Griffiths Will Urge Improvement

IN COLONIAL LIFE

Barbados Advocate Correspondent

The visit to Barbados by Mr. Griffiths, the British Foreign Secretary, has been described as a "jubilation" of the Latin American countries. The visit is expected to strengthen the ties between the two countries.

Oh, the poor, poor old man! It was a false cry of distress, and we knew that he was not ill. He was just looking for sympathy that he could not get from the people around him.

The President's message was read to the Senate at a meeting of the Senate in Washington on Wednesday night.

On a bright day last week, the President went to the White House and said:

"I believe that we must act now to prevent the spread of communism and to save the United States from disaster.

"The time has come for the United States to take action."

But he adds:

"I am not proposing to go to war. I am proposing to use every means at our disposal to prevent the spread of communism and to save the United States from disaster."
