GTMO Security Department Conducts ASF Training

MC2(SW/AW) Justin Alles

Gazette Editor

The Security Department at Naval Station (NS) Guantanamo Bay, Cuba conducted Auxiliary Security Force (ASF) Oleoresin Capsicum (OC) spray training, Nov. 18.

The certification course was held in coordination with the Security Training Division to qualify ASF academy students to carry and use OC spray during their scope of duties as ASF members.

"After a student is certified, he or she is able to effectively utilize this non-lethal but effective weapon," said Security Training Leading Chief Petty Officer Chief Master at Arms Eduardo Perez. "Students have a better understanding of how it affects the person they would potentially spray."

OC spray (pepper spray) causes dilation of the capillaries, instant pain and swelling of the eyelids. OC spray may also cause severe twitching or spasmadic contraction of the eyelids to involuntary closing of the eyes.

"ASF is strictly an augmentation of personnel from NS Guantanamo Bay and tenant commands as directed by Commander Navy Installations Command (CNIC)," said Perez. "This training provides situational awareness. Community personnel should understand the training and certifications their law enforcement personnel go through."

Students were required to complete a five station course, which tested their ability to properly defend themselves and others in the case of cross fire contamination during an actual suspect incident.

"The three week course began Nov. 7, will break for Thanksgiving, and conclude with a graduation ceremony, Dec. 2," said Perez. "The ASF program has been dormant onboard NS Guantanamo Bay for quite some time. Many thanks to all departments and tenant commands for making it take flight again."

GBSC Presents Annual Tour of Homes

MC2(SW/AW) Justin Ailes

Gazette Editor

The Guantanamo Bay Spouses Club (GBSC) at Naval Station (NS) Guantanamo Bay, Cuba is hosting the annual Tour of Homes, Dec. 17th.

The Tour of Homes invites members of the community to decorate their homes for the holidays, and allows base residents the opportunity to view their decorations.

"This event is open to the entire GTMO community and is presented to help the residents get into the holiday spirit," said GBSC Marketing Committee Chairperson Julie Latrell. "We would like to invite the entire community to celebrate the holidays with us, show off your cherished ornaments or join a group of sightseers for a night filled with beautiful embellishments and merriment."

In order to participate in the group tour, residents must purchase a ticket from the GBSC prior to the event. Tickets will be on sale in the Navy Exchange atrium between 9 a.m. and noon Dec. 3, 4, 10, and 11. Tickets will be sold for $10 per adult, and children accompanied by an adult are free. To sign up, email mmaac724@yahoo.com.

MWR To Host Holiday Parade/Concert

MC2(SW/AW) Justin Ailes

Gazette Editor

The Morale, Welfare and Recreation (MWR) at Naval Station (NS) Guantanamo Bay, Cuba will host a holiday parade and concert, Dec. 3.

MWR is presenting the event in an effort to provide a taste of home for the community during the holiday season.

"The Parade will start at 6 p.m., beginning at Satellite Communication Systems, Inc. (SCSI) and finish at the Downtown Lyceum," said NS Guantanamo Bay MWR Director Tara Culbertson. "The concert will start at 9 p.m. at the Downtown Lyceum, featuring the Country music group Emerson Drive."

The holiday parade will feature decorated floats, vehicles and bikes with Emerson Drive leading the route as Grand Marshalls.

"We want the residents to feel a sense of community, participate in the festivities and be entertained," said Culbertson. "We understand that not everyone has a chance to go home for the holidays, and the parade and concert help kick off the season by providing a fun and enjoyable way to spend your time."

The Holiday parade is an annual event that showcases the community's holiday spirit and allows residents the opportunity to be creative with their float designs, Culbertson said.

"Santa will be in his sleigh during the parade and will be available to talk to children and take pictures," said Culbertson. "MWR's Child and Youth Programs (CYP) will have crafts and games set up after the parade, and MWR's Food and Beverage department will have special holiday goodies for the kids."

Base residents can participate in the parade by registering with MWR's administration at building 760, or through MWR's Facebook site, before Nov. 28.

"Anyone can participate in the parade; it's open to all hands and we encourage anyone thinking about registering a float to do so," said Culbertson. "The more participation we have from the community, the better."

Enlisted Retention Board/PTS Programs Impact Sailors

MC2(SW/AW) Justin Ailes

Gazette Editor

The results for the Enlisted Retention Board (ERB), designed to assist with Navy manpower, were released Nov. 14.

The board is designed to look at Sailors in 31 different ratings who were at or above 103 percent manning, not being reviewed by either Perform to Serve (PTS) or the Enlisted Continuation board.

"The sailors up for review were E4 - E8 personnel who had at least seven years, but less than 15 years time in service as of Oct. 1," said Naval Station (NS) Guantanamo Bay Navy Counselor Abigail Greenleaf. "PTS was designed to keep the right sailors in the Navy and place them in rates where their talents are needed. ERB was designed to help relieve the pressure placed on PTS to "right size" the Navy in a short amount of time. In other words, the Navy is trying to build a more effective force."

Sailors facing separation through these programs may face short notice unemployment, loss of health care, and loss of housing, said Greenleaf.

"If you are within one year of your End of Active Obligated Service (EAOS) and being reviewed by PTS, you should already be preparing for a worst case scenario," said Greenleaf. "For PTS Sailors, the smoothest way to transition is to prepare for both reenlistment and separation."

The Navy provides basic benefits for transitioning Sailors such as Transition Assistance workshops, Veterans Affairs benefits, Navy Reserve affiliation, and Involuntary Separation Pay.

"Any Sailor transitioning from the Navy for these programs should review NAVADMIN 332/11, talk to their command career counselor, Fleet and Family Support Center, Navy College office, Personnel Support Detachment, and Housing office representative," said Greenleaf.

Sailors facing separation should inform their respective chain of command and speak with their command career counselor for further guidance to begin the separation process.

"Sailors who are not retained on active duty are highly encouraged to join the Selected Naval Reserves," said Greenleaf.

Thanksgiving Day Safety Tips

Naval Station Guantanamo Bay Safety Office

From now until New Year's Day there are all sorts of things to celebrate. During these celebrations we must remember, food, decorations, driving and alcohol all present dangers; particularly to young children. A few common-sense precautions can help keep your Thanksgiving and other holidays safe and happy.

•Best Way to Thaw a Frozen Turkey:

The easiest and safest way to thaw a turkey is to place the wrapped bird on a tray in the refrigerator. Plan about 24 hours for each 5 pounds of the bird's weight. Remember not to count the day you will be roasting it. Turkeys should never be thawed at room temperature.

•When in Your Kitchen:

Always wash your hands in hot, soapy water, scrubbing for 10-15 seconds before and after handling raw meat, poultry, seafood, or eggs. Wash fresh vegetables and fruits thoroughly.

Cook all meat and poultry - or casseroles that contain meat or poultry - at a minimum oven temperature of 325°F.

Thaw frozen food in the refrigerator or in the microwave, not at room temperature. Food defrosted in the microwave should be cooked immediately.

•Thawing Frozen Food:

Thaw frozen food in the refrigerator or in the microwave, not at room temperature. Food defrosted in the microwave should be cooked immediately after thawing.

To keep bacteria from growing, put your sponge or scouring pad in the dishwasher every time you run it.

Frequently launder dish cloths and sponges.

To disinfect, use liquid household bleach or a disinfectant (antibacterial) kitchen cleaner. Read and follow label directions.

•Stuffing the Turkey the Night Before Roasting:

It is unsafe to stuff the turkey ahead of time. The chilled stuffing in the turkey will not reach a safe temperature before the turkey is done. If the stuffing is to be baked in a casserole, it can be prepared in advance and chilled. The baking time will need to be increased by about 15 to 20 minutes.

•Deep Frying a Turkey:

This method produces a perfectly safe bird, but the method itself can be dangerous. If you do choose to deep fry your turkey, make sure the container is large enough, and that the frying is done outside away from flammable materials (that includes your house and deck!). Keep kids and pets away and make sure the oil cools down in a safe place before disposing.

Bike-O-Rama Promotes Cyclist Safety

MC2(SW/AW) Justin Ailes

Gazette Editor

The American Red Cross Organization and Morale, Welfare and Recreation (MWR) at Naval Station (NS) Guantanamo Bay sponsored "Bike-O-Rama" at the Downtown Lyceum, Nov. 19.

The event was held to promote safe biking habits on base, and provide a fitness experience for the community.

"We've had a lot of near-misses when it comes to bike safety," said American Red Cross volunteer Jane Merkel. "This event is about us taking the lead to educate cyclists on bike safety, and prevent any avoidable mishaps."

The Bike-O-Rama featured volunteer-manned 'safety stations,' ensuring bicycles met safety criteria.

"We're checking to make sure the seat is adjusted correctly, the brakes are working well and the chain is properly oiled," said Merkel. "We're providing assistance and offering pointers on safe biking and how to stay safe on the road. We've got the tools, the equipment and the mechanics to make this event good to go."

Cyclists participated in either a 12-mile ride to Windmill Beach, or a secondary, family-oriented one-mile trail ride around the Navy Exchange.

"I think it's so important to be seen when bike riding," said Merkel. "Ensuring cyclists wear proper reflective gear and pay attention to the rules of the road is what we are encouraging during Bike-O-Rama."

Safety Department Advises Fluorescent Light Bulb Caution

MC2(SW/AW) Justin Ailes

Gazette Editor

The Safety Department at Naval Station (NS) Guantanamo Bay, Cuba is advising community members on the potential dangers of fluorescent light bulbs.

Fluorescent light bulbs contain a small amount of the toxic chemical mercury, sealed within the glass tubing. When a fluorescent bulb breaks, some of this mercury is released as a vapor. The broken bulb can continue to release mercury vapor until it is cleaned and removed from the residence.

"Don't panic if you break a bulb," said NS Guantanamo Bay Safety Manager Joe Perfetto. "Clean it up using the recommended procedures and bring the contents to hazmat."

To minimize exposure to mercury vapor, the EPA recommends that residents follow the cleanup and disposal steps described.

"If the bulbs are intact they are safe," said Perfetto. "If they burn out and are intact, bring them to hazmat for disposal."

1. Before cleanup

- Have people and pets leave the room.
- Air out the room for 5-10 minutes by opening a window or door to the outdoor environment.
- Shut off the central forced air heating/air conditioning system, if you have one.
- Collect materials needed to clean up broken bulb.

2. During cleanup

- Be thorough in collecting broken glass and visible powder.
- Place cleanup materials in a sealable container.

3. After cleanup

- Promptly place all bulb debris and cleanup materials outdoors in a trash container or protected area until materials can be disposed of properly.
- Avoid leaving any bulb fragments or cleanup materials indoors.
- Continue to air out the room where the bulb was broken and leave the heating/air conditioning system off for several hours.

Effective Monday, Nov. 28, due to renovations of the quarterdeck and the command suite at U.S. Naval Hospital Guantanamo Bay, the new entrance to the hospital will be located on the east side of the building next to the Emergency Room entrance. Signs will be posted to direct patients to the new entrance.

Reel Rock Film Tour Entertains Climbing Enthusiasts

MC2(SW/AW) Justin Ailes

Gazette Editor

The Morale, Welfare and Recreation (MWR) at Naval Station (NS) Guantanamo Bay hosted the "Reel Rock Film Tour and Climbing Competition" at the Downtown Lyceum, Nov. 19.

The competition was held to entertain rock climbers with a climbing based movie, as well as utilize MWR's rock wall.

"Participants are scaling the rock wall during a time-based competition," said MWR Outdoor Recreation Director Tim Baugh. "The top 10 finalist will then compete for 1st, 2nd, and 3rd place."

After the competition, a film was shown documenting professional climbers scaling numerous sites around the world.

"This event was something different and amusing for the community," said Baugh. "We are providing residents with something unique and entertaining."
