Governing Two Countries

BIL. ATTLEVILLE'S Callisto Government, the only one in the world to have been run by Mr. J. H. M. Alling and the only one in the world to be the first to experiment with a two-party system, has now been averted by Mr. H. J. M. Alling. The two parties are Crops and the controlling of many farmers.

As far as 28 Colonists are concerned, the party system is on the decline. The parties were on a tradition begun by Lord红茶, who, as Lord红茶, was in charge of the colonies. This party system has been due to the fact that the government would find it impossible to get a man in charge of the colonies who would not be influenced by the party system.

The appointment of a British Secretary of State to fill the post of Secretary of State in the colonies has meant the injection of a new political life into the Colonies, as a man who has not been influenced by the party system.

The British Secretary of State has little political significance.

An Elizabethan Sea-Dog

By Ian Gale

HAWKINS OF FYLDETON is the tracking of England's earliest sea-dog, Francis Drake. Hawkins was born in 1570, the son of a sea-captain. He was at sea by the age of ten, and before he was twenty, he had sailed around the world. In 1595, he became the master of the famed "Havock," which he later sold to the Dutch. In 1597, he captured the Spanish Armada and became a national hero. In his later years, he turned to politics and became a prominent leader in English affairs. Hawkins is remembered for his adventurous spirit and his contribution to the development of England's maritime power. Hawkins is also known for his support of the arts, and his patronage of artists and writers.
