Four county seats up for grabs

By Staff Report

HOLMES COUNTY - Qualifying closed Friday for Holmes County public offices.

Incumbent Mickey Locke (R) will face a run off on the November ballot against republican's Brandon Newsom and Scott F. Prescott for the County Commissioner District 2 seat. Incumbent Danny Powell (R) is up against Edward O. Paul (R) and Earl Stafford (R) for the County Commissioner District 4 seat.

For School Board seat for District 1, Kaci Howell Johnson (NON), Eric Marell (NON), J. Wayne Marsh (NON) and Joey Whitaker are all vying to fill the seat being departed by Rusty

Williams. With the exit of Sid Johnson, District 5 seat will be filled with one of the following: Leesa Lee (NON), Vernon Lewis Jr. (NON) or Freddie McIntosh (NON). Primaries will be held Aug. 28 and the general election Nov. 6. The deadline to register to vote in each is 29 days before elections - July 30 for the primaries and Oct. 9 for general. Early voting is Aug. 18-25 and Oct 27-Nov. 3, respectively.

Florida's voters will see a range of hot topic issues this November. Here are a few our readers may show heightened interest in.

Amendment 1: Increased Homestead Property Tax Exemption, which increases

the homestead exemption by exempting the assessed valuation of homestead property greater than $100,000 and up to $125,000 for all levies other than school district levies. The amendment shall take effect January 1, 2019.

Amendment 3: Voter Control of Gambling in Florida, which gives Florida voters exclusive right to decide whether to authorize casino gambling.

Amendment 7: First Responder and Military Member Survivor Benefits; Public Colleges and Universities Grants, which assesses a mandatory payment of death benefits and waiver of certain educational expenses to qualifying survivors of certain first responders and military members who die performing official duties.

Amendment 8: School Board Term Limits and Duties; Public Schools, which creates a term limit of eight consecutive years for school board members and requires the legislature to provide for the promotion of civic literacy in public schools. Currently, district school boards have a constitutional duty to operate, control, and supervise all public schools. The amendment maintains a school board's duties to public schools it establishes, but permits the state to operate, control, and supervise public schools not established by the school board.

Amendment 13: Ends Dog Racing, which phases out commercial dog racing in connection with wagering by 2020. Other gaming activities are not affected.

Bonifay mulls two ordinances

By Diane M. Robinson

BONIFAY - A draft for a new code enforcement ordinance was introduced to the Bonifay City Council when they met in regular session June 25.

Attorney Michelle Jordan presented the council with a draft ordinance that she says mirrors a nearby city's recently adopted ordinance on the same matters. Jordan also says the new ordinance will have teeth where the old one does not.

"This new ordinance will have some teeth when it comes to penalties and fines," said Jordan. "We will be able to enforce matters more efficiently once this has been adopted."

Council members were directed to look over the draft and make a note of any questions, concerns, additions or deletions they may have. More discussion is scheduled for the next regular session meeting.

Another proposed ordinance is set to bring the city's utility payment, cutoff schedule, penalties and reconnection fees up to date. The last time the ordinance was updated was in 1983 and caused confusion for residents and officials, officials noted. The new ordinance will establish due dates, cut off for non payment dates, any reconnection fees and penalties. A draft of the ordinance is expected at the next council meeting.

WESTVILLE - A local auctioneer Gary Newell suffered a great loss when his home was burned to a total loss two weeks ago. His 26-year-old granddaughter is belting out her own auction cry in hopes of raising money to help Newell rebuild his home.

"If anybody holds a benefit, they're going to call him; and if he can help anybody, he's going to do it," Timra Miller said. "I hope the community does the same for him."

Newell and his wife Sue are from Westville, where Newelle has served as done his cattle-rattle auctioneer chants for a number of causes for more than 33 years, Miller said.

Man arrested for attempting to meet child for sex

Staff Report

BONIFAY - A Ponce de Leon man has been arrested after attempting to meet a juvenile for the purpose of sex acts, Holmes County Sheriff's Office news release stated.

Jarvis Dechavion Smith, 20, allegedly made arrangements to pick up a 12-year-old Holmes County female in order to "carry out" sexual acts, the release stated. A deputy with the Holmes County Sheriff's Office met with the parents of the 12-year-old on Sunday, June 24, after their daughter showed them sexually explicit texts she said were from Smith.

In addition arranging to pick her up, Smith had also sent graphic communications to the child.

HCSO reported after receiving the information, along with a description of the subject, deputies observed a car driven by Smith pulled to the side of the road by the child's residence, with Smith's headlights turned off.

Deputies initiated a traffic stop and made contact with Smith, who stated he was going to the residence to "meet a girl" and supplied the girl's first name, the release stated. Smith later admitted his intentions for traveling to the girl's home in a subsequent interview.

Smith was arrested and charged with computer pornography/traveling to meet minor and driving while license suspended.

CHIPLEY - The last of the three government entities, Washington County Board of County Commissioners, approved the interlocal agreement 2 (ILA2) to activate 79 Corridor Authority.

The 79 Corridor Project will bring water and sewer facilities from Bonifay in Holmes County, south to Douglas Ferry Road in Washington County.

Bonifay and Holmes

County Board of County Commissioners approved the interlocal agreement 2 (ILA2) earlier this month.

The signing of the agreement will establish the Authority and allow the existing planning committee to abdicate. The Authority will be made up of three members, a representative from each county commission and a representative of the City of Bonifay. A general manager will be hired who will oversee the project design and construction.

Once all entities have signed the agreement, it will then go into effect.

FIRE

The Newells home, 1746 Highway 179-A in Westville, was burned down in a suspected electrical fire that broke out on the back porch on June 12, according to Miller. No one was injured. Due to the age of the home, she said, the couple did not have insurance.

A fundraising benefit will be held 10 a.m. July 7 at the New Hope Volunteer Fire Department, 1969 Highway 2 in Westville.

Attendees can purchase plates for $7. Each plate includes one meat (chicken, fish or barbecued pork), two sides, a roll, slice of cake and a drink.

An auction will start at 11 a.m. The auction includes a silent auction and a live auction for gift certificates, cakes, grills, quilts, baskets and other items.

Her goal is to raise enough money to rebuild her grandparents' home; however, she said humbly Monday evening, "any amount will be appreciated."

A GoFundMe page has been started to help raise $10,000. As of Tuesday

These days, it takes two to be crude

Three years ago this month Donald Trump descended the escalator inside Trump Tower to announce his candidacy for the presidency. And many of the president's critics would maintain that he dragged down the nature of our conversation about politics along with him.

It's indisputable that the president bears much of the blame for the coarsening of our political discourse, and his foes fret that his tweets and rhetoric represent the new normal for debating policy. But it's misguided and ignorant of our history to see him as an aberration. We once had a sitting vice president shoot and kill a political rival in duel; once had a lawmaker nearly beat another to death with a cane on the Senate floor; once had lawmakers engage in fistfights in the Capitol; once featured newspapers and politicians taking swipes at our presidents or presidential candidates as pimps, children of hookers, "hermaphroditical."

Still, since Trump came to office, we do see a regrettable trend in this regard.

Two weeks ago actor Robert DeNiro went on stage at the Tony Awards and simply declared, "F--- Trump." Twice. After ABC recently fired Roseanne Barr for an offensive tweet about a former Barack Obama adviser, comedian Bill Maher went on his HBO show to defend and repeat a previous "joke" that Trump was the product of sex between his mother and an orangutan. Last week news channels broadcast video of a Justice Department intern yelling her own DeNiro-quality insult as the president walked through the Capitol. Right after Trump's inauguration, Madonna stood before thousands at the Women's March and unloaded her own F-word-littered tirade at Trump and those critical of her tone.

We could fill this newspaper with such examples pertaining to Trump. And that's not to mention the many occasions when critics have encouraged or simulated violence against the current president — heated rhetoric that a year ago led a Bernie Sanders-supporting loon to open fire at Republican lawmakers practicing for a baseball game.

The issue here is not so much harsh criticism of the president; that's as old as the nation itself. Rather, we take exception to the weird insinuation that, for Trump's critics, he is somehow to blame for their actions.

Trump is Trump and will behave accordingly. But how people choose to react to his comments and tweets is entirely on them. It's the height of hypocrisy to gripe that Trump is dragging us into the gutter, but then applaud his gutter-mouthed critics.

It seems so long ago when Michelle Obama told Democrats at their national convention that, in the age of Trump, "Our motto is when they go low, we go high." How quickly that was abandoned. Those who engage in this return-fire anti-Trump crassness, or support it, are not offering a solution to incivility; they're part of the problem.

HAPPY CORNER

Summer vacation is almost half over

Hazel Tison

It is almost the end of June and it seems that day before yesterday was Mothers Day; now we have celebrated Fathers Day and July 4th is staring us in the face. How is it that time moves so much faster than it used to? At least it seems that way. Well they say, time flies when you are having fun so I think that is why time seems to fly by. Our calendars are full and we have something to do every day, Summers do pass faster than when I was a child and even when my children were growing up. But in my childhood and youth, summers were actually longer because we only went to school eight months instead of nine as they do currently. I was in the eleventh grade when schools added another month. I can remember the year was 1948 and I celebrated a birthday at school for the first time since it came in May and school was usually out. So until then our summer vacation was four months instead of three.

Today kids are involved in so many activities. There are athletic leagues that many are involved in. Most churches hold Vacation Bible Schools and go all out with decorations to make it a memorable event. Now, however, it lasts only one week. When my children were at home and I was working in VBS we went for two weeks. I never heard of vacation Bible school when I was a child. Some summers we did have singing schools at the church which lasted a week and went all day. We learned rudiments of music and at the end we had a sing when the parents came and we each had to lead a song by marking the time with hand movement. Down, left, right, up. That was the one week of our lives when we had sliced bread so that we could have tomato sandwiches for lunch. We just carried the loaf, the mayonnaise, and the tomatoes and sliced them on the spot. Our drink was water from the hand pump at the church.

My family never took a vacation. I might go and spend a week with my cousin Kathleen in Leonia, but we were even more isolated there than we were at home on Bonifay Route One. For our children we did have a trip to Daytona Beach each summer when their dad, the Agriculture teacher attended the AG Teachers' summer conference. They were strongly encouraged to attend and the county paid his expense and the family went along. While the men, and all the teachers were men back then, the wives and children congregated on the beach. Strong friendships were forged during that week and we looked forward to it from year to year.

In addition, we had a few day trips to the beach during the summer and numerous swims in Wrights Creek at the Chaulk Hole, the Blue Hole or the Wayside Park on Highway 79. For the Wells kids, our summers consisted mostly of work. Of course there were always chores such as feeding livestock and chickens. A never ending chore was chopping and bringing in stove wood for the endless meals and canning that kept the wood stove hot most summer days. Scraping potatoes, shucking corn and shelling peas were also never ending chores. But the work then started. For us it was mostly gathering produce to sell on the biweekly trips to Panama City and the beaches, whatever was in season, field peas, butter beans, sweet corn, tomatoes, okra, turnips, collards, eggplant. Etc. But before the produce was done, there was hoeing and plowing. And of course there was the cotton to pick which started just as school was back in session, so we really looked forward to going back to school, seeing our friends, and missing out on a few hours of labor.

If our lives at that time seem grim, it was not. We had a few breaks. Visitors were frequent. Quick dips in Holmes Creek at Cowford were frequent. Gum Creek was in walking distance. Watermelon cuttings were a daily thing.

Yes, it does seem that time flies and that summer is passing way too fast, but the world isn't turning any faster. We keep our calendars so full and we rush from event or obligation to another that we just seem to have little time. The only thing I can suggest is to take time to enjoy small daily pleasures. I am always hearing the term "Live in the moment." Maybe that's what it means."

Confusing Facts & Opinions

Tom Purcell

The Pew Research Center quiz was harder than I expected.

"Ah, yes, you speak of the recently released survey in which Pew quizzed 5,035 adult Americans to determine their ability to distinguish between factual information and opinion statements in the news."

"That's right. The Pew website lets anyone take a quiz featuring 10 statements, five that are true-or-false factual statements and five that are opinion statements. Pew told me to ignore whether or not a statement is accurate and also to ignore whether or not I agree with it. I follow the news and figured I'd ace the quiz, but I didn't."

"Let's take a look at the quiz. Pew's first statement says, 'Abortion should be legal in most cases.' Did you classify that as a fact or an opinion?"

"I classified it as an opinion and got it right. This is a contentious issue, but the statement is still an opinion."

"Pew's second statement said, 'Immigrants who are in the U.S. illegally have some rights under the Constitution.' How did you classify that one?"

"It's factual. Look, it's true that undocumented immigrants don't have the full rights of a U.S. citizen, but, according to the ACLU, our Constitution does afford them some rights, such as freedom of speech, religion, privacy and others. I struggled with Pew's next statement, however." "That 'Democracy is the greatest form of government'?"

"Yes. I classified it as a fact, because I strongly believe that democracy - in our case a representative republic - is the greatest, but the statement is, in truth, an opinion."

"It's not always easy to separate one's strong beliefs and opinions from facts. Pew found that each participant was more likely to classify both factual and opinion statements as factual when the statements validated his or her personal politics or beliefs."

"That's probably why Pew chose 10 statements that may get people fired up, depending on their political points of view. Such as this one that's still driving conspiracy nuts crazy: 'President Barack Obama was born in the United States.' I correctly classified that as a fact."

Fire devastates eastpoint homes

By David Adlerstein
653-8894 | dadlerstein@starfl.com

EASTPOINT — A fast-moving fire that whirled like a tornado Sunday evening through an almost thousand-acre stretch of mobile homes that border the state forest destroyed at least three dozen of them, Franklin County officials said.

That doesn't include the many fishing boats and pickup trucks that once populated almost every front yard, now reduced to a pungent carcass of charred metal or fiberglass.

Pam Brownell, the county's emergency management director, said the fire took the structure and contents of at least 36 homes, with four more burned to some degree. Because of its wind-driven gyrations, the fire missed several properties along its path, leaving them unscathed.

The loss of property is estimated to be at least $800,000, according to Property Appraiser Rhonda Skipper.

Among those who lost everything was Matt Polous, whose property at 605 Ridge Road was among the first to be consumed after the fire quickly curled south from Bear Creek Road. Polous ran to awake his neighbor, Sean Boatwright, and when his wife Paula pulled up, returning from her job on St. George Island, he yelled for her to leave. She never entered the home; he left without even his billfold.

"My whole backyard was full of boats," he said, at least 14 different ones, from a 55-foot grouper boat down to a 17-footer. One of those boats belonged to his brother-in-law, Jeff Page, who planned to oyster Monday morning.

Sheriff A.J. Smith said Monday morning that one man died Sunday evening of what appeared to be heart attack, after receiving CPR near the Eastpoint Cemetery as he rushed to rescue his dogs from the fire.

The fire began about 4 p.m. Initial fire crews from Apalachicola and Eastpoint at first watched as the fire remained at a distance, but as the fire neared, the winds helped propel it through Bear Creek, Ridge Road and Wilderness Road. By a little after 6 p.m., the fire was threatening those homes and an evacuation was called by the sheriff for those areas, as well as CC Land, Twin Lakes, North Bay Shore and portions of State 65.

"It's terrible. It's catastrophic," said Smith. "There are a lot of homes that are gone. It's probably one of the most intense fires I've seen in my career. Some of them lost everything what they ever worked for. It's heartbreaking."

Gov. Rick Scott toured the damage about 8 a.m. Monday, and Chief Financial Officer Jimmy Patronis later in the afternoon. Agriculture Commissioner Adam Putnam will be visiting Tuesday.

New law reignites beach access fight in Panhandle

By Brendan Farrington

SANTA ROSA BEACH, Fla. — Along a stretch of white, sandy shoreline in Florida's Panhandle, a simple question has led to profanity-laden arguments, private security guards and calls to law enforcement: Who owns the beach? In one coastal county, a new state law is set to rekindle that uproar just in time for the July 4th holiday.

As of July 1, Walton County Sheriff Michael Adkinson said

return to their homes.

Todd Schroeder, a public information officer for the Florida Forest Service, said the fire was 95 percent contained by early Monday evening.

Speculation was rampant in the Eastpoint community that a controlled burn by a state contractor earlier in the week had reignited and spread out of control, but Schroeder offered no further details.

"I am sure over this period there's been controlled burns," he said. "I don't have knowledge to be able to speak to that yet. I can't substantiate that for you tonight."

At least three arson investigators from the Department of Agriculture and Consumer Services were on hand, as well as those from sheriff's office, who are working closely with them. "We're going to be working on what caused the fire," said Smith. "We'll get to the bottom of it."

Fire departments from throughout the county, as well as Liberty, Wakulla and Gulf counties, responded to the fire as deputies rushed to evacuate the area. Brownell estimated about 125 people were forced from their homes.

"We called out every deputy we had," said Smith. "It was all hands on deck."

Eastpoint Fire Chief George Pruett said deputies' quick evacuation efforts saved lives.

"Had they not been there, there would have been a massive loss of life there's no doubt in my mind. We were bypassing houses that were completely burning," he said. "We were trying to save the ones we could save."

The sheriff said there was at least one traffic mishap in the rush and confusion, and that deputies made one arrest, although it was not related to looting.

The Eastpoint Fire Station initially opened up for those evacuees, and those who didn't find a place with family or friends, were directed to the Eastpoint Church of God. The American Red Cross was busy registering people, and offered them an overnight shelter. The women of the church prepared breakfast for the people Monday morning.

The Red Pirate served up food Sunday night to those who fled the flames, cooking up hamburgers brought over from Fisherman's Choice from the recent youth fishing tournament.

Among those who

Taking part in a telephone conference call with state officials from the Eastpoint Firehouse are, from left, Tress Dameron, emergency management coordinator; Pam Brownell, emergency management director; Joe Taylor, director of Franklin's Promise Coalition, which is directing volunteer efforts; and Traci Moses, superintendent of Franklin County schools. [DAVID ADLERSTEIN/THE TIMES] stopped by was Cody Putnal, who lives at 677 Wilderness Road, along with his mother Martha, and brother Joey.

Putnal said he believes their home was spared because about six months ago they had cleared out much of the property to make room for four horses they brought in.

He said Joey let the horses loose as the flames neared, and the family quickly packed goats, chickens and ducks into a Jeep to get them out safely.

"The fire just missed the horses," said Putnal.

Cody Putnal said he heard an explosion, and went to see what it was. Others recalled hearing what likely were propane tanks, shotgun shells, gasoline cans, and even vehicles exploding.

Martha Putnal said she looked out a window and noticed "It's getting black out there" and then realized the flames were whipping toward the house, and she had better leave.

Paul Sanders stopped by the Red Pirate, and said he believes the fire destroyed his home. He comforted his 8-year-old son.

"We have each other," he told the boy, who just months earlier had lost his mother.

Cody Putnal said he ran out of the house so fast he left his medicines, some for a heart ailment. His mother said that as they fled, they passed by the house of a friend, Mason Moore, and saw it was completely gone.

"You could see through the house all the way to Ridge Road," she said. "The fire was moving down the road. We drove through it."

Christy Russell had to convince her boyfriend, Ryan Williamson, who at first thought it was "a little house fire down the road," to flee.

"Everybody was going down the road," he said.

"Panicking," she added.

Williamson didn't even grab his wallet and Russell took only one thing as she left.

"The first thing I grabbed was my baby's blanket," she said.

She ran next door to alert her neighbor. "All I could see was orange," Russell said. "I felt the heat." The Humane Society animal shelter remained open, and accepted animals displaced by the fire.

Gov. Scott promised to bring those affected the help they need.

"Our heart goes out to all the families impacted by this. We're going to see what resources there are at the state and federal level," he said. "Franklin County is a county that shows up and takes care of its citizens and we're going to do the same thing as well."

his deputies will have to start arresting people who put their beach blankets down in front of private homes and refuse to leave.

"We will start enforcing private property rights, which is up to including removing people from the beach," Adkinson said. "We are required by law to treat the beach as if it's somebody's front yard."

To county residents like Dave Rauschkolb, a surfer and restaurant owner, that's just wrong.

"Beach access should be sacrosanct for all. The notion of a private beach is an oxymoron," he said. "After this goes into effect, people can be physically removed from specific beaches, like bouncers at a bar, and to me that's despicable."

Avenue. When the investigator attempted to stop the vehicle, Jackson accelerated, traveling through a ditch in an effort to flee, the release stated.

The pursuit continued down Arrettea Street and over to Banfill Avenue, going head-on with other HCSO deputies. Jackson again refused to stop, continuing the pursuit until stopping in front of his residence on Midway Street, where he bailed out of the vehicle and fled on foot, the release stated.

Investigators followed, apprehending Jackson in the wooded area behind A+ Pharmacy. Investigators also recovered a plastic bag containing trafficking amount of MDMA (ecstasy) in that same area.

Jackson's passenger was identified as Anthony Willis of Georgia. A search of the vehicle revealed a set of scales, along with a small amount of marijuana, according to the release.

Both Jackson and Willis are charged with trafficking in MDMA, possession of marijuana, possession of drug paraphernalia. Jackson, who is currently on state probation for robbery and theft, also faces charges of the sale of ecstasy and marijuana, driving while license suspended, fleeing and attempting to elude, reckless driving, resisting arrest without violence, and violation of state probation.

Holmes County Sheriff John Tate thanked the Bonifay Police Department for their assistance, the release stated.

Next Week:
Oh Canada!

A Powerful Symbol

Mini Fact:

Eagles are diurnal (die-URN-ul). They hunt during the day and sleep during the night.

Our country has a special bird as its national symbol. The bald eagle is so powerful and so strong, and soars so high in the sky, that it is a symbol of freedom to many.

Types of eagles can be found on every continent except Antarctica. The bald eagle is one of two species found in North America. (The other is the golden eagle.) The bald eagle is found only in North America.

An icon

The bald eagle was selected to be placed on the design of the Great Seal approved by Congress in 1782. The Great Seal is the official stamp, or mark, of the United States.

You can find the great seal and eagles on several of our coins and bills, including the quarter.

Raptors

Bald eagles are raptors. Raptors are birds of prey. This means that they prey upon, or hunt and eat, other animals.

Raptors also:

- Grab their prey with their powerful feet and carry it away.
- Have very good eyesight.
- Have hooked beaks.

Other raptors include owls, ospreys, hawks, vultures and falcons.

These birds are important to the balance of nature. They control the population of rodents and other prey species. Since raptors eat dead animals, they help clean up the environment.

Meet an eagle

An eagle's eyesight is possibly as much as eight times sharper than a human's with perfect vision. From about 1,000 feet high, an eagle might see prey over a three-mile area.

Photo © Wikipedant

Bald eagles have as many as 7,000 feathers. They molt, or gradually lose and grow new feathers, once a year. When they lose one feather on one wing, they lose a matching one on the other. In this way, they don't lose their balance.

Their feathers are used for:

- Insulation in all kinds of weather.
- Protecting the skin.
- Camouflage to make the eagle harder to see.

Eagles use their talons for grabbing, squeezing and piercing their prey, then holding onto their catch while eating.

A bald eagle feeds on a lake trout.

Eagle homes

Bald eagles live near lakes, rivers, marshes and sea coasts. Alaska is the state with the most eagles. Other states with many eagles include Florida, Wisconsin, Washington, Minnesota, Oregon and Michigan.

Some bald eagles migrate. Others who have a good food source year-round do not.

Nesting

Most eagle pairs mate for life. If one is killed, the other might take a new mate.

Pairs return to the same nest every year, so they build their nest bigger and bigger. Nest-building is a part of courtship. They build their nests in trees or on the ground if there are no trees.

Parents take turns sitting on the nest 24 hours a day for about 35 days while incubating one to three eggs. Babies are called eaglets.

Threats to eagles

Eagles were once on the endangered species list, but conservation efforts helped them recover. They are threatened by:

- Being hit by cars, trains and planes.
- Running into power lines.
- Poisoning and pesticides.
- Being shot.
- Drowning.
- Eating a dead animal that was shot with lead bullets.

Eco Note

Across the world, many plants and animals are now rare because of the activities of people. Habitat loss, hunting and climate change put many species at risk. The dodo, a flightless bird from the island of Mauritius, was wiped out by hungry sailors in the 1600s. Other extinctions include that of a large marine mammal called Steller's sea cow in the 1700s and the American passenger pigeon in the 1900s. Both were wiped out by hunters.

86 killed in Nigeria as farmers, herders clash

By Sam Olukoya
The Associated Press

LAGOS, Nigeria — Scores of people died in central Nigeria during vicious weekend clashes between mostly Muslim herders and Christian farmers, with one report citing police saying 86 people were killed. By some accounts, the growing conflict over resources has become deadlier than Nigeria's Boko Haram extremist insurgency.

Nigeria's president accused unnamed politicians in a statement Monday of taking advantage of the chaos ahead of next year's elections, calling it "incredibly unfortunate."

Dramatic footage from Jos showed angry people waving machetes and sticks and shouting at passing security forces as they weaved around overturned and burning vehicles. Smoke rose in the distance. Women and children clutching overstuffed bags piled into the back of trucks, seeking a way out.

President Muhammadu Buhari warned against reprisal attacks after the "deeply unfortunate killings across a number of communities" in central Plateau State as the military, police and counterterror units were sent to end the bloodshed.

"No efforts will be spared" to find the attackers, Buhari said.

Nigeria's government said "scores" were killed, but did not provide an official death toll. The independent Channels Television cited a Plateau State police spokesman, Mathias Tyopev, as saying 86 people had been killed and at least 50 houses destroyed.

Mass burials began Monday amid fears that the death toll was even higher. "Please remain calm," said the Plateau State governor, Simon Bako Lalong, as a helicopter whirred overhead. "It is very, very, unfortunate that an incident is happening again like this."

The deadly clashes between herders and farmers are a growing security concern in Africa's most populous country, which is roughly split between Muslims in the north and Christians in the south.

The threat from Boko

Haram, which continues to carry out attacks in the northeast, has been cited as a cause of the growing tensions. Herders in search of safe grazing land, and also feeling the effects of climate change, have been forced south into more populated farming communities.

The widespread security issues pose a major challenge to Buhari, a Muslim former military ruler who won office in a democratic transfer of power in 2015, as elections approach next year.

The latest clashes began when about 100 cattle were rustled and some herders were killed, the statement from Buhari's office said. "Less than 24 hours later, violence broke out. Some thugs then took advantage of the situation, turning it into an opportunity to extort the public, and to attack people from rival political parties."

Some people were dragged from their cars and attacked if they said they supported certain politicians, the statement said.

The Plateau State governor announced a 6 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew in the communities of Jos South, Riyom and Barkin Ladi until further notice.

"Observe the curfew, observe the curfew, and I will still remind them to observe the curfew," he said.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Staci Jones poses for a photo at her lawyer's office on Friday in Collierville, Tenn. Advocates for domestic violence victims are praising a new Tennessee law that seeks to stop a common tactic that batterers use after their victims have fled to safety: Filing frivolous lawsuits designed to bankrupt or inflict more harm on the people they already have abused. Jones said she probably owes more than $100,000 from ongoing legal battles with a man she hoped to never see again. [ADRIAN SAINZ/AP]

WASHINGTON

President Donald Trump meets with King Abdullah II of Jordan in the Oval Office of the White House, Monday in Washington. The Trump administration appears to be walking away from a pledge to enforce an arrangement to stabilize southwestern Syria as the Syrian military presses ahead with an offensive in the rebel-held area despite repeated U.S. warnings. The offensive violates an agreement between the U.S., Russia and neighboring Jordan. [EVAN VUCCI/AP]

BERLIN Court convicts Syrian who beat man
A Berlin court convicted a 19-year-old Syrian on Monday of serious bodily harm and slander for attacking a man wearing a Jewish skullcap in the German capital in April.
The 21-year-old victim, an Arab Israeli who said he wore the Jewish kippa, or yarmulke, in a show of solidarity with his Jewish friends, filmed his attacker whipping him violently with a belt while shouting "Yahudi!" — Jew in Arabic.
Berlin's regional court sentenced the defendant, who wasn't named due to privacy rules, to four weeks of juvenile detention.

NASCAR THIS WEEK

The Daytona Beach News-Journal's Godwin Kelly & Ken Willis have covered NASCAR for nearly 60 years combined. godwin.kelly@news-jrnl.com ken.willis@news-jrnl.com

SPEED FREAKS

A few questions we had to ask ourselves

We've been known to downplay "fuel mileage" wins here. What about a "pit strategy" victory?
GODSPEAK: Sonoma has always been about track position. Truex & Co. created a better mouse trap to crush the field last Sunday.
KEN'S CALL: Brilliant, I say. It's the latest unintended (?) consequence of stage-racin'. Can't wait to see crew chiefs out-think themselves at Watkins Glen.

Any chance whatsoever we finally get a surprise winner this week? If so, who?
GODSPEAK: I have thrown in the towel on surprise winners. Now the question is which car — No. 4, No. 18, No. 78 — will win at Chicagoland?
KEN'S CALL: Doubtful. But if someone jumps out of nowhere to win ... oh, wait ... would Jimmie be considered a surprise?

FEUD OF THE WEEK

DANIEL SUAREZ VS. JIMMIE JOHNSON: While battling for position, Suarez said Johnson "dumped" him during a last-lap battle for mere crumbs — specifically, an 11th-place finish.
GODWIN KELLY'S TAKE: We are looking at two drivers who are having difficult seasons. One more incident could ignite a brouhaha between these two. Keep the fire extinguishers handy!

GODWIN'S PICKS FOR CHICAGOLAND

WINNER: Martin Truex Jr.
REST OF TOP 5: Kevin Harvick, Kyle Busch, Kyle Larson, Denny Hamlin
FIRST ONE OUT: Ty Dillon
DARK HORSE: Jamie McMurray
DON'T BE SURPRISED IF: This season's cycle of streaky wins continues with Truex winning two straight.

SONOMA

THREE THINGS WE LEARNED

1. Evil genius

NASCAR has a new evil genius in crew chief Cole Pearn, who faked a pit-stop call that led Martin Truex Jr. to a runaway win at Sonoma. "It's tough," Pearn said. "Everybody is so good in this, it sometimes takes something different to mix it up and pull one out."

2. Pole slide

Kyle Larson started from the pole at Sonoma, led two laps and then vanished into the crowd over the 1.99-mile road course. The 25-year-old driver was slipping and sliding and finished 14th. After four straight top-10 finishes, Larson's average in his last two starts is 21st.

3. Brotherly love

At the end of Sunday's race, Kurt Busch was trying to hold off younger brother Kyle for fifth-place honors. He failed. "We were a top-five car and couldn't quite hold off my little brother at the end," sixth-place Kurt said. "We battled ... I was hoping we could contend for a win."

THREE THINGS TO WATCH

1. Hello, Dale Jr.

After being mostly out of sight since his last NASCAR Cup Series race at Homestead in November, Dale Earnhardt Jr. will spread his wings on the new chapter of his racing life as a television commentator for NBC Sports this weekend. Fox Sports ended its 16-race opening run and has handed off to NBC, which takes the reins all the way to South Florida. It will be interesting to see what the TV ratings look like next week.

2. No aero makeover

In case you missed it, NASCAR said it

Dale Earnhardt Jr. will make his television announcing debut this weekend for NBC. [AP/STEVE HELBER] won't try to jam the aero package used in the All-Star Race into any more races on 1.5-mile tracks this season. The package included restrictor plates and large rear spoilers, which bunched the field during the All-Star run. NASCAR officials said the package is "something that could work" and said fans will see more of it in the 2019 season.

3. Point racing

It has become painfully obvious that the 2018 season is a three-driver show among Kevin Harvick, Kyle Busch and Martin Truex Jr. They have won 12 of the first 16 races. With only six drivers winning Cup Series races so far and 10 races to go, more drivers are taking a closer look at their points. Alex Bowman, currently 15th in points, is the points bubble man with Ricky Stenhouse Jr. and Paul Menard hot on his tail.

— Godwin Kelly, godwin.kelly@news-jrnl.com

QUESTIONS & ATTITUDE

Compelling questions ... and maybe a few actual answers

Is Junior the answer?

It obviously depends on the question, but assuming we're talking TV ratings, no he's not. But Junior Earnhardt's debut this week as part of NBC's broadcast team will at least be a partial answer, given that he's sure to attract some viewers who are either huge Junior fans or maybe just want to see how he transitions to this new role. As we've learned in recent years, he's thoughtful and honest, so assuming he can wedge his commentary into that crowded booth, he'll probably be very good.

No additional plates?

After experimenting with plate-racin' in the All-Star Race, everyone was suddenly big on contrived pack-racing and looking to add it at other tracks. The assumption was, more would come next year. But some started clamoring for pushing the plates into more 2018 races. In the end, nope, won't happen, which likely means the team owners looked at the expenses involved and flexed their collective muscle.

IN BRIEF

HARTFORD, CONN. UConn president: Ollie made serious violations

UConn President Susan Herbst told Kevin Ollie she was upholding his firing because the former men's basketball coach had a pattern of breaking NCAA rules and committed serious violations, according to a letter obtained by The Associated Press.

The school released the June 19 letter from Herbst to Ollie on Monday in response to open records requests from the AP and other news organizations.

Ollie has asserted that the violations which led to his firing in March were minimal and isolated.

Herbst refutes that idea in the letter, writing that "eventually even a series of 'isolated' or 'de minimis' violations can become a pattern of non-compliance, which is what occurred in the Men's Basketball program under your leadership."

She said the violations "are serious under any definition which may be applied and constitute just cause for your termination."

Ollie's attorney, Jacques Parenteau, said the minor issues cited by Herbst can't be called a pattern "just by lumping them together and claiming a pattern exists."

NEW YORK Top draft pick Mize gets $7.5M bonus with Tigers

No. 1 overall pick Casey Mize agreed Monday to a minor league contract with the Detroit Tigers that includes a $7.5 million signing bonus, the highest for any drafted player since 2011.

In 17 starts at Auburn this year, Mize went 10-6 with a 3.30 ERA. The 6-foot-3 junior averaged 12.24 strikeouts per nine innings. The Tigers took him with the No. 1 draft pick earlier this month. His bonus in the highest for a player since Aug. 15, 2011, when pitcher Gerrit Cole agreed to an $8 million bonus with Pittsburgh and outfielder Bubba Starling stuck a $7.5 million deal with Kansas City.

LONDON Swap at top: Nadal reclaims No. 1 ranking

Rafael Nadal is back at No. 1 in the ATP rankings, retaking the top spot from Roger Federer after just one week.

Monday's new order is the sixth change of the year at No. 1, the most since there were eight in 1999.

The record is 10 switches at No. 1 in 1983.

Federer still is expected to be seeded No. 1 for Wimbledon, where he won his record eighth championship a year ago. The grass-court Grand Slam tournament's seedings are scheduled to be announced Wednesday. Play begins next week.

Nadal holds a 50-point edge over Federer in the rankings and will hold onto No. 1 for at least the next three weeks.

Sunny Sochi turns into World Cup playground

By Tales Azzoni and Tim Booth
The Associated Press

SOCHI, Russia — Warm weather, beaches, amusement parks.

It's not exactly what Australian fan Adam McKinley expected to find when he decided to make the trip to Russia for the World Cup.

But that's exactly what he got in Sochi, the city introduced to the world as a winter destination during the Olympics four years ago, with its coastal location on the Black Sea and its majestic snow-capped peaks a short distance away.

"Whenever I think of Russia, I picture something like cold Siberia. I picture, like, real cold stuff," McKinley said. "I've been blown away by this. We even went for a swim and it was lovely. It was just nice and warm. We've been pleasantly surprised."

Sochi wasn't so cold during the Olympics, either, with temperatures frequently climbing into the mid-50s Fahrenheit in the Olympic Park. The chillier mountains are roughly an hour's drive away.

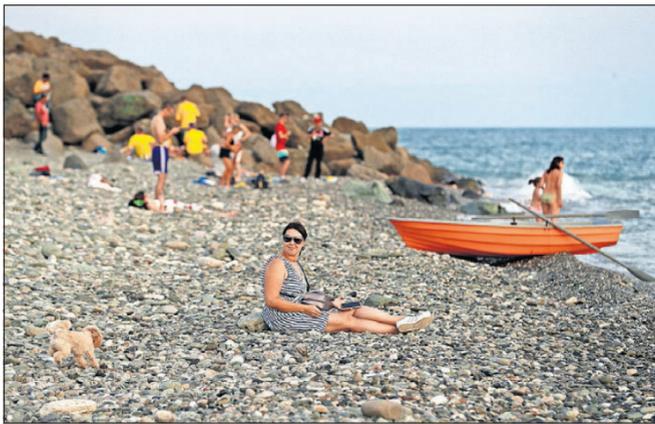

But in the summer, the snow is replaced by sun, lots of it, as Russia's seaside playground explodes into a scene more akin to Southern California or Miami Beach than Siberia.

"The moment we saw Peru was going to play in Sochi, we wanted to come here," said Peru supporter Luis Medina, one of the thousands of World Cup fans who have come to the city. "We knew this was going to be the place to be."

Even the teams based in Sochi were taking full advantage of the region's attractions. Brazil was feeling right at home, enjoying the warm temperatures and a private beach at the team's hotel in possibly the closest setting to what it had back home before traveling to Russia.

"We are having lunch and breakfast with a view of the sea. That's a plus for us," goalkeeper Alisson said shortly after Brazil arrived.

The Brazilians fought hard to

A woman plays fetch with her dog on the Black Sea waterfront Friday during the 2018 soccer World Cup in Sochi, Russia. World Cup fans have been taking advantage of the beaches, waterparks and other warm-weather activities in the Russian city, and teams have been eager to train there.

secure Sochi as their base. The Austrian federation initially picked the five-star hotel where Brazil is staying, but luckily for the Brazilians, Austria did not end up qualifying for the World Cup.

Germany stayed in Sochi during the Confederations Cup last year, but this time it chose a different location in part because it said it couldn't secure a proper private training field. After the opening loss to Mexico, some local media questioned whether the decision not to return to Sochi played a part in the team's disappointing performance.

Poland also is based in Sochi. On a day off, the team visited the city's dolphin park, one of the most famous in the region.

The micro-district of Adler, where the Olympic Park sits and the World Cup matches are played, is a hub of activities catering to tourists of all ages and tastes.

Many gather at the rock-covered beach by Fisht Stadium, which is hosting six World Cup matches, including one in the round of 16 and another in the quarterfinals.

But if sunbathing isn't high on the agenda, there is plenty more to do.

Sochi Park, known as the Russian Disneyland, is walking distance from the stadium. Based on local fairy tales, it's the country's first modern theme park — and one of the biggest.

It was mostly empty during the Olympics, but four years later it has been popular among World Cup fans. Officials estimate the tournament has added about 2,000 people a day to the park, which annually receives 1 million visitors.

"It's a shame we can't stay longer and enjoy more of the park because we have to go to the game," Panama supporter Nathalie Nielsen Atencio said.

The park includes a "roller-coaster" restaurant, with orders sliding down to customers on metal tracks. It's believed to be the only restaurant of its type in Russia, and one of nine in the world.

Also near the park is the Sochi Autodrom, which hosts Formula One races but is open to people wanting guided tours and even a chance — for a price — to drive the circuit.

"There are so many things to do in Sochi," said Alexey Titov, who is in charge of the company that organizes the Russian Grand Prix and operates the track. "It has developed greatly in the past four years since the Olympics have gone. You can see it has changed massively. This place went from a swamp in 2008 to a thriving park with restaurants, food, activities, things to do."

Dahlin debuts for Sabres

No. 1 pick hits the ice upon arriving in Buffalo

By John Wawrow
The Associated Press

BUFFALO, N.Y. — Rasmus Dahlin wasn't kidding about how hockey has become his sole obsession.

No more than an hour after completing his introductory news conference in Buffalo on Monday, the NHL's No. 1 overall draft pick had already changed into a yellow Sabres practice uniform and, with stick in hand, was on his way to hit the ice with a number of fellow prospects.

Finally, after a month-long pre-draft process of interviews, testing and cross-country travel that culminated in hearing his name called first from the podium in Dallas on Friday, Dahlin was back in his element.

"I used to play some golf and hang out with friends, but, yeah, I love to play hockey and that's my 100 percent thing I usually do," the 18-year-old Swedish defenseman said. "I'm a pretty boring guy."

Off the ice, maybe. On the ice, Dahlin is considered anything but boring with a heads-up, smooth-skating and play-making style that has already drawn comparisons to elite Swedish defensemen such as Ottawa Senators captain Erik Karlsson and former Detroit Red Wings star Nicklas Lidstrom.

In Buffalo, he's already captured the imagination of a win-starved base of fans, many of whom started submitting orders for Dahlin's No. 26 Sabres jersey moments after he formally pulled one on to close the news conference.

And yet, amid the buzz Dahlin has generated since the Sabres won the NHL draft lottery in April, it's unrealistic to presume one player alone can turn around a franchise that has finished last in three of the past five years, not made the playoffs since 2011 and not won a playoff series since 2007.

"I don't actually think that way," Dahlin said of whether he feels the weight of expectations on his 6-foot-2, 181-pound frame. "I'll bring everything I can to this team and, yeah, try to win hockey games. That's what I think about."

General manager Jason Botterill was quick to interject once Dahlin completed his answer.

"He doesn't need to be the savior," Botterill said, before listing the talented young group of players already on Buffalo's roster, including forward Jack Eichel.

National HIV Testing Day

Health department offers free HIV testing

HOLMES COUNTY - Today is National HIV Testing Day.

And the Florida Department of Health in Holmes and Washington counties, in partnership with the Bay County office, offers free testing.

The HIV (Human Immunodeficiency Virus) test requires a drop of blood from the finger tip. Results are confidential and available in 20 minutes. A state issued identification card is required.

According to latest reports, Holmes County has historically maintained distance from state HIV rates. However, as states rates began to tumble since 2007, rates have increased since 2014 in Holmes County.

In the latter year, the county reported a rate of 10 HIV cases per capita. By 2016, the rate had increased to 15.

Washington and Holmes counties reported higher rates of HIV cases in 2016 than surrounding counties Bay, Walton and Jackson.

Southern states made up more than half of new HIV diagnoses in 2016 and 38-percent of the national population, a Center for Disease Control report states. The rural south accounted for 23-percent of new HIV diagnosis.

With a more geographically dispersed population of people living with HIV in the south, the report stated, prevention and treatment present unique challenges.

In effort of reaching those populations, the FDOH pinned this year's National HIV Testing Day theme as "Test your way. Do it today." "It serves as a reminder that HIV testing has never been more convenient because there are more ways than ever to get tested," an FDOH in Holmes and Washington counties news release stated.

"Florida remains a national leader in HIV testing, with over 1,400 registered HIV test sites which provide high-quality, confidential testing services at low or no cost."

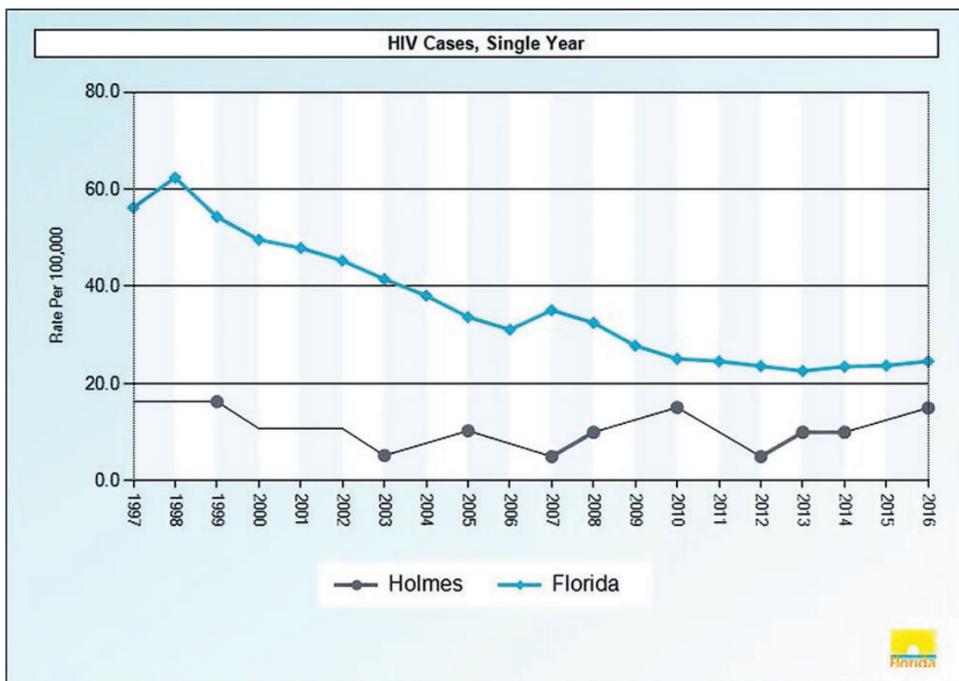

Last year, more than 340,000 HIV tests were done at state-registered testing sites.

In addition to convenience, FDOH emphasizes early diagnosis.

"Studies have shown that providing antiretroviral therapy as early as possible after diagnosis improves a patient's health, reduces transmission and can eventually lead to undetectable HIV viral loads."

Did you know?

PrEP lowers your chances of getting infected.

Centers for Disease Control

Pre-exposure prophylaxis (or PrEP) is when people at very high risk for HIV take HIV medicines daily to lower their chances of getting infected. PrEP can stop HIV from taking hold and spreading throughout your body. It is highly effective for preventing HIV if used as prescribed, but it is much less effective when not taken consistently.

PrEP may be a good option for you if:

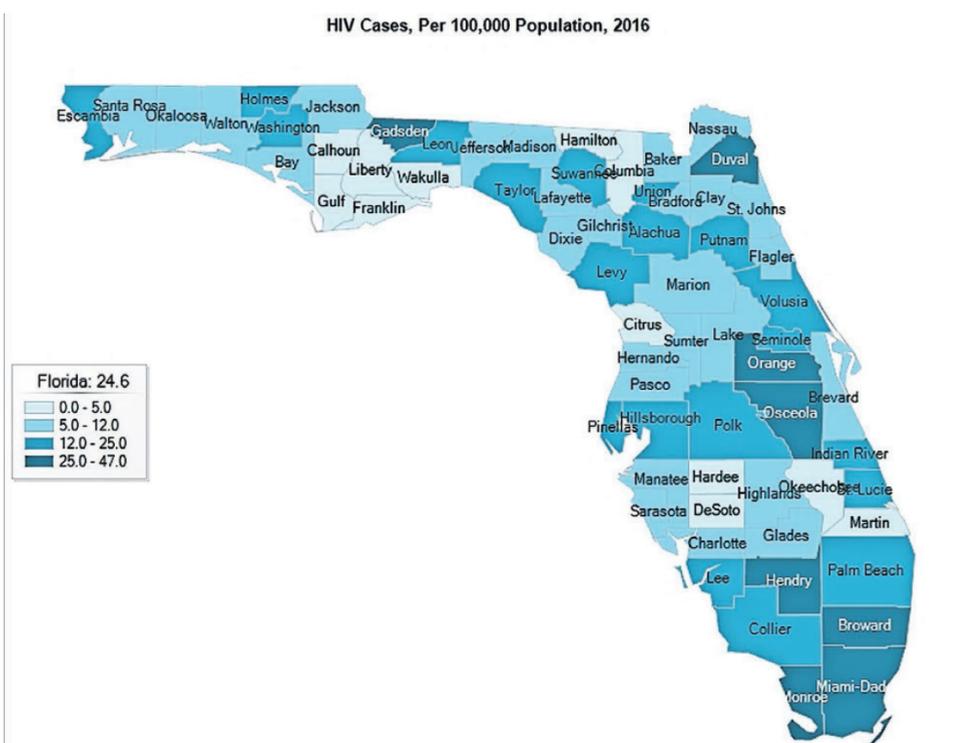

- Your partner lives with HIV - Your partner's HIV status is not known.
- You've had an STD in the past 6 months.
- You use injection drugs.
- Your partner uses

injection drugs.

Daily PrEP reduces the risk of getting HIV from sex by more than 90%. Among people who inject drugs, it reduces the risk by more than 70%. Your risk of getting HIV from sex can be even lower if you combine PrEP with condoms and other prevention methods.

PrEP should be taken every day. People who take PrEP should see their health care provider every 3 months for follow-up and prescription refills.

PrEP is covered by most insurance programs. If you don't have insurance, you can get medication assistance to help pay for PrEP.

Harley, stung by tariffs, shifts some of its production overseas

By Ivan Moreno
The Associated Press

MILWAUKEE — Production of Harley-Davidson motorcycles sold in Europe will move from U.S. factories to facilities overseas, the Milwaukee-based company announced Monday, a consequence of the retaliatory tariffs the EU is imposing on American exports in an escalating trade war with the Trump administration.

President Donald Trump has used the iconic American motorcycle maker as an example of a U.S. business harmed by trade barriers in other countries, but Harley had warned that tariffs could negatively impact its sales.

The European Union on Friday began rolling out tariffs on American imports including bourbon, peanut butter and orange juice. The EU tariffs on $3.4 billion worth of U.S. products are retaliation for duties the Trump administration is imposing on European steel and aluminum.

The company said in a regulatory filing Monday that EU tariffs on its motorcycles exported from the U.S. jumped between 6 percent and 31 percent, adding about $2,200 per average motorcycle exported from the U.S. to the EU.

The impact on U.S. workers because of Harley-Davidson's decision was not immediately clear. Harley-Davidson declined interview requests Monday but said in prepared remarks that the company "maintains a strong commitment to U.S.-based manufacturing which is valued by riders globally."

Harley-Davidson Inc.

sold almost 40,000 motorcycles in the EU last year, its second-largest market after the United States, according to the company. The EU sales make up almost 16.4 percent of Harley-Davidson's worldwide sales. In the U.S., Harley-Davidson sold 147,972 motorcycles last year, according to company data.

"Increasing international production to alleviate the EU tariff burden is not the company's preference, but represents the only sustainable option to make its motorcycles accessible to customers in the EU and maintain a viable business in Europe," the company said in its prepared remarks.

Harley-Davidson said it will not raise its prices to avert "an immediate and lasting detrimental impact" on sales in Europe. It will instead absorb a significant amount of the cost in the near term. It anticipates the cost for the rest of the year to be approximately $30 million to $45 million.

Shifting the production overseas could take up to 18 months, the motorcycle maker said.

The company is already struggling with falling sales. In January, it said it would consolidate its Kansas City, Missouri, plant into its York, Pennsylvania, facility. U.S. motorcycle sales peaked at more than 1.1 million in 2005 but then plummeted during the recession. It wasn't immediately known whether any other facilities would be consolidated.

"Harley-Davidson's announcement today is the latest slap in the face to the loyal, highly-skilled workforce that made Harley an iconic American brand," Robert Martinez Jr., president of the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, said in a statement. The union represents Harley-Davidson workers in Milwaukee, and the Kansas City and York plants.

"Will Harley use any excuse to ship jobs overseas?" Martinez added. "Does Harley even understand what 'Made in America' means?"

The Trump administration has started fights with trading partners around the world, imposing tariffs on imported steel and aluminum, provoking retaliation from close U.S. allies including the European Union, Canada, Mexico and Turkey. And it has announced tariffs on $50 billion in Chinese goods — a tariff list that could swell to $450 billion if Beijing refuses to back down and counter-punches with retaliatory moves.

"More firms will follow Harley's lead and move production overseas," says Mary Lovely, a Syracuse University economist who studies trade. "Can't blame them. Many companies are being put in very difficult positions."

Stocks skid as trade worries pull tech lower

By Marley Jay
The Associated Press

NEW YORK — U.S. stocks slumped Monday as investors grew concerned that the technology sector, a pillar of the long-running bull market, could be dragged into the broadening trade dispute between the U.S. and China.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell for the ninth time in 10 days.

Stocks sank after the Wall Street Journal and Bloomberg News reported that the administration intends to limit exports of some high-tech products to China, and will limit investment in technology firms by companies with substantial Chinese ownership. Treasury Secretary Steven Mnuchin suggested the investment restrictions wouldn't be limited to China and the losses deepened. The Dow Jones Industrial Average lost as much as 496 points.

The market recovered some of those losses after Peter Navarro, one of President Donald Trump's top trade advisers, told CNBC there was no plan for investment restrictions and that the administration's probe into alleged technology theft is limited to China.

"We hear one thing one hour and something that contradicts it the next hour or the next day," said Randy Frederick, vice president of trading and derivatives for Charles Schwab. "Nobody knows what to think or what to believe. It makes it really tough to invest."

All but one of the 72 technology companies listed on the S&P 500 index fell Monday. Those companies have done far better than the broader market over the last year and a half and investors had considered them to be less vulnerable to tariffs than other sectors like manufacturing.

Taxes by the U.S. on tens of billions of dollars in imports from China, and retaliatory taxes by China on U.S. goods, are set to take effect in less than two weeks.

While few investors expect a full-blown trade war, Frederick said talks appear to be going in the wrong direction.

"Every day you get closer to those particular dates it gets more worrisome," he said. Frederick said that is likely to lead to more market volatility.

US new-home sales climbed 6.7 pct in May

By Josh Boak
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Sales of new U.S. homes jumped 6.7 percent in May, with purchases in the South accounting for all of the monthly gains.

The Commerce Department said Monday that new homes sold last month at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 689,000, up from 646,000 in April. The South reported monthly sales growth of 17.9 percent, while sales were flat in the Midwest and fell in the Northeast and West.

For the first five months of this year, new-home sales have risen 8.8 percent as a solid job market and shortage of existing homes on the market have boosted demand. In a sign that buyers are eagerly seeking out properties among a diminished inventory, there was a 17.4 percent surge last month in the sale of homes before construction begins.

"With fewer buying options among existing homes, homebuyer demand is shifting towards new builds," said Ben Ayers, senior economist at the insurance company

Nationwide.

Buyers are also facing additional pressures as home values are generally rising faster than incomes and average 30-year mortgage rates have risen to 4.57 percent from 3.90 percent a year ago. Both of these factors are increasing the monthly costs for repaying home loans.

Aaron Terrazas, a senior economist at the real estate firm Zillow, said that sales growth was strong, yet construction was still running below historic levels given population growth.

"We're building roughly 2.7 homes for every 1,000 Americans — well below historic averages from the 1980s and 1990s of about 4.2 homes per 1,000 residents," Terrazas said.

Still, the government report on new-home sales can be volatile on a monthly basis, especially when any growth or setbacks are focused in one region of the country. May's median sales price dropped 3.3 percent from a year ago to $313,000. But the decline was largely because the sales growth was concentrated in the South, where new homes are generally cheaper.

BONIFAY – The Holmes County High School student parking lot and Bonifay K8 access road will be getting new milling with the Holmes County School Boards approval when they met in regular session on June 19.

HCSB will be purchasing milled asphalt for the project from the Holmes County Board of County Commissioners for nine dollars a ton for 20.5 tons. Total cost equaling $8,100 to be paid out of the maintenance fund.

Bethlehem High School and HCHS will also be receiving hand rails at the cost of $12,800 also to be paid out of maintenance funds.

A representative from Blue Cross Blue Shield of Florida advised the board of rates for the upcoming fiscal year.

“I am pleased to tell you that you will have the same coverage, the same benefits, at no increase in rates,” he said. “It pays to have a low claim year as you can see.”

The board approved the acceptance of a $56,000 grant from a federal government program directed at low income and rural school districts.

According to the Florida Department of Education website, the Title V, Part B, Subpart 2 program is funded under the Rural Education Achievement Program (REAP) and is designed to assist rural school districts in using Federal resources more effectively to improve the quality of instruction and student academic achievement.

The grant is an annual recurring program.

In other business, the board recognized 15 teachers as High Impact Teachers at the meeting. High Impact teachers are determined by FDOE for averages based on date from all the state-wide tests they require.

Those teachers are as follows: Natalie Bomann, Miranda Boyd, Jeffrey English, Stacey English, Melissa Hudson, Winston Jones, Kathy Lee, Wendy McGowan, Catherine Peel, Rebecca Peterson, Heather Rich, Shelley Smith, Amy Tate, Valerie Wink and Leigh Yates.

Holmes County School Board will meet again in regular session at 6 p.m. on July 3.

Mother and child: Breaking the strongest bond

Suzette Martinez Standing

Mother and child is the strongest bond. Under a new immigration policy, indescribable pain is inflicted upon children through forced separation. Nearly 2,000 children — about 100 of them younger than 4-years-old — are in mass detention centers awaiting family or foster care.

Grieving mothers who lost their children to U.S. custody have no access. This is a "zero tolerance" immigration policy used against asylum seekers and undocumented families making illegal entry through Southwest borders.

Recently, seated at a dinner table with strangers, I said, "It's heart-breaking. There is no justification for that level of inhumanity."

But one man felt there was. "They're illegally coming into the country so it's their own fault. It seems harsh, but (President Donald) Trump's just showing he means business. It won't last long and it'll all get sorted out."

I said, "There is no defense ever for traumatizing children."

I looked at his wife. She lowered her eyes. She couldn't even look at me and I know why. Woman to woman, we understand, on a visceral level, a mother's anguish.

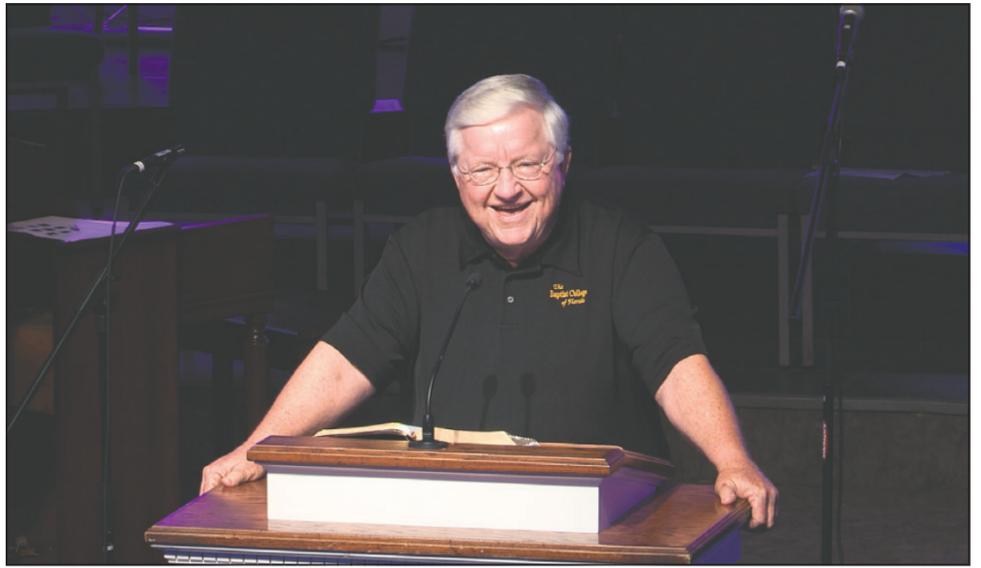

Think about your own children, grandchildren, and imagine them taken away for an unknown length of time toward an uncertain end. Until reunited, the horror might feel like being buried alive.

The U.S. was never about tearing families apart. Let's not start now.

Former First Lady Laura Bush, called it "cruel" and "immoral." In the Washington Post, Bush wrote: "People on all sides agree that our immigration system isn't working, but the injustice of zero tolerance is not the answer."

Currently, this policy is heavy on fear and punishment, but light on logistics. No process is in place for reuniting children with their

FRANCES M. LEE

Frances Michalene (Mike) Lee went home to heaven to be with her Lord and Savior Jesus Christ on June 19, 2018 at Southeast Alabama Medical Center in Dothan, AL. She passed peacefully from this world surrounded by her family and loved ones following a lengthy illness. She was a faithful servant of Christ for her entire life, having made a profession of faith while a child. At the time of her passing, she was a member of First Baptist Church in Bonifay, Florida. Mike, as she was affectionately known to all of her family, friends and loved ones, was born in Panama City, Florida on July 20, 1953 and to her parents Francis B. Hays and Mellie V. Hays. She was raised in Chipley, Florida during her youth and graduated from Chipley High School in 1971. At the time of her passing, she was 64 years old. Shortly after graduating from high school, Mike began working in the banking business with the Florida National Bank in Chipley as a teller and eventually became the head teller. After marrying in February 1973, she and her husband Bill moved to Pensacola, Florida in January of 1974 for him to continue his college education. She transferred to the Florida National Bank in Pensacola and quickly rose through the ranks there to the position of "office in training". When he completed his degree, they moved to Calhoun County, Florida and she continued her banking career for several more years at the Florida Bank in Chipley again for several months and then at the Ellis Bank in Blountstown. After a period of time in the banking business, she decided she wanted to do something different and opened a small restaurant in Altha, Florida known as the Wildcat's Den for a period of time. When her husband accepted a position as a principal in Bonifay in the summer of 1983, she again worked in the banking business for a short time at the Bank of Bonifay. But after just a few months, she began to experience a calling and desire to work with small children. And shortly thereafter, Mike began working in her true and passionate calling of life by opening The Caring Place Daycare and Childcare Center which was located at the First United Methodist Church. After several years of operation in the church facilities, the daycare operation outgrew the space available and Mike and Bill purchased a piece of property and relocated the childcare center to this new location. Upon moving, the name of the childcare operation was changed to Littlest Angels Early Learning Center. She continued to own and operate this childcare and pre-school center until closing the business in 2013. In total, Mike owned and operated these two childcare and pre-school programs for over 25 years meeting the needs of hundreds of families and children during these years in Bonifay. She then began working in the banking business again as the Chipley office branch manager for the Bank of Bonifay. She continued in this work until the bank was closed and taken over by a different company. She stayed out of work for a time but after several months, she began working for the Washington County School Board as the lead pre-kindergarten teacher at Vernon Elementary School in the fall of 2014. She continued in this capacity for 3 years until being forced to discontinue work in the fall of 2017 due to her health. During her years of owning and operating childcare centers and pre-schools and while working with the school district as a pre-kindergarten teacher, she touched the lives of hundreds of children. She loved to work with children and help them learn on a daily basis. Without a doubt, working with young children was her true passion and calling in life. Mike loved people and was a gracious and caring person to all she met. She was always willing to go the extra mile to help someone in need and truly had a servant's heart. She liked to travel, loved her family and friends deeply and enjoyed spending time with those she loved, especially her grandchildren. One of her favorite activities was to gather several of the grandchildren up and take them all to the latest movie playing on the big screen. These trips always included large buckets of buttered popcorn, candy treats and drinks. She was a great cook with one of her specialties being to prepare large pans of dressing with all of the trimmings at Thanksgiving and Christmas each year. She also loved to decorate her home at Christmas time annually and to display her large collection of Santa Claus and snowman statues. She loved music and enjoyed singing with a beautiful voice, especially as she traveled down the road on family trips. She will be missed greatly by her family, loved ones, and her many friends. Heaven is a little more lively than just a few days ago with her joining the heavenly choir.

She is survived by her husband of 45 years James W. (Bill) Lee, daughters Ashley L. Hall and husband Dave, Abby L. Register and husband Thomas, Anna M. Bagley and her husband Garrett. She is also survived by her 9 grandchildren - Kayleigh Hall, Kami Hall, Kloe Hall, Samuel Hall, Maddie Moore, Marlaina Register, Tatum Register, Landon Register and Berklee Bagley, mother Juanita Hays, brother George Hays and wife Jane, sister Cindy Mitchell and husband Lee, 7 nephews, 4 nieces and 13 great nieces and nephews. Preceding her in death were her parents and niece Kasi Mitchell.

A Visitation was held on Saturday, June 23, 2018 from 12:30-2:00 PM at First Baptist Church of Bonifay with a Celebration of life service that followed at 2:00 PM with Rev. Ed Creel, Dr. Shelly Chandler and Rev. Ike Steverson officiating with Sims Funeral Home directing. In honor of Mike and her love for small children, the family asked that donations be made to St. Jude's Children's Hospital, Children's Miracle Network or Make A Wish Foundation in lieu of flowers.

GRACE F. REEDER

the years. Her health declined over the past seven years and was a resident at The Haven of Our Lady of Peace. Her good friend, James Hewett, and her devoted sister, Lois Jean Hughes, took turns keeping her company and ensuring she was well cared for. This past semester, students lined up in front of the school's dining facility, The Deese Center, enthusiastically waiting for the late night breakfast to begin. The breakfast opened with a student-led blessing as students funneled through the doors and were served a hot breakfast by Kinchen and other faculty members.

BCF Seniors Abigail Richards and Stacey Andongo have been coming to Midnight Breakfast every semester since they began their journey at BCF but said that this year's breakfast was "by far, one of the best."

Kinchen expressed that he truly enjoys this special time with the students as he encourages them to finish strong and give an account of what they have learned during the semester. Following the late night breakfast, students dispersed to work on study guides, review material, and complete their exams.

families. Youngsters are warehoused until it gets "sorted out," in the words of our dinner companion.

For how long? At a temporary shelter in Brownsville, Texas, 1,500 boys, ages 10 to 17, are locked 21-22 hours per day inside a former Walmart. The average wait for a placement decision is 52 days. The current spike of 2,000 children and more will slow the system as tent cities pop up to meet the demand.

The Office of Refugee Resettlement is part of the federal Department of Health and Human Services. From October to December 2017, the agency looked into the whereabouts of 7,635 migrant minors — teenagers — who had been assigned placement and HHS reported 1,475 are missing.

Psychologically, will PTSD and issues of terror and abandonment figure into the lives and futures of these innocents? Can anyone say with certainty a prolonged, torturous separation from one's mother will not have ill effects on a child?

Many intelligent and good Americans find immigration laws complex and hard to fathom. The simple reaction is to support whatever appears to protect our interests. Some may argue that laws and policies are legal and therefore, must be obeyed.

Being legal does not make it right.

Slavery was legal. Apartheid was legal. The Holocaust was legal.

Immigration reform cannot involve destroying families in such a cruel and chaotic way.

Early season pea shoots provide a flavorful intro to summer

By Ari LeVaux

Garlic with pea shoots is a combination worth exploring. It's hardly a secret, especially in Asia where pea greens are widely consumed. In many regions, peas are sown throughout the summer specifically for their greens, every week or so like American farmers plant lettuce. A simple, heaping pile of pea greens in brown sauce is one of my favorite Chinese foods.

The culinary deconstructionists in the Cook's Illustrated test kitchen, meanwhile, have broken down the savory nature of pea greens into "grassy," "slightly bitter" and "tastes like peas but not sweet." They conclude this flavor is maximized in a pan with nothing more than garlic, salt and fat, and I have seen no evidence to the contrary.

Unless your local store has an extra-special produce section, you'll only find pea shoots at the farmers market, or in your backyard. Before you harvest from your own pea patch, consider the trade-off between a mouthful of greenery today and a handful of peas tomorrow. The peas you already have in the ground, climbing their way up the trellis and probably showing some pale yellow flowers, perhaps dangling some little peas that your kids are waiting patiently to eat? You'd better let those gangly climbers live.

But if they need to be thinned, eat the ones you pull. And you can always trim the shoots for a quick snack. The last 6 inches of a 3-foot plant are heavenly, and a little trim here and there won't stop progress. Pruned plants will continue growing undaunted, sometimes with more vigor in response to the insult.

Elsewhere in the garden, the appearance of garlic flowers, aka scapes, marks the New Year according to the garlic calendar. After months of eating soft, sprouting garlic cloves, we can eat new garlic. The plant is alive and juicy and the flavor is sharp and spicy. Scapes are the first taste of the season's new garlic crop.

Scapes, like pea greens, are curly. Each garlic flower wants to go around twice before uncurling and standing up, eventually opening into a purple flower that looks like a celestial explosion.

China Train Pea Greens

- 1 bunch pea greens, chopped or left whole
- 1 handful garlic scapes, chopped into inch-long sections
- 1-2 tablespoons butter
- 1-2 tablespoons olive oil
- Black pepper, salt, garlic powder, to taste
- Bacon (optional, sort of); I keep my bacon frozen and cut it lengthwise off of one end, like slicing a sausage but through the ends of several pieces of frozen bacon at once. Most heavy knives have no problem because the fat prevents bacon from freezing rock-hard. It doesn't take a lot of these little bacon bits, sometimes called lardons, to make a difference in a meal. Use a slice of bacon's worth of lardons for this dish.

For the Train Sauce:

- 4 tablespoons soy sauce
- 4 tablespoons oyster sauce
- 2 teaspoons fish sauce
- 2 teaspoons sesame oil
- 3 tablespoons lime juice

Make the sauce by stirring together the ingredients. Cook the lardons (if using) patiently, until they are crispy, then remove from pan. Add the oil, butter and scapes, turn the pan to medium, and wait for the glorious fragrance of fresh garlic to fill the room.

Add the pea sprouts; spread them around so they are evenly distributed, and wait until they flatten down, about 30 seconds. While still bright green, turn the pan to high and add the sauce. Bring to a boil and let the sauce boil 30 seconds, then stir it around and turn it off.

Serve with the carbohydrate of your choice, or unadulterated in all of its savory, tangy, green garlicky glory.
