Couple charged with exploiting the elderly

From staff reports

WESTVILLE — A husband and wife have been charged with forging several checks belonging to a 71-year-old Westville woman, according to a report from the Holmes County Sheriff's Office.

D. Ammons

N. Ammons

An HCSO deputy first responded to the complaint on June 22.

The victim stated her son, David H. Ammons, 34, and his wife, Natalie E. Ammons, 33, were taking her checks without her permission and forging her signature.

The victim advised that her signature had been forged on checks totaling nearly $500 and written to a store in Ponce de Leon.

She went on to tell an investigator that the suspects had previously been verbally abusive toward her and had also made threats of physical harm.

Both David Ammons and Natalie Ammons are charged with exploitation of the elderly, check fraud, and theft.

POPLAR SPRINGS - When a leading robotics team was robbed of a few items while on its way to a national STEM competition last month, individuals from throughout the region responded with financial gifts of support.

"We raised over $2,600 through the GoFundMe page and other small donations," said Laura Wells, teacher at Poplar Springs High School and assistant robotics coach.

In addition to the funds from the crowd-fundraising page, a donation of $3,000 provided immediate relief and topped the $4,000 goal.

BONIFAY — Bonifay City Council is eyeing grant funding for the beautification of downtown.

Dewberry Engineering came before the council when they met in regular session July 9 to seek approval for seeking grant funds from the Florida Department of Transportation and its beautification of state roadway projects. The council directed Alyssa Pate with Dewberry Engineers to get with the Downtown Revitalization Committee to apply for as many areas as possible.

Each area is eligible to receive up to $100,000 if approved for the funds.

In other business, invoices to be paid to Carr, Riggs and Ingram Accounting Firm were approved for payments totaling $19,216.00 for audit services rendered. The monies will come from general funds.

Bids for surplus vehicles were opened during the meeting last night and totaled $2,805 for various cars, trucks and heavy equipment with the proceeds being put back into the general fund.

In other items, the ordinance concerning code enforcement was tabled until the next regular session meeting when the city attorney will be in attendance.

The Bonifay City Council will meet again in regular session at 6 p.m. on July 23.

Jacqueline Bostick named editor of The News and Times-Advertiser

From staff reports

WASHINGTON AND HOLMES COUNTIES — Jacqueline Bostick has been selected as editor of Washington County News and Holmes County Times-Advertiser. She stepped into the role effectively June 2.

"I'm pleased to announce Jacqueline Bostick as the full-time editor of The News and Times-Advertiser," said The News and Times-Advertiser Publisher Nicole Barefield. "As interim editor and active reporter and writer, Jacqueline has demonstrated her ability to manage news operations - print and digital - in two counties, while sustaining strong coverage of the news, activities and issues that are important to our communities."

"I have great confidence in Jacqueline and her team to provide excellent, local coverage of news and issues relevant to Washington and Holmes counties, and encourage our readers to reach out to her with their ideas or concerns," she added.

Bostick, who has served as a reporter for both papers since August 2017, received her first print journalism experience with The Panama City News Herald.

In 2014, Florida Press Club acknowledged Bostick's work at The News Herald with two second-place awards in the categories of hard feature and health care.

She operated as interim editor for nearly four months following the March 9 departure of former editor Carol Kent Wyatt.

"The communities of Washington and Holmes counties have allured me to the concerns and celebrations of agricultural industry and life," Bostick said. "Beyond that, it's a special time to be a part of your growing communities."

"From the development of the 79 Corridor and its budding economic growth and potential to educational milestones in safety and success, I'm excited to play a role in saying 'yes, that happened right here in Washington and Holmes.'"

Bostick is an avid traveler who aims to report news from all sides.

Her love for traveling abroad has brought home her love for the nation and its democracy, which reflects in her insatiable desire to cover human interest stories.

When away from the newsroom, Bostick enjoys anything local — restaurants, books by local authors, networking, and the beauty of the area's natural resources.

She is a graduate of Florida State University.

Bostick may be reached by emailing: jbostick@chipleypaper.com.

Puerto Rico, USVI expect heavy rain from Beryl remnants

By Danica Coto
The Associated Press

YABUCOA, Puerto Rico — Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands braced for heavy rains and strong winds Monday as remnants of the new season's first hurricane provided an initial test of how far they've recovered from last year's devastating storms.

Tropical Storm Beryl disintegrated after rushing over Dominica and into the eastern Caribbean, but the U.S. National Hurricane Center said the remnants still could bring 2 to 3 inches (5 to 8 centimeters) of rain pounding down on homes still damaged by September's Hurricane Maria. Forecasters said this could unleash flooding and landslides in Puerto Rico and the U.S. Virgin Islands.

Outages were already reported across Puerto Rico early Monday as Gov. Ricardo Rossello urged people without sturdy roofs to move in with relatives or go to one of 14 government shelters that have opened.

Some 60,000 people in the U.S. territory still have only tarps for roofs blown off by Maria, and more than 1,500 customers are still without power more than nine months after the storm.

The Category 5 hurricane caused more than an estimated $100 billion in damage, killed dozens of people by the most conservative estimates and destroyed up to 75 percent of electricity transmission lines. The National Weather Service issued an alert warning that heavy showers and winds of more than 50 mph (80 kph) were approaching Puerto Rico's east coast Monday morning. The storm's center was expected to pass just south of the island.

The U.S. Virgin Islands, meanwhile, announced that schools and government offices would be closed in St. Croix.

Beryl, which had been the Atlantic season's first hurricane, was losing tropical storm status late Sunday when it crossed Dominica, another island that had been battered by Hurricane Maria, which hit as a Category 5 storm and killed dozens of people.

Marshall Alexander, with Dominica's Meteorological Service, told The Associated Press that no landslides or widespread flooding have been reported. A curfew also has been lifted.

"Definitely, we were spared the worst," he said.

The storm's remnants were expected to pass just south of Puerto Rico, which could see sustained winds of 15 to 25 mph (25 to 40 kph) and gusts of up to 50 mph (80 kph), forecasters said. It also dumped torrential rain in the U.S. Virgin Island of St. Croix, with the National Weather Service warning of winds of more than 30 mph and fallen trees and light posts.

Those living near Puerto Rico's south coast, the first region hit by Maria, were wary of the new storm even if it was no longer a hurricane.

"We're a little bit scared because of what we've been through," said Jose Bultron, a delivery man in the southeast town of Humacao. "This brings back memories ... but we forge ahead."

Flooding is a big concern for those still living in homes that have not been fully rebuilt since Maria. Lourdes De Jesus, who traveled from West Springfield, Massachusetts, to help repair her mother's house in southeast Yabucoa, said the roof consists of tarp and recycled zinc and leaks even during a light storm.

"I don't know what we're going to do," she said. "We don't have the money to spend on zinc roofing."

Meanwhile, Tropical Storm Chris was squatting on Monday about 215 miles (345 kilometers) off the coast of the Carolinas. Forecasters expect it will gain hurricane strength before moving up Gulf-stream waters on a path that could cause life-threatening surf on East Coast beaches this week.

Chris had top winds of 60 mph (95 kph) Monday morning, and was expected to remain nearly stationary through Tuesday before moving northeastward as a hurricane.

It was far enough out to sea that no coastal watches or warnings were in effect, even for the closest point of land, Cape Hatteras, North Carolina.

Tad Wilson runs for School Board District 1

Special to Times-Advertiser

My name is Milton "Tad" Wilson, better known as just "Tad". I am a candidate for Holmes County School Board District 1.

I am a life long Holmes County resident. I graduated in 1981 from Holmes County High School. I have been married to my wife Pat Carnley Wilson for 36 years. We have two children and 7 grandchildren.

I've been a member of West Bonifay Baptist

Wilson

Church for over 50 years and have been doing music and youth for more than 30 years. As you can see, I am well-vested in the future of our children's education.

Please vote for and elect me as your next School Board member for District 1. May God bless Holmes County and America, for me and my house we will serve the Lord.

"This just means the world," she said, glancing down at the check. "It really does. These boys and Mr. Paul - there's nobody that works harder than them."

Wells launched the campaign after Poplar Springs High School recent graduates Joseph Godwin, Bryson Potts and their robotics coach Trey Paul, discovered their laptops had been stolen out of their vehicle while at a stop in Atlanta on their way to the International SeaPerch competition last month being held at the University of Massachusetts Dartmouth.

SeaPerch is an underwater remotely operated vehicle (ROV) competition, in which, the students have won at the regional level for three consecutive years.

"We all know there are some bad people out there but we really want them to know and remember that there are also a lot of good people around, and that people who work hard and do the right thing are more likely to have things go their way. The community had already pitched in, we're just reinforcing that the path they've chosen is a good one."

- Allan Bense

"I thought maybe the community would come out again for this, and it did," Wells said.

The lump sum donation came from area businessman and politician Allan Bense.

"It's always gratifying to try and help people who are doing everything they can to better themselves and make their community a better place," Bense said. "Here you have students going out of their way on their own time to participate in high-level tech activities with teachers willing to help them, and someone steals their equipment."

"We all know there are some bad people out there but we really want them to know and remember that there are also a lot of good people around, and that people who work hard and do the right thing are more likely to have things go their way," he added. "The community had already pitched in, we're just reinforcing that the path they've chosen is a good one."

Wells said the feedback from the team was one of gratitude and surprise. And, although the team did not win in the robotics competition, Wells said everyone was glad because - despite the robbery - they were able to successfully operate their robot and represent their school, region and state with pride.

"The community came out and the really helped us," Wells said. "This means everything to them, it means everything to me."

Setting It Straight

A story that ran on A2 in our July 11 edition incorrectly stated for which seat Milton "Tad" Wilson is running for. It is Holmes County School Board District 1.

A legacy of freedom

Wednesday this nation celebrated an act of political radicalism that proved to be, yes, revolutionary. On July 4, 1776, the Second Continental Congress approved a Declaration of Independence. It was not a governing document, nor did it compel England to renounce its claim to the 13 American colonies. Instead, it was an exposition of first principles followed by a recitation of grievances against the British crown, all employed to justify the colonialists' revolt.

Our independence was not secured until five years later, after numerous military battles that climaxed with the British defeat at Yorktown and concluded with the Treaty of Paris that recognized the United States.

However, we celebrate the Fourth because the Declaration represents the ideals on which this nation was founded. The document's themes of natural law, individual freedom and self-government are what make it timeless:

- All men are created equal.
- We are born with natural, God-given rights that cannot be abrogated by man-made government.
- When government tramples on those rights the people have a responsibility to change it or end it.

Thus does government earn its legitimacy only from the consent of the governed.

How those principles are applied remains an ever-evolving subject of debate.

Our national politics are more divisive than they have been in generations, and that is reflected in our culture. Civil discourse has eroded as Americans retreat into tribalism, often displaying their political preferences in their lifestyle choices — where they shop and eat, what they read and watch.

Although freedom often is viewed as something to be protected from outside threats — be they from a British empire or terrorist organizations operating overseas — it also can be eroded from within. Increasingly, our First Amendment freedoms of speech and press are under attack from the left and the right in attempts to sow distrust and silence opponents.

Spirited debate using good-faith arguments to advocate for preferred policy prescriptions is essential to the health of the republic. Demonizing political foes and poisoning the marketplace of ideas pave the way for national decline.

Among America's greatest strengths are its blessings of individual freedom. Yet we cannot lose sight of the fact that these separate threads are to be woven together into a cohesive tapestry. Right now, it is fraying at the edges and requires repair.

Author Isabel Paterson, in her seminal work "God of the Machine," wrote that the establishment of the United States "was the first time a nation was ever founded on reasoned political principles, proceeding from the axiom that man's birthright is freedom. Whoever is fortunate enough to be an American citizen came into the greatest inheritance man has ever enjoyed."

Do not squander that legacy.

Retirement party honors Bertha Kolmetz Padgett

Hazel Tison

Last week was a momentous celebration for a long time employee of Doctors Memorial Hospital. Bertha Kolmetz Padgett was honored with a surprise retirement party in the board room at the hospital. Family members, fellow employees and community supporters gathered with their covered dishes of country cooking to honor this country girl from Millers Ferry/Shell Landing. A large cake prepared by the cafeteria staff proclaiming the retirement of this beloved coworker, affectionately known as Bert, was prominent among the colorful decorations. Neighbors had assisted in bringing this busy lady to the surprise celebration.

Following graduation from Vernon High School in 1952, Bertha did like so many of us did in that time and married soon after graduation and she and husband R.J. Padgett began her family soon after. It wasn't until 1968 that she graduated from Chipola with her LPN certification. Her first job was at Jackson Hospital in Marianna where she worked until she returned to school to earn her R.N. Degree. At that time she worked in Mercy Hospital in Champaign, Illinois. In 1981 she earned the R.N. Degree and returned home to Washington County and worked at Gulf Coast Hospital in Panama City. She joined the staff at DMH in 1999 and has been here ever since. In the last couple of years, she has been on "as needed" status, but her daughter Patty who is an R.N. in the operating room at DMH says that Bert is most happy when working. She said that she'll be moping about the house until she gets that call to come to work; then she gets her uniform on, prances about the house, putting on her make-up and her walking shoes and she is ready to go."

Bertha was born March 29, 1934 to the late John and Mit-tie (Jenkins) Kolmetz. She now lives on land homesteaded by her paternal grandfather, Fredrick Nicholas Kolmetz in the mid 1800s... The youngest child of 13 from the second marriage of her father, Bertha is the only one that survives. She is the mother of one daughter and three sons. At one time all her children were associated with DMH. Rick worked in dietary, Scott has a mobile nuclear medicine unit that services DMH, and Patty Seal, of course, is an OR nurse. She was working at Bay Medical in Panama City and was by our side when our dad, Hugh Wells died there in 1999. Bertha is confident that she will be well cared for in her old age (if she ever gets there) because all her children are married to nurses.

I have known Bert Padgett for most of my and her life. When I was about eight, I had my first visit to Millers Ferry. I had gone home with my Dad's cousins, the Bryant children whom I had never met. I rode with them in a two-mule wagon from our home on Bonifay Route One to that area where the Kolmetz also lived. On Wednesday, the Bryants were going to Prayer Meeting and I was expected to go with them. Since Primitive Baptists didn't have prayer meeting, I was nervous because I thought I would have to pray out loud, but they assured me that I would not. Bertha and her brother Delbert sang a solo, "Oh, Be Careful Little Hands What you do." I would gladly have sung with them had I known the song. Later, attending Vernon School, I knew Delbert and Bertha.

Her family still loves singing. She also loves to travel and she loves her home and gardening. She still enjoys canning and freezing products from her garden. Living near Holmes Creek and the Choctawhatchee River, Bert loves fishing in this natural habitat. But she loves best of all her work as a nurse and her favorite time to look back on was when she worked in Labor and Delivery. Helping bring those new lives into the world and seeing the promise in them was a real joy. However, she won't be at a loss for something to fill her time as she loves helping people. Her Christian faith sustains her and leads her to helping others. Although she has experienced a lot of adversity and tragedy: twice she lost her home to fire; in 1994 she lost her home to the flooding of the Choctawhatchee and Holmes Creek; she lost her youngest son in an accident when he was 18; and her youngest grandson died of cancer at age 28, Bert is confident of the Blood of Jesus and His ability to carry her through all these things. Her life reminds her of the song "Some through the fire; Some through the flood; Some through great trials, But all through the blood." She is a shining example of the optimism her faith brings. The staff of Doctors Memorial will certainly miss the optimistic attitude of Bertha Kolmetz Padgett.

The real border war is just beginning

John Shoemaker

The conflict on the Mexican border is continuing and about to get worse.

While a problem for decades, everything may ratchet upwards with a new president of Mexico.

For the past decade or more, the focus has been on drugs and illegals. Most of those killed have been in Mexico, whether tortured, dismembered, hung from bridges or simply shot by cartels.

The statistics are staggering. Mexico had over 29,000 murdered in 2017 with some estimates much higher, mostly cartel induced. But Brazil and Columbia also had much higher murder rates, nearly double.

While in the U.S., combined with opiate drug use, over 60,000 were killed in 2017 from overdoses. Unfortunately, the situation is complicated by some legitimate pharmaceutical firms like Purdue, contributing massively to the opiate problem.

Drug smuggling Central and South American countries are considered the most dangerous in the world with Mexico more dangerous than the world's war zones.

The growing, refinement, and shipment of drugs includes marijuana and more lethal crack-cocaine, pure heroin, opiates and a list of methamphetamines and derivatives which flood the U.S.

But the election of Lopez Obrador will change the dynamics dramatically and should raise the problem at the border to a whole new level.

With Enrique Nieto as president of Mexico, the fight continued against the cartels with a cooperative spirit with U.S. authorities. But the results were disappointing. Obrador, an avowed leftist, says he will take a different approach.

He will end the war against the cartels and legalize drugs. He says he will attack corruption and may offer amnesty and support to farmers. He will support any person from any country to pass through his country to the United States as he believes it is a natural right of all humans to do so.

Borders be damned. Can you imagine a Mexico with legalized drugs?

Recently the news has been consumed by as many as 50,000 illegal immigrants coming across our southern border costing the U.S. over $1 billion a year for housing and food for them in detention camps.

Imagine facing an increase by five or tenfold?

Broadcast news media and liberals in the U.S. have been screaming about children torn from mothers by ICE. Nobody wants to admit this is about to get worse.

Sheriff's Corner

Holmes County Sheriff John Tate

It's all about kids in this month's Sheriff's Corner!

We are gearing up for our summer camp, set to take place next week, July 16-20 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Holmes County Agricultural Center.

There are some spots still open for children ages 6-12 for this fun-packed day camp, which will offer various outdoor activities, as well as team and self-esteem-building exercises.

Lunch, snacks, and transportation (if needed) will be provided.

This is a collaborative effort between the Holmes County Sheriff's Office and Florida Sheriffs Youth Ranches. Pick up a registration form at the Holmes County Sheriff's Office, located at 211 N. Oklahoma Street in Bonifay, or give us a call at 850-547-4421, and we are happy to email one to you. Please return the form by end of day Friday, July 13.

We are also looking forward to participating in this year's back to school event at Doctors Memorial Hospital on August 3, as well as another school supply event set for July 27 at our substation on Highway 90 in Ponce de Leon.

Both events will be held from 9 a.m. until noon on their respective days and will feature free school supplies and lots of fun for Holmes County children.

Look for more on these events in your local news media and on our social media pages and enjoy the rest of your summer safely.

If you would like to submit general questions about Sheriff's Office related topic to Sheriff John Tate, email: askthesheriff@holmescosheriff.org.

2 men arrested in drug sting

Staff Report

Johanson

Still

BONIFAY - Two Bonifay men were arrested Monday, in separated narcotic stings, for the sale of drugs.

A news release from Holmes County Sheriff's Office stated the first sting was with Derrick J. Johanson, 31, and then with Daniel Joseph Still, 38.

Johanson exchanged methamphetamine for cash in the first transaction, the release stated. During his subsequent arrest, Johanson had another bag of methamphetamine, as well as drug paraphernalia.

During the second controlled buy, Still also exchanged a bag containing methamphetamine for cash, according to the news release. As investigators were taking him into custody, Still had five additional bags of methamphetamine.

Johanson was charged with the sale of methamphetamine, possession of methamphetamine, and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Still was charged with the sale of methamphetamine, possession of methamphetamine.

Geneva man arrested for drug possession

By Staff Report

WESTVILLE - A Geneva, Alabama man was arrested for drug possession by Holmes County Sheriff's Office according to a news release.

A HCSO deputy responded to a report of a suspicious person in the area of Lake Victor Road in Westville on July 3.

The deputy made contact with the subject, identified as Andrew A. Townsend, 37, and after a search of the subject he was found to be in possession of a smoking pipe and a bag containing residue which tested positive for methamphetamine.

Townsend is charged with possession of methamphetamine and possession of drug paraphernalia.

Mini Fact:

The Parker Solar Probe will be able to collect images of the sun's magnetic poles.

Sixty years ago this month, President Dwight D. Eisenhower signed legislation establishing the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, or NASA. Since then, NASA has sent astronauts to the moon, to float outside spacecraft in outer space, and to live on the International Space Station (ISS). Its explorations of distant planets such as Mars and Saturn have given scientists worlds of new information to analyze.

The Mini Page celebrates this anniversary with an issue about what NASA has in store in the coming months.

InSight

At 4:05 a.m. Pacific time on May 5, NASA's InSight (Interior Exploration using Seismic Investigations, Geodesy and Heat Transport) spacecraft launched from Vandenberg Air Force Base in California.

An artist's idea of InSight working on Mars.

When InSight's lander arrives on Mars in November, it will explore the "red planet" to find out more about its interior, or inside.

Scientists have detected volcanoes on Mars, but they don't know if the planet experiences Marsquakes. InSight will look for seismic, or shaking, activity. A heat probe will move off the InSight lander and record temperatures. Other instruments will record wind and pressure and the properties, or qualities, of Mars' crust, mantle and core.

Radio science instruments will be able to measure Mars' core by determining how the sun affects the planet's orbit.

The data from InSight's mission will help scientists better understand how the other rocky planets in our solar system were first formed.

Parker Solar Probe

Later this month, NASA will launch the Parker Solar Probe, which will fly closer to the sun than any spacecraft ever has. Over the next seven years, Parker will complete seven "fly-bys" of Venus, using that planet's gravity to pull it closer to the sun.

An artist's idea of Parker flying near the sun.

Parker will enter the sun's corona, or atmosphere, and get within 3.8 million miles of the star. The spacecraft will have to withstand intense radiation and temperatures up to 2,500 degrees Fahrenheit.

As Parker orbits the sun, its instruments will gather data about how energy and heat move through the corona and why solar winds and solar energy particles change speed.

Station transportation

While the International Space Station orbits the Earth, NASA is working on new ways to send crews back and forth. NASA's Space Shuttle program was retired in 2011; since then, Russia's Soyuz spacecraft has been delivering astronauts to the station.

This year, Boeing plans to launch its CST-100 Starliner, and SpaceX will test its Crew Dragon. Soon these spacecraft will carry crews of four people to and from the space station, which means astronauts will be able to do more research.

The new spacesuit for the Boeing Starliner is lighter and more flexible than earlier spacesuits. Astronauts will wear the suit traveling to and from the station.

Science experiments, food and supplies are sent to the space station on four cargo spacecraft: the U.S.'s Orbital ATK Cygnus and SpaceX Dragon, Japan's HTV-II, and Russia's Progress.

Cook's Corner

Banana Bites

You'll need:

- 1 medium-large banana
- 4 heaping tablespoons reduced-fat whipped topping
- 2 tablespoons peanut butter
- 14 to 16 chocolate chips

* You'll need an adult's help with this recipe.

What to do:

1. Slice banana into 14 to 16 rounds.
2. Mix together whipped topping and peanut butter until well-blended.
3. Put a small dollop of mixture on top of each banana round.
4. Top each with a chocolate chip.
5. Chill in refrigerator for one hour before serving. Serves 2.

7 Little Words for Kids

Use the letters in the boxes to make a word with the same meaning as the clue. The numbers in parentheses represent the number of letters in the solution. Each letter combination can be used only once, but all letter combinations will be necessary to complete the puzzle.

1. contain (7) _____
2. computer in your pocket (10) _____
3. baby cow (4) _____
4. person guiding a team (5) _____
5. a year has 12 (6) _____
6. late part of the day (7) _____
7. Thanksgiving sauce (5) _____

Eco Note

The Earth's global average temperature combines the temperatures of all the hot places, all the cold places, and all the places in between. Even a small rise in Earth's global temperature means melting ice at the North and South Poles. It means rising seas. It means flooding in some places and drought in others. It can mean big changes for humans too.

NATION & WORLD

Trump picks Kavanaugh for Supreme Court

By Catherine Lucey, Zeke Miller and Mark Sherman
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — After days of frenzied lobbying and speculation, President Donald Trump decided on federal appeals Judge Brett Kavanaugh for his second nominee to the Supreme Court, setting up a ferocious confirmation battle with Democrats as he seeks to shift the nation's highest court further to the right.

Trump chose Kavanaugh to replace retiring Justice Anthony Kennedy.

With customary fanfare, Trump planned to unveil his choice on prime-time TV. His final options were all young federal judges who could help remake the court for decades to come with precedent-shattering rulings on issues such as abortion, guns and health care.

Top contenders had included federal appeals judges Raymond Kethledge, Amy Coney Barrett and Thomas Hardiman, as well as Kavanaugh, who is currently a federal appellate judge in the District of Columbia.

Relishing the guessing game beyond the White House gates, Trump had little to say about his choice before the announcement.

Some conservatives have expressed concerns about Kavanaugh — a longtime judge and a former clerk for Kennedy — questioning his commitment to social issues like abortion and noting his time serving under President George W. Bush as evidence he is a more establishment choice. But his supporters have cited his experience and wide range of legal opinions.

Ahead of his announcement, Trump tweeted about the stakes: "I have long heard that the most important decision a U.S. President can make is the selection of a Supreme Court Justice - Will be announced tonight at 9:00 P.M."

With Democrats determined to vigorously oppose Trump's choice, the Senate confirmation battle is expected to dominate the months leading up to November's midterm elections. Senate Republicans hold only a 51-49 majority, leaving them hardly any margin if Democrats hold the line. Democratic senators running for re-election in states Trump carried in 2016 will face pressure to back his nominee.

Republican Sen. John Kennedy of Louisiana said he was bracing for a tough confirmation battle as Democrats focus on abortion. Kennedy, a member of the Judiciary Committee, which will get the first chance to question the nominee, predicted a "rough, tough, down in the dirt, ear-pulling, nose-biting fight."

Trump's success in confirming conservative judges, as well as a Supreme Court justice, has cheered Republicans amid concerns about his limited policy achievements and chaotic management style. Of the court's liberal justices, Ruth Bader Ginsburg is 85 and Stephen Breyer turns 80 next month, so Trump may well get another opportunity to cement conservative dominance of the court for years to come.

Kavanaugh is likely to be more conservative than Justice Kennedy on a range of social issues. At the top of that list is abortion. A more conservative majority could be more willing to uphold state restrictions on abortion, if not overturn the 45-year-old landmark Roe v. Wade decision that established a woman's constitutional right.

Kennedy's replacement also could be more willing to allow states to carry out executions and could support undoing earlier court holdings in the areas of racial discrimination in housing and the workplace. Kennedy provided a decisive vote in 2015 on an important fair housing case.

While the president has been pondering his choice, his aides have been preparing for what is expected to be a tough confirmation fight. The White House said Monday that former Arizona Sen. Jon Kyl would guide Trump's nominee through the grueling Senate process.

Kyl, a former member of Republican leadership, served on the Senate Judiciary Committee before retiring in 2013. He works for the Washington-based lobbying firm Covington & Burling. The White House hopes Kyl's close ties to Senate Republicans will help smooth the path for confirmation.

Trump is hoping to replicate his successful nomination of Justice Neil Gorsuch last year. The president has spent the days leading up to his announcement discussing the pros and cons of various contenders with aides and allies. In addition to Kavanaugh, in recent days he expressed renewed interest in Hardiman, the runner-up when Trump nominated Gorsuch, said two people with knowledge of his thinking.

The White House invited a number of senators to attend the Monday night announcement, including Judiciary Committee Chairman Chuck Grassley, R-Iowa, and committee member Kennedy.

Four rescued from Thai cave

Nine remain inside after risky operation; officials say evacuation may take up to four days to complete

By Tassanee Vejpongsa and Kawewit Kaewjinda
The Associated Press

MAE SAI, Thailand — Expert divers Sunday rescued four of 12 boys from a flooded cave in northern Thailand where they were trapped with their soccer coach for more than two weeks, as a dangerous and complicated plan unfolded amid heavy rain and the threat of rising water underground.

Eight of boys and the coach remained inside the Tham Luang Nang Non cave complex as authorities paused the international effort until Monday to replenish air tanks along the treacherous exit route.

But the success of the initial evacuation raised hopes that all will be out soon, although officials said could it take up to four days to complete.

"The operation went much better than expected," said Chiang Rai acting Gov. Narongsak Osatanakorn, who is overseeing the mission.

He told reporters that four boys were brought out and taken to the hospital in the town of Chiang Rai, the provincial capital, for evaluation, and the next phase of the operation will resume after about 10-20 hours.

The names of the rescued boys were not released.

His announcement, at a news conference more than an hour after helicopters and ambulances were seen rushing from the cave area, drew cheers and applause.

Narongsak had dubbed Sunday to be "D-day" as the complicated effort was launched in the morning.

He said 13 foreign divers and five Thai navy SEALs were taking part in the key leg of the rescue: taking the boys from where they have been sheltering and through dark, tight and twisting passageways filled with muddy water and strong currents.

Two divers were to accompany each of the boys, all of whom have been learning to dive only since July 2, when the first searchers found them.

Cave rescue experts consider an underwater escape to be a last resort, especially with people untrained in diving.

The death Friday of a former Thai navy SEAL, Saman Gunan, underscored the risks. The diver, the first fatality of the rescue effort, was working in a volunteer capacity and died on a mission to place oxygen canisters along the route.

But Narongsak said earlier that mild weather and falling water levels in recent days had created optimal conditions for an underwater evacuation. Those conditions won't last if the rain resumes, he said.

After the four boys were removed from the cave, heavy rain started falling.

Authorities have said the monsoons could cause water to rise in the cave. That along with dwindling oxygen levels, added to the urgency of getting the team out. Earlier efforts to pump water out of the cave have been set back by heavy downpours.

Narongsak said Saturday that experts told him new rain could shrink the unflooded space where the boys are sheltering to just 10 square meters (108 square feet).

The next phase of the operation would start Monday after rescue teams replenish the supply of oxygen tanks along the route to ensure the safety of the journey, which takes several hours.

On Sunday night, Thai navy SEALs posted a celebratory note on their Facebook page, saying: "Have sweet dreams everyone. Good night. Hooyah."

The boys and their coach, whose team is known as the Wild Boars, became stranded when they were exploring the cave after a practice game on June 23.

Monsoon flooding cut off their escape route and prevented rescuers from finding them for almost 10 days.

The ordeal has riveted Thailand and captured the world's attention. The search and rescue operation has involved dozens of international experts and rescuers, including a U.S. military team.

Elon Musk's Space X rocket company plans to send a "tiny kid-sized submarine" in case it's needed. A spokesman for Musk's Boring Co. tunneling unit, which has four engineers at the cave, said in an email Sunday that Thai officials had requested the device and that divers have determined it could potentially help the children through narrow, flooded cave passageways.

Musk said on Twitter the aluminum sub would be tested until Sunday midafternoon California time before being placed on a 17-hour flight to Thailand. He posted a video of a diver testing the device in a pool.

President Donald Trump tweeted Sunday: "The U.S. is working very closely with the Government of Thailand to help get all of the children out of the cave and to safety. Very brave and talented people!"

NASCAR THIS WEEK

The Daytona Beach News-Journal's Godwin Kelly & Ken Willis have covered NASCAR for nearly 60 years combined. godwin.kelly@news-jrnl.com ken.willis@news-jrnl.com

SPEED FREAKS

A few questions we had to ask ourselves

Does Erik Jones win again this year?

GODSPEAK: Of course he will win again this year. He knows the path to Victory Lane now. Maybe two more wins.

KEN'S CALL: Normally, you should never fall in love with first-time winners at a plate race, but he was seventh and sixth the previous two weeks. So ... never mind, I still say no.

Will Ricky Stenhouse Jr. recover?

GODSPEAK: Last year Stenhouse was aggressive and won two plate races. This time he was overaggressive. He'll be OK after he gets all those apology notes in the mail.

KEN'S CALL: He was already down as he entered Daytona. He needs a Pick-Me-Up Bouquet, and soon, or he's at a career crossroads.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

BRAD KESELOWSKI VS. WILLIAM BYRON

BYRON: Keselowski had a head of steam and was going to blow past Byron, but Byron made a late block in Turn 3, which ignited a 20-car crash on Lap 54.

GODWIN KELLY'S TAKE: While others pointed the finger at Ricky Stenhouse Jr., Keselowski said it was Byron's fault. "We'll go to Talladega and wreck everybody that throws a bad block like that," he said.

GODWIN'S PICKS FOR KENTUCKY

WINNER: Denny Hamlin

REST OF TOP 5: Martin Truex Jr., Kevin Harvick, Kyle Busch, Chase Elliott

FIRST ONE OUT: Alex Bowman

DARK HORSE: Jimmie Johnson

DON'T BE SURPRISED IF: Hamlin responds to what Joe Gibbs said Saturday. "(Denny) knows we need to win races for FedEx. We need to get that done," Gibbs said.

DAYTONA

THREE THINGS WE LEARNED

Just another day at the office for NASCAR at Daytona. [NEWS-JOURNAL/NIGEL COOK]

1. Into the grinder

Restrictor-plate racing at Daytona has turned into a demolition derby. It has gone from "if" it happens to "when" it happens. "Sometimes you're in the half of the field that finishes; sometimes you're in half of the field that doesn't finish it," Joey Logano said after climbing from his wreck.

2. New faces

There is one interesting thing about Daytona and Talladega races. Fans get to see fresh faces at the front of the field. Erik Jones scored his first Cup win, and other top-five finishers included AJ Allmendinger, Kasey Kahne and Chris Buescher. "Top three was a good day," Allmendinger said.

3. Out of bounds

Thanks to Justin Haley's exploits in Daytona's Xfinity Series race, the Cup drivers stayed away from the out-of-bounds line. Haley got the checkered flag, but was penalized for dipping below the yellow line and was denied the win by NASCAR. He was scored 18th. Ouch!

— Godwin Kelly, godwin.kelly@news-jrnl.com

THREE THINGS TO WATCH

1. Horses, bourbon

Kentucky is synonymous with horse racing (Kentucky Derby), bourbon (Jim Beam, Wild Turkey) and college basketball (Kentucky, Louisville), but has little to do with racing. Kentucky Speedway was built in Sparta, which is an hour south from Cincinnati, and hosted its first Cup Series race in 2011. Brad Keselowski and Kyle Busch have combined for five wins in seven Cup races there.

When you think Bluegrass State and racing, the Kentucky Derby springs to mind, not motorsports at Kentucky Speedway. [AP/DARRON CUMMINGS]

2. Chevy, young guns

Both Chevrolet and young drivers fared well at Daytona. Chevrolet had seven cars crowded into the top-10 finishers in the Coke Zero Sugar 400, while 22-year-old Erik Jones, wheeling a Toyota, won the race. Both were solid developments for each camp. Chevy scored only one win in the first half of the 2018 Cup Series season, but is beginning to show more life as teams figure out the new Camaro body.

announcer was a hit at Chicagoland Speedway with his "Slide job! Slide job!" hollering on the last lap of that race. Earnhardt was quick to say before the race at Daytona not to look for more catchphrases. "We are going to have different on-track action every week, and I'm going to hopefully have a genuine reaction to it," he said. "Whatever happens, happens."

3. Slide job!

Dale Earnhardt Jr.'s debut as a racing

— Godwin Kelly, godwin.kelly@news-jrnl.com

QUESTIONS & ATTITUDE

Compelling questions ... and maybe a few actual answers

On the Erik Jones bandwagon?

On, but not because of this past Saturday night at Daytona. Surely, we've all learned by now that plate-race success doesn't translate to more legitimate tests of team and driver. We're high on Erik literally because of his track record. Remember, last year as "little brother" to Martin Truex Jr. at Furniture Row, in the final six races of the regular season he put together finishes of 8th, 10th, 3rd, 2nd, 5th and 6th. Only after that, as Truex's No. 78 and the championship run became the team's major focus, Erik's results slipped. And there's been enough decent weeks this year to maintain that warranted promise.

So, more wins for him this year?

It's very, very possible, but he's probably a year away from being a weekly threat to win races. Front-pack presence on a near-weekly basis is the current goal, you'd think, and likely attainable.

EMERSON, GA. Players, refs trade punches in Georgia basketball game

A video shows players and referees trading punches at an Amateur Athletic Union basketball game in an Atlanta suburb.

News outlets report the video has been shared on social media thousands of times. It shows the Sunday morning brawl in the AAU game between Chicago-based R.A.W. Athletics and the Houston Raptors at the LakePoint sports facility in Emerson.

R.A.W. Athletics coach Howard Martin tells WSB-TV he thinks one of his players had complained to a referee about a call before he was ejected from the game. Martin says the player was walking toward the bench when the referee pushed him.

Raptors coach Bobby Benjamin says he saw a player bump into the referee, but he's not exactly sure what started the fight.

KANSAS CITY, MO. Royals sign 16-year-old Japanese pitcher for $322K Kaito Yuki is headed to the Kansas City Royals organization instead of attending high school in Japan.

The 16-year-old pitcher agreed Sunday to a minor league contract with a $322,500 signing bonus. He is thought to be the first Japanese junior high school player to sign with a major league club.

"I wanted to play in the United States as soon as possible, rather than playing high school ball at Koshien Stadium (in Japan's iconic national championship)," Yuki said in statement issued by the Royals.

Yuki is listed at 6-foot-2, 170 pounds and the right-hander's fastball has been clocked at 87-88 mph. He was born on May 12, 2002.

"My goal is to do well in the majors. Not everybody is given that chance, so I want to do my best," he said at a news conference in his hometown of Osaka.

MADRID Spain appoints Luis Enrique as coach

Former Barcelona coach Luis Enrique has signed a two-year deal to take charge of Spain.

He replaces Julen Lopetegui, who was sacked on the eve of the World Cup after accepting the job at Real Madrid.

Fernando Hierro took temporary control for the finals, where 2010 world champion and 2008 and 2012 European Championship winner Spain was knocked out 4-3 on penalties by host Russia in the last 16.

"The decision has been unanimous," Spanish federation president Luis Rubiales said on Luis Enrique's appointment. "I like his commitment. He has let better financial opportunities pass in order to be national team coach.

"This coach fulfills all the parameters to take charge of the team. Luis Enrique is bringing his backroom staff, but this is a matter he will speak about next week."

Down but not out

Serena knows Wimbledon's top-10 seeds stat needs asterisk

By Howard Fendrich
The Associated Press

LONDON — Serena Williams figures this statistic needs an asterisk: For the first time since Wimbledon started seeding players in the 1920s, none of the top 10 women reached the quarterfinals.

It's also the only Grand Slam tournament in the half-century professional era with zero top-10 seeds in the women's final eight.

"I don't think this has happened to this extreme. But also, I've never been ranked where I am," Williams said Monday after her fourth straight-set victory of the fortnight. "Usually, I'm one of those few seeds left that's still fighting and still in the tournament. Now that I'm not, it kind of happened."

Bidding for an eighth championship at the All England Club, Williams will be back on court Tuesday, but she is seeded only 25th, and that actually represents a big bump up from her ranking of No. 181. As she keeps reminding folks, this is just her fourth tournament since missing more than a year of action because she was pregnant and gave birth to a daughter last September.

"I feel like I'm getting to where I want to be," Williams said. "For me, there's so much farther I want to go to get back where I was — and hopefully go beyond that."

That might sound a tad scary to opponents. The 36-year-old American, who has spent more than 300 weeks ranked No. 1, looks superb so far. Williams' latest match required only 62 minutes and was not much of a contest, a 6-2, 6-2 win in which she compiled a 30-5 edge in winners against Evgeniya Rodina, a qualifier from Russia ranked 120th who was dealing with a bothersome left thigh.

Karolina Pliskova sits in her chair in a game break during the women's singles match Monday at the Wimbledon Tennis Championships in London. Pliskova, the final top-10 seed remaining in the tournament, lost Monday. [BEN CURTIS/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS]

Williams hit serves up to 118 mph, delivering 10 aces, including four in one game.

"It's speed and placement," Rodina said about what makes Williams' serve so effective. "It's 115, and she puts the ball close to the line."

The one time Williams lost a service game, cutting her second-set lead to 3-2, she broke right back at love to start a three-game streak that ended things.

Williams hasn't faced a seeded player yet, and she won't on Tuesday, either, instead facing 52nd-ranked Camila Giorgi of Italy.

Asked what she likes the most about the way Williams plays, Giorgi responded: "I don't follow tennis."

Here's a hint, Camila: Williams is now just three victories from a 24th Grand Slam title, which would add to her own professional-era record and equal Margaret Court's all-time mark. Consider, too, that the other 15 women in fourth-round action Monday own a combined three major trophies: Angelique Kerber has two, Jelena Ostapenko the other.

On Tuesday, No. 11 Kerber will play No. 14 Daria Kasatkina, and No. 12 Ostapenko faces 2014 Australian Open runner-up Dominika Cibulkova.

No. 7 Karolina Pliskova's wait for a major title will continue. She was the lone top-10 women's seed still around at this upset-filled tournament, and now she's also gone. Pliskova was beaten 6-3, 7-6 (1) by No. 20 Kiki Bertens, who eliminated Williams' sister, Venus, last week.

Bertens now faces No. 13 Julia Goerges, who beat Donna Vekic 6-3, 6-2.

"I didn't expect it, honestly," said Goerges, who lost in the first round at the All England Club each of the past five years.

Giorgi, Kasatkina, Bertens and Goerges will each be making her debut in the Wimbledon quarterfinals. It's the first time making it to the final eight at any major for Giorgi and Goerges.

Predictably, Pliskova was asked why there have been so many surprises.

And, just as predictably, she was in no mood to provide an answer.

"I don't want to talk about this anymore. I answered this question, like, 10 times," the 2016 U.S. Open runner-up said. "I don't know why all the seeds are gone."

Kiki Bertens serves to Karolina Pliskova during their women's singles match Monday at the Wimbledon Tennis Championships in London. Bertens has beaten seventh-ranked Pliskova and ninth-ranked Venus Williams so far this tournament.

Stock car racing team makes history, starts three female drivers

By Luke Meredith
The Associated Press

NEWTON, Iowa — Stock car racing team Venturini Motorsports has had a tradition of employing women that stretches back for decades.

On June 29, the ARCA outfit made history — starting three female drivers in the same race for the first time in the modern era of the sport.

Natalie Decker, Leilani Münter and Toni Breidinger finishing 12th, 18th and 20th respectively at Chicagoland Speedway. By starting as a trio, they helped raise the profile of women in a sport long dominated by men.

"We're not trying to bill ourselves as this team that is championing female drivers by any means. It just so happens that we've had a number of females come through," team spokesman Tom Venturini said. "We're a championship-caliber team. We're putting the best drivers in the seat, male or female."

VMS' push to use women as both crew members and drivers came long before recently retired Cup series driver Danica Patrick set foot on a race track.

Team owner Bill Venturini won Automobile Racing Club of America titles in 1987 and 1991, the first coming with an all-female pit crew — known as the "Ultra Blue Crew" — led by his wife and team co-owner Cathy Venturini.

"When that happened, the whole idea of it was, 'we're competitors first.' It was not a publicity stunt," Tom Venturini said. "We had the best physically fit women to do that job. They outperformed the men. It really just happened to be that they were women on the crew."

In subsequent years, the team has given seats to the likes of Milka Duno, Alli Owens, Johanna Long, Nicole Behar and others. Breanna O'Leary is a member of VMS' pit crew this season as a tire changer.

The latest woman hoping to prove she's worthy of a top-tier ride with the help of VMS is 21-year-old Decker, a Wisconsin native in her first full season in ARCA.

Father Chuck Decker was both a race car and snowmobile racer. He also owns the Eagle Grove Derby Track in Wisconsin, which hosts the annual World Championship Snowmobile Derby.

Chuck tried to get Natalie into snowmobiling, though it never stuck. He took her to a go-kart track when she was 6, and it ignited a passion for racing cars.

Decker soon started watching NASCAR races every week with her father, who got his daughter her first go-kart when she was 9.

DIET FADS TO AVOID

Here are a few health fads that aren't as nutritious as you may have heard:

Cooking with coconut oil: A recent study by MB Clinical Research found that coconut oil increases cholesterol.

Juice diets and cleanses: A diet limited to cold-pressed juices won't provide enough essential vitamins and minerals for a healthy diet.

Granola bars: They are packed with whole grains, but many contain an unhealthy amount of sugar.

EASY RECIPE

GRILLED CORN ON THE COB

- 4 ears of corn
- 1/4 cup hot wing sauce
- 1/2 cup crumbled Salemville Blue Cheese

Heat grill over low heat. Peel and clean corn. Brush each ear with hot wing sauce and wrap in aluminum foil, being careful to fully seal corn in foil. Place on the top rack of the grill and close the lid, cooking until fork tender, about 15 to 20 minutes. Remove from the grill, carefully open the aluminum foil and brush with additional hot wing sauce. Place on plates and sprinkle each ear with blue cheese.

Sangria summer

Experimenting with the spectrum of sweet, dry, bubbly and bitter

By Ari LeVaux

More Content Now

The summer solstice has snuck by, again. Depressing, I know, but as our hemisphere prepares for its date with winter, there is no need to overthink the situation. The roses are still fragrant, and the tomatoes are still ripening, because the heat has only just begun, and we can't lose sight of the big picture: This is a very good time to drink sangria.

By sangria, I mean a spectrum of wine- and fruit-based cold drinks, some of which have more merit than others. At one end is sangria itself, the famous Spanish punch made of wine, fruit, juice and liquor that's adored by sun worshippers, tourists and underage drinkers. This end of the spectrum is one of incomprehensible complexity, as there are too many permutations of all of these ingredients, plus shots of simple syrup, 7 Up and the like to keep track of. One popular variation, for example, is the Italian-American version of the Eastern Seaboard, which contains brandy, triple sec and peach schnapps, along with the fruit. You will find these ingredients in the award-winning sangria pitchers of Spain Restaurant in Cranston, Rhode Island, and in the shared kitchen of a certain Cape Cod vacation spot, where a certain clan of Italian families shows up every solstice like clockwork to share a kitchen with my family (long story).

One of the clan matriarchs, Diane, told me her recipe and shared this nugget: While most recipes call for merlot or cabernet, she advises a red burgundy. It's drier, she says, and "has that woody taste."

I enjoyed the fact that a celebrated French wine is the secret ingredient in the Italian-American version of a Spanish drink, and filed it away just in case. But to be honest, I was having trouble getting excited about her sangria. It was both too delicious and too alcoholic.

This may sound like a win-win, but I find it counterproductive to add extra sugar so you can add extra booze. Summer may be gone in the blink of an eye, but it's also a grind, and I want to keep cool, keep hydrated and keep going.

I prefer the other end of the sangria spectrum. The side that's bitter, simple and bubbly. It's called tinto de verano, which translates to "red wine of summer." In Spain, it's what the locals have settled on as the ideal antidote for the Iberian heat. Credit for its creation is given to Andalusian restaurateur and bullfight promoter Federico Vargas, but credit is hardly due. It's such a simple recipe that its creation was inevitable.

Tinto de Verano

- Red wine
- Sprite (or the Spanish equivalent)

Open both items, mix and serve chilled.

The lemon and lime fine-tune the flavor, as the cold and bubbles do their things. It's numbing and stimulating. Pleasantly exhilarating.

This simple drink can be doctored in many ways. Ice, for example, is a great way to chill it if your glass and ingredients were not already frigid. Squeezed slices of lemon and lime, meanwhile, will significantly enhance the citrus pizzazz.

A shot of lemonade here, a dash of vermouth there — to the point that you have basically made sangria. And as the Italians and others have shown, there is plenty of room for exploration on the busy, fruity side of this continuum.

Drying out

Here is my recipe for extra-dry tinto de verano. It is optimized for maximum hydration, minimal added sugars and just the right level of buzz to keep you going. I call it Verano Seca, which means "dry summer."

If you have access to unsprayed roses, wild or domestic, I recommend harvesting some petals and using them in this drink.

Verano Seca

- Burgundy
- Bubbly water (unsweetened)
- Lemon and lime slices
- Ice
- Rose petals (optional but highly recommended)

Add ice first, then bubbles, followed by the squeezed citrus slices. Finally, add the wine. When added in this order, the wine stays atop the bubbly.

Drastic measures

How China could hurt US once it ran out of imports to tax

By Joe McDonald
 The Associated Press

BEIJING — In his trade war with China, President Donald Trump wields one seeming advantage: The United States could slap tariffs on more than $500 billion in imported Chinese goods. Beijing has much less to tax: It imported just $130 billion in U.S. goods last year.

Yet that hardly means China would be powerless to fight back once it ran out of U.S. goods to penalize. It possesses a range of other weapons with which to inflict pain on the U.S. economy.

Indeed, China's Commerce Ministry has warned of "comprehensive measures" it could take against the U.S. — from harassing automakers, retailers or other American companies that depend on China to drive revenue to selling U.S. government debt or disrupting diplomatic efforts over North Korea.

Some of those steps might hurt China's own interests. But Beijing might still be willing to deploy them, at least temporarily, if its trade war with Washington were to drag on.

On Friday, Washington imposed its first tariffs in response to complaints Beijing steals or pressuring companies to hand over technology. China swiftly announced retaliatory tariffs on a similar amount of U.S. goods.

A look at some of China's options:

Target American companies

China's state-dominated and heavily regulated economy gives authorities an arsenal of tools to disrupt U.S. companies by withholding licenses or launching tax, anti-monopoly or other investigations.

Also open to retaliation are services such as engineering and logistics in which the United States runs a trade surplus.

"The U.S. focus is on goods, while China could very well look at services, as well as the operation of U.S. companies in China," said Taimur Baig, chief economist for DBS Group.

In one prominent case, U.S. chipmaker Qualcomm Inc. has waited for months for word on whether Chinese regulators will accept its proposed $44 billion acquisition of NXP Semiconductors. All other major governments have approved the deal.

China's entirely state-controlled media have encouraged consumer boycotts against Japanese, South Korean and other products during previous disputes with those governments.

Last year, Beijing destroyed Korean retailer Lotte's business in China after the company sold land in South Korea to the Seoul government for an anti-missile system opposed by Chinese leaders.

Beijing closed most of Lotte's 99 supermarkets and other outlets in China. Seoul and Beijing later mended relations, but Lotte gave up and sold its China operations.

Financial leverage

Nationalists point to China's $1.2 trillion holdings of U.S. government debt as leverage. Beijing might suffer losses if it sold enough to influence U.S. debt financing costs — but such sales might become necessary.

China's yuan has sagged against the dollar this year, which might require the central bank to intervene in currency markets.

To get the dollars it needs, the People's Bank of China might "become a net seller of U.S. Treasuries," said Carl B. Weinberg of High-Frequency Economics in a report.

"Punishing the U.S. Treasury market is one of the tactics China has available to retaliate against unilateral U.S. tariffs," said Weinberg.

Diplomatic pressure

Beijing can appeal for support to U.S. allies that are miffed by Trump's "America first" approach and the U.S. withdrawal from the Paris climate pact.

Trump's actions have allowed China to position itself as a defender of free trade despite its status as the most-closed major economy. That could help Beijing win over countries that have criticized Trump for acting outside the World Trade Organization.

"China could strike a common ground with the EU, Canada, Japan and other economies impacted by the U.S. tariffs," said Citigroup economists Li-Gang Liu, Xiaowen Jin and Xiangrong Yu in a report.

Stocks jump as trade-war worries stay cool

By Stan Choe
 The Associated Press

NEW YORK — Never mind the trade war. Here comes earnings season.

U.S. stocks climbed with other markets on Monday as concerns about trade tensions between the United States and the rest of the world took a back seat. The calendar for upcoming weeks is full of companies telling investors how much profit they made during the spring, and the expectation is for another quarter of gangbusters growth.

That plus Friday's report showing U.S. hiring remains strong have helped to support markets despite the world's two largest economies imposing dueling tariffs on each other at the end of last week.

The S&P 500 rose 24.35 points, or 0.9 percent, to 2,784.17. The Dow Jones industrial average jumped 320.11, or 1.3 percent, to 24,776.59, and the Nasdaq composite gained 67.81, or 0.9 percent, to 7,756.20.

Tips to motivate your child to learn

By Melissa Erickson
More Content Now

Talking to a child about why it's important to get good grades in school can be met with nods of agreement or rolled eyes. It doesn't matter if kids know you want them to succeed, they have to have the motivation to do it for themselves.

"Motivation is one of the biggest challenges in education. Many factors combine to encourage us to work hard, pursue goals or aim for success, or to do the opposite," said Joan M. Rooney, vice president for instructor management at The Princeton Review and Tutor.com.

External factors like income level, subjects being taught, the ability of the teacher and other social influences play a role but don't make a big difference.

"The one factor that is most influential in helping us to succeed is confidence," said Rooney, a former classroom teacher and parent of an adult son.

She's not referring to an unrealistic sense of self-worth but rather a belief that if students work hard and do their best, they are capable of succeeding. A student needs to have the knowledge that he will not succeed at everything, but if he doesn't try, how will he know what he is capable of, she said.

"I would advise parents to do whatever they can to foster in their children this perspective: that what is important is that I work hard and that I try," Rooney said. "Foster this attitude toward their studies, school and life in general. In current terms, this is what is known as promoting a growth mindset and sense of self-efficacy."

Fail until you succeed

"We need to help our kids understand that failure is a stepping stone on a journey and not an end result. Everybody fails, and not just once. What is great about failure (although it does not seem so at the time) is that we learn from it and we try again," Rooney said.

Sharing past stories of failures in and out of school and failure stories of famous people helps children understand that failure can be a helpful part of life, Rooney said.

Avoid bad attitudes

What is not helpful for kids is if a parent says, "I was never good at math, either" or "I am terrible at foreign languages."

These types of statements create "a fixed mindset, which sets us up for failure rather than success," Rooney said.

Make it relevant

"Relevance is a critical part of successful learning. We achieve deeper learning when what we are learning has some meaning for us," Rooney said.

Stay abreast of what your child is studying in class and find ways to incorporate what you can into everyday activities.

"Activities such as these help kids see that there is in fact a real-world connection to what they are learning, and they also make learning fun and often inspire a desire to learn more," Rooney said.

LUCILLE TOMBLIN

Mrs. Lucille (Brown) Tomblin, of Chipley, Florida, went home to be with the Lord on Tuesday, July 3, 2018 in the Bay Medical Center of Panama City, Florida. She was 76 years old. Lucille was born on April 10, 1942 to the late Buford & Mary (Callins) Brown in Chipley, Florida. She served as a Dietary Aide for the Washington County Hospital for numerous years and for Sunland in Marianna Florida for 20+ years.

She leaves to cherish her memories two daughters: Erica Butler of Panama City, Florida, and Beverly Butler of Tallahassee, Florida; one son: Anthony Tomblin of Bradenton, Florida; two granddaughters: Christina Tomblin of Jacob City, Florida, and Jermaine Lewis of Tallahassee, Florida; one great-grandson: Miles Anthony Libert of Jacob City, Florida; two sisters: Phyllis Brown of Panama City, Florida and Ethel Brown-Oney (Gene) of Vernon, Florida; two brothers: Isaac Brown (Dorothy) of Vernon, Florida, and Ferman Brown, Jr. of Bonifay, Florida; along with a host of nieces, nephews, other relatives and friends.

A Celebration of Lucille's Life was held 11 AM CST, Saturday, July 7, 2018 from the sanctuary of the Johnson Temple First Born Church with pastor, Elder Floyd Harper, Rev. Larry Brown, Rev. Earl Cooke, and Dea Isaac Brown, officiating. Committal Service followed in the St. Joseph Cemetery of Chipley, Florida with Cooper Funeral Home of Chipley, Florida, directing. Public Viewing was held Friday, July 6, 2018 from 12 Noon until 9 PM in the Cooper Funeral Home Chapel of Chipley, Florida. The remains were in repose at the church on Saturday, 1hr. prior to services. Friends may sign the guestbook online at www.cooperfhchipley.com.

DOROTHY A. KELLY

Dorothy Angelyn Kelly (Cozart), Age 75 of Bonifay, Florida, left this earth on June 10, 2018. At the time of her passing, she was in Moreno Valley, California, fighting terminal cancer. She was joined there by her husband, Charles O. Kelly also of Bonifay, FL and her dearest friend, Deborah Zero, of Chipley, FL and Moreno Valley, CA. Angelyn (Dorothy) was many amazing characters rolled into one. She was Granny Clampett, Betty Crocker, Hollywood Bling, Space Explorer and all the sides of Scarlett OHare. She believed in and loved books because she said, they allow you to dream that you are whatever you want to be. Education of any kind, but especially reading, was what she valued and promoted. As a pioneer for the future, she loved space and even owned a star or two; she always hoped she would see people living in space. Her family was at the center of who she was and what she cherished most. She spent many hours with her great grand-daughter listening to the music of today, sharing songs of her era and stories of days gone by. She worked in the transportation industry for most of her life and owned her own trucking company. One of her proudest achievements was being a part of and helping to start a local Youth Ranch and Rescue, The 10 Buck 2 Youth Ranch of Bonifay, Florida; It was the pet project of her daughter. It began on family land that was blackberry bushes and gourds. Dreamed, designed and built by Jeff and Mishca Randall, Meadow E. Martin, Kenny Krause and Charles and Angelyn Kelly or as she was better known Gunsmoke Granny. It quickly became known in the horse world as one of the best outdoor competition courses in Cowboy Racing. The ranch was known for promoting education, camaraderie, responsibility and commitment in Equine Ownership and competition. Angelyn was born on June 5, 1943, in Graceville, Florida. She grew up in Bonifay and in Montverde, Florida. She married her High School sweetheart, Charles O. Kelly and had recently celebrated 58 years of marriage.

She is survived by her husband Charles O. Kelly of Bonifay; her daughter and son in law Ardea Mishca and Jeff Randall of Bonifay; Her Grandson Nicholas Martin of Tangent, Oregon; Great Grand-daughter Meadow E. Martin of Bonifay and Great Grand-daughter Charlie Laney of Dawsonville, GA. Extended Family: Siblings: Elizabeth Ann (Cozart) and Bill Bevil; Junior and Susan Cozart; Shirley (Yeager) and Ronald Lee; Edward Money (deceased). In Laws: Carolyn and Clark Gable; Jimmy and Dianne Kelly; Judy Martin; Joan Wilson; Kathryn and Danny Barber; Vickie and Gary Hayes.

Special family consideration is given to the following as they meant as much to her as her closest kin: Kenneth (Kenny) W. Krause, Bonifay (deceased); Cameron Duffell, Bonifay; Justina Krause Laney, Dawsonville, GA; Jessica Beaudoin, Sneads, FL.

A remembrance of her life will be held on July 15, 2018, 1pm at John Clark Park (Rec. Center), Esto, Florida. Any and all who know her are welcome. Sandwich foods and drinks will be available. The family asks that in lieu of flowers please make a donation to the National Eye Institute in her name. The address is listed below or you can visit the website at <https://nei.nih.gov/>. Budget Officer National Eye Institute Building 31, Room 6A16 31 Center Drive MSC 2510 Bethesda, MD 20892-2510. In 3 little words I can sum up what I've learned about life: It goes on.

GENELL TATE

Genell Tate, age 73, of Westville, Florida passed away Sunday, July 1, 2018 at her residence. She was born December 8, 1944 in Walton County, the daughter of Walter T. and Ida Slay Carroll. Genell was a member of Reedy Assembly of God Church and was known as a person who was more concerned about other people than herself, always ready and willing to serve others. She enjoyed listening to gospel music, sewing, and cooking family meals. A loving wife, mother, and grandmother, she will truly be missed.

She is preceded in death by her parents; two brothers, Ed and Leroy Carroll; three sisters, Shirley and Donna Louise Carroll and Lunell Hattaway.

Genell is survived by her husband of 49 years, Charles "Chick" Tate; one daughter, Veronica Jackson and husband Jeff of DeFuniak Springs, Florida; five brothers, Ronnie, Wilton, and Donald Lee Carroll, all of Westville, Florida, Roger Carroll of DeFuniak Springs, Florida, and Jimmy Ray Carroll and wife Linna of Ponce de Leon, Florida; three grandchildren, Charmayne, Cierra, and Allen Jackson; numerous nieces and nephews; and her canine companion, Happy.

Funeral services were held Thursday, July 5, 2018 in the chapel of Davis-Watkins Funeral Home, 1474 Highway 83 North, DeFuniak Springs, Florida 32433 beginning at 11:00 a.m. with visitation one hour prior. Committal services followed in Reedy Assembly of God Cemetery. Memories and condolences may be shared with the family at www.daviswatkins.com.

Arrangements and services are under the direction of Davis-Watkins Funeral Home.

LINDA SELEY

Linda "Joyce" Seley, age 58, a lifelong resident of Ponce de Leon, Florida passed away Friday, June 29, 2018 at her residence. She was born to John James and Mavis Lorine Roberts on September 11, 1959 in Crestview, Florida. Joyce enjoyed going to church and spending time with family and friends. She loved going fishing with her husband Elige, even though she didn't eat the fish, the time spent with him, doing what made him happy, was precious to her.

She is preceded in death by her husband, Elige Seley; parents, John James and Mavis Lorine Roberts; two brothers, Billy Ray and Max Roberts.

Joyce is survived by two sisters, Elisa Gail Deming and husband

Mike of Alford, Florida, and Sheila Lewis and husband Rodger of Panama City, Florida; five brothers, Lonnie Wayne Roberts and wife Margo of Mossy Head, Florida, Johnny Mack Roberts of DeFuniak Springs, Florida, Clay Neal Roberts and wife Charlene of DeFuniak Springs, Florida, Rex Roberts and wife Fran of Crestview, Florida, and Gene Roberts of Mossy Head, Florida. Having no children, she always loved and thought of April Byrd and Haley Curry as her own daughters. Joyce is also survived by many nieces and nephews whom she loved dearly.

Those ask to serve as pallbearers: John Roberts, Mike Deming, Dewy Roberts, Marshall Roberts, Johnny Roberts, and Travis Byrd. Funeral services were held Tuesday, July 3, 2018 in the chapel of Davis-Watkins Funeral Home, 1474 Highway 83 North, DeFuniak Springs, Florida 32433, beginning at 11 a.m. with Chaplain Ernie Grey officiating.

A time of visitation will be held one hour prior to the service.

Flowers are being accepted. Memories and condolences may be shared with the family at www.daviswatkins.com.

Arrangements and services are under the direction of Davis-Watkins Funeral Home.

JOHN D. OWENS

John D. Owens, age 90, passed from this life to be with his Savior, Sunday, July 1, 2018, at his home. He was born in Crystal Lake, FL, on January 23, 1928 to John W. and Cora Dee Atwell Owens. John D. lived his life as a public servant, working as a service member of the United States Navy where he retired at the rank of E7, and worked as an employee of the United States Post Office in Chipley, where he also retired. As a member of the Wausau Assembly of God Church, John D. enjoyed singing in the choir. Because of his expert cooking skills, his dishes were popular at all the fellowship dinners - especially his chicken and dumplings, perfectly baked hams, and crispy fried fish and hushpuppies. He was a Sunday School teacher and a board member of the church for many years. At home he enjoyed outdoor activities such as fishing in his pond, gardening, mowing his grass, and tending to the flower beds.

He and his wife Imogene loved to travel with family and friends - most often to the Great Smokey Mountains. John D. loved his Lord Jesus, family, and friends so much. His gracious spirit, which was demonstrated through his sincere concern for others, will be remembered by all who knew him.

He is preceded in death by his loving grandson, Jason Brande; his beautiful wife, Imogene; granddaughter, Amy Owens; two brothers, Roland Owens and Newman Owens; and his parents.

He is survived by one son Stanley Owens, two daughters: Sheila Tracy and husband, Dan; Sabra Shores and husband Phillip, two brothers: Julian Owens and Doris Owens and wife Juanell; two sisters: Iris Land and Shirley Ramer and husband, Joel; six grandchildren: Amber Owens, Crystal Carter and husband, Ambers, Jacob Swindle, John Swindle, Bethany Shores, and Byron Shores; one great-grandchild, Clayton Carter; along with many nieces and nephews.

The Funeral Service were held on Thursday, July 5, 2018 at Wausau Assembly of God Church. Visitation was held at 10:00 A.M. with the Service starting at 11:00 A.M. with Reverend Danny Burns officiating. Interment followed at the Wausau Memorial Gardens Cemetery with Brown Funeral Home of Chipley, FL officiating. Family and friends may sign the online register at www.brownfh.net

GINA L. AKRIDGE

Mrs. Gina Lynn Crawson Akridge of Manchester, GA passed away Monday, July 2, 2018 at her home surrounded by her loving family. She was 53. Gina came into this world on Monday, October 26, 1964 to a young couple with big extended families that loved her immediately. Her family doted on her since she was the couple's first child and the first grandchild on her mother's side of the family. Gina graduated in the Class of 1982 from Holmes County High School, attended Washington-Holmes Vocational School and Auburn University. She remained a devoted Auburn fan throughout her life. She enjoyed being a cosmetologist in Bonifay for several years along with giving many free haircuts to friends and family. Gina also babysat children in her home and had a significant impact on those children's lives. In 1999, Gina became a US Postal Service employee, working in Marianna and Chipley until 2016 when she became the Postmaster for the Hamilton and Pine Mountain, GA Post Offices. The most enjoyable part of her life was being a wife for 31 years to John Akridge and a mother to daughter, Brittany, and son, Ethan. If Gina was in the room and having a good time, her strong, clear laughter made it evident. Close friends and family gave her the nickname "Precious." She was a wonderful cook, loved traveling to the mountains, and always put her family first. In 2016, Gina was diagnosed with Anaplastic Astrocytoma, a Grade III brain cancer. She valiantly fought this cancer. The family would like to thank the staff at UAB, Dr. Andrew Pippas, and the staff at the Amos Cancer Center for their concern and care.

She was preceded in death by her grandparents Jack and Katreen White and Henry and Earline Crawson and cousin, Micah White.

Survivors include her husband, John Thomas Akridge, Manchester, GA; her daughter, Brittany Nicole Coleman and her husband Andrew, Opelika, AL; her son, Ethan Cole Akridge, Manchester, GA; parents, Alvin J. and Jean White Crawson, Bonifay, FL; two brothers: Eric Crawson and his wife DeeAnn, Concord, NC and Duane Crawson and his wife Niki, Bonifay, FL; nieces: Kimberly Crawson and, Ericka Rea, her husband Tyler, and their daughter, Laken; nephew, Corey Crawson; along with many extended family members.

Funeral services were held at 2:00 p.m. on Thursday, July 5, 2018 in the chapel of Sorrells Funeral Home in Slocomb with Rev. Johnny Strickland officiating. Interment will follow in the Fadette Pentecostal Ministries Cemetery. The family received friends at the funeral home on Thursday beginning at 12:30 p.m. and continuing until service time. Donations in memory of Gina may be made to the Amos Cancer Center, 18315 5th Ave., Columbus, GA 31904 or the Hope Lodge at 1104 Ireland Way, Birmingham, AL 35205-7001.

Kalynn Brazeal

During the past year we have made the transition from parenting a teenager to parenting an adult. It wasn't our choice to make that change which made it all the harder. I have shared my struggle to make that leap for a simple reason: writing is an outlet for me and a way to work through my journey to find the Lord in the process.

When our daughter planted her rebellion flag, my immediate instinct was grief. I was mourning the loss of what I thought our relationship was. I was deep in all the blame of what I had done wrong to allow this to happen.

How did a kid who had the entire world in the palm of her hand, walk away and put a wall between her family and her wants? Turns out it was amazingly easy, she put one foot in front of the other and didn't even look back. Blind panic and an impulsive nature can put you in a bind.

However, it was my blind spot that turned out to be the struggle that hurt me so badly. I let the struggle become about me. I was wrapped up in my faults, my doubts and my confusion.

A simple part of me felt like it was the ultimate betrayal. A precious and loved child who hits you where it hurts the most — your ego. My entire life has been about the roles that I have had. I'm a great wife but I was prideful of being an amazing mom. Yet here I was, now a candidate for The Worst Mom in the World award, and the hurt was a living thing that made it hard to breathe at times.

I was missing the forest for the trees.

It's been a year of firsts. The first time we went on vacation without our oldest. The first holidays spent wishing she was here but celebrated without her. The first birthday, mine and hers, without her. It began slowly ... we fell back on our faith and we knew that there was one solid truth throughout all of the process ... God had us in his hands.

We live in a world where bad things happen and we constantly face temptation so it was so easy to be clouded by the details. I simply got to a point where I was exhausted physically and mentally from the pain so I changed up my prayer. I asked God to heal my heart from the pain and to just love her through the process.

I would find myself getting set back in my progress so I wrote my little prayer, "Lord heal my heart," on sticky notes, stashing them in a few places to remind me throughout the day. It didn't come overnight. It was well over a year into the process when one day my phone rang and I saw her name pop up and, in complete surprise to me, it didn't hurt. Instead I was filled with happiness at the idea of her call.

We would go on to establish an open line of communication. Nothing has changed in how we treat her, how we talk to her, how we love her, but the "me" in the situation was gone. I let go of the hurt of what her actions did to ME. I stopped focusing on what MY actions could have caused. By taking the "me" out, I could just love her and be there when she was ready.

Will we ever be close again? I believe we have already started down that path. Will we forgive each other of the hurts? Yes, because frankly we must show each other the grace that God shows us. I have no doubts that we won't forget, it's human nature not to. Instead of looking back, I'm stubbornly looking forward.

I have learned so much over the path our family has walked this past year but the simple joy that I feel when I see her face or hear her voice reminds me that regardless of anything else, I'm still her mom. No one can wound you like those closest to you yet no one can love you like they can either.

WEEK IN RELIGION

More Content Now

For the first time in the nation's history, a Canadian judge recently ruled that three adults living in a polyamorous relationship can be the legal parents of a child.

The Newfoundland and Labrador court ruled that the two men living with a woman — the mother of a child born in 2017 — can be legally recognized as the parents.

"Society is continuously changing and family structures are changing along with it," Justice Robert Fowler wrote. "This must be recognized as a reality and not as a detriment to the best interests of the child."

The parents filed suit against the province after being told that only two parents could be listed on the birth certificate of the child.

STUDY SAYS: Multiracial churches on the rise

According to a new study published in the journal for the Scientific Study of Religion, multiracial congregations nearly doubled from 1998-2012 in the U.S. According to the report, multiracial congregations rose from 6.4 percent to 12 percent during that time frame. Researchers also found that the percentage of U.S. congregants attending interracial churches rose from 12.7 to 18.3 percent.

GOOD BOOK?

"Pursue, Overtake, Recover" by Kerry Kirkwood

Many Christians understand that Jesus redeemed them from their sins, and because of this, they are right with God. But there is more...much more! Redemption is not just a ticket into Heaven. The redemptive work of Jesus brings restoration, healing, and recovery in every area of your life that has been broken or damaged. Kerry Kirkwood is a pastor and revelatory writer whose passion is to help believers access the secret power of their redemptive privileges in God.
