School board approves millage, budget

By CECILIA SPEARS

cspears@chipleypaper.com

BONIFAY — The Holmes County District School Board approved resolutions setting the millage rate at 7.396 and adopting the 2013-14 budget of $32,933,665 during their regular meeting on Sept. 17.

The millage rate was approved with a vote of 4-1, with board member Debbie Kolmetz voting “no.”

“We were able to break down the funding in much more depth than we’ve ever been able to before,” Finance Officer Larry Hawkins said. “We’ve got it broken down to where we can see the cost of each student. We’re still not back to the peak we were at in 2008, but we’re functioning.”

Local resident Janet Watson asked about improving the school lunch program at Poplar Springs School.

“Thanks to Mrs. Obama, we’ve had to undergo changes in the lunch rooms, though the only thing that’s changed is that they’ve added salads,” Watson said. “My children are coming home hungry.”

Chairman Rusty Williams agreed that changes could be made to better the lunch selection at Poplar Springs School.

“I know we’re following the state guidelines when it comes to providing school lunches,” Superintendent Eddie Dixon said. “We can look at additional programs and see what we can do.”

Watson also said the gym’s air conditioning needed to be fixed.

“We had a tournament in a gym without A/C,” Watson said.

Rodeo: 8 days to go

BONIFAY — The countdown to the 2013 Northwest Florida Championship Rodeo continues with only eight days to go. Bonifay Kiwanis President Elect Sandy Spear provided some of the latest news at the Bonifay Kiwanis Club’s Sept. 18 meeting.

“We are just so excited about what this year has to offer,” Spear said. “We now have tickets available online, and we’ve just sold our first tickets online. We’re also offering for the first time ever VIP tickets.”

With VIP tickets, ticket holders get preferred parking behind the concession stands, a commemorative cushion with specialized seating at the bull gates, someone to run to and from the concession stands for food and beverages and a back arena pass, allowing them to meet the riders and take pictures with barrel men, clowns and others.

“We’re limiting it to 100 VIP tickets per night,” Spear said. “This really gives them a chance to feel like VIPs. This idea was brought to us by our new stock contractor.”

Another new feature Spear said she was excited about was the largest raffle prize the rodeo has ever offered.

August unemployment drops to 7.0

From Staff Reports

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Rick Scott announced last week that the statewide unemployment rate for August 2013 dropped to 7.0 percent.

This is down from 7.1 percent in May, June, and July 2013, and down 4.1 percentage points since December 2010. The statewide unemployment rate has remained below the national average of 7.3 percent for the sixth consecutive month. Florida has created 365,500 private sector jobs since December 2010.

In Holmes County, the August 2013 rate dropped to 5.9 percent, according to Department of Labor reports, down from 6.5 percent in July and down from the August 2012 unemployment rate of 7.4 percent.

In Washington County, August saw a dip from 8.3 percent unemployment in July to 7.8 percent in August 2013. In August 2012, Washington County had an unemployment rate of 9.4 percent.

“Today’s announcement is great news for Florida families as the state’s unemployment rate dropped to 7.0 percent in August,” Scott said. “Since December 2010, the unemployment rate has dropped 4.1 percentage points, and Florida has created 365,500 new private sector jobs. This is evidence that our pro-growth and business-friendly policies are working.”

In the same timeframe, the national unemployment rate has dropped 2.0 percentage points, demonstrating Florida’s improving economic climate continues to outpace the national recovery. Florida’s unemployment rate has now declined year-over-year for 34 consecutive months.

The governor said Florida has experienced positive annual job growth for 37 consecutive months. Florida’s job growth month-to-month has been positive for 23 of the last 26 months.

CHIPLEY — Port Director Tommy Pitts gave the Washington County Chamber of Commerce an update on developments at the Port of Port St. Joe during Thursday’s meeting at the Northwest Florida Community Hospital.

“We’re excited about the port, and we have made significant progress toward opening the facility,” said Pitts, of Port St. Joe.

Located in Gulf County, the Port of Port St. Joe offers a deep-water seaport with two separate bulkheads, Pitts said. One of the bulkheads features almost 1,900 linear feet at the ship channel turning basin, and the other offers

"I don't believe it is good for the kids to play in an enclosed area at 170 degree Fahrenheit temperatures."

The board also approved of the list of out-of-field teachers for 2013-14.

"ESE standards have changed this year," Dixon said. "The standard is that teachers must be certified in every subject they teach, so a few will have to take a little while, but they're working on it."

The board also approved of out-of-county/state students, bell schedules and school advisory councils.

The next meeting of the Holmes County District School Board is set for 9 a.m. Oct. 1.

"We're so excited," Spear said. "We've decided to do a package with two tickets for the two-night National Rodeo in Las Vegas, a room at the world famous Las Vegas Hotel The Flamingo, two pairs of Miss Me Jeans and a 50/50 raffle where the money raised will be halved with the winner to help with travel expenses to Las Vegas. Tickets are one for $5, three for $10 or 7 for $20, and sign-up will be held Thursday and Friday night and will be drawn Saturday; you don't have to be present to win."

For more information or online ticket purchases, visit www.bonifaykiwanisrodeo.com. Tickets also are available at Community South Credit Union, Doc's Market, First Federal Bank of Florida, Bowen Hardware, Piggly Wiggly and the Holmes County Chamber of Commerce.

"Remember, the more money we make at this rodeo, the more money we'll have for scholarships," Spear said. "This is a nonprofit event that is not only for our community but for our children's bright, bright future."

City prepares for rodeo with new fees

By CECILIA SPEARS
547-9414 | @WCN_HCT
cspears@chippypaper.com

BONIFAY — The Bonifay City Council decided on Monday to "get in on the action" of this year's Northwest Florida Championship Rodeo by approving a $200 fee for vendors to set up for three days on city property, which is in addition to the $100 vendor's license they charge every year.

The council agreed to continue exempting local churches from any fees.

"Businesses and other land owners are charging these vendors for setting up on their property, and I think it's about time we did, too," Mayor Lawrence Cloud said. "And from what I'm hearing, we're giving them a very good deal."

The council approved of purchasing a John Deere excavator for $41,460, plus an additional tilt angle blade estimated at around $1,200, to be financed through the First Federal Bank at an interest rate of 2.5 percent.

"John Deere, CAT and Komatsu came and held a demonstration for us and gave us quotes to choose from," Cloud said. "They all performed well, but we can all agree that the John Deere has what we need for the job."

The council agreed to put in an application to the Florida Department of Environmental Protection, Division of Recreation and Parks for a Florida Recreation Development Assistance Program Grant in the amount of $50,000 for the further development of Middlebrooks Park.

The council also held the first reading of an ordinance to renew Gulf Power's franchise agreement with the city of Bonifay and agreed to request a representative attend the next scheduled council meeting. The council also approved the final reading of Ordinance 386, which sets for the city's budget.

Dianne Little with Holmes County Community Health Clinic came before the council to inform the councilmen of their progress over the past year.

"We've been experiencing so many blessings at our clinic," Little said. "Our clinic provides free help for any and all without insurance and is a ministry First Baptist Church of Bonifay. We operate completely on volunteers like Dr. Bailey, and in the last 12 months we've seen over 250 people."

She said she had added up the time and services provided by volunteers and estimated they have saved the city around $50,000 in medical expenses.

"We are very proud and love what we are doing for our community," Little said. "When we were here last year, we weren't sure where we were going to be in a year, but here we are seeing an average of 15 to 16 patients a day."

She said the clinic is open from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. first and third Saturdays and is one block East of First Baptist Church Bonifay near Bonifay Middle School Gym.

They would welcome donations like an extra desk, furniture and a computer and welcome any volunteer nurse practitioners.

The council approved of the Holmes County Mounted Posse holding their annual Veterans' Day Parade starting at 10 a.m. Nov. 9 down Waukesha Street in Bonifay and agreed to provide hot dog lunches at Veterans' Park after the parade.

"They sacrificed their lives so that we can be free," said Joe Hardy, with the Holmes County Mounted Posse. "The least we can do is show our appreciation by holding a parade in their honor."

The next scheduled meeting of the Bonifay City Council is at 6 p.m. Oct. 14.

new private sector jobs since December 2010, and the state is expected to create almost 1.1 million new jobs by 2018, according to the Florida Economic Estimating Conference.

Florida job postings compiled by the Help Wanted Online data series from The Conference Board showed 266,467 openings in August 2013 (seasonally adjusted). Florida had the largest over-the-month gain of all states, up 11,644 openings. Florida had the fourth highest number of openings in the nation compared to all states.

Also, Florida home sales remain robust as the backlog of existing homes on the market is down by 23 percent from August 2012, Scott said. Florida median home prices were up 18.6 percent over the year in August 2013.

A recent U.S. Census Survey reported that Florida experienced an influx of people moving into the state. Florida also led the nation in migrations from Puerto Rico.

Florida is also running a trade surplus of more than $24 billion — with $86.8 billion in exports and $62.4 billion in imports in 2011, up from $73.1 billion in exports in 2010 and $53.2 billion in imports in 2010, according to the governor's report.

In August, Florida's 24 Regional Workforce Boards reported more than 41,000 Floridians were placed in jobs. This represents an increase of almost 12,000 placements over the year from August 2012.

An individual who receives employment and training assistance through a One-Stop Career Center and finds a job within 180 days is deemed a placement and may be reported by a regional workforce board. Of these individuals, 11,967 previously received Reemployment Assistance.

In 2012, more than 426,000 Floridians were placed in jobs, with 111,173 former claimants finding employment.

The history of Relay For Life

Special to the News

You may have heard of The American Cancer Society Relay For Life but do you know the story behind The American Cancer Society Relay For Life.

Are you asking yourself, what is Relay For Life? If so I am going to tell you the story as provided to me by the American Cancer Society.

The American Cancer Society Relay For Life is a life-changing event that gives everyone in communities across the globe a chance to celebrate the lives of people who have battled cancer, remember loved ones lost, and fight back against the disease. At Relay, tams of people camp out at a local high school, park, or fairground and take turns walking or running around a track or path. Each team is asked to have a representative on the track at all times during the event. Because cancer never sleeps, Relays are overnight events up to 24 hours in length.

Relay began in 1985 when Dr. Gordy Klatt, a colorectal surgeon in Tacoma, Washington, ran and walked around a track for 24 hours to raise money for the American Cancer Society. Since then, Relay has grown from a single man's passion to fight cancer into the world's largest movement to end the disease. Each year, more than 3.5 million people in 5,000 communities in the United States, along with additional communities in 20 other countries, gather to take part in the global phenomenon and raise much-needed funds and awareness to save lives from cancer. Thanks to Relay participants, the American Cancer Society continues to save lives.

No that you know what Relay For Life is you may now be wondering, What happens at Relay For Life events? Although every Relay For Life is different, there are certain traditions at all Relays, no matter where they are held. These traditions help participants celebrate, remember, and fight back.

We Celebrate with the Survivors Lap

Relay starts with a Survivors Lap- a inspirational time when survivors are invited to circle the track together and help everyone celebrate the victories we've achieved over cancer. The Survivors Lap is an emotional example of how Relay participants are ensuring that more lives are saved each year- like those of each individual on the track. We also recognize and celebrate caregivers are Relay For Life. These individuals give their time, love, and support to friends, family, neighbors, and co-workers who face cancer. At Relay, people understand the frustrations and joys of being a caregiver, since the effects of cancer reach far beyond just the person diagnosed.

We Remember with the Luminaria Ceremony

After dark, we honor people who have been touched by cancer and remember loved ones lost to the disease during the Luminaria Ceremony. Candles are lit inside bags filled with sand, each one bearing the name of a person touched by cancer, and participant often walk a lap in silence. As people take time to remember, those who have walked alongside others battling cancer can grieve and find healing. This is a time that truly highlights the importance of defeating this disease.

We Fight Back with The Fight Back Ceremony

Last, there is a Fight Back Ceremony, where we make a personal commitment to save lives by taking up the fight against cancer. That personal commitment may be to do something as simple as getting a screening test, quitting smoking, or talking to elected officials about cancer. By taking action, people are personally taking steps to save lives and fight back against a disease that takes too much Celebrate, Remember, and Fight Back are themes that link all Relay Events together.

Our VIEW

Scott's bad bet

When it comes to defending the legality of his executive order to drug test state employees, Florida Gov. Rick Scott embraces the Han Solo philosophy of reckless abandon: Never tell him the odds.

Nevertheless, maneuvering through a crowded asteroid field at high speed is a walk in the park compared to Scott's chances of surviving the federal courts.

Shortly after taking office in 2011, Scott signed an executive order mandating random drug tests for some 85,000 state employees and job applicants. When it was challenged in court by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees and the American Civil Liberties Union, Scott suspended the order, so it's never been implemented — nor will it likely ever be, at least not in full.

Last year, U.S. District Judge Ursula Ungaro in Miami ruled Scott's policy violated the Fourth Amendment's prohibition on unreasonable searches. In May, a three-judge panel of the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld the ban on random drug tests on all state employees, saying it "almost certainly sweeps far too broadly." However, the court sent the case back to Ungaro on the grounds that legal precedent allows government to randomly test some employees, even those not suspected of illegal drug use.

Indeed, courts have ruled that workers in safety-sensitive jobs — police, firefighters, pilots, train conductors, etc. — can be randomly tested, because the government has a compelling interest in protecting the public.

Ungaro plans to appoint a special master to come up with a proposed list of those positions. Scott should've declared victory — albeit a narrow one — and called it a day. Last week, though, Charles Trippe, a lawyer representing the governor, requested that Ungaro postpone that process while the state appeals — all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The judge about fell out of her chair. The governor has "about zero chance" of winning that, Ungaro said.

Delaying on appeal would push the case into 2014, an election year for Scott. Ungaro seemed mystified about the strategy.

"Do we hope the governor will be voted out of office?" Ungaro asked. "Is this the idea, keep the ball up in the air, pray he is not re-elected?"

She refused to postpone the process of identifying state jobs that would pass constitutional muster unless Scott agreed to abandon the executive order if the Supreme Court declined to hear the case. Trippe said he couldn't promise that.

Scott is holding a pair of 2s and going all in with his chips.

It wouldn't be the first time. Scott already has seen another drug policy he supported, a 2011 law that mandated drug testing for all welfare recipients, shot down by the courts. The 11th Circuit this year said the state had not proved there was any need for the law, that there was "no evidence that simply because an applicant for ... benefits is having financial problems, he is also drug addicted or prone to fraudulent and neglectful behavior." The governor vowed to appeal that one all the way to Washington, too.

Maybe in his mind he's got nothing to lose. He can make a quixotic stand on an issue that usually garners high public support — most people are more concerned about the morality of drug use than the constitutionality of policies. If he loses, he can blame the black-robed masters who care not about substance abuse.

It's Floridians who pay the price, though — literally. The Orlando Sentinel reported last December that Scott in 2012 cost state taxpayers upward of $1 million in legal appeals.

He needs to stop gambling with the public's money, especially when he's the sucker sitting at the table.

Retirement brings busy schedules

The Panama City News-Herald has a daily column titled "History Today," with the first segment telling the number of days passed in the year and the remaining number of days left in the year.

All the topics under this heading are equally interesting, but the lead item always serves to remind me just how fleeting time is.

When retiring 21 years from county judge position, little did I know what a busy schedule I would follow this far down the line. Writing the Prattle has come into my life since retirement. My involvement in the Heritage of Washington County Book, as well as more participation in the Washington County and the Vernon Historical Societies, were also added.

Mentioned in the past is that I was named president of the Senior Class in Vernon High School in 1944. Little did I realize the assignment would stick with me the remainder of my life.

As president of the 1944 Graduation Class, it fell my lot to head up the "committee" to plan and preside at class reunions, which became an annual event. It was on April 20, that our class held a reunion celebrating our 69th year since graduating from Vernon High School. The lives of Hester and Perry Wells has been a rollercoaster since the April get together.

It is no secret that neither of us were physically able to carry forth the reunion. This probably was obvious to the remaining faithful class mates who did attend. Without going into gory details, Hester had been revisited with the chronic bronchial disorder that she was diagnosed with three years ago. This resulted in her being hospitalized in Dothan on April 23, the third day after our class reunion. Again, sparing graphics, your writer had been overcome with an anemic disorder, which did not put me in the hospital but did hinder in ministering to Hester's needs.

My curtailed activities brought a few telephone calls from faithful friends especially when I did not show up for the monthly Chamber of Commerce meetings where I have presided since 1988. Parenthetically, allow me to say that I highly appreciated all of those inquiries on me as well as those checking on Hester's recovery.

She was released on May 7 to convalesce at home. Our "social calendar" was kept to a minimum for the next several weeks. However when June 15th arrived, we simply had to attend the annual Brock Reunion, which has been a "must" in my life, as well as for Hester since she joined the family almost sixty-one years ago.

My readers know my track record with the annual Watermelon Festival, held the last full week end in June. It is known that I "retired" from my 30-year chairmanship of that event eight years ago. The new chairman, Judge Colby Peel, thankfully keeps the old chairman involved in the event, much to my delight. Hester stood with me again this year and we even made two trips to the watermelon fields for the prize melons, an activity which I have continued to carry out.

Much to our liking, invitations continued to come to the Wells household requesting our presence at the special events of friends. On Saturday, July 20, we were invited to join and help surprise and celebrate the 70th birthday of our special friend, Roger Dale Taylor. The event was held in the mammoth Tallahassee Auto Museum in Tallahassee. It was hosted by Dale's lovely wife, Beverly, their daughter, Alyson Taylor and the son, Clayton Taylor. The occasion was a well kept secret to Dale and the look on his face as he entered the gigantic banquet hall, filled with friends, left no doubt that he was completely overwhelmed at the event. His brother Kent and wife from Crawfordville, Florida invited Hester and me to join their table.

Other Washington County neighbors and friends attending include Marcia Sapp Agner, Jack and Angia Hinson Morris, John Teusink and wife, Barbara Harrell Teusink and H. L. Brown and wife, Liller Brock Brown. The Prattler acknowledges with much humility that H. L. and Dale were the prime movers in having Highway 277 designated as the Judge Perry Wells Highway in 2010, an honor that I shall always treasure.

Then on August 1st, we were honored with an invitation to another surprise event, the 50th Wedding Anniversary party of Shelton Carroll and wife, Bobbie Perkins Carroll. It was held at The Oaks restaurant in Marianna and hosted by Tina Carroll

A youthful Dale Taylor who, as he stated at his party, "the whole world now knows that I am 70 years old."

Encarnacion, the daughter of the couple and Gwyn Carroll Harris, the sister of Shelton. The celebration was well attended by friends, family and others. The expression on the faces of the honored couple was one of complete surprise as they entered into the banquet room.

We have attempted to carry on our other usual expected activities, attending church and visiting the sick folk in our circle. We know we have missed funerals which normally one or both would have attended. This includes my cousin, Wilma Wells Stubbs, who passed away in early August. I missed the funeral of Bill Day, the brother of Paul Day. Bill had just retired from the Washington County School system when he was stricken and passed away after only a few days. Neither could I attend the service for Charles Reeves, who passed away after a lengthy illness. Charles was County Forrester, who retired after a long tenure of service. Pearl Moody Newsom's funeral was missed and I know there are others. Hester regretted missing the funeral for Esto resident and longtime friend of the family, Bill McGowan.

Apologizes are extended should this writing begin to sound like a "sob story." I felt inclined to report on my absence in so many places during this fast moving year. I am happy to report that both Hester and I are on the "mend". With another week or so of iron sulfate in the old system, the Prattler should be back in the full swing of things. Thanks for all the interest shown in our well being and prayers for better days ahead.

See you all next week.

The history of the Sims House

I've had a lot of feedback on the articles about old homes in Bonifay. I myself am interested in old homes as they are the history of the people who dwell there. In the Holiday Restaurant the other day, Ronnie Hagan Gentry and Myrt Sims pointed that I hadn't mentioned the Sims house, one of the oldest in the area. I assured them I'd get to it.

When I was teaching, one project that I had my 7th grade class do was to interview the owner of the oldest home they knew about and write their stories. Those stories have become a part of our Heritage History of Holmes County. Paul Quattlebaum interviewed James Archie Sims, Jr. the son of the builder of the home. Ronnie, great-grand-daughter, brought me the list of family who grew up there and I also interviewed Eddie Sims a grand-son.

The house was built in 1898 by James Archie (Jimbo) Sims, Sr. and Levy [le vee] Yates his father-in-law. Sims was married to Amy Yates and the children born to this couple were James (Jasper) Eddie, James Archie, Jr; C.Yawkey, Ella Brock, Bessie Mae Cooley, Jewel White, Grace Brock and Alice and Katie both of whom died in childhood. The 2 older sons were born in a frame home near the present home, but the other children were born and reared in the new construction. J. Archie and Argie Lee Van Sims' four children, Avonelle Sims Hagans, Archie Van, Gene, and Jimmy Sims were also brought up in the home.

The house was built from timbers grown on the property, hand cut sills, tree trunks for the foundation, and tongue and groove lumber for the finished floors and twelve or fourteen foot ceilings.

I don't remember Mr. Jimbo Sims, but I do remember his wife, my grandmother's cousin Amy. I also remember having Sunday dinner there at the invitation of Argie Lee, a dear friend of my mother. My grandfather, Tom Wells, one of the hardest working men I ever knew had a great respect for Mr. Jimbo Sims. I took that to mean that Sims was also a hard-working, ambitious man. About that same time, my grandparents built a similar sized home farther south toward Bethel Church where they raised their 6 children. Dec 31, 1949, however, that house burned to the ground as my brother Max and cousin Tom Wells were cleaning it out so that Tom could live there. We (my Dad) had used it as a tenant house after my Uncle Alex' family moved out.

After the death of Argie Lee Sims and Amy Sims and the launch of the grand children, Ella Brock who had built a house next door, bought the home place. Later grandson the late Jimmy Sims and wife Myrtice (Harrison) bought the home, making improvements including a large expansion. They now use it for family reunions and as a weekend retreat.

The Sims family is a large influential family. Daughter Bessie Mae married Gus Cooley and they raised a large family in Panama City. Their son Tommy Cooley is a successful businessman in Panama City being associated with Byrd and Sons Coko Cola Co and other interests. The north-east wing of Bay Medical Center is named for the Cooley family.

One of my high school classmates and life-long friend, Dorothy Brock Peters, is the daughter of Grace and John Brock, of the "Sand Hills." (to distinguish them from our Brock clan.) We are connected to the Sims family through the Yates family. Sarilda Yates married my great-great-Uncle Josh Brock and Jane Yates married his brother, my great grandfather, Tom Brock. I'd have to read the Sims History to see the relationship.

It is a pleasure to see old homes preserved by family and others. I hope we can find a way to preserve the old homes in our town as they are important to our history and culture.

Water proposal watered down

Southerland's resolution asks states to work together

By MATTHEW BEATON
522-5114 | @matthewbeaton
mbeaton@pcnh.com

APALACHICOLA — U.S. Rep. Steve Southerland on Thursday shelved a proposal that could have helped safeguard Apalachicola Bay's current freshwater supply, opting instead for a resolution requesting Florida, Georgia and Alabama work together on divvying up the available water coming from Lake Lanier near Atlanta.

The bay's oyster population has been devastated, primarily from the lack of freshwater coming down the Apalachicola River, which is fed by the lake.

The Panama City Republican's amendment would have required the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to get congressional approval before diverting more than 5 percent of the flow, but he pulled back when the House Transportation and Infrastructure Committee chairman told him the amendment went too far.

Southerland said the chairman offered a substitute amendment — "basically edited my amendment" — halting its progress.

"It wasn't all that I wanted ... but it was a lot more than we had the day before yesterday," he said.

The resolution — "sense of Congress" language — passed the committee unanimously and was tacked on to the Water Resources Reform Development Act, which cleared the panel.

"When Georgia has the upper hand like that, I don't see any incentive for them to come to the table, the Corps doesn't have a perspective that's going to help Florida at all."

Dan Tonsmeire

Executive Director of Apalachicola Riverkeeper

An Apalachicola environmental group, however, said the resolution won't do much to benefit the bay.

"What resulted out of that was not helpful," said "I mean, what they've done essentially is say to the Corps that, you know, they need to encourage the three states to get in a compact and work this thing out."

Tonsmeire praised Southerland's committee speech but said the legislative action would yield little. He also noted the legislation has a long way to go before becoming law.

Tonsmeire said even the initial amendment would not have helped much; it only would have kept the flow from decreasing more, rather than requiring the Corps to increase it.

Southerland, meanwhile, was confident his actions would have an effect.

"Even though I didn't get everything I wanted, I do believe that the 'sense of Congress' language that the chairman allowed to be put in the bill did highlight the inaction of the Corps," he said, "and so we're trying to put more pressure and up the ante on the Corps."

Possible report and hearing

Southerland has another plan to spur federal action. He will request a Government Accountability Office report on the Corps' reduction of water flow to the bay. He said committee chairman Bill Shuster, R-Penn., agreed to help him get the report and made a commitment to hold a hearing in which the Corps would come before the full committee to answer questions and respond to the report.

"I know what that report is going to say; it's going to say that the Corps of Engineers has been woeful in addressing the needs of the Apalachicola River Basin," Southerland said.

Tonsmeire said this plan was "really encouraging" and the focus must be on pressuring the Corps to care about the bay's freshwater needs. He would most like to see a provision in the WRRDA bill requiring the Corps to increase flow to the bay, but Southerland has not committed to including such language.

Meanwhile, the two share common ground in their distaste for the Corps. Southerland slammed it during his impassioned committee speech, saying, "The Corps is the problem."

In the past five decades, water flow down the Apalachicola River has decreased by more than 50 percent, Southerland told the committee.

"This is a proud region, a place where heritage matters, and it's a place on the verge of extinction," he said in his speech.

Unity unlikely

Tonsmeire said Florida and Georgia are unlikely to work together on dividing the water since Gov. Rick Scott recently announced a lawsuit against the northern neighbor over the dispute.

Even without the suit, Georgia would have no reason to bargain because the Corps essentially is giving it everything it wants, Tonsmeire said.

"When Georgia has the upper hand like that, I don't see any incentive for them to come to the table," he said, adding, the Corps doesn't have a "perspective that's going to help Florida at all."

As for Southerland, he has dug in for the long fight. He said he was "one new soldier in this battle that's been going on for decades." And he said the Florida delegation is unified on this issue — all 27 lawmakers, 19 Republicans and eight Democrats, signed on to a letter he sent recently laying out the case.

"We are still very solidly sticking together," he said. "Now Georgia, obviously, they're fighting for their interests."

ACA HEALTH INSURANCE MARKETPLACE OPENS OCT 1

Community Pharmacies Offer Insight, Support

Open enrollment for what is known as the Health Insurance Marketplace (or Insurance Exchange) begins Oct. 1 and will run through March 31, 2014. An important part of the Affordable Care Act (ACA), the Marketplace allows Americans to select a health insurance plan and sign up for coverage.

Actual coverage for the plan selected by an individual or family can begin as early as Jan. 1, 2014, as long as enrollment takes place by Dec. 15, 2013. To see all the health plans available in their geographic area — and to learn about premiums — individuals must first complete a Marketplace application that asks about their household size and income, according to the federal web site healthcare.gov. "If you are employed by a company that provides health insurance, you probably won't benefit from visiting the Marketplace," said William Steverson, owner of King's Drug Pharmacy in Chipley. "Most likely, you will continue to select your health insurance during your employers' Open Enrollment period; although we understand some companies may offer fewer options in the months ahead." Marketplace web site(s) will outline a variety of plans offered by different insurance companies, Steverson explained. All pricing will be in one place for consumers to compare and contrast.

It is important that consumers educate themselves about the benefits and the provider network included within each plan they consider, Steverson said. "Although all plans in the Marketplaces must offer the minimum of the federally-defined essential health benefits, there may be differences between the additional benefits offered by plans in our area. Also, find out if your family doctor or any specialists you use are in the plan's provider network. Then, learn if you will be restricted to only network physicians, which could be limiting if you travel frequently."

Where can consumers turn to find information about the ACA or the Health Insurance Marketplace? "Community pharmacies have always been a trusted resource when it comes to personalized healthcare service," Steverson added. "And we're here to help our patients and neighbors, now, during this time of widespread change."

We'll help you choose the Medicare Part D plan that meets your healthcare needs and saves you money. Whether you are new to Medicare or re-evaluating your Medicare prescription drug coverage, we will help you choose the right plan.

Bonifay native appointed interim dean of UWF College of Arts and Sciences

Special to Times-Advertiser

PENSACOLA — Dr. Michael Huggins was appointed interim dean of the University of West Florida College of Arts and Sciences in August 2013. The Bonifay native and 1992 Holmes County High School graduate previously served as professor and chair for the Department of Chemistry.

“I lived in Bonifay my whole life, in fact I grew up in Dogwood Lakes and graduated from Holmes County High School in 1992,” Huggins said. “Most of my family still lives in Bonifay.”

Huggins said he got to where he is “with just plain hard work.”

“I grew up in an environment that thought hard work and had a job most of my life. I became fascinated with science in my sixth grade year of attending Bonifay Elementary School after a series of events,” Huggins said. “That was around the time of the Hale Bopp Comet and the Challenger disaster. Also, I had a teacher named Mrs. Carswell who was very interested and science and encouraged us to also take a deep interest in science as well.”

“Mike is a proven university leader with a record of excellent contributions and service to the University,” said Martha Saunders, provost and vice president of Academic Affairs.

Huggins received a bachelor's degree in chemistry from UWF in 1996, and a doctorate in chemistry from the University of Nevada-Reno in 2000. He has received several awards and fellowships over the course of his career, including the University Faculty Distinguished Service Award and the College of Arts and Sciences Distinguished Teaching Award. As a professor, Dr. Huggins has taught courses in organic chemistry, supramolecular chemistry, organic synthesis, structure elucidation and spectroscopy.

While at UWF, Huggins has led large research groups, with more than 75 undergraduate students working in his lab. Many of these students have been co-authors on peer-reviewed publications and have presented their work at national and international chemistry conferences.

In addition, Dr. Huggins has worked on industrial contracts with numerous chemical companies in the Pensacola area and beyond.

“For those who are interested in going into the field my advice would be to work hard and ask a lot of questions,” Huggins said. “By nature scientists have to be inquisitive. Science is about asking all kinds of questions to find out more about how something works or why things are the way they are and that is how discoveries are made.”

Road would link State 79, Pier Park

By VALERIE GARMAN
747-5076 | @valeriegarman
vgarman@pcnh.com

PANAMA CITY BEACH — A “Back” Back Beach Road might be in Panama City Beach's future after all.

The city is in the preliminary planning stages of extending the existing portion of Pier Park Drive north of U.S. 98 and routing it to the west to intersect with State 79.

The extension of Pier Park Drive potentially could serve as the long-rumored initial stage of a project to create what city officials are calling a “Back” Back Beach Road in Panama City Beach.

City Manager Mario Gisbert said the project is important because the extension “basically becomes the first leg of what someday would be ... what we're calling ‘Back’ Back Beach Road.”

“There are some long, long, long-term projects out there. This is looking way out in the future,” Gisbert said.

Gisbert said the initial project will be recommended to the Florida Department of Transportation by the Bay County Transportation Planning Organization (TPO), an agency responsible for examining the county road system and prioritizing projects based on funding availability.

So far, no money has been allocated for the proposal.

On the TPO's 2035 Long Range Transportation Plan, “Back” Back Beach Road is mapped out to begin at Richard Jackson Boulevard and run parallel to U.S. 98 west into Walton County, ending on U.S. 98 just west of County 30A.

Gisbert said the TPO will elevate the project to “cost feasible” during its 2014 update.

The city also is in discussions with the land owners, The St. Joe Co., regarding the expansion of Pier Park Drive, Gisbert said.

“This is something the city is always looking at, ... making Back Beach Road more efficient, especially with all the new development,” said Gisbert, who noted the FDOT is considering the project.

The existing stretch of Pier Park Drive to the north of Back Beach Road lies directly west of the Pier Park North shopping center site, a 360,000-square-foot development slated to open in the spring.

Bay County Commissioner Mike Thomas said the project also would help in easing traffic congestion at State 79 and Back Beach Road during the annual Ironman Triathlon in November.

The County Commission approved routes for the race at a meeting Tuesday, despite complaints from residents that the route causes congestion, especially at the busy Back Beach intersection.

Thomas agreed the expansion also would help ease traffic in the area year-round.

“With this new construction over there it will also make a difference, with” Pier Park North, Thomas said. “It would make a huge difference there, I would imagine.”

Congressman optimistic on airport's future

By VALERIE GARMAN
747-5076 | @valeriegarman
vgarman@pcnh.com

WEST BAY — U.S. Rep. Steve Southerland was optimistic Monday as he toured Northwest Florida Beaches International Airport (ECP) and held a subsequent discussion with travel and tourism industry leaders.

"The good news is we have the world's most beautiful beaches, we've got the world's finest seafood and we've got the world's friendliest people," Southerland said of his native Bay County. "If you've got those three things, (visitors are) going to come. It's not if; it's when."

Airport officials led Southerland, a member of the House Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure, on a tour of the facility, including a look into the control tower, baggage screening system and a site ECP Director Parker McClellan said someday could house U.S. Customs and Border Protection.

McClellan said the airport hopes to begin targeting air charter services from international destinations in Europe, Canada and South America.

"Once Panama City gets discovered, the Europeans will jump all over it," McClellan said.

Despite a glass-half-full attitude, there was no shaking talk of challenges as the airport plans for the future.

HEATHER LEIPHART | The News Herald

U.S. Rep. Steve Southerland shakes hands with Joseph Kouns, right, in the control tower Monday while on a behind-the-scenes tour of the Northwest Florida Beaches International Airport in Panama City Beach.

Southerland, R-Panama City, said the visit helped him put a looming issue at the airport into perspective — the potential defunding of the Federal Aviation Administration's contract tower program, of which ECP participates.

The airport would be at risk of losing about $600,000 for tower operations annually if the program is cut from the federal Department of Transportation budget. The program will remain intact for the upcoming fiscal year, but there is uncertainty down the road.

"The contract towers are critical to serve the medium and small markets around the country," Southerland said. "It gets down to budgeting. ... In Washington, we're looking at numbers on a page, but when we come down here and visit, it's bigger than that."

State tourism officials also expressed concern with dwindling funding for U.S. Customs staff in Florida's many international airports, but they commended Southerland for his sponsorship of the JOLT Act, which will boost opportunities for international travel into the U.S.

While Bay County drives a successful seasonal tourism market, Southerland also addressed the need for growing industry in Northwest Florida to support the airport year-round.

"We can't just depend on one sector," said Southerland, who stressed the need for an economic balance, highlighting strides in Bay County's medical industry and value in the area's military bases and defense contractors.

"Obviously, those beautiful beaches, that's going to attract people," Southerland said. "We want to make this a full-time destination where people want to raise their children."

almost 900 linear feet on the Gulf County Canal.

The port is well-suited for bulk and cargo shipments, offering access to rail, the U.S. Gulf Intracoastal Waterway, and state and U.S. highways. One of the first railways in the country was built to the Port of St. Joe in the 1800s.

"There are some trestles that need work, and the state is going to step in and help us with that when the time comes," Pitts said.

One of the port's greatest assets is the about 260 acres of combined ready-to-be-leased lands next to the bulkheads and the more than 5,000 acres of land in the port environs available for immediate development.

Businesses wishing to establish facilities have plenty of room to build and expand. Pitts said the Pensacola port has only 50 acres, and Panama City has 105 acres for its port.

The Port Authority is working to secure the funding for the necessary permits to dredge the shipping channel up to 37 feet. The St. Joe Company has partnered with the Port Authority by providing $250,000 in match for a $750,000 state Department of Transportation grant to dredge the port.

"After the initial dredging, the Army Corps of Engineers will take over, and they will keep it dredged to 37 feet within a plus or minus of 2 feet," Pitts said.

The port will not accommodate ships that draw 50 feet, but because of increased international shipping, many smaller ships that are being displaced from other ports will find their way to Port St. Joe.

The AN Railway LLC also is receiving $5 million to rehabilitate about 19 miles of rail and 17 structures including a trestle over the Apalachicola River to accommodate freight trains to and from the port.

According to the port's website, the St. Joe Company has signed a letter of intent with Enova Energy Group, a full-service, clean energy development company specializing in development and operations of contracted renewable based assets.

Enova has expressed an interest in transporting a minimum of 1 million metric tons per year of wood pellets using the AN Railway to the Port of Port St. Joe for further shipment to overseas markets.

Chamber Executive Director Ted Everett said the wood pellet industry also is having a positive effect on local land owners who harvest trees.

"Prices for pulp was $5 per ton, and they are now $12-$18 per ton," Everett said.

The St. Joe Company has also signed a letter of intent with Green Circle Bio Energy Inc., a producer of biomass based renewable energy, Pitts said. The LOI anticipates several potential new business development opportunities to create jobs in the Northwest Florida region.

Green Circle is interested in leasing a site from St. Joe along the AN Railway to develop a wood pellet production facility. Green Circle operates the world's second largest wood pellet plant in Cottdale. The wood pellets produced at the new production facility can be transported via truck or AN Railway to the port for further shipment overseas. Both LOIs are contingent upon the Port of Port St. Joe receiving funding to complete maintenance dredging of the shipping channel.

Eastern Shipbuilding Group of Panama City also has leased 20 acres at the port site to expand its shipbuilding, vessel construction and repair and industrial steel fabrication operations in the Gulf Coast region.

"Economic growth takes a regional effort," Everett said. "It's not just about one county or another — it will take all of us working together, and Port St. Joe is poised to be a big economic player in the region."

History of the Port of Port St. Joe

Facility has long been important to area's economy

From Staff Reports
The St. Joe Star

Port St. Joe is on the site of a deep water natural harbor that has served twice as a thriving port over the last 180 years.

The first port development was during the 1830s and early 1840s. The town of St. Joseph was formed by a group of wealthy promoters so it could compete with Apalachicola for the export of large cotton crops and other locally produced commodities such as naval stores and lumber from Georgia and Alabama.

Florida's first railroad was built from Lake Wimico to St. Joseph Bay. Much of the cargo that would normally be shipped to the Port of Apalachicola was now detoured into the lake, where it was offloaded and transported by rail to ships docked at St. Joseph.

During this boom period between 1832 and 1842, the sea shore along St. Joseph was defined by long wharves extending almost 4,000 feet into the sea. The port also had a shipyard with many large warehouses scattered about. During the height of the first port's existence, it easily competed with well-established ports such as Charleston, S.C., and New Orleans. Most of the exports from the Port at St. Joseph were shipped to New England or to overseas ports in Europe.

The port was the growth engine for Old St. Joseph, and a growth engine it was. In a few short years after establishing the port, the town of St. Joseph soared to a population of almost 12,000 people and became the largest city in this new territory. The city was so charming and well known that in 1839, it hosted an assembly of statesmen for the purpose of establishing a state constitution.

The fate of St. Joseph and its port, however, had only a short existence. In the summer of 1841, a ship sailed from Cuba into the Port of Port St. Joseph. Along with its cargo, it carried a passenger infected with a disease transmitted primarily from the bite of the mosquito. It was the dreaded disease, yellow fever, and it quickly spread throughout the town. Within a short month, the town was all but deserted. Those the yellow fever did not kill escaped to faraway places, never to return to this former city of death. The town of St. Joseph never recovered from the loss it sustained during this epidemic of yellow fever. The long docks and the waterfront buildings that dotted the shoreline began to deteriorate from lack of maintenance and upkeep. It wasn't long before they were completely destroyed.

As told by historian Dale Cox, "In September 1844, a hurricane struck St. Joseph, destroying much of what remained of the community and driving away some of the last inhabitants."

Except for occasional small supply ships in and out of the port, this natural deep water harbor remained idle and undeveloped until around 1910, when the railroad was again activated. Piers jutting about 1,800 feet into the bay were constructed with railroad tracks so ships could load and unload directly to the railroad cars parked alongside.

This design of the piers with tracks laid along the top was an efficient way to handle the incoming and outgoing cargo from the old sailing vessels as well as the new steam vessels that were increasingly taking their place.

The port again had considerable shipping activity which lasted until, as former postmaster Henry Drake noted, "The Wall Street crash of 1929 caused a sudden and sharp decline in foreign and domestic shipping."

This decline caused financial hardship for the Apalachicola Northern Railroad, and as a result, it was sold in 1933 to the Alfred I. DuPont Company. DuPont purchased the railroad line, which now extended from Chattahoochee to Port St. Joe, with the intent of using its infrastructure to build a modern paper mill that would utilize the resources from over 200,000 acres of timber land that was purchased along with the existing rail line.

DuPont died in 1935, but as a fulfillment of his vision, the St. Joe Paper Company was founded in 1936 as part of the Alfred I. du Pont Testamentary Trust. The construction of the paper mill began in 1936 and was completed in 1938.

Also completed in February 1938 were the new St. Joe Paper Company docks. According to Henry Drake, they "were made of the latest type of sheet piling driven into the bay bottom," and "the docks and wharves were capable of loading and unloading, simultaneously, five of the largest ocean-going boats in the Gulf of Mexico trade and still have room for a similar handling of two or more smaller and lighter draft vessels."

In 1941, on a site just south of the paper mill, which is currently "jetty park," the oil docks portion of the port was built along with a large tank farm that extended from the docks to where Centennial Bank is now located.

Petroleum products were shipped in from the oil fields of Louisiana and Texas in large tankers and barges. The petroleum was then pumped to Chattanooga, Tenn., and intermediate points via an 8-inch pipeline that was constructed during the same time the oil docks were being built.

By 1963, the petroleum distribution center had reached its life cycle and was shut down. In the early '70s, Hess oil purchased the facility and operated it until the mid to late '80s, when it was shut down permanently.

From 1938 to the early 1970s, the Port of Port St. Joe enjoyed a brisk national and international trade. In the 1950s, at the height of the port activity, there were ships coming out of and going in to the port on a weekly basis. Beginning in the early 1970s, however, shipping from the port began a steady decline, and by the mid-1980s most shipping activity had ended.

By 1996, the natural deep water harbor and the extended channel that led to the open waters of the Gulf of Mexico experienced its last visit from a cargo ship.

Currently the port bulkhead and surrounding land sits idle awaiting a new birth. The former major users of the port, the St. Joe Paper Mill and Box Plant and the Arizona Chemical Company have been razed so the land can be reclaimed for further use. Also left behind is the essential infrastructure used to support their operations. Water, sewer, electricity and gas are in abundant supply. The AN short-line railroad that connected the Port to the main rail lines of the U.S. will soon be repaired and back in service. A $750,000 state grant for an environmental and engineering study of the shipping channel, a requirement before any dredging can take place, was recently awarded to the Port St. Joe Port Authority with the St. Joe Company providing the required match of $250,000.

As a result of a recent formation of a strategic development partnership with the St. Joe Company, the Port of Port St. Joe and the surrounding land and infrastructure are now positioned to once again become a thriving port.

Cottondale overcomes Sneads 30-20

COTTONDALE — Rain did not stop fans from taking the stands nor players from taking the field as the Cottondale High School Hornets overcame the Sneads High School Pirates with a score of 30-20 in high school football Friday night.

Cottondale scored first when JaVontai Hall scored a 15-yard touchdown with 2:02 left in the first quarter, followed by a successful two-point conversion from Shaundre McArroy, making the score 8-0.

Sneads quickly retaliated with a successful five-yard touchdown from Antwan Durn, but the kick from Brian Moran, was no good so the score stood at 8-6.

Hall made a 34-yard touchdown with 7:51 left in the first half, but the attempt at a two-point conversion was unsuccessful, leaving the score at 14-6.

Hall scored another touchdown with five yards and 14.8 left in the first half, and with a successful two-point conversion from DeMichael Faulk, the score at the end of the first half was 22-6.

Sneads picked up the pace after halftime as Bacaruis Boykin scored a 10-yard touchdown with 9:05 left in the third quarter. After an unsuccessful attempt at a two-point conversion, the score was 22-12.

Cottondale's McArroy made a 12-yard touchdown with 1:31 left in the third quarter, and a two-point conversion from Durn made the score 30-12.

Sneads had the final say when Hunter Barns made a two-yard touchdown with 1:28 left in the game, and with a successful two-point conversion from Durn, the final score of the evening was 30-20.

Flying The Who dominates Ebro Derby

Staff Report

EBRO — Flying The Who gave the AJN Kennel its second Ebro Derby title when she outdistanced a strong field on Saturday night as the live racing season came to a close at Ebro Greyhound Park.

In a year when the 3/8-mile class at Ebro was very even, Flying The Who emerged in the last two months as the dominant dog at that distance. Flying The Who also dominated the betting going off as a 3-5 favorite. After a brief struggle for the lead with Kelsos Que Sera she drew clear over the latter half of the race to win easily in 36.79 seconds.

Flying The Who was the only multiple heat winner during the four-round series, winning three eliminations and finishing third in the other. That emphasized just how even 3/8-mile races were this season. At one point there seemingly was a different winner each time a 3/8th Grade A race was held.

Flying The Who changed that when AJN switched her to the longer distance. The Derby was Flying The Who's fifth win in her last six starts and 11th of the season. Trained by Terri Suggs, Flying The Who was one of three finalists for owner Vince Berland out of Cypress Creek Kennel. Kelsos Que Sera came in second, and Superior Effect was third.

AJN finished closing night with a flurry as the Derby title was its eighth win in the opening 12 races. It was unable to catch season kennel champion Ray Thurber, however, which posted five more triumphs for the meet. AJN last won the Derby in 2009 with AJN Vanity Fair.

Prep ROUNDUP

From Staff Reports

Chipley falls to Walton in OT

DEFUNIAK SPRINGS — Walton made a 2-point conversion; Chipley didn't. That was the difference in overtime for the Braves.

That and quarterback Amos Williams, who seemed to be everywhere for Walton. He completed 15 of 23 passes for 203 yards and ran 20 times for 266 yards and five touchdowns, including a 99-yard run on the first play of the fourth quarter that tied the score 25-25.

In overtime, Williams had a 1-yard touchdown run, and DaQuan Brown ran in a 2-point conversion for a 33-25 lead.

Chipley responded with a 10-yard touchdown pass from Jordan Finch to Zach Campbell, but the Tigers failed to convert the conversion, and the game was over.

Walton (3-1) is at Holmes County on Friday. Chipley (2-1) hosts Port St. Joe.

Blountstown remains undefeated

SANTA ROSA — Shon Peterson rushed for 147 yards and two touchdowns on only three carries as No. 2-ranked Blountstown bulldozed South Walton 48-14 Friday night in the District 3-1A opener for both schools.

Blountstown (4-0, 1-0) rushed for 408 yards and held a 572-210 territorial edge in total yards. Big plays helped the Tigers open a 35-7 bulge by halftime. South Walton tried to respond with quarterback Jonathan Ortner tossing a pair of touchdown passes to Sage Roberts, but was no match for district newcomer Blountstown.

Peterson opened the scoring with a 75-yard run. Quarterback Hunter Jordan added a pair of scoring passes, 59 yards to Tripp Taylor and 11 yards to Corin Peterson and it was 21-0 after one quarter.

After the first Ortner-

Roberts scoring connection for the Seahawks (2-2, 0-1), Corin Peterson sprinted 38 yards to score, and Dylan Lee's 1-yard run made it 35-7.

Shon Peterson ran 62 yards to score, and teammate Alex Mayorga went over from the 2 to cap the Tigers' output. Ortner, who passed for 154 yards on 12 of 27 attempts, connected with Roberts for 57 yards for the final. Roberts had seven receptions for 125 yards, but leading rusher Anthony Gundrum managed only 29 on seven attempts for the Seahawks.

Alex Mayorga added 100 yards rushing for the Tigers, and Fabian Solomon had 55 yards on 11 attempts. Jordan completed both of his passes for touchdowns, and Lee was 4 of 7 for 59 yards.

Anthony Wyrick led Blountstown with nine tackles, and Jordan had six tackles and a sack.

Rutherford 37, Arnold 7

PANAMA CITY BEACH — Dallas Davis led Rutherford to three touchdowns in the second quarter Friday night to erase an early deficit, and the Rams collected their first victory of the season with a 37-7 win over Arnold at the Mike Gavlak Sports Complex.

The victory ended the Rams' three-game losing streak. Rutherford now is 1-0 in District 1-5A, a sterling record in light of its overall mark. Arnold suffered its first loss in four games and also was competing in its district opener.

Davis finished with 227 yards on 17-for-28 passing, and he added another 109 yards on 13 carries. He rushed for three touchdowns and threw for another.

Arnold seized an early lead moments after Marlin defensive back Tristan Dickenson intercepted a deflected pass at the Arnold 48. Torri Cotton broke loose for a long carry to set up quarterback Adam McAfee's 5-yard sprint through the middle of the Rams' defense for a 7-0 lead with 4 minutes, 44 seconds remaining in the first quarter.

Davis scored on a play almost identical to McAfee's touchdown run, cutting through the Arnold defense on a quarterback keeper out of the shotgun on a 5-yard sprint. That knotted the score at 7-7 with 10½ minutes to play in the first half.

Davis gave the Rams their first lead with another run up the middle, muscling his way to the goal line on a 12-yard touchdown run for a 14-7 advantage with 4:37 remaining before halftime.

Rutherford forced a turnover on downs at its 36-yard line on Arnold's next drive, and Davis steered the Rams down the field on a seven-play, 64-yard drive that culminated in a 17-yard touchdown strike to receiver Tre Holmes. The Rams needed just 1:21 to move down the field and score, and they carried a 21-7 lead into the locker room.

Davis cemented his team's victory with an 11-yard touchdown romp on the first drive of the second half. His score capped an eight-play, 57-yard drive and handed the Rams a 28-7 lead.

Blue Devils split wins on rainy Saturday

PHOTOS SPECIAL TO THE TIMES-ADVERTISER

The Bonifay Blue Devil peewee football squads had mixed results on a rain-soaked Saturday.

Special to The Times-Advertiser

BONIFAY — The Bonifay Blue Devil organization didn't fare as well as the previous weekend, only winning two of the four games played.

The 5-7 team posted a loss against Panama City/Glenwood with a score of 46-36. The 8-10 Blue Devil teams got both of the victories. Team Blue took home a nice victory against Glenwood 28-0.

Team Blues' defense stepped up and totally shut the Panama City team down. Team Gold played in Alford and also got a shutout beating PDL 24-0. Jayden Oxendine scored two touchdowns against the Pirates along with a pair of 2 point conversions. Zane Meadows got himself a TD with William Doyle running in the conversion. The 11-13 Blue Devils were not able to repeat last week's victory, losing to the larger Glenwood team 46-6. Watching the 11-13 game was reminiscent of David and Goliath, except this time the little guy didn't win.

It's not clear if rain was a factor with the two losses on this Saturday, but one thing is for sure — those two teams will be putting in a hard week of practice to ready themselves for their next weekend showdown against Alford.

All of the Blue devil teams will be playing in Alford this coming weekend with the Team Gold kicking it off at 9 a.m. against Panama City/Glenwood.

Generations strengthen communities

Club encourages education, leadership and action

By CECILIA SPEARS

cspears@chipleypaper.com

CARYVILLE — "To strengthen individuals, families and communities through education, leadership and action," is the mission statement of The Home and Community Education Generations Club of Washington County, which is open to and serves both residents of Holmes and Washington County.

The Club meets at 10 a.m. every third Tuesday of the month at Hinson's Crossroads Fire Station on Douglas Ferry Road and is a part of the Florida Association for Home and Community Education, which is a statewide volunteer program with the University of Florida/IFAS Extension Service.

"Each month we strive to complete a community service project or activity," said Annette Lanham. "Some examples of past projects include assembling toiletry bags for underprivileged veterans, collecting canned goods for the local food pantry, a diaper drive for the local pregnancy centers in both Bonifay and Chipley, plastic bag recycling, wrapping Christmas gifts for the children of Love in Action clients and a letter-writing campaign to local officials concerning budget cut to the food assistance programs."

Some on-going projects are Pop Tops for Ronald McDonald House, Box Tops for Education for local schools, Labels for Education for local schools, Pennies for Friendship supporting Association of Country Women Worldwide, Eyeglasses for the sight-impaired, Cell Phones for victims of domestic abuse and Used greeting cards for St. Jude's Children's Hospitals.

This month's meeting was held on Sept. 17 and the club voted in their new officials, gathered their projects to be judged at this year's State Conference, gathered donations of feminine hygiene products and toiletries for I Am Inn Ministries and prepared their knitted caps to be donated to the local army for the soldiers to wear under their helmets during the cold winter months.

"It's such a privilege to be able to give," said newly appointed President Joy Sanders. "It's such a good feeling to be able to give back. It means to much to be able to serve, just as Jesus did."

Lanham announced that there are two classes coming up, one called "Women and Money" and "How to Build Your Own Rain Barrel."

Women and Money is a three-part series to be held from 5:30-7:30 p.m. on Oct. 1, 8 and 15 at the Holmes County Agricultural Center and will cover Money Basics, Protecting Assets, Investing Basics and Estate Planning.

The classes are $20 and require pre-registration. To pre-register or for more information contact the Holmes County Extension Office at 547-1108 or Washington County Extension Office at 638-6265.

How to Build Your Own Rain Barrel will be held from 9 a.m. to 12 p.m. on Oct. 12 at the Washington County Extension East Wing Conference Room at 1424 Jackson Ave., Chipley, and is $10 for just the class and $40 for the class and supplies.

For more information contact the Washington County Extension Office at 638-6180 or email at mjorwat@ufl.edu.

The Home and Community Education Generations Club of Washington County welcomes their newest elected officers President Joy Sanders, Vice President Liddie Aronhalt, Secretary Vicky Hill, Treasurer Adiene Hightower, Sunshine Jan Duke and Devotional Mildred Evans.

Club members show off projects that will be submitted for judging at this year's State Conference. Left, Newly appointed President Joy Sanders was demonstrating the Home and Community Education Generations Club of Washington County scrap book during their Sept. 17 meeting.

One of the club's projects was to collect donations of feminine hygiene products and toiletries for I Am Inn Ministries. Another of the club's projects was to knit caps for soldiers to be donated soon. The caps are specially designed to fit under the soldiers' helmets to keep their head and ears warm during the cold winter months.

Covenant Hospice to host Camp Monarch

Special to Extra

MARIANNA — Losing a loved one is hard enough for adults, but have you ever considered how it looks through the eyes of a child?

Most children have neither the experience nor emotional skills to navigate the hazards of loss and grief.

One of the ways Covenant Hospice helps children who have experienced the loss of a loved one is through Camp Monarch, a one-day bereavement camp.

Covenant Hospice will offer bereaved children ages 6-14 who have experienced the death of a loved one or have a terminally ill loved one the opportunity to explore their emotions in a safe environment and gain strength from other children in similar situations through a variety of therapeutic activities including confidence-building exercises, artistic therapeutic activities, crafts and one-on-one sharing.

Camp Monarch 2013 will be held at Pinnacle Place in Alford, Fla., on Oct. 19. Featured activities include: fishing, nature trail and wildlife walk, arts and crafts, and more. Lunch and snacks are provided. There is no charge for this Covenant Hospice program. Come join us for a day of fun and healing. Pre-registration is required; the deadline to register is Oct. 14.

For more information, contact Riley Henderson at 482-8520 or toll free at 888-817-2191.

The importance of a PETicure

You and your beloved pet may share a lot in common: enjoying long walks in the park, snuggling up on the couch, or even taking a relaxing dip in the pool. But when it comes to an afternoon of pampering at the nail salon, our pets don't typically share our idea of relaxation. Nevertheless, even if they find it unpleasant and stressful, clipping your pets' nails is a crucial grooming technique for their overall health and well-being.

Leaving your pet's nails untrimmed can lead to pain and discomfort from many different sources. "Nails that are too long can get hung on fabric, blankets, towels, etc., and get torn off which is not only painful, but tends to cause a great deal of bleeding," said Dr. Stacy Eckman, lecturer at the Texas A&M College of Veterinary Medicine & Biomedical Sciences (CVM). "Nails that are too long (especially the dewclaws) can also grow around and into the footpads causing pain and infection."

Popular to contrary belief, dogs aren't the only pets that require a routine clipping. Our feline friends need some nail pampering on a regular basis as well. "Outdoor cats who climb trees keep their own nails short, but with the majority of our cats living indoors, they too need nail trims," Eckman said. "They will naturally sharpen their claws if given adequate substrate to do this on (i.e. a scratching post or wood), but may need additional trimming, especially on the back claws." Keep in mind that it is natural for cats to also use scratching posts to mark their scent, and even cats that are declawed will "use" a scratching post for this purpose.

PET TALK

Trimming your pet's nails can be done as often as necessary. For dogs, trimming their nails whenever you bathe them can be convenient for both of you. Since we do not typically bathe our cats, a thorough trim every 2 to 4 weeks is plenty.

As for the clipper itself, there are several brands, types and sizes to choose from, including scissors, pliers, guillotine, and nail grinders. "Some work better on cats (i.e. guillotine) than others, and some are better for larger dogs with thicker nails," said Eckman. "Others claim to 'find the quick' so you don't cause the nail to bleed, but I don't think these work very well." It is best to research which will work best for your pet, as well as test them out to see which style your cat or dog seems most comfortable with.

Letting your pet become acclimated to nail clipping at an early age can also help the process go more smoothly. Once they become comfortable with you holding their paws as kittens or puppies, gradually start clipping one or two nails a day, and follow up with lots of positive rewards for their cooperation. Giving them their favorite treats or even a long tummy scratch should do the trick.

When trimming the nail, be sure to avoid the quick, or nerves and blood vessels located near the bottom of the nail. Just trimming the excess length will ensure a painless clipping process for all involved. But even with the most painless technique and gradual of introductions, there are pets that seem unable to get over their terror of nail clipping. If your cat or dog falls under this category, it may be helpful to seek help from an assistant to hold down and calm them while you do the deed. If that backfires and your pet is still too stressed, then talk to your veterinarian about strategies to help make nail trims less stressful, Eckman said.

Just like people, each pet is unique, with various personalities and patience levels. It is important to remember that even though they may not find their PETicure enjoyable at the time, they will undoubtedly thank you in the long run.

How fast the shades of summer have faded

Am I getting old or his time passing faster than it used to? It seems I just settle down to do something and before I know it, it is over. Back in "the day," a minute had 60 seconds. An hour had 60 minutes. A day had 24 hours. Oh, for those good old days.

I am not exactly sure how many seconds a minute has or how many minutes an hour has because it goes by so fast I cannot keep track. Technology has taken over and I for one object. For example, I like looking at my wristwatch and seeing the second hand slowly tick around the dial. Now, we have cell phones with a digital clock. Unlike these digital clocks, all they tell me is what time it is right now. I like to look at a wristwatch and get a whole view of time: past, present and future. I know that a week does not have seven days anymore.

I set out on Monday with high hopes of getting something accomplished during the week and by the time I clear my throat, it is Friday afternoon. Where did all that time go?

Years ago, the Beatles had a song called "Eight Days a Week." Nowadays it is more like three days a week: yesterday, today and tomorrow! Today is tomorrow's yesterday and I am not exactly sure how to keep up anymore. By the time I get to tomorrow, I forgot what I was supposed to do today. Then, when I get to today, I cannot remember what I did yesterday.

I used to plan a whole week of activity, now that luxury is yesterday's news, or is it tomorrow's headlines?

I like summer, which may explain why it goes so fast. Maybe I should take a chapter from Murphy's Law and say I do not like summer, then it would drag by a without end in sight.

Interestingly, the thing I like to do the most goes by so quickly, that which I hate doing drags on for centuries. Which has me thinking maybe I should not voice what I like or do not like? One thing I like about summer, when I can catch my breath and enjoy it, is the fact that it is made up of those lazy, hazy days I enjoy so much. Not having a schedule, not having a deadline, not having anybody telling me what I should or should not do. Ah, those crazy, lazy days of summer.

The fact that I did not get much done during the summer is no big deal. If anybody asked me if I got anything accomplished, I just said, "Hey, it's summer. Relax. I will get to it eventually." Well, eventually has caught up with me and it is called winter. The difference between summer and winter is that during the summer, you can get away with doing nothing but in the winter, there is nothing you can get away with. During the summer my wife will ask me if I have done such and such and I respond by saying, "It's summer, I'll get to it. I got plenty of time."

During the winter, my wife will remind me of all the things I was supposed to do during the summer and that now I have to do because winter is a coming. Summer is hazy and lazy, while winter is "Hurry up and get it done."

More is expected from a person during the winter months that during the summer. I object very strenuously to this kind of attitude. Of course, this attitude comes from the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage. She has the idea that winter, or at least the beginning of winter, is the time to clean up everything. By everything, she is including the garage. Now that summer is over and the lawn does not need to be mowed anymore, I can, according to her logic, transpose that energy into cleaning up things. Then she will confront me with a favorite saying of hers, "Cleanliness is next to godliness."

One of these days, when I get up the courage, I am going to ask her to show me where that verse is in the Bible. I kind of think a person can be too clean, like squeaky clean. You know how squeaky gets on people's nerves, especially mine.

My favorite saying is, "Laziness is next to everything."

Perhaps that is why I like summer so much. There are shades of laziness that can only be exploited in the good old summertime. Some people, like the one who shares a residence with me, things that laziness is a very negative thing. This person honestly believes that if she is not doing something all the time she is lazy. Something good can be said about being lazy. You get to savor a moment of non-activity.

The thing I like so much about summer is the activity you do do is only the activity that you want to do like sitting on the back porch, drinking a glass of lemonade, which is what summer is all about.

Solomon, the wisest man who ever lived, understood this concept very well. He says, "To everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven," (Ecclesiastes 3:1 KJV). Time goes by so quickly that a person hardly has enough time to really appreciate the time that they have.

Wanted Former CHS Homecoming Queens

CHIPLEY — The Former Chipley High School Homecoming Queen Reunion is slated for Nov. 8 in Chipley, where all of our favorite Homecoming Queens from the past will congregate and be honored for the first time in history.
 There have been 63 CHS Homecoming Queens in the history of Chipley High School, and to date nearly all of them have been contacted. I have talked to many, emailed many, and can't wait to meet them face to face. Please make this happen for them.

Don't miss this opportunity to support the Queen(s). The funds raised will be used only for the Queens and the resources needed. But wait there's more. If there are any unused funds following this event, they will be donated to the CHS Athletic Department. So spread the word, and give generously. There are two ways to give - 1) directly to Wells Fargo bank, or 2) mail a check call 904-402-1223 for information.

If you have any questions, or concerns, or would like a sponsorship form mailed to you, please call me. I would welcome the call. Thank you in advance for your time and generosity. Kim Harper-Chairman, Former CHS Homecoming Queen Reunion 904-402-1223.

Harvest Festival Pageant

GRACEVILLE — The 32nd Annual Harvest Festival Pageant has been rescheduled to on Sept. 27 and 28, according to pageant director Teresa Bush.

The pageant will be held Friday, Sept. 27 and Saturday, Sept. 28 at the Graceville Civic Center in Graceville.

The entry fee is $60 with all proceeds going to the Graceville Harvest Day Celebration. Contestants may participate in photogenic for an additional $10. Photogenic entries will be limited to one photo per contestant. This is an open pageant. Checks should be made payable to the City of Graceville.

Winners will receive a large trophy, crown and banner. Alternates and participants will receive trophies. There will be a people's choice winner in each category. This has no effect on the overall winners. The contestant from each category that collects the most money will with the people's choice title for that age category and will receive a trophy at the pageant. All contestants in Tiny Baby Miss through Little Miss must wear short pageant wear. All contestants in the Petite Miss through Miss must wear long pageant ware.

For more information call Teresa Bush Day time at 263-4744 or night time 263-3070 or Michelle Watkins at the City of Graceville at 263-3250.

The Holmes County High School Blue Pride will be performing a variety of marches and the HCHS JROTC has also been invited. Due to limited seating, the public is encouraged to bring a lawn chair. Join the BES family in this special salute to our veterans.

HCHS Drama students to perform 'The Sound of Music'

BONIFAY — Holmes County High School Drama Department will present "The Sound of Music" on Tuesday Dec. 3, Saturday Dec. 7, Sunday Dec. 8, and Monday Dec. 9 at the HCHS Auditorium. There will be a 2 p.m. and 7 p.m., show on Saturday and a 2:30 p.m., show on Sunday.

"The Sound of Music" is set in pre-WWII Austria, is based on the romantic true story of Maria von Trapp, an aspiring nun who leaves the abbey to become a governess for the seven children of a widowed naval Captain. Her growing rapport with the youngsters, coupled with her generosity of spirit, gradually captures the heart of the stern Captain, and they marry.

Upon returning from their honeymoon they discover that Austria has been invaded by the Nazis, who demand the Captain's immediate service in their navy. The family's narrow escape over the mountains to Switzerland on the eve of World War II provides one of the most thrilling and inspirational finales ever presented in the theatre. The final collaboration between Rodgers & Hammerstein was destined to become the world's most beloved musical.

The motion picture version remains the most popular movie musical of all time.

HCHS Chorus to perform 'Decades of Music'

BONIFAY — The Holmes County High School Chorus will present "Decades of Music" on Thursday, March 13, Friday, March 14, and Saturday, March 15 at the HCHS Auditorium.

HCHS Spring Musical planned

BONIFAY — The Holmes County High School Drama Department will present their spring musical on Thursday, May 8, Friday, May 9, Saturday, May 10, Monday, May 12, and Thursday May 15 at the HCHS Auditorium. The title of the spring musical will be announced at a later date.
