HOW WEIRD IS THAT?!
SEAN MCCARTHY

Spend any time surfing the Web and you are bound to find stories that are just too bizarre to be true. Here's a sampling, edited for length. Remember, just because it's online doesn't mean it's true!

From NBCConnecticut.com: Man said God told him to break into home

Police in Farmington, Conn., are investigating a strange crime with a strange motive.

The man accused of breaking into a stranger's Middle Road house told the homeowners that God made him do it, police said.

Levon Sarkisyan, 27, of West Hartford, used a fireplace poker to smash statues and a marble table, took a shower and dressed in the clothing of a former resident who had died, police said.

Sarkisyan identified himself as Leon Sark and told the resident "a light from above told him to do this," Sgt. Stephen Egan told the Hartford Courant. He also said, "God wants me to help the world" and told the homeowner he meant no harm, police said.

Before police arrived, the resident and Sarkisyan had an equally odd conversation. When the resident tried to call 911 but fumbled with the phone, Sarkisyan said, "You see, God will not let you use the phone," Egan told the Courant.

Hearing on charter changes slated

By Jessica Tuggle

SEBASTIAN — Sebastian voters are one step closer to having the opportunity to weigh in on changes to the city charter.

The Sebastian City Council decided to allow eight proposed changes to move forward to a final public hearing on July 13 and eventually make it to the Nov. 8 general election ballot for voter input.

The Sebastian Charter Review Committee prepared the proposed charter changes as part of their duties as outlined by council. The commit-

Assistant fire chief: Rain helped

By Jessica Tuggle
jtuggle@hometownnewsol.com

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — Last week, Indian River County emergency medical servicemen and women fought a 365-acre fire encompassing woods on both sides of Interstate-95 with responders from the Division of Forestry.

Thunderstorms over the weekend with lots of rain helped the parched earth and firefighters to overcome the blazes, officials said.

The highway was forced to be both partially and fully closed for many hours on Thursday, June 23, when the fire began and finally was fully opened at midnight on Friday, though smoke continued to linger in the area.

On Monday afternoon,

June 27, there were still smoky conditions along the roadway, causing motorists to call in reports, but the fire was much smaller and firefighters had control, said Brian Burkeen, assistant chief of emergency medical services.

"The rain helped us tremendously. We're very happy," Chief Burkeen said.

Although the rain did help last weekend, the Division of Forestry still classifies the area as very dry and susceptible to more fires, Mr. Burkeen said.

"We're not going to let our guard down by any means," he said.

He said the 365-acre fire likely started as a "jump-out" from another forest fire that emergency responders were fighting earlier in the week that was

Firing range draws new visitors

By Jessica Tuggle
jtuggle@hometownnewsol.com

SEBASTIAN — Ten years after opening and several budget cuts later, the Indian River County shooting range still has a little fire-power.

The range, located in Sebastian, may be a breakeven business for the county, but it draws in new visitors every week, range officials said.

Range manager Holden Kriss said the shooting range continues to attract about 100 new registered visitors per week, coming from Florida and around the world.

Last week, the annual Florida Police and Fire games were held on the Treasure Coast and eight shooting events were hosted by the Indian River County shooting range, drawing upward of 700 people to the Sebastian and Indian River County area.

"We have more events here in one place than any other venue," Mr. Kriss said.

County budget director Jason Brown said it has only been the past two years that the range has been able to cover, or nearly cover, its expenditures. Right now, eight months into the fiscal budget year, the range is covering 99.9 percent of its expenses and he foresees no need for their budget to be cut in the coming year.

As long as the range is able to pay for itself and not be a burden on the taxpayers, there is no reason to cut its budget further, Mr. Brown said.

In 10 years, more than 66,000 people have registered for a membership pass to the shooting range, and on any given weekend, 50 percent of visitors are from out of the county, he said.

"Some people wouldn't come here except for the range. They come here to shoot, they eat in our restaurants, stay in the hotels or some of them stay in the campgrounds. This really is a magnet for Indian River County and good for

Freedom Festival to light up Sebastian

By Jessica Tuggle
jtuggle@hometownnewsol.com

SEBASTIAN — Sebastian residents and visitors are gearing up for an Independence Day full of food, fun and fireworks.

Although the weather conditions are very dry, the fireworks celebration at the end of day is still on, city officials said.

The pyrotechnics are launched from an island in the Indian River Lagoon and should not cause harm to the community, but weather conditions will ultimately decide if they will go on that evening.

The annual Fourth of July

Gloria MacQueen and her multi-poo were dressed and ready for the Sebastian Area Freedom Festival parade to get underway last year. They, and a couple thousand other parade-goers, lined Indian River Drive to watch last year's parade. Monday's parade begins at 8:30 followed by a full day of fun and fireworks that evening.

A 300- to 400-acre brush fire that began on the east side of I-95 Thursday near Pine Tree Park, quickly spread, as it jumped to the east side of I-95 to several thousand acres of ranch land behind CVS on State Road 60. Division of Forestry and Indian River County Fire Rescue crews were on hand to battle the blaze. I-95 was closed until about midnight because of heavy smoke.

A brush fire that began on the east side of I-95 in western Indian River County jumped the interstate causing its closure until early Friday morning. A flock of Florida sandhill cranes move to safer ground as the fire continued to spread.

caused by lightning strikes.

The property affected belonged to the Corrigan Ranch and was from about mile marker 148 to mile marker 153, Chief Burkeen said.

“It hasn’t affected any residential areas, so that’s good,” he said.

The lack of rain and dryness of the land has made wooded areas ripe for fires. The prevalence of lightning strikes without accompanying rain is a dangerous combination in this sort of weather, he said.

“We’re supposed to be in our rainy season and we’re not, so that’s why we’re having these drought conditions. We’re keeping our fingers crossed that we get the (rain) and get that saturation. When we get the lightning without the rain, that’s when we have trouble getting ahead of it,” Chief Burkeen said.

Also last Thursday, a fatal crash occurred on southbound Interstate-95 at the Vero Beach exit, which also caused major traffic delays.

Carolyn J. Mond, 60, of Fort Pierce was driving her 2003 Buick in the outside southbound lane and lost control of the vehicle. She crossed the western shoulder before hitting two small pine trees and a larger pine tree.

A backseat passenger, Jerrell A. Mond, 25, of Fort Pierce, was pronounced dead on the scene, while Ms. Mond and her front-seat passenger, Terrell A. Mond, 25, were airlifted to Lawnwood Regional Medical Center in Fort Pierce, though they were not in a life threatening condition, Chief Burkeen said.

At press time, there was no further update available on their condition.

the whole economy," Mr. Kriss said.

Range officer James Piloto himself drives from Port St. Lucie to work at the shooting range.

"We get people here trying out their new rifles that like to hunt in Africa," Mr. Piloto said.

European visitors who fly into Miami and drive to Orlando on the interstate see signs for the shooting range and many stop in to check the place out, range officials said. They may not stop the first time they see the signs, but they take note of it and make an effort to come back and spend time at the range.

The higher costs of ammunition in recent years, coupled with difficult economic times, have forced changes to recreational shooter's habits, but not enough to squash them completely, Mr. Piloto said.

"People are still coming out, but they are staying for shorter periods of time," Mr. Piloto said.

With school out for the summer, parents with children are becoming a more common sight at the range, he said.

"We're seeing more families now that school's out. They want to do something together. We try to let everyone have fun and be safe doing it," Mr. Piloto said.

The Sebastian Area Freedom Festival, complete with parade, drew thousands to Riverview Park for a full Saturday of fun last year. Members of Sebastian Cub Scout Pack 589 had the tables turned on them as spectators in the crowd were waiting to ambush them with water cannons. Monday's parade begins at 8:30 a.m., followed by a full day of fun and fireworks that evening.

Festival

Freedom Festival is set to kick-off this year at 7 a.m. with a 5K run/walk in Riverview Park.

The annual event, the Beverly Norris 5K run/walk is put on by the Substance Awareness Council of Indian River County. Entry fee is $20 in advance or $25 on race day. Shirts are guaranteed to the first 200 registrants.

The 41st annual Fourth of July parade will begin at 8:30 a.m. at Indian River Drive and Davis Street, said Lloyd Thomas, parade coordinator.

So far, 60 floats and participants have registered for the parade, he said.

The parade will go down a 3.5-mile route and end in Riverview Park where there will be music, entertainment awards, food, business and craft booths.

Awards will be given for best floats in commercial, non-commercial, theme-oriented and community spirit and an overall winner will be chosen.

Other events scheduled throughout the day include a karaoke contest, a hula hoop contest and an apple pie baking contest.

Musicians will fill the stage on and off from noon to 6 p.m.

The fireworks display is supposed to begin after sundown.

Protect yourself against lightning

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

TREASURE COAST —The Insurance Institute for Business & Home Safety is providing advice on how to reduce risks from lightning.

Lightning strikes are one of the major sources of external power surges that can severely damage electronic equipment and cause fires, both of which can be dangerous and are a huge disruption to a family or business.

"A lightning strike to an unprotected structure can cause catastrophic damage," said Julie Rochman, CEO & president of IBHS.

"Fortunately, there are relatively simple, inexpensive steps that can be taken to substantially reduce the chances of lightning-related damage and disruptions," she said.

For lightning protection, a whole-house/building surge protector is the best starting point for reducing the risk of damage. A number of utility companies have programs to provide and install whole-building surge protection systems. If this is not available in your area, consult a licensed electrician.

In addition IBHS strongly recommends the following: install additional protection for important or expensive electronic equipment. This should include localized surge protection for power cords to the equipment and any telephone and cable/satellite TV lines connecting to the equipment. These devices are available at most home improvement and electronics stores.

Demolition

crete skeleton of a home will be demolished soon with the homeowners association paying about half the estimated $20,000 demolition costs.

Indian River County Commissioners voted 5-0 to demolish the structure and accept the financial assistance of the homeowner's association during a June 21 meeting.

The two-story gray shell of a home stares unblinking and toothless at the surrounding community with no doors or windows covering the openings. In the 4 years since beginning construction, the roof has taken a beating in the elements and the seasons of rain have affected the wood inside, rotting the floor trusses and drywall, said assistant county attorney Bill DeBraul.

Mr. DeBraul said the house has been deemed unsafe. The estimated cost of demolition, which includes tearing it down, filling in the swimming pool area and removing the rubble to the landfill, is about $20,000, he said.

The house and property has a $3 million mortgage and were the county to do the demolition and apply a lien as is county practice, it would be unlikely that the money would be recouped, a good reason to be thankful for the homeowners association's assistance, he said.

Association representatives said they would be willing to pay a 50-50 match of up to $15,000.

Commissioner Peter O'Bryan commended the homeowner's association for stepping up to the plate and offsetting the cost to taxpayers for the eyesore in their neighborhood.

Mr. DeBraul said the demolition work would likely be combined with other demolition projects and put out to bid, as is county practice, so no date has been set for the demolition.

The owners, Paul and Yu-Hang Shoquist, did not respond to county staff contact about the property and it is within the rights of the county to tear down the structure if it is hazardous.

In other commission business, the board voted to give some of the county's waste to the INEOS New Planet BioEnergy plant on 74th Avenue and Oslo Road in Vero Beach.

Commissioner Wesley Davis made a motion to approve of an agreement with the company to provide 55,000 tons of local vegetative waste that will be collected by county haulers.

The plant is expected to be completed and operational in late 2012 and will be used to convert plant or carbon-based waste into bio-fuels.

Other vegetative waste, about 95,000 tons, will be brought in by truck from other counties.

Commission Chairman Bob Solari was the lone dissenter on the vote, saying the agreement benefitted the company more than the county, though he expressed support for the company's presence and goals in Indian River County.

Thousands of tons of waste will become millions of gallons of ethanol from yard, vegetable and wood garbage.

tee meets for six months every five years to review the charter and recommend changes.

Amendments to the charter ask voters if they prefer two-year or four-year terms for city councilors.

In the same question, council members removed a section that would have set term limits allowed per council member. That section was stricken from the proposed amendment, with city council members saying it was not necessary for politics so close to home and could limit the powers of the voters.

Antiquated language is also proposed to be removed from the charter, including words such as "poor houses," "dairy house" and "slaughter houses."

Voters will also be asked to update language in the charter section about charter officers and their removal. The language will be updated to reflect the power of the council to remove charter officers with or without cause, with a simple majority vote, essentially matching the language to other language in the charter that says the officers serve at the pleasure of the council, said Mayor Jim Hill.

Another proposed change is how to deal with vacancies on the city council. The committee proposed the city council appoint someone to fill a vacancy within 30 days and the appointee could serve until the next city-wide election.

The council decided instead to change the amendment to appoint a stand-in within 45 days if there is no city-wide election within six months, saying if a vacancy occurred near an election, it could disrupt the campaigning process.

Some "housekeeping items" proposed include small changes to the beginning of council terms, the manner in which an election is called and held, giving the authority of candidate qualification guidelines to the Florida Division of Elections and repealing language that says employees who refuse to follow the direction of the council will be charged with a misdemeanor, Mayor Hill said.

The council has no authority over any employees except charter officers, so it doesn't make sense to have such language in the charter, he said.

There was a ninth change under consideration, which would allow elections to be decided by a coin toss, or a similar method in the case of a tie, but it was removed from moving forward.

Council members unanimously agreed that an election was too important of an event to leave to chance.

The final public hearing for the charter changes will be held in the Sebastian City Council chambers at 6:30 p.m. on July 13.

Computer confusion: How many ways are there to accomplish one task?

One of the things that makes computers so wonderfully versatile is also one of the main things that can make them so confusing.

Computers have this often-baffling ability to accomplish the same task a number of ways. This leads to no end of confusion because you can talk to five different people about the same task and all five people can come up with a legitimate way of accomplishing the same thing.

Try to get all five people together on the same page and there's bound to be an argument because to each individual, it looks like the other four are doing it wrong. But, in fact, if everyone is getting the results they want, then everyone is doing it right. Whew! Talk about causing confusion.

Let's take a look at e-mail and see just a few ways of accomplishing the same task. If you use e-mail, then see if you can recognize the method you are using.

E-mail has got to be, by far, the No. 1 thing people use the Internet for. The Internet grew up with e-mail at its foundation.

The process of sending and receiving e-mail has grown from its infant beginnings of sending messages in raw, plain text to the attachment-carrying, fully editable rich text e-mail we have today, but the fundamentals haven't changed. You still need a mail server and a mail client to process the mail.

We won't spend any time today on e-mail servers, but let's take a look at the clients.

E-mail clients are, in a nutshell, whatever the program is that you use to send and receive e-mail. And here is where all that diversity comes in. Most of the e-mail clients have major "behind the scenes" differences, but they all accomplish the same task: sending and receiving e-mail.

A few of the most common e-mail clients are Outlook Express (or Windows Live Mail for Vista and Windows 7 machines) and AOL mail.

COMPUTE THIS

Both programs allow you to send and receive e-mail, but both programs are not the same. You'll find options and controls in one that you won't find in the other. You'll find differences in how AOL manages and stores the messages, as well as the address book. But the fundamentals are still there; you can sit down in front of either and write an e-mail to your aunt Edna and she can e-mail you.

Which client is better? Neither! They both do the job that they were intended for, but they just have some different ways of going about it.

If your e-mail address has bellsouth.net or perhaps comcast.net, then chances are you are using an e-mail client such as Outlook Express (or Windows Live Mail) that downloads the messages to your machine and stores the messages locally.

I know I'm leaving out a lot, such as Juno, MSN and Earthlink. They all have their own e-mail clients, but if we start going over all the differences there, then we'd really start getting lost!

If your e-mail address has aol.com at the end of it, then the AOL e-mail client is pretty much the only way to manage your e-mail unless you go to the Web, and that brings us to another category of e-mail clients: Web-based e-mail clients.

Web-based e-mail clients are Web pages you can go to with your browser and access your e-mail online without actually downloading it to your computer.

The beauty of Web-based e-mail clients is you have the ability to access your e-mail from any computer, as long

Dealing with the drought

I find it quite amazing and stupefying that people are so worried about having a perfect lawn during this extreme drought when we should be conserving water to prepare for the worst.

People should put their selfishness aside, be lucky and give praise that we don't have to deal with floods in the midwest or brush fires in Arizona and North Carolina. Because it just could happen to us one day.

Exciting future

Domestic shale gas projects are turning out to be far more successful than even the most optimistic advocates had predicted. Despite objections from the well-funded environmental lobby, production is increasing so quickly that prices are falling.

No-nothings incessantly warn of groundwater contamination, but the few cases of pollution are being rapidly resolved by improving technology. Based on progress so far, the nation's energy future is exciting.

Driving and texting

Driving and texting, are you people stupid or crazy? I'd rather be on the road with a drunk. At least he's trying to stay between the lines.

If you text and drive, you're looking to kill someone. Go home and commit suicide, make it easier on the rest of us. They should be treating texting as they would treat a drunk, it's the same thing, you don't care about the other people on the road, and you have the nerve to get nasty when someone tells you to wait until you get home. How dare they mess with your important texting.

Wake up, stupid. I don't care if you kill yourself, but I do care if you hit me on my bike because you are an idiot.

Stop the scooters

Any motorized vehicle is to be registered and have a tag if it is to be driven on public roads. In most cases, insurance is not required. Drivers are required to have a driver license. Over a 49cc engine requires a motorcycle endorsement also. That is just fine.

But how about those gas, electric scooters and powered bicycles that scoot along our sidewalks? No registration, tag or even a driver license.

Some of the drivers are up in age and should certainly know better and also the very young. A lot of these scooters top speeds of 35 to 45 mph and more. That's for the smaller ones. I personally know of one who drives his scooter, no tag, don't know about driver license, five blocks on the sidewalk, to and from the AA meeting. How about that! Well I see many, many police just drive past them. Never have I ever seen one stop. Not even a glance. I must be missing it if they do.

Doing what these drivers are doing is not only dangerous to them and others, it is illegal. I see more and more of this. Many are not going slow. As usual, probably nothing will happen until someone gets badly injured or killed. When taking a nice quiet walk by yourself or with your loved one, watch out. It could be your last walk.

Tax ideas

By replacing the IRS with a 10 percent sales tax to everything and everyone, including corporations and goods sold overseas, so many of our problems would be resolved.

Everyone would know their obligations and there would be no uncertainties, no divisive subsidies and waivers, no tax credits reduced influence by lobbyists and others, and no tax system that is too complex to understand and so expensive to comply with.

Another bonus is the added revenue from the immigrant population and our other visitors. An annual household rebate would be sent to each citizen's household ($2,000 per couple, plus $500 for each dependent).

We are all equal in this nation and everyone should support our government. I do not want my "rich" neighbor to pay my share.

Who will rescue us?

If the socialist government of Greece goes bankrupt, the International Monetary Fund, largely funded by the United States, may bail them out.

If the socialist government in Washington goes belly up, who will come to our rescue? Communist China? Do we really want to be owned by the Chinese? International rating agencies have placed Greek government bonds into junk status. Yawning financial gaps here are taking us in the same downward direction.

Christie for president

New Jersey Gov. Chris Christie claims he is 100 percent sure he will not be a candidate for president. That's a shame because his ideas are so much better than Washington's disastrous policies. He points out, for example, that the courts are circumventing the Constitution by issuing incredible, unjustifiable rulings.

In New Jersey, they have taken the law into their own hands and ordered the state's taxpayers to spend an extra $500 million on the public schools. It's a payoff to the labor unions and Christie is fighting it.

Voting identification

"If you have to show a picture ID to buy a Sudafed, if you have to show a picture ID to get on an airplane, you should show an ID when you vote."

So said South Carolina Gov. Nikki Haley as she signed a bill requiring showing an ID in order to vote. Her state has become one of 12 with such legislation on the books. Every state should have this common-sense requirement.

Use underground gas

There's something rotten in the state of Denmark when we don't do everything possible to encourage development of our natural resources.

We import oil from Canada, Mexico, Saudi Arabia, Nigeria, Venezuela, Angola and Iraq, and we wonder why our energy prices are so high, why our economy is stagnant and why we can't create more jobs.

The United States has enough natural gas to last 100 years but it's not doing us much good while it remains underground.

Newt knows best

While Newt Gingrich comes off as overly blunt for the taste of the political elites, he seems to be a straight shooter to many working-class Americans. He says, "Four more years of Obama would be a disaster."

He explains that Obamacare is an unconstitutional expansion of power that will lead to rationing by faceless, unaccountable bureaucrats.

He warns that either voters will limit government of government will limit us.

Referring to God

Some people become furious at the slightest reference to God. Texas Gov. Rick Perry is being criticized for inviting his fellow governors to "a day of fasting and prayer on behalf of our troubled nation."

America has plenty of troubles and recourse to the Almighty sounds like a positive idea. We have had abundant blessings during our 200 year history, but there are no guarantees that these will continue if we turn our back on Him.

On energy sources

Westinghouse has designed a small nuclear reactor which would shrink nuclear operations to one capsule about 90-feet tall, would not need to be near a large body of water and could be located almost anywhere.

Approvals by Washington are stuck in the unending bureaucracy. The Nuclear Regulatory Commission has been sitting on the plans for more than a year. Our nation needs to develop energy sources, but when private businesses come up with technical innovations, the establishment does everything it can to delay progress.

Have a licensed electrician or competent home/building inspector review the power, telephone, electrical and cable/satellite TV connections to your building. Have them check to make sure that you have adequate grounding of the power line connection and your power distribution panel.

All of the utilities should enter the structure within 10 feet of the electrical service entrance ground wire and be bonded to that grounding point.

To the president

Really, Mr. President we, the masses, are not uneducated and throwing us a gift from the emperor will not sway us. I think the Venezuelans are even on to Chavez' tactics of populist politics.

Putting the poor in state-owned mansions does not provide an atmosphere to grow jobs, which will buy food and private property.

Chavez' tactics, and I suspect your tactics, too, will not put them or us on a path to prosperity.

Gifts from the emperor will lead to the further restriction and eventual revoking of our inalienable rights. We are on our way to serfdom if you have your way, sir.

Most Americans will see the truth of why you are releasing our oil reserves so recklessly. This is a political move, not an emergency move. If and when we really need these reserves they will not be there.

Shame on you, Mr. President. We see your agenda. I think the emperor has no clothes.

Regarding the stimulus

A while ago, President Obama announced, with great fanfare, a multi-billion stimulus plan of projects, which were "shovel ready" to create jobs. The job-boosting at Cree, Inc. cost $5.2 million. That $5.2 million created 3.2 jobs. That's $1,716,171 per job. There is a lesson there but President Obama does not want to talk about it.

Stop being greedy

Like pigs at the feeding trough, every special interest is lined up trying to get a piece of the pie from the Washington politicians.

They seem to care less about the $14.3 trillion debt outstanding. They seem to care less that the clock is ticking. And they seem to care less about the plight of the average working-class taxpayer.

Just a few of the ways Wells Fargo is here for Florida

WELLS FARGO

Wells Fargo and Wachovia share a common legacy of local investment, and now that we're one team, we're able to create more economic growth and prosperity for the people we serve. In 2010, we invested $219 million in 19,000 nonprofits nationwide, surpassing $200 million for the third year in a row. That's an average of $600,000 every single day to nonprofits supporting education, community development, human services, the arts, and the environment.

Here in Florida, we are proud to support local nonprofit organizations like the Florida division of the American Cancer Society, Special Olympics Florida Inc., local chapters of the American Red Cross, Food Banks in Central Florida, and Ronald McDonald House Charities of Central Florida. Wells Fargo's contribution to organizations like these is just one of the ways we're with you in Florida, today and in the future.

Police arrested six suspects between the ages of 16 and 23 who allegedly wrecked a hotel room and put photos of the damage on Twitter.

The suspects also posted photos of the nearby spa area that was damaged at the hotel in South Charleston, W.Va.

The partygoers "caused about $13,885 in damage, according to a criminal complaint filed in Kanawha County Magistrate Court," reported the Charleston Gazette.

South Charleston Police Officer E.M. Peterson said the suspects apparently rented the room to party. Three of the six "wrote messages back and forth on Twitter as they destroyed the hotel room and posted pictures of the carnage along the way," including photos of themselves, the newspaper said.

That made it easy for police to ID and arrest the suspects.

From sfgate.com: Police nab man accused of hiding in toilet

Police in Colorado have arrested a 30-year-old man accused of hiding in the tank of a portable toilet at a yoga festival last week.

Kim Kobel of Boulder Police said Luke Ivan Chrisco was arrested during an unrelated panhandling investigation. Police said an officer noticed his resemblance to the toilet suspect, and Chrisco was taken into custody after he was interviewed by a Boulder detective.

Police believe he was the man discovered in the toilet at the festival in Boulder by a woman who lifted the lid. A man who checked said he saw someone covered in a tarp inside.

A festival security officer said he chased a man who eventually emerged, but the suspect slipped away. The man was covered in human waste.

Chrisco faces misdemeanor charges of unlawful sexual contact and criminal invasion of privacy.

From msnbc.msn.com: Police: Woman bites off attacker's tongue

A woman fought off a sexual assault by biting off part of her attacker's tongue, police said, and a suspect was hospitalized.

The attempted attack happened in an alley off Atlantic Avenue near a Roman Catholic church in Stamford, the Stamford Advocate reported.

The attacker grabbed the woman and forced his tongue into her mouth after she had left the church. The woman fought back by biting the man, lopping off about an inch of his tongue.

The man fled, but police recovered a chunk of tongue at the scene.

Gerard Michael Landon sought medical treatment at a Stamford massage and chiropractic clinic, police said, then was arrested after a foot chase.

From KARE11.com: Former embassy bodyguard whacks gunman on head with can of tuna

A store clerk in St. Paul wasn't about to be robbed without a fight.

Hakim Benyahia worked the counter at the Ave. Grocery on Selby Avenue, never thinking one of his best-sellers could help save his life.

The store's surveillance camera captured a recent closing time. As Hakim was locking up, one final, unwelcome customer forced himself in. He had a mask and a gun.

"I thought he was going to kill me. No way. That's why I go to his gun," said Benyahia.

And so began the struggle. The surveillance video shows Benyahia fighting back, and he knew how. This grocery store clerk was once a bodyguard at the United States Embassy in his native Algeria, trained to take a bullet, but not from this suspect.

In what became the fight of his life, Benyahia grabbed something he knew might help, the hardest item on the shelf: a metal can of tuna. In the video, you can see Benyahia hit the would-be robber on the head, just enough to shake him.

The struggle continues, and the man assaults Benyahia, who thought only about getting that gun so he could get home that night to his 6-year-old son.

VERO BEACH — The music of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart, Antonio Vivaldi and other great composers will be featured in an upcoming concert at Trinity Episcopal Church in Vero Beach.

The Cultural Council of Indian River County announced a special summer concert and pre-concert meet and greet on July 28 at 7:30 p.m. by the internationally acclaimed Symphony of the Americas.

The professional symphony is based in Fort Lauderdale and last appeared in Vero Beach three years ago. The July 28 concert will be a part of the symphony's annual Summerfest, a concert series where members of the organization join with an internationally acclaimed chamber orchestra for a summer concert tour.

The concert in Vero Beach is a fundraiser for the 16-year-old Cultural Council of Indian River County. The nonprofit council is the designated local arts agency and works to enrich the quality of life for all residents and visitors by supporting and promoting the arts and cultural events as vital assets in the community.

This year, the symphony will feature the Remenyi Ede Chamber Ensemble from northern Hungary and violinist Laszlo Pap, a graduate of the Franz Liszt Academy in Budapest. The chamber ensemble often participates in concert

Being a leader has its ups and downs. The key to survival is to be open to change. Sometimes when unexpected events happen that shake your game plan, being flexible will, most of the time, bring positive results. Set short-, medium- and long-term goals, as well. This keeps you focused and on the cutting edge.

Taurus-April 20-May 20
You never give up. When things don't work out as planned, you take a step back, regroup and then continue moving forward. Your plans are sound. You know what you want. You are on the right track. Keep studying and learning. With all this, plus good timing and a second wind, you are bound for victory.

Gemini-May 21-June 21
Don't start any new projects until you finish some of the old ones. Keep your eye on the bigger picture. Do what you love. If you don't love some of your activities, either learn to love them or don't do them. Leave the small stuff for later. This is a winning plan and the way master communicators like your self live.

Cancer-June 22-July 22
Be patient and go with the flow. You continue to grow in wisdom and confidence. It's because of your large heart. You never give up on your dreams and those you love. You are making progress. Take it one day at a time. Today is all we have. Make the most of it. True success all comes down to wise choices.

Leo-July 23-Aug. 22
You are feeling harmonious with yourself and family goals. You seldom make rash judgments or decisions. It's your clear vision and strong inner guidance that directs you. It is stronger than the lower will. Refuse to get sidetracked on unimportant things and you will continue to rise. Success is on the horizon.

High school senior awarded medal

Noreen Ramsey receives an award from Congressman Bill Posey.

For Hometown News
 NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

INDIAN RIVER STATE COLLEGE — Noreen Ramsey, of Vero Beach, a graduate of the Saint Edward's class of 2011, has been awarded the Congressional Medal of Merit by U.S. Congressman Bill Posey, R, Rockledge.

Ms. Ramsey has served as an intern in the congressman's office in Washington D.C. on three different occasions over the past year and a half.

"During the last elections, I realized how interested I was in politics," said Ms.

Ramsey.

"In my sophomore year, when I had heard that there were different opportunities for my junior year interim, I knew that a week on "The Hill" would be very exciting. After much planning, I spent five days interning with various political groups in D.C., the most exciting of which was with Congressman Bill Posey," she said.

In 2010, the Indian River County Rotary Club sponsored Ms. Ramsey's trip to the World Affairs Seminar at the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee. During her senior year, Noreen was vice president for the senior class, and she received Saint Edward's Special Service Award for her concern for others and dedication to excellence.

Ms. Ramsey will continue to pursue her education at Villanova University this fall.

Founded upon the independent Episcopal school tradition, Saint Edward's School is a co-educational, pre-kindergarten through grade 12, college preparatory school committed to educational excellence. Saint Edward's is located in Vero Beach and is a non-profit, 501 organization.

Peaceful protest against drilling

Cliff Partlow/staff photographer

Only a dozen or so gathered at Wabasso Beach Park last Saturday for the Hands Across the Sand gathering at noon, but it was enough to get a representation on the group's topographical map, located on its website. Hands Across the Sand began as a protest against lifting the ban for near and offshore oil drilling on Feb. 13, 2010. Seven-year-old Cori McWilliams, center, of Vero Lake Estates, organized last Saturday's event.

Cliff Partlow/staff photographer

On February 13, 2010, 10,000 Floridians across 90 beaches statewide, gathered to protest lifting the ban against near and offshore oil drilling, thus creating Hands Across the Sand. On June 26, 2010, after the Deepwater Horizon oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico, they gathered again. Seven-year-old Cori McWilliams noticed Indian River County wasn't represented on the group's map, which is located on its website. With help from mom, she organized last Saturday's event at Wabasso Beach Park.

Remember to protect yourself, loved ones from the sun

Last week we talked about avoiding heat exhaustion or stroke. This week I want to address the need to also protect your skin. For those of us who work indoors, we really don't consider how much damage the sun can do to us in the short time we spend in our cars, walking in from the parking lot or the like. Regardless of how little time you spend outside, you need to consider applying sunscreen.

As golfers, we spend a lot of time in the elements subjecting our skin to tremendous danger. If you don't already take precautions to prevent skin damage, the time to start is now! It's time to pay attention to your skin, make an effort to protect it, and allow yourself a healthier future. I would love to see a day when applying sunscreen to your face, neck, arms and so forth becomes just as routine as brushing your teeth or putting on deodorant. With sunscreen now available in convenient sprays and sticks, it's easy to apply quickly and without getting your hands greasy. One in five Americans will develop skin cancer during his or her lifetime and more than one million Americans are diagnosed with skin cancer each year. Statistics show that someone in America will die of melanoma every 67 minutes. Of all from the worst the sun has to offer. This simply isn't true. In fact, as much as 80 percent of the sun's rays penetrates clouds, mist or even fog. Sun damage causes premature aging, wrinkles, age spots and dry skin. None of us want to age, much less age faster than nature intended. Look at some of the older guys on Tour and you can tell which ones spent years without protecting themselves. The most often used excuse for not putting on sunscreen is that it will leave your hands greasy and make holding onto the club difficult. Companies have found ways for us sports-happy people to apply sunscreen without dirtying our hands. Sprays are one of the most convenient methods for application. But I happen to prefer the stick. It looks like a large tube of lip balm and goes on with just a swipe. I feel that I get better coverage with the stick and it fits neatly into my bag. For extra protection for your face, neck and ears, wear a hat with a wide brim, not a baseball-style cap. There are even special clothing products available to keep your body cool, while covering your arms and neck. Our world is changing and whether you believe in global warming or not, you must remember to protect your skin. If you suspect that you have already damaged your skin from sun exposure or your skin shows any warning signs, by all means, have your doctor or dermatologist give you a check up. It's time to learn how to keep that youthful look you work so hard to preserve. James Stammer has been an avid golfer and golf enthusiast for nearly 40 years. He hosts the Thursday Night Golf Show on WSTU 1450-AM. Contact him at stammeregolf@yahoo.com. As golfers, we tend to ignore the sun, especially when it isn't too hot outside. We feel that a simple cap or riding in a cart protect us cancers, skin cancer is the most common and nearly half of all Americans who live to age 65 will develop skin cancer. Fortunately, it is also the easiest to prevent and cure if detected early. The key to preventing and curing skin cancer is early detection and use of sunscreens to protect your skin. The most common warning sign of skin cancer is a change in the appearance of the skin, such as a new growth or a sore that will not heal. Studies show that just one sunburn doubles your risk of developing skin cancer. Children are especially at risk. On average, anyone under the age of 18 has three times the sun exposure of an adult. Melanomas are especially deadly as they tend to spread quickly throughout the entire body. Basal and Squamous cell cancers are much less deadly, but can leave your skin scarred. When you know that you are going to be spending time outside, be sure to apply sunscreen at least 30 minutes prior to your activity. It's also best to reapply every two to three hours or immediately after getting out of the water. While any sunscreen is better than none, experts recommend using at least a 30 SPF rated sunscreen. Something many people forget to protect is their lips. We now have lip balm with sunscreen available to us. Just as your lips can dry out and chap during the cool, dry winter months, they can also burn from the sun any time during the year. As golfers, we tend to ignore the sun, especially when it isn't too hot outside. We feel that a simple cap or riding in a cart protect us
