

A New Way To Reenlist Career Navigator Goes Online

By Chief of Naval Personnel
Public Affairs

The Navy is bringing together all enlisted career management policies, processes and multiple information technology systems under the umbrella of the Career Navigator program in order to provide Sailors with tools and information to plan and execute their career decisions as announced in NAVADMINs 149/13 and 150/13 released May 30.

“Our goal is to provide Sailors with career opportunities across the continuum of Active and Reserve service,” said Rear Adm. Tony Kurta, director of military personnel plans and policy. “We have dismantled PTS and created a reenlistment process that is more advantageous for Sailors. We’re simplifying the process and providing information sooner, giving our Sailors interactive capability that will enable more transparency and feedback capability and ultimately allow Sailors to be more actively involved in managing their careers.”

Career Navigator will use Career Waypoints (formerly Fleet RIDE) as the IT system that supports key Sailor decisions about which way to go next in their career. Career Waypoints will include the enlisted career management processes that allow Sailors to give their intentions to reenlist, reclassify, designate into a rate, convert or transition between the Active Component and Reserve Component. Accordingly these processes will be called: Reenlistment (formerly Perform To Serve (PTS)), Reclassification (formerly production management office (PMO)), PACT designation (formerly rating entry for general apprentice (REGA)), Conversion and Transition. Changes to the system, policy and process names will occur in the next few months.

Beginning June 3, Sailors will receive results of reenlistment applications earlier and the process will align with orders negotiation. Sailors will find out if they’ve been approved sooner, and have more time to apply for orders through the Career Management System Interactive Detailing (CMS-ID), in the Reenlistment Career Waypoint for active duty.

All Sailors will continue to indicate their intentions to reenlist or separate with their

The largest celebration for the Battle of Midway took place at the World Golf Village in St. Augustine, June 1.

The Mayport and St. Augustine Florida Councils hosted the 16th

Annual Battle of Midway Commemoration dinner with more than 800 people in attendance including 15 Midway Veterans.

“It’s good to get together like this,” said Marlin Crider, a Radioman 2nd Class during the Battle, “I wish that high school students and more people knew about the Battle of Midway.”

Considered by some to be the most influential conflict during WWII, the Battle of Midway was a three-day war on the Pacific Ocean between the U.S. and Japanese navies from 4-7 June 1942, in which the U.S. defeated Japan serving them their worst naval defeat in over 350 years.

“I think it was one of the greatest battles in the history of Naval warfare and I was proud to be apart of it,” said retired Lt. Cmdr.

William Roy. “We turned the Japanese tide from winning to losing, and that was the turning point of the war in the Pacific.”

Furlough Mondays At Commissary

Starting On July 8

By Kevin L. Robinson
Defense Commissary Agency

When furloughs are implemented, most military commissaries will close one day a week on Mondays, the Defense Commissary Agency’s top official said. The closures will be for up to 11 days between July 8 and Sept. 30.

“We know that any disruption in commissary operations will impact our patrons. “Also, we understand the tremendous burden this places on our employees, who, when furloughed, will lose 20 percent of their pay,” said Joseph H. Jeu, DeCA’s director and CEO.

“We determined that Monday closures would present the least pain for our patrons, employees and industry partners,” Jeu added.

Closing commissaries on Mondays would be in addition to any day stores are routinely closed. The 148 stores that routinely close on Mondays would also close the next normal day of operation. Other than the furlough day, there are no other changes planned for store operation hours.

The announcement comes as DeCA follows Department of Defense protocols related to the automatic federal government budget reductions, known as sequestration, which began March 1. Like most DOD activities, DeCA is mandated by DOD to furlough its civil service employees. Furlough notices are scheduled to be delivered to DeCA employees between May 28 and June 5.

DeCA has 247 commissaries with more than 16,000 employees operating in 13 countries and two U.S. territories. Furloughs will impact all of DeCA’s more than 14,000 U.S. civilian employees.

As sequestration continues, commissary customers can quickly find out about any changes to their local store’s operating schedule by going to www.commissaries.com, clicking on the “Locations” tab, then “Alphabetical Listing,” finding their store and clicking on “local store information.”

Patrons are reminded that because sequestration is so fluid, DeCA’s plan for this budget-cutting measure is subject to change.

DeCA decided on Monday closures after weighing the potential disruption to patrons and suppliers of having rolling furloughs, where closure dates would differ from store to store. Universal Monday closures are less disruptive to shoppers and the agency’s industry partners -- vendors, suppliers and distributors -- who deliver products daily to DeCA’s commissaries.

Store staffs overseas include a mix of U.S. and local national employees. Because they are not U.S. government employees

Plan Now For All Types Of Hazards

From the City of Jacksonville

Hurricane season started Saturday, but the public should prepare now for any emergency.

Proper planning can help people have the right plan in place to respond and recover from emergencies - not just storms, but fires, floods and other hazards.

The city of Jacksonville and leaders of the American Red Cross of Northeast Florida and Duval County Emergency Management are providing resources to assist residents and business owners with precautions in 2013.

The city and agencies participated in a statewide emergency preparedness exercise last month to prepare Emergency Operations Centers across Florida for the impending Hurricane Season that started June 1.

Residents can plan ahead using resources available through the JaxReady emergency preparedness program administered by Duval County Emergency Management, the Red Cross and partner agencies.

"We're reinforcing our plans for recovery - and you should be too," said Mayor Brown. "I encourage everyone to think ahead and have a plan. Think about what it will take to reopen the doors or get back into your home after a disaster strikes. You can never prepare too much."

The public can go to JaxReady.com to find information about building a kit with 72 hours of food, water and supplies, and to create and use a plan for people who have to stay at home or evacuate during an emergency. There is also information about current conditions, and how to seek assistance and recover from storms.

"The time that you and your family invest in preparing today helps all of us during the recovery process," said Jack Morgan, CEO of the North Florida Region of the American Red Cross. "We know that when communities are prepared before a disaster strikes; the better communities are able to recover financially, emotionally and physically."

JaxReady also includes information about how people with special medical needs can register for sheltering and transportation needs. Anyone with special medical needs assistance can find information about how to register at JaxReady.com or by calling Duval County Emergency Management at (904) 630-2489.

This year, the Brown administration spearheaded a public-private partnership at no cost to taxpayers to produce and distribute the annual emergency preparedness guide. The JaxReady publication is in this edition of The Mirror and also made available at various government buildings and by the American Red Cross of Northeast Florida.

The guide is also online at JaxReady.com, the online home of Duval County Emergency Management.

The partnership includes Times-Union Media, publishers of the Florida Times-Union and Jacksonville.com, and broadcast partner First Coast News on WJXX (ABC 25) and WTLV (NBC 120, as well as WJCT (89.9 FM), the local home of NPR and PBS.

Stop Summer Learning Loss With Reading

Judy Cromartie
School Liaison Officer

Studies show that by the end of fifth grade children without summer learning opportunities are nearly three years behind their peers in reading. So what can you do to "Stop Summer Learning Loss?"

To avoid Summer Slide - that loss of learned skills and knowledge from the end of one school year to the beginning of the next year - you need to make sure that your child is actively reading and learning throughout the summer. Reading Is Fundamental (RIF), the nation's oldest and largest children's literacy organization, believes there is no better time than this summer to begin helping our children bridge the gap in learning between the end of one school year and the beginning of the next one. "Motivating children to read throughout the year is essential to building lifelong readers," says Carol H. Rasco, president and CEO of RIF. "And reading is the doorway to all other learning."

Experts agree that children who read during the summer gain reading skills, while those who do not often slide backward. According to the authors of a November 2002 report from Johns Hopkins Center for Summer Learning "A conservative estimate of lost instructional time is approximately two months or roughly 22 percent of the school year... It's common for teachers to spend at least a month re-teaching material that students have forgotten over the summer. That month of re-teaching eliminates a month that could have been spent on teaching new information and skills."

Most children will benefit from exposure to educational activities to help maintain their skills and get them started on the right foot come fall. Whether he is enrolled in a summer camp, participating in online/virtual learning, engaged in disguised learning, or enjoying a learning vacation, he can be learning.

Online/Virtual learning is available through Florida's Department of Education. Florida Virtual School (FLVS) and Connections Academy have partnered to become Florida Virtual School Full Time (FLVS FT). This new online partnership features tuition-free school for students in grades K-5 (returning families only) and 9-12. If you wish for your child to take a credit course for summer, please contact your child's school counselor for permission.

Websites which can provide free and fun summer online learning include the following:

www.thinkfinity.org/games-and-tools [K-12 fun games and activities for long summer days]

www.khanacademy.org [all ages - 2100 videos & self-paced exercises covering everything from arithmetic to physics, finance, and history]

www.coolmath.com [fun games, puzzles, and more - all related to math]

<http://freerice.com> [great vocabulary game which donates 10 grains of free rice to United Nations World Food Program for each answer you get right. Adults can play too!!!]

Disguised learning has been the hallmark of great parenting forever.

Whether you are shopping, cooking, working on the car, or attending a sports event, you can create learning experiences for your child. Shopping allows you to teach about price comparison while cooking invites lessons on nutrition and measurements - dry and wet. Working on the car involves the use of new tools and measurements. Baseball has statistics galore. How is that ERA calculated?

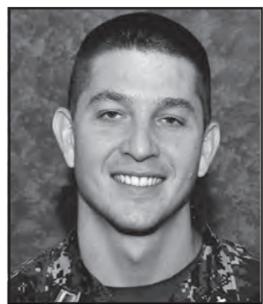

Taking a trip to the Grand Canyon or just down the road to Hanna Park? Use this vacation or day trip as an opportunity to teach planning, time management, internet resources, and maybe even calculating gas consumption. Prior to leaving, use the internet to research the history of your destination and ask your child to report on various aspects of the site during your travel.

Whatever you do to keep the learning active, have fun with it! Visit your local library for Jacksonville Public Library's "Dig Into Reading" program. Signs up began June 1 online at www.jaxpubliclibrary.org. Go to the library as often as once per week - beginning June 11 through Aug. 2 with your child's reading log - to receive a weekly prize. By reading 10 books, your child will receive a FREE BOOK of his very own. Free books will be distributed Aug. 1-17. This is a fun, active way for stopping the summer slide.

Preparing For True Love Starts With Yourself

Chap Justin Top
Surface Force Ministry Center

There is certainly a lot of advice out there for strengthening marriages. I have noticed, however, that there is not a whole lot of guidance for people who are not yet married, but are looking for meaningful relationships.

Unfortunately there is a lot of bad information from Hollywood that leads many people to begin a relationship on shaky ground.

Whether you are in a relationship now and want to strengthen it, or you are seeking to develop a meaningful relationship in the future, what you do now will build the foundation for your relationship.

Here are a few things you can do now for yourself to improve your future relationship, even if you don't yet know who it will be with.

LEARN TO BE HAPPY WITH YOURSELF. It is easy to think that relationships build your self-esteem. That isn't really self-esteem. By nature, self-esteem cannot be attached to somebody else.

CHAPLAIN'S CORNER

However, many people get involved in relationships because they believe they "need" it to be happy. As long as you "need" a relationship and feel like you can't live a good happy life without it, you won't be able to be happy with it either.

People who are desperate to find somebody often make poor decisions about who they pursue, and may pretend to be something they are not to impress that person. If they can't love you for who you really are, then it isn't love anyway.

UNDERSTAND WHAT LOVE REALLY IS. Movies portray love as some incomprehensible and irresistible force of fate that imposes itself on our will. We are led to believe that we cannot control love, but that it controls us.

Once we have "fallen" in love we are often completely consumed by it, to our joy if the love is reciprocated, or to our misery if it is not. This is not love, but infatuation. This belief will destroy your relationships faster than just about anything because it implies that you are powerless in the love relationship.

The truth is that love is a choice that must be made every day. The responsibility for love lies squarely on your shoulders. True love comes from hard work and sacrifice. Even if there is such thing as love at first sight (which I doubt), it is nothing in comparison to love after years of sacrifice and service to each other.

CHOOSE WHO YOU ARE ATTRACTED TO. If love is a choice, then you can begin now to train yourself to be attracted to the kind of people that you can really love and respect.

Sometimes people get in relationships with a person they would never consider marrying because it is exciting or they are attracted to them physically or emotionally. They rationalize that the relationship is just for fun. But it doesn't usually work out the way they expect.

Infatuation will overcome reason. In they end they have trained themselves to be attracted to the type of people who they knew wouldn't be good to marry. Mentally program yourself to be attracted to goodness, integrity, and the types of attributes that are most likely to lead to a happy family life.

BECOME THE TYPE OF PERSON YOU WOULD WANT TO LOVE. Many people say that opposites attract. While that may be true sometimes on a superficial level, people are attracted on a deeper level to those who hold the same values.

For example, women who focus on their appearance and being sexually attractive will attract and be attracted to the kind of men who seek above all else for a "sexy" woman. Thus, their relationship will be based on that type of physical attraction.

Those who place high value on spirituality will be more attracted to those with the same values.

If you are going to bars and clubs to find a relationship you are more likely to build a relationship on that lifestyle because you and the person you find place more value in it.

So, if you have a history of attracting to wrong kind of people, take a look at yourself and ask why. If you want to attract somebody who is affectionate, thoughtful, spiritual, intelligent, hardworking, etc. you should seek to develop those characteristics within yourself, and go to the places where people share those values.

RGB Returns From Deployment

By Ensign Matthew P. Roberts

USS Robert G. Bradley Public Affairs Officer

Guided-missile frigate USS Robert G. Bradley (FFG 49) and embarked HSC 22 Detachment 5 returned to their homeport of Mayport, Florida on May 28 after completing a seven-month deployment to 6th Fleet area of responsibility.

RGB departed Mayport on Oct. 31, and crossed the Atlantic Ocean with USNS Patuxent before entering the 6th Fleet's area of responsibility.

During deployment, RGB conducted 29 Sea and Anchor details while visiting Souda Bay, Greece, Naples, Italy, Augusta Bay, Sicily, and Punta Delgada, Portugal. During these port visits, 44 RGB Sailors participated in three community relations projects, helping out at the Abbey of San Vincenzo, Mondragone Orphanage, and The Saint Camillus Church and Soup Kitchen. This resulted in 158 man-hours of volunteer labor.

While in 6th Fleet, RGB supported the AFRICOM Counter Terrorism Intelligence, Surveillance, and Reconnaissance mission, flying MQ-8B Fire Scouts over 900 hours setting a new deployment record. The crew also conducted 21 replenishments at sea and two vertical replenishments, receiving 270 pallets and 27,913 gallons of F-44 and 2,098,363 gallons of F-76. During the many live fire exercises RGB Sailors fired more than 18,000 rounds of ammo.

RGB, aided by atmospheric ducting, intercepted a MAYDAY call at a distance of 120 nautical miles from the Greek Vessel PIRIS REIS that was involved in a collision at sea and eventually sunk on May 1.

The information was passed on to 6th Fleet ensuring coordination for a quick response and this alert action by the RGB's Bridge and CIC watchstanders resulted in a quick response saving at least 10 lives.

While out at sea, many RGB Sailors worked on developing themselves personally and professionally.

During deployment, more than 52 Sailors earned their Enlisted Surface Warfare Specialist (ESWS) pins, 62 Sailors took college level courses provided onboard and accrued 162 credit hours, more than 61 Sailors advanced to the next pay grade, 11 crew members earned their Officer of the Deck qualification, 5 officers earned their Surface Warfare Officer pin, and 9 crew members earned their Engineering Officer of the Watch qualification.

spoke about the amazing efforts of all the brave men who served during the Battle of Midway.

"There are countless stories of those who ran into burning or flooding space to save a shipmate, and some of those who did are here with us this evening," said Gortney. "Let us never forget those brave veterans and their legacy. We must preserve and celebrate our rich history."

Gortney also provided a "State of the Navy", an overview of the current operations and how our brave warriors are doing more with less and continuing to be ready anywhere in the world.

Following Gortney's speech, a special memento was presented to each Midway veteran as each biography was read.

Medal of Honor recipient Robert Ingram, the namesake for Naval Station Mayport's medical clinic, and a Hospital Corpsman who served during Vietnam was also in attendance.

Other highlights of the event included a special Full Service Color Guard presentation by members of all six services, including the Merchant Marine and a ceremonial presentation of the six-person POW/MIA table.

Career

career counselor. They will submit their intentions through their career counselor 13 months before their active obligated service, as extended (SEAOS), one month earlier than before. Sailors can still change their minds after this initial submission, and are encouraged to let their career counselors know if they've made a change as soon as possible.

"Knowing Sailors' intentions is critical to accurately predict how many Sailors we will have in each skillset, rate and paygrade going forward" said Kurta. "This ensures the maximum opportunity to reenlist in rate for those Sailors who desire to stay, offers opportunities for Sailors to convert to a new rate or transition between components, and improves advancement opportunity."

All eligible and command-approved E-6 Sailors will be approved for reenlistment on their first application, according to officials. While there is still a need for Sailors to tell their career counselor their intentions, if they want to reenlist and have command approval to do so, they will be given reenlistment approval on their first application. Soon, as the IT system is updated, Sailors and their commands will receive confirmation immediately upon submittal.

Navy officials say 100 percent of eligible, command approved Sailors in skillsets that are open (undermanned) or balanced will also receive approval to reenlist on their first application, and within 30 days. This will also become immediate with planned IT updates.

The changes will give eligible and command-approved E-5 and below Sailors answers about reenlistment requests earlier. This process has also been aligned with orders negotiation so Sailors will have more time to negotiate for the orders they want.

Sailors in skillsets that are competitive or overmanned, or that have special requirements such as the nuclear community, will receive information sooner about their ability to reenlist in rate, or opportunity to convert to a different rate or transition to the Reserves. Many of these Sailors will also receive approval to reenlist on their first application depending on the manning in their year group.

According to Kurta, with this new design, approximately 75% of Sailors who want to reenlist will be approved on their first application and all Sailors will know at least 10 months from the end of their contract whether they will be able to reenlist in their current rate.

"Each month, we have been processing approximately 12,000 reenlistment applications," Kurta said. "This number is expected to decrease significantly since the majority of Sailors will not have to apply for multiple months before receiving a decision. Sailors not approved to reenlist in rate will have additional time to apply to convert into another rating where opportunity exists."

For Sailors who are in overmanned or competitive skillsets will have up to 11 monthly reviews grouped into three phases beginning 13 months from their expiration of SEAOS. Each phase will present the career options available to a Sailor.

The first phase provides Sailors with four reviews starting 13 months from SEAOS with three options of in-rate reenlistment, conversion to another rating or transition into selected Reserves (SELRES).

In the second phase, Sailors who have not been given the go ahead for reenlistment in-rate will be given four more reviews with the options of conversion to a new rate or transition into SELRES.

In the third and final phase, Sailors will receive up to three reviews to transition into SELRES.

Other changes to improve Sailors' career management include updates to rating designation for Professional Career Track (PACT) Sailors, rating conversions for Reserve Sailors, and Reserve component to active component augmentation. These updates will be supported by several information technology enhancements to Career Waypoints and are also effective, June 3.

The second change automatically generates partial applications for PACT Sailors who meet minimum qualification requirements. The NAVADMIN also modifies policy to allow time in rate (TIR) Sailors to apply for a rating entry designation (RED) quotas.

The final process changes impact Sailors in the Reserve Component, as part of continuum of service initiatives announced in NAVADMIN 114/10. Starting June 3, SELRES and voluntary training unit (VTU) Sailors will be able to request active duty augmentation through the transition module within Career Waypoints, provided they meet specific program requirements. The program is being expanded to include FTS opportunities and to allow conversions into ratings with available quotas provided Sailors meet program requirements.

Additionally, SELRES Sailors will be able to request conversion to an undermanned SELRES rating through Career Waypoints, instead of routing paper packages to PERS-8 for approval.

Previous Selective Reenlistment Bonus (SRB) restrictions are now lifted for augmented members. Reserve Component Sailors who augment onto active duty may be eligible to receive SRB based on current active duty SRB authorizations and their amount of continuous active duty service.

To be eligible for SRB, Reserve Sailors must have completed at least 17 continuous months of active Naval service (other than active duty for training), but not more than 20 years of active military service at some time in their career. To ensure all requirements are met, visit the SRB page of the NPC Website.

To learn more about the Career Navigator program, Sailors may speak with their chain of command, career counselor, read the NAVADMIN, or call NPC customer service center at 1-866-U-ASK-NPC, (1-866-827-5672) or e-mail at CSCMailbox@navy.mil

Halyburton Shaves Heads For Cancer

USS Halyburton CMDCM Lee Friedlander shaves off the hair of Lt. Diego Alvarado as members of the Chief's Mess stand beside him.

Ensign Stephanie Santarelli has her ponytail cut off by Sonar Technician Seaman Gavin Stroud as part of a fundraiser for St. Baldrick's Foundation.

The crew of USS Halyburton sport their newly shaved heads, and cropped haircuts for females, and a check for $6,500 made out to St. Baldrick's Foundation. The St. Baldrick's Foundation is a childhood cancer charity funding the most promising research to help find cures for kids with cancer.

USS Halyburton's (FFG 40) Coalition of Sailors Against Destructive Decisions (CSADD) team coordinated a cancer fundraiser, on behalf of St. Baldrick's Foundation, to raise money for cancer research.

The St. Baldrick's Foundation is a non-profit organization dedicated to funding cancer research in America. Several Halyburton Sailors were touched by St. Baldrick's efforts and wanted to contribute to the cause. It has been an ongoing tradition that all donators contributing to the St. Baldrick's Foundation shave their heads in admiration for the courageous children dealing with the struggles of cancer.

Halyburton conducted their fundraising event after finishing up a Special Operations

Command (SOCOM) exercise, where they conducted training and deck landing qualifications. Before Halyburton the head shaving event began, the Chief Petty Officer's Mess hosted a steel beach picnic and fish call on the flight deck. The crew enjoyed endless servings of burgers, ribs, grilled chicken, baked beans chips, and chocolate chip cookies.

To maximize fundraising efforts, all khaki personnel (chief and officers) were auctioned to Halyburton Sailors. Sailors bid amongst each other to have the opportunity to shave any the chief or officer's head.

By the end of the evening, CSADD raised more than $6,500 for the St. Baldrick's Foundation and shaved more than 25 percent of the crew's head for this tremendous cause.

CSADD Unites For Jax Beach Clean Up

By OS2(SW)
Quintrel R. Brown
USS Halyburton Public Affairs

Naval Station Mayport and USS Halyburton (FFG 40) Coalition of Sailors Against Destructive Decisions (CSADD) teams joined together to clean up the Jacksonville Beach last Saturday.

This volunteer opportunity is sponsored by OnHands Jacksonville monthly in order to maintain the cleanliness of the Jacksonville Beach. Both CSADD teams were faced with a major challenge. With their volunteer services beginning only hours after the party scene ended, the streets were filled with trash.

CSADD is designed to positively influence Sailors behavior through resources and tools that promote good decision-making, enabling leadership development and a positive influence among peers at the most junior level. CSADD originated at Commander, Navy Region Mid-Atlantic as a peer influence social group. The popularity and message of the program spread and chapters were established at other commands. The program provides an additional resource and communication tool that facilitates positive Sailor interaction on and off of the ship.

Even with the Halyburton's complex underway schedule, the CSADD team still manages to give back to the local community.

"We are dedicated to helping others and finding great alternatives for our shipmates," said CSADD's Volunteer Coordinator, Seaman Justin Gregory.

USS Halyburton's CSADD team starts the summer on a rapid pace towards making a major difference in the Jacksonville community.

As the CSADD teams engaged in freeing the Jacksonville Beach from debris, they enlightened each other on the daily obstacles that they encounter on both shore and sea duty.

"I think it is important to learn about the duties of my shipmates on shore duty. It gives me a broader perspective on how to reach out to all Sailors throughout the Jacksonville area," said CSADD's Vice President, Personnel Specialist Seaman Timothy Murray.

The CSADD members homeported and stationed at Naval Station Mayport plan on working together on future projects to promote the CSADD's mission and amplify smart decision making amongst junior Sailors throughout the Navy.

DATs Train For Hurricane Season At Mayport

From NAVFACSE

In preparation of the 2013 hurricane season, Naval Facilities Engineering Command (NAVFAC) Southeast's Contingency Engineering Response Team (CERT) responds to a simulated hurricane (Hurricane Lay) May 22. The team prepares for damage that could be caused by a Category 2 storm at Naval Air Station (NAS) Pensacola deploying as part of the exercise to Naval Station (NS) Mayport.

NS Mayport provided a perfect deployed location for CERT and disaster assessment team (DAT) training. Each year NAVFAC Southeast prepares their teams for the upcoming hurricane season to be ready for any storm or natural disaster. This training is part of the annual plan to maintain skills and readiness for both new and experienced CERT members.

"As we prepare for the 2013 Hurricane Season, we (NAVFAC Southeast) conduct a CERT exercise as part of the Navy's Annual HURREX (Hurricane Exercise). We exercise command and control (C2) from a central EOC (Emergency Operations Center) at headquarters (NAS Jacksonville) and in the field (NS Mayport standing in for NAS Pensacola this year)," said Lt. Cmdr. Kenneth L. Vargas, NAVFAC Southeast Disaster Preparedness Officer (DPO).

NAVFAC CERTs are a key part of the overall base recovery efforts after a storm.

CERTs consist of one

As part of the Hurricane Exercise (HURREX) conducted the third week of May in Navy Region Southeast, Naval Facilities Engineering Command (NAVFAC) Southeast deployed a Contingency Engineering Response Team (CERT) May 22 to Naval Station Mayport to practice their skills. Public Works Department Mayport Production Officer Lt. Cheron Thornton (left) briefs the CERT in the mobile command post (MCP) on simulated damaged buildings (as a simulated hurricane heads for Pensacola) that will require assessment by the Damage Assessment Teams (DATs). The CERT completed the exercise and is ready for the 2013 hurricane season learning valuable lessons from the HURREX.

or more DATs as well as Construction Support Teams (CSTs) to administer contingency contracts, if any. DATs are made up of personnel who enable installation facility repair efforts. The teams consist of active-duty civil engineer corps officers, civilian engineers, architects, project managers, facilities managers and contract specialists.

"The CERT is a compilation of experts and capabilities resident within NAVFAC Southeast. All the Business Lines (BLs), Support Lines (SLs) and Integrated Product Teams (IPTs) provide expertise and manpower to the CERT," said Vargas.

Before the assembled team 'deployed' to NS Mayport, NAVFAC Southeast commanding officer, Capt. Christopher Kiwus, offered words of encouragement and focus to the CERT members.

"When you deploy, chances are you are going to a more dangerous place than most people encounter. I worry about you getting hurt. I don't worry about your vehicle or your equipment - I worry about you," said Kiwus. "Safety is the most important thing as you go about accomplishing your mission."

The entire team was told to watch out for each other and that they were all safety officers.

"The most important piece in this exercise is the knowledge each of you bring to the team. You all bring different expertise to the team. Learn what each of you offer and learn from each other," said Kiwus.

The CERT deploys with some pretty high tech equipment including hand held repeater radios, GPS enabled digital cameras and a bus outfitted as a Mobile Command Post (MCP) filled with laptops, a fax machine, weather equipment and other sundries.

"We use several communications means through our MCP to relay critical damage assessment information," said Vargas. "We have satellite abilities, wireless communications, facsimile, scanning, NMCI (Navy Marine Corps Internet) and commercial internet and email capabilities."

The C2 features streamline the process of getting engineering assessment data of damage to headquarters officials allowing NAVFAC leadership to make engineering recommendations to the Commander, Navy Installations Command (CNIC) with the end goal of getting the damaged base repaired and fully mission capable in short order.

Kiwus commented about the technology available to the team. "Try to use all the equipment you are issued as a team but don't make the equipment your focus. Shake out every bit of knowledge you can - that's the benefits of an exercise - so you can use those skills at a later time and place, learning now what to do to solve a problem in advance of a real emergency. That's the capacity we want to grow."

"As CERT members, we are charged with the responsibility to support installation and combatant commanders response efforts and work to ensure the affected installation can return to normal operations as quick as possible," said Don Maconi, NAVFAC Southeast Contingency Engineer. "These tools help us complete our mission."

"This is a very select group," said Kiwus. "In our region it is not a matter of if, but when we will deploy. If there is one group in the command to send to solve a problem, you're it. This is the group I would send to solve the problem."

CERT capabilities have been demonstrated as teams were sent to Navy installations in the Gulf Coast Region after Hurricanes Katrina and Gustav. Members of the team also deployed to assist with disaster assessments in Haiti after the 2010 earthquake and after Hurricane Isaac impacted Louisiana in August 2012.

NEX Awards Good Grades

From NEXCOM

The NEX wants to help its customers finance their children's college education through its A-OK Student Reward Program.

All qualified students will participate in a quarterly drawing for monetary awards of $2,500, $1,500, $1,000 or $500 for a total of $5,500 per quarter.

The next drawing will be held at the end of May 2013.

Any eligible full-time student that has a B-grade point average equivalent or better, as determined by their school system, may enter the drawing. Eligible students include dependent children of active duty military members, reservists and military retirees enrolled in first through 12th grade.

To enter the drawing, stop by any NEX with a current report card and have a NEX associate verify the minimum grade average.

Then fill out an entry card and obtain an A-OK ID, which entitles the student to discount coupons for NEX products and services.

Commissary

ees, local national employees are not subject to this furlough actions. Select locations overseas will open if they have an adequate local national staff. However, if an overseas store is closed, its local national staff will report to work and perform other store-related duties.

In January, DOD released guidance to allow defense components to plan for potential budget cuts by reducing operating costs. In line with that direction, DeCA later executed the following budget-cutting measures:

- A hiring freeze on all outside hires;
- Curtailment of official travel for all conferences, training, and any other events and activities considered noncritical to the agency's mission;

- Cancellation of the agency's May Worldwide Case Lot Sales for all commissaries. Instead, stores are conducting smaller-scale events such as outdoor sidewalk sales;

- Curtailment of all overtime and compensatory time unless deemed mission-critical;

- Review of contract services to restrict any increases;

- Curtailment of all monetary awards unless legally required; and

- Postponement of all Guard and Reserve on-site sales scheduled after July 8 until further notice.

"We are in this together," JEU said, "and though limited in our ability by circumstances we cannot control, I assure you we will do all we can to mitigate the impact of sequestration on our patrons, employees and industry partners, and on our mission."

The Defense Commissary Agency operates a worldwide chain of commissaries providing groceries to military personnel, retirees and their families in a safe and secure shopping environment. Authorized patrons purchase items at cost plus a 5-percent surcharge, which covers the costs of building new commissaries and modernizing existing ones. By shopping regularly in the commissary, patrons save an average of 30 percent or more on their purchases compared to commercial prices -- savings amounting to thousands of dollars annually.

A core military family support element, and a valued part of military pay and benefits, commissaries contribute to family readiness, enhance the quality of life for America's military and their families, and help recruit and retain the best and brightest men and women to serve their country.

USS Samuel B. Roberts hosted the Girl Scouts of Troop 1396 from Mayport, Florida. Prior to the "Sammy B's" deployment, members of Girl Scout Troop 1396 delivered 200 boxes of cookies from donations collected during their sales. Troop 1396 are first year brownies who collectively sold more than 5,000 boxes of cookies. The troop toured the ship led by Chief Petty Officer Hannabal Forbes.

In addition to selling cookies, the Girl Scouts of Troop 1396 give back to others during the sale through a program known as Gift of Caring. This meaningful element of the Girl Scout cookie program helps girls feel that they are helping others.

Discover authentic, homemade Japanese cuisine at Tomo

Hidden away among the trees lining Penman Road is a gem of a Japanese restaurant called Tomo.

When deciding to open a restaurant, there were two things partners Yuki Toyo and Al Chanthalack wanted to offer their guests: delicious, authentic Japanese food that is made from scratch and a warm, welcoming atmosphere.

"The word 'Tomo' means friendship in Japanese, and that's why we chose it for the name of our restaurant," said Toyo. "Our goal is to make a friend of everyone who walks in the door. Of course, we also want to serve them the very best Japanese food in Jacksonville."

The "very best" means the freshest – and all homemade.

"We make everything ourselves in our own kitchen – the spring rolls, croquets, sauces and salad dressings," Toyo said.

"Many places, used packaged dashi [Japanese broth], but we even make that ourselves," Chanthalack added.

You'll understand the importance of homemade ingredients when you take your first bite of Tomo's delicious food. The list of appetizers alone takes up an entire page of the menu with such items as miso-braised short ribs, bacon-wrapped scallops, soft shell crab and, of course, spring rolls and tempura.

From there, the menu offers everything a connoisseur of Japanese food could desire. There are many different salads and soups; fried rice choices; rice bowls with broth; and hot, chilled or stir-fried noodles of every kind imaginable. As if that weren't enough, there is also tatakai, thinly sliced and quickly seared meat with ponzu sauce; many entrees; and hearty bento meals with pork, shrimp, chicken, vegetables, mackerel or salmon.

Perhaps the most fun dining experience comes at the teppanyaki tables, where the chefs put on a real show for you, as they also cook your dinner exactly to your taste. Included are items rarely found on local teppanyaki tables, such as duck breast, filet mignon, lobster, scallops and squid. There are three Tomo Trio items, and you can create your own individual combo dish.

If you're a sushi fan, you'll quickly decide that Tomo is the place for you with creative delicacies like The Vampire Slayer – asparagus, avocado, fish egg and spicy tuna with fried garlic on top and eel sauce – and the Jacksonville roll – fried crayfish, Japanese mayo and avocado with a mix of crab, spicy sesame, a crunchy fish egg and more crayfish on top.

Tomo also has a full bar and offers birthday and anniversary specials; just call for details.

"Laurie and I took my niece and her guy to Tomo for a most excellent dinner. We plan to go back again soon to try other things on the menu. The food, people and service are the best. I know the restaurant business is brutally competitive, but this place is truly special and I will tell everyone I know about it."
