Oxford Boat Sinks in In-Inter-Varsity Race

UMPIRE DECIDES "NO RACE"

Will Be Re-rowed Tomorrow

LONDON, March 14.

THE 1951 Inter-Varsity Boat race will be re-rowed tomorrow on Monday, today's content having been declared "no race" after the Cambridge crew had sunk shortly after the starting in the rough weather.

Cambridge who had the misfortune to draw the worse fortune of the two crews, especially as they had bought, when the craft of their rivals sank. They had been unprepared exactly one mile of the regular course from Putney to Mortlake. Oxford had covered barely half a mile.

One boat sank 10 minutes after the starting and the other three minutes later. The Cambridge crew were reportedly unprepared for the rough conditions and were caught completely off guard when the two other boats went ahead.

Bad Conditions

Cambridge, on the other hand, had the misfortune to draw the worse fortune, and were unprepared for the rough conditions. The river was rough at the start, and when the Cambridge boat began to sink, it was too late to save them. The Cambridge crew were reported to be unprepared for the rough conditions.

The referee, Mr. A. E. G. Sharman, was reported to have declared "no race" when he saw that the Cambridge boat was sinking. The Oxford boat was also reported to have been unprepared for the rough conditions, and was caught completely off guard when the two other boats went ahead.
