County property taxes to rise

By Jessica Tuggle
jtuggle@hometownnewsol.com

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — Property owners will see their county taxes go up in the next year, based on a tentative tax rate set by county commissioners last week.

The county tax rates are divided into several categories and during the meeting, county commissioners voted to tentatively increase the general fund tax rate by 5.6 percent and the emergency services district tax rate by 15.5 percent, increases that were higher than the original amount recommended by county staff.

Part of the reason for the increase is a request for raises for county administration staff and the Indian River County Sheriff's Office.

In the vote for the general fund tax increase, Commissioner Bob Solari dissented, but in three other votes for the emergency services district, the land acquisition and the municipal services taxing unit rates, the commission voted 5-0 to approve them.

This would be the first county tax increase in five years although the rate could still decrease after two public hearings and a final vote in September.

Joe Baird, county administrator, praised the county departmental staff for their hard work the past few years, doing more with less, and noted that the pay increase wasn't the amount the various employee unions had requested, but it was something.

Sheriff Deryl Loar pledged to spend his requested budget increase of $1.8 million on 3 percent raises for deputies and civilian employees and to help pay for an increase in Florida

Dog found in hot car led to arrest

By Jessica Tuggle
jtuggle@hometownnewsol.com

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — A parked car plus an unattended dog inside equals trouble.

Last week, a Vero Beach couple posted $1,000 in bonds and were released from jail after being arrested for animal cruelty for leaving a dog in a parked vehicle.

Even with a window partially open, temperatures inside a car can climb to 120 degrees within minutes, even on a mild Florida day with an outside temperature of 78 degrees. Especially during Florida summers, leaving anyone inside a car, two-legged or four-legged, isn't a good idea, said Humane Society of Vero Beach and Indian River County staff.

At press time, the case was undergoing investigation by Indian River County animal control. The dog was last reported to be in good condition at the animal shelter.

Joseph, 31, and Amy Payne, 29, of 6156 20th St., Vero Beach, were both charged with animal cruelty after a citizen notified the Indian River County Sheriff's Office that a dog was parked in an unoccupied car which was not running in a parking lot for Summer camps at the Humane Society of Vero Beach and Indian River County are always fun and educational. Friday's Pet Photography Class, proved to be just what the dozen or so children ages 8-11 were looking for. All of the students learned techniques for getting better pet photographs. They also got to take pictures of dogs owned by HSVB volunteers, photos of cats in the cat rooms and visit the farm animals in the barn. Other classes included, pet CPR, dog and cat care and junior humane society pet detective.

Council wants to keep old property tax rate

By Jessica Tuggle
jtuggle@hometownnewsol.com

SEBASTIAN — City growth could mean slightly lower property tax bills for some residents.

The Sebastian City Council voted earlier this month to set the maximum ad valorem tax rate for the 2013-14 year at the same rate as the current year, which is approximately $3.72 per $1,000 of assessed taxable value.

Keeping the rate the same should allow most people to pay the same amount, or a little bit less, for their taxes in the new year because property values have gone down, city staff said.

Al Minner, Sebastian

city manager, said the city is in an unusual position this coming year when it comes to revenue.

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — Childcare Resources of Indian River was awarded a grant from the John's Island Foundation in the amount of $30,000 for technology upgrades.

Childcare Resources was in desperate need of new computers to replace the outdated, inefficient ones being used. Within the past year, several technology issues have hindered productivity for the organization. The purchase of new computers for staff members will help to resolve any technical issues that may arise due to inadequate equipment. Laptop computers that will be shared among the teachers at the Education Center will be more convenient and allow extra time for curriculum planning and National Accreditation for the Education of Young Children accreditation documenta-

Walk-In Clinic offers full care to all

Robert K. Butler's first shift in the emergency room at Indian River Memorial Hospital, what is now Indian River Medical Center, was in December 1992. He worked full time in the ER from 1993 - 2009, and started working at Indian River Medical Center Walk-In Care Sebastian in 2011. There is a sister clinic located Pointe West named Indian River Medical Center Walk-In Care Pointe West. Both clinics are operated by IRMC.

Dr. Butler is now the Medical Director for IRMC Walk-In Care clinics, which has been open for more than three years.

"Because we're open longer hours than a regular medical office, we have more staff to cover our hours," said Dr. Butler.

"Each clinic has its own office manager. At any given time, we will have a physician present (with occasional double coverage on busy days during season), a nurse or medical assistant, a certified x-ray tech who also assists with patient care and one or two receptionists/ front office staff."

Dr. Butler went to medical school and did his post-graduate training in London, Canada, which is near where he grew up. He finished a residency in Family Practice and became Board Certified in both Canada and the United States.

During his residency, he became interested in Emergency Medicine, and before leaving Canada was on staff as an Emergency Physician at University Hospital in London, and was a clinical professor of medicine at the University of Western Ontario.

After moving to Florida, he received his Board Certification in Emergency Medicine.

"I found that I really liked the variety and excitement of the ER and so spent quite a while doing that. I did a brief stint in private practice but then found a perfect fit here doing Walk-In. I like the variety of problems and enjoy having some time to actually talk to my patients."

The clinic can handle minor emergencies including, but not limited to, broken bones and lacerations and non-life-threatening allergic reactions. However, anything that is a true emergency, such as chest pain, stroke symptoms or significant shortness of breath, is sent to the Emergency Room. They also have access to IRMC hospital records and any office records from the numerous physicians connected with IRMA.

"Our goal is to offer great care in a timely fashion. We accept a huge number of insurance plans and even offer discounted prices to those without insurance. Lastly, as part of Indian River Medical Center, we have access to all of their resources and also adhere to the same stringent standards that hospitals must conform to."

Other physicians include: James Dozier, MD, Sung Taylor, DO, Joseph DeLuca, MD, Melvyn Lobo, MD and Charles Mackett, MD.

The Sebastian Clinic is located at 801 Wellness Way in Sebastian. We are in the medical office building right on U.S. 1, immediately north of Walmart. Our Pointe West Clinic is located at 1960 Point West Drive in Vero. It is in the medical office building on the south side of State Road 60, between 74th and 82nd Avenues.

Both clinics are open 8 a.m. to 7 p.m. (8 a.m. - 6 p.m. during summer months of July-September) Monday through Friday, and 9 a.m. - 5 p.m. on Saturdays. They are closed Sundays. Phone numbers are (772) 226-4200 for Sebastian and (772) 226-4250 for Pointe West.

Website focuses on lagoon water quality data

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

TREASURE COAST — FAU's Harbor Branch Oceanographic Institute has launched a new website to provide real-time water measurements concerning the Indian River Lagoon.

The information comes from the first of Harbor Branch's Land/Ocean Biogeochemical Observatory units placed in the lagoon to measure important environmental parameters including temperature, salinity, dissolved oxygen, turbidity, water color, chlorophyll that is indicative of algae in the water column, and nutrients such as nitrates and phosphates.

The website, <http://fau-hboi.loboviz.com/>, is accessible 24 hours a day. FAU Harbor Branch has a long history of conducting research and monitoring in the lagoon, which is one of the most biodiverse estuaries in North America. Its research includes relating seagrass status with water quality; determining the causes of macroalgae and harmful algal blooms; studying marine mammal health; and population and mercury in the food web and ecosystem change. The LOBO units, and the accompanying website with high quality, freely accessible, real-time data, will transform these long-standing research efforts while providing this information to all who wish to see or use it.

"This real-time data will allow us to determine critical baselines for the lagoon's environment and its relationships to its plants and animals," said Dennis Hanisak, Ph.D., who leads FAU Harbor Branch's LOBO efforts. "We also will be able to study significant events, such as water discharges, algal blooms, and storm events and how these events relate to ecosystem changes in the lagoon, as they happen. This LOBO technology will provide researchers, colleagues, governmental agencies, students of all levels, and the general public unprecedented IRL environmental data, real-time."

The LOBO units were developed by leading chemical oceanographers and estuarine researchers, have been tested, proven and improved over time, as well as have a national and international presence in Canada, California, Oregon, Delaware, Maine and the west coast of Florida. FAU Harbor Branch's LOBO units will integrate into the National Ocean Observatory Data System, allowing comparative studies both within the state and on a national scale.

A new public outreach video also was released to educate the community on the Indian River Lagoon and the research that is conducted by FAU Harbor Branch scientists in the lagoon - www.youtube.com/watch?v=GSxeDCtsOZc&feature=youtu.be.

New software will help better track families contacting the agency for assistance and more accurately maintain records. Additionally, replacing office equipment, such as phones, fax machines, and shredders, will ensure the organization is running more efficiently.

"The John's Island Foundation is pleased to support Childcare Resources of Indian River," said Jennifer Jones, John's Island Foundation Executive Director. "With this grant Childcare Resources will upgrade their technology needs and be more proficient when working with the families and children of Indian River County."

Childcare Resources, a United Way and Indian River County Children's Services partner agency, provides children of income eligible working families with affordable, high quality early childhood education.

The county rates set for property taxes vary by area, unincorporated and municipal, based on the services brought to the area by the county.

The following examples of property taxes are created using a home with a total taxable value of $150,000 and are estimated by rounding the rates to two decimal places.

If the home is located in Indian River Shores, the county taxes would be $3.64 per $1,000 of taxable value and a homeowner would receive a bill of about $546. This year, the same homeowner paid about $520.

In the municipalities of Fellsmere, Orchid, Sebastian and Vero Beach, the county taxes come to $5.62 per $1,000 in taxable value. The homeowner's tax bill for next year would be approximately $1,004, compared to $778 last year.

In the unincorporated county, the taxes will come to $6.69 per $1,000 in taxable value meaning about $1,004 in tax bills for the homeowner, where this past year the total was $990.

SEBASTIAN — The Exchange Club of Sebastian presented Youth Guidance a check for $6,000 at their July 17 luncheon meeting in support of their programs and mentoring achievements.

This donation was made possible through Sebastian Exchange's very successful 20th Annual Blue Water Open Charity Offshore Fishing Tournament which was held on June 8.

Youth Guidance provides programs and activities for children of low income, single parent families. The Exchange Club of Sebastian is all about helping at-risk children and helping to prevent child abuse. A partnership between these two organizations is a natural fit.

"The Sebastian Exchange Club is a huge supporter of Youth Guidance," said Doug Borrie, executive director of Youth Guidance.

"This donation will help us serve more than 400 of Indian River County's neediest children by providing mentors and adult role models. Youth Guidance appreciates the Sebastian Exchange's dedication, generosity and willingness to make a difference with the children enrolled in our program."

Exchange, America's Service Club, is a group of men and women working together to make our communities better places to live through programs of service in Americanism, Community Service, Youth Activities, and its national project, the Prevention of Child Abuse. The Exchange Club of Sebastian meets every Wednesday (except the first Wednesday of each month) at noon at Captain Hiram's Tiffany Room.

They welcome like-minded people looking for a way to serve the community. If interested, join them any time at a luncheon meeting.

Red Cross launches new app to recruit volunteers

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

TREASURE COAST — The American Red Cross launched the Team Red Cross App, which allows people to sign up to help, get an overview on basic tasks and receive notifications about Red Cross disaster volunteer opportunities in their community.

"When people see an emergency happening in their community, they often want to help but may not know how," said Sarah Ruwe, regional volunteer management executive director. "The Team Red Cross App provides an easy and quick way for people to sign up to help the Red Cross and support their community."

Once users download the app, they create an account. Then they learn about different jobs, such as working in a warehouse, handing out supplies or assisting with feeding. When the Red Cross has a need for volunteers, the Team Red Cross App will notify users based on their location. Potential volunteers can instantly accept or decline the volunteer opportunity.

The Red Cross is encouraging the public to download the app before a disaster strikes in your community so volunteers can help immediately.

The app is free and designed for iPhone and Android smart phones and tablets. Additional features include:

- A quick orientation right on the mobile device.
- Ability for people to share notifications for volunteers with their social network.
- Earn digital "badges" by completing a job test, accepting a job, sharing the app, recruiting volunteers, etc. The "badges" can then be shared with their social network.
- Allows people to donate money to the Red Cross and sign up to donate blood.
- Offers emergency response information that people can share with their friends at the touch of a button.

The Team Red Cross App is the seventh in a series of highly successful Red Cross apps, which are now on more than 3 million mobile devices across the country. A recent Red Cross survey shows that apps are now tied with social media as the fourth most popular way to get information during emergencies—behind TV, radio and online news sites. Nearly one-fifth of Americans say they've received some kind of emergency information from an app they've downloaded, making the Red Cross apps an important way for the public to get ready for disasters.

The Team Red Cross App can be found in the Apple App Store and the Google Play Store by searching for American Red Cross or by going to redcross.org/mobileapps.

The American Red Cross shelters, feeds and provides emotional support to victims of disasters; supplies about 40 percent of the nation's blood; teaches skills that save lives; provides international humanitarian aid; and supports military members and their families. The Red Cross is a nonprofit organization that depends on volunteers and the generosity of the American public to perform its mission.

Warning issued regarding use of synthetic drugs

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

TREASURE COAST — The Florida Department of Health is warning the public about the health risks associated with illicit synthetic substances. Often used to achieve the same high typically produced by drugs such as marijuana, ecstasy, cocaine, and amphetamines, illicit synthetic substances are life-threatening and addictive.

“Illicit synthetic drugs are dangerous to Florida’s children, adults and families,” said Dr. John Armstrong, state surgeon general and secretary of health. “These drugs destroy lives, and are threats to public health and safety.” The number of people using illicit synthetic drugs is growing in Florida. The American Association of Poison Control Centers reported that in 2012 Florida poison control centers received 5,202 calls involving exposures to illicit synthetic substances, a considerable spike compared to 2,906 calls in 2010. Synthetic marijuana, often known as “K2” or “Spice,” is one of the substances whose popularity is “alarmingly high,” as noted by the Office of National Drug Control Policy. According to the 2011 Monitoring the Future survey of drug-use trends among youth, 11.4 percent of 12th graders used K2 or Spice in the past year, ranking it the second most common illicit drug used by that age group. Often sold as incense and falsely marketed as “natural,” labels of Spice claim the product contains a psycho-active material taken from plants. Chemical analyses actually reveal that the active ingredients are instead synthetic cannabinoid compounds. Because these chemicals are considered to have high potential for abuse and no medical benefit, the Drug Enforcement Administration designated its five active chemicals as Schedule I controlled substances, making them illegal to sell, buy, or process.

Anyone experiencing an adverse reaction to an illicit synthetic substance should contact their local poison center at (800) 222-1222. DOH protects, promotes and improves the health of all people in Florida through integrated state, county and community efforts. Follow them on Twitter at @HealthyFla and on Facebook.

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY The Indian River Community Foundation Board of Directors awarded $235,000 in charitable grants for programs focusing on literacy, homelessness and substance abuse services. The grants are intended to help nonprofit organizations improve the lives of vulnerable Indian River County residents hit hardest by the recent economic recession. Grants were awarded to Big Brothers Big Sisters, Camp Haven, Children’s Home Society, Substance Awareness Center and Treasure Coast Homeless Services Council. Each organization was selected for a specific program categorized as new program development, program expansion or capacity building, said Kerry Bartlett, Executive Director of the Indian River Community Foundation. “Our grant review committee looked for ways to support nonprofit organizations in making a greater impact on the lives of vulnerable citizens,” said Ms. Bartlett. “In some cases, this meant funding a program, but for other organizations it meant improving infrastructure so they could more effectively fulfill their missions.” Grants were evaluated based on the validity of outcome measurements, collaborative work and leadership in the sector. The selected programs include: “Mentoring for Success in Early Childhood,” submitted by Big Brothers Big Sisters. A $40,000 grant will assist 50 pre-kindergarten students to become ready for kindergarten through one-to-one mentoring and family literacy activities. The program is a collaboration including the Early Learning Coalition and a Vero Beach preschool center, Schools Depot. The organizations will use evidenced-based, structured practices to engage families of at-risk students. “Camp Haven Opportunities Program,” submitted by Camp Haven. A $45,000 grant will support the development of a holistic program to help people who live in Camp Haven’s residential facility for homeless citizens. The program will focus on helping the residents make a successful transition from

Don't let computer coincidences leave you with a headache

Sometimes when computers malfunction, the timing can be coincidental causing you to chase your tail around trying to fix it. Most of the time when your computer starts acting squirrely, its good practice to consider the last thing that happened right before the problem popped up and then try to undo whatever it is that was changed.

But then again, sometimes undoing the last thing that happened can be a red herring, causing you to spin your wheels for hours. Take this email I received from George for instance: "Hi Sean. Read your articles every week and look forward to them. It's the first article I look for in Hometown News. "Sean, I was having a problem with my Microsoft mouse, so my son gave me an optical mouse to install. I just disconnected the old one and plugged in the optical mouse and turned the computer on. It began loading files for it and now, every time I turn on the computer, I have to hit F1 to continue loading windows. "Then I'm told that Windows has updated my computer clock and asks me to check it. It is always wrong and I have to correct the month, year and time. Do you have any ideas what is causing this because it never has done this before? I'm sure it had to do with adding the new mouse (italics added by me). I recall reading one of your articles where you said most computer problems were due to software added to the computer. Any corrections I can make? Thank you in advance and please don't stop writing your articles because you certainly have made a big difference to so many of us." - George from Port St. Lucie.

On the surface, it would appear George is on the right track, because he knows that when he added the new hardware (the mouse) - and often when new hardware is installed - problems can occur. But, after reading his email and considering what was going on, I realized that George was about to start "chasing rabbits." This is how I replied to George: "Hi. Thanks for reading! What's happening on your system likely has nothing to do with the new mouse, just coincidence that it started happening at the same time you added a new piece of hardware. Your machine is probably older than three years, yes? On your motherboard is a small battery, such as that found in a watch. When that battery runs down, you will have to hit F1 every time you boot and reset the clock. With the battery dead it loses track of time when it powers down and all BIOS settings have to be reset on boot up. Un-plug the system, open the 'can' and look for a watch-like battery (probably about the size of a quarter) and replace it. That ought to correct the issue. Hope that helps and thanks again for reading." - Sean

The next day I opened my email and found the following e-mail from George: "Hello Sean. Thank you so much for the info on the dead battery. I never thought of that and yes, my machine is over seven years old and I have never opened the 'can,' but the way you explained it, I think I can do that. I will let you know how I make out. Again thank you so much for your help."

And the day after that: "Hello Sean. Just a follow up on your advice regarding replacing the computer's battery. It worked like

Protesters won't gain any respect

I drove around and saw people protesting the Zimmerman verdict. I wonder how many of them actually know all of the details. Actually, I'm guessing there's only two who do. And one's dead and one's life will never be the same. Justified or not, two lives have been lost. I see young men jumping around on street corners in the middle of summer, with hoodies on, sweating to death trying to make a point about a case I'm willing to bet they know nothing about. One young man was screaming obscenities to passersby, while grabbing his crotch, and holding a sign that read "Justice and Peace for Travon." (Yes, Trayvon was spelled incorrectly. I just have to ask myself just how much peace this young man wanted. What kind of justice does he want? Did he follow the trial? Did he do his own research? Or was he being a follower and using this forum as a place to act the fool? Now, before everyone jumps on my case, I'm from the 'hood.' I'm not new to the racism that exists; however, I know that we have to present ourselves in a different light to be seen in a different light. Jumping around with your pants around your thighs, grabbing your crotch and cussing out white drivers will never gain you any respect.

Welfare recipients live 'high on the hog'

From the comments I get from a lot of people, they are sick of the people in this city on welfare, living other people's money and living high on the hog. People on welfare are able to purchase the same things the common working person is able to purchase. So here's the reasons they have kids, receive a payment for each one, get into sec 8 housing, and get into all the government subsidized programs they can so they won't have to work. Wow, no wonder they wanted Obama in as president. They don't worry about not getting 40 hours a week for free. They spend more time figuring out how to get stuff for free. By the way, 'Obamacare,' as it's called, is not a government paid program that money comes from the tax payers, and for the liberal democrats who voted for it before a new congress came to power, they did that just to look good for the people who have the only inclination to live off the government welfare system. Quit having kids! In today's economy, seeing a mother with two or three kids especially in Fort Pierce, there's no way she's got any career going to afford those kids. Sorry people, but welfare is not a career opportunity. Hopefully someday welfare will be eliminated and these people will quit breeding just for that government welfare check.

To the 'welfare ranter'

I sincerely don't understand how such ignorance still exists. The writer, who constantly complains about people on welfare, (I've dubbed him the 'welfare ranter'), has way too much time on his or her hands. I know it's only one person writing those rants because the level of ignorance is the same throughout all of them. If you have such a problem with the residents of Fort Pierce, MOVE! Quit whining about welfare and people in government housing. It is what it is. There's always been those less-fortunate, those who still work hard and can't get ahead, those who don't try to better themselves and those who constantly complain about all of them. You are the cancer that needs eradicating. Move to the suburbs, learn how to write effectively, become an activist, but please, shut your stupid mouth up about the city of Fort Pierce and its residents. You get on my last nerve.

A view on the Zimmerman case

For the past one and a half years, the nation has watched and listened about the death of Trayvon Martin. We were barraged with photos released by the media of a smiling 12-year old child wearing a football jersey. We were told that Trayvon was on his way home from a store after purchasing a tea and Skittles, when he was confronted and ultimately shot and killed by an overzealous George Zimmerman, a wannabe policeman. The media sold the story that Trayvon was completely innocent and that Zimmerman was a killer. Shortly after the shooting, the president even weighed in saying if he had a son, he would look like Trayvon. After his comments, not only was the case portrayed as a murder involving a child, but a black child, inserting race into the equation. The FBI investigated to see if race was an issue and concluded after an extensive review, that no racism existed. The Sanford Police Department further concluded that the shooting was justified and that no charges would be filed. Not satisfied, Al Sharpton, Jessie Jackson and other black activists used the shooting to promote hate and to infuriate the black populace. Bowing to pressure, the local decision not to prosecute was overridden, and the State Attorney was brought in to file charges. After the charge of Second Degree Murder was filed, the state attorneys took to the airwaves to vilify and convict Zimmerman before the case ever went to trial.

During the trial the true facts of the case were revealed. We learned that Trayvon had grown considerably and was not the portrayed smiling 12-year old. We learned that the neighborhood where the shooting occurred was being victimized by young black males committing burglary. We learned that Zimmerman, a resident and community watch volunteer, observed a young black man in the neighborhood, who he did recognize. He called the police. When he lost sight of the young man because he ran, he got out of his car to get the number off a nearby condo to tell police the location where he lost sight of the fleeing young man. While returning to his vehicle, he was confronted and assaulted by the awaiting young man. While being pinned on the ground and having his head bashed against the sidewalk, Zimmerman feared for his life and used his licensed firearm in self-defense. The jury after hearing the facts returned a not guilty verdict. Not satisfied with the verdict, Sharpton, Jackson and now Attorney General Holder, took to the airwaves, to stir hate and call for protests. As a result of their hate speech, across the nation several innocent people have been injured and thousands of dollars in property damage has occurred.

It is sad when anybody, regardless of age or race, loses their life. Even worse is when people use a death to promote their own agenda and cause a racial divide in our great country. The constant attempt of some to divide us into groups of black or white should be replaced with one, where we all belong to one group, with our colors being red, white and blue.

No end in sight to social services

Pretty much lost in the immigration debate is the cost to those of us already living here. We've heard about increased competition for already scarce jobs. But in addition, America is paying the price in increased so-called redistributive programs. The number of people on food stamps has doubled under President Obama. All of the other costly, government provided social services are increasing rapidly. There is no end in sight.

Stop the regulations

Our oppressive national government is over-regulating us. We are tired of being told how much salt we can put on our food, what kind of windows we can but for our houses, what types of guns we can own, what kinds of prayers we can say, and where we can say them, what type of energy we can use, what type of doctor we can see, and when, and what we are permitted to do to elect political candidates of our choice.

This is the tyranny our Founding Fathers fought against.

Chamber to recognize businesses

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY — The deadline is fast-approaching for local businesses to submit their nominations for the Indian River Chamber's 2013 Industry Appreciation Awards program.

Nominations are due in to the Chamber office by 5 p.m. Wednesday, July 31. Nomination forms and the awards criteria are available on the Chamber's website www.indianriverchamber.com, at the Chamber building, and from members of the Awards Committee. Award recipients will be recognized at the Chamber's annual Industry Appreciation Awards luncheon in September.

"It is important to recognize the achievements of our local businesses and all they add to the quality of life we enjoy in Indian River County" said Helene Caseltine, economic development director for the chamber.

The Awards program is part of the Chamber's overall economic development strategy as it relates to business retention and expansion.

Categories include awards for new commercial, industrial, and residential construction; commercial redevelopment projects and building renovations, including historic renovations; and "green" construction for those incorporating the use of recycled materials or producing an eco-friendly style. Construction projects are recognized for their architectural aesthetics as well as the benefit to the immediate area. Commercial and industrial projects must be substantially completed with a Certificate of Occupancy issued between Aug. 1, 2012 and July 31, 2012.

The chamber will also honor Entrepreneur of the Year, Manufacturer of the Year, Latin Business of the Year, and Company of the Year.

For the 2013 Entrepreneur of the Year, the awards committee will consider ingenuity, initiative and risk taken by local entrepreneurs and their contribution to the local economy. Considerations for Manufacturer of the Year include the company's role as a "contributory" business, meaning the company sells or distributes the majority of its products outside the local market. Additional criteria include: higher than average wages for their employees; an increase in productivity within the industry; and the company's economic impact. Company of the Year and Latin Business of the Year nominees have similar criteria with a stronger emphasis on the company's work environment, its economic impact on the community, and the company's civic involvement.

Bank makes its presence known in Florida

By Cecil G. Brumley
cbrumley@hometownnewsol.com

Weston-based Florida Community Bank is making the transition from a holding company for the assets of failed banks to one of the state's largest banking operations.

FCB recently completed its first negotiated acquisition, buying Great Florida Bank of Coral Gables. Based on Great Florida's most recent report of outstanding shares of common stock, the deal is valued at about $42.5 million with FCB paying $2.34 for each share.

FCB, a subsidiary of Bond Street Holdings, was formed in 2009 and used to maintain the assets of failed banks in cooperation with the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp. Great Florida also was in shaky condition, but FCB already was involved in turning it around, FCB President Kent Ellert said in a telephone interview. "Based on the pricing, we feel OK about the assets of Great Florida."

The combined operations put FCB as the fourth largest bank based in Florida with assets of $4.4 billion and 67 offices along both Florida coasts.

Mr. Ellert doesn't expect any of the offices will close. "Very little overlapped between our two operations," he said.

FCB is now poised to become a statewide bank, something Florida hasn't had with a state-based bank in several years. It will need to move into the Jacksonville, Panhandle, Tallahassee and Tampa Bay markets to do it.

In the news release announcing the deal, Mr. Ellert said, "The transaction with Great Florida Bank is truly a 'game changer' for our Company as we have been eager to expand our presence in Miami, Florida's largest metro market. We are a Florida-based, Florida-focused company and the merger with Great Florida Bank adds significant scale to our brand and will result in meaningful synergies that will benefit customers and communities of both institutions."

"Consistent with our previously completed eight successful acquisitions, this merger will significantly enhance our Florida footprint and will provide a foundation for us to augment our commercial lending team to further generate organic growth," he said. M. Mehdi Ghomeshi, President of Great Florida Bank, said in the news release, "This merger is a win for our stockholders, customers and banking franchise. This business combination significantly enhances our combined abilities to be one of the financially strongest and most competitive community banking organizations in Florida. We are confident that this merger is a highly attractive strategic alignment for all of our constituents."

The transaction is expected to be completed by the end of the fourth quarter of 2013, subject to customary conditions, including receipt of regulatory approvals and the approval of Great Florida stockholders.

Foundation awards grant to Big Brothers Big Sisters

For Hometown News

INDIAN RIVER COUNTY

Big Brothers Big Sisters of St. Lucie, Indian River and Okeechobee counties received a $40,000 grant from the Indian River Community Foundation to fund "Mentoring for Success in Early Childhood," a new program to improve kindergarten readiness for at-risk children in Indian River County.

The program is a collaborative pilot project between Big Brothers Big Sister and the Early Learning Coalition of Indian River, Martin and Okeechobee Counties in which 50 at-risk pre-kindergarten students will be assigned a mentor three times a week to help develop pre-literacy skills.

The mentors, supplied by AmeriCorps staff from Big Brothers Big Sisters, will also focus on engaging the families of students in literacy activities to support continued learning in the home environment. The program is the first and only local mentoring program working with pre-kindergarten students and is considered an important part of helping Indian River County achieve its Moonshot Moment of having 90 percent of third grade students reading on grade level by 2018.

"AmeriCorps staff and members are excited for this new opportunity to partner with the Early Learning Coalition to target pre-k students," said Jenna Stinnett, AmeriCorps program director. "AmeriCorps members have seen firsthand, the difference strong pre-literacy skills can make in a student entering Kindergarten. These experienced members are excited to give students a solid foundation to build upon when they enter school. We are very thankful and honored to receive the Indian River Community Foundation's generous gift."

The $40,000 grant was awarded by the Indian River Community Foundation through a competitive grants program designed to address time-sensitive community needs in the focus areas of literacy, homelessness and mental health/substance abuse. Kerry Bartlett, Executive Director of the Indian River Community Foundation, said her Board of Directors appreciated the opportunity to help launch Indian River County's first mentoring program for pre-kindergarten students.

"We've been working for over a year in cooperation with other individuals, local businesses and nonprofits to support Indian River County's Moonshot Moment literacy goals," Ms. Bartlett said. "But, this is the first time we've had the opportunity to help launch a program that will have such a lasting impact on the future success of children in our community."

Big Brothers Big Sisters of St. Lucie, Indian River and Okeechobee counties is a one-to-one mentoring organization that served 1,692 children in 2012 through a variety of mentoring programs.

from this year's properties and property taxes will decrease about $4 million for the new year. However, building and new construction will bring in more taxable properties, resulting in a $4 million net gain, Mr. Minner said.

Councilmembers have said they are pleased to be able to keep the old tax rate and still have enough funds to keep up the services and quality of life residents expect in Sebastian.

Councilman Jim Hill said the credit for that is on the shoulders of city staff leadership, not just the city council.

The council will vote on a final tax rate and approve a budget in September.

The tax rate approved by the council at that time may be lower, but it may not exceed the $3.72 per $1,000 amount, unless the council votes to resend all the residents notices of a change in the mail, which would be quite costly to the city.

With the property tax rate at $3.72 per $1,000 in assessed taxable value, a property owner in Sebastian with a house valued at $150,000 after exemptions could expect to pay $558 to the city in property taxes.

Ed Herlihy, a member of the budget review committee, said the committee recommends keeping the rate the same going into the 2013-14 year and also recommends that the city not use any of the general fund reserves, but to keep it for a "rainy day."

About $4.7 million is kept in the general fund reserve.

homelessness to self-sufficiency by focusing on education, job skills training and individualized plans. Additional funding will support technology purchases, program materials and supplies to execute the program.

"Homeless in High School," submitted by Children's Home Society. A $50,000 grant will provide safety net services to 33 homeless youth who are still enrolled in high school. The initiative includes the opportunity for youth to live in a residential setting, while working toward a high school diploma or G.E.D., with support and case management services.

"Sober Living Program," submitted by Substance Awareness Center, will expand the agency's capacity to provide women recovering from addiction with a sober living environment to aid their transition into both the recovery community and society at large. This $50,000 grant will help fund the purchase of the organization's second sober home that will assist 12-14 women annually.

"Home Safe," submitted by Treasure Coast Homeless Services Council. A $20,000 grant will upgrade the technology to allow any homeless family or individual to scan critical documents such as birth certificates, marriage records, social security cards, and education certificates directly into the Homeless Management Information System used by nine collaborating member agencies.

These grants mark the fifth year the Community Foundation has operated a competitive grant program driven by contributions from local philanthropists interested in addressing time-sensitive community needs. The Community Foundation uses a Board-appointed committee of local experts and community leaders to review the proposals and recommend to the board how grants should be awarded.

Ms. Bartlett said the Community Foundation Board of Directors makes it a priority to connect interested donors with organizations that have measurable plans for impacting Indian River County. Community Foundation representatives work closely with each organization throughout the year to ensure they are tracking their results.

"Every donor to the Unrestricted Fund receives a mid-year and a final report on the progress of the grant awards," Ms. Bartlett said. "This is one of the reasons the fund has grown every year. With each report we gain donor confidence in our ability to select creative programs that produce measurable results."

The Unrestricted Fund is just one program of the Indian River Community Foundation, which, in partnership with its fund holders, awarded $3,063,000 in grants during fiscal year 2012.

The Community Foundation currently manages more than $19 million in assets restricted for charitable purposes to support its mission of improving Indian River County through donor-driven philanthropy.

Try 'Majestic' operas to beat the heat

By Jessica Tuggle
jtuggle@hometownnewsol.com

VERO BEACH — If the heat and rain are putting a damper on your summer plans, why not check out the art form that is growing in popularity in the county from the comfort of padded chairs and cool air conditioning?

The Majestic Theatre in Vero Beach is still offering select showings of the operas filmed live at The Metropolitan Opera in New York this summer, including performances of "Turandot" in July and "The Barber of Seville" in August.

"Turandot," an Italian opera set in China, follows the story of a prince in love with a princess who wants nothing to do with him. It contains the famous tenor aria, "Nessun Dorma." Showings are July 27 and July 31 at 10 a.m. Tickets are $12.50 each.

This performance of "Turandot" features Marcello Giordani, an opera star that has been to Vero Beach several times for live performances and will return again this fall, said Joan Ortega-Cowan, president of Vero Beach Opera.

The opera organization partnered with the theater several years ago to bring the live opera performances to Vero Beach and the response has been tremendous, Mrs. Ortega-Cowan said.

"Opera encompasses all of the arts, the orchestra, the singers, the costumes and the sets, and it's been around for several hundred years," she said.

The age of the art form and the fact that Americans are rarely exposed to it, mean that many people do not understand its appeal, Mrs. Ortega-Cowan said.

"People tend to think it's for older, stuffy, intellectuals, but when operas started they were for the average person in Italy, they were accessible to all people," she said.

"Americans just haven't had the same access to opera as Europeans."

Subtitles are available for people who want to understand every word of an opera that isn't in their native language, but the music alone can tell the story, whether a comedy, romance, drama or something else.

During the summer, the shows are part of The Met: Live in HD Encore series, meaning they are DVD recordings of live shows, but during the fall, winter and spring months, the shows are actually simulcast live into the theatre.

This fall, the live shows will begin again, and season subscriptions will again be available.

Marcello Giordani is one of the major stars of The Metropolitan Opera in New York and his performances can be seen in Vero Beach via The MET Live in HD series at The Majestic Theatre in Vero Beach. Mr. Giordani is also a frequent guest of the Vero Beach Opera and is scheduled to make an appearance for a special concert this fall season.

Lemonade stands to raise money for Treasure Coast Food Bank

For Hometown News
NewsFP@hometownnewsol.com

TREASURE COAST — On July 26-27, Panera Bread will be hosting lemonade stands to benefit Treasure Coast Food Bank Child Nutrition Programs at nine bakery-cafes throughout the Treasure Coast area. From 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. on both days, children and supporters of Treasure Coast Food Bank will be asking customers to donate $1 or more to receive a refreshing sample of Home-Style Lemonade.

Guests will be served from decorated Operation Lemon-Aid for Kids stands made by Panera Bread associates. "We are excited to be hosting Operation Lemon-Aid for Kids stands at all of our bakery-cafes," said Dana Trabulsy, director of marketing and public relations for Covelli Family Limited Partnership, a franchisee of Panera. "We believe in the mission of Treasure Coast Food Bank and are looking forward to two exciting days where we can come together and make a difference in the lives of children battling hunger. Last year we were able to donate close to $10,000 on behalf of our generous Panera Bread customers." Additionally, all money collected in the month of July through the Operation Dough-Nation boxes at

performing arts outlet for children and teens in the Sebastian and Fellsmere area," said Ms. Patty. "A theatre experience on-stage is confidence building and can be life-changing for kids and adults. It is our hope that this first summer camp performance can grow into a four show season, including a spring break camp, and by offering free tickets to the youth in our community, we are encouraging parents and grandparents to enjoy live theatre as a family unit."

Ever After-The Musical, written by Nathan Hartswick and Bill Francoeur and produced by special arrangement with Pioneer Drama Service, is a hilarious parody of daytime TV. Host Sally Lizzie Jesse Donatello-Griffin wonders if time truly heals all wounds so she invites Cinderella and her middle-aged 'beauty-impaired' stepsisters to reconcile with each other after being estranged for 20 years.

What about Snow White and the Evil Queen? They are there too along with a trash-talking clairvoyant mirror, an unfortunate prince who is turning slowly back into a frog, and even Jiminy Cricket — now an occupational therapist and author of the book "My Life as Your Conscience."

The musical is punctuated by questions from obnoxious studio audience members, ridiculously funny infomercials for fairy tale related products, and six knee-slapping, hand-clapping musical dance numbers.

"Ever After-The Musical" will be presented Friday, July 26, 2013, at 7 p.m., in Lesage Hall at St. Sebastian Church, 13075 U.S. 1; just north of Wal-Mart. Adult tickets are $5; kids 15 and under will be admitted to the performance for free. Adult tickets may be purchased in advance online at www.stsebastian.com or in the parish office.

Tickets may also be purchased at the door the evening of the performance.

Being a true "sports nut," I love the month of July.

Baseball is in full swing and pennant races are heating up. Football's training camps are set to open. What I admit to enjoying the most is waking up early, flipping on the television and watching tennis at Wimbledon and then a week or so later, doing the same to tune in golf.

As I write this from the comfort of my recliner. The Open Championship is being played. Just as I did a couple weeks back, I will wake early this weekend, sit down with my tea and crumpets and enjoy golf competition being played on a venue unlike any I've played here in the states.

Okay, I don't really care for hot tea and I confess to never having had a "crumpet," but I think coffee and an English muffin will do.

The oldest major in golf happens to also be the only one not played on this side of the "pond." That's Brit-speak for the Atlantic Ocean. I'm trying to get in character and feel the mood. I even have my umbrella next to my recliner. With the weather we've been having it feels like Scotland here, but warmer.

The Open treats us to a

totally different game from what we are used to playing or watching. Golf here is played mainly through the air. We have lots of water hazards, not too much wind and soft, over-watered fairways and greens. Open courses are golf courses in the truest sense. Bunkers are actually penal. In stark contrast to here, pros want no part of any bunker in this week's event.

There are several reasons why I love The Open. It is not just that it is the oldest of the majors. I think it's because it is played on courses that are as courses were meant to be.

Golf originated with the bored and solitary shepherds of the Dark Ages. It was a quiet way for them to pass the time without going crazy from boredom while endlessly herding their flocks around the meadow.

Sheep are gentle, lovable creatures, but hardly stimulating company. So, shepherds would pick up a lump of wood and a fairly round stone and whack it about while one sheep followed another around the fields from sun-up to sunset. They didn't keep score or argue over who had the better stick or rock. It was simply something to pass the time.

The terrain over which shepherds watched their flocks was a rolling, natural meadow. The closer to the sea, the more rolling it became and the more entrenched with long grass, heather and sharp, thorny gorse. It was there that the game became more fun and skill-driven. Who wants to knock a rock around on an empty, flat piece of yard anyway?

On those meadows, golf evolved. Of course, there are organic things that just seemed to happen. Mother Nature was the only course architect back then. She allowed the wind and rain to shape the land. The animals hid from the frigid air and spray from the sea in small pits. Shepherds rightfully feared hitting their rock into one of these pits. I'm guessing the sheep were not very fond of those moments either.

Over time, some shepherds became quite good at this game and in 1860 the very first Open Championship was played. By then, golf had reached the point where it was a proper game, with proper rules and the best player usually won. A tradition was born and it has grown more glorious with each passing year. With the exception of bombs dropping during world wars, nothing has stopped this event from taking place each summer.

The Open is a romantic celebration of the way our game is meant to be played. It encourages risk and rewards those fortunate enough with a wee bit of luck. Even those who play safe may suffer from an unfortunate bounce here and there. It closely emulates real life with all the crazy bounces, good and bad luck, and the occasional reward for skill and bravado.

Best of all, the winner's trophy, the Claret Jug, is lent to the champion for the next year. His name is inscribed on its base and he gets to trot around the globe showing it off. It's the trophy of the "Champion of the Year," winner of The Open, golf's oldest, and perhaps, greatest event.

Now if you'll excuse me, I'm actually craving a crumpet.
