BONIFAY — Holmes County Superintendent of Schools Eddie Dixon has announced that Gov. Rick Scott approved $43.7 million in funding to build the new Bonifay Elementary and Middle School facility.

The site for the combined campus is planned to be next to the current Holmes County High School.

"All that's left is the governor's signature," Dixon said. "We've started on the final plans on the building's layout and should have an artist's rendering soon. On Jan. 1, we will start the bidding process."

Dixon said the new building is planned to feature the historic appearance of the first elementary school built in Holmes County but with architectural advances in modern security.

The Council also approved the following actions:

* Financial, Operational and Federal Audit Report Number 2014-141 for year ended June 30, 2013

* 2014-2015 District Technology Plan

* PAEC add-on Endorsement in ESOL and add-on Endorsement in Reading

* Overnight/Out of State Trips

The next regularly scheduled meeting of the Holmes County District School Board is set for 6 p.m. May 20.

BONIFAY — Known for his love of Jesus and animals, Wilfredo Emanuel Morales, owner of Ben's Place Animal Rescue Shelter in Bonifay, died May 2 at his residence.

Morales was born in New York City on June 22, 1957, to the late Gilberto and Justiniana Morales. He was a graduate of All Hallows

High School, receiving his Bachelor of Arts degree in political science from Pace University and his Master's of Public Administration from John Jay College of Criminal Justice of the City University of New York.

"When he was in college, his political science professor dared him to run for office, telling him that if he really wanted to make a difference, he'd have to be an elected official," said his now widow, Julia. "He ran for school board and at the age of 18 was the youngest elected official in the state of New York. After serving several terms, he was school board president before he left."

His nephews, Jorge and Paul Salazar, said Morales was a father figure to them and said when they lived in the Bronx, Morales was an important member of the community, taking up the distribution of commodities from their

BONIFAY — Pressed to meet deadline, the Holmes County Board of County Commissioners had to choose a road from each district and approved of having County Engineer Cliff Knauer choose two of the five to be submitted for a Small Community Outreach Program grant application during a special called session on May 8.

With the deadline on Friday, only two road names could be submitted for the SCOP grant, so the Board met, and Knauer encouraged each of the commissioners to submit the name of roads needed to be addressed in their district. The Board approved of Knauer picking the two roads with the highest probability based on scores to be chosen.

Submitted were Peak Road, Red Road, Bonifay-Chipleypaper Road, Bonifay-Gritney Road and Flowing Well Road.

After review, the two submitted by Knauer were Bonifay-Chipleypaper Road and Bonifay-Gritney Road.

Bonifay woman in court on manslaughter charge

HAZEL PEACOCK

From Staff Reports

BONIFAY — The Holmes County Sheriff's Office reports that Holmes County resident Hazel Denise Peacock made her first appearance in court Thursday on manslaughter charges for stabbing her "live-in boyfriend" Tony Ray Armstrong on June 17, 2013.

On June 17, 2013, the HCSO received a 911 call from Peacock, who told dispatchers Armstrong had fallen down the front steps of their trailer in the Esto community and landed on his knife, according to the report.

Holmes County deputies, along with Holmes County EMS, responded and found Armstrong in the front yard with a severe knife wound to his chest. He was transported to Flowers Hospital in Dothan, Ala., and underwent emergency surgery but never regained consciousness and died from complications a few days later, according to the police report. Investigators noted several inconsistencies in Peacock statement and discovered signs of drug use at the residence. The report indicated investigators were later able to locate a 911 call from Armstrong's cell phone that had been routed to the Jackson County Sheriff's Office in which he stated he had been "stabbed in the neck."

Investigators also were able to locate witnesses who indicated Peacock and Armstrong had been arguing that morning and he was stabbed as a result of the altercation. After a 9-month investigation, a warrant was issued for the arrest of Peacock on charges of manslaughter.

Peacock is currently serving a sentence in the Florida Department of Corrections for neglect of a child, which also stemmed from the incident.

Esto Town Council members review the newly revised noise ordinance before coming before the Council for approval on Tuesday, May 6.

Esto holds first reading of new noise ordinance

By CECILIA SPEARS

cspears@chipleypaper.com

ESTO — The Esto Town Council had its first reading of Ordinance 14-01, a newly revised version of the noise ordinance, during their regular meeting on May 6.

Some of the new aspects include land-use, time and the sound level limit. Law enforcement has equipment for testing the sound level, with most of the quiet time set between 10 p.m. and 5 a.m.

Enforcement is described as, "upon report any nuisance to the Holmes County Sheriff's Office will be notified. For the first offense a warning will be given. For any subsequent offenses a fine shall be levied of $100 and the premises, if a public establishment, shall be closed by any duly certified law enforcement agency."

The final reading and approval will be held at the next meeting.

Also at this month's meeting:

* The Council discussed new chains for the swings at John W. Clark Park.

* Kudos were given to the maintenance department for repairing the park's merry-go-round by using their own ingenuity because parts have been discontinued and are unavailable for purchase for repair.

* The Council discussed a possible designated area for debris after a natural disaster, which is required by the Federal Emergency Management Agency for the Town to be eligible for public assistance.

The next meeting of the Esto Town Council is set for 7 p.m. June 3.

ized building next to the skate park to create a "youth-friendly environment" and hold regular events that would give the youth a safe and fun place to spend their summer and weekends while spreading a positive message.

During Monday's meeting, City Attorney Lucas Taylor told the Council he had reviewed all of the legal requirements and waivers with Hummel and that they were in full agreement, signing all the necessary paperwork.

The Council approved that Hummel could use the area under the agreed guidelines and that Council member Roger Brooks would have authority to approve any improvements Hummel wished to do to the building within reason.

Brooks told the Council there have been complaints about mosquitoes and requested that when the mosquito sprayer starts that he starts on the southeast end of Bonifay, where there are large bodies of standing water.

The Council approved of canceling its regular meeting on May 26 in observance of Memorial Day.

The Council also approved of its annual request to the Holmes County Board of County Commissioners for the amount of $60,000 for the Street Department and $60,000 for the Bonifay Fire Department.

Bonifay received the bids for the excavator they intend on purchasing and approved to take each of the bids under consideration to bring for approval during a special called meeting later in the month.

CECILIA SPEARS | Times-Advertiser

Ex-skateboarder and youth mentor Chris Hummel came before the Bonifay City Council to continue in his efforts to re-create the building next to the Bonifay skate park to mentor to the youth of Bonifay.

Council member Richard Woodham suggested the City take up random drug testing for City employees, and the Council agreed to inform the employees that random drug testing would begin the next month, pulling an employee's name randomly once a month.

The Council agreed there has been an issue recently with landscapers and lawn maintenance employed by residents dumping their cuttings in the streets and having them clog gutters and wash into the sewers. They agreed to send warning letters to those landscapers and lawn maintenance employees of possible fines associated with

Over the course of the semester, the boy opened up to me and told me that he was there for a drug charge. I told him that I could not believe that, that I knew it was not his nature. The boy teared up and said that I was the first person who ever told him that. He said that his father had forced him to deliver drugs knowing that he was too young to go to prison. I remember asking myself, 'What did his lawyer do for him, what did the judge do, how did our system fail this bright young man?' I knew I had to do something to help our system."

After that, Virga applied for and was accepted to the Cumberland School of Law and Samford University.

Virga's legal career spans more than a decade, including experience law clerking for United States Sen. Jeff Sessions and serving as an assistant attorney general before returning to Florida's Panhandle to open his own practice.

He is married to fellow attorney Rachel Seaton-Virga, and they have two children, Vivi and Gerard.

ailing grandmother and raising money for school supplies for needy children.

"He was the only good guy with connections with the drug dealers, because in our neighborhood, if you wanted to do anything, you had to get permission from the drug dealers," Paul said. "When there were community events held to raise funds for the children, there was never any trouble or fights, which was amazing because in our neighborhood, there was always gunshots going off and sirens. He held block parties and fundraisers."

His family said Morales faced a life-changing event when he was in the Marines and his platoon was hit with an improvised explosive device, putting him in a three-month coma and killing the rest of his platoon. Morales was honorably discharged, but his family said there was a noticeable difference in the way he acted, saying he had an amazing zest for life and a disregard for conventional etiquette, choosing to "live every day as if it were his last."

Julia said it was because of crack that they finally left New York for Fort Lauderdale.

"The use of crack spread like wildfire through our neighborhood," she said. "I would have to sweep crack pipes off of the front porch every morning so that the children wouldn't play with them."

Eventually, they would find property in Holmes County, where Morales dreamed of open spaces and fresh air, Julia said.

"There were hardly any trees in the Bronx," she said. "You should've seen him when we came to live in Holmes County; he was like a man tasting freedom for the first time with all of this open space and nature to enjoy."

She said he was a Holmes County 4-H agent and worked with the West Florida Wilderness until his diabetes "took his left eye," putting him on disability.

It wasn't long afterward that he created Ben's Place Animal Rescue Shelter. Named after a good friend, Morales took in animal and person alike as a social worker and humanitarian.

Paul and Jorge said Morales instilled in them a strong work ethic, which enabled them to come into their professions today; one is a doctor and the other a lawyer.

"He would bribe my friends to come over and then work them to the bone, but every time they were invited over, they knew they'd be put to work, and yet they chose to come every time," Paul said.

Jorge said it was a gene in the family that caused one to be completely selfless.

"His mother had it strong, and it was passed on to him," Jorge said. "He was completely selfless, giving all he had and never looking after himself. I know there's a little in all of us because of him, and now it's up to us to carry on his legacy of giving."

Ben's Place Animal Rescue Shelter is now closed, and Julia begs the community not to bring animals to the shelter because she is not equipped to help them as Morales was.

"I thank the community for all their help," Julia said. "Especially Alaqua Animal Rescue for taking over 70 animals in their care. Wilfredo would've wanted them to go to a no-kill shelter; he would've been very happy to know they are all taken care of."

Expressions of sympathy can be made at www.jamesandlipford.com, and Morales' obituary can be viewed at www.bonifaynow.com.

- To rehire last year's six-month seasonal employee for mosquito control to start addressing the mosquito problem immediately.

- To interview all seven candidates for position of Public Works director before the meeting on May 13, with a vote of 4-1, with Williams voting "no."

Commissioners also discussed various ways of purchasing three new graders for the county with Commissioner Bobby Sasnett pushing hard for a grader for his district because one of the two graders is broken. After much discussion, no agreement was reached, no action was taken and the Board agreed to revisit the issue during their next meeting on Tuesday, May 13.

Voter apathy is not without consequence

Monday, May 26, is Memorial Day. Ideally, we will all take a moment to think of sacrifices made by American service men and women to uphold the liberties we enjoy every day.

CAROL KENT
Editor

North Korea, China and Libya are among more than 20 countries under dictatorships. Arguably, the list of those willing to put their lives on the line so the people of those countries may have the right to choose their leaders is considerably shorter than the list of those who have given their lives to protect that freedom for Americans.

That thought begs the question: Why do we neglect our right to vote?

Voter turnout for Vernon's City Election last month was nothing short of apathetic, with only about 10 percent of those eligible to vote in the municipal election casting ballots. Ten percent.

That means 90 percent essentially surrendered a precious right protected by our veterans who showed up for them on the battlefields, sacrificing their personal interests for the greater good of this nation and its people.

True, Vernon, Chipley, Bonifay and our other local communities are small towns. But our right to vote is a liberty we must not take for granted. Sure, we know the arguments for not voting: "What does my vote do, anyway? I don't like either candidate. I already know who's going to win, so why bother? I'm so fed up with politicians that I'm not giving anyone my support."

It's no secret government and politics on all levels have left many of us with a sour taste, but if we don't speak up at the polls, we're taking the power completely out of our hands and placing it in theirs. Lobbyists and special interest groups will certainly show up at the polls whether we do or not.

We shouldn't let the discouragement and disillusionment many of us currently feel toward some leaders prevent us from making our voices heard at the ballot box.

If the powers that be feel we're not paying attention, they're more likely to push their own agendas instead of the desires of the public.

Washington and Holmes counties will see several candidates on the ballot for this year's primary and general elections.

Just as our mothers urged us to eat what was served for supper because "children were starving" in other countries, we should be grateful our plates are full of opportunities after which citizens of other nations hunger.

Don't let our freedom go to waste. Let's get out and vote in every election — no matter the appeal of what we find offered on the plate.

Palm Beach County is an example of Florida's diversity

When people from other states think of Florida, they think of Miami or the Gold Coast. Talking to someone on the phone from Virginia the other day, she remarked, "You have a Southern accent. Where are you from? Most people from Florida don't have a Southern accent."

Several years ago, Gloria Jahoda, the wife of an FSU professor, discovered West Florida and was so intrigued with its difference from the Southern part of the state that she wrote a book called "The Other Florida."

An article in the most recent Florida Trend magazine showcased Palm Beach County, which is in direct contrast to our area — which is known as the Panhandle — but also known as a pioneer area or the last frontier because of its late development. Palm Beach County is one area of Florida we've never visited, although we have relatives there. (Find a place in Florida where the Wells family doesn't have relatives.)

When I was growing up, my mother had an uncle who lived and raised his family in West Palm Beach. We always thought anybody who lived somewhere other than here was wealthier than we were. That wouldn't have taken much doing. They were clean, well dressed and the aunt talked proper. So I imagined them living in one of those beautiful homes you see pictures of in Palm Beach where railroad magnate the Henry Flagler family and the E.F. Hutton/Majorie Merriweather Post families have homes. The Kennedy estate is also there, along with other familiar names in the financial world.

I learned several things from the article. First, Palm Beach County, one of Florida's largest counties geographically, is divided into four sections. It contains 2,500 square miles, 500 of which is in Lake Okeechobee. The central part is home to Boynton Beach, Lake Worth, West Palm Beach and Manalapan.

HAPPY CORNER
Hazel Wells Tison

This area houses county government offices and school board offices as well as the South Florida Water Management District, which controls the critical flow of water from the Everglades and Lake Okeechobee. This area also houses the financial offices of many large corporations including Florida Crystals, the sugar-producing giant. The county's only stop on the All-Aboard-Florida high speed train will be in the central section of Palm Beach County when it goes into service next year.

The south section was once thought to be mostly for retired people. This idea was promoted in the TV series "Seinfeld," whose TV parents lived in Boca Raton, which was Florida's first planned and developed cities. But its population now has a median age of 41.1 years. The technical industry is centered in the south section.

The north section of the county is home to several colleges and universities and developed communities with numerous golf courses. Cities in this area include Riviera Beach, Palm Beach Gardens, Singer Island, Jupiter and Tequesta.

The western section is considered the county's "breadbasket." You may be surprised as I was to know the scope of the agricultural interests in Palm Beach County. Four-hundred thousand acres, one-third of the county's land mass, is planted in sugar cane. Fresh sweet corn, rice, bell peppers, lettuce, radishes, Chinese vegetables, cucumbers and numerous nurseries add an additional $2 billion to the county's annual income. I did know that the best sweet corn comes from Belle Glade. In spite of this, Belle Glade, South Bay and Pahokee have always been the poorest areas with high crime and unemployment. Non-agricultural development is now beginning to bring a higher standard of living to this area.

The focus of this article is that Palm Beach County is the perfect business climate for those looking for opportunities. I just found it interesting to know more about this place, which I had always thought of as movie-star glamorous, especially the extensive part agriculture plays in this diverse county. Some demographics: The population is expected to top 1.46 million by 2015. Whites make up 58.7 percent of the non-Hispanic population with Hispanics totaling 20.1 percent and blacks totaling 18.2 percent. The percent of the population over 25 with a high school education or higher is 87.2, and 32.9 percent have bachelor or higher degrees.

Most of us are happy with our area and love the slower pace of our lives here. However, St. Joe Company has some long-range plans for the development of a large portion of its Bay and Walton County properties, which will certainly bring changes to our way of life in the next 50 years.

Finding that silver lining

Most of us know someone who has battled depression. Many of us occasionally battle it ourselves. But depression isn't the main topic of this column; it's just merely the setting for something so much bigger.

CECILIA SPEARS
Cecilia's Sit Down

I've been blessed with an area of work that, at times, may show me the darkest side of humanity. But it also shows me humanity at its brightest.

Depression is often described as a dark cloud that follows someone, with rare breaks and plenty of rainy days. I'd like to tell you two stories of rain I've encountered that have been followed with rainbows of hope that have touched my life in a profound way.

It was rainy days that recently closed down roads and schools in both Washington and Holmes counties, rain that lasted for days. It wasn't until later we learned one of the places hit hardest was the Seacrest Wolf Preserve. The waters swelled the pond in the Arctic enclosure on one end, causing the dam to burst and sending water with such force down the middle that it ripped up the ground, carried off trees and debris and broke the fence on the other side. This is a place that runs off donations and hard work, and founder Cynthia Watkins, as anyone who has ever visited could see, visits the animals as her family.

SPECIAL TO THE TIMES-ADVERTISER

I enjoyed time spent with the lone survivor of the bloodline of Seacrest Wolf Preserve's, Chaco.

Since 1999, she's built the preserve up, only to have almost all of it torn down in just one night.

Watkins thought one wolf was lost under the mud and debris and another was stuck outside the gates. After years of trying to build understanding between people and the wolves, I could only imagine how much it hurt to have one of them killed. I can't say what the best call would have been, but I saw how she grieved, with so much sadness and anger that I've only seen in parents who've lost their children. Through it all, I've also seen the response of those who came to help rebuild. I've seen the one they thought was lost returned. I've seen the way she held the one surviving wolf cub of the one that was shot. She fawned over the cub with so much adoration and pride. I couldn't help but feel the hope for a brighter tomorrow.

Holmes County lost an animal lover of its own last week with the sudden death of Wilfredo Morales, owner of Ben's Place Animal Rescue in Bonifay. The resulting tragedy was a family without a loved one and so many animals without a guardian, but as I went and visited his family, I found the community was quick to respond, with local animal shelters taking in the animals and eventually all finding a place. I found that even though his widow, Julia, was mourning the death of her beloved husband and closing the shelter, she was also surrounded by family. They weren't crying, but celebrating his life, sharing stories and pictures and planning to live out his memory so that Morales will live on in each of them. These are just two in the last couple of weeks where something has happened and yet people have endured and carried on and made the world a brighter place for it. I can't help but to be in awe.

No matter how many times I see the kindness of our communities, it still overwhelms me. Seeing that strength and courage gives me encouragement to press on a little harder or let go of those things that tie me down but have no real meaning in my life, like petty disagreements and people who are just honestly having a bad day and struggling with something, too.

I believe everyone has their rainclouds, but I also realize we may be the only sunshine they see that day. I encourage at least one smile when you don't feel like it, and if you go through a drive through window, try "paying it forward," by paying for the order of the folks behind you. I know when I do it I call it "getting my shine on," because it makes me feel so much better, and I hope it makes someone's day, too.

Thanks again for joining me, and I look forward to next week.

'SHOCKED AND DEVASTATED'

Preserve founder protests wolf's euthanization by FWC

By CECILIA SPEARS

CHIPLEY — Tragedy begot tragedy as Chaco, the wolf missing from the Seacrest Wolf Preserve since April 30, was put down by Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission officers late on the evening of May 4.

According to Stan Kirkland, FWC regional media officer, the commission received a call from preserve owner Cynthia Watkins on May 1, informing them one of their wolves had gone missing after flooding created a mudslide that ripped through the middle of the 15-acre preserve.

Kirkland said they received a call May 2 reporting the wolf had been spotted near Wausau. Kirkland also said another report was made the following evening that Chaco was spotted back at the preserve; however, Watkins was unable to place a collar on him.

By May 3, FWC officers still were unsuccessful in capturing Chaco with live traps baited with hamburger, venison and dog food, Kirkland said.

Late on the evening of May 4, FWC officers received a call from the Washington County Sheriff's Office informing them an investigator spotted Chaco near Roulhac Middle School in Chipley.

"We responded with several people at sundown, and it was then they made cause he couldn't find the number, he contacted both the WCSO and the FWC for the preserve's contact information. According to Watkins' account of the man's story, both agencies told him they didn't have the preserve's contact information.

Watkins said Princess Moonstar is in mourning for Chaco because wolves mate for life.

"They murdered him intentionally, telling us to come back to the preserve to bait him back in knowing he was headed north," Watkins said. "They refused to catch him humanely and lied, saying they had a live trap borrowed from the Red Wolf Preserve. When we got him back, we could clearly see it was a textbook kill, right through the heart, which means he was standing still when they took the shot and not running away like they said he was."

Watkins also said the preserve has been receiving calls from across the nation from outraged wolf enthusiasts and wildlife conservationists.

"I'd like to share the in-the decision to euthanize the wolf, knowing that the children would be returning to school on Monday morning," Kirkland said. "We were retrieving the carcass for Mrs. Watkins when we had to assist with another wolf who was trying to get back into the enclosure. We were able to get the wolf safely back into the enclosure without harm."

The Seacrest Wolf Preserve is a Class 2 Facility and permitted for wolves, which are a Class 2 species. Kirkland said the facility is under investigation but would not disclose the nature of that investigation.

Meanwhile, Watkins said she doesn't know why the preserve would be under investigation and called Sunday's event a "blatant act of murder."

"This tragedy of the killing of Chaco is totally unjustified and unconscionable," Watkins said. "It could have been prevented if the proper agencies had worked with integrity and humane goals with the Seacrest owners."

"We're struggling hour by hour to keep the wolves fed while fixing the enclosures. We're also shocked and devastated by the murder of Chaco by the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission. They lied to us. Knowing he was headed toward Chipley, they told us he was seen coming back to the preserve (in the opposite direction) and that we should put out bait to lure him back in."

Watkins said someone living on Pioneer Road spotted the wolf and wanted to call the preserve. Bemudslide.

Volunteers from all around have been working day and night to repair the damage, which is estimated to be around $50,000. Watkins stressed the preserve is relying on the generosity and compassion of volunteers to donate time, manpower, supplies and money to the cause.

"We will still be open for tours on Saturday," Watkins said. "We've repaired the visiting area, and our ambassadors are up for visitors. Because we are completely nonprofit, this is the only way we will be able to raise the money needed to repair the damage: through donations and tours."

In addition to monetary donations, the preserve is in need of fencing and laborers. Materials needed include fencing measuring about 10 feet tall; 11½ gauge fencing, which is the strongest gauge of fence; fencing posts; claps; wire; logs; rocks; dirt; and concrete. Labor volunteers should be adapted to heavy labor because there are rocks and debris that need to be moved and removed.

Anyone interested in making a monetary donation can mail a check to Seacrest Wolf Preserve, 3449 Bennett Pond Road, Chipley, FL 32428 or donate through their website via PayPal at <http://seacrest-wolfpreserve.org/howto-help.php>.

LIVE YOUR LIFE LIKE IT'S Golden

Adopt a Grandparent

One of the great joys of being a grandparent is spending special time with a grandchild, sharing life experiences and developing a lasting bond of love and care.

Sadly, statistics show 60% of nursing home residents never receive a visitor, including family members. This contributes to depression, poor health and a lack of interest in daily living.

Washington Rehab and Nursing Center offers an Adopt-a-Grandparent program that helps its residents enjoy their golden years — and encourages community service by our children while bridging generational gaps.

Two-year-old Maverick Collins, above, has already "adopted" Miss Lena; there was plenty of laughter, learning and sharing on their recent afternoon together.

Find out how your children can make a huge difference in the lives of these elderly residents with the Adopt-a-Grandparent program at Washington Rehab and Nursing Center. For more information contact Christa Wesley at Washington Rehab, (850) 638-4654.

Illusionist uses magic to spread truth

By CECILIA SPEARS
547-9414 | @WCN_HCT
cspears@chipleypaper.com

BONIFAY — Harris III, Master Illusionist, was the first guest during the May 7 meeting of the Bonifay Kiwanis Club.

"I've devoted my life to exposing deceptions," Harris said. "It's crazy, all these mixed messages trying to convince us of what life is all about."

On average, a person takes in 4,000 to 5,000 messages a day, from advertising on television, billboards and other media people aren't even aware of, he said.

"We now take on so much more media influence than ever before, and not just on our televisions; thousands of messages a day, consciously and unconsciously selling us lies, telling us to just drive this, buy this, wear this, just do this and it will give you life," Harris said. "It's crazy because a commercial will say, 'Buy this because after all, you deserve it,' and then a few seconds go by, and the next commercial will say, 'I know that those other guys said you deserve it, but let's face it; you're just not enough. You are not thin enough, beautiful enough, strong enough, smart enough; you're Harris III, Master Illusionist, was the first guest during Wednesday's meeting of the Bonifay Kiwanis Club. He told the story of a man who swayed an entire village in Uganda with a simple magic trick, which he performed for the members and visitors of the club.

just not enough, but if you bought this, then you would be enough,' Before we know it, we settle for believing an illusion, a fake version of the life we were meant to live. It is so easy to be deceived."

He said when he was a kid, he wanted a baseball mitt for his birthday, and instead, he got a magic kit, and he became good enough as a teenager to take his act on the road, making large sums of money but missing something essential.

"It's funny that magic really did change my life," he said. "When I was 20 years old traveling the world doing magic shows, making friends and making money and everything I wanted, no matter how much I did or how much I had, I still felt totally empty, so I ended up going on this search for the truth because deep down, I felt like I've been lied to by the world, and in reality I had been — the magician, the illusionist, the expert in deception that I was had been cleverly deceived into settling for an illusion, and I remembered the principles of deception are universal, and it's like a light went off, and all I could think was that I was going to use my illusions to tell others the truth about lies. I'm on a mission to tell the truth about deception. Consider this your invitation to join me."

Harris now dedicates his time and efforts to nonprofit organizations to help promote their messages. For example, he assisted the Holmes County Health Department's Tobacco Free Holmes and SWAT club of Chipley High School to promote a tobacco-free lifestyle with a free magic show at Chipley High School recently.

Jackets to take the field

Special to Times-Advertiser

The Vernon Yellow Jacket football team will take the field for the first time in 2014 at 6:30 p.m. tomorrow, May 15, for a controlled scrimmage. Typically deemed the "Orange and Blue" game, play will be replaced with a scrimmage of offense against defense.

With the implementation of an entirely new offense that features a totally new concept for the Jackets, coaches will utilize this night to evaluate how far along the new scheme has progressed. The game will also feature the Vernon Quarterback Club baby back rib sale. Rib slabs can be purchased at the game for $20 beginning at 5 p.m. until the completion of the game.

The Jackets will then turn their focus to the spring game next Thursday night, May 22, at home against Freeport High School. Game time is 6 p.m. due to being held on a school night. The format will be a complete game with the exception of no live kicking.

"This will be the first time to see a much improved and more experienced Yellow Jacket team that hopes to ride last year's success and this year's returning experience to a deeper playoff run," says Head Coach Bobby Johns. "This year's team returns 10 offensive starters and 8 defensive. Along with those returners, several young players from last year's squad have really improved and will look to make a huge contribution to this year's success. Hopefully, with the maturing of many of last year's key contributors, the 2014 installment of the Vernon Yellow Jackets will make this one of the most exciting seasons in recent memory."

Among those returning is Austin Brown. Brown has received ten Division 1 scholarship offers so far from the likes of the University of Wisconsin, University of South Florida, and Southern Mississippi.

"Please join us in Vernon this Thursday at 6:30 for the scrimmage," urges Johns. "And we need everyone at the Jackets' Nest next Thursday night as the Jackets face Freeport as well."

Lady Indians finish 3rd in Gulf District of state tourney

Special to Times-Advertiser

PENSACOLA — The Chipola Lady Indians won two and lost two to finish third in the Gulf District bracket of the FCSAA State tournament.

Chipola came into the tourney as the third-place team out of the Panhandle but opened play May 3 with a pair of wins over State College of Florida and Hillsborough.

Two Chipola players were named to the Gulf District All-Tournament Team: utility player, Katie Harrison and catcher, Brashante' Dareus. Harrison also was named to the FCSAA All-Tournament team.

In Chipola's first game, Jessica Elliott, had a three-hit shutout with eight strikeouts and in a 4-0 win over State College of Florida.

In the Lady Indians' second game Chipola jumped out to a 6-0 lead over Hillsborough and held on for a 6-4 win. Elliott retired nine of the first 10 batters. Rosanne de Vries relieved Elliott in the fourth.

Chipola opened Saturday's action with a 7-5 loss to Tallahassee, the eventual state champion. Facing elimination, the Lady Indians fell to Polk State, 6-4.

Tallahassee Community College defeated the College of Central Florida, 4-1, to capture the FCSAA State Championship.

Chipola finished its season with a record of 34-22. The Lady Indians were the defending FCSAA/Region VIII Champions.

In nine seasons at the helm of the program, head coach Belinda Hendrix has won five Panhandle Conference titles; three state titles: 2007, 2010 and 2013; and a national championship in 2007. She has coached more than 84 All-Conference Players and 12 NJCAA All-Americans. The program has sent more than 50 players on to four-year institutions and boasts 99-percent graduation rate.

Chipley to meet Bucks in 2-1A

By PAT McCANN

747-5068 | @patmccann
pmccann@pcnh.com

There's some talk in the Sand Hills about a Class 1A Final Four threepeat for Bozeman.

It hasn't been coming from Bucks head coach Jeff Patton or the baseball team.

At press time, Chipley was set to play at Bozeman at 7 p.m. Tuesday night in the Region 2-1A championship game. If Bozeman wins, it would be a third straight region title for the Bucks' program.

But Chipley plans on stopping that from happening.

The Bucks are 20-7 and the Tigers 21-7, but perhaps more importantly, Chipley is 16-1 at home.

"We've built a real good

Look for results of Tuesday's Region 2-1A championship game at www.chipleypaper.com.

following this season," Tigers coach Andy Compton said. "It's taken awhile. We've struggled the last few years ... we were in a district with (Pensacola) Catholic and Bay in a four-year span. This year our fan base really has supported this group."

"Our guys are confident at home, that's been the fun part about it. I think the home field does play a little bit into it, but at this point in time when the game starts I'm sure both teams will compete very well."

Neither Patton nor Compton wanted to tip his hand on a starting pitcher. Patton named Brandon Suttles and Alec Aleywine as possibles. Compton designated Jordan Finch or Daniel Floyd.

While the schools haven't played in recent seasons, the programs have met during summer baseball and it's clear that the coaches have a mutual respect for the opposition.

"They have good pitching, have some guys who throw with some velocity and Coach Compton does a good job," Patton said.

Whereas Aleywine (.417) and Suttles (.395) have been formidable throughout, Patton now has Webb (.323), Nicky Agosto and Thompson at .288, the latter with an RBI surge starting with the district tournament.

Johnny Freefall and the draft hard to beat

This space hasn't always been kind to ESPN or the NFL. But for one weekend a year a cease-fire is merited.

Televising the NFL Draft was the smartest thing either company accomplished since Australian Rules Football went to the TV vault alongside "My Mother the Car" and the NFL moved the goal posts to the back line of the end zone.

Tuning in to Jon Gruden and company is like listening to a TV weatherman tell us what to expect, and finding out 10 minutes later he doesn't know any more about his area of expertise than the rest of us.

What can be as refreshing as that?

To be sure, the NFL Draft is resplendent with more lame interviews than a seminar on sideline reporting, only this time at least they are conducted with relieved athletes about to become millionaires.

It's also a kumbaya convention, has more faux hugs than a beauty pageant and the last time Chris Berman was relevant Blondie was recording No. 1 hits.

But if you're a Cleveland Browns fan, you witnessed more drama in less than 2½ hours on Thursday night than you saw all last football season.

We've become a culture held hostage by speculation, but for one night a year it ends in resolution within minutes. So much for the mock drafts that flood the Internet starting in March. They're as compelling as an Anthony Weiner campaign for dogcatcher.

While there was some pleasure watching Johnny Manziel drink water like it was bathtub gin while waiting for his name to be called, the bottom line is that he's soon to sign a contract worth more money than the combined wages of all Minnesota McCanns for eternity.

It's also somewhat noteworthy that it's common to hear athletes speak of God's plan in times of crisis. I've never heard a coach talk about God's plan upon being hired, but I've witnessed a few echo that sentiment when fired.

Perhaps the best moment for many local viewers, however, irrespective of team allegiance, came when Calvin Pryor was taken on the 18th pick by the New York Jets.

The Port St. Joe graduate grew up and flourished in our area. That he will have an opportunity to live the good life that professional sports can provide enriches all of us who have followed his career from high school through Louisville.

That occurrence was heightened on Friday evening, when Khyri Thornton, who played at Bay High School, went to the Green Bay Packers in the third round.

Then there are many college football fans who track the progress of players from their favorite university. That provides a sidelight for those who don't actively follow the NFL.

But maybe the best reward from this year's collection of talent was that the second round on Friday produced nearly as representative group of future pros as was seen on Thursday night.

Not all drafts are created equal. Neither are all television extravaganzas.

20th anniversary Kyle Petty Charity Ride makes pit stop in Bonifay

SPECIAL TO TIMES-ADVERTISER

Hundreds of motorcycle enthusiasts came to Bonifay on May 9 for the 20th anniversary Kyle Petty Charity Ride Across America.

BONIFAY — Hundreds of motorcyclists made Bonifay one of their pit stops as they made their way across America on May 9 for the 20th anniversary Kyle Petty Ride Across America.

Visitors included NASCAR's Kyle Petty, Geoff Bodine, Harry Grant, NFL's Herschel Walker and FOX News' Col. Allen West.

Twenty years ago, Petty and three friends rode their motorcycles from North Carolina to a NASCAR race at Phoenix International Raceway. Along the way, several friends joined the ride until the group was more than 30 riders, and the turnout inspired Petty to turn the event into a charity ride to raise money for a cause.

In 2004, the Petty family wanted their ride to focus on Victory Junction, located on 84 acres in Randleman, N.C., for enriching the lives of children with chronic or life-threatening illnesses in honor of their late son, Adam Petty.

This year, Kyle Petty will lead approximately 200 riders coast to coast for the first time, traveling from Carlsbad, Calif., to Daytona Beach from May 3-10, and as a result of the charity ride, more than 7,730 children have attended Victory Junction at no cost to their families.

Fans and spectators have gathered along the Charity Ride route also contribute to the Charity Ride's "Small Change. Big Impact." program, which accepts donations at local stops.

If you are interested in following Petty and the riders live, visit KPCharityRide on Facebook or on Twitter and Instagram @ KPCharityRide and @ KylePetty.

Why mothers would make good politicians

In looking forward to Mother's Day, I could not help but think about the mess our country is in right now. Not that messes remind me of mothers in particular, but honesty compels me to admit they are good at cleaning up messes. And, the messes they cleanup are not their doing. That is what makes it so great. Somebody needs to clean up the mess we are in.

Anybody who steps outside their house knows that the country is in a terrific mess these days. It would be impossible to blame one political party over another. In this area, everybody is equal. The truth is, politicians make messes. Furthermore, they leave these messes for other people to clean up. Many politicians have dirty mouths and minds, but none have dirty hands from cleaning up messes.

I believe mothers would make wonderful politicians for several reasons. Mothers, generally speaking, know how to ask questions:

"Have you washed behind your ears?" "What time are you getting back?" "If all your friends jumped off a bridge would you?"

It is one thing to ask a question, but it is another thing altogether to ask the right question. Politicians ask questions they think people are asking. Before they query any audience, they take polls to make sure they have the right question so they are not embarrassed.

Mothers, on the other hand, ask questions to embarrass you and put you back on the straight and narrow.

DR. JAMES L. SNYDER
Out to Pastor

Mothers expect an answer to their questions immediately... without delay.

Another reason mothers would make good politicians is they never stop until the work is finished. Everybody has heard the old saying, "A man works from sun up to sun down, but a woman's work is never done."

It would be beneficial for our country if every politician were apprenticed to a mother with four or five kids. Let him follow her around for a week, if he can last a week, and he will get some idea of what working is all about.

By her very nature, a mother is always thinking about others. Rarely does she take any time for her own personal pursuits. Wouldn't that be a wonderful trait in some politician?

Instead of putting his political career ahead of everything else, he would sacrifice himself to benefit other people, to help clean up the messes around him.

Although it may seem like a good idea, we cannot afford to send mothers to Washington and neglect the important work she has at home. Nehemiah said it so well, "I am doing a great work, so that I cannot come down: why should the work cease, whilst I leave it, and come down to you?" (Nehemiah 6:3).

God knew exactly what he was doing when he put together a marvelous creature we now know as Mother.

His Life for Mine

My father was a firefighter for years and he loved every minute of it. I asked him why he loved it so much. He replied, "There's nothing like hearing someone say thank you for saving their life and being able to say 'you're welcome.'" I couldn't help but think this must be what Jesus feels when we are truly grateful for His sacrifice. Take time to show your gratitude.
