New clinic helps poor, uninsured

BONIFAY — When First Baptist Church of Bonifay opened the Holmes County Community Health Clinic May 5 in the Lottie Moon house, it brought to the area of poor and uninsured more than much-needed medical care — the clinic also serves as a ministry and cuts down on unnecessary trips to the emergency room.

“I have been told that something like 80 percent of emergency room visits aren’t emergencies,” said the Rev. Shelly Chandler, pastor of the First Baptist Church. “Clinics like this save millions of dollars in visits to the ER.”

The clinic is run with volunteer help and is open two Saturdays a month, Chandler said, and is organized through the state of Florida. “We wouldn’t be able to do this without the immunity the state provides. The state takes away the liability as long as the clinic is staffed by volunteers.”

The clinic was the idea of Diane Little and Dr. Lisa Bailey, who had helped out in a similar clinic and returned to Bonifay with a plan, he said. There are 79 similar clinics spread across the state. “It doesn’t have to be a church, any organization can open one,” he said.

The church provided the house for the clinic, and the services are provided free to clients who meet the requirements, based on double

‘WITH SACRED VIGILANCE’

Memorial Day honors veterans past and present

“We should guard their graves with sacred vigilance,” said Maj. Gen. John A. Logan. “Let pleasant paths invite the coming and going of reverent visitors and fond mourners. Let no neglect, no ravages of time, testify to the present or to the coming generations that we have forgotten as a people the cost of a free and undivided republic.”

It was three years after the Civil War ended, on May 5, 1868, that the leader of the Grand Army of the Republic, the organization over veterans’ affairs of that time, created Decoration Day as a time to remember fallen soldiers and decorate their graves with flowers.

Logan created an order for this day to be established on May 30, when all the flowers were in bloom

Brown seeks superintendent position

From Staff Reports

BONIFAY — Buddy Brown of Westville is seeking the office of superintendent of schools for Holmes County.

Brown said he intends to utilize his diverse leadership experience in guiding the Holmes School District, he said in a news release. He believes in fiscal responsibility but that the focus and priority of education must be centered on the students and children of the community.

With the many challenges presently confronting Florida schools and even more so the small and rural districts of Florida, Brown said he feels that now is a prime time to address the lack of consideration of the needs of the rural and small districts within the state legislature.

“The importance of developing and building a school district infrastructure that can adapt to the changing needs of the community and the whims of the state and federal legislation is ever more apparent today,” Brown said.

Brown is a third-generation educator. His grandfather was a certified teacher dating back to the early 1900s, and a number of his aunts began their teaching careers in Holmes County

Bonifay mayor recognizes fire department

Special to the News

BONIFAY — Mayor Lawrence Cloud recognized the Bonifay Fire Department for their outstanding work on May 14.

In appreciation of the city’s support, Bonifay Fire and Rescue bought and presented Cloud and the city council members a new gavel, which replaces the City of Bonifay traditional rubber mallet used as a gavel for council meetings.

Council member Richard Woodham suggested the city move a wall out 4 feet to make room for new equipment for 911 dispatch and ask the county to pay for the materials. The council approved of writing a letter to the Holmes County Board of County Commissioners requesting them to pay for the materials and have the inmates do the labor.

The council approved of requesting $60,000 for the street department and $60,000 for the fire department from the BOCC for this upcoming budget year.

In other business, the council approved of Change Order I for

approved of Hatch Mott MacDonald responding to the Department of Environmental Protection regarding the DEP’s warning letter about high nitrogen and unionized ammonia.

approved of putting a voluntary contribution on the water bills to help the local Dixie Youth baseball team with expenses.

Eula Clark, local resident, came before the council and requested that the ditch on East Moore Lane be taken care of so it will not grow up again. She also requested that the police do an extra patrol in that area.

Council members approved of adopting Proclamation 1201, proclaiming May as Pledge of Civility Month, and the panel approved of donating $200 to Holmes County High School’s Project Graduation.

The council’s regularly scheduled meeting on May 28 was canceled in observance of Memorial Day. The council will meet again at 6 p.m. June 11 at Bonifay City Hall.

before moving to other parts of the state.

Brown lives on property homesteaded by his great-grandparents in the Westville community. He is the son of the late Elton Brown and was raised with the help of his Aunt and Uncle Wilbur Lee and Mary Maxwell and the rest of the Westville community. He is married to Stephanie Pilcher, formerly of Bonifay, and they have a daughter, Haley Harris, a freshman in college. He and his wife are members of Westville Baptist Church.

He attended elementary school in Ponce de Leon and is a graduate of Holmes County High School. He holds an associate's degree from Chipola College, a bachelor's from the University of West Florida and a master's in educational leadership from UWF.

He holds a teaching certificate in social science grades 6-12 and is certified in principalship by the Florida Department of Education.

He is retired from the Florida Army National Guard with 20 years of honorable service in the 3rd Battalion, 124th Infantry Regiment and 53rd Infantry Brigade.

He rose through the ranks from private to captain, where he held numerous leadership and staff positions to include seven years of command time at both the local National Guard unit and Headquarters Company in Panama City.

He is a recipient of the Florida Distinguished Service Award and the Florida Commendation Medal for Meritorious Service while on state active duty, along with other federal and state awards and medals.

Brown worked as a substitute teacher in the Holmes School District and assistant coach in football and girls basketball at Holmes County High School until he was hired as a full-time teacher at Bonifay Middle School, where he also became the football and basketball coach for the boy's program.

After a stint as teacher and coach, he moved into administration, becoming the assistant principal at Ponce de Leon High School.

He has 13 years of administrative experience at both the county and district levels. He spent 16 months working in the district office as a district-level administrator, becoming familiar with the workings of the district office in the areas of policy, personnel, school law and the interactions of the district with the Department of Education and other school districts throughout the state of Florida. He is now principal of Ponce de Leon High School.

If elected, Brown said he pledges to maintain an administration with an open-door policy geared toward listening to the needs of the students, parents and employees of the Holmes School District.

His goal would be to work toward making the Holmes School District the leader in student achievement within the Panhandle Educational Consortium and to move the school district into the top 25 percent in achievement throughout the state.

"To do this will take a close coordination between all stakeholders in the county, to utilize any and all available funding, and more importantly increase parent involvement with their children's achievement and day-to-day school activities," Brown said.

He said he believes in and supports the need for a strong academic learning environment balanced with the traditional small-school ideas of active student involvement in extracurricular activities including service organizations, athletics and the arts.

The first ceremony of grand magnitude was held shortly after the order was declared at Arlington National Cemetery in Washington, D.C.

Gen. Ulysses S. Grant was one of the Washington officials who presided over the ceremony, and it was after the speeches that children from the Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphan Home as well as members of the Grand Army Republic went through the cemetery, placing flowers on both Union and Confederate graves, saying prayers and singing hymns.

Over the years, Decoration Day became Memorial Day.

Congress and President Lyndon Johnson declared that Waterloo, N.Y., was the birthplace of Memorial Day in 1966, ordering that businesses close and that all flags were to be flown at half-staff as they had on May 5, 1866, to honor those veterans who fought and died in the Civil War.

The tradition carried on into the 19th century with state legislatures passing proclamations in observance of the day and the military adopting the regulations for proper observance on May 30.

It wasn't until after World War I that Memorial Day was declared a national holiday by an act of Congress, to be observed on the last Monday of May to honor all fallen veterans in every war.

In addition to those veterans who have fallen in the course of war, one shouldn't forget the veterans who are still alive and in need of assistance.

If there is a veteran you know in need of services, here are a few local contacts that might help you. These local services are there if veterans or their surviving spouses or children have any questions or concerns regarding eligibility for benefits or assistance applying for Department of Veterans' Affairs Benefits, which include service-connected disability, non-service connected disability pension, VA health care enrollment, home loans, VA burial benefits, educational benefits and state benefits.

In Washington County, the Veterans' Services officer is Christopher Hyatt.

"If you have questions regarding your eligibility for benefits or require assistance with completing any necessary forms, please contact me," Hyatt says on the Veterans' Services website, www.washingtonfl.com/vet-services/veterans.htm.

"It is recommended that prior to coming directly to the office, you call first to insure there is adequate time and information available to assist you with your request."

The Veterans' Assistance Office is next to the Supervisor of Elections Office at the Washington County Annex in Chipley. Office hours are 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Hyatt can be reached at 638-6145 or chyatt@washingtonfl.com.

In Holmes County, the Veterans' Service officer is Joey Marsh.

The Veterans' Assistance Office is at 812 Waukesha St. in Bonifay, and Marsh can be contacted at 547-9252 or at vetsrmyjob@holmes-countyfl.org.

the federal poverty level. "For a family of four, the income level is over $4,000 a month," Chandler said, "so a wide range of people are open to visit the clinic."

The state health department provides services on a sliding scale fee, and there is a paper trail some members of society wish to avoid, Chandler said, which makes the church's clinic appealing to people such as undocumented workers who need medical care.

The clinic also does not carry narcotics, nor are narcotics prescribed at the clinic, Chandler said. "You can't come in and say your back hurts and get a bottle of OxyContin."

Best of all, the clinic also gives the church volunteers a chance to minister to visitors.

"The program works really well for a government program, and it also gives us a chance to minister while helping people in their everyday lives," Chandler said.

United Way announced raising $19,108 in Holmes County

CECILIA SPEARS
547-9414 | @WCN_HCT
cspears@chipleypaper.com

BONIFAY — United Way hosted this month's breakfast Thursday, May 24, at the Holmes County Chamber of Commerce, where the agency announced how much money was raised in Holmes County, how much money was staying in the county and the agencies where the money was being distributed.

"We serve six counties, helping 54 agencies," Ron Sharpe, United Way of Northwest Florida's regional director of resource development, said. "I'm here to let you know that all the money doesn't go back into Bay County and to show you agencies, local agencies, that are receiving this money."

First, he announced the Holmes County United Way Executive Team: Melissa Bruner with Regions Bank, Fran Haithcoat with Wells Fargo Bank and Brenda Blitch with Doctors Memorial Hospital; and the FSECC Steering Committee Members: Jadena Wilson-Horton with the Department of Corrections and Gwenda Padgett with the Department of Health.

"We take our time to find volunteers who dedicate their time and love to support their community,"

Sharpe said. "These are truly an amazing group of people."

Julia Bullington, coordinator for the Holmes County Chamber of Commerce, explained that the money raised in the Holmes County United Way Campaign totaled $19,108 and the total money raised and dedicated to the Holmes County United Way Agencies totaled $17,479.

"Many of their agencies have local matching dollars to apply for grants and programs," Bullington said. "For example, with every $1 United Way gives to Early Learning Coalition's School Readiness Program they receive $16 in matching funds; for every $1 United Way gives to Life Management for their child adoption program they receive $25 in matching funds."

United Way recognized the United Way Affiliated Agencies who run their own workplace campaigns.

"The largest part of our campaign last year was Doctors Memorial Hospital," Sharpe said. "I presented this to the administration, and they just ran with it."

He then presented a plaque to Doctors Memorial Hospital for Largest New Campaign, which was a total of $2,661.

"He's very passionate about what he does, so it's very difficult not to say no to a spirit that's so infectious," Brenda Blitch, PR director for DMH, said. "What we did was introduce it to our employees and educate them that they could give a $1 a week. They were more than willing to support the cause."

They then made a large check presentation to all the agencies present for the money raised in last year's United Way Campaign.

American Red Cross received $1,070, AMIKids: $1,220, Anchorage Children's Home: $358, ARC of Washington/Holmes County: $2,826, Basic: $124, Children's Home Society: $195, Chipola Healthy Start: $923, Covenant Hospice: $1,393, Early Learning Coalition: $500, Elder Care Services: $804, Gulf Coast Children's Advocacy Center: $552, Habilitative Services of Northwest Florida: $578, Life Management Center: $578, Restoration Home, Inc.: $260, Salvation Army Domestic Violence Services: $335 and Tri-County Community Council: $5,660.

Rachael Locke with the Bonifay Nursing and Rehab Center announced that this year's Holmes County Relay for Life raised $31,197.85, which is double what they made last year.

"We're all ready to prepare for next year," Locke said. "We need you to help us go above and beyond for 2013."

There will be a Committee Rally at 5:30 p.m. on June 12 at the Holmes County Chamber of Commerce Log Cabin for anyone who would like to help out with planning our 2013 Relay for Life.

Letters to the EDITOR

Dear Editor,
The family of Mia Chay Brown would like to express many thanks to all the wonderful friends, community, the judicial system and law enforcement officers who have blessed us in so many ways this past year and a half. No words can adequately express our gratitude for the outpouring of love and sacrifice on behalf of Mia and her family. Thank you and God bless us all.
Nancy Williams (Mother of Mia Chay Brown)
Bonifay

Dear Editor,
Usually when someone addresses the public through the media, it is for complaints. Today however, I would like to commend the voluntary fire departments in our area.
On Monday, April 23, 2012, I received a call telling me one of my barns was on fire. I called 911 to find out there were already emergency vehicles dispatched to the scene. When I arrived the Ponce de Leon Volunteer Fire Department was already there. With a concerted effort volunteers from the following departments responded and the fire was contained to the barn and an out building. The other barn beside it was saved.
While the barn and out building along with all its contents was a total loss, I witnessed an effort by so many working together, that they deserve high praise. So I want to say thanks to them and every one involved. There were three counties and two states responding for one common good. My family and I want to say thanks.

Graduates: Embrace the 'what now?'

Graduation time is here, and hundreds of young men and women in Washington and Holmes County are about to face the big question, some for the first time in their lives — the question of “what now?”
As the school year winds down, I've gotten to attend a few awards banquets and, so far, just one graduation, but that will change Thursday when the Chipley High School graduation is held. That kicks off the season as schools throughout the two counties send their seniors off into the great beyond.

RANDAL SEYLER
Editor

If I had to deliver a graduation speech this year, I would be hard pressed to come up with anything to say. College tuition costs more per credit hour than I paid for a full semester's worth of hours back in 1982. The economy is still teetering, although it seems a bit less grim than the past few crops of graduates have had to face.

I have no doubt I could pull out a copy of the Washington County News from any previous decade, look in the May or June edition, and find a writer making the same grim comments. The economy is always up and down, but mostly it seems down, college tuition has always been expensive, and there are always wars and rumors of wars.
The only thing new at any graduation is the crop of graduates. These young people are about to start out on their journeys, and for many of them, that journey is uncertain, which brings us back to the “what now?”
One thing I would want to say, in my imaginary speech to the Class of 2012, is enjoy the “what now?” experience. There is a saying in Zen Buddhism, “In the beginner's mind, there are infinite possibilities.” The morning after the Class of 2012 tosses their mortar boards into the sky, the infinite possibilities start manifesting themselves.

Many students know what the immediate “now” may hold — college, vo-tech school or even full-time employment. But those of us from the Classes of Long Ago know that those plans are as likely as not going to change by this time next year, and they might change radically.
Change is good. Change is pretty much 99 percent of everyone's “now,” but as more and more days, then months and finally years pass between the graduate and graduation day the changes get bigger, but they don't get any less scary. In fact, as we age, I think the opposite is true — change gets harder and scarier as we get more set in our ways.

The Class of 2012 is about to receive their first big dose of change. To the graduates I would say enjoy the change, and enjoy the uncertainty of “what now?” Change is pretty much the only thing you can count on from here on, so you might as well start getting comfortable with uncertainty.
Embrace the “what now?” And give it everything you have. If you have a dream, or plan, or goal, do whatever it takes to make it happen.
That way 30 years from now, you don't have to worry about one day spending the rest of your days listening to the evil twin of “what now” — “what if?”

Farmers market at the fair A good time for meeting and greeting

Fulfilling my promise to Felicia Fisinack to set up at the Holmes County Fair and sell blueberries, I packed up with the help of son Glen and went out to the fair on Friday and Saturday nights. I can't report that the farmers' market was a howling success, but in addition to selling some of our early berry crop along with homemade jelly, etc. I also had the opportunity to see quite a few of my former students along with other friends and neighbors.
First, I'd like to commend the fair board for the hard work they did in planning and holding the fair. I haven't heard if they were pleased with the change of timing, but that seemed a good idea to me. The weather was perfect, especially in the evening with a gentle breeze to blow away the mosquitoes and gnats and cool the air.

HAPPY CORNER
Hazel Wells Tison

Since I was alone at my blueberry table, I was unable to see every thing. The only event I observed was the fashion show presented by the 4-H Sewing Club and narrated by their leader, Natalie Pilcher Boman. It was gratifying to see these young ladies proudly modeling garments they had made with the help, usually, of a mother or grandmother.

The political rally was held behind the main fair building near the poultry barn where a money scramble drew a lot of attention. Since I was unable to hear the candidates, I am glad to know that the Woman's Club will be sponsoring another one at the H.C.H.S. activities center at a later date. Some who came by and spoke to me include Glenn Hess, Shay McCormick, Bill Parish, Harold Smith, Tim Wells, Kyle Hudson, Tim Brown, Harry Bell and others I can't recall.
Among the former students were Lawana Smith who said I was the best teacher she ever had. I wondered if she wasn't talking about Virginia Chance, Nancy Belser, or Marianne Barton instead of me. I appreciated the compliment, Lawana and thanks for letting me know who you are. Sometimes I don't recognize former students.
Tony Bess was another former student who spoke to me. He had fond memories of my taking them on a walking tour to Mr. Banfil's grave site. Near the end of the school year, I would take each class and we'd walk across the railroad, west on Banfil Ave. to the site where Mr. George W. Banfil, the founder of Bonifay is buried. Sometimes, Mr. Robert Curry would join us with a class of his.

Tony said that he reads my column every week and wondered why I didn't write about Mr. Banfil. I told him I probably had, but couldn't verify it so if he has forgotten that I wrote it, perhaps everyone else has.
Mr. Banfil came to Bonifay from DeFuniak Springs about 1865 where he had served as founder and secretary of the Florida Chautauqua Association. However his original home was in Waukesha, Wisconsin. He came to west Florida as a land agent for the L. & N. Railroad. He platted the map of Bonifay dated May 1, 1886 naming the main street for his home town. He entered a vigorous campaign to encourage mid-westerners and northerners to come to the area where abundant crops and a variety of fruits could be produced in the mild climate and fertile soil.
He built the first store which he operated along with the land business. His biggest venture was the construction of the Eurika Hotel which reigned over down town Bonifay's landscape until the late 1980's. He named the town for Judge Frank Bonifay, another land agent for the Railroad Company. Mr. Banfil also was a partner in the opening of The Bank of Bonifay which operated for over a hundred years, since 1906, under the same name.

The thing Tony remembered was that Mr. Banfil was buried with his pet. Though some stories say he buried his horse standing up, that was not true. Some confused that with the story that is told of Daniel Webster who buried his horse in an upright position so that in the resurrection, he'd be able to just jump astride and gallop away. Mr. Banfil's cat is buried at the foot of his own grave and must have predeceased him because the slab contains the hand lettered inscription, CAT.
School children may not remember where or from whom they learned the basics of education, but they remember things like a walking tour of George W. Banfil's grave site or a walking tour of Bonifay City Cemetery looking for Civil War, WWI and WWII gravestones. It was good to see so many former students bringing their children to the fair and making memories with them.

2011 Quality Water Report Town of Ponce De Leon

We're pleased to present to you this year's Annual Water Quality Report. This report is designed to inform you about the quality water and services we deliver to you every day. Our constant goal is to provide you with a safe and dependable supply of drinking water. We want you to understand the efforts we make to continually improve the water treatment process and protect our water resources. We are committed to ensuring the quality of your water. Our water source is ground water from 2 wells to provide you drinking water. These wells draw from the Floridan Aquifer. Because of the excellent quality of our water, the only treatment required is chlorine for disinfection purposes.

In 2011 the Department of Environmental Protection performed a Source Water Assessment on our system. The assessment was conducted to provide information about any potential sources of contamination in the vicinity of our wells. A search of the data sources indicated no potential sources of contamination. The assessment results are available on the FDEP Source Water Assessment and Protection Program Website at www.dep.state.fl.us/swapp or they can be obtained from Town Hall (850) 836-4361.

If you have any questions about this report or concerning your water utility, please contact P.B. Peterson, Town Clerk at (850) 836-4361. We encourage our valued customers to be informed about their water utility. If you want to learn more, please attend any of our regularly scheduled meetings. They are held on the 1st Thursday of every month at 6:00 p.m. at the Ponce de Leon Town Hall, 1580 Hwy 90.

The Town of Ponce de Leon routinely monitors for contaminants in your drinking water according to Federal and State laws, rules, and regulations. Except where indicated otherwise, this report is based on the results of our monitoring for the period of January 1 to December 31, 2011. Data obtained before January 1, 2011, and presented in this report are from the most recent testing done in accordance with the laws, rules, and regulations.

We at the Town of Ponce de Leon would like you to understand the efforts we make to continually improve the water treatment process and protect our water resources. We are committed to insuring the quality of your water. If you have any questions or concerns about the information provided, please feel free to call any of the numbers listed.

In the table below, you may find unfamiliar terms and abbreviations. To help you better understand these terms we've provided the following definitions:

Maximum Contaminant Level or MCL: The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

Maximum Contaminant Level Goal or MCLG: The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

Action Level (AL): The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements that a water system must follow.

Initial Distribution System Evaluation (IDSE): An important part of Stage 2 Disinfection Byproducts Rule (DBPR). The IDSE is a one-time study conducted by water systems to identify distribution system locations with high concentrations of trihalomethanes (THM's) and haloacetic acids (HAAs). Water systems will use results from IDSE, in conjunction with their Stage 1 DBPR compliance monitoring data, to select compliance monitoring locations for the Stage 2 DBPR.

Picocurie per liter (pCi/L): measure of the radioactivity in water.

"ND" means not detected and indicates that the substance was not found by laboratory analysis.

Parts per million (ppm) or Milligrams per liter (mg/l): one part by weight of analyte to 1 million parts by weight of the water sample.

Parts per billion (ppb) or Micrograms per liter (µg/l): one part by weight of analyte to 1 billion parts by weight of the water sample.

Maximum residual disinfectant level or MRDL: The highest level of a disinfectant allowed in drinking water. There is convincing evidence that addition of a disinfectant is necessary for control of microbial contaminants.

Maximum residual disinfectant level goal or MRDLG: The level of a drinking water disinfectant below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MRDLGs do not reflect the benefits of the use of disinfectants to control microbial contaminants.

2011 Contaminants Table
Contaminant and Unit of Measurement	Dates of sampling (mo./yr.)	MCL Violation Y/N	Level Detected	Range of Results	MCLG	MCL	Likely Source of Contamination
Radioactive Contaminants
Radium 226 + 228 or combined radium (pCi/L)	4/09	N	0.9	ND - 0.9	0	5	Erosion of natural deposits
Inorganic Contaminants
Barium (ppm)	3/09	N	0.009	0.009 - 0.009	2	2	Discharge of drilling wastes; discharge from metal refineries; erosion of natural deposits
Nitrate (as Nitrogen) (ppm)	5/11	N	0.44	0.35 - 0.44	10	10	Runoff from fertilizer use; leaching from septic tanks, sewage; erosion of natural deposits
Stage 1 Disinfectants and Disinfection By-Products
Disinfectant or Contaminant and Unit of Measurement	Dates of sampling (mo./yr.)	MCL or MRDL Violation Y/N	Level Detected	Range of Results	MCLG or MRDLG	MCL or MRDL	Likely Source of Contamination
Chlorine (ppm)	1-12/11	N	0.55	0.5 - 0.6	MRDLG = 4	MRDL = 4.0	Water additive used to control microbes
Haloacetic Acids (five) (HAAS) (ppb)	7/09	N	4.1	4.0 - 4.2	NA	MCL = 60	By-product of drinking water disinfection
TTHM [Total trihalomethanes] (ppb)	7/09	N	1.2	1.2 - 1.2	NA	MCL = 80	By-product of drinking water disinfection
Lead and Copper (Tap Water)
Contaminant and Unit of Measurement	Dates of sampling (mo./yr.)	AL Exceeded Y/N	90th Percentile Result	No. of sampling sites exceeding the AL	MCLG	AL (Action Level)	Likely Source of Contamination
Copper (tap water) (ppm)	9/11	N	0.29	0	1.3	1.3	Corrosion of household plumbing systems; erosion of natural deposits; leaching from wood preservatives
Lead (tap water) (ppb)	9/11	N	2	0	0	15	Corrosion of household plumbing systems, erosion of natural deposits

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

Contaminants that may be present in source water include:

- (A) Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife.
- (B) Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban storm water runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining, or farming.
- (C) Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban storm water runoff, and residential uses.
- (D) Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also, come from gas stations, urban storm water runoff, and septic systems.
- (E) Radioactive contaminants, which can be naturally occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, the EPA prescribes regulations, which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water, which must provide the same protection for public health.

Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that the water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 1-800-426-4791.

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. The Town of Ponce de Leon is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in drinking water, testing methods, and steps you can take to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline or at <http://www.epa.gov/safewater/lead>.

Thank you for allowing us to continue providing your family with clean, quality water this year. In order to maintain a safe and dependable water supply, we sometimes need to make improvements that will benefit all of our customers. These improvements are sometimes reflected as rate structure adjustments. Thank you for understanding.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by Cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

NEWS IN BRIEF
STAFF REPORT

Ed Johnson, heavy equipment operator, was surprised when he pulled the giant scoop of earth from the basement he was digging. "What is that?" he thought. "An old whiskey barrel or a wooden box of some kind?" He jumped off his backhoe to investigate. As he approached, his mind was racing. He could see that the wooden box was badly decayed and full of something. As he got closer, he could make out a sword, an old canteen and remnants of an old military uniform. While sifting through the box, he found a bugle, tattered papers and some military badges. It appeared to be the belongings of a soldier of some kind. He spent the rest of the day collecting and examining the items he had found. He needed to find out more.

The next morning he stopped by the local coffee shop to ask questions about the lot he was digging on. He stopped at the right place. Three elderly gentlemen were swapping stories as they did every morning. Ed approached the group and asked if they were from the area. They all laughed and said "Who's asking?" Ed explained that he was building a new house on a lot he recently purchased and told them where it was. One gentleman said, "Oh, you mean the old Norris place? That place was demolished over 50 years ago. Been an empty lot ever since." Ed was intrigued—he hadn't realized there had been a house there. "Place caught fire in the 1940's. I was just a school boy at the time—no one was home, but the place was a total loss. The charred remains sat there for 4 or 5 years before it was cleaned up. I walked past that place twice a day, five days a week, back and forth from school. Went all the way to the 8th grade," the fellow said with a smile. "After that, no one ever rebuilt on the lot. I'm glad to see somebody's doing something with it. Go down and talk to Larry at the court house. He can pull the plat book and tell you all about it." The old guy was right, Larry was a wealth of information. The original farm house was built by Elsie and Thomas Little back in 1845. They moved out and sold to Elijah Miller in 1883. Then in 1916, the place was sold to Henry Norris who tore down the existing two-room farm house and built a new house. That house burned down in 1943.

All of this was great info, now what about the military items? Ed needed to find out exactly what they were. When Ed learned that the Treasure Hunters were coming to town, he thought this would be his chance to learn more about the items he had found. The advertisement had said that the experts would offer advice on any antique and collectible items and they would do it for free. It also said that they would make offers to purchase items. He wasn't interested in selling, but you never know. Hey, if the price is right, who knows?

Ed walked into the hotel where the show was and followed the signs to the meeting room with great anticipation. "My heart was actually beating at twice the normal rate," he said. "As soon as I walked in I was welcomed to the show and given a number. They said it would be about 10 minutes until they would call my number. While I waited, I looked at all the unusual antiques on display. There were old toys, coins, silver tea sets and old metal signs. There was even a sword similar to mine. My number was called and it was the moment I'd been waiting for, I would finally learn about the items I had found."

Ed continued, "almost immediately after I sat down, Greg the antique guru was assigned to assist me said, 'hey nice Civil War sword and bugle. Where did you get them?' I told him my story and he said the family most likely buried the items in honor of the soldier who owned them, and who most likely fought in the Civil War." The soldier's uniform, or what was left of it, the sword and other items would have been distributed by the Union Army. The items were that of an infantry soldier and dated at around 1863. Because a bugle was found, this soldier was most likely the company bugle boy. Most buglers were young boys. Also, the hat in the collection would have fit a very small head—that of a 12 to 14 year old boy.

Greg also explained that since the uniform, sword and other items were together, the soldier most surely survived the war and returned home. Ed reflected that "learning about the items was very interesting and definitely worth the trip. The entire collection was valued at $2,200. Most of the value was the sword and the bugle. I decided to take pictures and sell the collection. I had a great time learning about it and thought it should be in a Civil War enthusiast's collection. I'm actually having a small monument made in honor of the find and putting it at the exact location where it was found."

Treasure Hunters are coming to Chipley

BY DAVID MORGAN
STAFF WRITER

Got Booty? If you have a coffee can full of old coins, an old guitar or maybe the costume jewelry your aunt gave you, it's time to bring it out of hiding. This week, Treasure Hunters will be in town and want to see what you have. These Treasure Hunters aren't armed with a shovel and metal detector, rather their weapon of choice is their expertise and the collectors they buy for. You see, these guys know all about diamonds, coins, antiques and collectibles, musical instruments and anything that's old. They are asking you to bring your booty and make your best deal. These guys pay cash for just about anything that's old. The items they buy go straight to collectors all over the world. How much is a 1960 Gibson Les Paul worth? Well, to some, it might be worth a couple hundred dollars but to a serious collector it could be worth thousands, even ten's of thousands. These guys are buying for these collectors. They pay more for the things their collectors want.

The event is free to attend and there is no obligation to sell anything. If it's information you want, that won't cost you a thing. But be prepared, as an offer to purchase your treasures is highly likely. About eighty percent of the stuff that comes into the show is purchased by these hungry treasure hunters.

According to the Treasure Hunters I talked to, the wait time to get your items looked at is usually a half hour or less. Once there, your items will be examined, identified and an offer will quickly follow. Then it's up to you...do I sell, do I hold out for more or do I walk? The whole thing sounds like a lot of fun and might put some jingle in your pocket. So dig up that booty and head down to the show. You might have the treasure they have been looking for!

DON'T FORGET THE GOLD!

ABOVE A customer brought in his father's coin collection that he had inherited. He was pleasantly surprised with his offer and decided to sell the collection. He said that the money would go towards a down payment on a house for his family.

WE WANT TO BUY ANY TYPE OF GOLD YOU HAVE

GOLD IS ALMOST AT $1,700 PER OZ.

IT'S TIME TO SELL!

Hi, I'm Archie. I've been a Treasure Hunter since 1996. Back then, gold was around $225 per oz.—now it's six times that. Gold has never been this high and may never be again in my lifetime.

Back in the 1980's, gold and silver soared in price, but soon fell back to rock bottom. Well, it's a seller's market right now. The poor world economy and weak dollar have increased prices to all-time highs. My advice to people is to sell now at the high side.

Many people have gold in their jewelry box and don't realize how valuable it really is. If you've got old rings, necklaces, mismatched earrings or even gold teeth just sitting in a dresser drawer, dig it out and bring it in. You will be surprised just how much we can pay you.

Old Coins and Paper Currency

Did you know that the United States started minting coins in 1793? All coins are worth something: old silver dollars, half dollars, quarters and dimes made before 1965 are mostly silver and worth many times their face value. A $20 gold coin from the early 1900's could be worth $2,000 or more to collectors. If you have any older coins or paper currency, please come see us. We will buy one coin or million dollar collections.

JEFFERSON "WAR" NICKEL	MERCURY DIME
ROOSEVELT DIME	STANDING LIBERTY QUARTER
WASHINGTON QUARTER	WALKING LIBERTY HALF
KENNEDY HALF	FRANKLIN HALF
MORGAN DOLLAR	PEACE DOLLAR
$20 LIBERTY HEAD DOUBLE EAGLE	$20 ST. GAUDENS DOUBLE EAGLE

BUYING PRE-1934 PAPER CURRENCY

Hi, my name is David. I've been collecting coins since I was a child. I can't wait to visit with you and examine your old coins and paper currency. I will be honest and fair with you and pay you as much as I can for your old coins. I have purchased millions of dollars worth of coins from people all over the world.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS WANTED

We pay for any instrument, including guitars, saxophones, clarinets, flutes, drums, cymbals, french horns, tubas and bass guitars.

SILVER

Hi, I'm Dennis and I am a Treasure Hunter. Silver is almost $35 per oz. Five years ago, it was $2.50 per oz. If you have old silver jewelry, tea sets, sterling and old silver coins, I want to see it. I buy hundreds of pounds of silver every week. If it's silver, please come and see me!

BUYING ALL POCKET WATCHES AND WRISTWATCHES

We are one of the largest pocket watch and wristwatch buyers in the world. We deal in all makes and models, including:

MARTIN BRAUN, BREITLING, CARTIER, LECOULTRE, OMEGA, PATEK PHILIPPE, ROLEX, TIFFANY & CO., VACHERON & CONSTANTIN, HAMILTON, ILLINOIS

Hooked on Outdoors

Have you ever seen fishermen with equipment that obviously was too much horsepower for the fish they were trying to catch? So many fishermen do this every day not knowing how much pleasure they are depriving themselves when they do catch a fish.

The best example I can think of is when the Spanish mackerel arrive. Fishermen go out and troll with equipment that could pull a hog out of a bog. You don't need a 4/0 reel to catch a 1- or 2-pound fish.

To add insult to misery, they fish with a rig that has up to 10 hooks on it. If you caught a fish on every hook you would have your limit on three tries. When they do catch a fish, it looks like a rock being skipped across the water. The fish look like a skier being pulled behind the boat.

What's wrong with this picture? Well, for one nobody is enjoying anything. Not you and not the fish. It's sort of like eating an expensive steak in two bites. Downgrade tackle, slow down and enjoy the moment.

Spanish mackerel have not been netted for many years and in the interim have grown to weights no one has ever seen. A 5- to 7-pound mackerel is not an oddity anymore. These fish can be caught with a small spinning rod or fly rod, and the fisherman can go home and tell about the big one that didn't get away.

Downsize, slow down and enjoy. Nobody enjoys smelling motor fumes. Instead of trolling for Spanish, find them and cast to them and turn off that stinky loud motor.

Believe me, a first-timer will enjoy the trip much more if he or she isn't getting sick smelling motor fumes, and you will enjoy catching fish with smaller tackle. A fish will overpower you every now and then, but you can't catch them all.

Go to your favorite tackle shop and pick out a medium-weight rod and a reel that will accommodate 8- to 10-pound test line. After you get used to this type of tackle, you will never go back to those back-breaking rods that were designed to fish in deep water and for much larger fish.

OH, SNAP(PER)

In with the snapper, out with the amberjack

Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission

Friday marks a big day for recreational and charter fishermen alike: the distinctive (in appearance and most certainly in taste) red snapper season begins.

The 2012 Gulf of Mexico red snapper recreational harvest season opens Friday in both state and federal waters and runs for 40 days, ending July 10.

This year's state season, which is the same as the 2012 federal recreational red snapper season in the Gulf of Mexico, was set in May at the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission meeting.

Florida state waters in the Gulf extend from shore to 9 nautical miles; federal waters extend beyond that line to 200 nautical miles.

The Gulf red snapper stock is improving, but the population still needs an increase in the number of older fish for it to be sustainable. Red snapper are estimated to live more than 50 years, but the current stock consists primarily of fish that are only a few years old, according to the FWC.

Older fish are the key to rebuilding the population because older female red snapper produce more eggs than younger females. This season will help continue to rebuild the red snapper population so that more red snapper fishing opportunities will be possible in the future.

More information about red snapper fishing is available online at MyFWC.com/Fishing by clicking on "Saltwater," "Recreational Regulations" and then "Gulf Red Snapper."

And while it is open season on snapper, the recreational Atlantic snook and gulf amberjack seasons both end Friday.

Snook will reopen for harvest in Atlantic federal, state and inland waters, including Lake Okeechobee and the Kissimmee River, Sept. 1. Snook remains closed for harvest in Gulf of Mexico state waters including Everglades National Park and Monroe County through Aug. 31. A stock assessment on snook will be presented to the FWC Commission at its June 27-28 meeting in West Palm Beach.

Greater amberjack will reopen for harvest in Gulf of Mexico state and federal waters Aug. 1.

State waters in the Atlantic extend from shore to three nautical miles and in the Gulf from shore to nine nautical miles.

Seasonal harvest closures protect Florida's valuable snook and greater amberjack populations and help sustain and improve the fishery for the future.

Scallop season might be extended by two weeks

FWC

The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission is considering permanently adding two weeks to the end of the recreational season for bay scallops and is asking the public to take a survey to determine interest in this potential change.

For the past two years, the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission extended the harvest season for bay scallops to help relieve economic hardships experienced by the communities surrounding the scallop harvesting areas that were affected by the 2010 oil spill.

In 2011, FWC scientists determined that the bay scallop population in the harvest area has remained stable even after the extended seasons. The current scallop harvesting season is July 1-Sept. 10. The proposed season would be July 1-Sept. 24. Extending the season could benefit small businesses because September is when fishing and tourism usually drop off. Additionally, bay scallops are larger at the end of the season.

The survey is available online through June 6 at www.surveymonkey.com/s/ZGB6R7D.

Apalachicola oyster harvest now includes weekends

FWC

Another delicacy becomes more available beginning Friday, so get your saltine crackers, Tabasco sauce and horseradish ready.

Beginning Friday, Apalachicola oysters can be commercially harvested seven days a week throughout the year. Previously, commercial harvest was not allowed on Fridays and Saturdays from June 1 through Aug. 31 and on Saturdays and Sundays from Sept. 1 through Nov. 15.

The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission approved this change at its February 2012 meeting.

This increased harvesting opportunity comes in response to public health management changes made by the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services in 2010. These changes significantly reduced the number of hours available for harvest each day during the warmer months of the year. The seven-day workweek will allow Apalachicola Bay oyster harvesters the ability to make up for time lost harvesting. This action by the FWC was supported by the Florida Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services.

To learn more about the commercial oyster harvest, visit MyFWC.com/Fishing and click on "Saltwater Fishing," "Commercial" and then "Oyster."

Holmes County alum named ICAA's Pitcher of the Year

Special to The Times-Advertiser

The Independent Collegiate Athletic Association announced their annual award winners on May 9 for the sport of softball with Mary Elizabeth Pippin being an All-ICAA first-team selection while also being named Pitcher of the Year. The ICAA is composed of NCAA Division II schools that are not in a conference.

ELIZABETH PIPPIN

Pippin, a 2009 Holmes County High School alumna, finished 17-11 in the circle for the Sailfish who as a team were 30-21 for the season. The Bonifay native was in her junior season as a Sailfish at Palm Beach Atlantic University (an NCAA Division II school) following a two-year career at Alabama Southern Community College.

She would close out the 2012 season with a 2.10 earned-run average in 31 appearances (28 starts) while posting 22 complete games and five shutouts in 183 innings pitched. She also tallied 166 strikeouts with 31 walks during the season.

Cathrine's PIT STOP

NASCAR fans, sorry about my sudden disappearance last week. I was called to serve jury duty last Monday and missed the deadline for Wednesday's paper. I'm back now, and boy, what a busy two weeks it has been in NASCAR.

Let's start out at Darlington. Jimmie Johnson claimed the win in the Sprint Cup Series All-Star Race, Ricky Stenhouse Jr. won another Nationwide Series that kept him at the top of the point standings and Justin Lofton took home the win in the Camping World Truck Series. Also in Darlington, Kurt Busch seemed to be up to his same old antics again.

During an altercation with Ryan Newman's pit crew, NASCAR said Busch was in violation of three rules from the NASCAR rule book: action taken detrimental to stock car racing; reckless driving on pit road during a race; and getting involved in an altercation with another competitor after the race. For these violations, Busch was fined $50,000 and has been put on probation until July 25.

Busch was not the only one put on probation after the All-Star Race. Ryan Newman's crew chief, Tony Gibson, was put on probation through June 27 for failing to control his team. Andrew Rueger, a crew member for Newman, also was put on probation for failing to comply with a directive from a NASCAR official and was fined $5,000 for the offense.

To top off the weekend, Busch's motor home driver Craig Stickler was suspended through the end of the year and fined $5,000 after interfering with a member of the Fox broadcasting team.

Let me know what action you think James Finch should take against Busch and his antics. I will try my best to get your comments to Finch at Phoenix Racing. Should he forgive Busch and let him serve his probation and be done with it, or should Phoenix Racing drop him? Let me know.

Now as for this past weekend's races in Charlotte, not very exciting. Kasey Kahne took home the win in the Sprint Cup, and Brad Keselowski had a Nationwide win.

Rural division levels field for smaller schools

By PAT McCANN

Florida Freedom Newspapers

Anyone naming an all-sports champion for the inaugural year of the Class 1A Rural classification in Florida high school sports surely would give Mayo Lafayette mention off its state titles in both softball and volleyball.

Chipley posted a boys basketball championship and was runner-up in football. Holmes County made it to Final Fours in both girls basketball and baseball.

Union County, however, would have to get the overall nod. The Tigers not only won the 1A baseball crown by defeating Holmes County last week, they reached the state semifinals in four sports. Union County was the only school to be represented in more than two sports at the state level, the new Rural classification instituted in the fall for football and volleyball, then boys and girls basketball and finally softball and baseball.

Tigers Athletic Director Ronnie Pruitt said success at his school extended far beyond the playing fields.

"It carried over in our whole community, our kids, the behavior in hallways, this school year has really flown by," Pruitt said. "We were fifth in the state in academics, the school is an A-plus ... It's really a whole lot more than I expected. To be a big part of it and see it happen in athletics, academics, behavior and the community ... And in sports like softball, now we're having to do JV teams where in the past we had a hard time just getting enough kids out."

The new classification for smaller-enrollment schools eliminated the component where they had to face

Rural results

Softball — Champion: Lafayette. Runner-up: Jay. Semifinalists: Port St. Joe, Union County.

Baseball — Champion: Union County. Runner-up: Holmes County. Semifinalists: Bozeman, Hilliard.

Girls basketball — Champion: Ponce de Leon. Runner-up: Newberry.

Semifinalists: Holmes County, Hilliard.

Boys basketball — Champion: Chipley. Runner-up: Hawthorne. Semifinalists: West Gadsden, Union County.

Football — Champion: Jefferson County. Runner-up: Chipley. Semifinalists: Northview, Union County.

private schools of similar size, but that could attract standout athletes from large population centers.

The recently concluded state baseball tournament provided a prime example of how the playing field had become tilted favoring the privates. Four public schools decided the Rural 1A title, but in the next three smallest classifications, 2A, 3A and 4A, every school that reached the Final Four was a private power, as were three of the four in 5A and two of the four in 6A.

Holmes County football coach Brad Johnson saw Blue Devils' teams gladly accept the challenge of the new guidelines.

"It meant a lot. Overall we're having as successful a sports program as I can remember," Johnson said. "I don't know if it's directly related, or if we just have a decent run of athletes or what. It's just a good situation."

Johnson said Holmes County's football team, undefeated until facing Chipley in the region title game, set the tone in the fall. As a result, four athletic teams at the school advanced to region title games.

"It all kind of started with football, it being the first sport of the year," Johnson said. "After our success there was kind of a carryover. There were higher expectations. And I know people in the community were a lot more excited about how things were going."

Union County produced running back C.J. Spiller, who went on to star at Clemson and now plays for the Buffalo Bills. Even with an athlete of that caliber, the Tigers had a difficult time competing on a statewide level until this season. It also should be noted that because of a decreased number of schools in Class 1A, region tournaments consisted of four schools rather than eight.

"Our last Final Four in football was back when C.J. was here in 2004," Pruitt said. "In baseball, we made it in 1976 and lost in the championship game. I don't know if we'd ever made it in volleyball, and we had in basketball in 1994."

The 2011-12 school year certainly changed all that. And very likely, the future.

Florida High School Athletic Association Executive Director Roger Dearing was emphatic in declaring the new classification a success in its first year.

"I don't think there is any doubt about it when you look at the list of schools that went to district championships, region championships and state semifinals and finals, you had so many schools that had not had that opportunity since the 1980s," Dearing said.

Deepwater Horizon Oil Spill

Economic and Property Damages Settlement

Providing Money to Individuals and Businesses

If you have economic loss or property damage because of the Deepwater Horizon oil spill, you could get money from a class action settlement with BP Exploration & Production Inc. and BP America Production Company ("BP"). Go to DeepwaterHorizonSettlements.com for more information, including information on how to file a claim.

WHO IS INCLUDED IN THE ECONOMIC & PROPERTY DAMAGES SETTLEMENT?

The Economic and Property Damages ("E&PD") Settlement Class includes people, businesses, and other entities in the states of Louisiana, Alabama and Mississippi, and certain counties in Texas and Florida, that were harmed by the oil spill. The website DeepwaterHorizonSettlements.com has detailed descriptions and maps to help you determine whether a geographic location may be included in the E&PD Settlement. Additionally, you can call 1-866-992-6174 or e-mail questions@DeepwaterHorizonEconomicSettlement.com to find out if a geographic location is included.

WHAT DOES THE ECONOMIC & PROPERTY DAMAGES SETTLEMENT PROVIDE?

The E&PD Settlement makes payments for the following types of claims: (1) Seafood Compensation, (2) Economic Damage, (3) Loss of Subsistence, (4) Vessel Physical Damage, (5) Vessels of Opportunity Charter Payment, (6) Coastal Real Property Damage, (7) Wetlands Real Property Damage, and (8) Real Property Sales Damage. There is no limit on the total dollar amount of the E&PD Settlement; all qualified claims will be paid.

HOW TO GET BENEFITS FROM THE ECONOMIC & PROPERTY DAMAGES SETTLEMENT

You need to submit a Claim Form to request a payment. You can get a copy of the various Claim Forms by visiting the website or by calling 1-866-992-6174. Claims can be submitted online or by mail. If you have questions about how to file your claim, you should call the toll-free number for assistance.

The deadline to submit most E&PD claims will be April 22, 2014 or six months after the E&PD Settlement becomes effective (that is, after the Court grants "final approval" and any appeals are resolved), whichever is later. There will be an earlier deadline to submit E&PD Seafood Compensation claims. The earlier deadline to submit Seafood Compensation claims will be 30 days after final approval of the Settlement by the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Louisiana (regardless of appeals). Actual claim filing deadlines will be posted on the website as they become available. Valid claims will be paid as they are approved, beginning shortly after the Court-Supervised Settlement Program commences. It is highly recommended that E&PD Settlement Class Members complete and submit their claim forms promptly. Please read the Medical Benefits Settlement notice because you may also be eligible for benefits from that settlement.

YOUR OTHER OPTIONS

If you do not want to be legally bound by the E&PD Settlement, you must Opt Out or exclude yourself by October 1, 2012 or you won't be able to sue BP over certain economic and property damage claims. If you stay in the E&PD Settlement, you may object to it by August 31, 2012. The Detailed Notice explains how to exclude yourself or object.

The Court will hold a hearing on November 8, 2012 to consider whether to approve the E&PD Settlement. You or your own lawyer may ask to appear and speak at the hearing at your own cost. The Court will also consider Class Counsel fees, costs, and expenses including an interim payment of $75 million and additional awards equal to 6% of class claims and benefits paid. Class Counsel fees, costs and expenses under the Economic and Property Damages Settlement Agreement and the Medical Benefits Settlement Agreement jointly cannot exceed $600 million. Class members' payments will not be reduced if the Court approves the payment of Class Counsel fees, costs, and expenses because BP will separately pay these attorney fees, costs, and expenses.

Medical Benefits Settlement

Providing Benefits to Clean-Up Workers and Certain Gulf Coast Residents

If you have a medical claim related to the Deepwater Horizon oil spill, you could get benefits from a class action settlement with BP Exploration & Production Inc. and BP America Production Company ("BP"). Go to DeepwaterHorizonSettlements.com for more information, including information on how to file a claim.

WHO IS INCLUDED IN THE MEDICAL BENEFITS SETTLEMENT?

The Medical Class includes (1) clean-up workers and (2) certain people who resided in specific geographic areas in coastal and wetlands areas along the Gulf Coast during specific periods in 2010. The website DeepwaterHorizonSettlements.com has detailed descriptions and maps to help you determine whether a geographic location may be included in one of these zones. Additionally, you can call 1-866-992-6174 or e-mail info@DeepwaterHorizonMedicalSettlement.com to find out if a geographic location is included.

WHAT DOES THE MEDICAL BENEFITS SETTLEMENT PROVIDE?

The benefits of the Medical Benefits Settlement include: (1) payments to qualifying people for certain acute (short-term) and chronic (ongoing) medical conditions occurring after exposure to oil or chemical dispersants; (2) provision of periodic medical examinations to qualifying people; and (3) creation of a Gulf Region Health Outreach Program, consisting of projects to strengthen the healthcare system. Benefits (1) and (2) will be provided only after the Court grants final approval and any appeals are resolved.

HOW TO GET BENEFITS FROM THE MEDICAL BENEFITS SETTLEMENT

You need to submit a Claim Form to request benefits. You can get a copy of the Claim Form by visiting the website or by calling 1-866-992-6174. Claims can be submitted by mail. If you have questions about how to file your claim, you should call the toll-free number for assistance.

The deadline for filing a Claim Form is one year after the Medical Benefits Settlement becomes effective (that is, after the Court grants "final approval" and any appeals are resolved). The exact date of the claim filing deadline will be posted on the website. It is highly recommended that Medical Class Members complete and submit their claim forms promptly. Please read the Economic and Property Damages Settlement notice because you may also be eligible for a payment from that settlement.

YOUR OTHER OPTIONS

If you do not want to be legally bound by the Medical Benefits Settlement, you must Opt Out or exclude yourself by October 1, 2012 or you won't be able to sue BP over certain medical claims. If you stay in the Medical Benefits Settlement, you may object to it by August 31, 2012. The Detailed Notice explains how to exclude yourself or object.

The Court will hold a hearing on November 8, 2012 to consider whether to approve the Medical Benefits Settlement. You or your own lawyer may ask to appear and speak at the hearing at your own cost. Class Counsel will ask the Court to consider an award of fees, costs, and expenses of 6% of the value of the benefits actually provided under the Medical Benefits Settlement Agreement. Class Counsel fees, costs, and expenses under the Medical Benefits Settlement Agreement and the Economic and Property Damages Settlement Agreement jointly cannot exceed $600 million. Class members' payments will not be reduced if the Court approves the payment of Class Counsel fees, costs, and expenses because BP will separately pay these attorney fees, costs, and expenses.

Prevention of fleas important year-round for your pet

One of the worst things about this time of year is the increase of fleas on pets, outside, and, possibly, in homes. Adult fleas cause the most problems for pets. In order to become adult fleas, the blood-sucking creatures need warm weather, between 70 and 80 degrees Fahrenheit, and about 70 to 80 percent humidity, said Dr. Alison Diesel, lecturer in dermatology at Texas A&M University College of Veterinary Medicine & Biomedical Sciences (CVM).

"Those ideal conditions are exactly what we are experiencing during this time of the year, which is why we generally see more fleas coming out in the spring," Diesel said.

She added that fleas can be present year-round in Texas because there is not usually a "true winter."

Fleas can cause various problems for pets. Some animals, for example, are allergic to an allergen in the flea saliva causing the animal to have an allergic reaction. This causes the animal to scratch, which could lead to a secondary bacterial skin infection. If there is a large flea problem, anemia could be a potential problem, especially among small animals that do not have large amounts of blood. Fleas can also carry diseases such as tapeworms or Bartonella, and infect both pets and humans.

Amanda Friedeck, a veterinary technician at the CVM, said there is no way to completely prevent fleas, but a key factor to controlling fleas is breaking the life cycle.

"The best way to control fleas is to break the cycle. More fleas lay more eggs. ... The best treatment either kills the adults or kills one of the juvenile stages," Friedeck said.

Diesel said the flea life cycle has four phases: the adult fleas lay eggs, the eggs hatch into larvae, the larvae turns into pupae, which, eventually, turn into adults.

"Ideally, targeting several phases of the flea life cycle is best, particularly when dealing with an infestation. The easiest stage to target is the adult flea since these lives on the pet. The other stages (eggs, larvae, pupae) are present in the environment," Diesel said.

Both Diesel and Friedeck said the best way to determine treatment of an animal's flea problem is to take them to a veterinarian to discuss the best options and medications.

"Your pet's veterinarian can help recommend the most appropriate product to help prevent fleas based on other factors (e.g. other skin conditions, food allergies, etc.) as well as discuss the appropriate way to administer the product (e.g. orally or topically)," Diesel said.

Diesel suggested using a flea prevention that lasts the entire month and is still effective if the pet gets wet.

"Using flea prevention every 30 days, or more frequently in some situations, can provide the best protection from fleas biting your pet, can kill adult fleas rapidly, and can prevent a flea infestation from being established in your pet's environment," Diesel said.

Diesel and Friedeck agreed that it is important to minimize an animal's exposure to fleas by avoiding infested areas and pets coming in contact with animals that have fleas such as wild animals.

"There are some things which can be done to minimize exposure to fleas: avoid known infested areas, do not allow your pet to come into contact with wild animals or burrows, and protect areas of the house where wild animals may enter to minimize wild animals from establishing residency in the first place," Diesel said.

If fleas become a problem inside the house, Diesel and Friedeck suggested vacuuming once a week.

"Vacuuming is a very good way to rid of fleas in the house, but the bag must be thrown away and removed from the house," Friedeck said.

She added that if there is a large flea presence, there are in-house treatments and exterminators.

"There are some in-house treatments and bombs, but they should only be used in heavily burdened environments," Friedeck said.

Diesel suggested focusing on places where the pets spend most of their time inside the house when bombing because that will contain the most concentrated area of fleas.

"Don't forget under beds and furniture, behind curtains, and along hallways connecting rooms when treating the house for fleas. Again, it may be best to contact a professional exterminator when there is a large flea burden present," she said.

In addition to treating animals and inside of homes, it may be necessary to treat the outside environment. This can be done by spraying areas of the yard that are high in flea population.

"This includes shaded areas, under trees and bushes, in dog houses, under porches and decks. As with indoor control, when the burden is high, a professional exterminator may be the most help," Diesel said.

Diesel said the best strategy against fleas is to practice year-round prevention by treating all pets with flea medicine as well as treating inside and outside the home if an infestation is suspected.

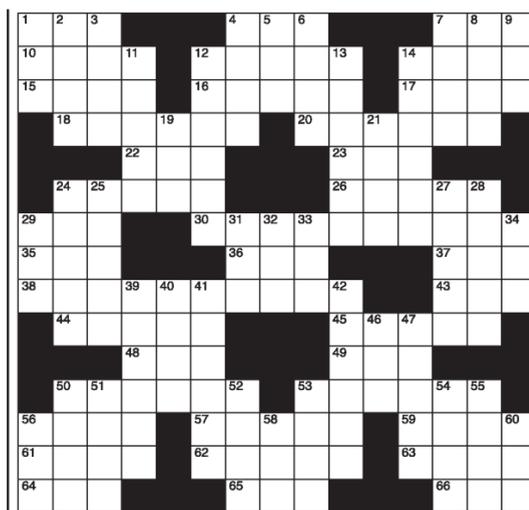

"It is much easier to prevent fleas than to treat fleas," she said.

Cemetery looks to raise funds, awareness

By CECILIA SPEARS

BONIFAY — According to Bonifay City Council member Roger Brooks, the project of renovating the entrance and main tower for the Bonifay City Cemetery was over a year in the making and was financially realized at the beginning of this year.

"It took four to five months to complete," said Brooks. "We were very fortunate to receive so many donations from the community. We couldn't have done it without them."

Brooks explained that it was the Bonifay Cemetery Committee who raised the funds.

"The Bonifay Cemetery Committee is appointed by the mayor and council members, has about 10 members and has been around for over 50 years," said Brooks. "The committee has been very active in keeping the cemetery maintained. They have done very well and have made many improvements."

Brooks said that with most of the labor and construction they tried to remain with local people.

"We've got a plaque out here in memory of Mrs. Mary Padgett, who was one of the founding members of the Cemetery Committee," said committee member Wilhelmina Parish Belcer. "I think it's a great addition for those families that have family buried here."

By Cecilia Spears

Bonifay Cemetery Committee members Edna McDonald, Susan Pitman, Joan Manuel Steverson, Wilhelmina Parish Belcer, James Sellers and city representative Roger Brooks.

Brooks wished to thank all those who contributed to the cause.

"Not a single penny came from the city, so I can say if it weren't for those generous donations this project wouldn't have been possible," said Brooks. "The person who gave $5 is just as important as the one who gave thousands. Thank you for all your donations."

Brooks said that the reason the Cemetery Committee is able to continue with regular maintenance and beautification of the cemetery is mainly in part to donations.

Anyone interested in making a donation to Bonifay Cemetery Committee may send it to Bonifay Cemetery Committee, P.O. Box 657, Bonifay, FL 32425.

I used to believe in Leprechauns

By Rev. James L. Snyder

I must make a confession. It has taken me a long time to get to the place where I am willing and comfortable to make such an admission. I think some of my friends will be shocked at what I have to say. I think it is time I come clean and confess. Sort of, clean the air, so to speak.

Simply put, I used to believe in leprechauns. I know that comes as a shock to all of my friends. At a distance, I look like a very reasonable, well-adjusted person. And the further away the better I look. The same thing goes with my distant relatives. The more distant they are the more I like them.

Nobody would suspect that I had such a problem. You cannot tell what burdens people are carrying just by looking at them.

It all came to me by way of reading books. When I was a young person, I read many books that had to do with leprechauns, rainbows and pots full of gold at the end of those rainbows. I was young and naive at the time and believed everything I read.

Once while my father was sleeping on the couch I ask him if he believed in leprechauns and he grunted in such a way that I took it to mean that he also believed in them. If you cannot trust your father while he is sleeping, who in the world can you trust?

Many a day I spent in the woods at the end of our property looking for leprechauns. I can testify that they are rather elusive creatures but several times, I almost caught one. They always were just a few seconds quicker than I was. I looked where I thought they were but they were nowhere to be found.

Do not get me wrong here. I was never frustrated in my fruitless search of leprechauns. There is no better way to spend a day in the woods than searching for the elusive leprechaun. I began to think what I would do if I actually caught one. Then what would I do in the woods? It is always better to seek and not find than to find something and have to quit the seeking.

I think it is something like fishermen. Few fishermen really fish for fish. They fish so they can go home and brag about the one that got away. It is hard to brag about the fish you caught and then there is the messy job of cleaning those fish. No, it is better to have fished and not caught anything to have fished and caught something that you have to take home and clean.

Such was my thoughts concerning my leprechaun pursuit.

Many an evening I entertained my parents with the exciting exploits of searching and almost catching a leprechaun today. I am sure they got tired of hearing, but I never tired of telling.

Then the time came when I really had to face the facts. After almost a decade of diligently searching for leprechauns, I had to conclude that they were simply a figment of my imagination. And you know what happens to figs if you keep them around for a long time. I had to realize there were no such creatures as leprechauns.

I must confess that it was a rather sad day for me. It was the beginning of many sad days like this.

For instance, the day I realized Santa Claus was not real. Every year I diligently prepared my Christmas list starting out with, "Dear Ole Santa," and dictated my list of Christmas hopefuls. Often I would sit on his lap and carefully read my list to him. The last time I did this my wife made me get off his lap. Something about being too big or something like that.

To my recollection, he never made good on any of those requests. Jolly old soul? Phooey!

Then there was the Easter Bunny. This had me for quite a while. After all, I love the chocolate Easter bunnies he brought me along with the rest of the candy. Unlike Santa Claus, the Easter Bunny was very generous in dousing me with candy galore. I truly hated putting the Easter Bunny away.

Probably the last one I will mention would be when a politician says, "I feel your pain." At first, I thought this was a genuine concern for my state of affairs. When I found out he was just playing me in his political theater I wanted him to feel some more of my pain.

Pondering this I begin to realize that many things that I have believed in turned out not to be true.

It is quite disconcerting when something you have believed in for a long time turns out to be phony. While I am confessing here, I must confess that only one thing has turned out not to be disappointing. That one thing has been the Bible. It has been the only thing that has not let me down in life. I take great comfort in Psalms 119:105, "Thy word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light unto my path."

Many things disappoint me and I have given them up. I start each day with the only thing that will never let me down, that is the Word of God. I believe the Bible.

Charity can be given in many different ways

Most religions place a high emphasis upon charity, as do many secular organizations. Even when people have differences of opinion on other points, they'll generally agree that helping others, both globally and locally, is a good idea.

Naturally, people have different motivations for practicing acts of charity. Sometimes, they're interested in raising awareness about circumstances that affect themselves or a loved one. For instance, I know someone whose child suffers from a certain disease, and as a result, became active with an organization dedicated to fighting that illness. Others might respond to stories of disasters, both at home and abroad. Even people who don't usually make regular charitable contributions will often donate after hearing news of events such as the earthquakes in Haiti, tornadoes and hurricanes in the U.S., and tsunamis in Asia. And then there are some people who like to "do good while looking good."

It may seem superficial to raise money for charity while simultaneously promoting your own self-interests, but some people do just that. It's nothing new. In the Bible, Jesus mentions people who use almsgiving as a means of drawing attention to themselves. He notes in Matthew 6:2 that in doing so, they've already received their reward. For them, satisfying their own vanity is the primary goal. Even at that, it doesn't mean that their charity is worthless. When I was young, I knew a woman who was quite open about wanting to give to a certain charity because she hoped to get her name engraved on a big, shiny plaque. Someone made a remark behind her back about how awful and shallow she was, but someone from the charity remarked, "Who cares why she's giving? We're just happy that she's giving at all." And it's true. Motives are between you and your conscience. If you're giving because you want your name up in lights, there are better reasons to give, but your contribution can be used for good, nonetheless. A homeless person eating the food that your money purchased isn't going to care what prompted you to make that donation. Regardless of why you're giving, the important thing is that you're doing it. Eventually, a person might be able to work out his or her ego issues and find a more selfless motive for charity, but in the meantime, if getting a building named after you is what it takes to get you to pry your wallet open, so be it.

In my many years of interviewing practitioners of different religions, I've only encountered one group that was flatly against charity. It was an independent Christian church that felt charity was useless because of John 12:8, in which Jesus says, "the poor you will always have with you." They interpreted it to mean that since the poor were always intended to be part of the human population, giving them charity is not only senseless, but a direct violation of God's will. However, almost every other group I've dealt with engages in some kind of charitable action. Even religious groups that are too small to make much of an impact by themselves will often band together with larger groups to help the disadvantaged.

SHANNON SEYLER
Faithfully Yours

Charity can be found in small gestures as well as large ones. You don't have to provide meals for a thousand people at once or pay for an entire wing of a hospital. Nobody's expecting you to single-handedly cure cancer or restore sight to the blind. Even if you qualify as a recipient of charity yourself, you can still help others.

Acts of kindness are encouragement are free.

I feel that reassurance and support qualify as acts of charity. There are times when a kind word can be worth more than gold. There are people who've approached me in moments of sorrow, frustration or despair who changed my life. They didn't give me money. They gave me hope. Think of how many times a day a small child hears the word "no". Maybe you can be the first person of the day to smile kindly and say "yes". Do you know someone who's struggling to learn a new skill? You don't have to be a professor to help. Teaching others can be quite rewarding. You can take groceries to a housebound person, or make sure that a senior who's living alone is getting enough to eat. Justice is an act of charity, too. It's important to stand up for what is right, even if other people ridicule you for it. Show your concern for others by refusing to idly stand by while they're being bullied or harassed.

If nothing else, simply be more encouraging than discouraging.

Sometimes, people describe their spirituality by using terms that involve light. They saw the light, are walking in the light, or are trying to become enlightened. It's a fitting image. As the old saying goes, "A single candle can illuminate an entire room." It's important to make life better in both the spiritual and physical realms. That's why it's crucial to bring light to others on a regular basis. When you see the darkness of injustice, ignorance, fear, discrimination, poverty or unkindness, your light, even if small, may be sufficiently bright for others to find their way to a better life. The children's song, "This Little Light of Mine" has more meaning than most people realize.

We honor God's creations by loving them. Anyone who routinely belittles others, crushes the wills of children, denies help to the elderly, mistreats their employees or co-workers, engages in domestic abuse, practices bigotry or otherwise slams the door in the faces of their fellow humans, is not honoring God. Such a person is essentially saying that God's creations are garbage, and hence, not deserving of love. Anyone who claims to care about God will practice charity toward the beings that he's made.

If God's creations are worth his time and effort, how can they not be worth a few moments of ours, as well?

Imagining the Past

Have you ever wondered what it would have been like to live in Biblical times? While it is tempting to believe that merely reading the Bible can transport us back to the ancient civilizations of the near East, that is surely naive. Understanding distant civilizations requires much more than understanding what those civilizations lacked (e.g., cars, electricity, modern plumbing, etc.). It also requires that we have a positive understanding of their language and culture, including the pattern of rituals and manners which pervaded their culture. Much of the Bible is strange to us because we simply do not understand the culture. In order to imagine, or re-imagine the past, it is necessary to thoroughly immerse yourself in the culture. Besides simply reading the Bible, we should engage in historical studies to supplement our understanding, and maybe even attempt to learn some Hebrew or Greek. This would be an ambitious undertaking, but one which would truly allow us to see with new eyes.

"By wisdom a house is built, and through understanding it is established; through knowledge its rooms are filled with rare and beautiful treasures."
Proverbs 24: 3-4

Incorrect Insertion Policy

For Classified In-column Advertisers

All ads placed by phone are read back to the advertiser to insure correctness. The newspaper will assume correctness at the time of the read-back procedure unless otherwise informed.

Please your ad.

Advertisers are requested to check the advertisement on the first insertion for correctness. Errors should be reported immediately.

Your Florida Freedom newspaper will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion, nor will it be liable for any error in advertisements to a greater extent than the cost of the space occupied by the error.

Any copy change, during an ordered schedule constitutes a new ad and new charges.

We do not guarantee position of ANY ad under any classification.

Service Technician - Chipley

PowerSouth Energy Cooperative (PowerSouth) is seeking a Service Technician for the T&D Operations & Maintenance Department at the Chipley District in Chipley, Florida. This position assists in the performance of power line maintenance and construction and performs inspections of transmission and distribution facilities. Incumbents must have valid driver's license and must be able to obtain Commercial Drivers License (CDL) within 18 months (must be 21 years of age to obtain CDL). Incumbent must be capable of performing all phases of maintenance and repair of transmission line facilities and inspection of transmission and distribution facilities. Must be capable of responding to call-out or on-call status. Must have ability to climb transmission structures and perform tasks while at these heights and must demonstrate the ability to climb during the probationary period. Must have the ability to operate heavy equipment such as road tractors, digger derricks and bucket trucks. Must be capable of being placed on PowerSouth's switching list within twenty-four (24) months.

Employment is subject to a negative drug test, background check and completion of a comprehensive application for employment. PowerSouth offers a competitive salary and comprehensive benefits program.

Interested candidates who meet these requirements should apply through:
Chipley One Stop Career Center
680 Second Street, Room 7
Chipley, Florida 32428

Please apply by close of business on May 31, 2012.
