

Mayport Chaplain Best In Navy

By MC2
 Matthew R. Cole

USS Hué City Public Affairs
 Lt. Karen Rector is the 2013 recipient of the Military Chaplain Association's "Chaplain of the Year" award.

The award honors the men and women of the military who have excelled in their core competencies, resiliency during challenges and their ministry that effectively addresses the spiritual and moral wounds of war.

"In a lifetime of service at sea, Chaplain Karen Rector is clearly the best chaplain that I have sailed with," said Capt. Daniel B. Uhls, commanding officer of the guided-missile cruiser USS Hué City (CG 66). "Chaplain of the year is a prestigious award that is in place to recognize the service's finest and I don't believe anyone would have to look any further than Karen."

The award will be announced in a ceremony April 10 during the Military Chaplain Association's annual banquet at the Eisenhower Hotel in Gettysburg, Pa. Rector will be in the midst of a deployment aboard Hué City and will not be able to attend.

"I truly appreciate it considering we don't always see the fruits of our labor," said Rector. "But my focus is on my job and the Sailors aboard the ship."

Rector has always felt a close connection with God but she hasn't always served as a chaplain. She originally joined the Navy as an airframe structural mechanic

"I had actually joined the Navy because God wouldn't leave me alone," said Rector. "I felt as if he was calling on me but I wasn't sure if I understood what he wanted me to do. So I ran even though that didn't seem to change anything."

Rector tried multiple paths in life but never found fulfillment in her choices. Growing up in Oakland, Ky., she played basketball and softball and ran track in high school. After graduating from Western Kentucky University, she enlisted in the Navy and attended boot camp in Great Lakes, Ill.

 USS Gettysburg Public Affairs

The Ticonderoga-class guided-missile cruiser USS Gettysburg (CG 64) held a change of command ceremony on March 21 on board the ship currently in port at Naval Station Mayport. Capt. Brad Cooper relieved Capt. Bob Hein as commanding officer.

Guest speaker Rear Adm. Kevin Sweeney, commander, Carrier Strike Group (CSG) 10, praised Hein for his performance during his tour.

"We pay tribute to an outstanding naval officer, Capt. Bob Hein, who has been at the top of his game throughout his entire command tour in the most powerful surface combatant the world has ever seen - an Aegis-class Cruiser - the USS Gettysburg," said Sweeney during his remarks.

During his tour, Hein supported both Operation New Dawn and Operation Enduring Freedom by leading Gettysburg through their 2011 Arabian Gulf deployment. He also led the ship through several smaller Hein credited his Sailors for his successful tour.

"I say thank you from the bottom of my heart, you have been the true rock stars. You have performed with style and grace that has been unmatched in my 26 years serving on ships."

Cooper, who assumed command of Gettysburg after serving in the White House as the first Executive Director of Joining Forces, a nationwide advocacy initiative for veterans, service members and military families, expressed his enthusiasm about taking command of Gettysburg.

"For the great crew of this ship, it is the honor of a lifetime to serve as your commanding officer," he said. "I look forward to achieving great things with you in the years to come."

Frigates Honored Their Namesakes

By Rear Adm. Thomas Rowden

Director, Surface Warfare

As a Navy tradition, we celebrate a ship's achievements and history with decommissioning or inactivation ceremonies. Today, we reflect on three Oliver Hazard Perry Class frigates that concluded service to the nation this month: USS Underwood (FFG 36), USS Carr (FFG 52), and USS Klakring (FFG 42), which decommissioned Friday in Mayport, Fla.

This class of ships honors Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry who was named the "Hero of Lake Erie" during the War of 1812. The Navy originally built 51 of these guided missile warships, replacing the Knox class frigates of the 1960s and various classes of destroyers that were in service during World War II. Designed to provide local area protection to battle groups, underway replenishment groups, amphibious forces, and military and merchant shipping from submarines, their mission evolved over time to include enhanced-maritime interdiction operations, mine warfare, and counter narcotics operations both as a member of battle groups and as independent deployers.

After more than 30 years of active service, USS Underwood (FFG 36) was decommissioned March 8, 2013, in Mayport, Fla. She was commissioned Jan. 29, 1983, as the 29th ship in the class. Her namesake, Capt. Gordon Waite Underwood, received the Navy Cross for his achievements while in command of USS Spadefish (SS 411) during World War II. Following her maiden deployment to the Sixth Fleet area of responsibility, Underwood received tasking in January 1986 to spearhead search and rescue efforts after the tragic space shuttle Challenger disaster over the Atlantic Ocean. A truly "Just Friend and Brave Enemy," she deployed in support of operations Desert Storm and Enduring Freedom in the Arabian Gulf. Following the devastating 2010 earthquake in Haiti, Underwood participated in Operation Unified Response humanitarian assistance and disaster relief efforts.

USS Carr (FFG 52), the 42nd ship in the class, was commissioned July 27, 1985, at Todd Pacific Shipyards in Seattle, Wash., and decommissioned March 13, 2013 in Norfolk, Va. Named for Gunner's Mate 3rd Class Paul Henry Carr, the ship honors the gunners mate's display of outstanding skill and courage while serving aboard USS Samuel B. Roberts (DE 413) during the battle off Samar in World War II. GM3 Carr was posthumously awarded the Silver Star. During the 1980s, Carr deployed as a convoy commander and a tanker escort in the Arabian Gulf as well as a law enforcement and counter-narcotics platform in the Caribbean Sea. She aided USS Bonefish (SS 582) after the conventionally-powered submarine suffered a fire in 1988, resulting in the rescue of nearly 90 submariners. As a key asset in maritime intercept operations, Carr's deployments during the 1990s and 2000s included missions in the Arabian Gulf, and Caribbean and Mediterranean seas. The ship deployed 13 times during her 27 years of service.

USS Klakring (FFG

42) honors Rear Adm. Thomas Klakring, submarine commander of USS Guardfish (SS 217) during World War II. His daring service earned him three Navy Crosses and a posthumous promotion. The 33rd in class, Klakring was commissioned August 20, 1983 in Bath, Maine. Her initial mid-1980s deployments were to the Mediterranean Sea and Indian Ocean, as well as to the Arabian Gulf where she participated in escort operations of Kuwaiti owned oil tankers during Operation Earnest Will. In 1993, she participated in Operation Support Democracy off Haiti's coast, countering drug operations. In 2002, she participated in UNITAS and, during recent years, she conducted several counter-narcotic deployments to U.S. Southern Command.

Oliver Hazard Perry-

class frigates have performed brilliantly for more than 30 years. A force in numbers, they protected vital shipping against foreign aggression and forcefully contributed in our strategic shift to the Arabian Gulf. However, we built these ships with a different threat in mind than exists today and the cost to upgrade the ships' combat systems to pace the current threat became prohibitive.

Today, we are building ships that are modular, adaptable and flexible, allowing us to quickly and affordably upgrade our fighting batteries without taking the ship off line for years at a time.

We salute these three frigates as they have superbly served our nation and Navy.

Fair winds and following seas, and thank you for your honored and highly dedicated service.

Celebrating The True Meaning Of Easter

Chap Luke Wilson
Surface Force Ministry Center

While Easter is an important religious holy day for Christians, it has also become a popular cultural holiday in our society for many people regardless of faith background. For those of us of the Christian faith, we can sometimes struggle to remember and focus on the religious meaning of Easter in the midst of all the cultural traditions in our communities which can also be wholesome and fun.

CHAPLAIN'S CORNER

Easter is the oldest annual holy day of the Christian calendar. Early Christians identified the first day of the week, Sunday, as the proper day for a weekly commemoration of Christ's Resurrection. And at least from the 2nd century onward, Easter has been an annual remembrance of Jesus' suffering and death and a celebration of His Resurrection. This annual event eventually developed into a celebration over multiple days commemorating specific parts of the Easter story: Maundy Thursday (also known as Holy Thursday), remembering the Last Supper; Good Friday, remembering Christ's Passion; Holy Saturday (Easter Eve or the Vigil of Easter); and Easter Sunday itself.

The date of Easter, being dependent on a lunar calendar, moves around from year to year and can catch some of us by surprise and make it more difficult to plan and prepare for. For Western Christians, Easter Sunday can fall anywhere between 22 March and 25 April. Easter this year will be this coming Sunday.

Because of different calendars, there are differences between Western Christian and Eastern Christian dates for Easter.

In early Christianity, the term Easter was not used yet. Because of its connection with the Jewish Passover, early Christians referred to it simply as Pascha, the Greek version of the Hebrew word Pesach, or Passover. In many other languages, the word for Easter is still based on the Hebrew word for Passover. The English word Easter may have originally referred to a spring festival and was later used as the term for the Christian holy day.

Many Christians may wonder how we, as individuals and families, can make better use of Easter to celebrate Jesus Christ and to focus on the significant themes of redemption and resurrection. Easter can be more meaningful if we make it a learning opportunity as well as an important occasion to worship together. We can consider how flowers, eggs, and even spring itself are symbols of rebirth and new life. Further, we can study about the last week of Jesus' life (Holy Week) to remind us of the true meaning of Easter. In our families, we can read from the Scriptural accounts of Jesus' last days, talk about what the events mean to us, and sing and pray together. Music can be spiritually powerful. In addition to singing, listening to beautiful music about Christ can help bring the spirit of the Easter season into our lives.

Having Easter family devotionals at home can be a worthwhile addition to attending special worship services. We can take time on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday to help us focus on the central events of Holy Week. And we can also take time on Easter morning to read a Scriptural account of the Resurrection and have prayer, perhaps even before we think about Easter eggs and candy!

Easter is a time of hope, joy, and peace. I pray that we will all consider how we can make the most of Easter as individuals, families, churches, and communities. I also pray that whatever our specific customs and traditions may be, we will remember and celebrate the true meaning of Easter.

Authorized users will then follow instructions on the Web site for password and login information.

It is also about this time that the pressure to get high marks on exams kicks in. Students who get nervous before a test should be encouraged to try the following tips and strategies for keeping anxiety down and energy up for the next big exam.

Don't cram: Studying like crazy the night before an exam can leave your child exhausted and more stressed out than before. Studying is more effective if done in small doses over several days.

Make up practice questions or take practice tests: Knowing the format and style of a test can reduce anxiety. Encourage students to always ask their teachers about how the test will be formatted. Studying is so much more effective when you know what types of questions you'll be answering.

Get a good night's sleep: Lack of sleep contributes heavily to anxiety. Be sure your child goes to bed on time the night before an exam.

Eat a healthy break- fast: Blood sugar is at its lowest in the morning. In order to think and problem-solve effectively, students need to refuel. But a good breakfast for one child is not the same for another. Figure out what works best for you child.

Read through the exam to budget time: By looking over the test, your child can avoid any unexpected surprises (and anxiety). Previewing also insures finishing in the allotted time.

Read all directions: Some students are so anxious to get the test over with that they fail to read the directions.

Jot notes: Jotting down brief notes right away can help your child feel less anxious about forgetting important facts or key information. Some students write important formulas or critical dates in the margin as soon as they receive their test papers.

Answer easy questions first: Getting the easier questions out of the way builds self-confidence

Coast Guardsman Is Enlisted Person Of Year

By Petty Officer 1st Class Lauren Jorgensen
U.S. Coast Guard Public Affairs

Coast Guardsman assigned to Jacksonville Beach unit named Enlisted Person of the Coast Guard Sector Jacksonville in Atlantic Beach honored a Sagamore Beach, Mass., native for selection as its 2012 Enlisted Person of the Year during a ceremony at Naval Station Mayport Friday.

Petty Officer 1st Class Brian Antel, a boatswain mate stationed at Aids to Navigation Team Jacksonville Beach, Fla., was honored as the Sector Jacksonville Enlisted Person of the Year and was presented with an award by the Navy League.

"I never thought I'd be selected," Antel said. "It blew me away. I feel honored and excited."

The Navy League and the Port of Jacksonville Propeller Club, which hosted the dinner and ceremony, presented Antel with a scrapbook containing $100, two tickets to the Battle of Midway commemorative dinner and several donated gifts from area restaurants, service providers, museums and other attractions.

As the ANT Jacksonville Beach operations petty officer, Antel played a pivotal role in the planning of 4,250 crew underway hours and the repair of 246 aids to navigation. He supervised the successful certification of seven boat crewmembers, four boat coxswains and the certification of the executive petty officer. He played a direct role in the completion of rating performance qualifications leading to the advancement of four members of the ANT. Additionally, he spent more than 400 hours underway in support of operations during 2012.

Antel finished all the requirements for a Bachelor of Science and received his diploma from Excelsior College December 2012. He also volunteered in his community by coordinating a local food drive, coaching Naval Station Mayport's 6-year-old and under basketball league, helping at various Navy League functions, participating in Habitat for Humanity events and volunteering at a local elementary school.

"There are roughly 375 people in Sector Jacksonville who work extremely hard but it's nice to select one shining example to be the representative for all the great work we do here," said Capt. Tom Allan, Sector Jacksonville commander. "Petty Officer Antel exemplifies everything we look for in that representative, and we're all very proud of him."

The Sector Jacksonville Enlisted Person of the Year program recognizes exceptional men and women from Sector Jacksonville and its sub units. Considered the "best and brightest" from the field, these individuals are selected by a panel of senior enlisted members who evaluate each nominee against a set of established criteria that includes performance, work ethics, military bearing, standards of conduct and a strong community service commitment.

The Enlisted Person of the Year program is designed to recognize enlisted persons in the workforce in pay grades E-2 through E-6. Nominees must reflect the spirit of pride, professionalism, dedication and must embody the Coast Guard core values of honor, respect and devotion to duty.

The waters of the United States and its territories are marked to assist navigation. The U.S. Aids to Navigation system employs a simple arrangement of colors, shapes, numbers and light characteristics to mark navigable channels, waterways and obstructions adjacent to these. These aids may be anything from lighted structures, beacons, day markers, range lights, fog signals and landmarks to floating buoys. Coast Guard aids to navigation teams are primarily responsible for servicing and maintaining the aids.

and allows your child the time to focus more clearly on the harder questions.

Organize thoughts before writing: Students who organize their writing responses before they start writing typically score higher. Having a plan or even a short outline insures a well-structured response which hits all the main points.

Think positively: Negative thoughts during a test (e.g., "I'm going to fail") can not only destroy your child's confidence, but also take up valuable time which should be used to concentrate on the test!

Using these tips won't necessarily keep anxiety away completely. However, practicing these techniques can give your child the right skills to manage test stress when it does happen. So hopefully a combination of tutoring through Tutor.com and these test tips will help your child achieve success and readily promote to the next grade.

After nearly 30 years of Naval service, friends, family and service members gathered at Naval Station Mayport to bid farewell to the Oliver Perry class Frigate USS Klakring (FFG 42) March 22nd, during a decommissioning ceremony at Naval Station Mayport.

With the ships' company manning the rails, Capt. Paul Flood, Commander, Destroyer Squadron 14, talked about the long proud tradition of Klakring.

"From maritime patrols in the Persian Gulf, anti-piracy operations off the coast of Africa, to counter narcotics patrols in the Caribbean Sea, Klakring have always performed exceptionally," said Flood.

Flood went on to thank Cmdr. Bertram Hodge, commanding officer of Klakring for his leadership as the ship prepared to decommission.

ability to get underway and successfully complete the mission," said Flood.

Hodge then addressed the crowd, and spoke about the hard work of the crew and carrying on the tradition of Klakring to the fleet.

"I could spend my entire speech praising the efforts of the crew, they did an outstanding job. As they depart Klakring they will go on to their next commands and take the fighting spirit of the Klakring with them," said Hodge.

In more than 29 years of service Klakring completed more than 22 deployments from three home ports and traveled more than 3.2 million miles worldwide during its service time. Those deployments were to the Middle East, South America, Europe and Africa.

Klakring was commissioned on Aug. 20, 1983, and is named after Rear Admiral Thomas B. Klakring (1904-1975), a Navy submarine commander during World War II.

Klakring's final deployment was to the U.S. 4th Fleet area of responsibility, operating in the Caribbean Sea and off the Coast of South America, in support of Operation Martillio.

Operation Martillio, is a U.S., European, and Western Hemisphere partner nation effort targeting illicit trafficking routes in coastal waters along the Central American isthmus. U.S. military participation is led by Joint Interagency Task Force South, a component of U.S. Southern Command.

The ceremony concluded with the crew of Klakring departing the ship, once the last Sailor crossed the brow, the ship was officially decommissioned.

By Ensign Jeffrey Bland

USS Halyburton Disbursing Officer

Commander, Navy Exchange Service Command recognized USS Halyburton's ship's store by presenting the Ship's Store Retail Service Excellence Award during a recent visit to Naval Station Mayport Fla.

The store was evaluated in many areas, including crew satisfaction and the Store's ability to achieve stock turn. Requirements for this award are a goal for most ships, but Halyburton has made this their standard throughout the year.

Running the Ditch: Start of A Hué Tradition

By
Ensign Anastasia Abid
USS Hué City (CG 66) Public Affairs

The Golden Dragon crew of guided-missile cruiser USS Hué City (CG 66) ran a relay around the weather decks as its ship conducted a southbound transit of the Suez Canal, March 16.

This is Hué City's second transit of the Suez Canal during a three-month period and the crew's second Running of the Ditch. The Suez Canal is an artificial waterway in Egypt alongside the Sinai Peninsula that connects the Mediterranean Sea and the Red Sea.

During the Running of the Ditch, Hué City Sailors run a continuous relay do more things like this," said Engineman 2nd Class Robert Jackson. "It really inspires people to get out there, all the while generating a team-like atmosphere."

Every Golden Dragon did their part during this Suez Canal transit and Running of the Ditch. During the December 2012 event, a total of 505 miles was logged around the weather decks. For this transit, the goal was set at 1,000 miles. While the Hué City crew fell short of its goal, they are already planning and organizing for their next Running of the Ditch when the ship commences its return transit to its homeport of Mayport, Fla..

One Sailor, Fire Controlman 3rd Class Daniel Vanderkallen, exceeded his goal by more than a couple of miles. Vanderkallen ran a grand total of 26.2 miles. A mile and a half is 8.5 laps around the weather decks from the foc'sle to the aft missile deck. Vanderkallen ran the marathon in 3 hours and 45 minutes, keeping a pretty steady pace.

"I didn't set out to run a marathon, but when I realized I was on lap 140 I figured I should just keep going," said Vanderkallen. "So that's exactly what I did."

The Running of the Ditch 2013 was a successful event and hopefully will be a topic of conversation for years to come. It is an event like this that does not fade from one's memory fast and reminds Hué City Sailors of the family and team atmosphere they have aboard.

Relay organizer, Aviation Ordnanceman 2nd Class Lisa Broadfield of the Helicopter Anti-submarine Squadron Light (HSL) 48 Detachment 8 All-Stars, played a big role in setting up the run.

Hué City is deployed with the Dwight D. Eisenhower Carrier Strike Group to the U.S. 5th Fleet area of responsibility promoting maritime security operations, theater security cooperation efforts and support missions as part of Operation Enduring Freedom.

around the weather decks for the entire length of the transit. The 15-hour southbound transit is exhausting for many, but the opportunity to go for a run, relieve some stress, and share in camaraderie is a welcoming idea. The transit is also unique, because of its proximity to land. Sailors who are not typically runners are seen stretching their legs in preparation for their laps.

Vicksburg Motorcycle Ride For Safety

By Ensign Rachel Manning

USS Vicksburg PAO

USS Vicksburg conducted a motorcycle ride opened to all riders in the command on a sunny Friday morning on March 15. The focus was on safety and building camaraderie.

The event was led by Electronics Technician 1st Class Michael Lewis. He rode the course, which began at the ship's pier and ended in Amelia Island, the day before to make sure it was safe and hazard free.

The participants gathered at 10 a.m. to conduct a brief on the route, ensure everyone had the correct protective gear, and inspect the motorcycles for proper operation.

From there, the group rode along the scenic waterways of Little Talbot Island and Amelia Island.

"Hopefully, we were able to introduce a local getaway to some guys unfamiliar with the area," said Lewis.

The ride ended at Sandy Bottoms Bar and Grill where the riders enjoyed a relaxing lunch on a deck over the beach.

"This ride served a couple of purposes: one, as an excuse to skip work on a sunny Friday after a long work week, and two, to show Sailors that we can all have fun while still practicing safety," said Capt. Logan Jones, commanding officer and avid Harley Davidson fan.

Lewis said, "this event built command cohesion through a common activity that we enjoy outside of the workplace."

USS Vicksburg plans on developing further such events that bring Sailors from all around the ship together outside of the workplace.

Chaplain

It was at her first duty assignment aboard the USS Harry S. Truman (CVN 75) that she realized she could run no more and that her true calling was as a Navy chaplain.

"I saw Chaplain Paul who I had run into periodically and this night he had come out on the flight deck wearing his flight suit," she said. "This made me a bit curious. So I started asking him a bunch of questions and he replied by telling me to come down to his office to talk about it."

Rector met Chaplain Paul and the Marine Wing chaplain aboard at the time. They talked with her not only about their jobs but also about what God's plan was for her. After a few hours, Rector decided to pray and see what happened. God's answer was that he was calling her to ministry.

"God put people in my path to ensure I would go down this road," she said.

After receiving her commission and going through her ministry training, Rector received orders to the Marine Air Ground Combat Center in Twentynine Palms, Calif.

Then she served at Combat Logistics Battalion 3 (CLB 3) at Marine Corps Base Hawaii in Kaneohe Bay.

From there she deployed in support of Operation Enduring Freedom (OEF) with the Special Purpose Marine Air Ground Task Force Afghanistan from October 2008 to May 2009 and again in support of OEF from October 2010 to June 2011.

Upon completion of her tour with CLB-3, Rector reported to her current assignment, CNSL Ministry Center in Mayport, Fla. She is serving temporarily with the Hué City for its deployment.

Aboard Hué City, Rector stays involved in the everyday lives of the crew by organizing and leading tours and community relations projects and planning and participating in steel beach picnics. She has implemented and executed more than 40 briefs covering topics such as suicide awareness, sexual assault, personal finance and return and reunion support.

"(Rector) has been fully engaged in every aspect of our operations, spearheading our efforts to reduce operational stress," said Uhls. "She is a top-notch naval officer and chaplain. Her passion for serving the needs of Sailors is clear and undeniable."

Learn To Market Yourself For Next Career

From FFSC

The Fleet and Family Support Center is sponsoring a once-a-year lecture regarding transition here at Naval Station Mayport.

It will be presented by The Military Officers Association of America (MOAA), and is entitled "Marketing Yourself for a Second Career". The event will be held on Thursday, April 4, 2013, at 9 a.m. in the Ocean Breeze Conference Center.

This top-shelf presentation is a great professional development opportunity.

Transition is of course ultimately a part of all military careers. Therefore, the lecture is perfect for those who are contemplating retirement in one to five years. However, it doesn't stop there.

Regardless of whether any particular officer or senior enlisted member has reached the point of being in their own transition, they should be educated about the process in order to mentor and counsel those who work for them and are contemplating or going through their transitions.

This "executive summary" presentation can prepare them for that role as well as many multi-day programs. Simply stated, it's a great fit for any commander, officer, or senior enlisted supervisor -- from the most senior, to the most junior.

The lecture will be given by retired Capt. Jim O'Keefe, deputy director of transition services on MOAA's national staff. The presentation, given annually at over 150 military installations of all Services worldwide, is universally praised by audiences as, "up-to-date, hard-hitting, and sharply focused—a must see."

It includes comprehensive information on the retirement decision itself, employer perceptions, your competition, resumes, cover letters, job search, networking, career fairs, interview techniques, salary negotiation, benefits packages, the current job market, and other relevant and important transition topics.

The presentation is geared toward officers and senior enlisted, but those of all ranks are warmly welcomed. Spouses are highly encouraged to attend as well!

All who attend will receive a free copy of the lecture's companion book, also titled "Marketing Yourself for a Second Career".

It is an in-depth, all-in-one resource for the transition process.

For further information, contact Stephanie Hoppe at stephanie.hoppe.ctr@navy.mil for call 904-270-6600 ext. 1604.

Navy's Only Airship Visits NS Mayport

By MC1 Sean Allen
4th Fleet Public Affairs

U.S. 4th Fleet is hosting the Naval Air Warfare Center's MZ-3A Airship in the Mayport area for a capabilities and flight demonstration.

The blimp is a flying laboratory used to test sensors and multi-intelligence suites for Department of Defense and other governmental agencies. The airship provides a slow moving, vibration free and low operating cost platform required for some Intelligence, Surveillance and Reconnaissance sensors.

It is these capabilities that 4th Fleet wants to utilize in their Area of Responsibility (AOR), in the Caribbean Sea and Eastern Pacific Ocean to support Counter Transnational Organized Crime (C-TOC) operations.

Rear Adm. Sinclair Harris, commander U.S.

Naval Forces Southern Command/commander U.S. 4th discussed how the airship could be utilized in the 4th Fleet AOR.

"Transnational criminal organizations (TCOs) utilize an array of tactics, low observable and high speed vessels, masked communication signatures, sophisticated coordination, to smuggle illicit cargo into the U.S. every year," he said. "One way to enhance detection efforts against illicit trafficking within our area of operations is to utilize long-endurance platforms with the ability to use a multitude of sensors. Lighter-Than-Air (LTA) technologies have the potential to meet these operational needs."

Harris went on to discuss not only the operational benefits of the blimp, but the cost benefit as well.

"In the current fiscal environment, 4th Fleet is looking towards innovative, cost effective solutions that can address the capability gaps caused by budget cuts," he added. "One potential solution is the use of LTA technologies. These platforms have a large payload capacity to accommodate a variety of sensors, and equipment and can be aloft for long durations."

The airship is stationed at Naval Air Station Patuxent River, and is assigned to the U.S. Naval Research Laboratory Military Support Squadron ONE (VXS-1). The airship is operated by a contracted civilian crew and will be in the area through April 5.

In July 2010, the airship deployed to Gulf Shores, Alabama, to assist in the Deepwater Horizon oil spill recovery operation.

COMUSNAVSOP/COMFOURTHFLT supports U.S. Southern Command joint and combined full-spectrum military operations by providing principally sea-based, forward presence to ensure freedom of maneuver in the maritime domain, to foster and sustain cooperative relationships with international partners and to fully exploit the sea as maneuver space in order to enhance regional security and promote peace, stability, and prosperity in the Caribbean, Central and South American regions.
