dodgertown.

Every Dream Has A Price, a nonprofit that builds and renovates homes for community members in need, is putting on the game and subsequent hip-hop concert as a fundraiser to subsidize the cost of building a new house in Vero Beach.

The house will be built on one of the county surplus lots granted to the nonprofit earlier this year.

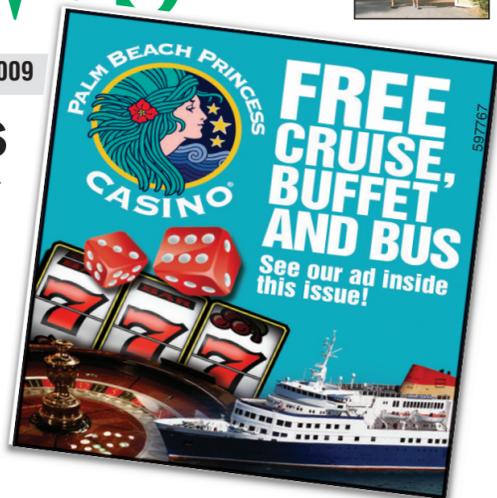

"This is the first fundraiser that we've ever had to do because when we've done other projects, everything has been donated," said Julianne Price, one of EDHAP's directors.

"In these tough economic times, we are not able to build houses in that way, as many of our tradespeople and businesses are struggling to keep their businesses open right now. So, we're doing our first fundraiser in a big way by having this event at Holman Stadium," she explained.

The game will begin at 5 p.m. and will be five innings long. Following the softball game will be a performance with hip-hop artist Tay Dizem.

Concrete poured for cafeteria, art studio at Wabasso School

By Jessica Tuggle
jtuggle@hometownnewsol.com

WABASSO — After more than 50 years, the Wabasso School is getting a brand new space for students to paint and eat.

Last week, construction workers laid the concrete foundation for a 5,600-square-foot building that will house a cafeteria and art studio.

The old cafeteria, besides being old, was a little too small for the use the building received and was rather worn out, said Susan Olson, director of facilities planning and construction.

The older building was demolished earlier in the summer and with the demolition, construction crews redesigned the school parking lot and bus loop to be more efficient.

"They had all of the road work done before the kids came back to school, so it was wonderful," said Brenda Kahn, administrative assistant to school Principal Tom Gollery.

"Before, we could only unload two or three buses at a time because of the (wheelchair-accessible) lifts on the buses that need more space. Now they've extended the bus loop, so we can have five of our buses loading and unloading at the same time, so the kids can get to class in a timely manner," she said.

The extended bus loop meant the new cafeteria and art studio would have to be relocated to the back northwest corner of the school campus, though it will still be connected to other buildings by walkways, said Ms. Kahn.

The cafeteria will also be equipped with new technology in the form of screen and projector to enable slideshows for workshops or lectures, Ms. Kahn said.

While the cafeteria is being constructed, students are eating their lunches in their classrooms or outside under a pavilion.

The cafeteria will continue to be a serving cafeteria. No meals are prepared on campus, said Ms. Olson.

"It never has been a cooking cafeteria. Another school brings in the food and it is served to the students," she said.

The cafeteria is also the space that students and faculty use for dances and graduation ceremonies.

The shared art room will be a big benefit to both teachers and students when working on their projects, Ms. Kahn said.

"The art studio will be great, because it will be a

Economic slump results in more residents getting food stamps

By Jessica Tuggle
jtuggle@hometownnewsol.com

TREASURE COAST — Officials from the state Department of Children and Families said the number of families receiving assistance in the food stamp program increased from 42,470 in August 2008 to 62,845 in August 2009.

The difference, 48 percent, is double the national average, according to a report by the Associated Press.

The numbers from DCF reflect totals from Indian River, St. Lucie, Martin and Okeechobee counties. The individual breakdown by county was not yet available, officials said.

"Statewide, we have seen tremendous increases and as a whole, the state increase is about 41 percent," said Cheri Sheffler, community relations manager at the regional DCF office in Fort Pierce.

Graphic by Cliff Partlow

"The Treasure Coast numbers show we are slightly above the state average. These increases have been growing pretty steadily every month since April 2007. In that month, we had 29,000 families in the program. If you look back six years, there has been a 98 percent increase in food stamp distribution," she said.

See STAMPS, A3

The statistics clearly demonstrate the great need and crisis many residents are facing in the slumping economy, Ms. Sheffler said.

"We have families applying now, that never thought they would need this kind of help, but the parents are unemployed and need the food stamps to buy the groceries," she said.

Most grocery store chains accept food stamps, as do quite a few local grocery stores and local assistance centers, such as Harvest Food and Outreach Center in Vero Beach and Fort INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — The Indian River County Sheriff's Office will present another session of classes for the public to learn about how the law enforcement organization works beginning Oct. 6 at 7 p.m.

The 30th citizen's acadmy will be structured slightly different than in the past because it will only be a seven-week session instead of a full 14 weeks.

"I call it a mini-academy because it's only seven weeks and we do that because of holidays coming up, Thanksgiving and into Christmas, and also you have people that just can't commit to the 14 weeks," said Sgt. Rick Vidiri, who organizes the classes.

The free class will meet each Tuesday from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Classes were changed from the traditional Wednesday night sessions to Tuesday because of public suggestion that Tuesday would be better because many people have church activities on Wednesday, Sgt. Vidiri said.

The goal of the academy is to provide a greater perspective, respect and appreciation for the challenges and decisions faced daily in safeguarding our community, a press release from the Sheriff's Office said.

Guest speakers from various areas of expertise, as well as a few field trips, help provide a good overview of the day-to-day comings and goings of the department, Sgt. Vidiri said.

"You get to see all different sides of the Sheriff's Office, marine, ranch and grove, civil division, crime scene analyst, and people from all those areas will come and talk about what they do," said Sgt. Vidiri.

"You'll get a total overview of the Sheriff's Office, and realize that it's more than just the deputies in green and white," he said.

Classes will be held in the auditorium of the Sheriff's Office administration building.

Seating is limited and pre-registration is required.

For more information, or to sign up for the class, contact Sgt. Vidiri at (772) 978-1817.

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — The inaugural Youth Guidance Kickoff for Kids mentor mixer was held at the Club at Pointe West in Vero Beach on Sept. 13.

Individuals interested in spending two hours a week mentoring a child attended the event sponsored by the Youth Guidance Mentoring & Activities program of Indian River County.

The event included NFL football on big screen televisions and information on what becoming a mentor could do for them, as well as the child. There were raffle prizes, tailgate munchies and a 50/50 raffle.

The guidance gallery, a board featuring 80 children who need mentors, was also on display. The board is available for organizations or businesses to display in their lobbies to help recruit mentors.

The primary purpose of Youth Guidance is to match each of its 700 at-risk K-12 children with volunteer mentors 17 and older. The agency is actively seeking volunteers to serve as mentors, tutors or periodic volunteers at special activities or to provide regular help in the office.

Those interested in learning more about the guidance gallery, volunteering or making a donation can visit www.ircyouth.com or call (772) 770-5040.

Tickets for the game will be $20 and sold at local outlets and on the Every Dream Has A Price Web site, Ms. Price said.

"All proceeds from this event will go toward building a house on our lot at 4218 25th Ave., Vero Beach. If we can raise enough money, we'd like to build the house in one weekend," she said.

Among the confirmed players are Commissioner Peter O'Bryan, Vero Beach city manager Jim Gabbard, the Rev. Buddy Tipton of Central Assembly of God in Vero Beach and Alastair Kennedy of Vero Beach. Commissioner Bob Solari will be an umpire.

Florida Sen.-elect Joe Negron has also confirmed that he will play in the softball game.

Sponsors for the event are needed, as are volunteers to help park cars and clean up after the event, she said.

Ms. Price said she is very excited about the event and hopes to have a big crowd.

"I'm really looking forward to the whole community coming together and having a good time to raise money," she said.

Pierce.

"We're seeing an increase in people coming into our crisis center that are out of work and can't find the jobs they need. Some people applying for government assistance are in a waiting period before they can receive any help," said Jennifer Trotter, outreach program director for Harvest Food and Outreach.

"With our food subsidy program, we are able to let people with food stamps buy what they need at a low cost and still buy other things at the store that we don't provide," she said.

House of Hope in Stuart provides nutritionally balanced groceries to people who have fallen on hard times and have seen dramatic increases in requests for help, as well.

"A family of four can receive a 25-pound box of groceries at our food pantry to try and stretch their income and still feed their family and pay bills," said Diane Tomasik, communications manager. "In August 2008, we served 2,200 families through the food pantry programs, and in August 2009, we served 2,700," she said.

"The increases we are seeing really speak to the struggles that so many families are facing for the first time in this economy," Ms. Sheffler said.

"A lot of people don't think that they'd even qualify for food stamps, but many of them actually do. Others think that there is some sort of stigma attached to needing help and asking for it, which is something that we need to overcome," she said.

The Web site www.myflorida.com/accessflorida has a sample application process that people can use to see if they qualify, Ms. Sheffler.

"We really encourage people to ask for help if they need it. There's nothing wrong with that," she said.

To learn more about eligibility requirements of the food stamp program, visit www.dcf.state.fl.us/ess/food-stamps.shtml.

shared room that the teachers and students use and they don't have to be concerned about spilling paint or anything on their classroom floor because you expect paint to be on the floor of an art room," she said.

The studio will have many windows looking out to the playground area and back lawn, so students can be inspired by the outdoors even inside, Ms. Kahn said.

The entire project budget is a little more than $1.8 million, which includes any furniture and equipment needed, Ms. Olson said.

The timeline for completion of the project is not exactly defined, but Nick Westenburger, planning and construction coordinator for the school district, said everything is on schedule. The new building will be done by June 2010, just in time for graduation.

The exterior design of the new building will match the historic Wabasso School building, Mr. Westenburger said.

"We're working on the paint and the outside will have a brick stucco to match the oldest building, because we want to preserve that history and make it look like the original building," he said.

Wabasso School was built in 1925, according to the school district Web site.

"We are very excited about all of this, it's been a long time coming," said Ms. Kahn.

News@hometownnewsol.com

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — The growing healthy kids orientation for Youth Guidance children will be held Sept. 19 starting at 9 a.m., at Riverside Park in Vero Beach.

The Youth Guidance mentoring and activities program and growing healthy kids are teaming up to plant victory gardens at children's homes to encourage healthy eating and living.

The orientation will include registration, information on phases of gardening and a hands-on craft project pertaining to gardening to prepare the kids for planting gardens at home.

The program is a newly established nonprofit organization partnering with local clubs and Youth Guidance to build a network of children's victory gardens in the county.

The project's focus is to educate and empower children, families and community members to value the importance of optimal health for all, make smart choices and take actions that result in a healthy lifestyle for children and their families.

The project with Youth Guidance includes growing vegetable and flower gardens, writing contests and creating garden art using recycled materials.

The primary purpose of Youth Guidance is to match each of its 700 at-risk, K-12 children, with volunteer mentors 17 or older. The agency is actively seeking volunteers to serve as mentors, tutors or periodic volunteers at a special activity or to provide regular help in the office.

Youth Guidance is also looking for partnerships with businesses, service clubs and church groups to pair with their unmatched children for just one activity a year.

Those interested in learning more about how they can get involved in this event, volunteering at Youth Guidance or making a donation may visit www.ircyouth.com or call (772) 770-5040 for more information.

Pantry's annual banquet set for October

For Hometown News
News@hometownnewsol.com

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — The Source will host its annual fall event, "Share His Harvest Banquet," on Oct. 23 at the First Church of God off of 58th Ave., in Vero Beach, from 6:30-9 p.m.

The Source is in need of table hosts and event sponsors. Table hosts are invited to attend the banquet for free, but are asked to invite four to eight guests to sit at their table for a night of dinner, entertainment and keynote speakers.

Table hosts and guests are informed that this is a fundraising event, and at some point in the evening, envelopes will be passed out for donations. All donations will benefit The Source.

Banquet sponsors are asked to contribute $500 or more prior to the event to help with event costs. They too, will be invited to attend the banquet with guests.

This year's keynote speaker, James H. Pence, is a full-time freelance writer, editor, karate teacher and full-time pastor. He also serves as a director for prison ministries for First Baptist of Dallas and is author of the novel "Blind Sight."

His guest, who will also speak, is Terry Caffey. Mr. Caffey experienced great personal tragedy in his life and was blessed by turning his tragedy around and moving forward after reading Mr. Pence's book.

They have recently collaborated on a book entitled, "Terror by Night" which is to be released in early October.

For more information on this year's keynote speakers, visit www.iamthesource.org/Harvest-Banquet.html. For more information on the banquet, call (772) 532-4271.

Car worker's woes

First, our government gives billions to General Motors (or should it be called government motors?) because it is "too big to fail" and then the company announces massive layoffs of U.S. workers.

Now, to make Americans look like first-class suckers, the company is investing in a major Chinese-government owned automaker and is going to make trucks in China to take advantage of lower wages paid to Chinese workers who are the winners in this outrage.

According to George

George Washington was not only a strong leader, he was also a thoughtful and wise man. We would be wise to listen to and heed his counsel.

He once said, "Government is not reason, it is not eloquence, it is force; like a troublesome servant and a fearful master. Never for a moment should it be left to irresponsible action."

A positive side?

When politicians say we need government-run health care, they often fail to acknowledge the U.S. has made huge investments in infrastructure in the sciences.

Because of this, we enjoy the benefits of world-dominant health care research, which results in better drugs and delivery systems. America's first-class biotech industry, developed under current market-based economics, provides massive advantages over the government burdened Europeans and Canadians.

Take a look at Massachusetts

Congress is considering several hair-brained schemes for government-run health care, but it should be looking at the experience of Massachusetts, which has mandated universal coverage.

Patients must now wait for a doctor's appointment for an average of 100 days. Students are discouraged from careers in medicine and primary care physicians are becoming discouraged.

Wise words?

Plato said it and we should listen.

"The people have always some champion whom they set over them and nurse into greatness. This and no other is the root from which a tyrant springs; when he first appears he is a protector."

True then, true now?

"No man's life, liberty or property is safe while the legislature is in session."

Mark Twain said it years ago. It is still true today.

Auto outrage

When purchasing an automobile, Americans face the prospect of being forced to choose between vehicles which are smaller, lighter, less safe and more expensive. We can thank President Obama, his Department of Transportation and the Environmental Protection Agency for these very limited and unpleasant choices.

As the government moves to take over more of the auto industry, bureaucrats admit the new proposed rules will add $600 to the price of the average car.

It is up to us to protest this outrage before the government's new regulations go into effect.

Removing non-native exotics

Cliff Partlow/staff photographer

City of Sebastian environmental specialist and planner Margie Reynolds surveys one of three lots near the new Main Street boat ramp that were to be cleared of native and non-native invasive exotic plants last Saturday. The exotics were taking over in that area and putting the mangrove population at risk.

The return of the H1N1 virus

This year there are two types of flu to think about.

Last week I wrote about seasonal flu and this week I'll discuss novel influenza A, the correct name for the H1N1 or swine flu.

H1N1 is in the news again because experts are concerned as the weather gets colder, it will re-emerge at the same time the seasonal flu appears.

The H1N1 flu is known to many as swine flu because lab tests showed the genes in this virus resembled those of flu viruses that occur in pigs in North America.

However, and this is important, it is different in many ways. Right now, the CDC says "there is no evidence that swine in the United States are infected with this new virus."

While influenza viruses can spread back and forth between pigs and people, H1N1 is not spread by food. You cannot get this virus from eating pork.

The H1N1 virus is spread from human to human in the same way seasonal flu spreads. The

ALIVE & WELL
SHELLEY KOPPEL

CDC recommends some common-sense precautions to lessen the risk you or your family will contract H1N1:

- Wash your hands. This is the single most important preventive measure for this flu, seasonal flu and the common cold. Use soap and water or an alcohol-based hand sanitizer and be especially mindful after you cough or sneeze. Wash for 15-20 seconds.

- Avoid touching your eyes, nose or mouth. Germs spread that way.

- Try to avoid contact with sick people. If you are sick, be a good neighbor and stay home until you are symptom-free for 24 hours. Keep kids home if they are sick.

- Cover your mouth with a tissue when you cough or sneeze and throw the tissue away.

Then wash your hands.

- If you live in an area where cases of H1N1 have been reported, and you have flu-like symptoms, contact your health care provider.

There are new recommendations for vaccination against the swine flu, when the vaccination becomes available this fall.

The CDC recommends vaccinating the following high-risk populations: pregnant women, who seem particularly sensitive to this strain of flu; people who live with or care for children younger than 6 months; health care and emergency medical personnel; children and young adults between 6 months and 24 years; and people 25-64 who have chronic health disorders.

The H1N1 flu doesn't seem to target older people in the way seasonal flu does, but if you or a loved one of any age has difficulty breathing, fever and a rash or cough, severe persistent vomiting or confusion, seek immediate medical attention.

There is no cause for panic. Unless there are widespread outbreaks, there are no plans to close schools or places or business. However, just as we listen to the hurricane reports during hurricane season, it's a good idea to listen to the news and follow public health recommendations should cases come to the Treasure Coast.

Shelley Koppel is unable to endorse specific treatments for disease. Any protocols for treatment or testing she discusses are accepted standards of medical practice as recommended by agencies such as the American Academy of Pediatrics or the American Cancer Society. When she draws from personal experience, those are her experiences and are not medical recommendations.

She is the former editor of "Today's HealthCare" magazine and a member of the National Association of Science Writers. E-mail questions to skoppel@bellsouth.net.

Updating Windows now or later

Every time a new operating system gets released, we go through the same process, and the questions don't seem to change much.

The most often asked question seems to be, "Should I upgrade now?" My answer at this point is to wait.

In the mid 1990s, Microsoft went from Windows 3.1 (a graphical "shell" that sat on top of the real operating system at that time, DOS) to Windows 95, and people asked the same thing.

Then again, in the late 1990s, we went from Windows 95 to Windows 98 and got flooded with the same question.

Shortly after that we went from Windows 98 to Windows ME (remember that one?) and the pattern repeated itself.

Next came Windows 2000, Windows XP, Vista and now, finally, Windows 7 is set to release in October.

It seems people always want to jump on the bandwagon and upgrade as soon as a new operating system is released. My answer is always the same: "No, not yet. Wait a bit."

COMPUTE THIS
SEAN MCCARTHY

So why is that?

My reasoning lies in the fact that when these new operating systems are released, they are not quite finished yet. We need to give them some time to work out the bugs.

Let me explain. Whenever a new operating system is released, it has gone through extensive testing at Microsoft and for all intents and purposes, is finished.

The problem is, it's pretty much impossible to test a program as big as an operating system in every conceivable configuration with every piece of hardware out there and make sure it's able to manage every piece of software people are liable to try to run.

So, what do they do?

They get the new software running as best they can and then make it available to the public.

Then, over the course of the next year or so, they take all of the most commonly reported problems and release patches or "service packs" that fix whatever issues they were able to figure out.

The process continues with users reporting problems (minor glitches all the way up to serious show-stopping errors) and engineers correcting problems and publishing fixes in additional service packs and updates.

The first people who run the new operating system get to be the guinea pigs and that's just how it's always been.

With that in mind, the next question I am usually asked is when to upgrade.

I advise people to give it at least a year or more after the release. Let someone else do the testing, especially if you rely on your machine to get your work done.

The last thing I want to do is get interrupted by unexpected errors that no one has an answer for yet while trying to get some work done.

By giving it a year or so, you give the engineers time to stabilize the software and, hopefully, correct most of the major errors that made it out in the initial release.

Another thing to consider is that the current stable operating system (in this case XP; don't even ask me about Vista) has already gone through this refining process and is usually pretty rock solid by now.

That's an important consideration to keep in mind, especially if you use your machine for important tasks.

Does this mean I don't recommend anyone switch to the new operating system at this time?

No, we need someone to run the system or how will they ever work out the bugs?

If you are a casual computer user and don't rely on your machine for important "critical" tasks, or if you can afford to risk rendering your machine unusable for a bit, while you troubleshoot and correct some weird problem no one has seen before, then go for it.

Someone has to do it, right?

SEBASTIAN — The Sebastian River High School International Baccalaureate program was awarded $250 from the Vero Beach Kiwanis Club on Sept. 8 for the friends of IB sponsorship. Susan Lovelace, International Baccalaureate program coordinator and English teacher, accepted the award at Sebastian River High School by Ella Chabot-Remington, Vero Beach Kiwanis Club vice president. The Vero Beach Kiwanis Club's mission is to support local children's programs. The IB sponsorship will support a benefit performance of the play "Two Gentlemen of Verona" by the Cambridge American stage tour from England to be held on Sept. 28 at 7 p.m. in the SRHS performing arts center. All proceeds from this event support the IB program. The University of Cambridge performers have toured the Eastern United States with a different Shakespeare play every year since 2000.

present the popular beer festival on Oct. 10 from 3 p.m. to 8 p.m. at historic Dodgertown in Vero Beach.

The Junior League is a nonprofit organization, run by women who believe in promoting volunteerism and developing the potential of young women and communities through volunteerism, according to its Web site.

General admission to Oktoberfest is $5.

According to the festival list of events, there will be live music and entertainment featuring a German band, a children's play area, kinder garden, with bounce houses and other games and crafts and access to a food court stocked with various German delicacies.

Admission to the bier garden, which will be stocked with international/artisan beers will be $25 in advance or $30 at the door. The price of admission is included.

Funds raised at the event will go toward programs supported by the Junior League, including the Sneaker Exchange Program by the Education Foundation of Indian River County and the Youth Volunteer Corps by the Boys and Girls Club of Indian River County.

Man accused of trading dad's car for $50 in crack
From fresnobee.com: Authorities arrested a man they said tried to trade his father's car for $50 worth of crack cocaine.

Deputies arrested the 39-year-old man after his 74-year-old father reported his Lincoln stolen.

When deputies arrived at the father's home, they saw the son walking up the street. They determined the car had been sold for drugs. Deputies later saw someone else driving the Lincoln, and pulled it over. The driver fled the moving car, which hit two parked cars.

Deputies caught the driver, who was arrested on suspicion of evading an officer and resisting arrest.

The son was arrested on suspicion of car theft. Authorities did not release the names of those involved.

Retired woman shoots two holes-in-one

From sfgate.com: Ruth Day, a 64-year-old retiree from northern England, had the day of her life on the golf course last week. Day managed to shoot two holes-in-one in the same round at Whitley Bay Golf Club, where she is a member.

Day shot her first ace on the 149-yard third hole on Sept. 9. She added the second on the 161-yard 13th.

Day said she has been playing golf for about 10 years.

Baby born at 9:09 on Sept. 9, 2009 weighs 9 pounds, 9 ounces

From msnbc.msn.com: No doubt about it, the nines have it.

Chuck Berendes of La Crosse Wis. said he will never forget the birthday of his third child, born on the ninth day of the ninth month in the year 2009. Nor will Berendes and his wife, Polly, forget Henry Michael's arrival time: 9:09 a.m. by Cesarean section. But they got the biggest laugh when the newborn was placed on the delivery room scale following his birth.

Berendes said it was metric scale so the doctor did the math in his head, but to make sure, he had the nurse also do the conversion. Berendes said they broke into laughter when the nurse told them Henry weighed 9 pounds, 9 ounces.

Out & about

THROUGH SUNDAY, SEPT. 27

• "Second Time Around," a romantic comedy by Henry Decker, is on stage at the Vero Beach Theatre Guild, located at 2020 San Juan Ave. in Vero Beach. The humorous play revolves around a widow and widower who fall in love, but decide not to marry but rather live together to save Social Security benefits, much to the chagrin of their grown children. The play culminates in a surprise ending. Shows are available at 2 p.m., 7 p.m. and 8 p.m. depending upon the day of performance. Tickets are $20 and lower for groups of 20 or more and for youth. For more information, call the box office on weekdays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at (772) 562-8300 or purchase online at www.verobeachtheatreguild.com.

SATURDAY, SEPT. 26
THROUGH DEC. 27

• The Vero Beach Museum of Art presents "SANCTUARY: Anna Tomczak Photography" in an exhibit featuring 30 large-format photographs on display in the museum's Schumann Gallery. The photographs are still-life assemblages created from personal mementos, symbolic objects, flowers and antique materials which are then photographed to produce watercolor-like prints. Her art images have won many awards, been featured on eight book covers and have been showcased in a variety of publications. For more information, call (772) 231-0707.

THROUGH OCT. 25

• The Vero Beach Museum of Art presents "Rooted in Tradition: Art Quilts from the Rocky Mountain Quilt Museum" in its Homes Gallery in an exhibit sponsored by the Patricia M. Patten endowment. There is no admission charge to view this exhibit or any of the museum's other summer/fall exhibitions. The exhibit chronicles the history of art quilts from 1980 to the present in a movement which brought the quilts from the bed to the wall. Sixty-four quilts in the collection reflect the change from traditional repeated block designs to more free-spirited, edgy art forms. Art museum to feature photography exhibit

By Barbara Yoresh

VERO BEACH — Since the Civil War, Americans have valued photographic images that freeze special moments in time.

But whether the image is an early daguerreotype, a Polaroid instant snapshot or a digital photo, subject matter, as well as the image-making process has always been fascinating to viewers.

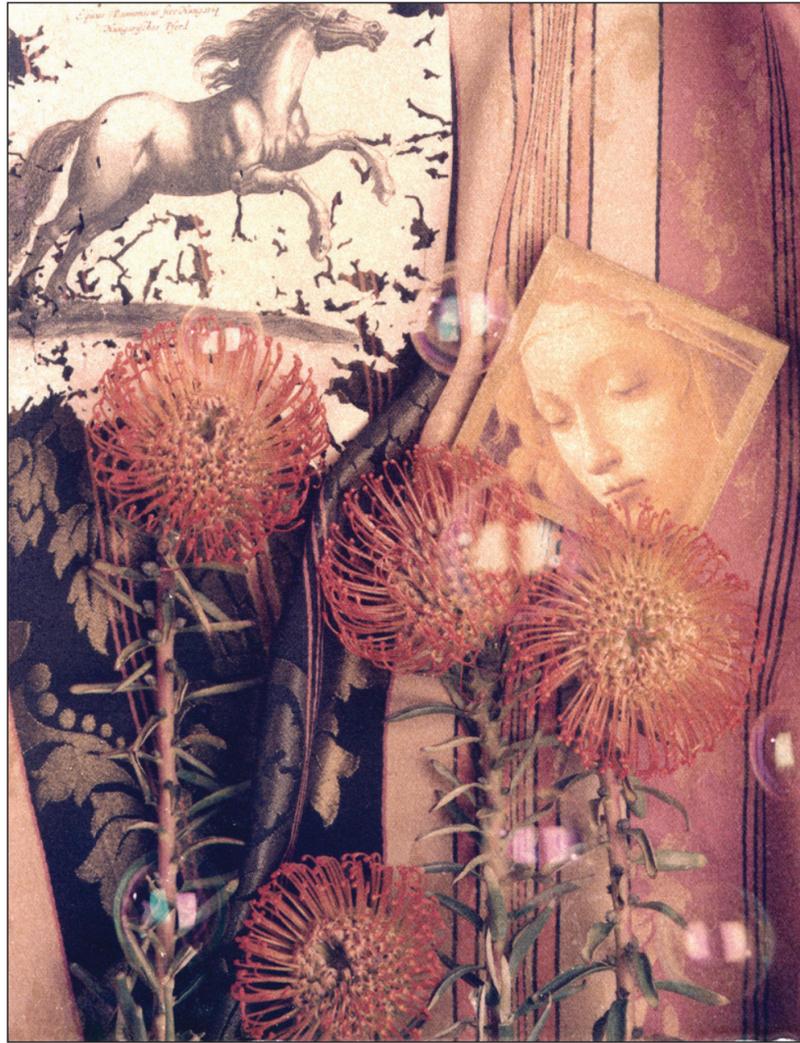

The Vero Beach Museum of Art will present a special photographic exhibit from Sept. 26 through Dec. 27 that melds both creative talents.

SANCTUARY: Anna Tomczak Photography features uniquely composed large format photographs in an exhibition of 30 works.

The exhibition will be on view in the museum's Schumann Gallery and offered free of charge to all museum visitors.

This photography is most assuredly not another example of someone's Kodak moment, however.

Ms. Tomczak earned a bachelor of arts degree in theater arts and film from Pennsylvania State University and a master of fine arts in fine art photography from the University of Florida. She teaches workshops and classes at various universities, museums and studios throughout America and abroad and has been awarded three artist support grants from Polaroid to use its rare 20-inch by 24-inch camera system, with which she creates Polaroid image transfers used in her creative compositions. Ms. Tomczak makes her home in Lake Helen, Fla., and her "SANCTUARY" exhibit showcases actual photographs from a 76-page book of her works by the same name that was published in Turin, Italy.

While her works are, indeed, photographic prints, they are artistically assembled in a still-life collage that renders them with the look of shimmering watercolor paintings.

The assembled images contain a montage of subjects with very personal or symbolic meaning. Some have an antique of floral component while other objects evoke memories, history or other thought-provoking images. Ms. Tomczak herself admits to being an avid collector of "iconic treasures" and found objects, which find their way into her photographic compositions along with people, animals and an unending list of other subjects.

Week of 9-25-2009

Aries-March 21-April 19
Arians are very high spirited. You take on the greatest challenges and usually emerge victorious because of the strong focus you give the top priorities. You keep your eye on the goal. This unparalleled energy and drive pushes you on to success. With a keenly honed purpose and edge like this, there is no stopping you.

Taurus-April 20-May 20
Attention to details continues to bring positive results. Sometimes it is a challenge to find continuing motivation and goal setting and still take care of details. The solution is to work off a priority list or delegate to trusted friends and helpers. Wait for signs that it is time to act. This will raise your success ratio a lot.

Gemini-May 21-June 21
The whole idea is to pace yourself when working on different projects so that you have something left at the end besides burnout. Live a moderate life. You don't have to do everything. You are so strong. You will be tested on faith and patience in the universe. You are up for it. Sometimes less is more, you know.

Cancer-June 22-July 22
Your sense of family and responsibility are legend. You are the best. Why is this so? It's called heart. Only love and deep feelings live in your heart and spirit. However, you must also set limits so your spirit works well. Tell the truth. Say no when you don't want to do certain things and you will see respect grow.

Leo-July 23-Aug. 22
Now is the time to carry our new plans. First, fine tune your life. Get rid of clutter. Then hone your skills to a razor-sharp edge. This plan will move you forward like a sea of energy and bring others into your arena who want to help and just love being around you. Continue to let your strong spirit lead you. Never give up.

Virgo-Aug. 23-Sept. 22
What are your true needs and desires? Unless you know, how can you expect anyone else to make you happy? Make yourself happy

The dyes from the photo negative are infused into special papers used for watercolors.

Her work is renowned world-wide and her photographs have been exhibited in many museums.

Ms. Tomczak also conducts master artist workshops throughout the nation and world.

In association with the exhibition, Ms. Tomczak will conduct a workshop entitled "SEEKING SANCTUARY: Photo, Mixed Media and Wax Encaustic" at the Vero Beach Museum of Art Dec. 11-13 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The workshop is designed as an alternative photographic and mixed media process workshop and is for those with some photo experience.

The workshop will feature various methods of integrating photographs into the surface of various art papers, cloth, canvas, glass and other materials. Various antique photo processes will be emphasized as well as text methods which incorporate typewriter and computer-generated text.

Cost of the workshop is $295 and $275 for museum members.

first. Only you know what is truly right for you. Let your heart guide you in the right timing for action on your dreams. Trust the prompting of your inner desires. It is your greatest truth.

Libra-Sept. 23-Oct. 22

Set healthy, productive boundaries for yourself and work within them to the fullest. Refuse to allow yourself to be pushed past what is acceptable for your greater and higher good. However, be flexible and open to change. It's OK to bend when needed, just don't break. Let your strong conscience guide you.

Scorpio-Oct. 23-Nov. 21

Release non-essential things from your life to make room for new and better ones coming in. There are only so many productive hours in a day. Work eight, sleep eight and use the other eight to do the necessary things for your life that keep you healthy, informed, relaxed and in balance. Yours is a good life well lived.

Sagittarius-Nov. 22-Dec. 21

Courage in the face of adversity is your strongest virtue. Many quit or give up in the face of adversity. You keep on keeping on. This ability of psyching yourself up each day is what keeps you fresh and focused. It drives the blues away before they take away your happiness. Now your day is a big success. Yeah!

Capricorn-Dec. 22-Jan. 19

Act decisively on your immediate goals. You are on the edge of unprecedented growth. It's like, "I've done my work, it's time to play." Now we're talking. This is healthy and truthful. Keep on honing your visionary skills. The vision comes first, then creative manifestation. These are the stepping stones to true happiness.

Aquarius-Jan. 20-Feb. 18

One of your greatest strengths is to dream and then follow through and create the vision. Stick to the basics. Hone them and try new ideas. You have true magic in your spirit like few others. Your love of beauty and balance carries you on when lesser earthly distractions try to sidetrack you. It's your age, you know. Inspire us.

Pisces-Feb. 19-March 20

You grow in spirit every day. Why? Because of your great, sweet heart. Your inner strength and beauty is a light for everyone around you. Continue to strengthen your resolve, no matter what the earthly side throws in your path. You can do it. Shed the old, embrace the new and reach for the stars. It's your destiny.

Hometown News $UPER BUY$ of the week

Reader mail: Could I save more by buying store brands?

It's time again to answer reader mail from people like you who are learning to super-coupon:

Q: I've been reading your columns with great interest. Prices seem so high right now in the grocery store. If I just buy the store brand of products, won't I save more money than using coupons on the big brands?

A: This is a common misconception among new coupon shoppers. It's true that when you compare the shelf price of store brands with the price of name-brand products, the store brands often appear to save us more money.

But with rare exceptions, we can almost always buy

COUPON QUEEN

the name-brand products that we like and prefer with coupons at an even better price than the store brand.

Why is this? Quite simply, there are many more coupons and discounts available for name-brand products than for store-brand products.

If you look at your coupon inserts from the newspaper and the wide variety of coupons available on the Internet, you'll quickly notice there are typically no coupons for store-brand items. Large, brand-name product manufacturers work very hard to encourage us to try their products. They feature their brands and products in the coupon inserts, offering shoppers significant discounts to try them.

Many times, it's also possible to find store coupons for the same products. If we stack a store and manufacturer coupon together, we're reaching an even larger savings on the brand-name item than we could by simply purchasing the store brand at its regular low price.

As with all things, there are always exceptions. If your store happens to offer coupons for its own brands, that's a great way to save.

Here's a perfect example. Recently, my store had coupon dispensers set up in the aisle offering $1 coupons for "any (store-brand) paper product." During this sale, store-brand rolls of paper towels, boxes of facial tissue and packages of the napkins were all on sale for $1. Now, if you're a regular reader of my column, you know that using a $1 coupon on a $1 sale is one of my favorite ways to get things for free.

Speaking of coupon dispensers, our next question this week pertains to them.

Q: I often see coupon machines on the shelves of the grocery store, but the coupons in them aren't usually for things on sale. Is there a strategy for getting good discounts with these?

A: Absolutely! You're right in noticing that most of the time, the coupons in the store's coupon dispensers don't link up to the best sales in the store. That's also true of the coupons we receive in the newspaper each week. Their greatest value comes when the price of the featured item takes a big dip.

I regularly "shop" the coupon dispensers in my stores. If I see coupons for an item I like, I will take a few to hold onto until the sale price drops. About six weeks ago, my store's coupon dispenser offered $2 coupons for turkey bacon. But the turkey bacon was on sale for $4.99, a relatively high price. I took a few coupons from the dispenser and held onto them for four weeks, when the price of the turkey bacon went down to $2.99. Now, I took home turkey bacon for 99 cents a package. If I had used those coupons the week I found them in the dispenser though, I would still have paid $2.99 a package, three times the price.

VIERA — Opportunities to watch professional baseball, see an array of birds and animals up close, play a round of golf and shop all are available in the vibrant Viera area.

Each March, the Washington Nationals' Major League Baseball team conducts its spring training at Space Coast Stadium, 5800 Stadium Parkway.

And after the Nationals depart for up north, fans can continue enjoying pro ball at the stadium during the Brevard County Manatees' season, which runs from April through early September.

The Manatees are the Class A Advanced affiliate of the Milwaukee Brewers. For more information, visit <http://brevardcounty.manatees.milb.com/index.jsp?sid=t503>.

At the Brevard Zoo, 8225 N. Wickham Road, visitors can see and learn about more than 550 animals. The zoo also offers a train ride, kayaking trips and the Paws On exhibit, where children can splash around in a play lagoon, check out an aquarium, visit an animal petting area and more.

Golfers have their pick of three public golf courses in the area: Duran Golf Club, 7032 Stadium Parkway, west of Interstate 95 and north of Wickham Road; Baytree Lastings Milledge of the Washington Nationals breaks his bat while hitting a single. The Nationals play their spring training games at Space Coast Stadium in Viera. Space Coast Stadium is also home to the minor league Brevard Manatees.

National Golf Links, 8207 National Drive, east of I-95 and south of Wickham Road; and Viera East Golf Club, 2300 Clubhouse Drive, east of I-95 and between Viera and Barnes boulevards.

At The Avenue Viera shopping center, 2261 Town Center Ave., shoppers have 60 stores and about a dozen restaurants to choose from, as well as the 16-screen Rave Motion Picture Theatre. The Avenue Viera is north of Wickham Road and between I-95 and Stadium Parkway.

For other types of adventures, visit the Ritch Grissom Memorial Wetlands at Viera, on the west end of Wickham Road. Its peaceful water attracts numerous types of birds and also is the home of alligators and other creatures.

For more information about the Viera area, call (321) 242-1200 or visit www.viera.com.

Recipes for one amazing cake and fresh whipped cream

Hello, smart shoppers. The holidays are around the corner, so I must repeat this amazing cake for special occasions in both the original and the low-fat version.

I found the recipe in a magazine when I was a teenager. It was so intriguing I saved it. Years later, I made it for my father's birthday. The fact that he didn't like cake in any shape or form didn't enter the picture. He apologized, but wouldn't even taste it. Dad passed away 19 years ago, his birthday was Feb. 16.

My granddaughter Christy, another one who doesn't like cake, requested it for her birthday. She was forewarned and promised she would eat it, which she did. While her birthday is in January, we didn't get to celebrate it until Feb. 16, her great grandfather's birthday. Happy birthday, great grandpappy!

This cake is a project, but for a special occasion, you can just count on the applause. Enjoy, see you next week.

with the Grammy Guru ARLENE BORG

This cake is large and can't be changed; leftovers freeze great. You can cut the fat and cholesterol if you use my recipe for a fat- and cholesterol-free cake and by substituting low-fat or fat-free whipped topping for the heavy cream.

I will repeat the recipe for a fat and cholesterol free cake for those of you who missed it and then go onto the recipe in its original form.

FAT- AND CHOLESTEROL-FREE CAKE

When using a cake mix, substitute applesauce for the oil, egg substitute or egg whites for the eggs, add one extra white and 1 tbsp. flour. Add water as package directs. Spray pans with cooking spray.

END OF THE RAINBOW CAKE

- 2 packages white cake mix
- Food coloring (optional)
- 3/4-cup well-drained, canned, crushed pineapple
- 1/2-teaspoon almond extract
- 2 tablespoons granulated sugar
- 1/2-cup finely chopped pistachio nuts
- 1/2-cup apricot preserves, slightly beaten
- 1/2-cup raspberry preserves
- 1 quart heavy whipping cream or 8 cups frozen whipped topping*
- 2 tablespoons confectioner's sugar

Day before: In two 8-inch by 8-inch by 2-inch square pans or two 8-inch round pans, bake 1 package cake mix according to the package directions. Repeat. Refrigerate four cooled, wrapped cakes.

I prepare all of the whipped cream mixtures first and then layer the cake.

Early next day: Whip half the cream, (2 cups). Heavy cream doubles when whipped, giving you 4 cups. Refrigerate remaining cream.

1. With long sharp knife, split each of 3 cakes, making 6 layers. On large, low cake plate, place one of the split layers, cut side up.
2. With yellow color, tint pineapple pale yellow; then fold in one fourth of the whipped cream. Spread mixture on split layer; top with second split layer, cut side up.
3. With red color, brighten raspberry jam; fold in one fourth of the whipped cream. Spread on second layer; top with third split layer cut side up.
4. With green color, tint one fourth of whipped cream pale green. Fold in almond extract, granulated sugar and nuts. Spread on third layer; top with fourth split layer, cut side up.

5. With yellow color, brighten apricot preserves; fold in rest of the cream. Spread on fourth layer; top with fifth split layer cut side down. (Use rest of cake elsewhere).

6. Refrigerate cake for at least 2 hours to set.

7. Whip remaining 2 cups of cream, adding confectioner's sugar.

Frost top and sides of cake, refrigerate until serving time.

This cake is so tall you will need dinner plates to serve it. An electric knife cuts it best. Decorate cake as you choose. I used fresh cut, washed flowers from the garden. Remember, the flowers are to decorate, not to eat, just to look at.

WHIPPED CREAM

Whipped cream is extremely tricky to catch it just right before it turns to butter. Use 2 tablespoons confectioner's sugar to 2 cups heavy whipping cream.

Use a high narrow bowl. Chill bowl and beaters. Using an electric mixer, beat at high speed until frothy. Add sugar and continue beating, watching the cream very carefully. It will start to thicken. Continue beating, scraping bowl occasionally. The cream is whipped when it starts to have a slight "break-up" look. Overbeating by just a few seconds will suddenly turn it into butter. It will become a mass with water around it.

This makes enough to frost two 8- to 9-inch layers.

I am available for talks from Fort Pierce to Stuart; call (772) 465-5656 and leave me a message. Visit my Web site at www.romancingthestove.net or send me an e-mail at arlene@romancingthestove.net.
