Members of Naval Station Guantanamo Bay, Cuba's chiefs' mess and first class petty officers' mess conducted a training session geared towards preparing the first class petty officers for advancement, Oct. 27.

The training session was held in support of the Master Chief Petty Officer of the Navy's (MCPON) CPO-365 program which is designed to prepare 1st class petty officers for the transition to chief petty officer.

"The basic idea behind CPO 365 is to get the first class petty officer mess ready to advance to Chief," said Navy Counselor First Class Abigail Greenleaf, of the naval station's Command Career Counselor's office. "The Initial phase is to identify all the first classes and begin the training process."

CPO 365 is a three phased program which culminates with the chief petty officer induction season.

"The training session was part of one of the CPO 365 program and included the NS Guantanamo Bay Command Master Chief's expectations of prospective chief petty officers because all of our first class petty officers are gear towards advancing to the chief petty officer ranks," Chief Navy Counselor Robert Pagtakhan, the naval station's CPO 365 coordinator.

The training sessions are held monthly at the naval station.

"CPO-365 is a combination of training, networking and events that are designed to unite the first class petty officers and the chief petty officers," said Pagtakhan. "We are striving to create an environment that transi-

Photocopying of Military ID Cards Prohibited

MC1(SW/AW) Monique K. Hilley

Commander, Navy Installations Command Public Affairs

Commander, Navy Installations Command issued an announcement reminding all personnel that the photocopying of military identification cards and common access cards (CAC) is strictly prohibited, Nov. 1.

There have been recent incidents reported of commercial establishments photocopying U.S. government identification to verify military affiliation or provide government rates for service. These incidents are a violation of Title 18, U.S. Code, Part I, Chapter 33, Section 701 and are punishable by fine and/or imprisonment.

Although commercial establishments may request to see military/government identification, they may not photocopy or duplicate it in any way. Many military personnel and commercial establishments are unaware of the prohibition and the reasons it exists, which results in this being a fairly common practice.

Because of the access the cards grant, criminal elements and terrorist organizations place obtaining U.S. government identifications at a premium when planning acts against the U.S. military. If a copied military or government identification fell into the wrong hands, it could spell disaster for the Armed Forces and the nation.

Unfortunately, there are no safeguards in place to prevent a counterfeit military/government identification card from being produced based on a photocopy provided to a commercial establishment. For this reason, personnel are requested to remain vigilant in ensuring they do not allow anyone to photocopy their identification cards.

CNIC recommends that all personnel, both military and civilian, provide a state drivers license or other form of photo identification to be photocopied when there is a request for such information by a commercial establishment.

The U.S. Girl Scouts of Naval Station (NS) Guantanamo Bay, Cuba celebrated the birth of Girl Scouts founder, Juliette Gordon Low (Oct. 31, 1860) at W.T. Sampson elementary, Oct. 27.

The event was held to welcome new girls to the scouts, and returning scouts back to the organization, while honoring the historic birthday.

"Joining girl scouts is fun and exciting," said Overseas Committee Chair Francesca Dietz. "This event was a time of celebration, and welcoming new members to the Girl Scout family."

Thirty-three girls ranging from kindergarten to high school seniors are currently enrolled in NS Guantanamo Bay's Girl Scout chapter.

"Our program helps teach young women about themselves and life skills they can use in the future," said Dietz. "It helps to make them into independent adults by teaching financial and leadership skills. It helps to build self-esteem and to be a good citizen."

SAFETY DID-YA-KNOW

The Department of Defense has required the use of seatbelts while driving or as a passenger since the 1980's. OPNAVINST 5100.12H states "Individuals must be aware of their personal responsibility in the Navy's Traffic Safety Program". The national average for seatbelt use is 82% according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA). Statistics show up to 74% of traffic fatalities occur at less than 25 MPH and less than 45 miles from home.

Guantanamo Bay's NDACC To Analyze Abusive Trends

MC2(SW/AW) Justin Alles

Gazette Editor

Naval Station (NS) Guantanamo Bay department heads met Nov. 4 to discuss goals and expectations during an organizational meeting of the naval station's Navy Drug and Alcohol Advisory Committee (NDAAC).

NDAAC is responsible for analyzing alcohol usage trends at the installation and making policy recommendations to the commanding officer based on their findings.

"Drug and alcohol abuse is an issue on every base," said NS Guantanamo Bay Substance Abuse Rehabilitation Program (SARP) counselor Chief Aviation Electronics Technician Matthew Murcin. "One of the main things the council is concerned with is identifying issues that may be happening at GTMO that we can control, and provide positive feedback."

NDAAC will meet quarterly to discuss any alcohol related incidents, alcohol and drug related statistical data, and what can be done to correct substance abuse issues on base.

"The message we are trying to promote is the responsible use of alcohol and deglamorizing abusive behavior related with alcohol consumption," said Murcin. "The ultimate goal as Navy leadership is to ensure our Sailors safety, promote responsible alcohol use, and have a positive effect towards any issues service members may have."

NDAAC includes representatives from NS Guantanamo Bay's Morale, Welfare and Recreation (MWR), Security, Naval Criminal Investigative Service (NCIS), Command Chaplain, SARP, and Drug and Alcohol Program Advisor (DAPA) departments.

W.T. Sampson Schools Host Red Ribbon Week

MC2(SW/AW) Justin Alles

Gazette Editor

The W.T. Sampson Elementary and High schools at Naval Station (NS) Guantanamo Bay, Cuba participated in Red Ribbon Week, Oct. 24-28.

Red Ribbon Week is an annual observance which offers activities designed for children that promote prevention and awareness on the dangers of drug and alcohol abuse.

"Raising student, faculty, and family awareness to help combat alcohol, drug, and tobacco abuse is a worthwhile endeavor," said W.T. Sampson High School teacher Patricia Clark. "Many of our students expressed their appreciation for the knowledge they acquired during red ribbon week and enjoyed the competitive activities which motivated them to learn more.

Red Ribbon Week is a national observance in memory of Enrique Camarena, a Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA) agent and former Marine, who gave his life fighting the battle against illegal drugs.

"Our teachers were actively involved in the weeklong activities and expressed their appreciation for heightened student involvement," said Clark.

The Department of Defense (DoD) has officially participated in Red Ribbon Week since 1990, with the aim to reduce drug abuse among its members and their families.

"Red Ribbon Week presents a critical opportunity for parents, educators, and communities to fight the constant battle against drugs by talking with children about real issues regarding drug use and abuse," said W.T. Sampson Principal Sonja Rodriguez.

Chaplain's Corner

Pizza Hut in Atlanta recently had a promotion for its spaghetti lunch menu. The company put up billboards all over town. One set of billboards featured a giant forkful of its $1.29 spaghetti special.

Then a woman saw God's face in the spaghetti. She told her story to the newspaper. Driving along, she was lost in thought over whether she should leave her church choir and become a professional singer. So she asked God for a sign. Well, as she toiled along the Atlanta thoroughfare, she saw the Michelangelo version of Jesus in the spaghetti photo on the billboard—the crown of thorns, deep set eyes, the nose, the dripping blood, everything.

Needless to say, the woman is still a member of the church choir. Now her fellow Atlantans, of course, have begun studying the other Pizza Hut billboards for "signs". Some have indeed seen various representations of God. Others have seen Willie Nelson, Tanya Harding, and Bill Clinton.

Some look at the sign and are amazed to see the face of God. Others look at the sign and are amazed that Pizza Hut sells spaghetti.

THE FACE OF GOD IN THE SPAGHETTI

Haven't you noticed how some people can be so obsessed looking for God where he isn't that they fail to see him where he is? Many have become so jaded and cynical when it comes to matters of faith that they never realize the presence of God in their very midst. Square in the middle of life's daily storms and tribulations God is present in the love and support of friends and family and even complete strangers. But so often our search for the spectacular blinds us to this historically common and simple style.

You and I are his instruments of choice when it comes to displaying his power and influence in the day to day struggle. If we would only be more open to him and be done with our excuses about not being worthy enough or special enough—Who is?—there could be no end to the good we could do, no end to who we could become, no end to the influence we could have, in his name. And no one would be looking for a sign in the spaghetti.

GTMO Conducts Mass Casualty Training Exercise

MC2(SW/AW) Justin Ailes

Naval Station (NS) Guantanamo Bay, Cuba's Installation Training Team conducted a 'mass casualty' training exercise, at the Leeward Air terminal and Northeast Gate, Nov. 3.

The training scenario was held as part of NS Guantanamo Bay's annual training and exercise plans, which evaluate the base's readiness and ability to perform mission essential tasks during a crisis.

"This is an ongoing process, providing a chance for multiple departments and commands to interface and coordinate their efforts," said Installation Training Officer Kevin Robarge. "Continuous training and evaluations are a part of all branches of the military and part of our first responder's everyday life."

tion into the chief petty officer induction season, once the selection results are released in August.”

In addition to monthly training sessions, physical fitness sessions, social events and combined sporting events are held at the naval station.

“The second phase of CPO 365 will begin once the Navy-wide advancement exam results come out,” said Greenleaf. “Those first class petty officers who are determined to be ‘board eligible’ will continue on in the program during this phase with more preparation to get them ready should we be selected as chiefs.

“This program is providing insight for first class petty officers in terms of knowledge and expectations when we advance to chief,” said Greenleaf. “The chiefs are able to identify issues with first class petty officers early and get them steered in the right direction towards advancement.”

The CPO 365 also gives the first class petty officers an opportunity to build networking skills.

“By getting to know the chiefs better, we learn who we should turn to for information about different situations we encounter as first class petty officers,” said Greenleaf. “Coming up through the Navy, we really aren’t taught networking, but the chief’s mess runs off of networking so this skill is going to be very helpful.”

The training session included a brief about the ‘Perform to Serve’ (PTS) program which was presented by Greenleaf.

“We provided an overview of what PTS is, how the system works and broke down the different items that are taken into consideration to determine a sailor’s future retention,” said Greenleaf. “This information was important for this audience because as chiefs and first class petty officers, we are guiding our sailors’ careers and need to understand the programs, and how those programs may affect them.”

Affairs, Base Operations, Port Operations, and Security, were evaluated while conducting emergency response operations.

“Without testing our capabilities we will never know how well we are able to perform our mission,” said Robarge.

The mock training exercise featured a small plane, in-flight emergency and crash landing, and a Humvee rollover accident. Both scenes involved simulated injuries requiring varying levels of care.

“The information gathered from this exercise will be used to look at how we perform during an emergency, how our instructions and standard operating procedures (SOP) are written, and what changes can be made to improve them,” said Robarge. “Overall, the training provided those involved with an opportunity to do a detailed evaluation of their personnel and planned responses, ensuring the best possible outcome while improving installation readiness.”
