Focus on art

On Saturday, April 28, the Vero Beach Museum of Art had a record breaking crowd attend their Children's Art Festival. Throngs of families enjoyed art and interactive activities set up in every corner of the museum. With gas prices rising, some tips to save money

By Mike Winikoff
mwinikoff@hometownnewsol.com

TREASURE COAST — If you pay attention to gas prices, you've noticed them creeping up all across the Treasure Coast. From Sebastian to Stuart, gas prices are higher than they were at this time last month and last year.

According to GasBuddy.com, which provides crowd-sourced details on prices at over 135,000 gas stations, gas prices have reached their highest prices since at least 2015. Just in April, prices surpassed recent highs three times.

On April 12, GasBuddy reported a national average of $2.68 per gallon for regular gas, which it said was the highest since July 2015. By April 23, the average had risen to $2.76. On April 29 it had shot up to $2.808.

Sebastian, county disagree on fire inspections

By Mike Winikoff
mwinikoff@hometownnewsol.com

SEBASTIAN — A battle is brewing between the City of Sebastian and Indian River County over the city's decision to hire its own fire marshal.

On March 14, the Sebastian City Council enacted an ordinance creating a city fire marshal's office. This would result in Sebastian conducting its own building inspections, rather than remaining within the county system. The action is similar to one taken by Fellsmere several years ago out of frustration with the county inspection system.

The ordinance was not supported by the Indian River County Board of County Commissioners, who want to maintain a unified system.

County Administrator Jason Brown appeared at the council meeting and asked the council to table the ordinance. He said the fire district was unified, and he felt it was important to hold all of the services together.

The primary issue seemed to be the timeliness of fire inspections. Local structural engineer Todd Smith said that the county had discussed streamlining inspections six months earlier but had yet to implement changes.

Mickey Capp of Capp Custom Builders complained that during a recent $1 million renovation on a property, a jack hammer set off the smoke detector and

Dr. Keith Kalish treats all foot, ankle problems

By Mike Winikoff

mwinikoff@hometownnewsol.com

VERO BEACH — sDr. Keith J. Kalish has been providing foot care in Indian River County since 1987. The recent winner of Hometown News' Readers' Choice Award offers a well-rounded podiatric practice with surgical and nonsurgical options and can treat just about any foot or ankle problem that comes through the door.

"People live with foot pain and don't realize that in many instances there are simple solutions to taking care of their foot problems," Dr. Kalish told Hometown News. "Foot doctors see only about three percent of the population that are having pain with their feet. Most people aren't aware that our services are so effective."

Dr. Kalish treats almost any foot condition you can think of, including Achilles tendon injuries, ankle instability and sprains, problems from diabetes and arthritis, bunions, calluses, corns, flat feet, fungus toenails, geriatric foot care, heel spurs, ingrown toenails, warts, and plantar fasciitis.

Dr. Kalish also offers peripheral vascular testing, digital X-rays, and 3D scanning technology.

"We see a lot of diabetics on a routine schedule," Dr. Kalish said. "Diabetes is a lifetime condition, and if we can keep them from having foot problems, that's much easier than taking care of a problem that's been going on for a long time."

Diabetics often have problems with blood flow and numbness in their feet. That can lead to frequent infections or ulcerations. Many diabetics get into the dangerous mindset of expecting foot pain and seeing it as normal, so they don't treat it.

"In some instances it can lead to problems with bone infection, and that sets them up for losing a toe. If a diabetic loses a toe, the chances of losing other toes or even a foot or a leg go up significantly. So just by seeing diabetics on a routine schedule, we can do preventative maintenance and evaluate their circulation and nerve function. In some instances we can put them in a special diabetic shoe to protect their feet and prevent problems from arising. If a diabetic keeps their glucose well controlled and prevents these problems from arising, they can go a whole lifetime without having any problems with their feet. That's what we're trying to do, provide that preventative podiatric care to keep people out of trouble."

Some people come directly to Dr. Kalish without a referral. Others are referred by primary care physicians or endocrinologists.

Dr. Kalish is a Board Certified Medical and Surgical Foot Specialist with over 30 years experience. Dr. Kalish is a member of the American Podiatric Medical Association and Florida Podiatric Medical Association.

Dr. Kalish

tion. He is affiliated with local hospitals including the Indian River Medical Center. Dr. Kalish has been a part-time supervising faculty member for the Florida State University College of Medicine since 2008.

Most services can be performed in the office on an out-patient setting.

"It's been very gratifying over the years to find there are a lot of small, simple procedures we can perform for people who may have been going to a wound center or other facility with a wound that's difficult to heal. In some instances there are simple, straightforward outpatient procedures we can do that get rid of bone problems that had been causing the wound, and then it can heal very quickly. Some of our patients had been going to a wound center or getting home health care for weeks or months or even years, and we can do a small procedure that gets them healed in a very short period of time in some instances. Those have been especially gratifying procedures to do, if we can get a wound to heal that has been there for years. We like to focus on going after what causes the problem in the first place."

Recently Dr. Kalish has been treating a lot of patients with a synthetic cartilage implant called Cartiva.

"The Cartiva implant is like a jelly bean that gets put inside the joint. If somebody has pain when they move their big toe up and down, it's often from arthritis and bone spurting around the joint. In the past, there haven't been the greatest treatments for that. When I did my residency, we used a lot of traditional implants, but they don't hold up that well. Another alternative is just fusing the joint, and that gets rid of the arthritic pain but you have a stiff toe after that type of procedure."

"The Cartiva implant is a small silicone-type material that's put in the joint and stays in place very nicely. We've been getting great results with it and we haven't seen it breaking down as can happen with other implants. It really is a nice additional tool we have for a difficult problem."

"Some younger folks don't want to have a stiff joint after surgery, and this is an alternative that maintains the motion in the joint but gets rid of the pain."

"Another advantage to the Cartiva implant is if down the road you need to fuse a joint, you can still do it. In the past, with implants you had to remove quite a bit of bone, so that wasn't an option later because there was too much bone loss. With this you still maintain the option to have a fusion down the road."

Most important, Dr. Kalish says, is to not ignore problems.

"You shouldn't have pain. Pain is usually a warning sign that something needs to be looked at and taken care of. If you have pain, give us a call. We can usually fit people in pretty quickly. We're very efficient."

Office hours are Monday through Friday, 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. Appointments can be scheduled through the website or by phone.

The office of Dr. Keith J. Kalish is located at 1285 36th St., Suite 203, Vero Beach. Call (772) 567-0111 or visit www.kalishfootcare.com, where you will also find an email contact form and a link to Dr. Kalish's Facebook page.

An unclear view of what trans means

Some people say that if a man “self identifies” as a woman, he should be allowed to use the women’s restroom. Likewise, if a woman “self identifies” as a man, she should be allowed to use the men’s restroom. Well, if I “self identify” as a NASCAR driver, can I drive 200 mph anywhere I want? If I “self identify” as a cop, are the laws about impersonating a police officer then void? It seems to me that, what were once called “delusions” are now being passed off with a straight face as “self identification.” Transgenders don’t bother me. Transdead aka zombies do.

Some advice

A recent “Can you help me” plea asked on how to deal with telephone solicitations. In short why are you answering the phone? The call back method is very effective. Caller ID is helpful as it identifies friends, important vendors/customers and relatives. As for calls you don’t recognize simply let them go to voicemail. A phone with call memory will allow recall of unknown numbers. When I call back a solicitation usually the following occurs: 1. the line is dead (no answer); 2. the marketing company announcement answers your call and asks if you wish to be removed from their call list (very handy); 3. a live person answers but this is rare and they do not usually get call backs and are off script. At my business we keep a call log on a spreadsheet and this is a great way to ID repeat solicitations (offenders).

More help for robocalls

Everyone finds nuisance telephone calls annoying. May I suggest checking out NOMOROBO.com (No More Robot Calls). This is a free service for landlines and costs $1.99/month for cell phones. Whenever a robot call is made, your phone will ring just one time. It doesn’t stop calls, but it is very helpful.

Florida should use nature for pleasure and pocketbook

I moved from Chicago to sunny Florida to enjoy the Sunshine State. After I moved here, I started buying solar lights to illuminate my yard. However, my electric bill was atrocious.

Suddenly it occurred to me to get solar panels to circumvent the high cost of electricity. I contacted a solar company and I was amazed to find out that Florida is not giving any kind of rebates to homeowners to install solar energy panels.

The Internal Revenue Service gives 30 percent rebates, however, the state of Florida does not. I wrote to Gov. Rick Scott with no response.

I found out many other states offer incentives for homeowners to install solar panels. I wonder why the Sunshine State is not offering good incentives for homeowners.

Energy is a precious commodity and if our state would incentives then we’d have surplus energy that could easily be sold to other states.

I cannot comprehend why Florida is not doing anything to use nature for our pleasure and pocketbook.

Don’t worry, it’s not your fault

Throughout society we have seen a steady progression in the thinking that nobody is required to take responsibility for their actions. Today’s buzz word is termed millennial thinking. This includes not only the freedom to do anything you wish without being burdened by repercussions as well as it no longer requires hard work to achieve. You are, after all, “entitled” to everything you want in life.

Another splash of color

Take the case of a person that goes to a bar and has far too much to drink. They get into their car and drive in a severely impaired state and kill someone. The real culprit certainly cannot be the poor person that now has to live with this on their conscience. It is, instead, the bartender that served him too many drinks..

We saw the McDonald’s fiasco with the coffee which the lady spilled on herself. I believe the award she received was over $80 million. McDonald’s then had to insert a notation on their coffee cups that the contents were hot since the public cannot be expected to know this without fair warning. Sounds right to me.

In recent months we have seen a couple of cases much closer to home. We have had two incidents where people were struck and killed by a Brightline train. These were certainly tragic events and I extend my condolences to the friends and families of the victims. However, the initial gut reaction disseminated by many was to go after Brightline. The very thought that Brightline is to blame for individuals knowingly standing on the tracks or walking/bicycling in front of a train is a classic example of how far we’ve gone to make certain the truth, common sense or simply what is right is no longer the reaction of our societal mores. If the gates are down across an intersection, the crossing alarms are operating and the train is blowing its air horn, I see no way how we can deflect blame onto the train. One cannot legislate stupidity. To be fair, it is possible that the victims may have had mental or physical situations which prevented them from realizing what they were doing. If so, then how does the family allow a loved one with said conditions to have the freedom to put themselves into such situations? Again, an offshoot of personal responsibility.

This penchant towards PC extends to law enforcement as well. Sometimes those that are really wearing the handcuffs are not the perpetrators but our law enforcement members themselves.

Looking for a home

Where's Waldo? He's here, at the Humane Society! Waldo is a five-year old neutered male mixed breed cat with gorgeous green eyes. He's new to the cat room, so he has been keeping a low profile, but he is smart enough to hang out near people, knowing we will keep him safe. Waldo is friendly and enjoys being petted, but he is not yet comfortable enough to be playful. All he requires is a comfy cat bed. This cool guy will warm up pretty quickly in your loving home!

Call the Humane Society at (772) 388-3331 or visit the shelter at 6230 77th St., Vero Beach. Animals for adoption can be seen on the shelter's website www.hsvb.org.

the Fire Department shut the project down, causing him to lose $100,000 in expenses and two months of lost income.

Other builders and contractors also complained about constant inspection delays. The Sebastian ordinance to establish its own Fire Marshal passed unanimously, 5-0.

On April 9, the county responded with a letter to Sebastian Mayor Jim Hill. The letter appeared to summarize the commissioners' views, expressed at the April 3 County Commission meeting, that Sebastian should be challenged to either remain completely in the county system, or leave it entirely.

Speaking for both the county and the Indian River County Emergency Services District, Commission Chairman Peter O'Bryan said "It is my goal, and the goal of the District, to amicably resolve issues between the District and the City of Sebastian concerning fire safety plan review, ongoing construction inspections as well as follow up inspections that may be required to insure compliance with the code."

Comm. O'Bryan added that the county had recently hired a new fire marshal, Dave Johnson, and a new District Director, Tad Stone, and they hoped that the county could improve the system in ways that would benefit Sebastian.

"It is important that the District and the City of Sebastian work together to create solutions that benefit the community," Comm. O'Bryan said. In what sounded like an ultimatum, Comm. O'Bryan concluded "I am writing to ask whether the City of Sebastian wishes to either remain as part of the District or if not, the County will assume the City of Sebastian intends on leaving the District and providing all of the emergency services within the City of Sebastian."

Blessing of the animals set for Saturday

For Hometown News

newsfp@hometownnewsol.com

The Humane Society of Vero Beach and Indian River County (HSVB & IRC) invites members of the community and their companion animals to the annual Blessing of the Animals on Saturday, May 5, at 10 a.m. The service will be held in the Humane Society's Volunteer Pavilion located at 6230 77th Street (Hobart Road), Vero Beach.

The Blessing of the Animals is being held in conjunction with "Be Kind to Animals Week," a nationally recognized week celebrating the human/animal bond and promoting the protection of all animals. Officiants include Alisa Forman of Temple Beth Shalom, Deacon John Dunlop of St. Sebastian Church and Pastor Mark Bernthal from Our Savior Lutheran Church.

This event invites people of all faiths and all animals in attendance will be blessed. Members of the community without pets are also welcome to participate in the celebration. "Animals are an integral part of of lives and part of our families. They make our lives richer. Our blessing honors animals of every shape and size. We'll bless animals who have found their forever homes and say a prayer for those animals who have been abandoned, lost or mistreated," HSVB Assistant Development Director Jennifer Downes explained.

After the public ceremony, the shelter's homeless animals will also receive a blessing.

Families can bring a photo of their pet to be blessed if their animal is too frail or frightened to attend, or if their pet has passed away. Although there is no charge to participate, The Humane Society of Vero Beach and Indian River County asks attendees to consider making a contribution to the Humane Society's Spay/Neuter fund. Donations of supplies such as sheets, towels and blankets for the animals housed and cared for at the shelter are also welcomed.

Guests are encouraged to RSVP with the Humane Society at (772) 388-3826.

Gas

50 states again last week as oil prices continued their upward move to new multi-year highs," said Patrick DeHaan, head of petroleum analysis for GasBuddy. "In addition, government data highlighted a new record for gasoline demand was breached last week, and we're not even into the summer driving season yet. The road ahead at the pump looks quite ominous if that demand number proves common in the coming weeks."

In Vero Beach, the lowest prices for regular gas as of April 29 were $2.59 at The Beverage Stop, 310 27th Ave. SW, $2.64 at 7-Eleven, 210 Highland Dr. SW & 2089 Old Dixie Hwy. SW, $2.67 at RaceWay, 9490 108th Ave. and Fellsmere Road, $2.68 at Sam's Club, 5565 20th St., and $2.69 at Mobil, 3365 Aviation Blvd.

In Sebastian, the lowest prices for regular gas were $2.65 at Mobil, 9490 90th Ave. and CR-512, $2.67 at BP, 10950 CR-512 and I-95, $2.69 at Sunoco, 9020 Fellsmere Road & Watervliet Ave., $2.69 at Cumberland Farms, 957 Sebastian Blvd. and Barber St., and $2.69 at Speedway, 700 US-1 & CR-512 (eastbound).

Across all of Florida, the average on April 29 was $2.719, compared to $2.629 one month ago and $2.412 one year ago. The lowest price reported in the state was $2.34 at a Shell in Deerfield Beach. The highest price in the state was $3.97 at a Chevron in North Miami Beach.

Across the U.S., the average April 29 was $2.808, compared to $2.658 one month ago and $2.386 one year ago. The lowest average prices in the U.S. are $2.491 in Oklahoma and $2.496 in Louisiana. The highest average prices are $3.593 in California and $3.564 in Hawaii.

GasBuddy says the sudden surge can be blamed on oil prices rising to nearly $67 per barrel, the highest level since 2014, on fears of military action in Syria and trade conflict with China. U.S. oil inventories also stand 20 percent lower than a year ago, the result of higher crude oil exports and OPEC's agreement to cut oil production, now in its 15th month.

Fuel Saving Tips

1. Avoid high speeds. Increasing speed increases aerodynamic drag exponentially, dramatically increasing fuel consumption.

2. Avoid frequent accelerations and hard braking. Simply trying to maintain a consistent flow can increase fuel economy by 20 percent.

3. Keep tires properly inflated. One tire underinflated by two PSI can increase fuel consumption by one percent. Pay attention to manufacturer recommendations for air pressure and check them regularly.

4. Use air conditioning as little as practical.

The air conditioner can increase fuel consumption by 20 percent.

5. Keep windows closed, but choose open windows over A/C when you need one or the other. Open windows at highway speeds can increase fuel consumption by 10 percent. That's 50 percent better than A/C, but still a loss.

6. Service vehicle regularly. Fuel efficiency gets worse if you have dirty air filters, old spark plugs or low fluid levels.

7. Use cruise control to maintain a constant speed. But avoid the temptation to move your legs away from the peddles or divert your gaze from the road, as you must remain prepared to respond to any situation.

8. Avoid heavy loads. Those bags of kitty litter or top soil or extra cases of water in the trunk will cost you more in fuel than you saved by buying them in bulk. Empty heavy items from your car as soon as you can.

9. Avoid long idles. It's often hard to anticipate how long you'll be waiting for someone outside a school or store, but the general rule is that if you will be stopped in place for more than one minute, you'll save gas by turning the car off and then restarting it.

10. Purchase a fuel efficient vehicle. People buy more vehicles when gas prices are low, and then they ignore fuel and go for a big truck or SUV. Think ahead and chose the smallest vehicle that will suit your needs, with the best rated fuel efficiency you can afford. Choosing a manual transmission will often save you extra money, though that's not for everyone.

Jam band Oddessey at American Icon Brewery

By Mike Winikoff

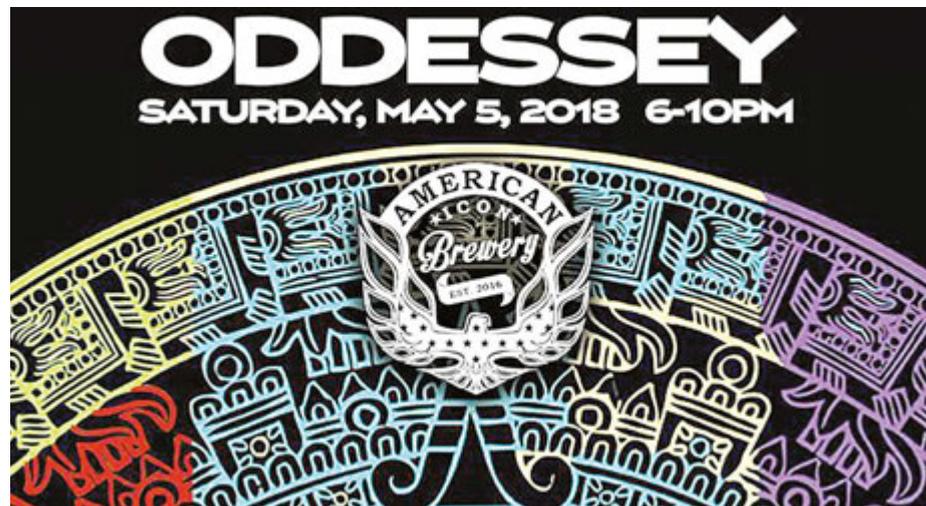

mwinikoff@hometownnewsol.com

VERO BEACH — Fans of “jam band” music like Phish and the Grateful Dead are enjoying a wealth of riches on the Treasure Coast, where bands like Souljam can be found playing almost every weekend. Making waves in that scene right now is Oddessey, performing May 5 at American Icon Brewery in Vero Beach.

Oddessey is Derek Brown (guitar and vocals), Jason Green (guitar and vocals), Matthew Lindstrom (bass), Peter Baione (saxophone, flute, & vocals), and Erik Flinck (drums and vocals). They are based in Port St. Lucie, with shows up and down the Treasure Coast.

At a recent show outside Riverside Theatre, Oddessey moved effortlessly from rock to funk and back with songs like the Dead’s Shakedown Street and Franklin’s Tower and Stevie Wonder’s Boogie on Reggae Woman. Adding a unique aspect to the sound is sax player Peter Baione, whose horn playing and flutes lend an air of sophistication and classiness to the songs.

Oddessey also offers a healthy dose of originals, which they mix effortlessly into each set. In each you can feel the wide range of influences for the band, including classic rockers like Jimi Hendrix and Slash plus jam band monsters the Allman Brothers, Umphrey’s McGee, String Cheese Incident, and Moe.

The American Icon Brewery where Oddessey will play Saturday was established in 2016 on the site of the 100-year old Vero Beach landmark known as the Historic Diesel Plant. Nestled within the city’s growing downtown arts district, AIB offers fresh local beer and homemade food, including a handful of vegetarian and healthy options like the yummy plant-based Beyond Burger, a Golden Quinoa Salad, and the filling Crispy Brussel Sprouts. Baskets of sweet potato fries and onion rings ensure pleasing finger food for everybody.

Oddessey performs at American Icon Brewery Saturday, May 5, 6-10 p.m. The brewery is located at 1133 19th Place, Vero Beach. For more information, call (772) 934-4266.

IGNITE Wrestling hosts 'Cinco De Mayhem'

By Mike Winikoff

mwinikoff@hometownnewsol.com

VERO BEACH — IGNITE Wrestling returns to Vero Beach May 5 with Cinco De Mayhem, an afternoon of wrestling at Walking Tree Brewery. Doors open at 12:30 p.m. and the action begins at 1 p.m.

IGNITE Wrestling is an independent wrestling company based in Vero Beach. IGNITE supports families of special needs children by educating them on their rights and services available.

IGNITE is owned by Vero Beach resident Kim Artlip, one of only a handful of female owner/promoters in professional wrestling. With regular shows in Fort Pierce and Vero Beach, IGNITE has been working to make the Treasure Coast a pro wrestling hotbed.

“We have been focused on making the local area into a thriving sports destination for fans of professional wrestling,” Ms. Artlip told Hometown News.

IGNITE is an official partner with Twitch, a rapidly growing online video platform.

“We feel with our streaming partnerships that we have created an environment for other small businesses such as ours to thrive,” said Ms. Artlip.

“We are pleased to be able to crown our first ever women’s champion right here in our hometown. It is a major step forward for our company as we recognize the skills and energy these incredible athletes bring to our company.”

Cinco De Mayhem will feature international sensation Serpentico, Rey Fury, The Aztec Warrior Alex Cruz, IGNITE Champion Aaron Epic, Tripp Cassidy, Joey Lynch, Aspyn Rose, former NWA Jr. Heavyweight Champion Craig Cohn, Matt Knicks, Stevie Fierce and more.

Wrestling star Joey Lynch will be appearing in the main event title match against defending Undisputed Champion “Death-proof” Aaron Epic. Mr. Lynch was injured in January, and has just begun to make his comeback in main event matches.

The event will include up to three hours of aerial spectacle and heart-pounding

Food Bank seeks summer meal sites for kids

For Hometown News
newsfp@hometownnewsol.com

Treasure Coast Food Bank wants to ensure that kids won't have to worry about getting a meal because school's out for summer. The Food Bank is recruiting partners who want to help by participating in its Summer Meals program to ensure that students whose families don't always have enough food are able to eat nutritious meals all summer.

The Summer Meals program provides meals to youth 18 years and younger, at no cost to them. Treasure Coast Food Bank partners with churches, community centers, youth development organizations, and other agencies that can offer a place to feed the kids.

Treasure Coast Food Bank prepares each meal daily throughout the summer. The meals typically include fresh-made sandwiches and wraps, hand-made salads, and fresh cut fruits and veggies. The program will run every weekday from May 29 to August 10. Meal times vary depending on the location. The program is available to organizations that run programs for limited times, such as Vacation Bible School.

"Our goal is not only to provide nutritious food but to ensure the children in our community have a worry-free summer and enjoy summer vacation the way it's meant to be," said Treasure Coast Food Bank President and CEO Judith Cruz.

More than 50,000 students are eligible for free meals from local school districts on the Treasure Coast. Only about six percent participate in a Summer Meals program. Treasure Coast Food Bank has set a goal of once again providing 30 sites for Summer Meals.

There will be an informational webinar at 3 p.m. on Tuesday, May 8 for organizations interested in learning more about participating as a site for the Summer Food Service Program. To learn more, please visit <https://stopthunger.org/sfsp>.

The program is supported in part through donations. Anyone who wishes to support the Summer Meals Program can donate through www.stopthunger.org.

New owners at St. Lucie Trail

For a few years now the PGA of America has had the "For Sale" sign out at St. Lucie Trail Golf Club, in St. Lucie West. The organization purchased the club more than two decades ago when it opened the PGA Village just on the other side of I-95.

When it first opened in the late 1980s the course was the jewel of St. Lucie County. Over the years it has gone through every step of being cared for from neglect to pampering. One thing the course never lost was its variety. The course remains a lot of fun to play with a solid mix of holes that challenge you to hit every club in your bag.

The new owner is CGI St. Lucie, the same group that owns The Evergreen Club in Palm City. Having played Evergreen and witnessed the great conditions that course is always in, I am quite excited for St. Lucie Trail. Apparently the community is as well, with over 100 new members joining just in the few weeks since the course sold.

"We're excited to be here," said General Manager, Matt Boyd. "We love the layout and the design. We will do everything we can to promote golf here."

The new owners plan to address some of the drainage issues the course experiences

GOLF

when those summer thunderstorms move through. They are also listening to the community to see what the members and customers want.

"If the course was paid a little more attention (by the previous owner), everyone would have been thrilled," said Boyd. "We are giving it that attention."

A benefit of purchasing the course at this time of year is that business tends to be a little slow. This gives the new owners a chance to address the issues and get the course primed and ready for "season."

One thing the membership was missing was the country club atmosphere. The club has a beautiful clubhouse that wasn't being used to its potential. The dining room saw over 200 people show up for a dinner shortly after the purchase. The pool and tennis courts were also included in the purchase and the green clay courts may be the best-kept secret in the area. However, CGI purchased the club because it loves the golf course.

The course has five sets of tees and plays anywhere from just over 5,000 yards long to just over 6,900. The par-4 third hole, at 458 yards from the tips, may just be the longest par-4 in the area.

In the 2013 the PGA of America renovated the club. Dick Gray was brought in to focus on getting the course up to its tough standards. The focus was on the playable areas. Getting the course cleaned up and looking good from tee to green was first and foremost. It took a while, but the greens were rebuilt and re-grassed. With a few years of growth in them now, they are about perfect.

One recent trend in course renovation is where the areas around the perimeter of the holes are cleaned up and thinned out. Not having thick clumps of palmettos to gobble up slightly errant shots serves a trio of purposes. First, it speeds up play and, second, it makes for a less frustrating round for the average golfer. Thirdly, it creates more airflow across the fairways and greens and allows the course to breathe.

If you played here years ago, you will surely remember the palmettos that gobbled up almost every wayward shot. Most of these are gone or well-trimmed. Fairways are wider, and the greens a bit larger. The tall grasses in the wetlands have been cut to a proper height.

Now to see what other improvements CGI makes over the coming months. I have a feeling this club is back and ready to re-take its place as a jewel on the Treasure Coast.

For information on the club, memberships and tee times, visit www.stlucietrail.com or call the pro shop at (772) 340-1444.
