County reviews possible budget cuts

By CECILIA SPEARS

cspears@chipleypaper.com

BONIFAY — The Holmes County Board of County Commissioners began refining the budget for the new fiscal year when they met Aug. 5.

“As you know, last week we set our tentative millage rate at last year’s rate, which was 9.6605,” said

Chairman Monty Merchant.

Merchant asked how much of the budget was cut so far and was told the amount was $110,522 to reach current millage. Commissioner Kenneth Williams asked how much of a cut was needed to reach the roll back rate of 9.4912, and he was told $177,259.

Suggestions for cuts after a line-by-line budget review include reducing the janitorial contract from last year’s amount of $36,000 to $30,000; cutting the Baker Act budget from $25,000 to $15,000; reducing funds earmarked for contracting with an animal control agency from $80,000 to $60,000; and cutting miscellaneous items by $39,000.

In other action, the board:

- Approved names submitted to serve on the seven-person emergency management committee.
- Scheduled a meeting, at 9 a.m. Nov. 3, with swearing in ceremonies at 5 p.m. Nov. 18, for those elected in the general election.

• Tabled discussion on the District 2 “borrow pit” after Merchant updated the board. The board is interested in possibly purchasing 40 acres of clear-cut land from a business named Continental to be used as a dirt pit. At the last discussion

ESTO — After much discussion, the Esto Town Council agreed to approve mileage reimbursement at 55 cents per mile and a 10 percent cut of the profits from the Two Toe Tom Festival to festival chairman Darlene Madden. The decision was made when the council met in regular session Aug. 5.

“I put on this festival because I love my town,” Madden said. “A lot of time and effort goes into running that festival, and I’m the only one (on the festival

School board addresses cell phone policies

By CECILIA SPEARS
658-4038 | @WCN_HCT
cspears@chipleypaper.com

BONIFAY — Discussion turned to student cell phone use during the Aug. 5 meeting of the Holmes County District School Board, with board members taking on a new point of view on technology usage in schools.

School board member Debbie Kolmetz asked about the cell phone policy, stating it currently shows student cell phones should be turned off or in silent mode during classroom hours but doesn’t go into detail as far as where phones must be placed during the duration of the day.

“The state requires to let them have it on; you can’t keep it away from them,” said Superintendent of Schools Eddie Dixon. “Teachers can still dictate whether they are turned off in the classroom or in use.”

Dixon also said the policies were set “when they were still just phones instead of little computers.”

“Some teachers let (students) use (phones) to do research, looking up words or concepts,” he said. “We’re trying to use it as a foundation that they can be used as more than just phones.”

Kolmetz suggested revisiting the policy to update it to more modern standards.

“We are adjusting policy so that when students are on break or at lunch, they can use their devices,” Dixon said. “We’re just trying to get with the times. (If a teacher) doesn’t want them out, then it is up to (the teacher), but in the hallways and after lunch, we’ll just have to see how that goes.”

Kolmetz also asked if the new Spanish teacher would be receiving mileage going from one school to the next on different days, and Dixon said she would not. He said the teacher would arrive at the assigned school of the day as though she was employed there, just as every teacher does.

Kolmetz also asked what students would be doing on days the teacher wasn’t available, and Dixon said students will utilize virtual training.

“I think it is unfair that one school has a full-time Spanish teacher while three have to split one,” Kolmetz said.

committee). I think this festival is good for this town and really represents (Esto) as family-friendly.”

The Council approved to sell Madden a shed donated by Comcast to the Town of Esto in the amount of $2 for the purpose of storing all festival-related items on the stipulation that if she became no longer involved with the festival, she has to sell the shed back to the town for the same amount.

The Council also agreed to offer a local landowner $50,000 for land the town intends to utilize as additional parking for the Two Toe Tom Festival.

Madden announced a yard sale fundraiser for the festival to take place Sept. 13 at the Community Center, selling inside space for $10 and outside space at $5. For more information, Madden at 263-3201.

In other action, Council President Danny Powell told the council they should keep in mind the steady widening of State Road 79.

“When the four-lane comes through our town, the water lines will need to be moved,” Powell said. “It is important for us as council members to attend the Florida Department of Transportation meetings from now on.”

The Council tabled the intent of buying books titled “Heart and History of Holmes County,” “The Heritage of Holmes County, Florida” and “Holmes County Cemetery Census” because no members have been able to contact anyone responsible for selling them.

The next regularly scheduled meeting of the Town of Esto is set for 7 p.m. Sept. 2.

In other action, the council:

Approved Miranda Hudson's request on behalf of the Bonifay Kiwanis Club to have a 5K Bull Run and Fun Run, starting at 8 a.m. Oct. 4, at Middlebrooks Park.

All proceeds will go to Wounded Warriors. For more information, call Hudson at 373-5003.

Approved the city's joining of the West Florida Regional Planning Council. Membership dues are $587.59 and will entitle the city to assistance paving roads. A list of roads in need of paving already has been submitted.

Voted to close the water park at Middlebrooks Park on Monday until repairs are completed. The park is expected to reopen next summer.

Discussed ways to improve the condition of McGee Road's sidewalk and considered extending the sidewalk to State Road 90.

Heard advisement from City Attorney Lucas Taylor to revamp the approval process for Ordinance 388, which deals with the proper disposal of yard clippings and debris and enforcement. Taylor said there are inconsistencies with the first and second reading, with penalties added in the document for second reading in regard to penalties. Taylor was advised on the new content, which will be brought to the council at the next meeting for the process to begin anew.

The Council will have a budget workshop at 6 p.m. Aug. 21 and its regular meeting at 6 p.m. Aug. 25.

concerning the pit, the board approved a decision to get a soil sample, which came back showing the materials to be suitable for county use. Merchant told the board the first price given for the land was $104,000; the county then countered with $92,000, and the counter-offer and current offer is 98,000, which the board is taking into consideration for possible action at the next meeting.

Approved Holmes County Extension Director Shep Eubanks' request to increase Holmes County Office Secretary Wendy Smith's work hours from 35 to 40 a week, explaining that the number of children attending 4-H almost quadrupled in size. He said she needs additional time to meet all the state requirements in having the substantial increase in children, which includes additional state and federal paperwork. Eubanks quoted the additional expenses to be $3,100 per year.

Approved Emergency Medical Services Director Greg Barton's request to accept a van from Tri-County Community Council to be used by Holmes County EMS for non-emergency transport.

The board met again in regular session at 9 a.m. Tuesday, Aug. 12.

VOTE SHALENE GROVER FOR JUDGE 14TH CIRCUIT

WWW.GROVERFORJUDGE.COM POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT PAID FOR AND APPROVED BY SHALENE GROVER FOR CIRCUIT JUDGE

My name is Shalene Grover and I am a candidate for Circuit Judge for the Fourteenth Judicial Circuit.

I am a country girl from a small town. For several generations, my paternal grandfather's family farmed and labored in a sawmill. Farming and raising livestock was the way of life of my maternal grandfather's family. Both of my parents are descendants of hardworking people who expected everyone to do their part.

When my parents married, my father was a teacher in a small rural school and my mother was a hairdresser in a beauty shop. My mother went to college ten years after she graduated from high school. Although my mother had two young children, she worked two jobs to help support the family while attending college. She then became a teacher and is currently in her 30th year in the educational system working with children with disabilities. My father retired after 30 years in education. While my father taught, he also drove a school bus to help supplement the family's income. This meant that he worked twelve (12) hour days, five days a week.

I am very proud of my family. Both my parents, by example, taught my brother and I the importance of hard work and respect for others.

"I met my husband in law school and marrying him was one of the best decisions of my life. After we married, we returned to his home in Calhoun County, where he is the sixth generation Calhoun Countian. His family background, values and beliefs are similar to mine.

We have been blessed with two wonderful sons. The oldest son is ten and the youngest is five. Both boys love baseball. One of our favorite family activities is to attend their baseball games.

I have practiced law for the past fifteen years. My experience is extensive and includes criminal law, family law, real estate law, labor law cases and numerous other types of civil litigation. For the past thirteen years I have been the County Attorney for the Liberty County Board of County Commissioners. My law office, Shalene Grover, P.A., is located across the street from the Jackson County Courthouse in Marianna.

If I am elected, I will apply the values my parents taught me as a child. I will work hard and be fair. I will also strive to make the system efficient and user friendly. My decisions will be based on the law and on common sense.

I would appreciate your vote on August 26. Please remember early voting begins August 16.

Let's hear it for our 4-legged heroes

For ages, dogs have had the nickname of "Man's Best Friend." Although the feminist in me takes exception at the phrasing, there is much truth in the moniker.

I recently lost my four-legged best friend, Bullet, but will never forget what that friendship meant.

No matter how badly I had fouled up during the course of the day, Bullet would greet me at the door as though I were a hero returning from war.

And only as a true friend will do, he never would let me become too full of myself, reminding me if I didn't fulfill my obligations, such as replenishing his food and water and letting him outside when needed, there would, literally, be a mess to clean up.

No doubt, he was a constant, faithful companion — even on days when I felt as though I didn't deserve it.

Recently, my good friends Charles and Keesha Wills realized just how blessed they are to have a four-legged family member. In their case, the family's 110 pound lab and bulldog mix, Mack, also is a hero.

CAROL KENT
Editor

Recently, the Wills' oldest daughter, Tori, was doing her routine chores, which include taking out the trash.

Suddenly, Mack came rushing, knocking her off her path to the outside trash can. When Tori looked around to see what was going on, she found Mack screaming in pain.

When the dog lifted his paw, she saw a timber rattlesnake. Tori ran for help, calling for her parents.

The snake had bitten Mack in the middle of his paw, which began to swell within minutes.

A call to the vet for instructions saved Mack's life, but it is the life he saved that has Tori's parents calling him her guardian angel.

"He is a prime example of the word 'hero,'" Keesha said. "I am forever grateful to this wondrous creature for his act of bravery to protect my daughter. What a good boy he is, and how we love him so! The good Lord put him there at the right time."

There's no telling what might have happened had Mack not been shadowing Tori. His bravery is yet more proof of the inherent goodness and faithful love given us by our pets.

Perhaps no one has said it better than author Gene Hill, better known as "the Dog Man": "Nobody can fully understand the meaning of love unless he's owned a dog. A dog can show you more honest affection with a flick of his tail than a man can gather through a lifetime of handshakes."

I'm grateful for the Bullets and Macks of this world. They certainly make it a better place.

Mack the Dog did what any good pal should: He risked his own life to save that of his friend and companion, Tori Herrington, earning him a medal of honor from her grateful parents.

My editor took a picture of a gift recently sent to me by someone who read my article and found out I like Transformers. It was a wonderful surprise.

Swimming in a sea of stars

I believe the best image that comes to mind is the scene from Wall-E, when he and Eve were soaring through space, surrounded by stars. That's what it feels like to work in Washington and Holmes counties.

It has been such an honor because I have the pleasure to meet some of the most amazing individuals and witness some of the most astounding acts of selflessness, love, courage and compassion I've ever known in my entire life.

Every life is like the light emanating like a star and some shine so very bright.

They are found in our everyday people, our men and women who protect and serve, our law enforcement, our emergency medical services, our military, our teachers, our friends, our neighbors, our coworkers and our family members.

You never know where these acts of valor will come from; it comes from the best of us and it comes from the unlikeliest of us. Sometimes we even surprise ourselves at how much we can accomplish if we just keep the faith and then we end up being a source of strength for others who witness our struggles.

The most recently being how the community has come together to help aide local resident Sharon Harris with raising money to help with her medical, travel and other expenses after she found out she had stage two colon cancer. From far and wide people gathered to show their love and support. So many smiling faces and she couldn't stop crying because she was constantly being showed how much she is loved by others. What amazing medicine that is.

In the face of every tragedy the community always seems to come together to support one another. That's one of the reasons I love working with the Relay for Life. Time and time again it seems that someone we know and love is diagnosed with cancer but the amazing part is the way people choose fight back. It is an intense sense of comradery that stirs the heart and soul.

CECILIA SPEARS
Cecilia's Sit Down

I have seen it in the face of sacrifice of our men and women of law enforcement, like with the loss of Holmes County Correctional Officer Colonel Greg Malloy, who was killed in the line of duty while pursuing a vicious murderer. Even I take for granted that these fine men and women are prepared to put their lives on the line every day for the safety and welfare of those they serve.

I worry and pray for my friends who chose to work as correctional officers because their line of work is also hazardous.

I cannot tell you how many times my faith has been renewed by witnessing those around me overcoming what seemed impossible or witnessing miracles. Like the amazing recovery of kidnapped 7-month-old Shannon Dedrick almost five years ago. I remember waiting for hours outside a home with Washington County law enforcement and even though it had been so long since we got word they still remained optimistic. They were and are very admirable.

It is also seen in those who do for the community without requiring anything in return. Like the awesome services provided by the IFAS Extension Office and local health departments with their classes and programs, which I'm really excited to be gathering information to present to the public soon. I get excited with prospect of having something useful to share.

There's also the local churches and organizations that help provide food to local families who are struggling to make due. One well known is Shepard's Gate in Sunny Hills, who feeds hundreds of people on a regular basis. Caryville and Esto are also making efforts to help feed their local families.

There's also a personal favorite, which is the tireless efforts provided by our local libraries to provide information resources and internet service to students, children and families alike.

I also would like to give a shout-out to those who go off, better themselves and then come back to provide services to their hometown people, like Dr. Patrick Hawkins with Hawkins Family Medicine and Kevin Russell with the Spanish Trail Playhouse and Vernon High School Drama. I know there are a lot more people who have left and returned with valuable knowledge and resources but those are the two that come to mind at the moment. I know while I lay in bed tonight I will recall even more people because they have all made a difference in my life.

I count myself most fortunate to have been a part for these events as a servant of the community. I have never ceased to be amazed by those around me, in every little act of kindness, in every choice to take a stand, little by little people both great and small are making a difference every day, I only wish that I had a chance to cover them all and share them all with others.

I was surprised recently with a gift from a reader. Someone who didn't know me except for the work of my words and chose to share with me something of interest. I cannot express just how much this act has moved me.

There are so many wonderful people who are trying to make a difference and more than anything I want to play my part too.

Thank you again for spending a little time with me and I look forward to seeing you again next week.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Are we listening to God's word?

Dear Editor,
I have a question.
Has everyone or anyone noticed how many young people have tattoos all over their bodies?
My question is: Do they know this is mentioned in the Bible? Is it that they don't know, or they simply don't care? It seems to be accepted more as time goes on.

Homosexuality also is accepted a lot more today than years ago. Do these folks know that this is an abomination to God? The Bible says without repentance, homosexuals will not enter the Kingdom of God. Yet, today, homosexuals are in the priesthood of "modern day" churches.

I am not judging the person because God has also said, "Lest ye be judged." I am, however, judging this ridiculous lifestyle. I'm wondering if we as a Christian-based community have paid attention to what God instructed.

Why? Because God has, and I am just repeating Him. My last question is: Are you?

Thanks for sharing church's history

Dear Editor,
On behalf of the congregation of the First United Methodist Church of Chipley, I would like to express our sincere appreciation for your special coverage of the current sanctuary restoration project. So many people have expressed to me how much they enjoyed reading the history of the church and viewing the historic photos that you published.

Your articles certainly sparked interest throughout the community in our efforts to ensure that the historic Methodist Church remains a vital part of Chipley and Washington County. I have received nothing but positive reviews from your readers. I consider our county to be blessed that you are now the editor of our hometown newspaper.

We, as congregants of First United Methodist, affirm our belief in the saving Grace of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, as we continue to serve Christ by serving others. It is our desire to bring others into the loving fellowship and covenant with Christ our Redeemer. We pray that this beautiful edifice which was constructed well over one hundred years ago by our forefathers of the faith will remain "a beacon of love, of light and loyalty" for all who pass our way.

I certainly look forward to working with you again soon on projects that are of interest and value to the folks of our county.

FREE & REDUCED-PRICED MEALS

The Holmes District School Board announces its policy for Free and Reduced-Price meals for students under the National School Lunch and Breakfast Programs. Any interested person may review a copy of the policy by contacting the school your child attends or the office of the Holmes District School Board.

Household size and income criteria will be used to determine eligibility. An application cannot be approved unless it contains complete eligibility information. Once approved, meal benefits are good for an entire year. You need not notify the organization of changes in income and household size.

Application forms are being sent to all homes with a letter to parents or guardians. To apply for Free or Reduced-Price meals, households must complete the application and return it to the school. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application will be used for the purpose of determining eligibility and may be verified at any time during the school year. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

Households that receive SNAP (Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program) or TANF (Temporary Assistance for Needy Families) are required to list on the application only the child's name, SNAP/TANF case number, and signature of adult household member.

Foster children will receive benefits regardless of the child's personal income or the income of the household.

Households with children who are considered migrants, homeless, or runaway should contact the district liaison, Carmen Bush at 850-547-9341.

For the purpose of determining household size, deployed service members are considered a part of the household. Families should include the names of the deployed service members on their application. Report only that portion of the deployed service member's income made available to them or on their behalf to the family. Additionally, a housing allowance that is part of the Military Housing Privatization Initiative is not to be included as income.

All other households must provide the following information listed on the application:

- Total household income listed by gross amount received, type of income (e.g., wages, child support, etc.) and how often the income is received by each household member;
- Names of all household members – check the "no income" box if applicable; if household member is a child, list school name for each.
- Signature of an adult household member certifying the information provided is correct; and
- Social security number of the adult signing the application or the word "NONE" for this household member if he or she does not have a social security number.

The school should be contacted if a household member becomes unemployed or if the household size changes. Children of parents or guardians who become unemployed should also contact the school.

Under the provisions of the Free and Reduced-price meal policy the Food Service Administrator or their designee will review application and determine eligibility. If a parent or guardian is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he or she may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informal basis. If the parent wishes to make a formal appeal, he or she may make a request either in writing or orally to Superintendent of Schools, 701 East Pennsylvania Avenue, Bonifay, FL 32425, (850) 547-9341.

Unless indicated otherwise on the application, the information on the Free and Reduced-Price Meal application may be used by the school system in determining eligibility for other educational programs.

Centennial Celebration

The Panama Canal

Imagine yourself as a businessman living on the East Coast of the United States 170 years ago. The country is growing toward the West, and your company's products, iceboxes, are needed in new settlements. But the railroad that will cross the continent is still 25 years from completion. You would like to move your goods by ship.

In the 1800s, a ship traveling from the East Coast to the West Coast of North America had to travel all the way around the tip of South America. The journey was long and dangerous, as the winds around Cape Horn stir up huge waves. People began to look for a shorter, safer passage.

A trail across Panama

As early as the 1500s, Europeans thought a canal might cross the isthmus in Panama. In 1850, a geographer from Great Britain discovered a trail across the isthmus. Officials from the U.S., France, England and Colombia explored the area, but the difficulties of traveling through the jungle discouraged them. *An isthmus is a narrow strip of land with water on either side.

A Century of Service

The Panama Canal is celebrating its centennial, or 100th anniversary, this year. The canal officially opened on Aug. 15, 1914. The American Society of Civil Engineers has named it one of the seven wonders of the modern world.

A different idea

A group from the United States thought a railroad could cross the isthmus. The Panama Railroad was completed in 1855 and was hugely successful.

While building the railroad, engineers found a gap in the mountains at Culebra that they thought would offer a perfect setting for a ship canal.

Colombia makes a deal

At the time, Panama belonged to Colombia. For more than 20 years, governments and engineers argued about the best place to build a canal.

A French businessman, Ferdinand de Lesseps, had built the Suez Canal connecting the Mediterranean and Red Seas in Egypt. He thought he could build a similar canal in Panama. Finally, in 1881, construction began.

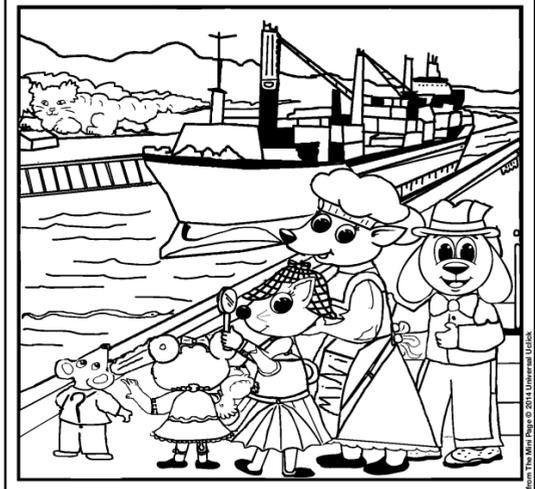

But the conditions in Panama were very different. Equipment rusted quickly in the humid atmosphere. An earthquake damaged the work in progress. Landslides slowed the work and killed or injured workers. Laborers suffered from disease.

Finally, de Lesseps and his business partners gave up, and construction stopped on the canal in 1889.

Dansby Swanson

In baseball, middle infielders form the heart of a team's defense, turning double plays and limiting opponents' chances to score runs. And Dansby Swanson, a second baseman for the Vanderbilt Commodores, plays his heart out for his team.

Dansby was named the Most Outstanding Player at this year's College World Series in Omaha, Nebraska, after leading his Commodores to the NCAA Division I National Championship. Over six games, he batted .323, scored five runs, drove in two runs, stole three bases and played error-free ball at second base.

Vanderbilt's 3-2 victory over the University of Virginia in Game 3 of the finals gave the school its first-ever national championship in a men's sport. "When you've got guys backing up each other like we do," Swanson said after the game, "anything is possible."

Overcoming Obstacles

New owners

In 1902, the U.S. government bought the Panama Canal Co. As the U.S. was trying to reach agreements with Colombia about the canal, people in Panama were planning to separate from Colombia.

The U.S. agreed to support Panama. In late 1903, U.S. military ships arrived near Colón, Panama, to help defend it against Colombian troops.

The Panamians declared independence from Colombia without having to fight. And the United States was able to proceed with building the Panama Canal.

Disease

One of the biggest obstacles for the workforce was sickness. Malaria and yellow fever, spread by mosquito bites, killed more than 22,000 workers before 1889.

In 1904, the United States asked Dr. William C. Gorgas to lead the fight against the deadly diseases.

One of the ways Dr. Gorgas worked against mosquitoes was spraying oil on the grass in ditches. The oil would kill larvae, or baby mosquitoes, after they hatched from eggs laid on the surface of standing water.

A tiny insect threatens a huge project

Dr. Gorgas attacked the mosquito problem in several ways:

- draining ponds and swamps
- using mosquito netting
- fumigating, or using fumes of certain chemicals to repel insects
- quarantining (KWOR-an-teen-ing), or isolating, people who were sick.

In just one year, the number of deaths from malaria and yellow fever was greatly reduced.

One worker, Alfred E. Dottin, wrote: "I saw mosquitoes, I say this without fear of exaggerating, by the thousands attack one man. There were days that we could only work a few hours because of the high fever racking our bodies."

A Modern Marvel

Building the canal

As construction got underway again, President Theodore Roosevelt assigned the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to take over. In 1909, workers began building the locks.

What is a lock?

Locks are machines that raise and lower ships between different levels of water.

For instance, if a boat is going from a river into a lake and the river is higher than the lake, the boat will steer into a lock. The lock will slowly release water until the boat is at the lake level, and then the boat will exit the other side into the lake.

From the Atlantic Ocean, ships enter the Panama Canal through the Gatún Locks. They travel over Gatún Lake, a manmade lake built for the canal, then exit through the Pedro Miguel and Miraflores Locks into the Pacific Ocean.

Next week, The Mini Page shares award-winning books with readers.

Returning to Panama

In 1977, the United States and Panama signed a treaty, or agreement, that ownership and management of the canal would permanently transfer to Panama on Dec. 31, 1999.

Flag of Panama

Work is underway on one of the new locks at the Atlantic Ocean entrance of the Panama Canal. The expansion is expected to be complete in early 2016.

The Panama Canal today

As ships have become bigger and traffic has increased, the canal has been improved and changed. In September 2007, the Panama Canal Expansion Program began. The work includes:

- building two new locks, one at each entrance
- carving out new channels to the locks and widening and deepening the existing channels
- raising the water level of Gatún Lake.

Panama Canal facts

- About 40 ships pass through the canal every day.
- It takes a ship eight to 10 hours to move through the canal. About three of those hours are spent passing through the locks.
- "Panamax" refers to the size limits for ships passing through the canal. The existing locks are 110 feet wide and 1,050 feet long. Panamax ships must be no wider than 107 feet and no longer than 965 feet.
- When the expansion of the Panama Canal is complete, "New Panamax" ships will be able to move through the canal. They will have a maximum width of 161 feet and a maximum length of 1,200 feet.
- On Sept. 4, 2010, the Fortune Plum became the 1 millionth ship to transit the canal.

This ship barely fits through the existing Miraflores Locks. New locks will allow even larger ships to pass through the canal.

The Fortune Plum

4 left homeless after morning fire

By CECILIA SPEARS

WESTVILLE — A Westville family of four lost their home to a fire before dawn Thursday, but no one was injured.

According resident Gail Tate, mother of five, the fire started before 5:30 a.m. at their residence at the intersection of County 163 and Peacock Lane in Westville.

"I woke up coughing around 5:30 this morning and smelt something like smoke," Gail said. "I open the door to the kitchen and it was nothing but a wall of flames. I managed to get my son, Samuel, out and called the fire department but it couldn't be saved."

Arriving at the scene to help battle the blaze were volunteer fire departments from Pittman, Pine Log and New Hope.

Gail Tate lived with her husband, Steve and two sons, Samuel, 18, and Isaac, 12.

She said of all the possessions she lost, the one she would miss the most was a portrait of her son who died 14 years ago at the age of 12 to complications of cerebral palsy.

"That's what hurts most," she said. "I know God has us handled because He is an almighty God. There's valleys and hills and God will provide."

She said believes this was the third of a series of arson attempts on her home in the last several weeks. In the first, a lit bottle of accelerant that was thrown under the house, but was contained with damage only to one window and the second was a lit bottle of accelerant thrown through the kitchen window, burning a portion of the kitchen.

The incident is currently under investigation by the State Fire Marshal and no information regarding the incident has been released as the investigation is ongoing.

American Red Cross was present to provide the family with a stay at a local hotel for several nights as well as a debit card in the amount of $650 to help with immediate needs.

Ginny's mission trip to south Asia

Recently, Fred Howell offered to get me a copy of his Howell family book which his sister Charlotte has compiled so that I could write about something other than my family. (Actually he was much more tactful than that.) But I haven't received the book yet so here I go with another family story.

When I learned early this summer that our youngest granddaughter, 17 year old Ginny, was scheduled to leave June 15 for Kansas City, Mo., for 10 days of intensive training for a five week mission trip to South Asia with the International Mission Board, I was astounded. No one asked me for my permission. World tensions are such that we can't even publicize the location of their mission. But I learned that two groups of four young women each and their leaders would be going to the region as tourists to engage people in conversation with the express purpose of allowing them to practice their English skills and in the process, give them the gospel of Jesus Christ.

After training, the group boarded a plane in Los Angeles for the 27 hour flight to Singapore where commuter flights carried them to their destination, a large city in SE Asian archipelago.

Their hosts were Southern Baptist Missionaries already on the field. Other than visiting a community center in the city where all ages gathered and meeting nationals, they spent one week in what was called a village, but Ginny said we could call it a town. There they taught English and Bible in a Christian School.

In both the city and the village, they found the people to be very friendly and open to conversation. Since they stood out with their fairer complexions, they were hailed everywhere they went with friendly greetings, picture taking sessions, and invitations to go to the zoo, to go shopping or to eat, sometimes in their homes and sometimes in the restaurants or the street vendors which lined every street in the city except the residential.

I asked Ginny to tell me about the best most memorable thing she recalled. She was teaching a class of 16 or so year-olds. The director of the school had requested that they talk about "relativism." She had learned that the government is a republic with presidential system and that religious freedom is limited to six recognized religions: Islam, Protestantism, Roman Catholicism, Hinduism, Buddhism, and Confucianism. Citizens must carry a card with their declared religion on it and it is illegal to evangelize or proselytize. However, there is free discussion of religion among the people and they in no way felt threatened for sharing their faith. In the Christian school she assumed that all or most of the students were Christian. In explaining relativism to the teenagers she talked about the fact that the leaders of all other religions were dead or never existed except the Christian faith. Jesus lived, was crucified, buried, and rose again, so the founder of Christianity is the only one who is alive and the only way to eternal life.

Many of them bowed their heads or covered their eyes but one boy raised his hand and said, "You are wrong. I am Muslim, Buddhist, and Christian." This made her realize how much the Christian message is needed and solidified her belief that she was in the right place.

Most schools teach a second language, usually English, other than Bahasa which is loosely structured like the society. Word order doesn't seem to have much significance. Their desire to practice their English makes them more open to Americans. Their literacy rate is 93%.

We worried about their safety in a foreign land so I asked Ginny if they were afraid or felt threatened. She said the openness of the people and their desire to protect them made them feel safe. In addition, they had been drilled beforehand how to conduct themselves. Police were not much in evidence. There seemed to be no traffic laws. People in the villages (towns) seemed to be more concerned with laws.

"What was the most unpleasant thing to you?" I asked. "The smells." Their hotel was a fifth floor walk-up. It looked modern and clean on the surface. But underneath, it was dirty and smelly. Rotten fruit, cigarette smell, even in the linens. Everyone smoked. Everywhere even in the restaurants." Ginny is too young to remember that it was just a few years ago The American Cancer Society sponsored a campaign to outlaw smoking in restaurants in Florida. I circulated many of those petitions.

The tropical foliage makes the city and the country with its mountains rising in the distance, very beautiful, but trash is everywhere, especially in the poor parts of the city. And they burn trash right beside the street.

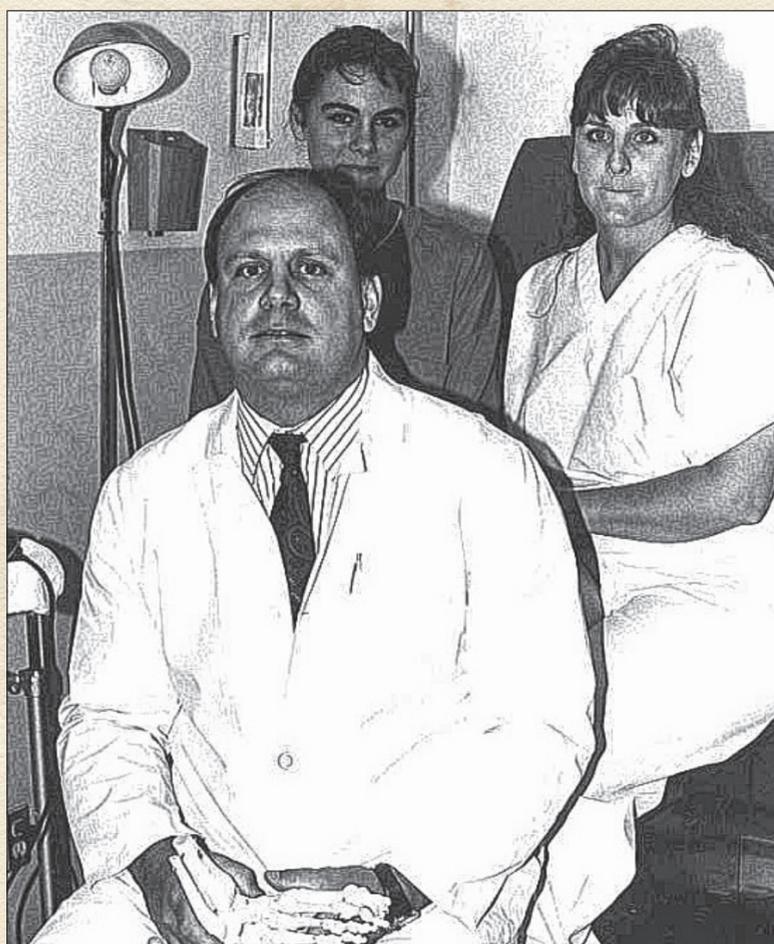

One of her "most unpleasant memories" was going to a seven floor enclosed market where you were shoulder to shoulder with other shoppers with no ventilation.

Though they didn't get to do too many "touristy" things, the rafting on a river in a rain forest was a memorable event as was the visit to the zoo where she rode an elephant and a camel. Culture shock? Ginny was more shocked coming back to the U.S. with our abundance of "Stuff." We have so many choices for the same product.

Going to this location with its natural beauty and meeting the friendly people with their oral traditions as well as the bonding with the team of young missionaries made this long arduous trip involving 10 international airports worthwhile. Ginny would not trade the experience and it no doubt sealed her determination to make some type of missions her life work.

BUSINESS

Maui Jims, GoPros and Folsom Prison Blues

*"I bet there's rich folks eatin' in a fancy dinin' car...
They're prob'ly drinkin' coffee...
and smokin' big cigars."*

— "Folsom Prison Blues" written and recorded by Johnny Cash

If you recently received a card from your broker postmarked in Hawaii, you may have helped send him there.

A broker at an investment conference stated in a luncheon recently that he would never consider leaving his firm. "Why?" someone asked. "The vacations," he said. "Every year, depending on how many annuities I sell, they send my wife and me to a place we've never been. Last year we went to Rome. The year before we took an Alaskan cruise. This year we're going to Paris. And it's all free."

When markets tumbled in 2008 these trips were downsized or cancelled. Now, though, in concert with recent bullish markets, complimentary vacations to resort destinations are once again on the rise. Some educational sessions are usually hosted at conferences now, to lend some professional credence to the trips.

A recent article in the WSJ is entitled "Wall Street Revives Reward Junkets for Top Brokers." The accompanying photo reveals beachside cabanas at the Ritz-Carlton Kapalua. "In late April, a few hundred of Morgan Stanley's top stockbrokers and their spouses jetted off to Hawaii for a gathering spiced with golf, deep-sea fishing and suntanning," writes Corrie Driebusch. "When they arrived...the first perks of their all-expenses paid trip were waiting for them... GoPro cameras and Maui Jim sunglasses..."

Perhaps nothing else delineates so clearly the difference between brokers and fee-only advisors. If an advisor is being rewarded by his parent company with a lavish vacation for reaching a certain plateau of annuity sales, or for steering client investment dollars into parent company mutual funds, he will naturally aspire to please the parent company, which provides his income. The problem is that investing in an annuity or the firm's parent company mutual fund may or may not be in the client's best interest. The client may wonder: "Is the advisor selling or recommending this product because it's good for me financially, or because it earns him more points toward a year-end vacation?" This is one of the reasons why brokers are not fiduciaries and fee-only advisors do serve as fiduciaries to their clients. The fiduciary advisor maintains a legal obligation to act in the client's best interest.

Independent, fee-only advisors have no parent companies. Thus, they are not rewarded with vacations, salary, benefits or perks from a company which financially benefits from the sale of certain financial instruments. Fee-only advisors sell no products. Every dime of an independent, fee-only advisor's income is derived from client fees, and thus, his focus is on his clients, not on packing a suitcase.

Local lawyer earns board certification

Special to the Times-Advertiser

Douglas Blake Dykes of Syfrett and Dykes Law Offices in Panama City is one of 165 lawyers statewide and the only lawyer in the 14th circuit who recently earned Florida Bar board certification, a designation that places him among the only group of Florida lawyers who may use the terms "specialist," "expert" or "B.C.S." for Board Certified Specialist when referring to their legal credentials. Dykes earned board certification in civil trial. Board certified lawyers are evaluated for professionalism and tested for expertise.

Board certification evaluates attorneys' special knowledge, skills and proficiency in various areas of law, professionalism and ethics in practice. About 4,600 of Florida's 99,000 lawyers have earned board certification. Florida offers 24 specialty areas for board certification, more than any other state.

"Board certification is one of the highest recognitions a lawyer in Florida can receive," said Florida Bar President Gregory Coleman. "The very difficult testing and extensive background peer review to confirm professional conduct is such a high standard that less than 5 percent of our total membership has achieved this level of recognition. All board-certified attorneys should be extremely proud of their accomplishment."

Board of Legal Specialization and Education Chair Jack Pelzer said board certification is a significant career milestone. "Members of the public may feel confident that when they speak with a board-certified lawyer, they are speaking with an expert in the field," Pelzer said. "Board-certified lawyers are set apart because their expertise and professionalism have been objectively verified through rigorous examination and peer review."

The Florida Bar annually awards board certification in two cycles, effective June 1 and Aug. 1. Board certification is The Florida Bar's highest evaluation of attorneys' competence and experience in one or more of the 24 areas of law approved for certification by the Supreme Court of Florida. Florida Bar board-certified lawyers have demonstrated ability and experience in their fields and professionalism within the legal community.

A lawyer who is a member in good standing of The Florida Bar and who meets the standards prescribed by the state's Supreme Court may become board-certified in one or more of the 24 certification fields. Minimum requirements for certification are listed below; each area of certification may contain higher or additional standards.

- A minimum of five years in law practice.

- Substantial involvement in the field of law for which certification is sought.

- Satisfactory peer review from other lawyers and judges to assess competence in the specialty field as well as character, ethics and professionalism in the practice of law.

- Satisfaction of the certification area's continuing legal education requirements.

- A passing grade on the examination required of all applicants.

AAA: August gas prices hit 4-year low

Special to the Times-Advertiser

Motorists heading to the gas pumps are finding the cheapest August gas prices since 2010. The national average price was $2.74 on Aug. 1. Average prices on Aug. 1 were $3.52 in 2012 and $3.71 in 2011. The current average of $3.50 is 3 cents cheaper than the week before, and the discount at the pump should continue in the near future.

"Typically, gasoline prices fluctuate in July and August, but for the most part, prices have steadily declined," said Mark Jenkins, AAA spokesman. "Oil prices decreased

CURRENT AND PAST PRICE AVERAGES
Regular unleaded gasoline
	SUNDAY	SATURDAY	WEEK AGO	MONTH AGO	YEAR AGO
National	$3.504	$3.510	$3.527	$3.667	$3.621
Florida	$3.414	$3.420	$3.455	$3.608	$3.579
Georgia	$3.396	$3.402	$3.434	$3.581	$3.480
Tennessee	$3.271	$3.275	$3.307	$3.455	$3.390 dramatically this week, so there's no reason gas prices should go up any time soon. In fact, if these conditions continue, prices could eventually slip below $3 a gallon by the end of the year. However, unexpected refinery outages, a spike in oil prices or the mere threat of a hurricane in the Gulf of Mexico could cause gas prices to rise."

Oil prices plummeted in late July. The price for a barrel of WTI settled at 97.88 on the NYMEX on Aug. 1, $4.21 compared to the week before. That was the biggest weekly decline in seven months and the lowest settlement since February. Refineries are running at record levels, and there is more than enough gasoline in the market, which has helped bring down prices despite multiple overseas conflicts.

The current average price for a gallon of regular unleaded in Florida is $3.41. That is the cheapest price since February. In Georgia, the average price of $3.40, the cheapest price since March. Tennessee's average price of $3.27 is also the cheapest since March.

STRIKE UP THE (HCHS) BAND

Special to Extra

The Holmes County High School (HCHS) Blue Pride Band began its annual summer band camp Tuesday, July 29, camp will wrap up Friday, Aug. 15. Students will brave the summer heat doing marching drills and are spending many hours practicing new music and learning the field show for the 2014 marching season.

The band is under the direction of Zachary Dobos, a graduate of Troy University. Mr. Dobos teaches at HCHS as well as Bonifay Middle School daily. He starts his day with beginning and advanced band classes at BMS and ends the day with the Blue Pride at HCHS. The band is under the field direction of Drum Major Bethany Jones. The Blue Pride continues to grow and will take the field this fall with 52 members. The increasing number of first time marchers, commonly referred to as "Rookies", will begin by learning basic marching fundamentals in addition to the music. Learning to march while playing music is not so easy when you realize most of them have only played while sitting down in the band room.

The HCHS Blue Pride Band's show will have a magical theme this year with music from the popular movies "Pirates of the Caribbean," "Star Wars," "Harry Potter," and "Lord of the Rings."

The band would like to invite the community to come out and show its support during half time shows for the upcoming football season as well as the marching festivals the band performs in. The band's full calendar of events as well as links to the band's videos, photos, Facebook Page and Twitter feed can be found at www.hchsbluepride.com.

ENTERPRISE, Ala. — You may remember the name Daniel Evans as the latest upcoming local Christian rap artist.

Evans, from Chancellor, Ala., is described as a “promising hip-hop artist whose singing roots originated from his local church, Daniel Evans has been singing his praises to God using old-school hip-hop beats combined with modern crunk for that contemporary vibe.”

Evans said he grew up in Fort Walton Beach but now has a home in Chancellor, Ala.

“I started writing songs at a young age, I accepted the Lord at a young age, but always liked rap, so I decided to start writing Christian rap, because I felt that God could use me to reach people through it,” Evans said. “I quit doing it for a while, because I got out of church for a while and got depressed and discouraged because I thought I was a failure to myself, God and others. At one point in time I did not thank God could still use me I was inspired to write this song called, also the title to my album, Nothing Going to Stop Me, and started back writing because my Dad said ‘you use to rap, and you use to tell people about The

Upcoming local Christian rap artist Daniel Evans and his mother, Elizabeth Evans.

Lord,’ and that motivated me to start back writing, going back to church, rapping and telling people about the Lord as well as getting back in the studio and record.”

He said the thing that keeps him going is his mother and his family’s prayers.

“It’s the joy and the happiness I bring all my family and friends when they listen to my music or see me perform,” Evans said. “And it’s the doors God keeps opening for me to get my message out as I’m just His willing vessel, but it also brings me joy to rap and it’s something I love to do.”

Evans has released two new singles, called “Ministry on the Mic” and “God is Your Protector.” He has also self-published a book of poetry called Overcoming Adversity.

“I never believed that I would write a book of poetry when I first started,” Evans said. “I did them for myself, to get me through these rough times in my life. It wasn’t until later that I realized that these poems might help someone else come through their time of darkness and despair, so that they too can overcome their adversities.”

Two Words That Changed My Life

This week is a hallmark in the lives of the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage and me. Forty-three years ago this week, we began a journey that has just become better with each year. That is the benefit of marrying up.

DR. JAMES L. SNYDER

like that. I do not play the lottery so I could not have won the lottery. I could not think of anything I did yesterday that would cause all of this congratulatory remarks in my direction.

Finally, when I had about as much as I could take, I asked somebody, "What is everybody congratulating me for?"

The person that I queried looked at me, broke out in laughter and said, "Man, you got to be kidding!" Then he turned around, walking away laughing every step of the way.

I went to my class, found my seat and got situated then one of the young ladies passed by, patted me on the shoulder and said, "I am so happy for you and I think it is a wonderful thing. And I know you are going to be happy for the rest of your life."

Well, I had had it. I looked at her and very firmly said, "What are you so happy about?"

"Your wedding," she said laughing, "you're getting married."

"Oh," I said, nodding my head. "Thank you very much."

The Bible has a lot to say about marriage and husbands and wives. "Therefore as the church is subject unto Christ, so let the wives be to their own husbands in every thing. Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ also loved the church, and gave himself for it" (Ephesians 5:24-25).

Then what she said dawned on me. I looked at her and said, "I'm getting what?"

"Silly boy," she said, laughing hysterically, "it's all over campus so it must be true."

I then had to think about this situation I was in. Everybody on the campus knew I was getting married, except me. Was I still sleeping? Was this just a dream I am having?

I began to think about the events the preceding evening, and remembered a little conversation I had with the girl I was now supposed to be getting married to. In the course of our conversation, as I remembered it at the time, she said something to the effect, "Wouldn't it be great to get married."

As I recalled the conversation, I nodded my head and said something to the effect, "Yea, I guess it would be." That was the end of the conversation as far as I was concerned, but the beginning of an ongoing conversation as far as someone else was concerned.

Why is it that the groom-to-be is always the last one to know?

Then I asked one of the girls in the hallway, "When am I getting married?" At the time, I did not have the foggiest idea.

She turned away laughing and muttering to herself something to the effect that I had a really good sense of humor. Believe me, I was not laughing.

As it turned out, me and the young lady I was to be married to, were engaged to be married and, I do not want to pry into this point very much, the wedding dress already purchased."

As it turned out, it was the best thing that ever happened to me. Looking back over life, most of the good things that have happened to me were never of my doing. I'm convinced that is the way God works. If you are doing what you want to do, you are probably not doing what God wants you to do. At least I have developed that philosophy to this point of my life.

Some things in life I am rather good at planning, a wedding not being one of them; not even close.

After all these years, I can still remember that wonderful day when the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage and I were united in holy matrimony. Our wedding was rather simple and the focus point of the wedding was the wedding vows. When I said, "I do" it clinched the deal, and I was married and I have been doing it ever since.

I have said many words in my life, and written thousands and thousands of words, but the most important words that have changed my life were those words, "I do."

The Bible has a lot to say about marriage and husbands and wives. "Therefore as the church is subject unto Christ, so let the wives be to their own husbands in every thing. Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ also loved the church, and gave himself for it" (Ephesians 5:24-25).

There are some empty words that we use every day but every once in a while we say a word or two that fills our life with joy unspeakable and full of glory.

The Rev. James L. Snyder is pastor of the Family of God Fellowship, PO Box 831313, Ocala, FL 34483. He lives with his wife, Martha, in Silver Springs Shores. Call him at 1-866-552-2543 or email jamessnyder2@att.net. His website is www.jamessnyderministries.com.

Anal gland disease common in pets

The anal glands in a dog or cat are residual scent marking organs, responsible for the production of an odor that identifies the individual and marks his stool to establish territory. Similar to the glands of a skunk, the anal glands are typically expelled when the animal defecates, or sometimes when they feel stressed or relaxed. Anal gland disease can include one of several medical issues involving the anal glands.

"The most common form of anal gland disease is impaction, where the contents are not expelled normally," said Dr. Alison Diesel, lecturer in dermatology at the Texas A&M College of Veterinary Medicine & Biomedical Sciences. "In this situation, the animal may require assistance from a veterinarian, veterinary technician, groomer, or owner to have the anal glands expressed."

PET TALK

Other medical conditions of the anal gland include infections, abscesses, or even cancer.

One of the most recognizable symptoms of anal gland disease is when the animal "scoots," or drags their hind end on the carpet, grass, or other surface. Malodor and frequent licking also are good indicators. "If an infection, abscess or cancer is the cause of disease, exudate may be noted from the anal gland or tissue surrounding the anus," Diesel said.

Depending on the particular disease, treatment options are highly variable. If you are concerned that your dog or cat might have anal gland disease, you should schedule an appointment with your pet's veterinarian to have them evaluated and discuss recommendations for the particular cause of disease.

"For impaction, periodic manual expression of the anal gland contents may be sufficient," Diesel said. "Sometimes, changes in diet may help with the disease, or at least from expression being required quite as frequently."

If it is discovered to be cancer, then surgery, chemotherapy, or radiation therapy may be the appropriate treatment, depending on the specific type of cancer.

"For infections and abscesses, having the area clipped and cleaned by a veterinarian is generally helpful," Diesel said. "Additional medication such as antibiotics (either oral medications, or infused into the anal gland) may be required."

In general, there is no way to prevent anal gland disease in your pets, aside from having them surgically removed. However, this is not typically recommended, as it is a bit aggressive for an animal that isn't showing signs of anal gland disease. "Additionally, there is the potential for complications associated with the surgery including fecal incontinence, stricture formation (leading to potentially severe constipation), or poor wound healing," Diesel said. "As well, this would not prevent medical problems which may mimic anal gland disease including parasites, allergies, or other types of cancer."

Although anal gland disease is a fairly common pet health problem, it is recommended that you consult with your veterinarian to establish the safest and most effective treatment method available for your pet.
