

St. Augustine Attractions Free On Pal Day

From Staff

Dec. 1 marks the 54rd anniversary of USO Pal Day in St. Augustine. Since 1957, the attractions in St. Augustine have shown their support and appreciation to members of the U.S. Armed Forces and their families by opening their doors free of charge.

In addition, the members of Elks Lodge #829 (1420 A1A South) prepare and serve a free lunch sponsored by the Greater Jacksonville Area USO.

Parking in the free Public Parking Garage across the street from "Ripley's Believe it or Not" is recommended. All public buses and trains will be free for the day, and will transport service members and their families to the Elks Lodge for lunch. Lunch is served from 10:30 a.m.-3 p.m. Horse carriages are not free.

Attractions open to all military I.D. card carrying members; active duty, retired, Reserves, National Guard. One spouse per family must present military I.D. Card prior to entering an attraction. Uniforms are not required - civilian attire authorized. However, command/unit ballcap is encouraged. Train and bus rides are free for the entire day.

St. Augustine attractions are open from 9 a.m.-6 p.m.

Attractions open for the day include:

Authentic Old Jail - (167 San Marco Ave.)

Getting Ready For Santa

From Staff

Sleigh bells will be jingling as Santa Claus comes in for a visit to Naval Station Mayport during the annual Magical Christmas on Dec. 6.

Sponsored by MWR Mayport, Allied American University and University of Phoenix, the free festival will be held from 6:30-8:30 p.m. at the Sea Otter Pavilion.

Parents are encouraged to bring a camera to take pictures of their little ones with Santa.

There will be games and prizes, along with sweet treats, crafts and rides on the Polar Express train.

There will be special performances by the children of Child Development Center and Youth Activities Center, as well as the Navy Band Southeast "Windward Brass."

For more information, call 270-5228.

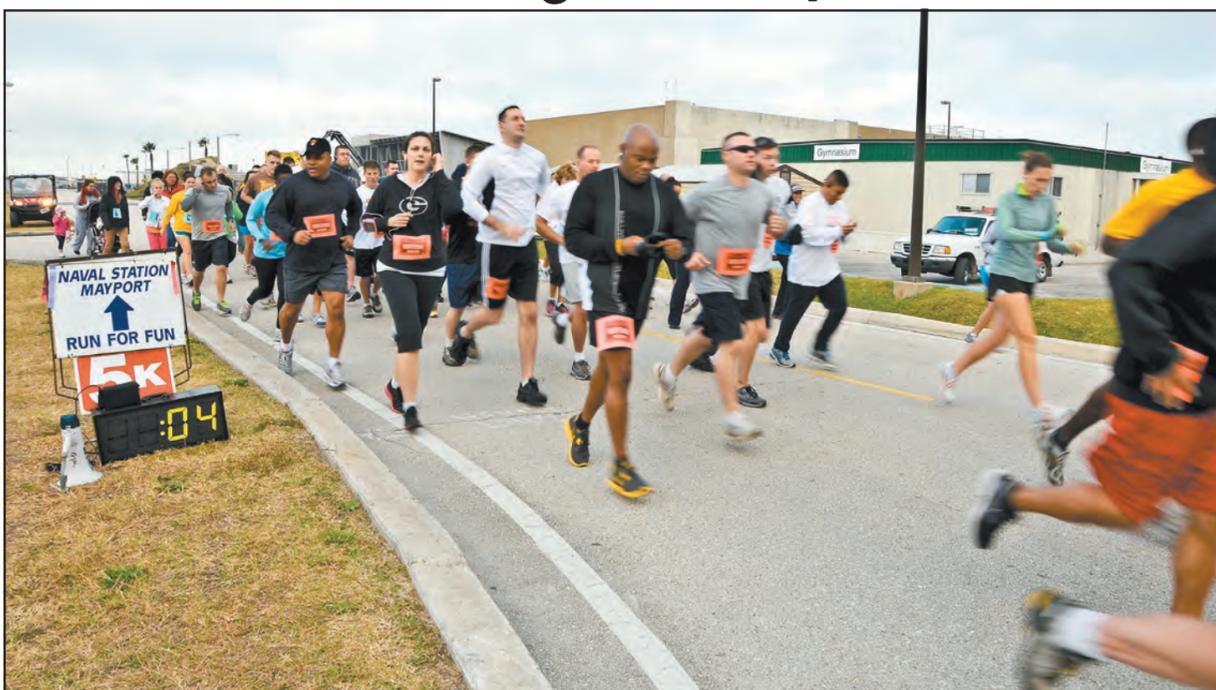

MWR is also sponsoring a Kids Christmas Bingo on Dec. 9 starting at 12:30 p.m. at Beachside Bingo. Cost is $10 per person (includes bingo, hot dogs, soda, cookies, and prize drawing). Look for a special appearance by Santa too. Call 270-7204 or 270-5145 for more information.

Kids can get another chance to tell their Christmas wish list to Santa Claus and get a photo at the Mayport Navy Exchange (NEX).

Santa will be at the NEX from 11 a.m.-5 p.m. on Dec. 1-2, and throughout the rest of the month of December.

Running For Turkeys

Runners head out to participate in the November MWR Fun Run "Turkey Trot." First male and female runner to complete the 5k received frozen turkeys from MWR. Four other turkeys were also given away by a drawing. See Pages 12-13 for more MWR happenings.

The Coast Guard Cutter Valiant returned to homeport at Naval Station Mayport on Nov. 21.

The 80-member crew of the Valiant deployed in support of Department of Homeland Security and Coast Guard counter-narcotics, living marine resource and border protection missions.

This was the crew's first deployment after their permanent change of homeport.

During the deployment crewmembers aboard the Valiant ensured the maritime safety, security, and stewardship of the commercial fishing vessel industry along the Gulf coast.

Valiant crewmembers examined more than 160,000 lbs of shrimp worth a market value of nearly $800,000 during 20 at-sea boardings.

While inspecting Gulf

shrimp vessels, Valiant issued 68 fisheries and safety violations. These types of enforcement actions ensure compliance with laws promoting sustainable fisheries policies and protect fishing vessel crews against maritime hazards.

This deployment allowed Coast Guardsman aboard the Valiant to celebrate a significant milestone in the ship's history. While

Bright Futures Online Application Opens Dec. 1

Judy Cromartie
School Liaison Officer

For students anticipating graduation in June 2013, Saturday, December 1st marks the first day they can go online to complete the application for the Bright Futures Scholarships and other state loans and grants. Go to www.FloridaStudentFinancialAid.org, select "State Grants, Scholarships & Applications" and then select "Apply Here." The completion of the Initial Student Florida Financial Aid Application gives the Florida Department of Education permission to evaluate the student's high school transcript and test scores for eligibility for state scholarships and grants.

General eligibility requirements include the following:

- Be a Florida resident and a

Knowing THE ROPES

U.S. citizen or eligible non-citizen.

•Pursue an undergraduate degree at an eligible Florida postsecondary institution.

•Begin using the scholarship funds within TWO years of high school graduation (Unless enlist directly in the military after high school graduation. Then the TWO-year period begins upon date of separation from active duty.). The requirement is a change to the eligibility requirements which previously allowed three years for reinstatement!

•Have not been found guilty or have pled not contest to a felony charge.

•Be enrolled for at least six non-remedial semester credit hours.

•Submit an error-free Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). This is another change to the eligibility requirements.

The online Florida Financial Aid Application is a self-reported document. The student can use his transcript from last June at the end of his junior year to complete the application. All information will be verified when the district uploads his first semester grades and courses in January of 2013. However, families sometimes need additional help when completing a FAFSA for the first time.

Last year's change requiring the submission of a Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) now includes the word error-free. Florida has now joined several states and many school financial aid programs which require the FAFSA. However, completion of the FAFSA for Bright Futures does not determine whether a student receives the Bright Futures Scholarship. It DOES determine if the student will receive the money for the scholarship. Without this document on file, no Bright Futures money will be sent to the student.

To get help with the in's and out's of completing the FAFSA, plan to attend the Parent Program on Financial Aid, scheduled for Jan. 24 at the USO on Mayport Road from 6 p.m.-8 p.m. The speaker Clarence Richardson is a retired US Navy Lt. Commander and enrollment specialist for FSCJ. He is the area expert on all aspects of financial aid. Andrea Reese, Military OneSource consultant, will present the military side of financial aid, and I will provide additional information on the available State of Florida loans, grants, and scholarships - especially Bright Futures.

In the meantime, go online to www.FloridaStudentFinancialAid.org for additional information on the Bright Futures Application. Some SAT/ACT score requirements increased for students graduating this year. Community service requirements increased for all three Bright Futures award levels. Learn how to create a PIN (Personal Identification Number) online. The State no longer sends acceptance letters by mail. Students MUST monitor their award status online.

In past years, students went to www.flvs.org to check their Bright Futures GPA. This information is now found on www.flvc.org. This website, Florida Virtual Campus for Students, is Florida's official online one-stop-shop in transitioning students from middle school through college. AND IT IS THE ONLY PLACE STUDENTS AND PARENTS CAN CHECK THE STUDENT'S BRIGHT FUTURES GPA!!! It is not the GPA on the report card nor is it found on the transcript. You must go to www.flvc.org to find this important information.

Funding for the scholarship does not begin until the fall term following high school graduation. Scholarship recipients are not eligible for funding during the summer term immediately following high school graduation. The academic year begins in the fall and ends in the summer. By going online to www.FloridaStudentFinancialAid.org, you can check on the current year award amounts for each of the three Bright Futures Scholarships.

How You Play the Game

In the fall, through the magic of associative thought, a whiff of fallen leaves evokes echoes of marching bands and whistles blown. We feel the cold aluminum bleacher seats and the prickle of wool scarves around our necks. Like Pavlov's dog, our mouths water as we bring to mind hot coffee at 8 am soccer games and child dogs at football halftime.

As soon as our kids show any proficiency whatsoever, we parents strap some equipment on them and put them on a team, so we can experience the sights, sounds and smells of the fall sports season.

To satisfy our selfish interests, we justify our pushy behavior by telling ourselves that kids benefit by learning about teamwork.

But do they?

Today's sports recreation leagues seem replete with controversy. Although such organizations now have exhaustive constitutions, bylaws and procedural manuals promising double blind fairness in team selection, somehow there are always reports of teams being "stacked." The focus on selecting winning teams diminishes the emphasis on the life lessons that team participation can impart.

About five years ago, we

were stationed in Norfolk, and my son was a squishy little 10-year-old who preferred piano and rainbows to athletic pursuits.

Early in the fall of his 5th grade year, our son started showing an interest in football. As visions of tailgate parties danced in our heads, we jumped on the opportunity and contacted the local flag football league.

"Sorry ma'am, the teams are full . . . now, if you're husband would be willing to coach, your son could play this season."

Completely ignorant of the rec league team selection process, my husband agreed.

We received a roster of 15 kids -- our son and 14 others who transferred from overcrowded teams. What we didn't know, was that the coaches had been asked to give up a couple kids each, and of course, they picked their worst players.

Obliviously, we showed up for our first practice raring and ready to access the boys' talents.

The lineup was not what we expected.

None of the boys knew a thing about football. A few were skinny. Several were small. Three had learning disabilities. But they were all excited to play.

We decided to call ourselves "The Sharks" and accepted the rejected purple league jerseys without complaint.

Practices were dicey. The plays looked more like people running from a fire, but we were hopeful that it would all come together on game day.

As team mom, I went a little overboard. I ordered the Jaws soundtrack. I bought sweatshirts, t-shirts and little purple towels. I made up cheers.

Game day finally arrived and we were ready. Parents donned their Sharks spirit wear and swung their little purple towels. Players gathered around Coach for a pre-game pep talk.

"Listen boys, I want you all to go out there today and show 'em what you're made of! Let's tell everybody out there, if you swim with the Sharks, you're gonna get bit!!"

Both players and parents alike exploded into simultaneous applause and collective woo-hoos.

A half hour later, we were down by three touchdowns, and our blissful ignorance of the corrupt league team selection process came to an abrupt end.

"Listen up Sharks," my husband barked during half time, "don't let the numbers on that scoreboard get you down! We are the Sharks! Win or lose, we are going to fight and fight hard! Now go out there, boys, and give 'em all you got!!"

At the end of the third quarter, the ref called the game because they were beating us 40 to nothing.

The rest of the season was more of the same, and it was not easy to keep the morale of our little Sharks in the positive. But we persisted. Instead of emphasizing winning, we became determined to surprise the other team with our undying spirit.

We waved our purple towels, blared the Jaws theme song, and shouted our original Sharks cheers. No matter the odds against us, the Sharks played every game to win.

Despite it all, we never scored one point.

The following fall, I ran into another Shark's mom at a local grocery store. She told me that, even though that her son got a winning team the next season, he seemed sad, and said to her, "Mom, I wish this team was more like the Sharks."

Her comment reassured me that, despite a winless season, the Sharks were a winning team. In the face of unbeatable odds, they showed drive, dedication, character, and good sportsmanship. Developing these attributes is far more important than winning a game.

Vince Lombardi once said, "People who work together will win, whether it be against complex football defenses or the complex problems of modern society."

So, coaches and league officials, get back to basics. Worry less about who is on what team and focus on teaching kids to be members of a successful team. Parents, accept your children's team assignments without complaint, and resolve to help them learn from the experience.

Besides, whether your child wins or loses, you still get to smell the clumps of fresh mud from their cleats, feel the hoarseness of your voice after a close quarter, and taste the hot pot of chili waiting for you at home. It's all good.

Steak Team Mission Grills Out For Hue City

The non-profit organization Steak Team Mission visited USS Hue City (CG 66) Nov. 15, bringing with them mouth-watering steaks from Texas to be grilled on the ship's flight deck as part of a steel beach picnic.

Steak Team Mission is run completely by volunteers and is dedicated to visiting members in deployed locations to provide and also grill Texas tenderloins as a way to thank those who serve in the military.

The group has traveled around the world, bringing military members a good meal over the past 10 years. Volunteers with the organization served their 50,000th steak dinner to deployed service members while aboard Hue City.

"Hands down, one of the best moments I've had on deployment so far," said Quartermaster Seaman Antoine Gamble. "The food was amazing, the guests were polite and I had a great time. I appreciate everyone from Steak Team Mission that volunteered to come out and give Hue City a wonderful steak dinner. It's always a great feeling to be able to relax and take a break from the everyday ship life. We are all very thankful."

The steel beach featured lots of steaks as well as games and music facilitated by the ship's Morale, Welfare and Recreation.

"The food was great and there was a lot of different things that we usually don't have," said Personnel Specialist 1st Class (SW/SCW) Scott Rose. "I greatly appreciate them coming out here and doing this for the crew."

Culinary specialists aboard the ship had some special interactions with the Steak Team Mission members, as they exchanged prepping and grilling techniques.

"It was great having them in the kitchen and watching how they prepared the meals for us," said Culinary Specialist 2nd Class (SW/AW) Alex Abreu. "We had fun and it looks like they had fun too."

Among the volunteers with Steak Team Mission were a retired Navy Captain and retired Army Major General. The fact that former senior leaders of the military would want to give back in this fashion impressed Hue City Sailors.

"It's nice to know that these people have such big hearts to give back to our military and knowing that a few of them have served our country makes it even better," said Culinary Specialist 1st Class (SW/AW) Reshonda Cole.

Others on Hue City echoed these thoughts of appreciation. Most noted how nice it was to get a home-cooked meal, particularly because of the fact that the steaks were made-to-order.

"When the crew from Steak Team Mission came out to grill us a steak to our liking, it brought back a small feeling of home," said Gunner's Mate 3rd Class Kevin Jones. "I am very appreciative that the volunteers traveled this far for us."

Hue City's commander officer, Capt. Daniel B. Uhls, was especially appreciative for the visit because he recognized that it would encourage the crew to continue on with the deployment.

"These people are amazing for doing this, taking the time to visit us while deployed and showing their appreciation for us is definitely a moral booster," said Uhls. "Our Sailors have worked hard this deployment and this was a great way to give them a small break and enjoy themselves."

CNO, MCPON Visit Hue City For Thanksgiving

By MCSN

USS Hue City Public Affairs

Chief Of Naval Operations (CNO) Adm. Jonathan Greenert and Master Chief Petty Officer of the Navy (MCPON) (AW/NAC) Michael D. Stevens visited guided-missile cruiser USS Hue City (CG 66) Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 22.

During the visit, the CNO and MCPON visited with the crew and held an all hands call, where the CNO recognized several awardees, promoted one Sailor and reenlisted several others.

The visit by the Navy's most senior members was greatly appreciated by the Sailors aboard Hue.

"I can't believe our highest chain of command in the Navy took the time out of their day to acknowledge our accomplishments and visit us on this Thanksgiving Day," said Yeoman 2nd Class (EXW/AW) Jorge Esparza. "Their actions only fuel our motivation out here."

While aboard Hue City, the CNO toured the ship and met with Sailors, talking about their goals in the Navy. MCPON spent a majority of his time discussing his zeroing in on excellence benchmarks with the ship's chief petty officers.

At the all-hands call, the CNO touched on his tenets for the fleet - warfighting first, operate forward and be ready - while also complimenting the crew on the outstanding preservation work that has been done on Hue City.

City," said Greenert. "I go away and come back and this ship looks better than it did then. That doesn't happen because somebody decided to give the Hue City all the best equipment. That's all on you guys and gals, and I want to thank you very much on that."

MCPON extended similar thoughts at the all hands call, conveying his confidence in the ship's ability to meet any challenges they might face, and thanked them for their service in the fleet. For the 11 Sailors who reenlisted, receiving the oath of enlistment from the CNO was an experience the Sailors said they were very grateful for.

"Meeting and being reenlisted by the CNO is the highlight of my career," said Culinary Specialist Seaman Burton Washington. "It is definitely something I won't forget."

Farragut Sailors Participate In JFK 50-Mile Memorial While Underway

USS Farragut Public Affairs

Sailors aboard guided-missile destroyer USS Farragut (DDG 99) participated in a ship-board version of the John F. Kennedy 50-mile Memorial Run, Nov. 17. Participating Sailors ran on both the ship's treadmill and weather decks in order to replicate memorial run, which is held annually in Washington County, Md. The event on Farragut was coordinated by Lt. Cmdr. Michael Moreno, detachment officer-in-charge of Helicopter Anti-submarine Light Squadron (HSL) 48, Det.

7, who is a three-time participant of the JFK 50-mile Memorial Run. Moreno wanted to still compete even though he wasn't physically present in Washington County this year. This year's JFK 50 was held Nov. 17, so Farragut launched its version the same day.

"I coordinated this event because I had competed in the run for the past three years, and with it being the 50th anniversary I didn't want to miss it," said Moreno. This year marks the run's 50th anniversary, and Moreno said that helped inspire him to create a version of it on the Farragut.

The 50 mile distance has historic ties to the military, so it was fitting that members of Farragut would attempt the feat. At the turn of the century, then-President Theodore Roosevelt challenged his military officers to cover 50 miles in 20 hours to maintain their commissions. In 1963, President John F. Kennedy issued the same challenge. When word spread, non-commissioned military personnel and civilians alike were intrigued and wanted to participate, according to the running event's website.

Farragut Sailors began the ultra-marathon at 8:45 a.m., utilizing treadmills until the weather decks were open for running.

Seven other Sailors joined Moreno for the run, jogging with him in a circular pattern around the ship. In the end, Moreno and one other Sailor were able to go the distance. Moreno finished with a time of 9 hours, 33 minutes and Chief Information Systems Technician (SW) Lawrence Petrowicz finished with a time of 11 hours 20 minutes.

"Lt. Cmdr. Moreno asked me to come up and run a few miles with him during the event," said Petrowicz, whose longest distance ever run prior to the event was 10 miles. "I had planned on doing a marathon with him when we returned home, so I decided to stay at it and complete this run with him. It feels great knowing that I could stick to it and accomplish such a big feat."

Many Sailors came up to the weather deck to show their support for participants and stayed to cheer on the runners in their final laps around the forecastle.

"The support from my division was awesome," said Petrowicz. "I just hope that seeing their chief stay at something that long and press so hard inspires them to do the same."

For Moreno, though the event couldn't compare to being in Washington County, he was glad the ship helped him take a little piece of home with him out to sea.

"It was amazing to be able to do an event like this while underway," said Moreno. "It was definitely a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity, and seeing everyone that came out to cheer us on really motivated me and helped me finish. The support from the crew and the sense of accomplishment you feel afterwards makes it all worthwhile."

underway, the crew honored the ship's 45-years-of service since it was first commissioned on Nov. 3, 1967.

Honoring the ship's past, the Valiant crew made two port visits to the city of Galveston, Texas, the cutter's homeport from 1967 to 1991.

"Valiant has a long history of service in the Gulf of Mexico," said Cmdr. Stephen Burdian, commanding officer Coast Guard Cutter Valiant. "I'm very proud of this crew as we were able to continue that legacy of excellence."

Valiant shifted homeports from Coast Guard Base Miami Beach, Fla., to Naval Station Mayport in August. The crew of the Valiant eagerly anticipates the return to spend the holidays with family and friends in the Jacksonville area.

NAVFACSE XO Speaks To Local Contractors

By Earl Bittner

Naval Facilities Engineering Command Southeast Public Affairs

Naval Facilities Engineering Command (NAVFAC) Southeast executive officer spoke at the Society of American Military Engineers (SAME) luncheon in Jacksonville, Fla., Nov. 20. Capt. Scott Hurst shared a general overview of NAVFAC Southeast engineering challenges and U.S. Navy construction outlook in the southeastern United States and overseas, specifically onboard Camp Lemonnier, Djibouti, Africa.

Hurst reviewed with the audience who NAVFAC Southeast is, where it conducts business, how to do business with NAVFAC and the fiscal outlook for 2013. He also shared personal experiences and thoughts on doing business from his most recent one-year deployment, returning in May 2012, where he was the commanding officer at Camp Lemonnier, located in the Horn of Africa.

"We (NAVFAC Southeast) are very diverse. Our diversity in territory (coastal, inland, Caribbean islands - Guantanamo Bay, Haiti) and the services we support (U.S. Navy, U.S. Marines, U.S. Air Force, U.S. Coast Guard) insulate us from fiscal highs and lows," said Hurst.

Hurst said that 'energy' is a growth sector for NAVFAC Southeast and the workload in this area has actually increased.

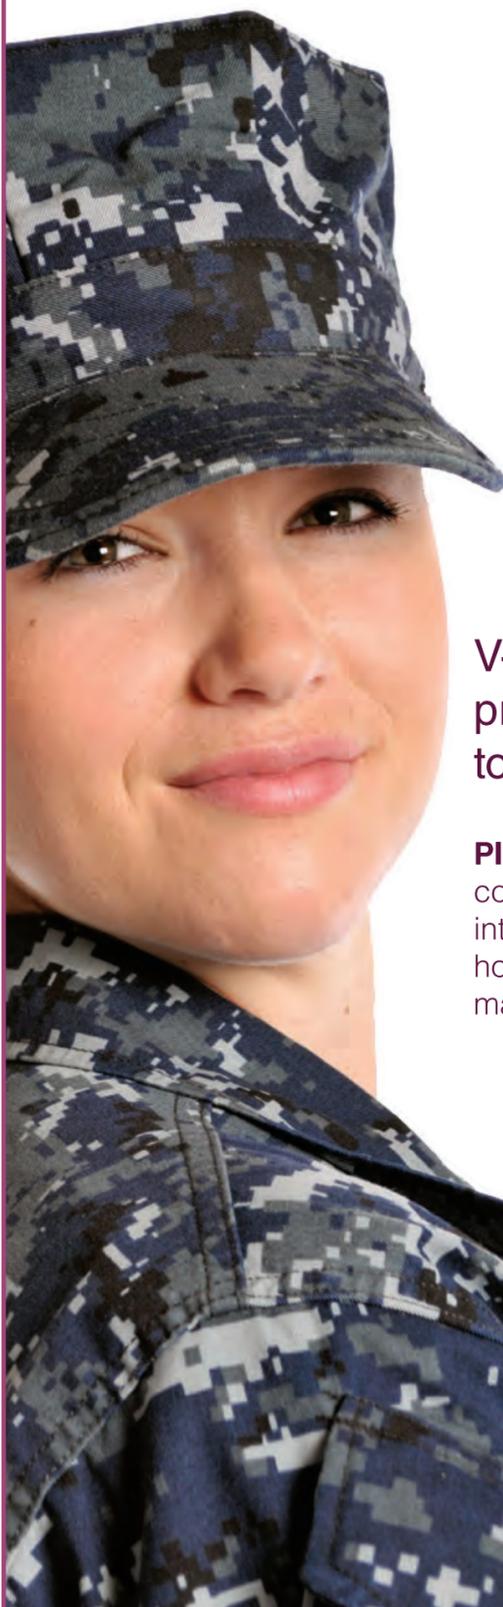

He suggested that if the gathered professionals were looking for business, energy is of growing importance. Hurst also stressed that NAVFAC does more than MILCON (military construction). NAVFAC is also involved in utility, conservation, environmental and real estate transactions, to name a few.

"Our workload continues to be true and steady in fiscal 2013," said Hurst.

Hurst also shared the growing importance of his last tour in Africa. Camp Lemonnier, Djibouti, formally an obscure 100 year-old French outpost, has become a vital air hub and navigational point for the U.S. Navy and U.S. government supporting regional and combatant commanders. Combined Joint Task Force - Horn of Africa is headquartered there and supports 25 additional tenant commands. What began for the U.S. as a contingency outpost after 9/11 is turning into a full scale permanent base for the U.S. Navy supporting a population of more than 4,000 military, civilian and contract personnel," said Hurst. "It is becoming more permanent and is more cost efficient to build permanent facilities to support a long-term presence in the region."

Hurst shared with the group information on where to find business opportunities with NAVFAC, throughout the world.

Brazilian Navy Awarded IANTN Best Station

By MC1 Sean Allen

U.S. Naval Forces Southern Command and U.S. 4th Fleet Public Affairs

Representatives from the Brazilian navy accepted the Inter-American Naval Telecommunications Network (IANTN) Best Station Award at U.S. Naval Forces Southern Command and U.S. 4th Fleet aboard Naval Station Mayport Nov. 14.

Rear Adm. Sinclair Harris, commander, U.S. 4th Fleet, presented the award during a ceremony at the 4th Fleet headquarters.

"This award represents the importance of our navies and nations working together, and communication is key to that. It is essential that we are able to communicate, and that the various systems we use to do so work properly," Harris said.

Accepting the award was Capitao-de-Fragata (O5) Flavio de Jesus Costa, commander, Naval Radio Station Brazilia.

"This award is very important, it helps improve interoperability. I am also honored that Brazil has won the award on the 50th anniversary of IANTN," Costa said. "I am very grateful to be here and would like to thank Fourth Fleet for hosting this event."

The IANTN Best Station Award began in 1989, and grades how each station operates their various communications systems. These tests include cold starts of systems, transmission and reception of messages, and proper information delivery. Each station is graded during a qualifying period and the station graded as the most efficient wins the award.

The IANTN Secretariat is made up of five officers and one non-commissioned officer of member nations, and is hosted by Commander, 4th Fleet in Mayport, Fla. Currently, the group consists of two U.S. Navy officers, officers from the Mexican, Brazilian, and Argentine navy, and a non-commissioned officer from Brazil. The majority of the countries that are part of IANTN are in the 4th Fleet Area of Responsibility.

The IANTN Secretariat is led by Cmdr. Bradley Maas, IANTN secretary, who attended the presentation.

"This award is a great opportunity for friendly competition and to bring out the best in each other, and is an important measure of how well we communicate with our partner navies," said Maas.

The ability to communicate efficiently was a constant theme during the award presentation, and was further echoed by Lt. Jimmy Harvey, IANT officer in charge.

"The exercises we run while grading for this award is how we will communicate during real-world situations, such as natural disasters or Countering Transnational Organized Crime (C-TOC)," said Harvey.

U.S. Naval Forces Southern Command and U.S. 4th Fleet supports

USSOUTHCOM joint and combined full-spectrum military operations by providing principally sea-based, forward presence to ensure freedom of maneuver in the maritime domain, to foster and sustain cooperative relationships with international partners and to fully exploit the sea as maneuver space in order to enhance regional security and promote peace, stability, and prosperity in the Caribbean, Central and South American regions.
