Out to see

Marine lab penguin lecture today

The Florida State University Coastal and Marine Lab Conservation Lecture Series, free and open to the public, will be at 7 p.m. today in the lab's auditorium at St. Teresa. Speaking will be Dr. Heidi Geisz, an adjunct faculty member, on "Deep Thaw: The Adélie Penguin and Climate Change," about the fate of these penguins in Antarctica. For more info, call 697-4120.

Learn about coastal water birds

See pictures and learn about the diversity of water birds that use coastal habitats throughout the region from 3-4 p.m. July 18 at the Apalachicola Environmental Education and Training Center, 108 Island Drive, Eastpoint. For more info, call 670-7700.

Discover county's oldest visitors

From 2-3 p.m. Wednesdays in July, enjoy a presentation about "Sea Turtles, Franklin County's Oldest Visitors" by the St. George Island Volunteer Turtles and the Apalachicola National Estuarine Research Reserve at 108 Island Drive in Eastpoint. For more info, call 670-7700.

C-Quarters prepares for youth fishing tourney

C-Quarters Youth Fishing Tournament in Carrabelle will be July 19-20 for children 16 and younger. At completion of the Friday clinic, each child receives a rod and reel, a T-shirt, hat and bait. There are nine categories of fish with three places in each category; trophies awarded for each category. On Saturday morning, the kids can fish from docks or, if they can go out on a boat, they are allowed to fish the Carrabelle River up to Dog Island. Lunch will be provided. All participants must be registered before the tournament. Visit www.c-quartersmarina.com.

Bay City Work Camp closing

By DAVID ADLERSTEIN

Bad news landed in the county's lap last week with the announcement the Bay City Work Camp in Apalachicola would close this month.

Christopher Atkins, warden of Carrabelle's Franklin Correctional Institution, which oversees Bay City, told county commissioners July 2 he learned a day earlier of the closure, set to be completed by month's end. Atkins said the Florida Department of Corrections is running a $73 million deficit and that other camps would be closing as well to help stanch the red ink.

The Bay City inmates — there were 282 as of June 2011 — are "moving to brand new camps with lower operating costs," he said. "As soon as we found out, we wanted to let you know.

"Nobody will be losing their job," Atkins said. "We are hiring more staff for an additional dorm at FCI, and there will be promotion opportunities."

Ann Howard, communications director for the DOC, said the department was in a deficit but would not confirm its size. "We have no official number yet; the fiscal year just started," she said.

She said the DOC would be closing facilities in Brevard and Glades counties, and opening work camps in Union, Liberty and FCI, the latter thought to absorb the bulk of the Bay City inmates.

"They will be moved, not necessarily to FCI," she said. "We don't discuss movements of inmates until they are securely moved."

Howard said closure of Bay City and the opening of the new FCI work camp would gain between 10 and 14 additional jobs. Bay City employed about 67 correctional officers as of March 2011.

The FCI work camp "will be

Thunder and rain put a damper on county celebrations last week.

Tourists who arrived last Saturday for a week of patriotic fun got more than they bargained for when rain bands from a tropical depression in the southern Gulf of Mexico inundated the area and stirred up blustery winds and occasional thunder and lightning.

Vandalism heats up, closes down BJ's

Vandals to St. George Island's BJ's Pizza, before one of the biggest weeks of the year, did an uncool thing.

"We opened July 4 morning. We showed up at 10 a.m. and went in to start working and setting everything up," owner Billy Blackburn said.

His son Brad soon discovered the air conditioning did not work. George Prueett of Prueett's Air Conditioning told Blackburn there was no Freon in the dining room unit. Prueett lead the investigation, which found something other than cold air coming out.

"We started noticing all this oil leaking out on the coils," Blackburn said. "That's when we started noticing little holes."

Holes in the grills, likely made by an ice pick or awl, were visible on the outside air conditioning units.

"They're stabbing the grills trying to find the coils," Blackburn said, estimating the incident happened overnight July 3.

"This was a very vengeful person who knew exactly what they were doing to pick July 4," he said.

Blackburn said all but two of his two dozen employees would have worked the long holiday weekend, and most would have made overtime.

county received more than 4 inches of rain. The deluge began with more than a half-inch of rain on Wednesday evening, July 3.

The Apalachicola Maritime Museum canceled its planned celebration, but Main Street Apalachicola, organizers of the Apalachicola Independence Day parade and fete, opted to carry on in spite of dire weather predictions.

Bill Grimes, who loaned a barge for use in the fireworks display, spent 24 hours on a solo voyage bringing it from St. Marks. With the exception of a drenching shower as the last of the decorated vehicles in the Red, White and Blue Parade arrived at Riverside Park, the event came off without a hitch.

Jim Bachrach, spokesman for Main Street, said 5,000 people attended the celebration with many spectators watching from the John Gorrie Bridge. The pyrotechnic display was truly spectacular and could be viewed from all over town.

Bachrach thank all of the Main Street volunteers and sponsors who made this year's event a success.

"Everybody's enthusiasm was unbelievable," he said. "We already have donations toward next year's Independence Day celebration. The musical performers were tremendous. Apalachicola Community Choir blew people away. We really appreciate Project Impact for their part in the children's celebration as well. We are already in the planning stages for next year, and our goal is to double the size of the fireworks display."

St. George Island and Carrabelle had both set July 4 as the date for their celebrations, but it turned out to be the wettest day in a sodden week with more than 1.5 inches of rain. This was nowhere near the record for that date, 2.59 inches set in 1958, but both venues postponed their festivities in the face of the stormy weather.

The traditional island parade took place on Friday morning, July 5, which was still blustery but free of thunder and lightning on the island. Abundant precipitations led to a few changes in the usual island pageant. The route was shortened to avoid deep puddles of standing water.

Only about 40 floats lined up, as opposed to 120 last year. The crowd lining the parade route was also much smaller than in previous years. Vickie Frost, of Eddy Teach's Raw Bar, organized this year's island spectacle.

In spite of the iffy weather, hundreds of gallons of water—encased in balloons, shot from water guns and hoses and even tossed from buckets and plastic cups—passed between onlookers and participants in the procession this year.

A notable new entry was a golf cart rigged to squirt streams of water from clandestine jets in the canopy. Not on hand this year was Miss Liberty and the island ladder truck.

Winner of the competition for the best float was Capt. Clint Taylor and Team Big Fish.

Fann Construction planted more than 1,000 American flags to mark the parade route. Elliot Fann said he hopes to make this an annual tradition.

Parks and Recreation Director Nikki Millender, who had not experienced an island parade in the past, said she plans to enter a float next year. "That's good, clean fun," she said.

Friday night, Carrabelle launched a successful fireworks display to the delight of the community. Renee Brannan, a spokesperson for Carrabelle, said the display came off with no problems.

"Marine Street and 98 were lined with people watching the show," she said. "It was awesome."

St. George Island finished the week's festivities with a 30-minute fireworks display in front of the Blue Parrot on Saturday night, July 6.

Jackel noted Davis received a $5,000 increase, which in Nabors' case would mean his pay would be bumped up from $37,200 to $42,200.

"The man, he's training all the people, he just doesn't have the position," Lockley said. "He say he do a lot of training, so he's been training."

Sanders pressed her case. "Howard is coming from rank and file; he's not coming from supervisory material. I'm looking at him being comparative to what Van was making at solid waste."

"We put Fonda up at $45,000; it's only right to put Howard up to $45,000 if that's what we choose to do," she said. "He deserves a little more consideration to me than $5,000. He's been there a little over 26 years. I think that speaks for itself right there."

The motion for $45,000 passed unanimously, but the issue of salaries was not over.

Jackel brought up whether additional pay might be due Polous for the time served as interim head of the road department.

Sanders took up the matter. "When Alan (Pierce) left that time—two times to be exact—we never raised his pay," she said. "When Fonda (Davis) was in, we never paid him extra. I don't think it would be going along the right lines to pay him extra."

Jackel noted commissioners raised a worker's pay by $2 an hour when they did additional interim work, but Sanders replied that this involved a mechanic, and not someone in a supervisory position.

"I don't have a problem with it as long as we reimburse Mark (Curenton) and Fonda for the time they've put in," Sanders said. "What we did to Fonda is because his mechanic was out; to me it's different. Let's be consistent."

"We have to go back for everybody," Lockley said.

Jackel moved to revisit interim positions of Davis, Curenton and Polous, and "whoever it encompasses."

That motion carried unanimously, but the discussion continued.

Nikki Millender, head of the county's parks and recreation, told commissioners, "When I received department head, I only received a $2,500 raise. No assistant, no secretary, I'm out every day sweating. I don't even make $37,000."

Jackel moved to set a minimum salary for department heads that would have moved up Millender and perhaps others to $45,000.

Sanders voiced her views. "I want to ask you all something. We're giving a man a position of superintendent of roads; he's been there 26 years. That's all we asked.

"We've got everybody coming up here, but look. He's been there 26 years—doesn't anyone see what I'm saying?" she said. "If y'all ain't been there 27 years like him, you're not gonna get it."

Clerk of Courts Marcia Johnson said the discussion was "opening up the door" to future requests from other employees for additional compensation.

"Today's not the day to do it," Sanders said. "We're here (for Nabors' salary), not to be up here jewing over somebody's pay. I can't believe that you all would put a man down who has worked here for 26 years because he don't have a high school education."

Massey took exception. "Don't be hollering," he told Sanders. "I'm all for giving him a raise."

Sanders suggested the matter of department heads' salaries be discussed as part of the budgeting process, set to begin July 18. "Now is not the time to talk about a raise in pay. We need to do that in about three weeks," she said.

Issue raised over high school diploma

The two candidates for the position, Nabors and Polous are both department employees with more than 20 years of experience, well in excess of the eight-year requirement on the job description.

Polous, supervisor of mosquito control, acted as interim assistant supervisor in the absence of a permanent appointee.

He had worked for the roads department since 1993, but was laid off for two years before returning "to do just about everything you can imagine at that landfill," he said.

After that, Polous was promoted to head of mosquito control, where he divided his time equally between that and the road department.

He said he had done budgeting and supervised two employees for the past 13 years. "My computer skills improved over the years. I really applied myself to that and picked up a lot of skills."

Polous, who graduated from Carrabelle High School in 1987, is certified in public health pest control, holds a commercial driver's license and is able to supervise inmates. His resume lists 13 continuing education certificates including disaster management, damage assessment, debris control, storage tank management, advance mosquito control and supervisory training at Florida State University.

Nabors said he "logged a couple years before I started with the county," more than 26 years ago, and since has handled all the tools of the trade.

"I trained a lot of the crew that's out there now," he said. "There's a big difference between running a piece of equipment and operating it."

Nabors attended high school in Apalachicola in 1984, but there is no mention of a diploma in his resume. County Planner Alan Pierce said he has not completed a General Education Development exam.

In response to a question from Jackel, County Attorney Michael Shuler said the board could consider "any combination of training and experience which provides the required knowledge, skills and abilities to perform the job."

Nabors told commissioners his "computer skills ain't too good, but I can try to learn." He said he planned to rely on (Virginia Messer) to "help a lot with the budget and stuff."

Parrish asked whether Nabors was familiar with reports. "What reports are you talking about now?" Nabors said. "All our crew turns a work paper in every day, different areas where they work, and every two weeks she makes the work order up. What dirt you get or what grass is cut or what ditches or culvert pipe is put in."

Nabors said he would work to improve the morale at the road department and volunteered a test period for his hire. "We can try to have a better workplace; I think I can do that," he said. "Six month probation, if I can't."

Parrish underlined the condition. "I'd like for us evaluate whoever the individual is for six months. Whoever we put there has not been there before."

opening this month, not sure when," Howard said.

Atkins stressed to county commissioners, "We don't plan on stopping work squad services. As far as transports, we'll have to be creative, (and use) buses instead of individual trucks."

He said the DOC is doing its best to accommodate the situation. "We're going to be as flexible as we can," he said.

County Commission Chairman Cheryl Sanders noted the county had written several letters asking that Bay City not be closed. The commissioners then quickly focused on the logistics of how work squads would be handled.

In his interview seeking the post as head of the road department, DeWitt Polous, interim head of the department since Hubert Chipman's retirement earlier this year, said "there's not a lot of difference between going to Apalachicola and Carrabelle. The distance is 2 to 3 miles.

"We have two buses at the county yard right now. I'd like to assign some inmate squads to specific zones and leave trucks parked at satellite stations" he said.

Polous noted the county is down from five regularly dispatched inmate squads. "We haven't been operating at full capacity since Lamar (Hardy) left," he said. "One or two days a week it seems like the DOC calls the squads in and won't let them out, for whatever reason. It's hot."

Alan Pierce, county director of administrative services, noted the buses would not have to be caged.

"Every inmate squad leader will have to be on the bus to sign them out," Commissioner William Massey said.

Commissioner Smokey Parrish said additional transportation time would mean a loss of time working by the inmates.

"How many hours a day are we losing to have to do this stuff, in actual work time?" he asked. "Some hours can be revised or revamped so it works for everybody."

Sanders closed the discussion by asking that she, Pierce and Sheriff Mike Mock meet with the warden "to see what we can organize to make it more cost efficient for the county."

Apalachicola to lose water, sewer revenue

The biggest concern over the closure was voiced at the Apalachicola city commission meeting July 2.

City Administrator Betty Taylor Webb said the city received $134,000 in water and sewer revenue from Bay City during the 2012-13 fiscal year. "It's going to be a really tough budget year," she said.

"It's coming a lot faster than any of us would like. It's here," said County Attorney Michael Shuler, who was in the audience.

Howard said a reverter clause in place when the county first gave the land to the state in 1989 would mean the land and buildings would be deeded back to the county once the closure was complete.

Apalachicola Mayor Van Johnson said he met three weeks ago with Dr. Frederick Humphries, president emeritus of Florida A&M University, who thought a good idea would be to use the site as a marine science academy that could draw scholars and students from around the country to do research.

Humphries, a former chemistry professor, had suggested money from the foundation set up by Sam Walton, founder of Wal-Mart, might be available to fund the institution, Johnson said.

"We just don't want this opportunity to escape us," the mayor said.

The county's representatives in Tallahassee both are opposed to the move.

"This has been rumored for quite some time," said State Sen. Bill Montford, who learned of DOC Secretary Michael Crews' decision last week.

"The issue about closure is not new. I've opposed the closing of it all along, and my argument has been the same. My argument has been that it makes good economic sense and transfers everybody over to the new one in the short run. That might look like the right thing to do," he said. "If you look at the full impact of this decision, then it is not a wise decision financially, not a wise decision in terms of jobs. There are far reaching implications of this that need to be taken into account."

He said both he and State Rep. Halsey Beshears plan to discuss their opposition to closure with DOC officials.

"I have tremendous respect for his (Crews') judgment," Montford said. "I'm not sure the legislative side should get involved with those kind of decisions. On this particular issue I disagree with him, as the senator who represents those constituents there."

Montford said the county's legislators asked to be notified of any closures of work squads and are seeking more details on planning. "I'm looking forward to that interaction," he said. "Let me see the plan. What I've asked for is their short-range plan and their long-range plan. I'd like to look at it. I look forward to vigorous discussion before it's closed."

"This has an impact on surrounding counties as well because a lot of people work there. We should pause, and we should stop. This facility is not located in central Florida where there are other job opportunities. They have had more than their share of troubling times. This is one more detrimental factor that's entering into their equation down there. The community can't afford this."

Beshears was more resigned. "I always support the state trying to do what's right in terms of their budget," he said. "At the end of the day, they're consolidating. It cuts some costs overall. I support the DOC in trying to balance their budget."

"I don't like surprises. This decision was done before anything (was discussed). I'd like to see those exact numbers myself," he said. "Maybe we can do something about it next year. My heart goes out for the people.

It's going to be harder for them to commute. I am thankful that they have somewhere else to go in the reasonable vicinity. We are fortunate that there is somewhere else to work."

Montford said he planned to press his argument to the DOC and "to look at the total comprehensive impact," including the loss of sewer and water revenue.

"That's a big hit in their budget. How do they make that up?" he said. "Franklin County is a depressed area. It's hurting."

Montford suggested bowing to this fight might be the outcome. "If they move forward with it, I will do my best to mitigate the damage, and we'll move on," he said.

The future, in the state senator's view, calls for finding a good use for the facility. "I would hope we would not mothball it and find another alternative use for it," Montford said. "Clearly, we got to be creative in what we do."

He said local officials need to be brought into the discussion of "what can we do with this facility?"

Montford added cost of a future plan must be considered.

"When you're being creative, it's going to cost," he said. "We've got the expertise here to try to address the issue. It's incumbent on us to find an alternative use for that facility. A joint public-private effort may be the answer."

"The slate is clean."

"It would have been an excellent day — all week it's been. The game guy for the game room had his best week ever because of all the rain," he said. "If a merchant on St. George Island isn't making money right now, they better close the doors. There's something wrong with their business."

Blackburn, who opened the dining spot and hangout in 1990 with his wife, Judy, said he checked around to see whether other businesses had experienced similar vandalism.

"All the other restaurants and bars are fine," he said. "Whoever did this walked beside two air conditioner units at Prudential to get my four. They were coming after me."

"They knew exactly what they were doing. Somebody has something against BJ's. We just don't know why, or who."

The financial loss was considerable, about $75,000 including lost business, which insurance does not cover.

Cases of frozen food, including 20 cases of chicken, "all had to be thrown away. We make dough one day and let it sit 24 hours. All that has to be thrown away."

Pruett estimated the replacement cooling units and air conditioners would run more than $10,000, with parts shipped free by Trane.

The restaurant reopened Wednesday morning.

Blackburn made a brief attempt to stay open despite the vandalism, but "when the temperature got to 104 degrees in the kitchen and it was raining outside, I was afraid one of my employees would get hurt."

Blackburn said he isn't sure whom to suspect, but possibilities, even remote ones come to mind. A disgruntled employee, a rival business, even the angry residue from family strife are being considered. Law enforcement said they are pursuing leads in the case.

"There are people out there that would have a motive to do things, and somebody knows things," said Blackburn, who is offering a $5,000 reward for the arrest and conviction of the perpetrators.

"And I will deliver it in $100 bills personally to 'em," he said.

Unwanted medical treatment a painful nightmare

Special to the Times

Imagine your 90-year-old mother has Alzheimer's disease and is near death. But before she became mentally incompetent, she gave you power of attorney to sign a Do Not Resuscitate (DNR) order so medical personnel would honor her wishes to die peacefully, without aggressive medical interventions in her final days.

Then your worst nightmare unfolds: your mother goes into cardiac arrest, and is subjected to the very treatment she had been determined to avoid: aggressive, traumatic cardio pulmonary resuscitation, and other extreme measures, including having a hole cut in her throat, being injected with paralyzing drugs, having tubes forced down her throat and into her stomach, and having air forced into her lungs. Two days after this aggressive, traumatic resuscitation, you are in the indescribably horrifying situation of having to direct that your mother's ventilator be removed so she can finally die and her suffering end. But she lingers on in a slow decline for another five days while you maintain a heartbreaking, bedside vigil each day and night until she finally passes away. Then to add insult to injury, the hospital hands you a bill for this unwanted medical treatment totaling thousands of dollars.

Sound preposterous? Unfortunately, it's not. It is Sharon Hallada's real life, front page news nightmare. It prompted the leading national organization dedicated to ensuring that medical professionals honor patients' end-of-life choices, Compassion & Choices, to help Sharon file a lawsuit against a hospital and a nursing home in Lakeland, Florida, for failing to honor her mother's wishes, despite the fact that they had been clearly and legally specified in the DNR. Sharon sued on behalf of her deceased mother, Marjorie Mangiaruca, to ensure no else's parent has to endure this kind of traumatic experience.

In fact, medical professionals override or ignore many patients' decisions in the weeks and months before their deaths. It happens for a variety of reasons and can lead to invasive and fruitless testing, needless suffering, unrelenting pain and a prolonging of the period before death. Patients are tethered to monitors and machines despite their determination to reject treatment and desire to die at home in the embrace of loved ones.

A recent study published in Journal of the American Medical Association found that between 2000 and 2009 treatment in intensive care units in the last month of life increased from 24 to 29 percent. The accompanying editorial concluded, "The focus appears to be on providing curative care in the acute hospital regardless of likelihood of benefit or preferences of patients. If programs aimed at reducing unnecessary care are to be successful, patients' goals of care must be elicited and treatment options such as palliative and hospice care offered earlier in the process than is the current norm."

The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) should deny payment to providers when there is clear evidence that patients were subjected to treatments they didn't want — just as current policies deny payment when patients receive unnecessary treatment. The Justice Department is investigating hospitals and doctors' groups for unnecessary treatment and taking legal action against the perpetrators when they find evidence of such treatment. The same diligence should be trained on unwanted medical treatment. It is always unnecessary and should never be considered acceptable.

Compassion & Choices recently recommended CMS initiate several steps to improve the quality of conversations among health care professionals, patients and families about end-of-life decisions, including:

- Reimbursing medical providers for participation in advanced care planning with patients and their families well in advance of illness or before facing end of life;
- Providing financial incentives and training to encourage medical providers to offer all the information and counseling necessary for a patient's decision making when they secure informed consent;
- Ensuring that the full range of medical care and treatment decisions, including curative care, palliative care and medical assistance in dying, are freely available to patients without institutional or reimbursement barriers.

The explosion of the aging population coupled with the nation's financial and moral commitment to providing health care to an ever-increasing number of Americans reveals that the scourge of unwanted medical treatment must be an urgent priority for our nation.

Mickey MacIntyre is chief program officer for the nation's leading end-of-life choice advocacy group, Compassion & Choices. He recently testified before the Institute of Medicine's Committee on Transforming End-of-Life Care.

Sean Crowley is media relations manager for Compassion & Choices and a former press secretary for U.S. Rep. Sander Levin, the ranking member of the House Appropriations Committee, which has jurisdiction over federal health care programs.

'Interesting contrast' regarding private vendors

As Gomer Pyle would say..." Surprise, surprise, surprise."

Having just started a tupelo honey distribution business, I decided - so I thought - it would be great to be a vendor at the July 3 Apalachicola festivities and, when seeing Joe Taylor scurrying around as usual, approached him with my vendor idea, and my paying a fee for each bottle sold, paid to whichever entity was appropriate.

Joe quickly informed me my fee would have to be 100 percent of my sales proceeds. I thought I had misheard. I was confused. This was not just a "surprise," it was downright amazing and absurd. Who would ever agree to such? Well, Joe said again that's the way it is.

Upon then going to Carrabelle with the same idea, I was told come right on, no fee at all. I insisted on a fee and then approaching their chamber of commerce my proposal was courteously accepted and they welcomed me. An interesting contrast. I am still somewhat perplexed. Where is Gomer when I need him?

Taxpayers should question Bay City closure

"When in the Course of human events it becomes necessary for one people..."

The beginning of a famous document and how appropriate that it must be used once again during this time of year. It has become necessary for the citizens of Franklin County to once again unite as "one" family. A plan has been developed to relocate jobs from the west side of the county and move them to the east. Specifically, closing Bay City Work Camp in Apalachicola to open Franklin Work Camp in Carrabelle.

However, the impact of such a move has not been fully examined. Why is this move necessary? We are told to offset the deficit and no jobs will be lost, so how can this improve the deficit when in fact just the opposite will happen? More correctional officers will be required to operate the larger, new facility at Franklin CI; an additional 10-15 staff will be required to operate with an added cost of $400,000. This comes at a time when the Department of Corrections is facing a shortfall of $40 million during the first month of the new fiscal year. One would conclude that this deficit will only increase over a year's time. Why wasn't this not discussed during the legislative session? When our elected representatives could have questioned senior DOC staff. Instead, this is being fast-tracked and the community will barely have time to respond. Taxpayers should question: Is this a wise investment or an efficient manner with which to spend funds that aren't available? We should question where is DOC coming up with this additional money? Certainly going forward with this plan will not reduce the deficit by one penny. We are told they would save from lower maintenance repairs over the years.

However, little has been spent to upkeep Bay City Work Camp over the years. It appears, just from the surface, a new facility was constructed at a time when the Florida Dept. of Corrections didn't need the beds. Criminal justice estimating conference states in part: The projected prison population is 1,496 lower than the September forecast at the end of fiscal years 2009 through 2010, and even lower at the end of 2104 through 2015. Another reason DOC announced plans in 2012 to close approximately 11 facilities, however, some were spared. Management has long been aware that fewer beds would be required for in the short or long term. So why was the new camp constructed? A question that taxpayers of Franklin County should be asking of the governor and state politicians.

Now to the larger question: What to do with a new facility, let it sit? Probably not; should the employees of Bay City Work Camp in Apalachicola suffer for this poor decision? We are all taxpayers; many questioned the wisdom of constructing this facility. There will be a domino effect should this be fully implemented. For example, the City of Apalachicola will lose approximately $150,000 from the loss of revenue generated from the water/sewer system. Historic Apalachicola could be in jeopardy. Political leaders of the city will weigh out how best to proceed. Will it be worth the investment to continue supervising inmate work squads? How does the city offset this loss? Raising rates on existing customers or laying off employees. Neither one is acceptable to this struggling economy and community.

Franklin County has long been designated one of Critical Economic Concern. At a time when the county commissioners should be looking for answers that would benefit the whole of Franklin County, we find more evidence of political maneuvering that only increases the "which side of the river mentality." We would hope that they could put aside their views for the betterment of the county, and put all their effort into making sure both work camps are in operation, This way new jobs are added thereby increasing the economy in Carrabelle while not diminishing the economy of Apalachicola and Eastpoint. Let's put all of Franklin County to work by keeping Bay City open and bringing Franklin Work Camp online.

Scott signs agreement with Gulf Consortium

Special to the Times

Governor Rick Scott last month announced that he has signed a Memorandum of Understanding with the Gulf Consortium to create a process to develop Florida's State Expenditure Plan for RESTORE funding.

"We need to do everything in our power to make Florida communities impacted by the BP oil spill whole again - and I'm pleased to work with the Gulf Consortium to develop projects for the State Expenditure Plan.

Development of a comprehensive and thoughtful plan will ensure that Florida moves towards environmental and economic recovery of the Gulf," Scott said.

"This agreement with the Governor provides us with the opportunity to fully coordinate the collective efforts of all levels of government to restore and protect Florida's gulf waters," said Grover Robinson, Escambia County Commissioner and Gulf Consortium chairman. "The Gulf Consortium is ready to get to work on a transparent plan that will best enhance the economic and environmental recovery of our coastal communities and the state of Florida."

The agreement lays the groundwork for the Gulf Consortium to work with Scott to ensure funding sources related to the resources and ecosystems sustainability, tourist opportunities, and revived economies of the Gulf Coast States Act of 2012 (RESTORE Act) are maximized when developing a long-term restoration plan for Florida.

Key provisions of the agreement established a streamlined process for review, certification by the governor, and ultimate submission of projects and programs included in the State Expenditure Plan to the Gulf Coast Ecosystem Restoration Council.

The RESTORE Act, passed by Congress on June 29, 2012, creates the Gulf Coast Ecosystem Restoration Council, and establishes various funding categories.

The RESTORE Act will be funded by Clean Water Act civil and administrative penalties paid by responsible parties from the Deepwater Horizon oil spill.

The Council is comprised of the five Gulf State governors and six federal agencies.

In Florida the 23 Gulf Coast counties (Gulf Consortium) are tasked with creating the State Expenditure Plan, which can include both economic and environmental restoration projects.

Island commercial district to add residences

By LOIS SWOBODA

653-1819 | @ApalachTimes
lswoboda@starfl.com

A decision last week by county commissioners opens more of the St. George Island commercial district to residential development.

On July 2, in keeping with recommendation from the planning and zoning board, commissioners voted unanimously to rezone Lots 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5, Block 9, Unit 1 East on St. George Island, from C-2 commercial use to C-4 mixed commercial and residential use. The block of land is adjacent to commercial buildings on the north and west and residences on the south and east.

Last month, Gail Riegel-mayer circulated an email and a map of the proposed change and urged islanders to attend Tuesday's meeting and speak out about the change or contact county commissioners directly.

Several island residents did attend the meeting and voiced their views, but only realtor Mason Bean vocally opposed the change.

"When our early planners laid out Gulf Beaches they did a great job. We only get in trouble when we change it. This is horrible zoning and no planning," he said. "We need a vision for St. George Island. You need a village and something to plan around. We're losing that."

He also said that the change opens the door to denser development on the island.

Island resident and former P&Z board member Mary Lou Short said she favored the change. Referring to the small vertical houses that have come to be called "skinny Minnies" by locals, she said she felt the "honey-moon cottages," lining the beach at island center and on Gunn Road bayside were good for business.

"People like to rent them, especially in the off-season. They like being able to walk to shops and restaurants," she said.

Short said mixed-use zoning to create a town center is a national trend.

Travis Stanley, a realtor with Fickling and Associates, said commercial spaces in Fickling's mixed-use building at 112 Franklin Avenue on the island have been difficult to fill, while the residential portion of the building is in great demand.

"We have tried but there are no takers," he said.

County Planner Alan Pierce said mixed-use development tries to bridge "natural limitations to developing on St. George Island from an environmental standpoint and economic standpoint.

"I would love for downtown St. George Island to be a thriving business community but it's not going to be. There are not enough people living there. Environmental limitations will keep that from ever happening," he said. "I don't want to see (the commercial district) go away but it has been driven by the market. People do like to walk around."

District 1 Commissioner Pinki Jackel, whose district includes the island, supported the zoning change.

"I love these issues on St. George Island because I get a lot of emails and phone calls. In this case, the overwhelming number of comments was in favor of the change," she said. "I share a desire for a comprehensive vision of St. George Island. If this request was in the center of commercial district, I would not be in favor of it but the request is consistent with surrounding structures. I am concerned that we have three commercial structures on the island that are completely vacant."

Jackel said that of 156 vacant commercial lots remaining on the island, 100 are zoned C-2. "The commercial district did not explode to the extent we thought it might, even during periods of economic boom," she said. "I want to see future visioning and I understand a public meeting with planning and zoning will be held on the island in August."

Pierce said Galloway Construction plans to build two cottages and one "skinny Minnie" on the five lots.

Jackel warned Heath Galloway that his company will be held to the highest standards in completing the project. She cautioned him to be sure he arranged for sufficient drainage to prevent water from pooling on adjacent roadways.

Moving days for Eastpoint library

Library workers have begun the arduous task of transferring the collections of the Eastpoint library to their new home.

Librarian Glenda Ondracek is thrilled with her new 5,000 square foot facility but said there is much work to be done before the doors open to the public.

Workers are busy constructing and wiping down metal shelves that will eventually house books. Much of the other furniture is in place but the library staff has faced challenges in accomplishing the much anticipated move.

There were technical problems with running a line to provide internet service to the building. Ondracek said installation of the line is now scheduled to begin earlier this week. There have also been some problems transferring phone service.

None of this has really delayed opening the building.

Unpacking and shelving the books, a monumental task, has begun. Ondracek said she has volunteers coming to help with the project this week. She said the library will probably reopen around August 1.

The new building, a gift from the Friends of the Eastpoint Library, will more than double the space of the old 1,800 square foot storefront. It features offices and multipurpose rooms and, best of all, windows.

A view of the surrounding forest gives the library a restful feel. Ondracek said workers have already spotted a fox. A grand opening for the Eastpoint library is planned for this fall.

Gulf Group penalized for slow progress on fishing pier

By LOIS SWOBODA

653-1819 | @ApalachTimes
lswoboda@starfl.com

Gulf Group will pay penalties for late completion of repairs on the St. George Island fishing pier.

On July 2, Greg Preble of Preble Rish, a county engineering consultant, told commissioners Gulf Group of Panama City, the contractor tapped to repair the St. George Island fishing pier, has fallen behind schedule.

A runaway barge destroyed 165 feet of the pier last year on June 28 during Tropical Storm Debby and left two thirds of the fishing pier inaccessible from land.

Preble Rish created a plan to reconnect the two sections of the pier with a wooden walkway. In January, Gulf Group was awarded the repair contract, which calls for the work to be completed by July 1.

On July 2, Preble said he did not expect the job to be completed before late August. At that time, only a single piling had been placed but, as of July 8, more than a dozen pilings had been installed.

Gulf Group is being penalized $300 daily for missing the June 30 deadline under the liquidated damages clause of their contract. Preble said, in retrospect, he wishes the penalty for lateness had been greater.

"My guess is the county will wind up with a $15,000 credit," said Preble.

In addition to running behind schedule, Gulf Group asked for an additional $17,000 to add three pilings to the design.

County Planner Alan Pierce said the engineer would normally have performed a standard penetration test prior to construction but, in this case, the cost was $50,000 and the county opted to waive the test.

Preble said his firm attempted to predict the condition of the seabed based on tests run during the construction of the two bridges. But when a test piling was driven, it became apparent the heavy current had gouged out unexpected deep holes at the construction site.

Pierce said the county saved money by not performing the test.

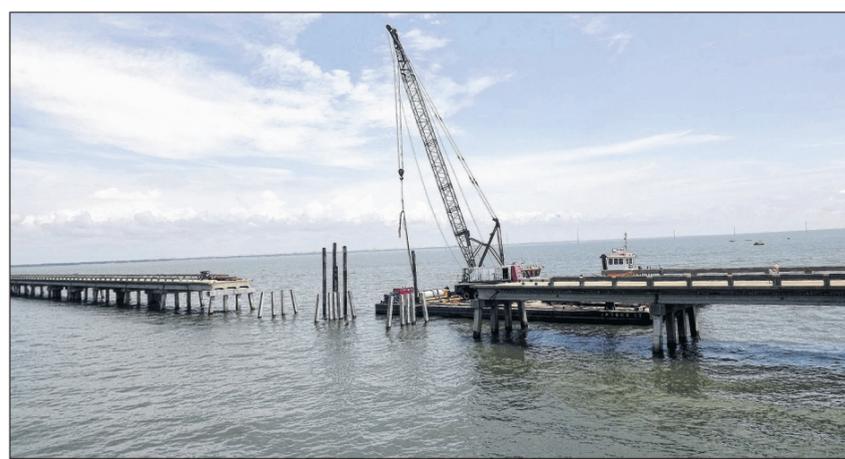

The commission voted unanimously to allow the work change order raising the cost of construction to more than $473,000.

Preble said Gulf Group is "doing what they can to allow some fishing" from the remnants of the pier still in place and not under construction.

He said the new deck connecting the two sections of the old bridge will support foot traffic and light vehicles like golf carts but not cars and trucks.

District 1 Commissioner Pinki Jackel, who represents St. George Island, said she was unhappy with the slow completion of the repairs.

"Make sure you don't waive any penalties. I want you to hold them to the letter of what they're supposed to reproduce,"

LOIS SWOBODA | The Times

Over a dozen pilings are now in place.

she told Preble. "The $300 is a drop in the bucket to what the island merchants would have gotten. The money won't help the merchants at all. We've missed the season."

She said she hoped most of the money spent on the construction would be recovered by the county's lawsuit of Orion Marine Contractors, of Houston, Texas who owned the runaway barge.

Orion, who was in the area as a subcontractor for Progress Energy, is denying liability for the damage, calling the storm an "act of God." The company maintains the barge was properly moored.

The county retained Robert Dees, certified by the Florida Bar in maritime and admiralty law, in the event the county's insurance carrier denies coverage and payment is sought from Progress Energy or Orion for the damages.

In the interim, commissioners voted to fund the repairs out of the $1.66 million in the bridge fund, which was set up by the state after it built the new bridge to St. George Island a decade ago.

At the July 2 meeting, Commissioner Noah Lockley pointed out that the money for the repairs came entirely out of accrued interest and the principal of the fund has not been touched.

King receives governor's 'Shine Award'

On June 27, Governor Rick Scott, shown above with First Lady Ann Scott, left, showed his appreciation for Florida's teachers and applauded their commitment to education by presenting the Governor's Shine Award to 23 District Teachers of the Year for 2013-14. Franklin County's Teacher of the Year, Laura King, center, has spent her 17 year teaching career in the district, where she currently teaches fourth grade. "She creates a nurturing and inviting classroom setting, establishing a positive learning environment for her students to relax, listen and absorb the lessons of the day," wrote the governor's office. "Our students should have access to a high-quality education and Florida's commitment to our teachers plays a critical role in preparing the workforce of tomorrow," said the governor. "In acknowledging great teachers, I have created the Governor's Shine Award to highlight teachers who go above and beyond the call of duty in pursuit of educational excellence. I am proud to present this distinguished award (and) I am also pleased that great teachers across the state will be receiving pay increases for their hard work and dedication to student success."

Joseph Manzanares

JOSEPH MANZANARES

Joseph Manzanares, 77, of Mercer, Wis., died unexpectedly Tuesday, July 2, 2013, at home.

He was born Feb. 6, 1936, in Gary, Ind., son of the late Helen (Geleott) Manzanares Gonzalez and Damian Manzanares, and attended school in Gary. He joined the U.S. Marine Corp. in August 1953, serving his country stateside during the Korean War, and was honorably discharged as a sergeant in August 1956. He then served five years in the USMC Reserve.

On Oct. 27, 1956, Joe married Joyce Olson in Gary, and they moved to Ironwood, Mich. in May 1960. Joe worked as meat manager at the Red Owl in Marenisco for two years, and in the spring of 1962 began a 25-year employment as meat manager at Carlson's Super Market in downtown Ironwood.

Joe and Joyce then built a home on Echo Lake in Mercer in 1982, residing there for the past 31 years.

Joe was an active member of the Mercer United Methodist Church, Mercer Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 9536, Mercer-Manitowish Waters American Legion Post 424, Mercer Lions Club and Mercer Senior Center Disabled Veterans. He was the recipient of the Melvin Jones Award in the year 2000, one of the highest honors in the Lions Club, and was very active in volunteering in the Mercer community.

In earlier years, he coached Little League baseball while his boys were growing up, as well as playing softball himself. He also served on the board of directors of Copper Peak. He enjoyed hunting and fishing and was an avid Chicago White Sox and Bears fan. Joe dearly loved his family and spending time with his grandchildren, and will be deeply missed.

Surviving are his wife, Joyce, of 56 years; four children, Joe (Linda) Manzanares, Pence, Mich.; Lynne Pedri (Alan), Hurley, Mich.; Mark (Stephanie) Manzanares, Ironwood, Mich.; and Michael (Anne) Manzanares, Montreal, Mich.; eight grandchildren, Corey Pedri, Andrea Pedri, Heather (Cory) Sbraggia, Hailey Manzanares (Matt), Miranda Manzanares, Matthew Manzanares, Kohl Manzanares and Ty Manzanares; two great-grandchildren, Braxton and Adisyn Jo Sbraggia; a sister, Dolores (Fred) Mezydlo; and special nephew, Fred (Vicky) Klahn.

Besides his parents, he was preceded in death by a brother, Damian Manzanares. Per Joe's wishes, cremation has taken place.

Memorial services were held Tuesday morning, July 9, preceded by visitation at the Mercer United Methodist Church, with the Rev. Richard Hartlerode, pastor, officiating.

Full military honors were accorded at the church by the combined Mercer VFW Post 9536 and Mercer-Manitowish Waters American Legion Post 424 Honor Guard. A reception followed at The Pines in downtown Mercer.

In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to the Mercer United Methodist Church or the Hurley Booster Club.

Joe's obituary can be viewed online and condolences given the family at www.mckevittpatrickfuneralhome.com. Arrangements have been entrusted to McKevitt-Patrick Funeral Home and Cremation Services of Ironwood.

Don't forget Sacred Heart moving sale this weekend

Quack, quack. Despite all the rain I hope you had a happy and safe Independence Day. Mine was bittersweet.

Thursday morning, I walked over to Chillias Hall and got a copy of the Times. On the door of the hall there was a note that Joe Manzanares had passed away. Joe was a good friend and a snowbird for many years. Joe was fun to be around and he enjoyed the coffee hour at Chillias Hall and was an active member of the Lanark Village Golf Club and the Lanark Village Association. He and his wife Joyce were always there to pitch in and help. Cards may be sent to Joyce Manzanares and family, P.O. Box 316, Mercer, Wisconsin 54547. Joe will be greatly missed. Pray for him and peace and strength for the family.

Rode over to Lanark

Village Boat Club with Dot Bless for the covered dish lunch. The place was wall to wall with friends, neighbors and visitors. Lots of good food and desserts, and not much left over. Thanks to Carol Dadona and helpers, and to those who braved the weather to enjoy the afternoon with us.

In the evening, I was watching the news on Channel 6. They had the cameras over at the July 4 celebration in Sopchoppy. The celebration was in the memory of Bill Stephens and rightfully so. Bill was the founder of the celebration. Bill and his family and I have been friends for many years, and he and I shared the duty of calling bingo in the area.

Don't forget the moving sale on Friday, July 12. All the items from our rectory and guest house will be for sale. The rectory is located at the corner of Spring and Newman streets, and the guest house is on the corner of Carl King and Elm streets here in the village. Sales are from 8 a.m. to noon.

Hope to see you at lunch this afternoon at the Franklin County Senior Citizens Center. Chow line forms at noon. Be watching for you.

Be sure to mark your calendars for Saturday, July 20 and Sunday, July 21. Good start Saturday morning with your sugar fix at the Lanark Village Boat Club. Choose either pancakes or French toast served with bacon, eggs, juice and coffee. All that and stull only $5 donation is required. Yum, yum.

Later on Saturday evening, July 20, you can come on down to the Camp Gordon Johnston American Legion Post 82 and enjoy all the fun things to do at the July birthday bash. The fun starts at 6 p.m.

On Sunday, July 21, we will have our monthly covered dish luncheon at Chillias Hall. Chow line forms at 1 p.m. Pack your favorite dish to share, a donation and enjoy the afternoon with your friends and neighbors, see ya there!

Oh yes, we still have hamburgers and chips on Friday nights at Camp Gordon Johnston American Legion Post 82, and pizza on Sunday nights, 5 to 7 p.m. both nights. Your donation of $6 will get you a huge hamburger with chips. Pizza is a donation of $8 that gets you a large pizza to eat in. A $10 donation will get you a whole pizza to take out. Pizza by the slice is $1 each. How about that?

Be kind to one another check in on the sick and the housebound and remember, contrary to popular opinion God's last name is not damn.

Until next time, God bless America, our troops, and the poor, homeless and hungry.

The Rochelles

I would like to thank God for us for another year on our birthdays 2013. Also we thank our children for our birthday cookout on July 6 and my family and friends.

From Mother Eula and Father Henry Rochelle. We love you all.

First Pentecostal Youth

Dear community, friends, family and tourists, The youth group of Apalachicola First Pentecostal Holiness Church wishes to thank everyone that has supported us in our endeavor to get to Dallas, Texas, for the International Pentecostal Holiness Church Youth Quest Student/Leader Conference and National Fine Arts Competition.

We are grateful to live in a community that is always willing to help and support the youth. We would also like to send a special thank you to our two local grocery stores, Gulfside IGA, and Piggly Wiggly for supporting us. We pray that you all are blessed.

29 people in the group will depart for Dallas on July 18. Please keep us in your prayers for a safe journey.

Gag grouper like this one are a popular summer target on the reefs, particularly in the waters southeast of the Panhandle. Live pinfish are among the top baits.

MIXED GRILL

Summer offers a cornucopia of tasty reef species

By FRANK SARGEANT
franksargeant@charter.net

Whether your taste runs to snappers — red or gray; groupers — red, black or gag; or amberjacks black sea bass and grunts, the heart of the summer is prime time to put some fresh fillets on the grill throughout the Florida Panhandle.

Red snapper season, though short, continues through July 14. Mangrove or gray snapper have no closed season, and neither do red or black grouper. The gag grouper season opened June 1 and continues to Dec. 4, and the AJ season is June 1-July 31. There is no closed season on grunts or black sea bass, smaller fish but just as tasty.

Panhandle waters are blessed with a vast assortment of reef fish habitat, both natural and manmade, and any good charting program — Navionics makes some of the best — can point you toward dozens of likely spots in any seaworthy boat. The Florida Fish & Wildlife Commission also has a complete list of all artificial reefs, with depths and GPS numbers, at <http://myfwc.com/media/131585/reefs.pdf>.

The bottom of much of the Gulf, out to the edge of the continental shelf, is a gentle slope of fairly smooth sand, and this type of bottom does not make good fish habitat. But here and there outcrops of rock or ledges and holes create refuges for the chain of life to gain a foothold. Bait schools gather on these spots, and the larger predators naturally follow. Placing ships or concrete rubble on bottom gives Nature a jump-start, and these artificial structures often begin attracting fish within a few days of placement.

Some of the man-made reefs are barely three miles off the beach, making them easy to get to in most saltwater-type boats. Others are 20 to 30 miles out. In general, those farther from shore tend to have more and larger fish simply because they are fished less. If you don't have a larger boat — 25 feet or more with twin engines is about the safe minimum — you can take advantage of the huge party-boat fleet at all Panhandle ports to get you to the reefs economically and safely.

FRANK SARGEANT | Special to Halifax

King mackerel frequently roam the waters above the reefs, and can readily be caught on flat lines equipped with a live blue runner.

Sonar and GPS are a must for reef fishing, and the new "scanning" sonars are particularly effective — Lowrance, Humminbird, Garmin and others have various models. Basically the GPS gets you on the spot, and the sonar shows you an image of what's there, both in terms of bottom and the fish and bait that's on the structure.

Locating a good spot is only half the battle. Anchoring offshore is an art in itself. The trick is to motor up-current (or upwind if current is negligible) far enough so that when you drop anchor you can back down to put the stern of the boat either directly over the structure or just a few yards upcurrent of it. In water 100 feet deep, this requires a big anchor; a big chain lead, and 500 feet of line to provide adequate scope on a breezy day, so it's no small investment.

Once the boat is properly positioned, it's a matter of dropping the right bait to entice whatever you're after.

Gags and black grouper tend to like hand-sized pinfish better than anything, though any sort of live baitfish will do the job. Red snapper readily grab live threadfins or sardines, jumbo shrimp, or fresh squid, and can also be caught on frozen baitfish when they're in a biting mood. Gray snapper love tiny pinfish or scaled sardines, also big shrimp. Red grouper eat about anything, but take cut bait better than gags.

And amberjack — which are not really bottom fish but are nearly always found circling around bottom structure — are more likely to attack large baitfish like blue runners. (AJs are also suckers for jumbo topwater plugs — the big poppers Northeast anglers use for stripers work well, and the louder you work them, the better.)

Eat your Wheaties if you're going after greater amberjack—they frequently weigh over 40 pounds and are tremendously powerful fish.

Standard reef fishing gear is typically a stout 8-foot rod, 3/0 star-drag reel and 60-pound-test mono, with about 3 feet of 80 pound hard mono or fluorocarbon leader running to a circle hook, size 4/0 to 8/0.

Inshore

Most of the inshore attention is now focused on scallop season. We are seeing good numbers of shells coming to the docks, and the shells are strong and large for this time of summer. Keep your dive flags up, and watch for boaters!

Freshwater

After a near record rainfall this past week, most area lakes and streams are near flood stage, and some still rising as waters from north of us reach the Forgotten Coast this week. Good reports from The Brothers and the Big River of sheephead and channel cats are the only thing we hear right now.

Offshore

Offshore anglers will have the chance one more time to catch state-water snapper this week, ending on Sunday at midnight. Many good-sized fish can be caught near shore, and with all the weather from last week, these fish should bite very aggressively. Watch and know your state water boundaries.

State champ Debs head to World Series

By DAVID ADLERSTEIN
653-8894 | @ApalachTimes
Dadlerstein@starfl.com

Franklin County's Dixie Debs swept through the state tournament last weekend without a loss, and are now poised to represent Florida next month in the World Series in Alexandria, La.

In addition to five straight wins and the state title, for the girls, age 18 and under, Coach Kevin Newell's squad captured the sportsmanship trophy, voted on by the umpires and state directors.

"Our team had an incredible attitude," said Newell. The Debs had lost six players from last year's state champion team, but drew suitable replacements, including Port St Joe's Brittany King, whose two three-run homers in the opening game worried opposing pitchers. "She probably drew the most walks," said Newell.

Anchoring the squad were three returners in their last year - Morgan Newell, Morgan Kelley and Christina Collins.

"They were beyond happy," said the coach. "Those three were pretty emotional they won state again."

Also playing were Shannon Pridgeon, Ally Millender, Gracyn Kirvin, Maddie Newell, Ashley Carroll and Marlyn Lee, and Hannah Winkler. Assistant coaches are Matt Kelley and Allen Millender.

Following the July 4 banquet in Hernando County, the Debs opened Friday morning against host Brooksville, winning 15-3 in five innings. Newell and Carroll shared pitching assignments, with King's two homers highlight of the game.

On Saturday morning, the Debs were victorious 18-14 in seven innings over West Pasco, after they broke the game open with 10 runs in the sixth inning.

"That was just a slugfest," said Kevin Newell. "We gave up 17 walks, that's unreal. That's unlike us. The girls were battling the heat and a tight strike zone and the pitching was just below average that game."

"It was 95 degrees every day. It was brutal hot," he said. "It rained all the way leading up to it and the fields were a mess, but it did not rain on us any."

On Saturday evening, the Debs faced undefeated Wahneta, and won an 8-7 squeaker when Kelley smacked a solo home run in the seventh to break a 6-6 tie.

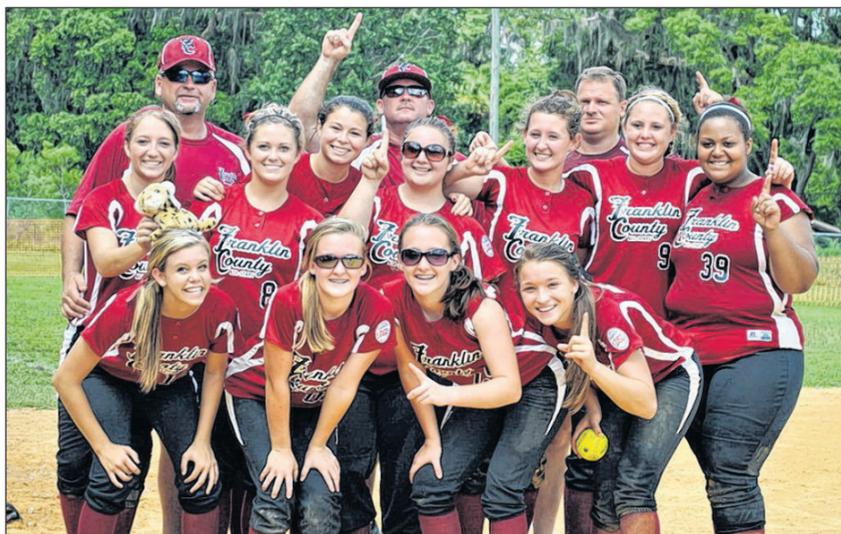

"That was a nail biter, we were pretty evenly matched," said Newell. "That was a slugfest as well. We had almost five players that went 2-for-3 that game. Everyone kind of contributed."

Millender pitched five innings, and Morgan Newell two.

The girls enjoyed a day off Sunday, half of them watching West Pasco defeat Wahneta 9-8, and the others lounging around the hotel to beat the heat.

On Monday morning, the Debs sewed up the state title with a 6-2 win over West Pasco behind a seven-inning, three-hitter tossed by Morgan Newell.

"She pitched a masterpiece, had them off balance the whole game," said Kevin Newell. "We played good defense, got timely hits and timely bunts whenever we need it."

In the fourth inning, with the game tied 1-1, the Debs scored a pair of runs, after King walked, Pridgeon singled, Kelley walked and with bases loaded, Carroll, and then Collins, each batted in a run.

Two more runs in the sixth sewed up the Aug. 2 trip to Louisiana, to compete against a dozen teams from as many states.

"We're full steam ahead on fundraising. We need all the help we can get," said Kevin Newell, estimating it would take between $20,000 and $25,000 to cover the entire trip.

"We're going to start fundraising, bagging for bucks, car washes, and we're still doing the flocking with the birds," he said, noting they had sent out donation letters to local businesses.

If anybody wishes to donate they can do it at any Centennial Bank location under "Franklin County Travel Softball."

Belles runner-up in state title bid

By DAVID ADLERSTEIN
653-8894 | @ApalachTimes
Dadlerstein@starfl.com

The Franklin County Belles battled under brutal heat last weekend at the state tourney in Brooksville, but finished second to powerhouse West Pasco for the second straight year.

"Our girls played five game total in the tournament. We played every single game but one right in the heat of the day, a 100 degree temperature," said Coach Gary Martina. "Our girls played with heart with dignity. They did all they could do. Me and Ward Kirvin were extremely proud of our girls."

The Belles, for girls age 13-15, opened Friday with a 14-8 win over Lake Placid.

"Our girls hit the ball very well, just about every player was getting base hits on that game," said Martina.

Vanessa Simmons pitched three innings, then

Sophia Kirvin, 12, came in and pitched before Krista Martina came in as closer over the last three innings.

Saturday afternoon the Belles topped Mulberry 12-5, with Simmons starting and Kirvin striking out five after entering the second.

In that game Vanessa

Simmons started but she went only the first inning, then Kirvin came in and pitched the rest of the way.

That evening the team faced West Pasco, who had not had a game that day in the afternoon heat.

"Our girls were already tired going up against a team that defeated us last year, the same team, a very stout team," said

Martina pitched all seven innings of this battle of the pitchers. Pasco scored a pair in the first off errors, and Franklin scored one run that first inning.

"We played defense, and the pitchers were hot," said Martina. "That was a battle of the pitchers pitching their best and defense playing at their best. That was a nail biter of a ballgame."

In the fifth inning, the Belles' Allie Kirvin smacked a base hit to tie the game, and it remained 2-2 until the seventh.

As home team, Pasco got last bats, and loaded the bases with no outs. Martina struck out the 10th batter, but the next grounded to third and the umpire ruled the runner had slid under the tag to win the game.

On Sunday the Belles edged Mulberry 7-6 in 10 innings. Simmons and Kirvin split pitching duties until the seventh, when Mulberry had two runners on with one out, and the batter hit a sacrifice deep to center to score both and tie the game at 6-6.

The Belles loaded the bases in both the eighth and ninth innings but couldn't capitalize. Martina's heat kept Mulberry from scoring.

"We got defensive play at short in the 10th, and Martina struck out two with bases loaded," said the coach. "That saved us in the 10th."

In the bottom of the inning, Lacey Hutchins got on base on a shortstop error, then Kimmie Boone laid down a bunt to third base right on the chalk line that advanced Hutchins and filled first.

A grounder by Summer Medley to short led to Hutchins being picked off going to third. A passed ball advanced both Boone and Medley, and then with one out with runners on second and third, Kirvin grounded to second, enabling Boone to score the winning run.

On Monday morning, the Belles would have had to twice defeat Pasco, which had fresher pitchers having only played three games.

Martina hurled her two remaining innings and Kirvin her one, but with their engines spent, the Belles fell 10-0 in five innings.

"We had opportunities, we had people on base but we just couldn't make it happen," Martina said.

The coach was pleased at the strong turnout of Franklin County fans. He said he and Ward Kirvin, along with the parents and players, were thankful for the $2,500 donation from the county commission, and the $1,250 from Apalachicola and $200 from Carrabelle, as well as donations from the youth group at the Carrabelle Church of God and Ace Hardware.

He thanked the Piggly Wiggly for allowing the girls to reap $2,000 in two days of "bagging for bucks" at the store.

"We appreciate it, all those donations and the support we got for us to have a good trip to our state tournament," said Martina. "It was a good comfortable trip; that really helped the players and parents, that's for sure."

The team also included local girls Miranda McLeod, Anna Riley, Adriana Butler and Madison Smith.

Martina singled out the contribution of catcher Sami Beardson, who traveled over from Wakulla County to be a part of the team.

"She caught all the district games in the heat and all five state game in the heat and did an outstanding job," he said. "We were extremely proud of all the girls."
