Jaws of life used to extract driver

No serious injuries reported

Staff Report

ESTO - No serious injuries were reported after one person was pulled from her car with the jaws of life.

In a statement last week, Esto Fire and Rescue reported a car was hit by a semi-truck shortly after 10 a.m. May 22 at the intersection of Highway 2 and 79.

The impact caused the car to spin of course into a store parking lot and into a concrete pole.

The driver, who was not named in the release, was trapped in the front seat and extracted out of the vehicle within two minutes, according to the statement.

HCPL to host book signing

Book signing for Nancy Springer-Enola Holmes mysteries author

BONIFAY - The Holmes County Public Library will be hosting a book signing for local author Nancy Springer.

Springer, who is an internationally renowned mystery writer, as well as the composer of the Enola Holmes series. The series is set to be made into a movie - or a series of movies - produced by and starring Millie Bobby Brown, a star of the Netflix series "Stranger Things."

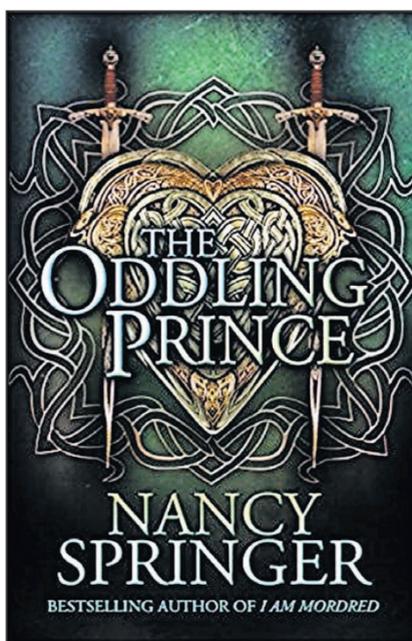

The author's newest book, "The Oddling Prince", was just released earlier this month. Springer first released the series Books of Isle in 1977 in the genre of fantasy and over the course of the years moved into mysteries, children's books and young adult literature. Prince, she says goes back to her earliest novels.

"This book is a flashback to my very earliest fantasy novels," said Springer. "I was away from that forum for a long time. This is a late in life book, I am writing for the joy of it."

The story, set in Scotland, is about two brothers Aric and Albaric and their love and loyalty to each other and how it withstands war and hatred.

Springer says Prince goes back to her earlier works where she had two heroes in her stories.

"This book has two heroes and the heart on the cover is like the love that binds them together," said Springer.

Beginning with her first novel in 1977, Springer has written over 55 books, won numerous awards and is an international best seller.

Springer came full circle with her writing when she ventured back into fantasy with "The Oddling Prince."

The Oddling Prince was included in Publisher's Weekly Top 10 list of science/fiction/fantasy/horror for Spring 2018.

A book signing for the book will be held from 11 a.m. until 1 p.m. on June 5 at the Holmes County Public Library.

Juveniles charged in Bonifay burglaries

Staff Report

BONIFAY - Two Bonifay juveniles have been charged for breaking into a school.

Holmes County Sheriff's Office made contact with the Bonifay Police Department during the course of investigating a missing juvenile last week, a HCSO news release stated. The BPD officer advised that the missing juvenile, along with a 14-year-old female juvenile, were believed to have broken into Holmes County High School earlier that same morning. Interviews with the teens revealed that they were responsible for several other burglaries in the city and county, the release stated. The teens were charged with several counts of burglary and criminal mischief by both Bonifay Police Department and Holmes County Sheriff's Office. More individuals are also believed to have been involved with some of the burglaries, and charges against additional subjects are forthcoming, the release stated.

Holmes County Sheriff John Tate said in the release he appreciates the investigative partnership with the Bonifay Police Department that led to the solving of the burglaries.

"This is a fluid example of two agencies working together to solve crimes in both jurisdictions," Sheriff Tate said.

Counties to develop policy for indigent dead

By Diane M. Robinson

WASHINGTON AND HOLMES COUNTIES - When people die most people most have a family that loves them and will have a funeral for them, but what happens when there is no one to take care of a person?

By Florida Statute 406.50 it is the county's responsibility to dispose of the person's remains but that it where it starts to get hazy. Nonetheless, both Washington and Holmes Counties are expected to have procedures in place by the end of the year.

Statutes for the most part lay out the requirements a

Should the anatomical board not accept the remains then it is up to the board of county commissioners to arrange for burial or cremation. The county commission may by law set up policies and procedures for final disposition of unclaimed remains.

county must follow down to the amount that is to be budgeted but there are many gray areas in this particular statute.

Even the definition of indigent is unclear.

The statute states that any unclaimed remains are to be reported to anatomical board unless they are decomposed or mutilated by wounds, an autopsy has been performed, they contain a contagious disease or are a veteran.

Should the anatomical board not accept the remains then it is up to the board of county commissioners to arrange for burial or cremation. The county commission may by law set up policies and procedures for final disposition of unclaimed remains.

Neither Washington or Holmes Counties have such policies in place currently due to not having a large demand for these types of services.

There have been less than two cases in each county in as many years.

Washington County Administrator Jeff Massey says it is a priority for the county to set up a procedure in the matter.

"It is important that we develop a program that works best for our county," said Massey. "We are working toward developing a policy and procedure to bring to the board for approval for the future."

Holmes County Coordinator Joey Marsh echoed that sentiment.

"This has been on the radar for several months now," said Marsh. "We are now to the point where we have to come up with a procedure for handling this when it comes up." Both counties however recognize that the definition of indigent is a very gray area and the statute does not clearly define it.

"A person who has a next of kin that can claim them is not indigent," said Massey.

"Indigent in regards to health care has been defined as below the poverty level," said Marsh. "But when talking about disposal of remains, it is very unclear."

In most cases, counties will make use of funeral homes in their jurisdiction for disposal of the unclaimed remains by cremation.

The remains are kept for a length of time in the case that a family member comes forward to claim their person.

The semi-truck came to a rest in the ExpressLane parking lot, slamming against the back corner of the store.

No serious injuries were reported. Esto Fire officials stated the wreck occurred after the first vehicle ran a stop sign while traveling westbound on Highway 2.

The semi-truck, which was traveling north, had attempted to avoid hitting the car but still ended up hitting the back drivers side door, sending the car spinning into the store parking lot.

Tourism boost sought after Alberto blows through

By Jim Turner
News Service Florida

TALLAHASSEE — As winds and rains let up from Subtropical Storm Alberto, Florida officials Tuesday were quickly spinning ways to draw tourists to areas that may have missed out on Memorial Day crowds.

State Chief Financial Officer Jimmy Patronis and Gov. Rick Scott, during an appearance at the Walton County Emergency Operations Center in DeFuniak Springs, expressed a need for Visit Florida, the state's public-private tourism arm, to emulate post-Hurricane Irma promotional efforts for the Panhandle and other parts of the state.

"This weekend should have really been the second busiest weekend of the whole year," said Patronis, whose family runs Capt. Anderson's Restaurant in Panama City. "We, the restaurant, we did 40 percent of what we should have done." Scott said he would call Visit Florida President and CEO Ken Lawson. But before the half-hour appearance at the emergency operations center was complete, Lawson called Patronis, who handed the phone to Scott.

"The Legislature gave us $76 million again this year (for Visit Florida), and part of that money is to work on when we have something like this, to let people know we're back open for business," Scott told reporters after the appearance. "A lot of people are very dependent on tourism here. And a lot of people are getting paid just based on how many tourists show that day. They're tied to tips and things like that. So, we have to get the tourists back."

Stephen Lawson, a spokesman for Visit Florida who is unrelated to Ken Lawson, said even though there was little on social media from Florida travelers about Alberto, steps are being taken "in an abundance of caution" to show locations across the Panhandle remain unfazed by the storm.

"We'll be spotlighting the Panhandle across our social channels later this week to show that they are 100 percent open for business," Lawson said.

A Facebook live event will also be held from Sandestin later in the week.

The promotional effort won't require a special ad campaign similar to the $5 million spent to highlight the Florida Keys after Irma.

Otherwise, officials called Alberto a good tune-up for the six-month Atlantic hurricane season, which begins Friday.

Few roads were impacted by flooding, with Panhandle officials telling Scott that almost all roads, bridges and beaches were open Tuesday morning. Officials were waiting to see total amounts of rain that Alberto dumps into rivers in Alabama.

The storm also appeared to cause relatively few power outages. At 3 p.m. Monday, 9,861 electricity customer accounts in the state were without power, according to the Florida State Emergency Response Team. That total indicates 99.91 percent of all power customers had electricity.

By 9 a.m. Tuesday, just over 1,000 accounts had not been restored.

Scott noted that since Hurricane Hermine hit the Big Bend, including Tallahassee, in August 2016, utilities have done a better job working together to restore power outages.

74-year-old found guilty in shooting

Jury finds Danny Underwood not guilty of aggravated battery charge

By Jacqueline Bostick

CHIPLEY — A jury has found Danny Underwood guilty of a number of charges stemming from the Sept. 4 shooting last year that left a local 19-year-old man with presumably lifelong health complications.

However, the jury found the 74-year-old not guilty of two of the seven charges — including aggravated battery on the victim, Walter Gage Hallman.

"I'm just glad there's a little closure behind it all," said Walt Hallman, Gage's father. "But it is a little bit disappointing that the most important count, he was found not guilty on."

The conviction for the charge would have meant Underwood would have had to intentionally or knowingly caused great bodily harm, permanent disability or permanent disfigurement to Gage; or, used a deadly weapon.

The jury charged him with two counts of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon without intent to kill and three charges of shooting into an occupied vehicle.

Attorneys for either side of the case were not immediately available Tuesday morning and midday. It was not immediately clear how many years each conviction held.

Day one of the two-day trial was wrought with State Attorney Shalla Jefcoat showing physical evidence of the crime scene and calling nine witnesses to testify to the events as they unfolded. She described Underwood and his wife Delores Swineburg as "nosey neighbors" who were constantly anxious to report whatever was going on at their neighbor's Gap Boulevard property in Sunny Hills.

"Everything is a big deal to Mrs. Swinesburg," Jefcoat told jurors, saying her incessant need to report information about what's happening at her neighbor's property was "not reasonable or prudent in any way."

The Sept. 4 conflict began to heighten when Swineburg called law enforcement on her neighbors because she had heard gunshots — something she admitted to hearing on a somewhat normal basis due to common sport shooting in her neighborhood. According to police, she had called on the same neighbors at least twice before on other occasions.

Defense Attorney Kerry Adkinson responded with depictions of an overly dramatic, trouble-seeking mother Angela Joyner and daughter Cheyenne Joyner, Gage's girlfriend — and Underwood as an elderly man who wanted to stand his ground and protect his elderly wife Swinesburg from possibly being physically overpowered by

Threats made against Bethlehem School employee

By Staff Report

BETHLEHEM — Threats to an unspecified faculty member of Bethlehem School as well as employees at the Geneva, Alabama based company Reliable Metals were reported to the Holmes County Sheriff's Office from a third party.

Deputies then made contact with the subject, who denied making the statements; however due to some alarming Facebook posts made by the subject and other concerns, he was detained and taken in for involuntary evaluation as outlined under Florida statutes.

Holmes County Sheriff's Office then notified Bethlehem School administration and Geneva County Sheriff's Office of the incident.

Additional deputies will be present on Bethlehem School campus out of caution.

The investigation is still ongoing.

Remember the fallen

Memorial Day is the traditional, if unofficial, start of summer. For most, it's a time to relax — or worry about sub tropical storms as was this case this year.

But Monday also should have been a time to reflect — on the sacrifices that secured our freedoms and made such opportunities for leisure possible. Although Memorial Day pays tribute to those who died in service to their country, in recent years it has morphed into a kind of second Veterans Day, honoring those who have served, and are serving. And that's OK. They deserve to be thanked beyond one day in November.

But if storm worries and family responsibilities stopped you from setting aside a few moments Monday to meditate on those who didn't return home, or who arrived in a flag-draped casket, it is never too late and they deserve it.

Memorial Day initially was established to honor the Union dead of the Civil War (the former Confederate states set aside a separate day in remembrance of their fallen soldiers). After World War I, it was expanded to include all of America's war deaths, which total more than 650,000.

America's last surviving World War I veteran died in 2011. According to the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs, of the 16 million Americans who served during World War II, fewer than 560,000 are alive today, and we are losing 362 each day. Please join them in honoring the 405,399 Americans who died in service from 1941-45, as well as those veterans who remain with us.

Observe a moment of silence for the 36,516 killed in Korea, and the 58,209 who died in Vietnam.

This year marks the 50th anniversary of bloodiest year of the Vietnam War: 16,529 Americans were killed in 1968.

More recently, more than 6,700 American servicemen and women have died in Afghanistan and Iraq since 2001.

The Military Times has a website, Honor the Fallen, that documents each and every death in those theaters. Click on those faces. Study them. So many exhibit youth, enthusiasm and confidence.

They aren't cold statistics. They are individuals, each with a story.

If you didn't make it to one of the Memorial Day ceremonies held at area and cemeteries and pay public tribute to the fallen, please at least take a private moment to solemnly contemplate on the tremendous human cost of the nation's wars and the dedication to service of those who fought and died. Discuss the meaning of the holiday with your children, so they can understand and appreciate what it took to secure these blessings that we as Americans enjoy.

From Yorktown to Gettysburg, the Marne to Guadalcanal and the Ardennes Forest, Inchon to Khe Sanh to Fallujah, the nation should be eternally grateful for those who sacrificed — not just on Memorial Day, but every day.

I have never heard anyone say, back when people actually scraped potatoes, that they just loved to scrape those little red orbs which love above all to stain your fingers a dirty brown. When I was growing up on the farm, Valentine's day was not a day to exchange lacey red and white cards containing romantic words. It was a day to plant seed potatoes which we called Irish potatoes to distinguish them from sweet potatoes. (If the weather was too wet and cold for the soil to have been prepared, not to worry. The proper seasoning would arrive soon.) The seed potatoes had already been cut in chunks, a job which our Dad reserved for himself, but we liked to sit at his feet as he performed this task. It was important to get at least one good eye per cube of potato and no one could do that as successfully as he did. Some people would cut off skimpy pieces of potato containing the eyes and reserve the remainder to cook and eat for themselves. Not at our house. Daddy believed in the principle of sowing and reaping, to him that sows sparingly shall reap sparingly. So the whole potato was cut up and used for seed. Potatoes are one of the earliest crops harvested in the spring along with green beans and squash. Ours were usually dug with a shovel, a few hills at a time to allow the other plants to continue to grow. No scratching underneath a plant for a mess and allowing the remainder to grow. Daddy didn't believe in doing it that way. When they had ceased to grow and the ground was well cracked around the plants, then it was time to plow them all up. That was the time where we children came in as we crawled along the plowed row picking up the potatoes and placing them in short hampers to be toted to the barn where they'd be spread on dry straw to dry out. This was when potato wars broke out as Daddy left us in the potato field to work unsupervised. That was not the end of my involvement with the potato crop, however. Every day, it seemed to me, I was assigned to take a bucket, go to the barn and get enough new potatoes for the noon meal. First I had to wash them well; then, I'd cover them with clean water in a shallow pan and begin the unpleasant task of scraping. A short paring knife was the best instrument for this hateful job. I liked the way my Mama cooked them, boiled in salty water till tender. Then, she would drain most of the water, add butter and cover with fresh milk or cream, and put them on the back of the wood-burning range to stay warm until serving time. We usually had green beans with hambone, stewed squash and onions and a big baker of pone cornbread. And Sweet Tea. That was our main menu for the remainder of the spring until the peas and corn came in. Most people today have learned to eat new potatoes with the skins on and we do too. My children liked it when I cooked a boiler of the little tiny ones. They called them marble taters. Some people like to cook them in the pot with green beans, with or without the skins. I really prefer to have them scraped and cooked like my Mama did them, but I seldom fix them that way as today's fast pace doesn't allow time for such extravagance. Too, the scraping is only possible when the potatoes first come out of the ground. As they dry the skins don't come off easily and then peeling is required or cook with the skins on. With genetic engineering, maybe they will soon develop a potato that is skinless. Or perhaps they already have. Thanks to our son Hiram for new potatoes, beans and squash. Since we set out to be blueberry growers, our gardening has fallen by the wayside. We look forward to our normal summer menu of field peas, genetically engineered sweet corn that stays sweet for days instead of hours, fried and boiled okra, corn bread, and home-grown tomatoes. And Sweet Tea. A bit of bleach or a scrub with a lemon rind will rid your fingers of the stains caused by new potato scraping.

Vacationers of a certain age

My family has just finished an Orlando-area vacation, and while my wife is several years younger than I, it's more blindingly obvious than ever that I'm at an awkward age as a tourist. I'm in that "no man's land" between pushing a stroller and riding a motorized cart, between ringing the arcade bell with a hammer and employing a ball peen hammer to open a child-proof pill bottle. I don't need oxygen tanks or pacemakers, but neither am I one of those insufferable young adults who always sets off theme park metal detectors even without keys and pocket knives. ("Ha ha! It's just my ABS OF STEEL! Oops, I'd better put them to use. My slender blushing bride accidentally passed between the molecules of the glass enclosure of the snake exhibit. Guess she was a little light-headed because we've already made love 36 times since we arrived at the shuttle station. Ha ha.") Tourist-mecca restaurants are especially adept at reminding me of the tightrope I walk. The harsh lighting in the bathroom makes me look half-past Tutankhamun, but at most eateries I'm still two to seven years away from being qualified to sit at the Big Kids Table and get a senior discount. Speaking of the lighting, I no longer feel compelled to buy stuffed animals twice the size of my son; but I do find myself buying bottles of sunscreen twice the size of my FIRST CAR. Unlike shortsighted tourists 20 or 30 years my junior, I don't automatically scoop up every single overpriced souvenir that catches my eye. Older and wiser, I just want to find a good wholesale lumber yard on my travels, so I can purchase a cheap two-by-four to prop up my sagging bookshelf of "De-clutter Your Home" books. I'm spry enough that the swing music played at Disney's Hollywood Studios was already relegated to OLDIES stations when I was in college; but I'm not as young as the baggy-pantsed whippersnappers who are shocked that the lyrics of one Johnny Mercer song aren't, "You've got to accentuate the positive/Eliminate the negative/Latch onto the affirmative/And kill any cop who harasses you for slapping your (expletive deleted) and her sister!" At my age, "girl watching" now consists of observing standard-issue 4-year-old tykes handle the roller coasters with a lot less screaming and nausea than I do. I wish I could hang around to see how strong their stomachs are when they finally draw their first Social Security check! Tourists older and younger than me may grab theme-park 3-D glasses with glee, but my heart-stopping first impulse is "Does my company vision plan cover this?" If my car breaks down on the road, I can't quite give a mechanic the old "fixed income" story. And somehow "I'll have to suck up to my boss and score some more overtime" doesn't have quite the same ring. I'm old enough to have my own mortgage paid, but young enough to slave at helping a motel conglomerate pay off its indebtedness.

One still missing in Maryland flooding

By David McFadden
The Associated Press

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. — One man remained missing after flash flooding tore down historic Main Street in Ellicott City, Maryland, and left a community heartbroken at seeing severe damage less than two years after another devastating flood.

Howard County Executive Allan Kittleman said Monday morning that his priorities are finding the missing man and assessing the condition of buildings that house shops, restaurants and families.

"We're certainly making every effort to locate that individual," he said.

Howard County police identified him Monday as 39-year-old Severn resident Eddison Hermond, an active member of the Army National Guard.

Hermond was reported missing to police about 12:30 a.m. Monday, but has not been seen since about 5:20 p.m. at the height of the flooding,

Residents gather by a bridge Monday to look at cars left crumpled in one of the tributaries of the Patapsco River that burst its banks as it channeled through historic Main Street in Ellicott City, Md. when raging, brown waters ripped through the town.

The area remained blocked off Monday, even to residents and business owners, as Kittleman surveyed the debris.

"If you look at the devastation and the damage, I would certainly say it's worse than 2016," he said. "We've had areas that were not even damaged at all two years ago terribly damaged this time."

At a news conference Sunday night, Kittleman and Gov. Larry Hogan vowed to help people rebuild their lives again.

"We will be there for them as we were in 2016," Kittleman said.

Hogan promised "every bit of assistance we possibly can."

"They say this is a once every 1,000-year flood and we've had two of them in two years," Hogan said.

Sunday's flooding swept away parked cars in the city, which sits along the west bank of the Patapsco River, about 13 miles (20 kilometers) west of Baltimore.

Jessica Ur, a server at Pure Wine Cafe on the city's Main Street, told The Baltimore Sun that she watched as gushing waters swept three or four parked cars down the street.

"It's significantly higher than it was before," she told the newspaper, comparing the floodwaters to those of 2016.

Mike Muccilli, a meteorologist with the National Weather Service in Sterling, Virginia, said Sunday it was too early to make comparisons between the two floods. But he said both were devastating. In the July 2016 storm, Ellicott City received 6.6 inches (17 centimeters) of rain over a two- to three-hour period. On Sunday, the community received nearly 8 inches (20.32 centimeters) of rain over a six-hour period, but most of it fell during an intense, three-hour period, Muccilli said.

"In a normal heavy rain event, you wouldn't see this amount of flooding, where you see cars floating down the road," Muccilli said. "This was a true flash flood."

Some people reported hearing a blaring alarm during the flooding. Others said they gathered in the second story of a building and anxiously watched the seething waters. One sight during the flood: a handmade, white flag hung from an upper story of a Main Street building bearing the letters SOS.

"If you are trapped, we are coming," the Howard County Department of Fire and Rescue Services tweeted at one point.

Ellicott City has been rebuilding since the 2016 flooding damaged and destroyed businesses. Local officials recently said 96 percent of the businesses were back in operation and more than 20 new businesses had again opened in the Main Street area. Just two weeks ago, Hogan announced that the Federal Emergency Management Agency had awarded the state and county more than $1 million to pay for projects aimed at reducing the flood risk in areas around Main Street.

the mother and daughter during the roadway argument.

He noted several times, after leaving their residents, the Joyners, in separate vehicles, had stopped in front of the Underwood and Swinesburg property, exited their vehicles to argue with Swinesburg, who was at or near the roadway by her property.

"(Underwood) was trying to get them people away from his wife," Adkinson told jurors in his closing statement, noting the shots were an effort to "scare" off the Joyners.

"He was acting in self defense; he is not guilty," he later said.

Jefcoat responded in her closing statement, saying, still, Underwood reacted unreasonably.

"You can't say just because they're elderly, they can shoot at anyone that yells at them or anybody that yells at his wife, he can go out there and shoot at them," she said moments later. "That is not what the law states."

Some undisputed facts of the case included: there was a verbal altercation between Angela and Cheyenne Joyner, and Swinesbug, Underwood did shoot his .22 revolver resulting in Gage Hallman being hit, and Gage's role in the altercation: he had tried to diffuse the conflict by verbally and physically guiding the Joyner ladies back to their vehicles.

All-in-all, witness testimonies and a recorded statement of simple remorse by Underwood, proved Gage had been a near bystander in the conflict and was unfortunately caught in the crossfire.

The shooting resulted in him being life flighted to the hospital on that Sept. 4 day.

May 7 was his third surgery, in which a colostomy bag was removed. According to the surgeon's testimony, the projectile went through Gage's rectum and bladder and was centimeters away from hitting a major artery. He will be susceptible to hernias throughout his life.

"Him being such a good hearted person is what got him in that bind," Hallman said, noting his son had upheld a positive outlook throughout the unfolding of the case.

"Ultimately, (Underwood's) family is going to lose a grandfather, a dad — I hate it for his family also," he added. "There's nothing good going to come out of all of this.

I feel for all the people involved in it."

The Hallmans will seek a civil suit due to the life-long health complications Gage will face that resulted out of the conflict.

With the Viagra Patent About to Expire, a New Sex Pill Takes the Spotlight

A patented pill costing less than $1 a dose stands to help millions of men with failing sex lives; no prescription will be required

By Ray Wilson
Associated Health Press

AHP— A new sex pill is set to take the spotlight with the Viagra patent about to expire. But unlike the former, it won't require a prescription and is priced just under a $1 a dose.

The new pill called Vesele is part of a new class of performance enhancers for men, which work instantaneously on the body and mind triggering arousal and firmer, harder erections.

Formulated with a special compound known as an "accelerator", Vesele can transport its active ingredients faster and more efficiently into the blood stream, where it begins to work its magic.

The patented ingredient blend initiates a process known as vasodilation, which causes arteries and vessels throughout the body to expand. This allows blood to flow directly to penis and genitals, resulting in harder erections which last longer. Cialis and Viagra are based around a similar concept.

But what makes Vesele so remarkable, and what these other sex pills can't do, is that also directs a small portion of this blood flow to the brain, which creates feelings of intense arousal. In laymen's terms, users become incredibly excited and turned on.

This is why the makers of Vesele say their pill has worked so effectively in clinical trials. It stimulates the two most important organs for great sex, the penis and the brain.

The Brain Erection Connection

Until now, medical researchers did not fully understand the brain-erection connection. It has now been made clear with Vesele. When both are supplied with a constant blood flow, men are harder and firmer for longer... and have unbelievable sex drives.

"Most of the research and treatment methods for men's sexual failures have focused on physiological factors and have neglected the emotional ones. For the leading sex drugs to work, like Cialis and Viagra, you need visual stimulation" explains Dr. Henry Esber, the creator of Vesele.

"And although they work for some men, the majority experience absolutely no fulfillment during sex.

According to research published by the National Institute of Health, 50% of men taking these drugs stop responding or can't tolerate their side effects... and on top of that they spend $50 per pill and it doesn't even work half the time.

This is what makes Vesele so different and effective. It floods the blood stream with key ingredients which cause arteries all over the body to expand. The patented accelerator speeds up this process even more.

The result is a rush of blood flow to the penis and brain, helping to create an impressive erec-

Expiring Patent Opens the Door to a New Sex Pill: Vesele is a new pill that cost just $1 a dose does not require a prescription. It works on both body and mind to increase arousal and erection hardness.

tion and a surging desire for sex. Often, this is all men need to get going. And when taken regularly, many men say they are energized and aroused all day."

Great Sex At Any Age

With the conclusion of their latest human clinical use survey trial, Dr. Esber and his team are now offering Vesele in the US. And regardless of the market, its sales are exploding.

Men across the country are eager to get their hands on the new pill and according to the research, they should be.

In the trial above, as compared to baseline, men taking Vesele saw a staggering 85% improvement in erection hardness over a four-month period. Their erections also lasted twice as long.

These same men also experienced an astounding 82% increase in the desire for sex (libido/sex drive) and an even greater improvement in overall satisfaction and ability to satisfy their partners.

Many men taking Vesele described feeling horny and aroused through the day. The anticipation before sex was amazing. They were also easily turned on. Their moods were more upbeat and positive, too.

Faster Absorption into the Blood Stream

Vesele is made up of three specialized ingredients: two clinical strength vasodilators and a patented absorption enhancer often called an accelerator. According to an enormous amount of clinical data, each is very safe.

Research shows that with age, many men lose their desire and interest in sex. They also struggle to produce an erection firm enough for penetration.

And although there are many theories as to why this happens (including a loss in testosterone) one thing is certain, inadequate blood flow is virtually always to blame. That's why sex drug manufacturers focus on blood flow, it makes your erection hard.

But what's more surprising, and what these manufacturers have failed to consider, is that lack of blood flow can also kill your sex drive. That's because blood supplies energy for the brain. This energy is required for creating brainwaves that cause excitability and arousal.

Studies show the Vesele stimulates the entire cardiovascular system, including the arteries that lead to both the brain and penis. The extreme concentration of the ingredients combined with the accelerator ensures that this process starts quickly.

The sexual benefits of Vesele are also multiplied as its ingredients build up in the system over time. This is why many men take it every single day.

Recent Studies Show Positive Effects on Women

In the same study referenced throughout, Vesele was also shown to have an amazing (and somewhat surprising) effect on women too. That's because the same arteries and vessels that carry blood and oxygen to the brain and genitals are the same in men and women.

"In our most recent study, women taking Vesele saw a stunning 52% improvement in arousal and sex drive. Perhaps more impressive, they also experienced a 57% improvement in lubrication.

You can imagine why some couples are taking Vesele together. Everything feels better. Everything works better. Everyone performs better. It's truly amazing."

A New Frontier of Non-Prescription Sex Pills

With daily use, Vesele is helping men (and women) restore failing sex lives and overcome sexual letdowns without side effect or expense.

Through a patented absorption enhancer, the Vesele formula hits the bloodstream quickly, resulting in phenomenal improvements in erection firmness and hardness. By boosting blood flow to the brain, users also experience sexual urges and arousal they often haven't felt in years.

Where to Find Vesele

This is the official release of Vesele in Florida. As such, the company is offering a special discounted supply to anyone who calls within the next 48 hours.

A special hotline number and discounted pricing has been created for all Florida residents. Discounts will be available starting today at 6:00AM and will automatically be applied to all callers.

Your Toll-Free Hotline number is 1-800-580-7120 and will only be open for the next 48 hours. Only a limited discounted supply of Vesele is currently available in your region.

SALT LAKE CITY
Senator who freed Holt urges Venezuela dialogue

The chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee is urging engagement with Venezuela's socialist government after he traveled to the South American nation to bring home a Utah man jailed for two years without a trial.

Joshua Holt is scheduled to return to Salt Lake City on Monday night after receiving medical care and visiting President Donald Trump in Washington. He was released over the weekend following secret, backchannel negotiations between members of the U.S. Congress and Venezuelan officials.

Republican Sen. Bob Corker of Tennessee traveled to Caracas on Friday to seal the deal with President Nicolas Maduro that would bring Holt home.

MEXICO CITY
Mexico train robberies rise as thieves block tracks

Freight train robbers in Mexico are increasingly blocking tracks or loosening rails to stop trains and steal the contents, causing increasing danger.

The federal rail agency said Monday the number of cargo thefts increased from 532 in the last quarter to 561 in the first quarter of 2018. While that's only a 5 percent increase, thieves are using more dangerous ways to stop the trains.

In the past they often triggered the brakes on freight cars or uncoupled them. But thieves blocked tracks with rocks or vehicles over 250 times, a 42 percent increase. And they loosened or stole rail clips or other pieces of track 222 times, almost triple the fourth quarter total.

REDDING, CALIF.
Flight school employees accused of kidnapping

Two employees of a Northern California flight school were arrested on suspicion of kidnapping a student pilot and trying to send him back to his native China, authorities said.

Jonathan McConkey, general manager at IASCO Flight Training, and his assistant, Kelsi Hoser, were taken into custody May 25 at the municipal airport in Redding, police said.

Tianshu Shi, a trainee in the United States on a student visa, sustained minor injuries, investigators said.

McConkey and Hoser showed up at Shi's apartment the evening of May 24 and told him he was going to be "shipped back" to China the following morning, said Redding Police Corporal Rob Peterson.

NOBLESVILLE, IND.
Teacher who stopped attack says he had to save students

A suburban Indianapolis teacher who was shot while tackling and disarming a student inside his classroom said Monday that his swift decisions "were the only acceptable actions" to save his seventh-grade students.

Seaman is credited with stopping an armed student who entered his classroom at Noblesville West Middle School. Witnesses said the 29-year-old former college football player ran toward bullets as he tackled the student. Seaman was shot three times, according to his brother.

"I want to make it clear that my actions on that day, in my mind, were the only acceptable actions I could have done given the circumstances," Seaman said Monday.

Mefford receives Mayo award

Special to Times Advertiser

On April 25, 1980, Technical Sergeant Joel C. Mayo, a member of the Holmes County High School Class of 1964, was one of ninety servicemen who composed a specially trained commando group that flew into Iran to rescue the fifty-three Americans who had been held hostage by Iran since November 4, 1979.

On that dark evening at an abandoned air strip in Iran, Air Force Technical Sergeant Mayo, at 34 years of age, was one of eight men who gave their lives for their country when they were killed in the aborted rescue attempt.

On June 15, 1988, the Mayo Non-Commissioned Officers Professional Military Education Center at Holloman Air Force Base was named in his honor. Mayo is buried in Arlington National Cemetery. Technical Sergeant Joel C. Mayo is a true American hero.

To honor Joel's memory and to recognize character and service in a graduating senior, the HCHS Class of 1964 initiated the Joel C. Mayo Service Award in 1983. The 2018 winner of the Mayo Award is Dellian Mefford.

Dellian was a member of the JROTC program for four years. During his time in the program he excelled in numerous leadership positions including the battalion's training and operation officer. He helped the Blue Devil Battalion to successfully complete numerous missions and also assisted the JROTC program in maintaining honor unit with distinction during his tenure in JROTC. He has always been respectful and a role model for discipline.

Dellian has enlisted with the United States Army and will be starting basic training on June 6, 2018. The Mayo Award consists of a check for $500, a certificate of recognition and Dellian's name being engraved on the Mayo Award Plaque that resides in the trophy display case at Holmes County High.

The Mini Page

Issue 22, 2018

Founded by Betty Debnam

Next Week:
The 2018 FIFA World Cup™

Rivers Rock

Mini Fact:
June is National Rivers Month.

The Missouri River (the longest river in the U.S., about 2,500 miles long) and the Mississippi (the biggest, with its watershed covering more than a million square miles) are two of the most important rivers in the United States.

Rivers provide us with beauty, recreation, transportation, electricity, wildlife habitat, water for manufacturing and agriculture, and most important, water to drink. What would we do without them?

What is a river?

A river is a naturally flowing body of water. Streams, brooks, creeks and smaller rivers are all part of bigger river systems.

Almost all rivers in the United States flow into the ocean. An exception is the water flowing into the Great Salt Lake in Utah.

Rivers all flow from a high point to the lowest point. Water will always find the easiest way to go downhill.

The importance of water

Most of the Earth's water is in the oceans. But people and most animals can't live by drinking ocean water. It is too salty.

Water that is good to drink is called freshwater. About half of the drinking water in the U.S. comes from rivers. But freshwater from rivers and other sources is in short supply.

Rivers all have relied on rivers to:

- Irrigate crops. In the dry West, about 80 percent of the river water humans use is used to grow food.

- Power machinery that ground wheat into flour or spun plant fiber into cloth.

Crops are watered by irrigation systems.

- Help make virtually all products, from paper to computer chips.
- Make steam to run coal and nuclear power plants and provide water to cool those plants.
- Create electricity. About 10 percent of the electrical power in America is created by dams on rivers.

Although they're not as important to transportation as they once were, rivers still connect cities and help people move goods from one place to another. You might notice when you look at a map that many U.S. cities are built on the banks of major rivers.

The state of our rivers

Experts say only about half of our rivers and streams meet the standards set up by our government to keep our water clean and safe. People are worried about having enough clean water. All over the world, people are working to protect rivers.

Try 'n' Find

Words that remind us of rivers are hidden in this puzzle. Some words are hidden backward or diagonally, and some letters are used twice. See if you can find:

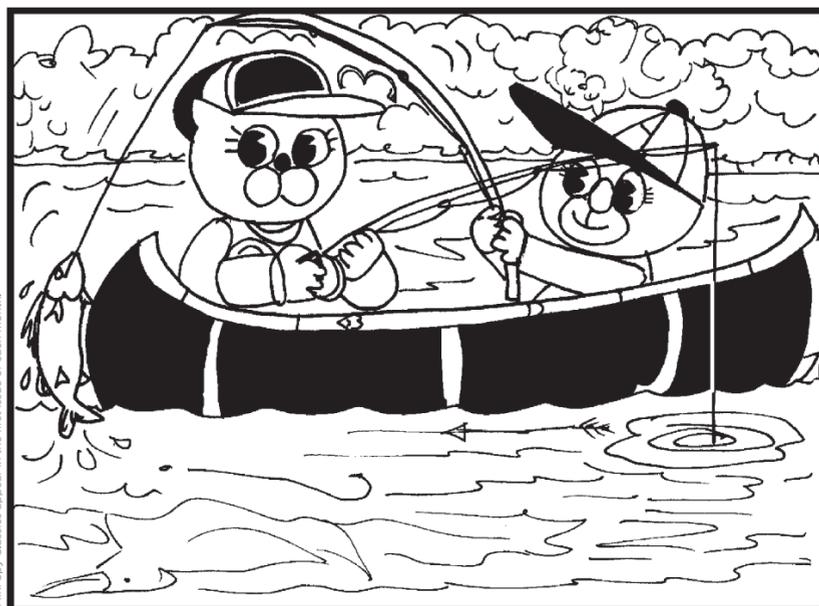

BROOK, CLEAN, CREEK, DAM, DRAIN, DRINK, ELECTRICITY, FLOW, FRESHWATER, HABITAT, IRRIGATE, OCEAN, POWER, PROTECT, RECREATION, RIVER, SAVE, STEAM, STREAM, TRASH, WATERSHED, WILDLIFE.

Caring for rivers

Here are some ways you can help keep our rivers flowing cleanly:

- Volunteer to help clean up trash along a river.
- Save water. Don't leave the faucet running when you do tasks such as brushing your teeth.
- Ask your parents to use non-polluting, safe products for lawn care. Chemicals flow from your lawn into rivers.
- Join your local watershed group.
- Pick up after your dog. Remember, almost everything that goes on the ground ends up in our rivers.

Mini Jokes

Missy: What do you call the little rivers that flow into the Nile?
Mo: Juveniles!

Eco Note

Ponds, lakes, streams and rivers are home to lots of different species that can't live in salty ocean water. There are freshwater ecosystems all over the world. There are many kinds of frogs, fish, insects and microscopic organisms like amoebas. And there are rare species like river dolphins in Asia and South America, otters in North America, beavers in North America and Europe, and platypuses in Australia.

FLASH IN THE PAN

No ordinary omelet

Whipped egg whites, creamy yolks and a spinach nest make this meal unique

By Ari LeVaux
More Content Now

Recently at the farmers market, I scored spinach in many forms. A sack of baby spinach at one stand, sturdy and juicy tiny leaves that were painstakingly harvested from young plants. Elsewhere, I acquired a bundle of spinach plants, bunched together like at the supermarket but with no broken stems, ripped leaves or festering pieces of slime stuck between. I also got some beefy leaves from a crop that was seeded last fall and got an early start this spring.

Every leaf would go in service of an extra-puffy inside-out spinach omelet.

Puffy Inside-Out Spinach Omelet Souffle

- 2 eggs
- Fresh spinach, in bunches or bags
- Bacon, cheese, garlic, mushrooms, herbs, greens — stuff to fry for a filling
- 2 T butter (at least)
- ¼ cup cream (or half-and-half or milk)
- 2 T olive oil (or more)
- Soy sauce (to taste)
- Salt, garlic powder, pepper, other spices

We begin by preparing the stuffing, which doubles as pan crusting, browned bits of goodness that stick to the outside of the omelet. This is the one spot in the recipe where I won't be micromanaging you, so now is your chance to get creative. Bacon, chopped into little pieces, is a classic thing to include here, as it contributes its wonderful fat. If I can get good stuff I use it. Otherwise, butter and mushrooms and some kind of cheese. I like cheese curds because they fry nicely, as do chunks of semi-hard cheese. Chèvre or similar soft goat cheese is amazing in this dish. If using soft cheese, it gets added later.

Fry the browned bits slowly, never burning, adding oil if necessary. Add chunks of garlic if you wish. It will sweeten if cooked slowly. When the browned bits of goodness are nearly done, consider adding greens here. I had some watercress, which added a nice spice to the filling. Another time I used baby bok choy.

While that is going, work on the eggs. The fresher the eggs are, the better. Separate the yolks from the whites of two eggs, storing them in separate bowls. Don't let any yolk or water get into the whites. And if you wash your hands after separating the eggs, make sure they are very dry before proceeding. Using an egg-beater or similar tool beat the whites until they are stiff, with no liquid whites in the bowl. Pour cream into the yolks and beat them with a fork until fully combined. Put both egg bowls in the fridge until it's time for the magic.

When the pan goodies are done, add a little soy sauce and garlic powder, and stir it around to mix and absorb. Remove half from the pan and set aside. Spread around the portion that remains in the pan so it's evenly dispersed. Add butter or oil if the pan isn't very oily, then begin arranging the spinach leaves. All of the stems should be parallel, with about half of the leaf tips facing one direction, and half the other. Those stems will be like rings around the rolled omelet, holding it together. Atop that matrix you can toss in more leaves haphazardly, filling in any gaps, covering pan and crustings.

Set the heat on low-ish, and remove the egg bowls. Using a spoon or rubber spatula, gently fold the egg yolk into the stiff whites. Don't mix completely. Leave areas of pure white, and let the yolks run around and gather at the bottom a little.

Carefully spoon the egg mixture onto the spinach, in a line across the middle of the pan, directly perpendicular to the orientation of the stems. The runny yolk will find its way through the cracks between the leaves and grab onto the pan crustings.

Carefully arrange the goodies in the middle, letting them sink into the eggs. Now is the time to add soft cheese if using, also atop the egg foam.

As it heats it will puff, and soon will get so big you will wonder how to wrangle it. Two spatulas is the way to go. Let it cook about five minutes, during which the spinach will steam the egg from the bottom. Go around the pan with a knife to loosen any egg on the side, and slide a spatula under the omelet to free it from the pan. Grab the other spatula and use them both on the side of the omelet closest to you, folding it in half over the egg. As you try to lift from under with the spatulas it will try to slide away from you. Keep it up, gently, until it hits the side of the pan and is trapped. Turn off the heat and let it sit there, puffy, and serve.

If you suspect the egg is underdone, add ¼ cup water to the pan and cook with the lid on until the water steams off.

Serve it with coffee and some hot sauce.

This omelet puffs up like a souffle and is somehow folded in half. [ARI LEVAUX]

SPEED FREAKS

A few questions we had to ask ourselves

Which driver, not named Kevin Harvick or Kyle Busch, is next to win a Cup race?

GODSPEAK: Give me Ryan Blaney at Pocono. After his car burned up at Charlotte, he will top the charts this week.
KEN'S CALL: I'll stick with the Kyle theme and say Larson, but not until Michigan in two weeks.

Where does "Will Power" rank among all-time best racer names?

GODSPEAK: It is definitely in the top five all-time, but I am forever a Dick Trickle man.
KEN'S CALL: It'd be a better fit for a triathlete, so I'm sticking with the Speed boys — Lake and Scott.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

KYLE BUSCH VS. KEVIN HARVICK:

Busch won the Coca-Cola 600 and Harvick finished dead last in the race. No matter. These are the two drivers who will be feuding for the Cup championship this year.
GODWIN KELLY'S TAKE: Since there was no conflict on the track at Charlotte, we are taking the long view and it is shaping up as a two-man fight from here to Homestead. Both are hard-headed drivers.

GODWIN'S PICKS FOR POCONO

WINNER: Ryan Blaney
REST OF TOP 5: Kurt Busch, Kyle Busch, Kyle Larson, Brad Keselowski
FIRST ONE OUT: David Ragan
DARK HORSE: Paul Menard
DON'T BE SURPRISED IF: Blaney gets his second career victory where he got his first career victory.

CHARLOTTE

THREE THINGS WE LEARNED

1. One-car track

Charlotte Motor Speedway's Coca-Cola 600 proved once again it is a one-car race track. Kyle Busch led 377 of 400 laps and turned this marathon into a snorefest. Charlotte has a recent history of rewarding the car and driver with the right balance. Bring on the ROVAL!

2. Johnson wants win

Jimmie Johnson (no laps led) has gone a year without winning a Cup race. His last win was June 4, 2017 at Dover. He nabbed a fifth-place at Charlotte. "It feels good, but damn I want to win," Johnson said. "I'm tired of running fifth; I'm tired of running whatever it is."

3. Big bang theory

Meanwhile, on the north side of the Ohio River, Danica Patrick closed out her racing career by crashing out of the Indy 500. "I'm not really sure what happened," she said of her single-car spin in Turn 2. "It just seemed to come around." What seemed around, went around.

THREE THINGS TO WATCH

1. Think again

If you think you know who will win Sunday's NASCAR Cup Series race at Pocono Raceway, better think again. Why? Because 11 different drivers have won races in the last 12 Pocono races. The only driver to score two wins in that time frame was Dale Earnhardt Jr., who swept both Poconos in 2014. The list includes retired Jeff Gordon, almost retired Matt Kenseth, plus first-time winners Chris Buescher and Ryan Blaney.

2. Box-checking

Kyle Busch did something Sunday in the Coca-Cola 600 no other driver in NASCAR's modern era had ever done — win at every active race track on the Cup Series. He checked the last box by winning at Charlotte Motor Speedway. Even the great Jeff Gordon could not do that, missing a win at Kentucky. "The first one to check off all the tracks and get it all done," Busch said, quickly adding, "I don't want to go to any new ones."

Ryan Blaney climbs from his burning car at Charlotte. This Sunday he hopes to climb into Victory Lane at Pocono. [AP/AMANDA NEWMAN]

3. Where's Harvick?

A total of 23 race tracks host 36 Cup races each season. Kevin Harvick has won multiple races at 11 of those tracks, including a whopping nine triumphs at Phoenix. He has two boxes to check in order to make it a clean sweep. He has never won at Kentucky, which has held only seven Cup races, or Pocono. At the 2.5-mile Pocono triangle, Harvick is 0-for-34.

QUESTIONS & ATTITUDE

Compelling questions ... and maybe a few actual answers

Danica insists she's done. Do you believe her?

Yes and ... maybe. Right now, she is retired, having completed her "Danica Double-Trouble" — crashing out of the Daytona and Indy 500s. But let's say a couple of years from now, her post-racing career needs a jolt, and perhaps some sports-car team could use some star-power for, say, the Rolex 24, can we see that happening? Absolutely. Maybe not. But maybe. How's that for an answer?

Who's the next five for the Hall of Fame?

Tony Stewart is a lock, while Buddy Baker and Joe Gibbs seem likely. But Bobby Labonte, Carl Edwards and Greg Biffle will become eligible next year, so a lot of votes will be spread around. I'm still confused as to why Kirk Shelmerdine doesn't get more recognition for his four championships as Dale Earnhardt's crew chief.

IN BRIEF

ATLANTA Braves place Acuna on DL with mild ACL sprain

The Atlanta Braves have placed left fielder Ronald Acuna Jr. on the 10-day disabled list with a mild ACL sprain in his left knee and bruises to his knee and lower back.

The team announced Acuna's MRI results during the first game of Monday's doubleheader against the New York Mets.

Acuna's leg buckled while running out a grounder Sunday in Boston. He fell on his back after crossing the bag, then rolled over on his front side with what looked to be a gruesome injury. The 20-year-old surprisingly walked off the diamond, declining a wheelchair.

FOXBOROUGH, MASS. Yale beats Duke 13-11 for NCAA lacrosse title

Jack Tigh scored 36 seconds into the game for his first of three goals in the opening half, and Matt Gaudet scored four goals as Yale beat Duke 13-11 on Monday to win its first NCAA lacrosse title.

The third-seeded Bulldogs (17-3) scored the first three goals of the game and struck first in all four quarters while holding off the three-time national champion Blue Devils.

Ben Reeves had a goal and three assists and Jack Starr made nine saves for Yale, which led 10-5 midway through the third period and never let Duke (16-4) get closer than two.

COLLEGE PARK, MD. Maryland forward Fernando to return

Maryland forward Bruno Fernando has decided to return for his sophomore season after testing his viability in the NBA draft.

The 6-foot-10 Fernando averaged 10.3 points and 6.5 rebounds and was named to the All-Big Ten Freshman team.

Fernando says he received a "great deal of feedback over the past six weeks that has been beneficial in making this decision."

Coach Mark Turgeon thinks Bruno "learned a lot during this process, and it will only make him a better basketball player."

COLORADO SPRINGS, COLO. John Elway fails to qualify for US Senior Open

John Elway will still be a part of the 2018 U.S. Senior Open. He just won't be playing alongside the likes of defending champion Kenny Perry.

The Broadmoor's notoriously knotty east course got the best of Elway in his Memorial Day attempt to qualify for the 39th Open championship, where he'll serve as the tournament's honorary chairman next month.

Playing Monday for one of two qualifying spots, Elway, who is a 1.4-handicap golfer, shot a 10-over 80 on a drizzly and cool afternoon on the dazzling but demanding course. That left him tied for 18th.

By Brian Mahoney

The Associated Press

BOSTON — LeBron James will get a couple days to catch his breath, then make his annual June journey to Golden State or down to Houston to face a team far better than his.

His eighth straight NBA Finals sets up as one of his most difficult, flanked by a largely unheralded set of teammates who force him to do much more at 33 than most other players are ever asked.

But James keeps showing he can do it, and he can't wait for his chance to win another ring.

Dare count him out? "At the end of the day, the game is won in between the lines, and we have an opportunity to play for a championship," he said after Sunday's 87-79 victory over Boston. "That's all that matters."

James dragged an injured and inconsistent Cavaliers team out of the Eastern Conference and back to the NBA Finals, where they will be an underdog against whichever team wins Game 7 in the West on Monday.

But after playing all 48 minutes in his 100th game of the season, punctuating one of the greatest series a player has ever had with 35 points, 15 rebounds and nine assists, he sure looks capable of more.

And the Cavaliers will need every bit of it. They had to play seven games just to get out of the first round, and seven more to finish a climb out of 2-0 deficit against a younger, more athletic Celtics team. They have to be tired, and that's no way to go into a series against Kevin Durant, Stephen Curry and the Warriors, who blew Cleveland away in five games last year, or James Harden and a Rockets team that can be every bit as potent on one end and lock teams down on the other.

The only way it would appear Cleveland would have a chance would be if James can summon his highest level, the kind that perhaps no other player can reach — and then do it three more times.

The Celtics have seen him do it, after he averaged 33.6 points, 9.0 rebounds and 8.4 assists to eliminate them in the East finals for the second straight year.

"I think we've played now until May 25th and May 27th the last two years, and we started on Sept. 25th," Celtics coach Brad Stevens said. "That's every day. Every day that you're totally focused on this, and he's gone past that eight straight times. It's ridiculous, and he does it at this level and with the pressure, with the scrutiny. Doesn't matter. It's just unbelievable."

This was the year James' finals streak looked over. Kyrie Irving had been traded to Boston in the offseason, Isaiah Thomas, Dwyane Wade and Derrick Rose weren't the answers as his replacement, and Kevin Love missed significant time with injuries.

And even after the Cavaliers remade their team at the February trade deadline, it didn't look good enough. Cleveland had finished just fourth in the East, never developing the necessary cohesiveness required to be even a mediocre defensive team, let alone a championship-caliber one. They still can surrender open shots everywhere, a flaw that seems fatal against the 3-point happy Rockets or Warriors.

The only obvious advantage the Cavaliers have is James, the kind of player who can win a Game 7 in Boston with a team that was without its other All-Star because of a concussion and couldn't shoot straight deep into the first half, with Cavaliers other than James missing their first 10 3s until J.R. Smith hit one with 2:54 remaining until halftime.

"I mean, the bigger the stage, the bigger the player, and he's been doing it for us since we've been here," Cavs coach Tyrone Lue said. "The great quote from the great Doc Rivers is you always want to go into the Game 7 with the best player, and we have the best player on our team going into a Game 7. I like our chances."

And he'll like them again starting Thursday even if the oddsmakers don't. The Cavaliers were probably far better last year and could only get a game from the Warriors.

Unlike Djokovic, past champ Wawrinka loses early

By Howard Fendrich
The Associated Press

PARIS — Like Novak Djokovic, Stan Wawrinka is a past French Open champion still working his way back into form after surgery.

Like Djokovic, Wawrinka is ranked lower than he has been in more than a decade. And like Djokovic, Wawrinka recently reunited with a coach who helped guide him to success earlier in his career.

Both men were in first-round action at Roland Garros on Monday, but unlike Djokovic, who won in straight sets, Wawrinka could not summon and sustain the sort of high-level play that has carried him to major titles in Paris and elsewhere. Returning to a place where he won the title in 2015 and made it back to the final a year ago, Wawrinka bowed out with a 6-2, 3-6, 4-6, 7-6 (5), 6-3 loss to 67th-ranked Guillermo Garcia-Lopez of Spain.

"I won three Grand Slams in my career, and I know what it takes to do it," said Wawrinka, who was seeded 23rd and is ranked only 30th, territory unfamiliar to him since April 2008. "And my goal is to get to my top. Sooner or later, I will."

Wawrinka only recently returned to the tour after missing three months to rest his left knee, which was operated on twice last August. He's played 11 matches in 2018, going 4-7.

As Monday's match stretched to 3½ hours, Wawrinka was hindered by the physical strain of playing in a fifth set for the first time since his French Open semifinal victory over Andy Murray a year ago. But that wasn't the biggest impediment to success.

"It was more the difficulty of continuing to go for it mentally," he explained.

The owner of one of the prettiest one-handed backhands in the sport, Wawrinka — who is again working with coach Magnus Norman — only managed 12 winners, compared with 35 unforced errors, with that shot. He finished with 72 unforced errors in all, 32 more than Garcia-Lopez, who never has been past the fourth round at a major tournament.

"There is no frustration. It's just tough," said the 33-year-old Wawrinka, who's been as high as No. 3 in the rankings. "But I'm on the right way. It was very close today."

Girl Scouts: Building leaders since 1912

By Diane M. Robinson
The News | @HCTA_Diane
Drobinson@chippylepaper.com

WASHINGTON AND HOLMES COUNTIES – Empowering girls to be leaders has been the top priority of the Girl Scouts since its inception in 1912.

When people think of the Girl Scouts most think of cookies and, while we all love them, there is so much more to being a Girl Scout than cookie sales.

Teaching girls to release their inner G.I.R.L. (Go-getter, Innovator, Risk-taker, Leader) is what the Troop Leaders in Washington County Troop 3013 and Holmes County Troop 3021 do at every meeting they hold.

Troops use a curriculum to teach lessons on a number of topics such as first aid, camping and sewing. The meetings are ‘girl led’ meaning the girls in the troop start the meeting with the Girl Scout Law, Pledge of Allegiance, followed by activities and lessons on the topic for the meeting.

Although both troops are relatively new – Washington County started in October 2017 and Holmes in March 2018 – both are working toward growing their troops with new girls as well as troop leaders.

Each county is putting in the work to expand their troops by setting up booths at area festivals, and open houses. Washington’s troop has 13 active member while Holmes has eight. Zedra Hawkins and Carissa Boyette lead Washington while Misty Erickson and Susie Powell lead Holmes.

The girls in each troop have a variety of reasons why they love the Girl Scouts.

“We get to be honest and fair and kindful,” said Isabella Erickson of Troop 3021.

“Cookies! I like cookies,” said Kali Graham of Troop 3013.

“Getting to do crafts and be with my friends is what I love most about being a Girl Scout,” said Holmes County Troop’s Lacee Music.

“I enjoy working on earning badges and learning new things like first aid,” said Washington County Troop’s Mina Graham.

The Washington County Troop 3013 meets at First Presbyterian Church in Chipley every Tuesday at 5:30 p.m..

The Holmes County Troop 3021 meets at the Holmes County Public Library Annex every Friday at 5:45 p.m.

If you are interested in signing your daughter up or becoming a leader or in helping in any way, contact the Girl Scout Council in Panama City at 1-888-271-8778 or visit their website at www.girlscouts.org.

RIO DE JANEIRO Free market debate at heart of Brazil truckers' strike

Brazilian cabinet ministers on Monday called on truckers to end a crippling eight-day strike that has led to major shortages and disruptions in Latin America's largest nation, saying the government had gone as far as it could to meet their demands.

The ministers spoke in Brasilia hours after President Michel Temer announced a series of measures aimed at getting truckers back to work. Late Sunday, Temer said the government would subsidize a 10 percent drop in diesel prices for 60 days.

He also said measures were being crafted to cut tolls for truckers and establish minimum freight rates, both key demands.

ATLANTA Delta adding 'Passport Plum' hue to its uniforms

The color authorities at Pantone declared violet the color of 2018, and Delta Air Lines is following suit, quite literally.

The Atlanta Journal-Constitution reports the Atlanta-based airline has added a new option dubbed "Passport Plum" to its signature red and blue hues for new uniforms rolling out Tuesday.

Experts: Starbucks training a first step in facing bias

By Terry Tang
The Associated Press

Starbucks, trying to put to rest an outcry over the arrest of two black men at one of its stores, is closing more than 8,000 stores for an afternoon of anti-bias training, a strategy some believe can keep racism at bay.

After the arrests in Philadelphia last month, the coffee chain's leaders apologized and met with the two men, but also reached out to activists and experts in bias training to put together a curriculum for its 175,000 workers.

That has put a spotlight on the little-known world of "unconscious bias training," which is used by many corporations, police departments and other organizations to help address racism in the workplace.

The training is typically designed to get people to open up about implicit biases and stereotypes in encountering people of color, gender or other identities.

The Perception Institute, a consortium of researchers consulting with Starbucks, defines implicit bias as attitudes — positive or negative — or stereotypes someone has toward a person or group without being conscious of it. A common example, according to some of its studies, is a tendency for white people to unknowingly associate black people with criminal behavior. Many retailers including

Demonstrators protest April 15 outside the Starbucks cafe in Philadelphia where two black men were arrested three days earlier for waiting inside without ordering anything. Today, the company plans to close more than 8,000 stores nationwide to conduct anti-bias training, a move intended to show how serious the company is about living up to its now tarnished image as a neighborhood hangout where all are welcome. [RON TODT/ASSOCIATED PRESS FILE PHOTO]

Walmart and Target said they already offer some racial bias training. Target says it plans to expand that training. Nordstrom has said it plans to enhance its training after issuing an apology to three black teenagers in Missouri who employees falsely accused of shoplifting.

Anti-bias sessions can incorporate personal reflections, explorations of feelings and mental exercises. But one expert says training of this kind can have the opposite effect if people feel judged.

According to a video previewing the Starbucks training, there will be recorded remarks from Starbucks executives and rapper/activist Common. From there, employees will "move into a real and honest exploration of bias" where, in small groups, they can share how the issue comes up in their daily work life.

Starbucks has described it as a "collaborative and engaging experience for store partners to learn together."

Developed with feedback from the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund, the Perception Institute and other social advocacy groups, the four-hour session will give workers a primer on the history of civil rights from the 1960s to present day. Workers will also view a short documentary film.

European stocks drop amid Italy uncertainty

By Kelvin Chan
The Associated Press

HONG KONG — European stock markets fell Monday after small gains in Asia as investors digested political uncertainty in Italy, while crude oil fell further amid expectations for output increases. Markets remained closed for holidays in the U.S. and U.K.

The euro was volatile, touching a six-month low after Italy's president vetoed a euroskeptic candidate for economy minister proposed by leaders of two populist parties trying to form a government.

President Sergio Mattarella said Sunday he was refusing to appoint Paolo Savona, whose policies could rattle nervous markets and further inflate the country's staggering debt load. Instead, he named an economist, Carlo Cottarelli, to lead the country until new elections. While avoiding a populist government that investors had worried about, the move means more political uncertainty. The euro fell to $1.1627 from $1.1652 on Friday.

The dollar slipped to 109.32 yen from 109.40 yen late Friday. The pound was roughly flat at $1.3309.
