Machinist Mate 3rd Class Jo Karuso, who was born in Japan, repeats the oath of citizenship during a naturalization ceremony held at Windmill Beach April 19. The ceremony was the first-ever naturalization ceremony held at GTMO.

By Mass Communication Specialist 3rd Class Leona Mynes

One Naval Station Guantanamo (GTMO) Bay, Cuba Sailor and two Joint Task Force (JTF) Guantanamo Soldiers became U.S. citizens April 19 in GTMO's first-ever naturalization ceremony.

Navy Machinist's Mate 3rd Class Jo Kurosu, Army Sgt. Ardicio Galvao and Army Spc. Carlos Baptista took the oath of citizenship at Windmill Beach.

"It's a life accomplishment," said Kurosu, who is originally from Japan. "I started the process in 2008, but I had been thinking of doing it for the past six years."

Although Kurosu was born in Japan, his family traveled to several countries throughout his life, including Honduras, France, Africa and finally, the U.S. Kurosu joined the Navy in 2003.

"I made the States my home after moving around so much in my life," said Kurosu. "I thought the States would be the best place for me to settle down and start a family after I get out of the military."

When Kurosu's background check cleared, the Naval Legal Service Office (NLSO) Southeast helped to bring immigration officials to GTMO so that Kurosu could take the next steps in the process.

"To be able bring immigration officials directly to GTMO and complete the naturalization process is a great service to our troops," said Navy Capt. Karen Fisher-Anderson, the NLSO Southeast commanding officer. "Attaining citizenship is a dream come true for many of these Sailors and Soldiers."

Servicemembers at certain overseas locations, including GTMO, can now go through the citizenship process at those locations. Citizenship filing, interviewing, testing and administration of the oath of citizenship was expanded to overseas embassies and consulates, according to DOD Instruction 5500.14.

Members that have not resided in the U.S. can be naturalized if they have served during a time when the U.S. Armed Forces "are or were engaged in military operations involving armed conflict with a hostile foreign force," which applies to any alien servicemember who has served since 2001 when the Global War on Terror began.

For guidance becoming a U.S. citizen, call NLSO at 4962.

All BEQ residents required to attend meeting

From Naval Station Guantanamo Bay Public Affairs

All residents of building 2146, the bachelor's enlisted quarters, are required to attend one of two resident meetings April 26-27 at the community center in Marine Point.

The meeting April 26 is from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m. The April 27 meeting will be held from 10 to 11 a.m.

Julie Hall, the housing installation program manager, and Command Master Chief J.D. McKinney, will address complaints about loud music, failure to adhere to base housing policies, communication with building managers and general cleanliness.

Personnel who cannot attend the meetings should call 2400 to inform base housing management and will be rescheduled to attend the meeting at a later date.

For more information, call Hall at 5119.

SJA confirms unattended cigarette ignited Caribbean Circle house fire

From Naval Station Public Affairs

The Naval Station Staff Judge Advocate confirmed April 18 that a cigarette caused a Caribbean Circle house fire.

The fire was discovered by two Command Criminal Investigation Division (CCID) investigators April 8 while the home's residents were not home.

"It was started by an unattended cigarette, thought to have been properly extinguished," said Lt. Erin Baxter, the Naval Station Staff Judge Advocate of the Regional Legal Service Office (RLSO).

Confidence

The other night, I was standing on the baseball field prepared to catch the ball and make a play when it came into my mind: can I do this?

I have learned that one of the most important character traits to have for success in anything, whether it be sports, business, or the military, is confidence.

Although people try to obtain confidence by themselves, it requires sources beyond themselves such as God, parents, shipmates, officers and authorities to instill it in them.

As leaders, it is important to give those around you a sense of security and assurance about what is going on so that they too can lead with confidence. One way to do this is through teaching encouragement.

Tell people they are doing great things even in the smallest of actions, and they can dream of doing greater things.

On the ball field, I was encouraged by my teammates on the sidelines. When the play came my way, I scooped the ball and threw it home.

GTMO, SE region promote sexual assault awareness, prevention

From Naval Station Guantanamo Bay Public Affairs

Commander, Navy Region Southeast (CNRSE) Rear Adm. Tim Alexander signed a proclamation April 15 declaring April as Sexual Assault Awareness Month.

Bases in the southeast region, including Guantanamo (GTMO) Bay, are planning sexual assault awareness and prevention events through the Sexual Assault Prevention and Response (SAPR) program.

“This proclamation is a springboard for education and awareness,” Alexander said. “Effort from every individual is necessary to ensure safety and quality of life for our shipmates and in our communities. Sexual assault is an affront to mission readiness because it undermines the health and dignity of individuals; the well-being of the Navy is dependent upon the well-being of its people. I urge all personnel to reach out to victims, learn more about this crime, speak out against it, and intervene to prevent it.”

GTMO’s sexual assault response coordinator (SARC) Michele Linger said the base will see awareness events this month.

“[SAPR] has set up an informational booth at the Navy Exchange (NEX) atrium Friday nights from 7 to 9 p.m.,” said Linger. “We’re also planning a group walk which will be held the April 29.”

Commander, Navy Region Southeast Rear Adm. Tim Alexander signs a proclamation declaring April Sexual Assault Awareness Month within the southeast, while region staff members look on.

The naval station has approximately 35 sexual assault victim intervention (SAVI) advocates base-wide from the Naval Station and tenant commands, the U.S. Naval Hospital and Joint Task Force Guantanamo.

Their mission is to provide victims of sexual assault an opportunity to keep the assault unregistered. Another focus of SAVIs is to provide their commands with sexual assault prevention training.

“I want people to know how to seek assistance for themselves or a friend,” said Linger. “They also need to know how to promote sexual assault prevention.”

According to Commander, Navy Installations Command (CNIC), the Navy recorded approximately 600 reports of sexual assault in fiscal year 2009.

A sexual assault is an attack that can reverberate throughout a unit and beyond, degrading readiness by harming the life of the victim and the ability of a unit to work effectively as a team.

Alexander’s proclamation echoes the Department of Defense 2010 SAAM theme of “Hurts one. Affects all.”

The FFSC is scheduled to hold SAPR advocate training June 1-4 at the FFSC building no. 2135.

Victims of sexual assault in GTMO can call the SAPR hotline at 84578 or call Linger at 84577.

Sailors complete spring 2010 PFA

Story and photos MC3 Leona Mynes

Sailors attached to Naval Station Guantanamo (GTMO) Bay, Cuba completed the spring 2010 physical fitness assessment (PFA) April 19-23 at the Cooper Field complex.

Approximately 212 Sailors were expected to participate in the bi-annual PRT, which consisted of a sit-and-reach, curl-ups, push-ups and a cardiovascular exercise, such as a 1.5-mile run, 500-yard swim or 12 minutes on a certified elliptical, bike or treadmill machine.

“Sailors are required to stay in shape because they need to stay mission-ready and be able to perform their duties and not be fatigued,” said Yeoman 2nd Class Robert Sanders, a Naval Station assistant command fitness leader (ACFL).

To prepare for the PRT, command fitness leaders (CFL) coordinated physical training (PT) sessions Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays at the Cooper Field complex for Naval Station Sailors while also running the fitness enhancement program (FEP) Tuesdays and Thursdays.

“We usually do 10 to 15 minutes of warm-up exercises and then we’ll do a two to four mile run as a group,” said Sanders.

The command fitness program helps Naval Station personnel maintain peak physical fitness levels year-round.

Command PT is held at 7 a.m. Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays at Cooper Field.

Self Help essential to Naval Station mission, capabilities

By Chief Mass Communication Specialist (SW) Bill Mesta

Senior Chief Builder Anthony Williams and Utilitiesman 2nd Class German Garcia, assigned to Naval Facilities Engineering Command (NAVFAC), cut a board using a vertical power saw at the Public Works Department Self-Help workshop.

When an earthquake hit the small Caribbean country of Haiti Jan. 12, the Naval Station immediately became a logistical hub for relief efforts. Operation Unified Response stood up rapidly, and at times, units transiting through GTMO did not have the work space equipment needed to complete their missions.

That's where the Public Works Department's Self Help Workshop came in.

"There was a squadron on the Leeward side that was working on their equipment on the ground," said Utilitiesman 2nd Class German Garcia, Self Help's leading petty officer. "We provided over 50 tables and benches to help them with their work areas."

Aside from being crucial to supporting Haiti disaster relief efforts, PWD's Self Help workshop provides support to base-wide commands. The workshop, located on Sherman Avenue near the Base Communication Office, houses several different types of construction equipment—pipes, wood, paint and electrical parts—and furniture finishing products like glazes and stains. Servicemembers can build shelves, correct plumbing and paint their office spaces with Self Help's supervision.

"If [a command has] personnel with the knowledge to make these kinds of products, then we supervise them," said Garcia. "We make sure that they use eye and ear protection."

For Garcia, working at Self-Help has been a rewarding learning experience.

"The work we do here is more geared toward a Builder and is not really in my rate," said Garcia. "A Utilitiesman is somebody who works on equipment like boilers, heating, ventilating and air conditioning (HVAC), refrigeration, plumbing and drains and a little bit of electrical work. It has been like a whole new world."

For more information on how PWD's Self Help workshop can aid command projects, call extension 2627.

Cardio workout key to fighting high blood pressure

From the MWR Fitness Center

Nearly 70 million Americans have high blood pressure. This elevated pressure, termed hypertension, has been referred to as the "silent killer." While often symptom-less, it substantially increases the risk for potentially fatal outcomes such as heart attack, stroke, heart failure and kidney disease. Regular blood pressure checks are a simple and inexpensive way to identify hypertension. Still, up to 30 percent of affected people are unaware they have hypertension.

Hypertension can affect anyone, it is particularly prevalent among African Americans, middle-aged and elderly individuals, obese people, heavy drinkers, women taking oral contraceptives and people with diabetes.

Gauging Blood Pressure

Normal resting blood pressure is a pressure less than 120/80 mmHg. The first number, 120, represents the pressure against the artery walls when the heart contracts (systolic blood pressure). The second number, 80, is the pressure against the artery walls during the resting phase (between heart beats) and is termed diastolic blood pressure.

There is a direct relationship between blood pressure and cardiovascular disease risk. That is, the higher the blood pressure, the greater the risk. For this reason, high blood pressure is divided into several categories that help determine appropriate treatment. "Prehypertension" is defined as a systolic blood pressure reading of 120–139 mmHg and/or a diastolic blood pressure of 80–89 mmHg. Stage 1 hypertension is defined as a blood pressure of 140–159/90–99 mmHg as measured on at least two occasions. Stage 2 hypertension is a blood pressure >160/100 mmHg.

All individuals with elevated blood pressure benefit from adhering to the lifestyle modification recommendations advocated in the accompanying table.

Exercise with hypertension

A regular cardiovascular exercise program can help prevent hypertension and lead to substantial declines in systolic blood pressure.

For maximal benefit, it is recommended that individuals engage in moderate-intensity exercise (40–60 percent of V•O₂max) for at least 30 minutes on most, preferably all, days of the week. Walking, swimming, cycling and low-impact aerobics are excellent options.

As your aerobic conditioning improves, add a circuit-training program that emphasizes low-resistance, high-repetition exercises.

New exercisers should ease into an exercise program by starting slow and developing a consistent routine before gradually increasing exercise frequency, intensity or duration.

Importantly, if you have hypertension, consult your physician before beginning an exercise program. This is especially critical for those who take blood pressure medications, which can alter the heart-rate response to exercise. And if you would like a little bit of extra help translating exercise recommendations into a safe, effective and fun exercise program, go to www.acefitness.org/profreg/ to find an ACE-certified Personal Trainer or Advanced Health & Fitness Specialist near you.

Cinema Scope: FROM PARIS WITH LOVE

Rated R

Directed by Pierre Morel

Starring John Travolta, Jonathan Rhys Meyers, Kasia Smutniak

By Robert Sanders

Ah, sweet Paris. Throw love into the mix and you have the makings of a beautiful romance tale. This, however, is NOT by any means a 'love story'. James Reece (Jonathan Rhys Meyers) plays secretary to the U.S. ambassador in Paris, secretly working as an undercover agent ... for whom, we don't know.

He is desperately trying to become a higher rank amongst his secret buddies, and finally gets the chance when Wax (John Travolta) comes to town. Reece is a by-the-books law abiding citizen and Wax is, well, not.

Struggling to control Wax's destructive, vulgar and generally American behavior, Reece reluctantly accompanies him on his escapades and throughout is tested mentally, emotionally and physically by his more eccentric counterpart.

To really drive in the nail, the story quickly turns focus to the aggressive and unrestrained violence forced upon our suspected terrorists by Agent Wax.

In the end, you feel you have witnessed the coming of age for Reece, who loses everything, yet gains so much more.

In a fashion similar to John McClane, Travolta brings both action-packed violence and very crass comedy to the table, keeping the audience both laughing and awe-struck with pure adrenaline. Though the title may feign a love story, "FROM PARIS WITH LOVE" is nothing less than classic American hardcore action. Strongly recommended and deserving 4 out of 5.
