A Drop At A Time

By Lt.j.g. Stephen Baker
PWD Mayport Commodity Manager

You use it day, but have you ever wondered where the water flowing out of faucets throughout Naval Station Mayport's buildings, homes – and even the water on its ships - comes from?

NS Mayport provides potable water to all ships, tenant commands, residents, and visitors. An average of approximately 1 million gallons (MG) of water is consumed per day for drinking, toilets, irrigation, and various other reasons.

NS Mayport operates and maintains a sophisticated water treatment plant and distribution system. Water is drawn from the Floridian Aquifer via three deep wells at a depth of approximately 1000 feet. The aquifer is the source of freshwater for most of Florida; it is the largest and deepest aquifer in the southeastern U.S. The aquifer is an abundant, but not limitless, source of water that recharges from surface water that moves downward through porous rock and soil layers. The raw water is tested to ensure it does not exceed a maximum contaminant level before treatment. Once drawn from the earth, the raw water is treated by injecting a chlorine solution to kill bacteria and other organisms. This is referred to as "pre-chlorination." Chlorine is the method for treating raw water for consumption and use in Community Public Water Systems.

Next, aerator units allow water to gravity fall through a series of "trays" where insoluble gases are removed from the water via blower units. The blower units remove the gases through an exhaust and water continues through the process. The aerator units are integral in enhancing taste, color, and odor of our drinking water.

Naval Station Mayport Commanding Officer, Capt. Wes McCall and FFSC New Parent Support Counselor Jaye Meyer are joined by the VPK children at NS Mayport's Child Development Center to sign the proclamation declaring April as Child Abuse Prevention Month at Naval Station Mayport. After McCall signed as commanding officer, he invited the children to come up and sign their names to the poster as well.

DOD Salutes Military Children

By Terri Moon Cronk
American Forces Press Service

The Defense Department believes military children serve their country alongside their service member parents, DOD's director of the office of family policy/children and youth said.

When military children serve, they do so by making sacrifices when parents are deployed, through frequent moves, starting new schools and making new friends on a continuing basis, Barbara Thompson said in a recent interview with The Pentagon Channel for the Month of the Military Child that's being celebrated in April.

"We feel it's important for the nation to know that military children also serve their country," Thompson said.

To honor military children for their sacrifices and service, DOD and the services have planned activities this month that range from installation-based fairs, parades, and literacy and art events, she said.

Military Kids Day, April 15, marks the third-annual "Purple Up!" day when adults wear purple to show support of children from all the services, Thompson said.

DOD has numerous year-round programs and awareness efforts to honor military children, and Thompson elaborated on some of those initiatives.

Harper Fernandez, 4, signs her name to the Child Abuse Prevention Month Proclamation.

To help children build their resilience, DOD has coordinated programs with Sesame Street to help with ongoing change in military children's lives, Thompson noted.

"Sesame [Street] has been an outstanding contributor to the well-being of military children," she said, naming a series of DVDs that cover such topics for military children as divorce, grief, separation and deployment, resilience skills, and visible or invisible injuries.

Sesame Street also recently launched two new smartphone applications.

"One [app] covers relocation, and another is to help children learn self-regulation skills so they become more resilient," Thompson said. "And everything is free."

Thompson emphasized that April also is Child Abuse Prevention Month and said awareness in this arena is important to DOD.

"Child Abuse Prevention Month is particularly important because it's a social responsibility for all of us to make sure children are safe and their well-being is protected," she said. "Everybody has a responsibility."

Giving parents the tools to make them strong supporters of their children and to keep them safe from predators and from violence within the family is crucial, she added.

"Parenting is tough, regardless of the situation and the age of the child. They each bring their nuances to the table, whether it's children at [age] 2 who say 'no,' or a teenager who's sometimes a little defiant," she

FFSC Plans Events To Honor Military Children

Join Fleet and Family Support Center today (April 10) for the 2nd Annual Stroller Strut starting at 9 a.m. at the back of Building One. Moms are encouraged to bring their strollers and get in some sun, fun and exercise in support of Month of the Military Children. FFSC is looking for the best decorated stroller on base!

English Tea For Expectant Mothers will be held on April 24 from 1-3 p.m. at the Base Chapel. FFSC is honoring our expectant moms in recognition of April's Child Abuse Prevention Month. Registration required.

DOD offers parenting skill resources, Thompson noted, such as the newly launched Parenting Course. The course, she explained, examines parenting from the context of the military lifestyle, which revolves around deployments and parental separations from their children at different stages of their development.

And an installation-based initiative, the new Parent Support Program, involves

Chief Petty Officers Celebrate 121 Years of Excellence

By Master Chief Petty Officer of the Navy Mike Stevens

As the master chief petty officer of the Navy, I get the chance to talk with chief petty officers from all across the world. As I travel throughout the fleet, it is evident that chiefs are doing great things. Their Sailors are a reflection of their amazing work. Established on April 1, 1893, chiefs no one can be under any illusions of what being a chief petty officer means. You must be "All In, All The Time." We must live honest and humble lives because our Sailors can see between the lines. They can see through the chief who tells his or her Sailors one thing, but does the opposite on the weekends. You must live and lead consistently.

By myself, I don't have the capacity to come up with all of the answers, but I believe that our chiefs' mess must have common ground, something that we can all work on together. We must have a focus. This is where "Zeroing in on Excellence" comes in.

Developing leaders: Leaders are the lids to their organizations. Leadership touches us all. Leadership is also one's ability to influence others. I was in a command that made every mission, people were happy to come to work, they were proud to wear the command colors, and people wanted to be there. There was very little misconduct, or mishaps, and it was a good place to be stationed. The lid was the commanding officer and the command master chief. Nothing changed within that command except for the change of command. Within 30 days of the change of command, the command went from being world champions to the worst in the league. It took me years to understand the significance of influence our senior leaders make. Great leaders are what make great organizations. If we want to mitigate many problems we are facing, we must have the right leaders in the right place at the right time. We are investing our time, energy and effort into the problem, but the reality is that without the leadership we won't rid the problem.

Good order and discipline: I think with our young men and women who serve, their behavior is a reflection of our behavior. If you want people to do the right thing, then we must do the right thing. Across the board of senior leaders, if we live the life beyond reproach then we would highly encourage, through our actions, young men and women who serve beneath us to do the same thing. Our greatest failure has been our failure to lead by example. I'm not looking to start a program, collect date, but rather just do the right thing. Especially when it's hard because young Sailors will see you when they look in the mirror.

Controlling what we own: The greatest difference maker in life is our attitude. You can't always control what happens to you but you can control how you react. We often spend so much time complaining about some of the challenges that life has dealt us, and I'm guilty too, but if we really stood back and took a hard look, we'd realize that within those challenges, lies tremendous opportunities. With the many challenges facing our Navy today, as much or more than ever, "controlling what we own" is of utmost importance. The things that we have no control over simply cannot distract us.

I've been a chief petty officer for 19 years, and

I understand the perceived history and traditions of our Chief's Mess. I've seen a lot during evolution of the way we've trained our first class petty officers. For many years, we weren't physically hurting people, but it seemed to bring out the worst in our chief petty officers. We'd do things in a group that we would never do individually. I saw people say and do things that they normally wouldn't do on their own. I just knew that if I didn't stand for what is fundamentally right, with treating people with dignity and respect, then I was just as guilty as the people I had a problem with.

If you look throughout our history of the United States, some of the greatest things we've done have created strife and discontent. We say that we are a democratic society and that the majority has the say so, but every once in a while in our history, there's a person that goes against the majority because it's simply the right thing to do.

Chief petty officers are very influential in the Navy. If we can train our reliefs with dignity and respect, then we can ultimately get it right with every Sailor we come across. Remember, when you do the right things for the right reasons, you will always prevail.

There are many young Sailors who will one day serve among the ranks as chief petty officers to continue commemorating the legacy of excellence.

I'd like to take a moment to say thank you for everything you do, every single day. Our time in these jobs as seniors is short and we must continue to make every day our masterpiece.

Everyone Needs A Second Chance Some Times

Chaplain Calvin B. Gardner, Sr. CNSL Ministry Center

When Abram was 99 years old, the Lord appeared to him and said, "I am the Almighty God; walk and live habitually before Me and be perfect (blameless, wholehearted, complete).

And I will make My covenant (solemn pledge) between Me and you and will multiply you exceedingly." Then Abram fell on his face.... (Genesis 17:1-3a, Amplified Bible).

What do you plan to be doing when you are 99 years old? Jet Skiing? Sky Diving? Probably not...well maybe...SMILE.

If you are like me - if the LORD wills - when I turn 99, I plan to be doing very little but my actions do not appear to be the norm for those walking with God in the Old Testament. The first thing I noticed in the above passage was that Abram was 99 years old and yet in spite of his age the Bible says the Lord appeared to him.

Before we deal with

what God said to Abram, I want to spend a moment exploring the context of this passage.

This was not the first time God had appeared or spoken to Abram. The first time God spoke to Abram he called him into a covenant relationship (Gen. 12). One of the aspects of this covenant was that Abram and his wife, Sarah, would be blessed with a son. But after waiting for a long time for this promise to be fulfilled, they decided that God was taking too long and needed their assistance. Their plan backfired.

Can you relate to this? Have you ever tried to assist God with a promise, only to find yourself frustrated? That is the context of the passage. It has been 13 years. Abram and Sarah are sorry, frustrated and desperate, but God's timing is always right.

In the mist of their mess up and frustration, God appears before Abram and rebukes him for taking things into his own hands. Well, not actually. The text tells us that it is not a rebuke that Abram hears, but an instruction. God commands Abram to "walk and live habitually before Him."

God then reminds Abram of the covenant that he made with him.

"I know what you have done Abram. I know you are embarrassed and frustrated, but I am the God of a second chance. What you have done or have not done does not void my covenant with you. Walk blameless, wholeheartedly, and complete before me this day forward."

Wow, what a gracious God we serve. Do you need a second chance? Here is proof positive that God is willing to give you a second chance.

The revelation of this passage is not necessarily what God does, but how he chooses to reveal himself to Abram. In the mist of Abram's wrong turns, God identifies himself as the "Almighty God." The Hebrew word for "Almighty God" in the Hebrew is El Shaddai. This is the first time a gracious God has chosen to reveal himself to Abram by this name but it will not be the last (Gen 28:3, 35:11). In all uses of the name El Shaddai, God is reminding his people that His power is over all situations. He reminds Abram in the above passage that He is all powerful. Nothing or no one exceeds the power of God. Whatever God promises, He has the power to perform (Ex. 6:4).

Do you have a situation that seems impossible? Have you made a few wrong turns in your life? Do you need a second chance? Remember, God is El Shaddai (Almighty God) and this means He is all-powerful in spite of our good and bad choices. He rules His people by His word and Spirit, and He rules over the barrenness of your situation. Call on El Shaddai, the "Almighty God!"

Plans Finalized For USNS Spearhead's Deployment To 4th Fleet AOR

By Lt. Sonny Lorrius

U.S. Naval Forces Southern Command/ U.S. 4th Fleet Public Affairs

Service members and civilians involved in the scheduled deployment of the joint high speed vessel USNS Spearhead (JHSV 1) this summer to the U.S. Southern Command and U.S. 4th Fleet area of operations met March 25 and March 26 here to finalize plans for the mission.

The Spearhead is a 338-foot-long catamaran with a top speed of 43 knots and an average speed of 35 knots. With airline-style seating for 312 troops, a mission bay area of 20,000 square feet and a helicopter deck, it can be used in each of the 4th Fleet lines of operation: security cooperation activities, maritime security and contingency operations, including humanitarian assistance and disaster relief. During its 4 1/2 months in the joint area of operations, it will visit Belize, Guatemala, Honduras and Colombia. It also will participate in counterdrug operations and conduct experiments on behalf of the Naval Warfare Development Command.

The mission, known as Southern Partnership Station-Joint High Speed Vessel 2014, will build on the experiences USNS Swift (HSV-2), another catamaran, which participated in Southern Partnership Station 2013 and completed testing of an unmanned blimp and unmanned aerial vehicle last year.

"The SPS-JHSV 14 mission is set to be an exciting deployment," said Ken Miller, U.S. Naval Forces Southern Command's lead planner for the mission. "The final planning conference is a key milestone in the operations planning cycle and helps to blend the detailed planning being done by all stakeholders."

The deployment will begin in late May from Joint Expeditionary Base Little Creek, Va. After a familiarization period in Mayport, the vessel will carry what are known as adaptive force packages - in this case including a Seabee detachment, a Marine Corps security cooperation team, a riverine crew and others - to Belize. Adaptive force packages are nonstandard sets of personnel and equipment needed to accomplish particular missions.

The vessel will complete an experimentation period near Key West and then carry Marines from the 4th Law Enforcement Battalion and their equipment, including shipping containers, a truck and Humvees, to the Dominican Republic for Tradewinds 2014, a U.S. Southern Command-sponsored exercise that aims to increase regional cooperation in countering illicit trafficking.

The vessel will conduct detection and monitoring activities in support of Operation Martillo, return the Marines to Florida, and then resume its Martillo activities.

Martillo (Spanish for "hammer") is a U.S., European and Western Hemisphere partnership effort targeting illicit trafficking routes in coastal waters along the Central American isthmus. U.S. military participation is led by Joint Interagency Task Force South, a component of U.S. Southern Command.

In late summer, the vessel will transport the adaptive force packages from Belize to Guatemala and transport a mobile diving and salvage unit and an explosive ordnance disposal team from Guatemala to Colombia. It will then take the same units from Guatemala and Colombia to Honduras for training there. After additional detection and monitoring and experimentation periods, it will return the units to the United States in early October, concluding Southern Partnership Station 2014.

Spearhead was built in Mobile, Ala., and delivered to the Military Sealift Command in late 2012. The vessel's first deployment began early this year and was to the 6th Fleet area of operations, where it supported security cooperation and maritime security efforts in the Mediterranean Sea, on the Atlantic coast of Africa and in the Gulf of Guinea.

It is one of 10 joint high speed vessels to be built for the Navy. The vessels will have civilian crews.

Capt. Sam Hancock, the commander of Destroyer Squadron 40, will be the Southern Partnership Station-Joint High Speed Vessel 2014 mission commander.

"DESRON 40 is looking forward to this deployment," Hancock said. "We look forward to the opportunity to see what JHSV can do on its maiden voyage to our AOR and build on that for the future." ## USS De Wert Decommissions At Mayport

By Ensign
Kierstin King

USS De Wert Public
Affairs Officer

After more than 30 years of Naval service, crew members, plankowners, family members and friends gathered at Naval Station Mayport April 4, to bid farewell to the Oliver Hazard Perry-class frigate USS De Wert (FFG 45) during a decommissioning ceremony.

De Wert completed its last deployment Dec. 23, after successfully completing operations in the 5th and 6th Fleet areas of responsibility. There the crew provided maritime security in the Gulf of Aden and Horn of Africa regions as part of NATO's counter-piracy operations.

"I am grateful for the crew's relentless service and dedication to our mission," said De Wert Commanding Officer, Cmdr. Joseph Thomas. "It has been an extraordinary honor to be the decommissioning commanding officer of this amazing ship."

ments, generations of De Wert crewmembers shared stories about their time aboard the ship.

"Now, with years of perspective, and looking at the ship's history, I am proud to have been part of starting her out and to be part of the De Wert family," said plankowner Jerry Miller.

The ship was commissioned Nov. 19, 1983 and named after Hospital Corpsman Richard De Wert, who was posthumously awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor after repeatedly entering the battlefield in order to aid the wounded and bring them to safety.

Burd Becomes 20th Skipper Of HSM-40

From Staff

Cmdr. Michael Burd relieved Cmdr. Sil Perrella as commanding officer of HSM-40 during a change of command ceremony held at the squadron hangar on April 3.

Burd graduated in 1993 from the U.S. Naval Academy with a Bachelor of Science Degree in Political Science. In November 1995, he completed advanced rotary flight training and was designated a Naval Aviator.

Burd's sea assignments include an initial operational tour with the HSL-42 Proud Warriors. He served as squadron Seahawk Weapons and Tactics Instructor (SWTI) with the HSL-46 Grandmasters where he was responsible for advanced tactical training and qualification of detachment aircrews. In 2003, Commander Burd returned to HSL-42 for his Department Head tour where he ultimately served as Operations Officer.

As Officer-in-Charge, he led a two-plane detachment in USS Vicksburg (CG 69), "shotgun" escort for the USS John F. Kennedy (CV 67) Carrier Strike Group, during a combat deployment in support of Operation Iraqi Freedom and Enduring Freedom. From February 2011 to May 2012, Burd served as Commanding Officer of HSL-46 and led his squadron through the HSM community's first expeditionary-to-expeditionary transition to the MH-60R Seahawk.

Ashore, Burd served with the HSL-40 Airwolves as an FRS Flight Instructor and was recognized as squadron Pilot of the Year in 2001 and 2002.

Prior to command, he served in Washington, D.C. on the Joint Staff, Operations Directorate (J-3), as Global Strike Advisor, Assistant Deputy Director for Operations, and Emergency Actions Officer for Operations Team Three in the National Military Command Center.

Following his command tour, Burd served as PERS-43 Deputy Director and Head Air Combat Placement Officer, Aviation Officer Distribution Division, Navy Personnel Command, in Millington, Tenn.

Perrella enlisted in the Navy in 1985 from Fountain Valley, Calif., and served as an Aviation Anti-Submarine Warfare Technician (AX) in HSL-41 and HSL-47 located at NAS North Island, CA. He was commissioned an Ensign and designated a Naval Aviator through the Naval Aviation Cadet Program (NAVCAD) in December 1992.

Perrella reported in January 1994 to the Warlords of HSL-51 in Atsugi, Japan as part of the Forward Deployed Naval Forces.

His next assignment was as a FRS Flight Instructor with HSL-41 from March 1997 to June 1999 where he served as the Training Schedules Officer, Personnel Officer, and SH-60B Curriculum Model Manager.

In July 1999, he

USS Simpson Welcomes Final Commanding Officer

By Lt. j.g. Julie Rosa
USS Simpson Public Affairs

Guided-missile frigate USS Simpson (FFG 56) held a change of command ceremony April 4 at Naval Station Mayport.

Cmdr. Ken Anderson relieved Cmdr. Chris Follin as commanding officer.

Anderson is "fleet-ing up" after being Simpson's executive officer since November 2012 and will serve as the ship's final commanding officer. Simpson is scheduled to be decommissioned in August 2015.

Follin came to Simpson as executive officer in April 2011 and assumed command in November 2012. His next assignment is to support the Chief of Naval Operations in Washington, D.C.

Anderson and Follin share similar career paths. Both got their start as a submariner and were commissioned via the Seaman-to-Admiral Program.

Anderson enlisted in the Navy in August 1990. After completing the nuclear power pipeline, he served as a Machinist Mate onboard the USS Bluefish (SSN-675), homeported initially in Charleston, SC then Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. Selected for the Seaman to Admiral program, he completed Officer Candidate School in Pensacola, Florida in June 1996, then attended Surface Warfare Officer School in Newport, Rhode Island.

In February 1997 he reported aboard USS Scott (DDG-995) where he served as Damage Control Assistant and the decommissioning Chief Engineer. In February 1999, he reported aboard USS Hué City (CG-66) in Mayport, Fla., as the Fire Control Officer.

Upon completing Department Head School, he reported in May 2004 to USS Roosevelt (DDG-80) in Mayport, where he served as Weapons Officer and Combat Systems Officer. During this tour he was recognized as the 2007 Atlantic Fleet Tactician of the Year.

Anderson reported to USS Simpson (FFG 56) as Executive Officer in November 2012.

Ashore he served as the Executive Assistant to the Chief of Legislative Affairs from 2007-2009, then as the Deputy Division Chief for the Resource and Acquisition Management Office and Military Secretariat in the J-8 Directorate of the Joint Staff from 2009-2012.

Follin enlisted under the advanced electronics field in 1987. He served five years on board USS Birmingham (SSN 695) as a Second Class Electronics Technician and Navy Diver. While attached to the Chief of Naval Operations Special Project, Submarine Surveillance Equipment Program and ESM Certification team, he was one of the first 50 Sailors selected for Admiral Boorda's Seaman to Admiral Program.

After receiving his commission at Officer Candidate School and completing Surface Warfare Division Officer Course in 1996, he reported to USS Chancellorsville (CG 62) where he served as the Main Propulsion Division officer and Strike Officer and earned the SURFPAC ship handler of the year award. In June 1998, Follin reported to Mine Countermeasures Rotational Crew Bravo embarked onboard USS Pioneer (MCM 9) as the Operations Officer deploying to the Arabian Gulf in USS Ardent (MCM12).

While attached to the Naval ROTC unit in Jacksonville, Florida from December 1999 to December 2002, he earned a Bachelor of Science in History and a Master's Degree in Business.

Returning to Sea Duty for his Department Head tours, onboard USS Winston S. Churchill (DDG 81), Follin served as Weapons Officer and Combat Systems Officer.

His most recent shore assignment was to U.S. Joint Forces Command, Joint War-fighting Center.

Follin was selected for the XO/CO fleet up program and has served as Executive Officer aboard USS Simpson (FFG 56) from April 2011 to November 2012, when he assumed Command of Simpson November 16, 2012.

Philippine Sea Names Top Sailors Of The Quarter

From USS Philippine Sea (CG 58) Public Affairs

USS Philippine Sea (CG 58) selected three Sailors as the Sailor, Junior Sailor, and Blue Jacket of the Quarter for the first quarter of fiscal year 2014, April 2.

Cheers and congratulations went to Culinary Specialist 1st Class Eber Barraza, of El Paso, Texas, Sailor of the Quarter; Hull Technician 2nd Class John Geneus, of New York, Junior Sailor of the Quarter; Ship's Serviceman Seaman Matthew Muhl, of Waco, Texas, Blue Jacket of the Quarter as their names were announced over the ship's intercom system during dinner.

"The Philippine Sea is loaded top to bottom with great Sailors, so this was not an easy decision," said Command Master Chief Lewis Jackson. "CS1 Barraza, Philippine Sea is deployed as part of the George H. W. Bush Carrier Strike Group in support of maritime security operations and theater security cooperation efforts in the U.S. 5th Fleet area of responsibility.

HT2 Geneus and SHSN Muhl have done an incredible job to stand out amongst their peers and truly deserve to be commended."

To be considered, Sailors are nominated by their departments' chain of command and have a performance package submitted to the Command Master Chief. This is followed by an oral board, comprised of senior enlisted personnel, in which candidates are asked a series of questions ranging from Naval history and uniform standards to current events and Naval strategy.

"I was really surprised because all the guys I went up against are top notch," said Barraza. "I'd like to thank all my peers and junior Sailors because I couldn't be where I am without them."

At an awards ceremony the Sailors will be given a certificate and a command plaque.

"I have a great chain of command to thank," said Geneus. "Without them I don't think I could be as motivated as I am. They make it easy."

"I'm humbled," said Muhl. "I wasn't expecting to be given this title considering that I was up against some fine Sailors. This is really a win for the ship's supply department who has supported me."

The Philippine Sea is currently on deployment in support of maritime security operations and theater security cooperation efforts in the U.S. 5th Fleet area of responsibility.

Truman CSG Completes 5th Fleet Mission

From Harry S. Truman Carrier Strike Group Public Affairs

Ships and embarked squadrons from the Harry S. Truman Carrier Strike Group (HST CSG) completed operations in the U.S. 5th Fleet area of operations (AOR) March 28.

The strike group completed a 120-mile transit of the Suez Canal, marking the end to more than seven straight months of operations in the Middle East in support of Operation Enduring Freedom (OEF), maritime security operations and security cooperation efforts with various countries throughout the region.

"The Truman Strike Group has been America's away team these past eight months," said Rear Adm. Kevin Sweeney, HST CSG commander. "Our young Sailors and Marines have operated in a very demanding environment and executed with professionalism, precision and lethality when called upon. I could not be more proud of their dedication and sacrifice."

While in the 5th Fleet AOR, the strike group conducted a full range of maritime operations and theater security cooperation efforts with coalition partners and allies, ranging from OEF support to assisting mariners in distress.

The strike group also conducted five weeks of integrated operations with French Task Force 473, led by the French aircraft carrier FS Charles de Gaulle (R 91). The two navies operated and exercised together conducting flight operations, boarding exercises, air defense exercises, combat search and rescue training, live-gunnery exercises and personnel exchanges.

HST CSG also interacted with the Spanish, Italian, Norwegian navies and the Australian-led counter-piracy task force, Combined Task Force 151 during its deployment to the region.

Sweeney said the strike group's time was very successful.

HST CSG consists of the aircraft carrier USS Harry S. Truman (CVN 75), along with embarked Carrier Air Wing 3 and its squadrons: Strike Fighter Squadron 32 "Swordsmen," VFA-37

"Ragin' Bulls," VFA-105 "Gunslingers," Marine Fighter Attack Squadron 312 "Checkerboards," Airborne Early Warning Squadron 126 "Seahawks," Electronic Attack Squadron 130 "Zappers," Helicopter Sea Combat Squadron 7 "Dusty Dogs," and Helicopter Maritime Strike Squadron 74 "Swamp Foxes;" guided-missile cruisers USS San Jacinto (CG 56) and USS Gettysburg (CG 64); and guided-missile destroyers USS Bulkeley (DDG 84) and USS Mason (DDG 87).

Gettysburg Visits Longtime Ally, Honors Fallen

By Ensign Kiley Provenzano

USS Gettysburg Public Affairs

Sailors assigned to guided-missile cruiser USS Gettysburg (CG 64) participated in a community engagement project during its scheduled port visit in Toulon, France, April 4.

Fifty Sailors traveled to a cemetery in Rhone and spent the morning working on the grounds and laying wreaths in honor of American soldiers who died in World War II.

"It is a reminder of the honor and courage that our predecessors portrayed," said Operations Specialist 2nd Class James Wallace, who spent the morning working at the cemetery. "It is a privilege to be able to honor their legacy by working here today."

Earlier in deployment, Gettysburg spent more than five weeks conducting operations with the French navy's Charles de Gaulle Strike Group, as part of Harry S. Truman Carrier Strike Group.

The cruiser also visited Marseille, France, in early August. The current visit allowed Gettysburg Sailors to reflect on their previous interactions with the French.

"Our joint operations with the French were an incredible experience," said Lt.j.g. Collin Roof, who served as Gettysburg's liaison on board French frigate FS Forbin (D620). "Working so closely with the French has taught us so much about each other."

"On the first part of our deployment, we had the privilege of stopping in Marseille, France, and now we visit Toulon," says Lt. Justin Top, the ship's chaplain, who organized many of the community relations events for the cruiser. "We have been welcomed with absolute hospitality by both cities and it has been an incredible experience working with the French."

Gettysburg, as part of Harry S. Truman Carrier Strike Group, is operating in the U.S. 6th Fleet area of responsibility (AOR) in support of maritime security operations and theater security cooperation efforts as it completes a nine month deployment to the U.S. 6th and 5th Fleet AORs.

From BBC

Applications must be postmarked by Friday, May 2, 2014.

Water

The aeration process can sometimes cause a rotten egg like smell near the Water Treatment Plant (WTP).

The water is stored in one of two reservoirs after it leaves the aerator units. The 2 MG reservoir is located on the north side of Massey Avenue at the WTP and the 0.5 MG reservoir is on the South south side across the street from the plant.

Following storage in the reservoirs, the water is sent to the water distribution system by one of the six high service pumps. Prior to being sent into the water distribution system via the pumps, the water is treated again with chlorine in a process called "post-chlorination." A minimum residual chlorine concentration of 0.2 milligrams per liter (mg/l) is required by Federal, State and Local regulations at the furthest point in the water distribution system. This process ensures safety to all recipients of the water throughout the system.

Once in the distribution system, water is used to meet base demands. The operators of the system take great pride in producing high quality water for NS Mayport. For any questions related to the water production and distribution, or concerns about water quality, please contact the Naval Station Public Works Department, Water Commodity Manager, Lt.j.g. Baker at 904-270-3152.
