BONIFAY — Judge Christopher Patterson delivered the final sentencing to Johnny Mack Sketo Calhoun at 1 p.m. Friday, May 11.

The jury had convicted Calhoun of the first-degree murder of Mia Shay Brown and recommended the death penalty. At the time of the conviction, both sides were allowed to plea for or against the death penalty.

Though reversals are rare, the judge has the power to overturn the jury's decision if he sees an error. Judge Christopher Patterson reviewed both arguments for more than a month before Friday's final sentencing.

session, Patterson said that for the first-degree murder of Brown, Calhoun would be sentenced to death, and for the second charge of kidnapping. He would serve a 100-year imprisonment, to be served in the Florida Department of Corrections.

"The defendant shall be remanded to the Florida Department of Corrections for execution of his sentence," Patterson said. "May God have mercy on your

Kiwanis welcomes guest speaker from Covenant Hospice

BONIFAY — Covenant Hospice guest speaker Terri Glass was welcomed at the Holmes County Kiwanis during their regularly scheduled meeting on Wednesday, May 16.

"Mrs. Glass comes to us with a very important service," said HC Kiwanis President Bill Bullington. "The particular service she's introducing right now is rarely known about and that is the service they provide for the children. If anyone knows about our Kiwanis Club, it's that we highly support programs that benefit the children."

Glass said their services not only benefited children that were in the program, but also children of patients.

"When crisis hits, it hits us all, especially the children," said Glass. "Whether that child is a patient or a child of a patient they all need a little extra help coping."

Glass went over various services provided for children, such as camps, counseling and pediatric care.

"We've got a wonderful camp called Camp Monarch and it's held at the Seacrest Wolf Preserve in Vernon in October," she said. "22 children attended last year and we had feedback that 100 percent of those attending were able to better express their feelings about the changes going on in their lives."

The program she was introducing to the Kiwanis Club was the Butterfly Bag Program.

"The Butterfly Bag is a specialized grief kit to help children express and process their feelings of grief and loss," said Glass. "The Butterfly Bag has age-appropriate materials that are carefully selected for children to use who have experienced loss. There is also a Parent Pack included, which has helpful information about how to talk to children about issues related to death and dying."

She said it takes an average of $75 to create each bag.

"We even do a follow-up on the usefulness of these bags," said Glass. "Everyone we've contacted has told us that they do use these bags and they do make a difference in home counseling."

Glass said that there are still continued efforts to raise money to maintain these services and announced this year's upcoming Garden Gala 2012, which will be $60 per individual or $100 per couple held from 6-9 p.m. on Saturday, June 9 at the Donald E. Price Activity Center at 4792 Highway 90 in Marianna.

All proceeds from this event will be going to fund the unfunded or under-funded programs of Covenant Hospice, which includes Bereavement, Chaplain Services, Children's Support and Volunteer Services.

The event includes an evening filled with art, tastings, exhibits, live music and dinner. There will also be featured hand painted terra cotta pots, custom constructed Adirondack chairs, benches and swings hand-painted by local artists.

soul."

Calhoun had the same reaction to the sentencing that he did when he walked into the courtroom so many times before, somber and unresponsive.

"He's had a year to think about this," said State Attorney Glenn Hess. "He knew when he first walked into court what he had done and what his sentence would be."

Hess said with the help of modern technology and the immense cooperation of all the emergency, forest and law enforcement agencies, the case was able to "come together efficiently and justice could be executed swiftly."

Members of the Brown family said they were relieved the painful ordeal was over.

"The death of my daughter has impacted my family and myself in countless ways," said Nancy Williams, Brown's mother. "Minds are forever etched with pictures and testimony of a life cut short in a horrific inferno. Mia, her family and friends are not the only victims; everyone who has had to participate in viewing this monstrous treatment of humanity is a victim, too."

She said for her, the healing process starts now, with closure found in the final sentencing of Calhoun.

"I would've have preferred that he receive a life sentence in solitary confinement, but this will have to do," Nancy Williams said.

James Williams, Brown's father, said he felt justice was served.

"It's a life for a life," he said. "He said he gave his life to God, and now it's time for him to man up and lay down his life for the life he has stolen."

A scholarship has been set up in Mia Brown's name at Bethlehem High School. For those who are interested in donating, an account is set up at the First Federal Credit Union under the Mia Shay Brown Scholarship.

"This is the best way we can honor her memory," Nancy Williams said. "Helping others as we know she would have done herself."

2 Bonifay brothers lost at sea in 1941 sinking of Reuben James

A few days ago, I met up with Daniel Smith of the Bethlehem School community, and he asked me if I knew anything about the Reuben James, the

HAPPY CORNER
Hazel Wells Tison

Naval Destroyer. I said it kind of rings a bell. Wasn't there a song about it? As it turned out, Daniel had done a good bit of research on the subject and had presented a program at the recent Sons of the Confederacy meeting. His interest had been stirred by a book Dudley (Pippin) Smith had written. Smith is the stepson of Junior Smith, the brother of Hubert Smith, Daniel's late father.

Dudley Smith's mother, Iris Harris, lost her brothers in the attack on the Reuben James. The story appeared on the front page of the Nov. 7, 1941, issue of the Holmes County Times-Advertiser. Volunteers Charles Harris, a seaman, and his half-brother Corbin Dyson, a radio operator, both from Bonifay, they were among the 44 casualties of the disaster.

The Reuben James had been commissioned in 1919 and named for Naval Hero Reuben James (1776—1838). Assigned to the Atlantic Fleet, it saw duty in the Mediterranean Sea, the Adriatic Sea and other humanitarian efforts. Before the U.S. was involved in WWII, the Reuben James was assigned to the Neutrality Patrol guarding the Atlantic and Caribbean approaches to the American coast. Then she joined a convoy escort to promote the safe arrival of material to the United Kingdom. This escort guarded convoys as far as Iceland where they then became the responsibility of the British.

While performing this duty, on Oct. 23, 1941, Reuben James was torpedoed by German U-Boats near Iceland by a group of submarines known as a "wolfpack" that preyed on Allied shipping. Although the German U-Boat Captains had been warned not to fire of USA ships, they claimed to have mistaken the Reuben James for a British ship. It was hit and the entire bow was blown off when a magazine exploded. The entire bow sank immediately and the aft section went down after 5 minutes. This was the first United States Navy ship sunk by hostile action in WWII.

Of the 159 man crew, 44 survived. Besides Dyson and Harris, two other west Florida sailors were on the casualty list, Lloyd Sims a water tender from Marianna and Orvin Merritt, seaman, of Baker. This incident happened less than two months before the U.S. was plunged into WWII by the Japanese bombing of Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941.

At the time of their deaths, Corbin Dyson and Charles Harris were survived by one brother who became a Navy Bomber Pilot. In Smith's book, he tells a story related by his Uncle Y.J.

Rushing home to his mother's side after the death of his two brothers, Memorial to Corbin Dyson and Charles Harris, two Bonifay brothers lost at sea in 1941.

Captains had been warned not to fire of USA ships, they claimed to have mistaken the Reuben James for a British ship. It was hit and the entire bow was blown off when a magazine exploded. he was stopped for speeding. The officer said, "Let me see your pilot's license. Y.J. handed him the pilot's license. The officer studied it for a moment, handed it back and walked back to his patrol car and drove away. He had recognized him as the brother of the two war casualties. Y.J. Dyson died in 1993.

Other survivors listed were his mother, Oma Harris, brother of James Harris and two sisters, Iris Pippin Smith, the mother of Dudley Smith, and Eloise Harris. Some old time residents will remember the widow

Harris and her children living about where the Piggly Wiggly is now located in north Bonifay. I remember Eloise and James, but not Iris. All are now deceased. Iris and Junior Smith had five children, all of whom are surviving. Oma Harris' first husband's father was a brother to the late Bunk Dyson, the father of Alton and the late Jimmy Dyson.

I am indebted to Daniel Smith for sharing this information so that we may honor these two Holmes County fallen heroes as we observe Memorial Day this weekend.

In Memory of
MILTON STRICKLAND
Aug. 23, 1940 - May 26, 2011

"When we build, let us think we build forever. Let it not be for present delight nor for present use alone. Let it be such work that our descendants will thank us for; and that men will say as they look upon these buildings, 'See, this our fathers did for us.'"

Milton Strickland left a legacy of several hundred houses that he built in Washington County during the 52 years that he worked in the construction industry. He loved to build houses, teach God's Word, fish, and play his fiddle. He always put his family first, and was willing to help those in need. We are thankful to have had him as a husband, father, and grandfather. We miss him.

Hooked on Outdoors

If there is any doubt whether we had a disastrous cobia season, just look at the results of the two biggest cobia tournaments.

The Lighthouse Marina tournament that ran a month had only five fish entered. That's five fish in 30 days of fishing by some of the best cobia fishermen in this area.

The Mexico Beach tournament extends for more than a month and is one of the longest running tournaments in this area. It had three fish entered.

If this happens next year the people who control the limits and lengths of cobia had better take a hard look at the cobia population. They might need to tweak some limits or we may not be having a cobia season for long.

On both the county and city pier, Spanish mackerel are the main event. Kings are being caught early and late in the afternoon. The key words are early and late.

Live bait is no problem. Greenbacks and cigar minnows are thick as well as hardtails. A hardtail probably would be the best bait for a king, but remember a big bluerunner likely will attract a big king, so have a rod stout enough and with enough line to turn a big fish. You can't run him down like you can on a boat.

Redfish also are being caught, but most have to be returned because they are too large to keep. Don't gaff these fish because they cannot be harmed.

Bluefish are biting at night along with a few whiting. Shark fishermen are catching a few black tips both day and night.

A few pompano are being caught early in the morning. Pompano jigs tipped with sand fleas or crabs to give them some smell seem to be working.

The rivers may rise a little after the rains we had here and in Alabama, but it doesn't seem like that will be a negative factor. Bream fishing has been off a little, but we are hoping it will pick up on the next full moon.

I had a friend coming down to fish this month's full moon at Carter Tract. He said at that location you don't need a full moon to catch fish, and that is true. A cricket or floating fly will catch them up there almost any time.

The state alligator harvest season is Aug. 15 through Nov. 1.

Now is time to apply for hunting permits

By STAN KIRKLAND

Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission

Those people looking for a different type of hunting experience will have their chance. The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission is accepting permit applications to hunt alligators during the upcoming season.

The state alligator harvest season is Aug. 15 through Nov. 1. It is the 25th year Florida has had a statewide alligator hunting season.

Steve Stiegler, a wildlife biologist in the alligator management program, said about 5,800 permits will be available this year, which is down slightly from 2011. Each alligator harvest permit allows the trapper to take up to two alligators.

"We survey a number of lakes and rivers around the state, and for the most part the alligator population is stable," he said.

If previous years are an indicator, somewhere between 7,000 and 8,000 alligators will be bagged during the 11-week season.

The statewide alligator harvest Phase I application period began May 2 and will run through May 16. Applicants may submit only one application, with the chance of being drawn for one of five hunt choices and hunting periods. It is a random draw selection.

Any permits not issued after the Phase I period will be issued through Phase II and if needed, Phase III application periods.

Alligator harvest applications can be submitted at any county tax collector's office, license agent (retail outlet that sells hunting and fishing licenses) and online at fl.wildlifelicenses.com. Applications are not accepted by mail.

Permits for Florida hunters cost $272. That includes two CITES tags, which must be affixed to each harvested gator. Non-residents must pay $1,022.

Stiegler said it's common for permitted gator trappers to have one or more assistants on board the vessel to help them. Each assistant must have a $52 Alligator Trapping Agent's License.

Florida's alligator population today is a far cry from 1967, when alligators landed on the endangered species list. Today, estimates put the alligator population in Florida waters around 1.3 million animals. Across their range, Florida's alligator population ranks second only to that of Louisiana.

FWC rules don't specify an upper limit to the size of the gator, only that they have to be larger than a hatchling (18 inches).

Gator trappers can hunt during their assigned period from 5 p.m. to 10 a.m. each day. Most use either a detachable gig or harpoon, crossbow or bow-and-arrow, with the gig, bolt or arrow tied to a restraining line, or a rod and reel with a snatch hook. Gator hunters in Florida are not allowed to use conventional firearms, but a bangstick can be used to kill the alligator.

Some gator hunters who are successful in bagging a gator choose to process the animals themselves for the edible meat and hides. Others may sell the carcass to an alligator processor, or make a deal with a processor to split the head, hide and meat.

Speak your mind on rattlesnakes during public comment period

Special to Florida Freedom Newspapers

By TOM R. MACKENZIE
Special to Florida
Freedom Newspapers

Several conservation organizations are seeking protection for the eastern diamond rattler.

On May 9, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service announced a 90-day public comment period or finding on a petition to list the eastern diamondback rattlesnake as threatened and designate critical habitat for the species under the Endangered Species Act.

The petition was submitted last summer by the Center for Biological Diversity, the Coastal Plains Institute Inc., Protecting all Living Species and One More Generation.

If the finding determines the petition presents strong information indicating this rattlesnake is endangered, USFW will undertake a more comprehensive review of the snake's status throughout the species' range to determine whether listing is warranted.

Eastern diamondbacks can grow to a length of more than eight feet and are the largest rattlesnakes in the world. The eastern diamondback historically ranged along the coastal lowlands of the southeastern United States from North Carolina to eastern Louisiana, including all of Florida and its Keys.

Although once abundant in longleaf pine ecosystems across the southeastern United States, its population size and range has declined. Nearly all of the old growth longleaf pine savannas are gone, and the eastern diamondback survives wherever its native habitats still exist or where open-canopy forests and grasslands are similar to longleaf pine savannas.

USFW is asking for information from state and federal natural resource agencies and all interested parties regarding the eastern diamondback rattlesnake and its habitat. Based on the status review, the service will make one of three possible determinations:

- They may decide the listing is not warranted, in which case no further action will be taken.

- The diamondback also may be listed as threatened or endangered. In this case, USFW will publish a proposal to list, solicit independent scientific peer review of the proposal, seek input from the public and consider the input before a final decision about listing the species is made. In general, there is a one-year period between the time a species is proposed for listing and the final decision.

- They may determine the listing is warranted but precluded by other, higher priority activities. This means the species is added to the federal list of candidate species, and the proposal to list is deferred while USFW works on listing proposals for other species that are at greater risk.

Mississippi, Georgia and Florida.

"This year will be a lot of teaching because of the newcomers, but by the end of the year we should be a pretty solid team," said coach Charles Cole. "I hope that we will have more fans this year and that our players will reach out to the community for support."

BETHLEHEM — Seniors Kaylin Griffin and Tyler Walker were big winners when Bethlehem High School held its annual Athletic Banquet on May 14 to honor varsity and junior varsity athletes before a packed house.

Griffin was named the Jack Davis Memorial Award winner for 2012, an award given to the outstanding female athlete, based on both athletic and academic performance. Griffin also received the annual Pride of the Black and Gold Award and the BHS Booster Club's $250 Wildcat 110 Scholarship.

Walker was chosen the Jack Davis Memorial Award outstanding male athlete of the year, and he also received the annual Pride of the Black and Gold Award and the BHS Booster Club's $250 Wildcat 110 Scholarship.

The Jack Davis Memorial Award is presented by the Holmes County Times-Advertiser each year to the school's top athletes as chosen by faculty.

Senior Devin Miller was also awarded a Pride of the Black and Gold Award.

Golf coach Russell Stafford kicked off the awards portion of the evening by honoring his golf team members, which include Timmy Stevens, Chase Griffin, Devin Miller and Troy Davis.

"Change is inevitable, but growth is optional," Stafford said. "When you have have ability to plan for growth, then you really have something." The golf program at BHS is small, but it is definitely growing, Stafford said. "With these young men, we had our best record thus far in the sport of golf."

The BHS cheerleaders were introduced by sponsor Betty Lewis and the squad was congratulated on their season. Cheerleaders are Patricia Lewis, Karissa Price, Katelynn McQuaid, Bethany Seay, Rebecca Jones, Alexis Windham, Courtney Henderson, Heather Barnes and Haley Bodie. The girls were honored by their sponsor, Betty Lewis.

"As we went along in the season, we got better," coach Andrew Sumner said of the BHS junior varsity girls basketball team. Team members include JoJo Wood, Sarah Covell, Madison Sketoe, Adryan Alred, Sayge Evans, Alexx Royals, London Imersi and Allyson Dady.

"You don't realize how big it is to have a Booster Club," Sumner said, one of many compliments throughout the evening to the Wildcats Booster Club and its membership. "What people who don't work the stands don't realize, is they are missing a chance to watch their child grow and improve. How awesome is that?"

Sumner also introduced the varsity girls basketball team members include Emily Champion, Madison Collins, Erin Dady, Kazzie Ellenburg, Morgan Gilmore, Kaylin Griffin, Savannah Miller, Hanna Moller and Summer Potter.

Collins was named Most Improved, and Griffin was named MVP and also played on the All-Star team, Sumner said. Savannah Miller received the Coaches Award.

Coach Carson Lassiter said the junior varsity boys basketball team played a bunch of games but didn't win one until the last game. "We were physically outmanned but our kids stood up to those other teams. It's easy to give up when you aren't winning, but our boys kept on working. I'm proud of them."

Members of the JV boys basketball squad include Austin Jordan, Shannon King, Trace Head, Daniel Brown, Josh Jordan, Tyler Bailey, Eli Hendrix, Mason Wallace, Caleb Brannon, Dakota Potter, Peyton Mathews, Gene Myers, Jacob Vickers, Will White and Kobe Hendrix.

Lassiter also commended the Booster Club, and said "we always can use more people to help."

He said the varsity basketball squad had a winning 14-13 season, and improved steadily throughout the season. "We played Bonifay, Malone and Paxton, and we stood up to those big schools," Lassiter said. "You can be successful if you have talent, but if you can build success into your program, then you really have something."

The varsity boys basketball squad members are Chase Griffin, Tyler Walker, Devin Miller, Shade Sconiers, Austin Boyd, Jeremy Hollobaugh, Andrew McQuaid, B.J. Stephens, Chandler Whigham and Brett Mitchell.

WHTC Foundation Inc. holds annual meeting

Special To the News

CHIPLEY — Wednesday morning, May 16, was a busy time for the Washington-Holmes Technical Center Foundation, Inc., starting with a meeting of the Committee of Trustees at 9 a.m., which was followed at 10 a.m. by the annual meeting of the Florida not-for-profit corporation. The foundation was formed in May of 1987 to provide financial assistance to students attending the Technical Center's various courses, but the Foundation is a separate legal entity and not part of the school system. This fiscal year the Foundation has provided financial assistance to over 50 WHTC students so they could enroll or complete courses over multiple semesters. Students for the WHTC programs can apply for Foundation assistance through the WHTC enrollment process, and the school screens all applicants so that any other available financial aid for which a student qualifies has been obtained first. The Foundation is in the final weeks of its annual fund raising program and donation forms are available from members of the Foundation and the WHTC main office. Part of the Annual Meeting was the selection of new directors and trustees to take office on July 1st for 3-year terms. There are 9 directors with 3-year terms set so that 1/3rd of the director terms expire each year on June 30. New Directors taking office July 1st are John Dougherty, Jim Town, and Vickie Williams, with Directors Bill Howell, Martha Compton, Ken Stoutamire, Wayne Saunders, Zenna Corbin, and Bert Roberts continuing in office for the remainder of their 3-year terms. New officers were also elected with 3-year terms commencing July 1 with Bill Howell as chairman, Vickie Williams as vice chair and John Dougherty as treasurer. PET CANCER AWARENESS MONTH

Awareness helps teach pet owners about leading cause of death

May has been named Pet Cancer Awareness Month. This month is designed to bring awareness to pet owners about the leading cause of death in pets, cancer. Dr. Heather Wilson-Robles, assistant professor for Small Animal Clinical Sciences at the Texas A&M College of Veterinary Medicine & Biomedical Sciences (CVM) said cancer accounts for nearly 50 percent of all disease-related pet deaths each year. "Fifty percent of all dogs over the age of 10 will die from cancer, and 25 percent of all dogs get cancer," Wilson-Robles said. Certain breeds, such as Golden Retrievers, Rottweilers, and German Shepherds are considered at-risk breeds and have a higher risk of getting cancer. Wilson-Robles said these breeds can have up to a 70-80 percent chance of getting cancer in their lifetime. Wilson-Robles added that the number one type of cancer in dogs is Lymphoma, accounting for 24 percent. One goal of Pet Cancer Awareness Month is to inform pet owners of symptoms to look for in their pet. Wilson-Robles said to pay attention to bigger lymph nodes or, for oral cancer, bad breath and blood on a toy. Sometimes, the owner may notice the dog's activity to be lower or a decrease in food consumption, Wilson-Robles said. A lot of times, she said, the dogs feel fine so the owners do not notice a change in the pet. "Once (the dogs) start treatment and . . . start feeling better, (the owners) did not realize how much (the cancer) was affecting (the dogs)," Wilson-Robles said. Wilson-Robles stressed that wellness checks every year or six months are key to cancer prevention. "Sometimes, in many cases, by the time (the animals) are already effected and sick it may be too late (for treatment)," Wilson-Robles said. To ensure the cancer is detected in time, she urged pet owners to take a dog to the veterinarian if cancer is suspected and let them do blood work and biopsies. If cancer is spotted, Wilson-Robles said there are various treatment options for most types of cancer. "Once you know what it is you're fighting then we can talk about various treatment options . . . there is usually something we can do," she said. Cancer treatment in dogs is similar to that of humans. Wilson-Robles said different treatment options for different cancers include chemotherapy, radiation, surgery, and therapy. There is also different experimental research such as clinical trials. The CVM, for example, has eight different clinical trials currently ongoing and various options using the new Diagnostic and Imaging Cancer Treatment Center or oncology services, Wilson-Robles said. Although frequent wellness checks allow for a better chance to detect the cancer, there are not many ways to actually prevent the disease. Wilson-Robles recommended a few tips that may help reduce the risk of cancer. She said that, as with humans, cancer in dogs has been tied with obesity. For this, she suggested keeping dogs fit. She added to avoid chemicals such as yard sprays and limit the UV exposure of dogs and cats with light-colored skin by using sunscreen, UV shields on windows or T-shirts.

Can the American church afford a revival?

By REV. JAMES L SNYDER

Every move of God in every generation has carried a cost factor that has effectively stripped the church of everything superficial. To say that today’s church is not floundering in the soup of superficiality is to not have a good perspective on what’s happening today.

Revival, whatever that means, is God’s way of sweeping the church floor clean of things no longer needed. I think one of the most misunderstood words in Christendom today is revival. Revival covers a multitude of whims.

Recently, I was driving along and saw a sign that said, “Revival nightly at 7:30 p.m.” This certainly was not a prophetic utterance because that so-called revival came and went without any impact upon the community. Christians have a bad habit of using words that have long ago lost their meaning. Consequently, the true essence of Christianity has been lost.

This past Easter, I noticed several things that I’m not sure I ever seen before. One church not too far from me had a Good Friday re-enactment of the crucifixion of Jesus Christ. People volunteered for one hour shifts of hanging on the cross, replicating the crucifixion of Jesus Christ.

Just south of where I live, there is a Christian theme park that re-enacts the crucifixion of Jesus Christ six times a day. Men are hired, with salary and benefits, including health, to re-enact the crucifixion.

When did the crucifixion of Jesus Christ become a form of entertainment? What kind of Christianity promotes such activity that, in my opinion, borders on the blasphemous?

This past Easter Sunday one church in our community hired a helicopter to fly over the church building and drop candy for all the children to pick up. I’m still trying to figure out what a helicopter and dropping candy has to do with the glorious resurrection of Jesus Christ.

Have Christians lost their mind? Have they forgotten what the death, burial and resurrection of Jesus Christ is all about?

How can something that is so central to the Christian faith be so trivialized?

This generation of Christians have so dumbed-down Christianity and made it a form of entertainment for the pleasure of quasi-Christians who think they are Christians but fall short of the biblical standard. When churches come to the point of catering to the religiously bored by making services mere entertainment, something has gone wrong.

Without question, what is needed today is a move of God among the people of God. In reading the history of revivals it is very clear that when God moves He starts with his people: 2 Chronicles 7:14 (KJV) “If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land.”

Without question, such is needed in this generation of Christianity. Revival is not a capricious move of God rather something that is well-defined and follows scriptural laws.

When God begins to move, there several cost factors that must be in place.

To begin with, the church must denounce sin in every form. The church, in a back-sliding stance, is always excusing sin and eventually accepts sin in its midst. If we are going to see God move in our generation, every form of sin within the church needs to be dealt with and rooted out.

It is rather useless to denounce sin out in the world when there’s a significant amount of sin being harbored within the church. We must put our own house in order before we can dictate the conduct of the world. And, our house really is out of order.

It is difficult to find the sin out in the world that has not made in-roads into the church. If we are going to see God move it will cost us to denounce the sin within.

Another cost factor would be in the area of rebuking heresy and heretics within the church. Behind every heresy is a heretic promoting it, usually for personal profit. In our generation heretic to become celebrities and in effect are ruling in the church. Whatever doesn’t live up to the word of God must be called out and repudiate with all vigilance.

Also, we must repudiate the culture in which we live. We can’t reach a culture that we have coddled and approved.

St. Thomas Aquinas said, “The paradox of history that each generation is converted by the saint who contradicts it the most.”

Where are those things that contradict our generation today? They are usually pushed to the background to give way for celebrity who is endorsing the culture. Nowhere in the Scriptures are we given a commission to save the culture. We are to go into all the world and preach the gospel, and the thing that hinders the preaching of the gospel is always the culture.

The celebrity ministers who seemingly get ahead are those who have successfully embraced the culture in its most refined fashion. The problem is, a pig is a pig regardless of the garments it might be wearing.

If we go along to get along we only curse the generation in which we live. The church needs to stand up in the power and demonstration of the Holy Spirit and contradict everything that is in the culture today. Regardless of how refined paganism is it is still paganism and the message of the cross is the message of redemption. If the culture is as good as some people insist, why did Jesus die on the cross?

We have a commission from our Lord to reach our generation for Jesus Christ. Only the church that contradicts the culture can ever hope to reach that generation. And when God moves in, superficiality begins moving out.

Another cost factor in every revival was a radical realignment of the church with the person of Christ. When I talk about the church I’m referring to the individuals that make up the church. The church is not a building, it is not a creed, it is not a tradition, it is the individual that has embraced the Lord Jesus Christ.

The Christ that we represent is the Christ of Revelation, chapter 1. It was this Christ John the rebel later saw, and he fell at his feet. We need to humble ourselves before this resurrected Christ.

There are aspects about him that seemingly have been lost in this generation of Christians.

The Christ of Revelation, chapter 1, is transcendent. That is, higher than the highest there is — nothing is above him. He transcends everything that we can see around us. He who is the creator is far above that creation which he spoke into being.

This Christ is also majestic. There is nothing or no one to even compare with this Christ of revelation. The Majesty of him far exceeds the ability of any of his creation to truly appreciate. When John saw this Christ standing in the midst of the church, he witnessed the glory of God and honored the global radiance.

Because this Christ is transcendent and just, he is the only one worthy of our worship. Nothing else should so engage our heart as this Christ of Revelation, chapter 1. He is above all and beyond all things. His glory far exceeds the glory of the kings and kingdoms of this world. And he is the only one that is worthy of us bowing, adoring and worshipping.

We cannot appreciate the glory of this one to we have made a clean break with sin and heresy and the pagan culture around us. All of these things undermine and compromise our ability to know this Christ.

Once we have a glimpse of this one in the midst of his church, our worship also developed into a proclamation of this one to the entire world around us. Our message is that of Christ. The only thing we talk about is Jesus Christ. We are not to go and clean up the culture, but to contradict the culture and present to this culture a Christ to repudiate it in all of its forms.

The Deeper Meaning of Scripture

There will always be debate about how to interpret certain scriptures, for instance whether to interpret them literally or figuratively. Unfortunately, the Bible doesn’t come with a built-in “User’s Guide” to tell us how, but there is a long history of commentary on the Bible which can be helpful. Augustine tells us in Book V of his Confessions that he was relieved to learn from Bishop Ambrose that he need not take the entire Bible literally, since many passages of the Old Testament “had been death to me when I took them literally.”

“Is not my word like fire,” declares the LORD, “and like a hammer that breaks a rock in pieces?”
Jeremiah 23:29

Augustine heard Ambrose interpret passage after passage of the Old Testament figuratively, interpreting them spiritually rather than literally. The Bible is full of metaphors and allegories that are clearly not meant to be taken literally. Whether we take a particular passage literally or not, nothing prevents us from also interpreting it spiritually. Is there not a spiritual message in the story of Adam and Eve’s disobedience to God and expulsion from the Garden of Eden? Isn’t the deeper meaning here that our disobedience to God banishes us from His presence? We should read the Bible with openness to new interpretations, and thereby to new interpretations of ourselves.

Senior Chase Griffin was named MVP and also played in an All-Star game, Lassiter said. Senior Devin Miller was named best defensive player and Senior Shade Sconiers got the teams of-fense award. Most Improved went to Juniors Jeremy Hollobaugh and Andrew McQuaid, and McQuaid also won the Coaches Award.

Coach Lisa Mathews said volleyball is a new sport at BHS, but that hasn't hampered its popularity. "I had 36 girls try out for next year's team," she said.

Junior varsity volleyball squad members are Josie Dampier, Kelsey Enfinger, Milli Beall, Emily Deal, Raina Harris, Morgan Gilmore, Katelynn McQuaid, Savannah Stephens, Ashley Dean and Harlie Peters.

"This year has been really tough," Mathews said of the varsity volleyball squad's season. "We had one senior, and it's really hard to play a team with six or eight seniors, but our girls stood up to them and got in their faces like nobody's business."

The BHS varsity volleyball team includes Kaylin Griffin, Savannah Miller, Savannah Lee, Summer Potter, Hanna Moller, Stephanie Sellers, Melanie Goddin and Kaitlyn Parrish.

Kaylin Griffin was named MVP, Summer Potter was named Best Server and Hanna Mollet was named Best Defense. Savannah Lee was named Most Improved.

Junior varsity baseball players for BHS include J.J. Graham, Tyler Bailey, Peyton Mathews, Mason Wallace, Hunter Helms, Will White, Tanner Mims, Trevor Mims, J.J. Paul, Roman Brown, Colton Gillespie and C.J. Johnson.

On the softball side, the JV team won two games. "Like a lot of JV sports, the team is mostly middle school, and running bases on a high school field is a challenge. Throwing from one base to another can be a challenge."

HOW TO WRITE A CLASSIFIED AD

8 Simple Steps to Creating a Classified Ad That Sells:

- 1 What do you have to offer?
Start your advertisement by naming the item or service you are presenting.
- 2 Are you being clear?
Complete, concise information will encourage a quick response from readers.
- 3 Can the reader reach you?
Be sure to include your telephone number or address. If necessary, list a preferred time to have potential buyers contact you.
- 4 Are you giving your ad enough exposure?
Consecutive publication of your ad will generate the greatest amount of reader attention. Generally, a 8-day run time is the best and most cost-effective arrangement.
- 5 What's the best part of your offer?
Identify and write about the most beneficial feature of the product or service you are advertising.
- 6 Have you covered all of your bases?
Make sure you are providing sufficient information about the merchandise or service you are offering, including the price!
Does the reader know what you are selling, why they should buy it and how they can contact you for more information?
- 7 How can you reach the greatest number of prospective buyers?
Place your classified ad in Washington County News Holmes CountyTimes-Advertiser
- 8 Call Today...
