Sheriff: Woman, 33 choked, struck boy, 6

Raiza Ana Marie Bonet

Bonet faces one charge of domestic abuse of a child

JEFF BRYAN
Riverland News

A 33-year-old mother of two was jailed on charges of alleged child abuse July 14, a Marion County Sheriff's Office arrest report stated.

According to the report, Raiza Ana Marie Bonet was charged with domestic abuse of a child without great bodily harm after authorities received a 911 call claiming Bonet had been violent with a 6-year-old male victim. The caller told authorities that prior to the latest incident, Bonet had asked the victim if he wanted to be removed from the house they were residing at. The victim told her no at which time Bonet took the youth to the bedroom and closed the door. The report stated the caller told authorities she heard a commotion coming from the room and was able to peer through a gap formed by a pair of French doors. The witness told law enforcement officials she could see the victim being held face down on the bed by Bonet, who had her hand wrapped around the back of the

WHAT'S HAPPENING

Qualifying dates set for candidates

The qualifying period for those interested in seeking a seat on the Dunnellon City Council will be from noon Aug. 18 to noon Aug. 22. Candidates must pay a $63 qualifying fee.

Those interested in seeking election to a seat may pick up a packet beginning Aug. 4 at City Hall.

Three seats will be up for grabs, including Seat No. 2 (Dennis Evans); Seat No. 3 (Lynne McAndrew); and Seat No. 4 (Erik Collop). The qualifying period opens at noon Aug. 18 and ends at noon Aug. 22. The general election will be Tuesday, Nov. 4. All three seats carry a four-year term.

DBA meet-and-greet mixer tonight

The Dunnellon Business Association (DBA), in conjunction with the Ocala/Marion Chamber & Economic Partnership (CEP), will host a membership drive as well as a meet-and-greet from 5 to 8 p.m. today at Gruff's Tap and Grill at 12084 S. Williams St. This event is free and attendees will be provided with light appetizers and refreshments. This will be an opportunity to meet both DBA members and its executive board along with the CEP team. There will be membership and benefits information shared from both groups.

For information, send an email to info@dunnellonbusinessassociation.com.

Hot Summer Nights scheduled Aug. 16

The Historic Shops of Dunnellon will host Hot Summer Nights from 6 to 9 p.m. Saturday, Aug. 16, in the Historic District.

There will be live music by The Dane Myers Band and Tropic Haze as well as a classic car show. In addition, there will be food vendors and two beer gardens.

Admission is free. For information, call 489-0999 or visit www.DunnellonHistoricVillage.com.

Lori Frazee prepares her ribs for cooking with a wide assortment of seasonings. Frazee, a local pit master, will be featured on the Travel Channel's latest show, "American Grilled", at 9 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 6. She competes against three other contestants for the chance to win a $10,000 cash prize at the event, which was filmed in Pensacola.

Frazee, local pit master, doesn't take grilling lightly

STORY BY JEFF BRYAN • RIVERLAND NEWS

In her early 50s, Lori Frazee underwent another personal self-reincarnation.

Now 55, she's smoking more than ever despite some early criticism from a select few who only snickered and sneered.

So what exactly prompted Frazee to enter — what many consider a man's world — of competitive grilling and barbecue competitions to become a certified pit master?

For starters, and no we're not talking appetizers, Frazee was no stranger to competitive cooking. Though, she admitted, most of her experience stemmed from

Tax-free holiday kicks off Friday

Back-to-school bargains take aim at parents

Special to the Riverland News

Florida's Back-to-School Sales Tax Holiday is bigger and better this year, and the Florida Retail Federation is working to educate consumers about some important changes in tax-exempt items.

The Sales Tax Holiday is this coming weekend, Friday through Sunday.

This year, the sales tax exemption for clothing items has been increased to $100 or less per item (up from $75 or less per item in 2013). In addition, the sales tax exemption for personal computers and certain computer-related accessories will be on the first $750 of the sales price. Retailers say that will expand the list of tax-exempt items, and they expect an average increase of at least 30 percent in store traffic over the weekend because of the sales tax holiday.

FRF President and CEO Rick McAllister said that Florida's strong job numbers are a good predictor of continuing growth in retail sales. Florida created 36,900 private-sector jobs in June 2014, and the statewide unemployment rate for June 2014 is 6.2 percent, down 1.2 percentage points from the June 2013 rate of 7.4 percent.

"Retailers are reporting a strong trend of sales growth of between 4 percent and 5 percent statewide, and we expect spending to remain strong through the crucial month of August," McAllister said. "Florida's economy is humming along at a nice pace, and we are very pleased to see consumer spending warming up. Consumer spending is at least 70 percent of the economy, so when retailers are doing well it usually

Prinz pursuing broadcasting career at UF

JEFF BRYAN
Riverland News

Danielle Prinz wasn't sure where her future lay when she enrolled at the University of Florida a year ago, but the picture is much clearer now.

Initially, the 2013

Dunnellon High graduate was leaning toward potential careers in either the math or science fields. "Both offered good job opportunities," she explained.

But Prinz wanted more. She wanted a career in a field that was most enjoyable for her. "And that was my seventh- and eighth-grade years," Prinz said. "That was the best for me."

Then, the former Queen of the Rainbow was heavily involved in

COMMUNITY BRIEFS

History sessions on tap at depot

The Greater Dunnellon Historical Society will open its doors from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Tuesdays at the Historic Train Depot and Museum.

"Boomtown" Sam Scott, a volunteer, will be on hand to educate, listen and share Dunnellon's rich history. Scott is carrying on the tradition of the charming Gloria Williams who is taking a break from her weekly visits.

Scott will provide an overview of boomtown years of Dunnellon, the history of trains and carpenters, unimaginable fish and game and logging and more.

The Historic Train Depot is at 12061 S. Williams St., Dunnellon.

For information, contact Scott at 229-1030 or email BoomtownSam@gmail.com.

Friends of the Library seek volunteers

The Friends of the Dunnellon Public Library, formed more than 50 years ago, is in need of volunteers. The Friends' mission is to provide the library with financial support for library books, materials, equipment and programs not provided by the county.

Proceeds from our book sales, membership dues and donations provide supplemental funding to the library for new books, reading materials, DVDs, programs, special speakers, landscaping and equipment.

For information, call Barbara Caban, president, at 465-0705 between 11 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

BMAP meeting slated Aug. 13

The Rainbow Springs Stakeholders Basin Management Action

Plan meeting will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 13, at the Dunnellon Public Library. This meeting will introduce the draft BMAP document.

AARP Driver Safety Class scheduled

An AARP Driver Safety Program for those 50 and older which, with certain exceptions, qualifies graduates for a discount on their automobile insurance, will be given over two days, three hours each day. Cost is $20 per person for all materials, except pen or pencil. However, if you are an AARP member, the cost is $15. Bring your AARP card with you.

This course will be at 1 p.m. Aug. 21 to 22 at the Rainbow Lakes Estates Clubhouse, 4000 SW Deepwater Court. Payment for the class is due the first day.

For information or to register, call 465-6359.

Volunteers sought for UW workshops

United Way of Marion County is looking for volunteers who are interested in being facilitators for personal financial workshops. Money Smart Train-the-Trainer workshops will provide practical experience in training delivery, coaching, assessing, and giving/receiving feedback.

Additionally, all future trainers will receive an instructor's manual and materials. Facilitators will present to businesses and organizations who are interested in hosting classes for their employees or clients or members at their facility. Training will take place from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. today at the United Way of Marion County at 1401 NE Second St, Ocala. Lunch will be provided.

For information or to register, contact Marsha Holloway at 732-9696, ext. 215, or mholloway@uwmc.org.

Dunnellon Middle School's TV Production program, conducting interviews, writing and editing stories before putting the final touches on her efforts.

Though she considered attending West Port High School and enrolling in its TV Production program, she opted to attend Dunnellon High. During her time there, she was her class's co-vice president, a member of student government and the National Honor Society.

"I was very focused on academics, into dance, so I really kind of forgot about (TV production), I guess," she said. "That was something I totally missed out on (in high school)."

So when it came down to deciding upon a future, it was her boyfriend, Gage Honeysette, who pointed out her love for public speaking, talking to people. Finally, he asked why Prinz hadn't chosen a field allowing her to utilize those talents.

"I thought, that's a really good idea, I would love to go back to what I did in middle school," she said, noting the conversation occurred early in her first weeks at Florida last summer. "Then I thought, 'Oh my gosh, communications, production.' Florida has a great telecommunications program."

Prinz immediately reached out to Beth Wood, her middle school teacher in TV Production, and sought her input. Wood offered sage advice, encouragement and suggestions, Prinz said. They remain in touch today, as Prinz often reaches out to Wood for advice.

"We've been texting back and forth quite a bit," Prinz said.

Prinz took the conversation with Wood to heart before speaking with her academic adviser at Florida, who suggested she participate in a shadow program and spend time around other students in the program. Prinz jumped at the chance even though there was classroom curriculum and it required being up early in the morning.

"I had Danielle ... and she had so much drive and poise," said Wood, who had Prinz in sixth through eighth grades. "I knew she'd be successful in any career and was thrilled she was interested in broadcasting."

victim's neck, pinning him in place with enough force as to restrict his movement.

According to the report, the witness attempted to make a forced entry into the room and called for assistance from family members present at the residence while pleading for Bonet to open the door. Bonet refused to release her grip on the victim at which time the witness told Bonet she was calling 911. It was when Bonet was made aware law enforcement had been called that she released the victim.

Upon arrival at the residence, authorities met with Bonet in the driveway and she told officers the witness made a false report in reference to a domestic battery as she was disciplining the youth who had been disrespectful to her, the report stated.

However, the report stated, the witness advised this was not the only recent incident of violence by Bonet. The witness provided a photo, which depicted the victim with a bruise covering most of the left side of his face, from scalp to jaw line.

According to the report, officers interviewed another witness about the recent battery, but he said he did not witness it, but did attempt to make entry into the bedroom after hearing the youth call for help.

The report stated authorities then interviewed the victim in the presence of a family member who led them to Bonet's bedroom and showed them how he was battered. The victim placed himself face down on the bed, with his legs hanging off the side, and explained Bonet placed her hand on the back of his neck and pushed his face into the mattress, restricting his breathing. When asked if the victim knew the difference between being punished and battered, he told authorities, Bonet "was trying to kill me." When questioned about the bruise on his face, he told officers Bonet punched him.

According to the report, authorities again spoke with Bonet about the allegations and were told a criminal investigation was now being conducted. Bonet told officers the witness misunderstood what had happened and she never held the victim down and the bedroom door was open the whole time. When questioned about the bruise on the victim's face, Bonet initially blamed another person residing at the residence, then recanted her statement advising the juvenile's injury was a result of a fall.

Bonet's bond was set at $2,500. She posted bail July 16, according to Marion County Jail records.

Woman, 33, charged with grand theft

A 33-year-old Citrus Springs woman faces one charge of retail grand theft, a Dunnellon Police Department arrest report stated.

According to the report, Amanda R. Shorts was charged July 26 after taking more than 100 items valued at $906.08 from Walmart.

The report stated Shorts placed 116 items in her cart, then walked out the entrance of the store before she was stopped by store employees.

According to the report, Officer James Roberts viewed security footage showing Shorts removing the items from shelves throughout the store and exiting the premises.

Post Miranda, the report stated, Shorts admitted to taking the items because she had just lost her job and needed a few items to take care of her family.

Shorts' bond was set at $2,000. She posted bail July 26.

interview (Gov. Charlie Crist. Danielle wrote her questions on the trip up. Gov. Crist's aides told Jane that they were amazed by her professionalism ... at age 13. Danielle has the brains, talent and poise to be a broadcaster, but her work ethic will make her stand out in the field."

The results of Prinz's hard work in the past year, plus heeding the advice of Wood, have more than paid off for the soon-to-be sophomore.

"I started last summer taking two classes, because I really wanted to attack this major and be successful get in there early," Prinz explained. "The biggest thing is I didn't want to wait until I was a junior to make my decision."

"I think, even just in the shadowing program, I just wanted to learn just as much as I could."

Part of that was re-learning skills she'd long forgotten, particularly working on Apple computers. By the time, the spring semester rolled around, Prinz had enough experience under her belt, she was able to apply for a producing role.

This summer, though, she's taken it another step farther.

She's anchoring the News in 90 on WUFT-TV on Mondays and Tuesdays.

"(Ms. Wood) gave me a few pieces of advice: 'Just remember you're human, just keep your composure (if you make a mistake) and keep going,'" Prinz said. "My first show was really fun, it was amazing. You get a really big rush of adrenaline."

In addition, she's also assisting with the radio station (89.1 FM WRUF) on campus.

"It's (a) really small (part), but something just to get my feet wet," Prinz explained, noting the role keeps her extremely busy. "I'm learning a lot of the day-to-day challenges."

BRADLEY EASOM/Special to the Riverland News

Danielle Prinz poses with the script for an evening broadcast of News in 90 in the WUFT-TV studios.

More important, Prinz said, is she's learning as much as she can because when she finishes college, she wants to be able to walk into a newsroom and be prepared for anything and everything that comes her way. Part of the role of the Innovation News Center (INC), as students call it, is they do it all.

"There are students always working on audio and visual, graphics," she explained. "It's totally integrated; there are two floors of kids who are totally invested into what they are doing."

"We all work together to make the news happen on any platform. We tweet, we post digital stories on the website, we produce radio stories. I take local state, national and foreign news and cull through it and whittle it down for the broadcast. Knowing when I have my degree, I can tell people exactly what I know how to do, what programs I know how to use, instead of just telling them, 'I think I'll be good at this.'"

Prinz has also learned there's no such thing as an easy story.

"Oh, the hardest story I have had to write?" Prinz said repeating the question. "Any type of violent stories, or criminal cases, because there is so much that goes into a report, that takes up a lot of time. You really have to get to the facts as quickly as possible."

"I just had this weird story, a cat attacked this man and wife. You can't just say a cat attacked this couple, you really have to share more with the viewers."

Prinz wouldn't change the course she's chosen for herself.

"I am loving it so much," she said of the independent station not affiliated with the school. "We reach 17 counties, so we have a large viewership between 40 and 70 years old. We have so many opportunities to tell stories, that we have to come up with the way to best tell the story that it connects with everyone."

Protecting trees vital for city

PAUL MARRAFFINO

Special to the Riverland News

The headline in the Riverland News stated, "Cut down on tree talk." After the editor tried to use the legend of George Washington and the Cherry Tree to support his comments he stated "the tree removal process is too cumbersome and personally I feel it is too much governmental oversight of citizen's property rights."

First, I thought the Washington and Cherry Tree story was about honesty and taking responsibility, not government regulation.

Dunnellon area citizens and almost all communities value trees and again almost all cities have tree ordinances. The ordinance is part of a broad municipal code, which includes multiple zoning and land use regulations, which limit the use of residential and commercial property. The editor tosses out the broad term citizen "property rights". I am not sure which "property right" the editor is referring to, but I would suggest that property owners have the right to follow the municipal code that the city has enacted.

The Dunnellon Tree Ordinance sets up a process of review for tree removal. Only the largest trees, Heritage and Champion, require review by the City Council. Other tree removal requests are reviewed by city staff and the Dunnellon Tree Board. The opinion piece suggested that the city should set up a process for tree replacement. The Tree Ordinance already has a process that allows trees to be removed and replacement trees to be planted in other locations to keep the overall tree cover consistent.

It is true that the Dunnellon City Council has many important issues to discuss including the budget and dealing with high debt service. They, however, must deal with all issues that come before them and suggesting that talking about a Champion Tree removal request is preempting them from thinking about other issues is suggesting a false choice. The editor of the Riverland News may want bigger issues to report on, but these other issues are the nuts and bolts of a city government.

The value of being a Tree City speaks favorably about our community. The celebration of the new bike trail across the Withlacoochee River includes the river view but also by the magic of the tree canopy along the trail.

Local residents walking the trail as well as bike riders from Ocala and Citrus County have noted this canopy as a reason to return again and again. On the negative side, it is hard not to be in a social setting when criticism of the mass cutting of trees along State Road 40 for road expansion is discussed and heavily condemned. I am glad that Dunnellon values trees, has a Tree Ordinance, and in a layered and systematic way handles tree removal requests.

Paul Marraffino is the chairman of the city Tree Board and a resident of Rainbow Springs.

GUEST COLUMN

Business leaders focus on merchants, community

By now you may have heard of the Dunnellon Business Association (DBA). We are comprised of Dunnellon-area business owners/operators and have a vested interest in seeing Dunnellon succeed and flourish. It is our mutual dedication to improving this community that brought about this new venture.

What is the Dunnellon Business Association?

As local business owners, we offer a proven track record in successful business operations. Even so, one of our primary goals is to help each other's businesses succeed.

The Executive Board of Directors consists of: Mathew Bailargeon, president, owner of Boomtown Media and publisher of the Village Crier; Andy Arevalo, vice president, owner of AI's TV & Satellite; Dr. Cheryl Stanley, secretary, Dunnellon Chiropractic; Martha Vaughn, treasurer, operations manager, Boomtown Media; Andy Mathew, information officer, owner of PCs -N- Parts.

Members of the Board of Directors are: Nancy Myers, owner of Grumbles House; Dr. Carter Perkins, owner of Perkins Dentistry; Wilbur VanWyck, owner of Coldwell Banker Riverland Realty; Gailen Spinka, owner of Comfort Keepers; Nick Patel, owner of Gruff's Tap and Grille and A to Z Beverage; Vance McMahon, owner of The Home Outfitter; Clovis Sawyer, owner of Creations By Clovis; Kurt Doten, owner of Dotten Tax Service; Charlene Williams, business consultant.

Why does it matter?

Helping others succeed helps Dunnellon succeed. As Dunnellon's small business owners, we have worked together to keep children in Little League, Pop Warner, Boy and Girl Scouts, youth groups, and have helped families and seniors in need.

TIME TO SMILE

Columnist plagued by the DTTTTTS!

As I have told you in the past, I have a tendency to vibrate. I have had it since birth and it really ticks me off. I have come to the conclusion that non essential tremor has no other purpose in life than to irritate me. It is not fatal.

The simple things in life liking a holding a cup of tea, signing my name on those dang blasted tablets at every check-out counter or typing a column become rather difficult when your hands shake faster than a stripper can twerk.

I have asked Jeff, my award-winning editor, not to correct my typos. I would like you to get the full effect of my frustration. My finger will aim for the No. 3, but land on the No. 7. It is hit or miss, literally! Some words may have a few more letters than they should have. On average I can do a column in about 20 to 30 minutes. At this rate, it will take me about 40. This evening my vibration level is off the charts.

I do have an illness that can be fatal if not taken care of properly: asthma. Ironically, the word asthma looks like a typo, but it is not. It makes it difficult to breathe and could lead to your lungs closing. Breathing in is easy. Breathing out is the hard part. About 3 o'clock one morning, I woke up with an attack. My chest began to tighten. Wheezing followed. Normally, I get an itchy chin, which alerts me an attack is coming. That evening it did not happen.

It has been years since I have had an attack. It took me 20 minutes to find my inhaler, which is about 10 years old! I took two puffs of my medicine and thankfully it seemed to do the trick, or so I thought. Although I was able to fall back to sleep, my tight chest had not loosened when I awoke.

Three days later I was still having difficulty breathing. Yeah, I know, "Why'd you wait so long dummy?" I could hear my mother scolding me from heaven. Hey, I had a good excuse, oxygen wasn't getting to my brain. Yeah, that's it! OK, maybe I was lazy and was hoping it would go away on its own. Doctor visit are such a hassle.

I broke down and went to the emergency on the fourth day. After a nice, long wait and a room full of sick people breathing on me I was able to see a doctor. He gave me breathing treatment, which consists of medicine being inhaled through your nose via condensation from a mask attached to your face.

The mask is hooked to a machine that heats the medicine. The nurse handed me a prescription for a new inhaler and a week of steroids. Just

JERSEY GIRL

'Yada, yada, yada'

This month marks the 25th anniversary of the greatest sitcom that was "about nothing."

"Seinfeld" launched in July 1989, ran for nine seasons and still resonates in pop culture lore. The show's greatest appeal is just how incredibly hilarious and still fresh it is, to this day.

Its characters were four rather antisocial and self-absorbed, yet lovable individuals, who focused on the annoyance of life, and talked about nothing of importance.

Plot lines often involved Jerry's, the lead character, romantic relationships and his typically silly reasons to break up with women, including a habit of eating peas one at a time, an annoying laugh, and over-sized "man hands" who Jerry claimed was part woman, part horrible beast!

George, his friend, who always avoided work, built an elaborate sleeping space under his desk. Later, his boss comes looking for him and, not seeing him sleeping under the desk, spends the afternoon waiting for George to "come back." George eventually gets out of it by calling in a bomb threat.

Elaine, the lone female, is promoted to head of the J. Peterman Catalog just because she happened to be the closest person physically to Peterman when he snapped and decided to skip the country.

Elaine: "I'm not qualified to run the catalog!"

Jerry: "You're not qualified to work at the catalog!"

Jerry's neighbor, Kramer, whose first name is Cosmo, was a mystery for the show's first six years. One of the series' most ludicrous episodes was also one of its best and my favorite. Kramer finds the set of "The Merv Griffin Show" in a Dumpster and decides to recreate it in his apartment. He assumes the role of the show's host, conducting interviews whenever somebody enters his apartment — complete with commercial breaks, which are nothing but awkward silences.

The real-life lawsuit brought on by the guy who fell asleep at the Yankees game and then claimed he had been put through cruel and unusual punishment when the commentators made mention of him brought to mind many great Seinfeld episodes.

Who can forget George on the Jumbotron eating his ice cream very sloppily getting the chocolate all over his face, as the commentators mocked him for not using a napkin?

Speaking of frivolous lawsuits,

Thanks to city for assistance

The Boys & Girls Club tries to teach children to be proud of themselves, their community and their country.

In order to help instill pride in our country, my husband and I recently donated a flagpole to the new Boys & Girls Club of Marion County Dunnellon Branch. We would like to thank the city of Dunnellon for its generosity by installing the pole. We would especially like to thank Eddie Esch, city manager, and Anthony Santacross, public services supervisor.

Additionally, we hope seeing the flag flying outside the beautiful new center will be uplifting to all who pass by.

Again, thank you city of Dunnellon. Without your help this project could not have been completed.

Don't feed the alligators

It is against the law and unfair to feed alligators. Someone has been feeding the small gator at the Rio Vista park and it is becoming tame. It is now just a matter of time before he becomes a problem and things end badly for him. It may make an interesting story to send back home, but through no fault of its own it is going to pay a heavy price for your entertainment.

remember when Kramer spills hot coffee all over himself and his lawyer, Jackie Chiles, parodying Johnnie Cochran, said that he has a valid case against the coffee house. As a result, Kramer can get free coffee all over the world but soon discovers that caffeine causes him to become hyper.

Chiles is also George and Jerry's lawyer against the heiress to the O'Henry chocolate fortune whom they're suing for reckless endangerment, because she wore just a bra on the street, which served as a distraction, which caused an accident.

And, of course, you can't mention the Yankees without associating it with George and his Steinbrenner years. Those episodes were classics.

It was the show about nothing that was actually about so much more.

What other sitcom in history can you say a few words and instantly know what episode you are talking about?

Junior Mints, Marble Rye, Sponge-worthy, Muffin tops, Counter-clockwise-swirl, Vandelay Industries, Puffy shirt, Shrinkage, Pez dispensers, Manssiere, Double dipping, Mulva, big salad, Magic Loogie and Festivus, which was George's dad's alternative to Christmas, just to name a few.

Remember the episodes about the Soup Nazi, the Chinese Restaurant, the Parking Garage, the Contest and the Race. I know at least one of those brought a smile to your face.

How many sayings can you recite from the show?

"Not that there's anything wrong with that."

"No soup for you."

"They're real and they're spectacular."

"It's not you, it's me."

"No, you're Schmoopy!"

"Master of your Domain."

"Can you spare a square?"

"The dingo ate her baby."

Besides the main four, the supporting cast added a great dynamic to the show and the storyline.

Some of our favorites were Poppy, Puddy, Babu, Kenny Bania, Sue Ellen Mishke, Lloyd Braun, The Costanzas, The Drake, The Maestro, Mickey, Uncle Leo and Art Vandelay, who was an architect and George's alter ego.

And, of course, Jerry's least favorite, Newman, who had no first name. In one episode, we see his business card and it simply states, "Newman".

Also there were some unforgettable one-timers such as the Close Talker, The Sidler, Pigman, Susie, Bubble Boy and The Low Talker.

Who could forget Elaine's dancing, Kramer's entrance into any room, or the non-emotion shown by all when George's fiancée, Susan, drops dead from licking toxic invitation envelopes because George got a good deal on them?

Ahhh, the show about nothing. TV Guide named it the greatest television program of all time, with 78 million watching its final episode. Can it ever be matched?

Mostly it was funny and sharp and brilliantly created ... yada, yada, yada.

what I need, more steroids. Call me Arnold from now on!

On the way out, the nurse dropped the bomb shell, "By the way the breathing treatment will cause the jitters, so if you start shaking you will know why." Start shaking?! You mean I will shake more than I already do? Great!

Being a good patient, I went home and took my medicine, which tasted yucky! I have realized two things in life: some things never change and nurses never lie.

I am wiggling more than my dog's tail when she sees a hot dog falling off the grill. Dinner, well at least the parts that made it into my mouth was not fun. I think my insides are shaking just as much as my outside. Since most of my meal landed on the floor, I gave up and decided to work on my jigsaw puzzle. I do these to keep my mind sharp. Obviously, it is not working. What was I thinking?

The first piece I picked up went flying across the room. My hands were a lethal weapon, pieces were flying everywhere. Twenty minutes later, I had fewer pieces put together than when I started. Ugh!

Reading wasn't much better. Turning pages became an ordeal. I had to hold my right hand with my left and turn the page. I realized this wasn't much help since my eyeballs were shaking.

I was smart enough to realize I could not do my needlework. There will be blood.

I can feel my nerves settling down, which means it is time for my next dosage. If I am going to have the shakes I might as well drink.

Then again, I'd end up wearing my drink so I guess I will just sit still! I crack me up.

LEADERS

We host community events and welcome visitors to this Nature Coast gem. As small business owners, we not only deliver a product or service, we strive to deliver community spirit. Visitors should see and feel the community pride as they enter this city.

Dunnellon sees approximately 250,000 visitors a year at Rainbow Springs State Park. While they are in awe of the beauty that surrounds them, they likely don't realize all that is offered less than 5 miles up the road. We want these visitors to know that there is a local seafood market where they can purchase seafood to take home or have it prepared while they wait, and that there are many dining choices that offer more than a typical franchise menu. Unfortunately, many of the local restaurants do not capture those visitors.

Through strategic planning with partners such as Rainbow Springs State Park and others, we will drive visitors to local businesses instead of losing them as they drive home.

What's in it for you?

What sets us apart are the marketing and networking abilities within the group. It is what will help set our members apart as well.

We also offer training opportunities such as "Better Your Business" workshops tailored to meet member's needs. The Executive Board listens to members and engages with them to accommodate their changing needs.

In addition to networking, marketing and training, our Executive Board will advocate for small businesses and serve as a unified voice in city and county government affairs to keep those making decisions mindful of commerce in Dunnellon.

How can you join?

Join us for our first Meet & Greet and membership drive from 5 to 8 p.m. today at Gruff's Tap and Grille. We are expecting many to attend who want to learn more about becoming a member.

We are connected and committed. We are enthusiastic and looking forward to the opportunity to be a part of a common goal: commerce in Dunnellon by accentuating it as a welcoming city that is appreciated for its hospitality, beauty and choices in shopping, dining and products and services.

We have a lot of work ahead of us but with many hands the work is made lighter.

recipe contests or chili cook-offs. She didn't enter the field to break barriers, or to prove a point. Her reason was simple.

"I love to cook," she said, recalling the first time she butchered an entire hog as part of a classroom project with her students during the first stage of her career as a teacher in the Fort Myers area. "I cleaned it and butchered it, then we used the meat for a home economics class. We had a lot left over, so we decided to roast it for the entire school."

Frazee, who has been in and around a kitchen for the better part of her life, credited her mother and grandmother for being "great cooks." It was her involvement in 4H as a young girl that got her in the kitchen, she explained. As a youth, Frazee was interested in the entomology, the study of bugs but because there was no FFA Chapter in her hometown, the only way she could show her collection of bugs was through 4H.

"I had to belong to a cooking and sewing group," she said. "Because I wanted to have my bugs on exhibit, I had to participate in those other things too, which sounds ridiculous."

Still, this was more about the satisfaction of competing in a market which has grown in popularity in the past 20 years.

Frazee remembers to this day the initial reaction her appearance at her first event garnered from other competitors.

"The funny thing was there was a lot of guys who would stop and say, 'oh wait, there's a girl smoking in the boys room,'" she said, now laughing at the remark after several years. "There are still some guys not happy to see a woman out there."

No matter, Frazee said. "They know two things," she added, "I'm not going anywhere and I'm still going to compete."

They might have learned after that first competition, which Frazee won. She remembers the event all too well, because it taught her more than just cooking under pressure at events; it taught her what additional camping supplies were necessary.

"I got there and it was hotter than blue blazes," she explained, noting it was 97 degrees at her arrival and dropped to 60 degrees at night. "And it was raining hard all night, and I kept feeding that (stick burner), every minute as the rain was hitting the cooker, which dropped the tempera-

● ON THE TUBE: Frazee will be featured on the Travel Channel's latest show, "American Grilled," at 9 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 6. She competes against three other contestants for the chance to win a $10,000 cash prize at the event, which was filmed in Pensacola.

● FACTS ABOUT FRAZEE: Graduate of Purdue University; former agriculture teacher; three years on the Florida BBQ Association Circuit; Team Name: Barn Goddess BBQ; the only one-woman team on the circuit; Certified Florida BBQ Association Judge; first year competing in the KCBS; Recipe Contributor: Barbecue America Magazine; and BlogTalk radio host, Barn Goddess BBQ & More at 7 p.m. Tuesdays.

Typically, Frazee said, she would get a 15-minute cat nap here and there, but not that night.

"I was delirious," she said. "I didn't have a tent for the cooker. I learned so much."

In addition to learning what additional camping supplies were necessary, Frazee has become a certified judge for competitions throughout Florida and other parts of the United States. In addition, she's a member of the Florida BBQ Association Circuit as well as the Kansas City Barbecue Society (KCBS). She's competed on the circuit for Florida BBQ Association-sanctioned events this past year, and currently is ranked 20th in the state out of 450 registered and certified pit masters.

"I have a lot of friends in the barbecue industry," Frazee said, noting cooking with world champion Melissa Cookston is atop her bucket list. "I would love to be able to cook a whole hog with her. She has undoubtedly made her mark. No one can deny her. I have made a career of always doing things the best I can do. So, I want to be an expert in everything that I've done, because that's the teacher part of me."

That means experimenting with different cooking devices, such as the traditional stick burner or a pellet burner, which has a computer attached and automatically feeds a fire and keeps the temperature at the correct setting. After using both, Frazee favors the stick burner.

"I'm old school," Frazee said, noting perhaps when she's 60 she'll use a gravity set cooker full time so she can sleep through the night. "I use an ugly 55-gallon drum, where I cook most everything, including ribs and chicken wings."

And cooking, whether it's for a party she's catering through her business or for a competition, drives her to create the perfect meal. Frazee explained in a competition barbecue, there are typically four categories, chicken, ribs, pork and beef. Her personal favorite is brisket.

"I love to cook brisket, I cook a really good brisket that melts in your mouth," she said. "In a competition, brisket is my favorite. I love to cook baby back ribs, or St. Louis ribs. We like them falling off the bone, but you don't cook ribs like that in a competition. You cook to a specific tenderness."

But when it comes to cooking at home or for parties, Frazee said she can do it all on a grill.

And she's not kidding or bragging.

"I could easily prepare a 5-course meal on a grill," she explained, noting everybody could do it given the time. "It doesn't have to be what people typically think of it."

Frazee said one of her special dishes done on the grill is bread pudding. She said a lot of the time she'll make it when she's at a competition, but not for the event itself, but for the other competitors when they are sharing dishes with each other.

The reaction is often the same when folks sample the dish.

"They're like, 'Oh my gosh, you just did that on a grill?'" she said.

Frazee isn't one-dimensional though. She pens a recipe column for Barbecue America Magazine and hosts an online BlogTalk titled Barn Goddess BBQ & More at 7 p.m. Tuesdays. This past year, she opted to branch out again in an attempt to secure a spot on the Travel Channel's newest reality cooking show, "American Grilled." Unlike her previous attempts to land a role on shows such as "Master Chef," or Rachel Ray's "Burger Bash" and the "Next Food Network Star," Frazee nailed the audition for "American Grilled" and its pilot episode. "American Grilled" will debut at 9 p.m. Wednesday, Aug. 6, on the Travel Channel. The show Frazee will be featured on was filmed in Pensacola, where she competes against three other competitors for a chance to win a $10,000 grand prize. Due to a confidentiality agreement, Frazee was unable to divulge the final results, but did indicate "she made it past the first round."

Frazee said her past experiences auditioning for reality shows paid off and what she was able to glean from watching behind-the-scenes. Still, she said, with thousands of people applying at one time, most people would be shocked at what the process is like.

"You have the introductory interview, which lasts 1 to 2 hours," Frazee explained, "in which they ask you off the wall questions and have you look a different direction than the cameras."

Then, she explained, you compete in so many rounds.

"You could be there for 8 hours and then you have an exit interview that lasts from 2 to 3 hours," Frazee added. "You might be on television 10 minutes, so you don't know what they're going to pull out."

Frazee said the most frustrating part of the experience is the cameras constantly in your face throughout the ordeal.

"They are in your face the entire time," she said. "They are so polished on it. You couldn't go to the bathroom by yourself, because they were afraid you might ask someone for advice."

The show was filmed on a public beach in Pensacola with less than ideal conditions.

"It was windy as hell the day we filmed, the weather has been perfect for all of their other shoots," she said. "We were facing the elements that nobody else had seen it. We had such a hard time with the wind."

"People don't realize the stress of having to do something quickly and have to do it in 20 minutes."

In addition, because the beach couldn't close off public access, the public formed a larger than normal crowd at the event. Making sure the crowd didn't spoil the results was tricky, Frazee added.

But she'd certainly do it again tomorrow, if given the chance.

"I loved it, I loved the pressure of it," she said, noting she plans to audition for the "Next Food Network Star" again.

OUT TO PASTOR

Pastor has learned a lot in his lifetime

In celebrating my recent birthday, I found myself caught up in a case of nostalgia. I never imagined I would really get this old. Not that I am old, mind you, but I have reached the point in life I never thought I would when I was younger. Had I known I would get this old, I would have saved some of the energy I wasted during my teenage years.

How was I to know that as you got older your supply of energy began diminishing?

When I was younger, I could not sit still for long and no matter where I went, I ran. It was impossible for me just to walk. Often my mother chided me by saying, "Slow down, young man." But I never could. I have finally come to the point where I am in harmony with my mother's desire. The only problem is, I am not a young man anymore.

Today, I can sit in my easy chair for hours and not even move. I keep a little mirror on the stand next to my chair so my wife can periodically check to see if I am still breathing. Often, the only indication of life is the occasional snoring.

One thing I have learned in growing older is that my eyes are not quite what they used to be. For example, the mailbox used to be rather close to the front door of our house. Now, I can barely see it from the front door and it takes over an hour to reach it by walking. To be truthful, halfway to the mailbox I have to pause and catch my breath.

And, when I look at my checkbook, I can barely see to the end of the month. When I was young, I used to hear the saying, "A penny saved is a penny earned." Now, my eyes are so bad, I cannot see anything to buy for a penny.

Not only are my eyes going, but my hearing is not quite what it used to be when I was young. It is not as bad as it might seem. There is a good side to diminished hearing. When I am in a crowd with people talking, I can sit back, smile, nod my head occasionally and not have to be bored with what everybody is saying.

Experience has taught me that people are not really interested in hearing what I have to say. Rather, they want me listening to what they have to say. Usually, people have a lot to say and all they require are two ears. It does not have to be ears that hear, just ears that appear.

Most things heard in such circumstances are not worth hearing. Perhaps that is the genius of our ears. In aging, they develop a little bit of wisdom and after a while, they just give up, not hearing anything really worth hearing. I cannot remember the last time I heard something under such circumstances worth hearing the first time, let alone remembering.

This brings me to my memory. The best thing about memory is, you can remember things the way you want to remember them. After all, it is your memory and it should be up to you to remember what you want. My memory has a way of bringing out the positive to the absolute exclusion of the negative. And who wants to dwell on the negative?

Whoever said you cannot live in the past is probably not old enough to have any past worth remembering. And the marvelous thing about remembering things in the past is that you can remember them as you like. It is your version of the past. Some people write journals, I like to trust my memory.

As my memory has aged, it has become better, just like a fine wine. In fact, my memory is so good I can distinctly remember things that never happened. And the details I remember are simply astounding. Each time I

Special to the Riverland News

Sue LeBrun, the recently appointed vice president of Christians In Action (CIA), spoke to the Dunnellon Community Thrift Shop women July 15 at its monthly meeting. Her passion for helping those less fortunate left an impression. This organization was begun to augment items available from local food banks and those that cannot be purchased with food stamps. It distributes clothing, toiletries, personal grooming products, dish and laundry detergents to families and individuals who qualify under federal guidelines.

The Dunnellon Community Thrift Shop women voted to donate $1,000 to assist the CIA in its efforts. When notified of the size of the donation, LeBrun was speechless and moved to tears.

"This will buy enough items to take care of the next three months," LeBrun explained.

In making the donation, the thrift shop women indicated they would like to dedicate this to the late Geri Davis in recognition of her charitable works and numerous contributions to the Dunnellon community. It was Davis' favorite project and she and LeBrun worked tirelessly to keep it going since it began in November 2012.

Smokin' hot stuff

Lori Frazee, a local resident and pit master, will be featured on the Travel Channel's latest show, "American Grilled", at 9 a.m. Wednesday, Aug. 6. She will compete against three other contestants for the chance to win a $10,000 cash prize at the event, which was filmed in Pensacola.

The 12-year Dunnellon resident opened her cookers and her backyard recently for the Riverland News.

Frazee adds melted butter to a rack of ribs before putting them into the smoker.

Frazee cuts thick slices from bacon she cured naturally herself.

Frazee wraps up her ribs in foil after seasoning them.

Frazee explains how the pellet grill works. The all-wood pellets burn slowly at the temperature she sets.

Saucy success

Restaurant relocation goes smoothly

AUGIE SALZER

For the Riverland News

Saucy Circles pizzeria is the first business to move out of the building at the intersection of State Road 40 and U.S. 41. The Florida Department of Transportation (FDOT) notified the owner of the building and the three tenants in November 2013 that the structure was going to be demolished and replaced with another drainage retention area (DRA).

At the end of January, the FDOT completed the largest DRA at the south side of State Road 40 to correct the past flooding problem under the railroad bridge. The DRA that will replace the structure at the north corner of State Road 40 is being built to control any flooding which may occur with the widening of U.S. 41 from two to four lanes.

The commercial property is being acquired under eminent domain, which means the government has the right to purchase property for public use with just compensation to the owner, according to FDOT spokesman Steve Olsen.

"We also help to relocate all the people after the agent receives an appraisal report and presents the offer to the owner," Olsen explained. "The Department made one of the tenants — Saucy Circles — eligible for relocation early, because they had found a replacement site and wanted to move before it was taken by someone else."

Debbie and Scott Covey, owners of Saucy Circles, had signed a one-year lease with the building owner in June 2013. About five months later, they were told they had to relocate by Terri Hannah, an acquisition agent with the Florida Project Land Specialist and Acquisition.

"We found this new property on our own, but Agent Hannah helped us to get moved in a timely fashion and we received comp immediately after the move," Debbie Covey said. "She was helpful in that aspect. She also helped us by calling our new landlord to say the money (for the deposit) was coming."

Although the Coveys found a new structure on State Road 40, 3 miles east of their previous location, new problems prevented them from opening immediately. The new building previously was a delicatessen and grocery store licensed under the Department of Agriculture and their business is a food service and has to be licensed under the Department of Professional Business Regulations.

"We couldn't just transfer our license to the new location," she said. "We had to start all over again and submit a plan review. It was a floor plan of the building to show the location of the bathrooms, coolers and things like where the hand washing and mop sinks were. Then we had to wait for the food inspectors to make sure we meet all the state regulations."

The Coveys lease was to expire June 12, but they decided to leave a month early so they could procure their new location. It was the end of June before all the state requirements were satisfied and they were able to open.

"The state took over our lease at the old place so no one else could move in and then the state would have to buy them out," Debbie Covey explained. "Fortunately our two cooks — Zena and Nick — stayed unemployed and waited for us to reopen."

With all the problems the Coveys encountered with the move, they also discovered and focused on the positive side. Their lease agreement with SBK One LLC, the owner of the structure to be torn down, stipulated the Coveys had to purchase their soda from the convenience store to sell in the pizzeria, therefore, they didn't make any profit on it. The gas station/convenience store is the largest tenant in the building.

"We couldn't sell soda unless we bought it from the convenience store next to us, but now we can sell soda and beer," she said. "The plus side to having to move is we now have an expanded delivery area. We are busier than I thought we were going to be having just opened."

Saucy Circles opened for business June 25 at 16900 W. State Road 40. Another tenant Jenifer Boscarino, owner of Jenifer's Hair Studio, has rented from SBK One LLC for about 10 years and also hopes to have a positive outcome from her compulsory move.

"I'm taking the time to find just the right place," Boscarino said. "I plan to stay in the area to make it as convenient for my clients as possible."

Health department back-to-school shots offered

The Florida Department of Health in Marion County will offer special back-to-school immunization clinics in August to help students get ready for school.

"Vaccines provide the best defense to protect you and your family from the spread of infectious diseases," said Jan Stepp, Immunization Clinic supervisor for the Florida Department of Health in Marion County. "We want to give parents every opportunity to get their kids ready for the school year by taking advantage of our immunization services before school starts."

The Department will offer free school vaccinations at the Marion County Children's Alliance Back-to-School Bash. The event is scheduled for 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturday at the E.D. Croskey Recreation Center, 1510 NW 4th St., Ocala. In addition to school immunizations, the event includes fun and games, food, and free backpacks for school. For information about the Back-to-School Bash, call 352-438-5990.

The Department of Health has scheduled special back-to-school immunization clinics from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Aug. 4 to 8, Aug. 11 to 15 and Aug. 18 to 20 at the Department's Ocala facility at 1801 SE 32nd Ave. No appointment is needed, and the immunizations are free for those ages 18 and younger. Parents should bring their child's immunization records if they have them.

New health requirements mean that children may need an additional polio vaccination before they can enter kindergarten. Children entering seventh grade require the Tdap—tetanus diphtheria and acellular pertussis—booster vaccine. Vaccination requirements include:

- Kindergarten through sixth grade: two doses of the varicella vaccine
- Grades seven through 12: one dose of the varicella vaccine
- Grades seven through 12: the Tdap (tetanus/diphtheria/pertussis) vaccine
- Students entering a Florida school for the first time should have two doses of the measles, mumps and rubella vaccine.

For information about immunizations, call 352-629-0137, ext. 2017.

recount a memory I remember new details.

The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage has quite a different take on all of this. She remembers everything that actually happened. She has a photographic memory, whereas I have, according to her, a problematic memory. At her discretion, she can marshal all of the facts of the incident in the order in which it happened. Usually her memory throws my memory in a different light.

No matter how I recount my memory, she always has some correction to it. More than once, she has claimed I stretched the truth. But I believe, if the truth cannot handle some stretching what good is it in the first place? If it is so fragile and cannot handle a little bit of stretching, I am not sure it is worth remembering.

As my body gets weaker, my memory gets stronger.

In the Old Testament, David spoke often of the importance of memory. "I remember the days of old; I meditate on all thy works; I muse on the work of thy hands" (Psalms 143:5 KJV). For David, in his old age his memory brought him a great deal of comfort. "I have been young, and now am old; yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread" (Psalms 37:25 KJV).

My goal is to live each day in such a way that years down the road I will have a good memory.

Guardian ad Litem seeks volunteers

Special to the Riverland News

There are about 1,700 children in the Marion, Hernando, Lake, Sumter and Citrus counties, who have been removed from their homes for alleged abuse, abandonment or neglect, who are now part of a dependency court proceeding. These children need someone who will speak up for them, and the Guardian ad Litem program is seeking volunteers.

A GAL is a volunteer appointed by the court to advocate for a child. The volunteer works as part of a team with a volunteer supervisor and program attorney. They become familiar with the child and the child's case and makes recommendations to the court to help ensure a safe, caring, stable and permanent environment for that child.

Persons 21 years of age and older — adults between the ages of 19 and 21 are also eligible, working under the guidance and partnership with a certified volunteer GAL — who successfully complete the pre-service training program, have a clean criminal background check and are able to be objective are eligible.

A GAL must successfully complete 30 hours of pre-service training. On average, volunteers spend 5 to 10 hours a month on a case. Most cases last 10 months. The next training begins Monday, Aug. 4, at the Ocala Police Department, 402 S. Pine Ave., Ocala.

For information, call Sarah Jay at 352-274-5231 or email Sarah.Jay@gal.fl.gov. For information and an application, visit www.guardianadlitem.org.

Family, friends bid farewell to longtime resident

AUGIE SALZER/For the Riverland News

Dunnellon resident Natalie Warren, seated center, is surrounded by family and friends at a recent surprise going away party. Warren is moving to an assisted-living facility in Ohio to be closer to her stepdaughter. Warren lived in the area for almost 30 years, was a lector and Eucharistic Minister at St. John the Baptist Catholic Church and was active in the drama club until her health recently declined. She is sad to be leaving the area and all her friends, but is confident she will make new friends soon.

CERT training session scheduled

Community Emergency Response Team (CERT) training will be offered from 5 to 7 p.m. Oct. 9 to Nov. 13 at the Marion County Sheriff's Office at 692 NW 30th Ave., Ocala.

The six-week course training helps prepare participants to take care of themselves during a disaster. This course will offer training on disaster preparedness, fire safety, disaster medical operations and more.

Once trained, participants have the opportunity to join their local neighborhood team that will assist first responders during a disaster. CERT Teams assist by assessing their community and providing basic medical treatment to those in need and report all the information to Emergency Management.

The CERT Program is offered by the Marion County Sheriff's Office, Bureau of Emergency Management and is a free to all who are interested.

For information or for an application, call Emergency Management at 352-369-8100 or email MarionCERT@marionso.com.

means everyone else is doing well.”

In all, Florida residents are expected to save at least $40 million over the three-day holiday, which was passed unanimously by the 2014 Florida Legislature and signed into law by Gov. Rick Scott. Combined spending for back to school and college is expected to reach about $5 billion in Florida, and tax-exempt sales will account for an estimated $600 million of that spending.

During the tax holiday weekend, there will be no state or local sales taxes due on the first $750 of the sales price of personal computers and related accessories purchased for noncommercial home or personal use. The term “personal computer” includes any electronic book reader, laptop, desktop, handheld, tablet, or tower computer, but does not include cell phones, video game consoles, digital media receivers, or devices that are not primarily designed to process data. The term “related accessories” includes keyboards, mice, personal digital assistants, monitors (except those with TV tuners), modems, routers, and nonrecreational software.

Clothing and shoes up to $100 will be tax exempt, along with school supplies up to $15. That includes pens, pencils, erasers, crayons, notebooks, notebook paper, legal pads, binders, lunch boxes, construction paper, markers, folders, poster board, composition books, poster paper, scissors, cellophane tape, glue or paste, rulers, computer disks, protractors, compasses and calculators.

According to the National Retail Federation's 2014 Back-to-School Survey conducted by Prosper Insights & Analytics, the average family with children in grades K-12 will spend $669.28 on apparel, shoes, supplies and electronics, up 5 percent from $634.78 last year.

A study by The Washington Economics Group (WEG) that examined the impact of the back-to-school sales tax holiday confirmed that increased spending during the three-day period in 2010 generated $115 million more in taxable sales, and $293 million more in overall sales. That generated an additional $7 million in revenue to the state of Florida.

The Florida Retail Federation is the statewide trade association representing retailers -- the businesses that sell directly to consumers. Florida retailers provide one out of every five jobs in the state, pay more than $49 billion in wages annually, and collect and remit more than $20 billion in sales taxes for Florida's government each year.
