PARIS Shows How To Have A Night out— in that Little Day Dress from LONDON

BY ANNE EDWARDS

What happens in the city of Tours of France? It happens in the city of Tours, France. This week, I was invited to a dinner at the French Embassy in London, a dinner that was hosted by the French government for the benefit of the British public. The event was a celebration of the bicentenary of the French Revolution, and it was a wonderful evening. The food was exquisite, and the company was delightful. It was a night to remember.

In the meantime, I have been busy preparing for my next assignment. I am currently working on a book about the history of the French Revolution, and I am looking forward to sharing my findings with the world. I am sure that the book will be a huge success, and I am already planning my next project.

In the meantime, I am enjoying my time in London. I am spending my days exploring the city and my evenings attending events like the one I described above. I am having a wonderful time, and I am looking forward to seeing what the future holds.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1911

SUNDAY-ADVOCATE PAGE THIRTEEN