Local Artist Retrospective At Davis Art Center

The Sidney & Berne Davis Art Center (SBDAC) will host Jonathan Kane Retrospective: 1957-2017 from September 7 to 28 to honor the late artist’s one-of-a-kind work. The exhibit will open during Art Walk on Friday, September 7 from 6 to 10 p.m.

The show, curated by Heather Nigro, covers the entire range of Kane’s work. The 40-year-plus time frame begins with Kane’s teenage years as a precocious amateur and young staff photographer at a local Naples newspaper. It moves on to his experimentation with different styles during his years at art schools in Florida and California, and as an unhappy young urban professional. It ends with the considerable volume of experimental nudes produced upon Kane’s return to Naples in the early 2000s.

The work also covers almost archival black and white photos that capture Southwest Florida of the 1970s (and echoes of it in the 2000s); humorous manipulated SX-70 Polaroid images; collages; and highly inventive digital color, primarily nudes. As he stated on his website www.jonkane.com, “I strive to create images that are surreal and mysterious, but grounded in human emotion and my own experience.”

Kane was born in Miami Beach in 1957, but moved at an early age with his family to Bradenton and Naples, where he attended primary and middle school, and graduated from Naples High School in 1976. He began his photography career as a yearbook photographer at Naples High. He later became a staff photographer at The Naples Star, a local newspaper where he covered society events and shot advertisements.

Equal Pay For Equal Work

by Gerri Reaves, PhD

Ninety-eight years ago, on August 26, 1920, the U.S. Congress gave the nation’s women something to celebrate.

It ratified the 19th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which gave women the right to vote.

The women pictured in this 1922 photo represent the euphoria that still hung in the air over that historic decision. However, while those smiling women on the auto float might look only lighthearted and fun-loving, they are also rallying behind a dead serious cause: Equal pay for equal work.

They are members of the Business and Professional Women’s Club (BPWC), which counted some of Fort Myers’ most accomplished and progressive women among its numbers – women who made important contributions to business, educational and cultural life.

The four members in the car are unidentified, but their names must be among those listed on the historic postcard: Alta L. Evans, Edna F. Grady, Ianthe Bond Hebel, Kate Jeffcott (likely far right), Julia Park, Kate C. Roberts, and Josephine “Josie” M. Stadler. M. Flossie Hill was also listed, but is not among those pictured.

The occasion for the “automobile float” was the July Fourth parade, always a big event in early Fort Myers.

A “spectacular parade” was planned, according to the Fort Myers Press. To boost participation, an ad in the newspaper read, “Wanted – A float from every town and community in Lee County.

Furthermore, it stated, a decorated float or private car was expected from every organization or business at 11 a.m. on July 4.

The celebration was held under the auspices of the Fifty Thousand Club (a booster organization), but two women’s clubs, the Civic Club and BPWC, led the organization of the parade.

Those two clubs focused particularly on the success of the “float and decorated automobile sections.”

Kate C. Roberts headed the BPWC’s efforts, creating a float with American flags and Florida flora such as Spanish moss and palm fronds.

Tactfully phrased slogans, such as “to encourage equal work for equal pay,” and claims of the issue being nonpartisan and nonpolitical attest that the fight for economic equality wasn’t won in 1922. (In fact, the fight continues today.)

When they weren’t decorating parade floats, many of those savvy BPWC members dealt with pay inequality by going into business for themselves.

For example, Alta L. Evans and Julia Park founded a women’s clothing shop, Evans & Park Ladies Apparel Shop, and the legendary M. Flossie Hill founded M. Flossie Hill Company. Both were successful First Street businesses that lasted for decades.

Kate L. Jeffcott, who began her career as an educator, Edna F. Grady and Josephine “Josie” M. Stadler were successful in real estate and started their own businesses.

Education and insurance were other professions in which early 20th century women found success. Ianthe Bond Hebel was a school principal. Kate C. Roberts founded KC Roberts Insurance Agency, and Harriet “Hattie” B. Courtney also worked in the insurance business.

Charlotte M. Lauth managed an auto supply store and later worked in the insurance business.

In the 1922 July Fourth parade, members of the Business and Professional Women’s Club advocate “equal work for equal pay”

At least one BPWC member, Alta Evans, who died in 1986, lived long enough to see yet another women’s movement in the mid-20th century.

She also witnessed the U.S. Senate passing the Equal Rights Amendment in 1972, 50 years after this photo was taken. It had first been proposed in 1923 by the National Woman’s Party.

However, the three-fourths (38) majority of states was not met, so it had not yet become law.

Walk down First Street, imagine the 1922 parade, and appreciate the hard work and activism of the BPWC.

Sanibel Artist Donates Artwork For Environmental Cause Auctions

Sanibel-based artist Myra Roberts, much of whose educational work focuses on environmental and social commentary issues, has donated several limited-edition prints, known as giclées, to Calusa Waterkeeper. The Fort Myers-based organization is holding two fundraising events that will include silent auctions of the giclées.

The mission of Calusa Waterkeeper, which is a Waterkeeper Alliance member, is to “Protect and Restore the Caloosahatchee River from Lake Okeechobee to the Coastal Waters.”

The first event takes place at Broadway Palm Dinner Theatre over two days, Saturday and Sunday, August 25 and 26. In addition to the silent auctions, both evenings feature performances of Circus Transformus, which “aims to entertain and inspire its audience to rise to the challenge of healing our planet earth.”

For ticket information, call 278-4422 or visit broadwaypalm.com. For further information about the fundraiser, call Calusa Waterkeeper executive director KC Schulberg at 784-0880.

The second silent auction takes place at Silverspot Cinema in Naples on Monday, August 27 at 5:30 p.m., before the 6:30 p.m. screening of the film Toxic Puzzle. The 85-minute documentary is narrated by Harrison Ford and is a “medical and environmental detective story” in which “cyanobacteria in our waters become the culprit.” After the movie, longtime SWFL environmental champion John Cassani will answer questions from attendees.

For more information, call Calusa Waterkeeper Executive Director KC Schulberg at 784-0880 or Silverspot Cinema in Naples at 592-0300.

Robert has exhibited and lectured throughout the U.S. She is working on a new exhibition titled Spokeswoman. Upon completion, Roberts will have about 30 paintings of remarkable women from the U.S. and throughout the world – living and deceased – who represent women’s empowerment and/or the ongoing struggle for human rights.

Local Musician To Compete At Blues Challenge

Anticipation is building for this year’s Regional International Blues Challenge (IBC) to be held on Sunday, August 26 as musicians from all over Southwest Florida descend on the Rhythm House in Fort Myers for the chance to compete at the national IBC in Memphis in January. Among them is the Marty Stokes Band, 2016’s winner for best band, who went on to represent the region at the national competition in 2017.

Led by vocalist and guitarist Marty Stokes, the band is comprised of Daryl Best on bass guitar, Jennifer Mazzotti on saxophone and keyboards, and Chicago Dave Murphy on drums. Hot off the release of their fourth album, Down On My Knees, with great reviews, the band is expected to set fire to the stage with originals and covers drawn from the deep well of blues history.

Stokes, an island native who was raised on Sanibel and Captiva, has been enamored with the blues since he was a kid and counts guitar greats like Johnny Winter, Eric Clapton, Alvin Lee, Peter Green, BB King and Muddy Waters among his inspirations. Stokes possesses an ear for innovation and a talent for improvising searing, original guitar riffs and deep, heartfelt vocals.

A fan favorite, the Marty Stokes Band is a three-time winner of the Southwest Florida Blues Society’s People’s Choice Award and has placed in competitions for the South Florida and Suncoast Blues Societies. With performance roots in Germany, Stokes and his band bring the gospel of the blues to venues all over Southwest Florida as well as numerous festivals, such as Ave Maria Blues Festival, the Bonita Blues Festival and the Sanibel Blues & Jazz Festival.

Stokes also lends his expertise to the Sanibel Blues & Jazz Festival as consultant by recommending talent for the event, which is set for November 4. Now in its third year, the festival has featured blues greats like Matt Schofield, Elvin Bishop and JP Soars as well as talented locals like Johnny Jensen and Florida Gulf Coast University Jazz Combo. This year’s lineup has yet to be announced but promises to be stellar.

Tickets to the Regional International Blues Challenge, which is presented by the Southwest Florida Blues Society, are $5 for members and $10 for non-members. Tickets can be purchased on the day of the competition, which will run from noon to 6 p.m.

What You’ll See During Ghostbird’s 2018-19 Season

by Tom Hall

Continuing its commitment to new, site-influenced theater, Ghostbird Theatre Company’s seventh season will feature an Art Walk installation at The Franklin Shops on First, a return to the Happehatchee Center in Estero, a train-themed connection of vignettes at the restored Atlantic Coastline Railway station in the downtown Fort Myers River District and Ghostbird’s popular 24-Hour Festival in the Sidney & Berne Davis Art Center. The Art Walk installation at the Franklin Shops is tentatively titled Windows/Stories. A formative work devised by Barry Cavin and Katelyn Gravel, this installation piece will take place on October 5.

On November 10 and 11 and 17 and 18, Ghostbird returns to the scene of The Chicken Play at the Happehatchee Center in Estero with Boxes Are For What We Keep, a trilogy of brief plays with the Southwest Florida Community Foundation.

Ghostbird’s seventh season culminates with the 24-Hour Festival on March 3 at the Sidney & Berne Davis Art Center in the downtown Fort Myers River District. Once again, Ghostbird’s annual competition and celebration of creativity will pitch local visual artists, filmmakers, theatre artists, dancers, musicians and poets in a frenetic race against the clock to create unique works based on prompts given by Barry Cavin.

Ghostbird is the only theater company in the American South devoted to site-specific work. In this regard, ever striving to partner with just the right venue for each of its productions, Ghostbird has been recognized as one of the 10 best companies in Florida for live theater.

“We continue to grow artistically with our on-site collaborations,” observes Artistic Director Barry Cavin.

With shows such as ORBS! and The Perfect Island of Dr. Teed (performed at Koreshan State Historic Site in Estero), Writing Shadows, Catastrophe and Ibb (performed in the historic Langford-Kingston Home in downtown Fort Myers), Antigone (staged at artist Marcus Jansen’s warehouse-based art studio in Fort Myers), No. 27 (performed at Bonita Springs’ historic Shangri-La Springs) and The Chicken Play (performed outdoors under the super moon and inside the screened pavilion at the Happehatchee Center in Estero), Ghostbird has taken tremendous strides in just the past three seasons in developing performances in which the play and setting converge with one another.

The experimental theatre company takes its name from a swamp-dwelling, ivory-billed woodpecker once thought to be extinct, but which has been spotted sporadically over the past two decades. Drawing upon the elusiveness, mystery and magic of its namesake, Ghostbird Theatre seeks to draw its audiences into those deep spiritual woods where they can discover loss, beauty, communion, reconciliation and hope.

The Clinic for the Rehabilitation of Wildlife (CROW) will host an “open house-style” event — Walk on the Wild Side — at Lakes Regional Park in Fort Myers this Saturday, August 25 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. The family-friendly event is free and open to the public.

According to JoEllen Urasky, CROW operations/business manager, the three-hour gala will include presentations on wildlife-related topics, recycled material craft projects and educational encounters with some of CROW’s animal ambassadors. One of the primary goals of the “friend-raiser” is to teach residents, who live might not be aware of the wildlife hospital’s purpose, about their work treating sick and injured wildlife, the latest in conservation medicine and why this is important for the health of our ecosystem and our community.

Sponsored in part by Lee County Parks and Recreation, Walk on the Wild Side activities will include a self-guided walk around a field, where participants — young and old — will learn fun and interesting facts about local wildlife. After completing the course, participants will fill out a questionnaire for a chance to win small prizes.

Throughout the walk, visitors will stop at stations offering a variety of subjects and activities. Additional encounters with live animals and members of CROW’s veterinary team, along with some wildlife-related games for kids, are also planned.

The Alliance for the Arts is located at 10091 McGregor Boulevard in Fort Myers. For more information and to register, visit www.artlineee.org/tenacity.

Clear The Shelters Event Boosts Adoptions

Lee County Domestic Animal Services (LCDAS) teamed up with NBC-2 Meteorologist Jason Dunning for NBC’s nationwide Clear The Shelters event on August 18, resulting in 116 adoptions.

While the event was Saturday only, NBC and Dunning started promoting adoptions on August 2 by having pets from LCDAS on his Who Needs A Walk segment as well as airing commercial and social media segments. This brought adopters to the LCDAS shelter well ahead of the event, with a record-breaking 237 adoptions in the 14 days leading up to the event.

Just five kittens remained in the shelter by the end of Saturday’s event, and LCDAS will continue to waive the adoption fees for those kittens, which are named Turbo, Dana, Carrie, Carla and George. Officials applaud NBC-2, Jason Dunning, sponsors Riverland Nursery, Hills Pet Nutrition and Cats Pride in helping make the event a success.

LCDAS is open 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday at 5600 Banner Drive in Fort Myers. Visit www.leeopets.com to see additional pets available for adoption.

CROW Case Of The Week:

Little Blue Heron

by Bob Petcher

The little blue heron (Egretta caerulea) is relatively small as compared to other herons. Its modest size is in contrast to its long legs and dagger-like bill, which it utilizes with a patient, stand-and-wait approach on its prey. This predatory action is much like its larger cousin, the great blue heron.

Adult little blue herons are of dark colors, usually sporting a maroon head and neck above its blue body. Juveniles, on the other hand, are entirely white, while youngsters closer to adulthood are a mix of white and blue.

At CROW, a little blue heron was admitted from Cape Coral a day after it was rescued from Black Skimmer Island by a fishing charter captain who noticed the bird was unable to walk. The injured bird was taken to a drop-off location in Cape Coral for the evening.

When the bird arrived at CROW the next morning, medical officials noted the patient to be hock sitting.

“Hock sitting describes when a bird sits on a joint called the hock, which normally would not touch the ground,” said Dr. Kyle Abbott, CROW veterinary intern. “In most cases, hock sitting is not normal for birds. There are certain circumstances and species where this occurs more often but, in general, this is a sign of weakness.”

The little blue heron was also stated to have a loss of cloacal tone. Veterinarians suspected it to be afflicted with brevetoxicosis, or red tide poisoning.

“Cloacal tone describes the muscle tone of the entrance to the cloaca. The cloaca is the opening from which birds eliminate feces and urates, as well as lay eggs,” said Dr. Abbott. “When birds are neurologically compromised, such as with brevetoxicosis (red tide), then we see this cloacal tone decrease which can result in an inability to eliminate the body’s waste.”

The avian patient was given fluids, medications and started on a re-feeding plan. Veterinarians also decided to monitor the bird’s neurological status. Less than a week later, the little blue heron was noted to be healthier.

“This little blue heron is improving steadily with supportive care. The patient is gaining strength and spending more time standing each day,” said Dr. Abbott. “The patient has also begun eating on its own, which is a great indicator.”

While it is too early to tell if or when the little blue heron will be released, there nevertheless is a positive forecast.

“As long as this heron continues to have steady progress and gain strength, its prognosis will be good. The fact it is eating is a good indicator that he can continue to make progress,” said Dr. Abbott. “Many of these animals affected by brevetoxicosis can survive with the intensive care this heron is receiving.”

CROW officials would like to compliment charter captains and other boaters who have been extremely helpful in spotting and rescuing sick wildlife during the recent red tide blooms.

“The fishing charter captain rescuing this bird was important for its survival, and we are thankful for their help. The amount of community support that CROW receives is essential for giving aid to these animals,” said Dr. Abbott. “It is important to keep in mind that any wild animals, even relatively small animals like egrets, herons and cormorants, can pose a threat to humans. If someone finds an injured or sick wild animal, please remember CROW is available to answer any questions about whether an animal may need help or what to do with the animal so that it can be treated. If you are unsure what to do, it is always best to call first before trying to help the animal to ensure the safety of the animal and the person rescuing it.”

Resiliency

by Capt. Matt Mitchell

Pine Island sound waters have greatly improved over the last week from this never-ending red tide. It’s certainly still not back to normal yet, but the improvement in conditions is fabulous to see. As long as we stay on a easterly wind pattern the red tide should continue to blow out of the bay. Lower red tide levels and cleaner water around the local passes meant catch-and-release snook action is strong.

The toughest part of fishing has been keeping bait alive. The grass flats that I’m throwing the cast net on are holding both shiners and pinfish. Once you start putting these baits in the live well, they have been hard to keep alive. On several outings this week, I ended up catching bait multiple times but it only takes one running through an area of red tide and you would lose the majority of your bait.

If you could get these baits to the passes alive, the bite has been outstanding with snook, trout, snapper and jacks keeping the rods bent. Our big snook of the week measured 30 inches, although there were several times that bigger snook were hooked and won the battle. After not fishing with shiners for over a week due to the red tide, it was great to have these great baits, and they really upped the action and the quality of the fish caught.

To catch snook again really felt good after several trips of only targeting mangrove snapper on live shrimp.

Making national news has had a major ripple effect on tourism with this being the slowest August anyone can ever remember. This situation is making things very lean for anyone who makes their living in the hospitality business and especially those who do so on the water. Marinas, bait shops and captains are all experiencing the slowest month bearable.

After such a major reoccurring and what feels like a never-ending red tide nightmare that’s still happening all over the Florida gulf coast, I’m seeing a glimmer of hope. With tons of dead fish, dead turtles, dolphins and manatees being removed from our local waters, marine life is gradually returning. This really says a lot about the resiliency of Pine Island Sound. I’m slowly feeling a little relief as things are slowly getting back to almost normal.

Hairy Cowpea

_Hairy cowpea (Vigna luteola) is a native twining vine of the pea family and a relative of the black-eyed pea (Vigna unguiculata) and mung bean (Vigna radiate). Commonly considered a weed and more common in coastal areas, it grows along roadsides and in disturbed areas, ditches, tidal flats and marshes, swamps, swales and vacant lots. This very hardy perennial can be procured for trailing, tangle, or climbing with branches several feet long. The bright yellow flowers bloom all year, appearing at the end of long angled stems. The larger upper petal is wider than it is long. The alternate leaves are made up of three exote to lanceolate leaflets of about an inch and a half long. The pea pods measure from one to two and a half inches long, with indentations between the several seeds. The pods are hairy, thus the common name. Ground-feeding birds eat the seeds, and the plant is a food source for white-tailed deer, a fact that inspires another common name, deer pea. The plant is also called wild cowpea. The seeds and flowers are said to be edible when cooked. Hairy cowpea is a good addition to a butterfly garden, because it is a larval host for the gray hairstreak, ceraunus and cassius blue butterflies, as well as the Dorantes and long-tailed skippers.

Statewide Alligator Harvest Under Way

_Florida’s statewide alligator harvest, nationally and internationally recognized as a model program for the sustainable use of a renewable natural resource, began August 15. The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) issued more than 7,500 permits, including an additional 1,313 county-wide permits, as a method to help manage the alligator population. Alligators are a conservation success story in Florida. They were included on the original federal endangered species list in 1967. Conservation efforts allowed the population to rebound, and they were removed from the list in 1987. Today, the state’s alligator population is estimated at 1.3 million alligators and has been stable for many years.

For over 30 years, the Statewide Alligator Harvest Program has been providing sustainable hunting opportunities throughout the state. The FWC establishes management units with appropriate harvest quotas based on research and proven science to ensure the long-term well-being of the alligator resource. Recreational alligator hunting is just one part of the FWC’s overall approach to managing the species. The FWC’s Statewide Nuisance Alligator Program (SNAP) is another. People who believe a specific alligator poses a threat to people, pets or property should call FWC’s toll-free Nuisance Alligator Hotline at 866-FWC-GATOR (866-392-4286). When someone concerned about an alligator calls the Nuisance Alligator Hotline, we will dispatch an FWC-contracted nuisance alligator trapper to resolve the situation.

In addition, as part of a comprehensive effort to achieve alligator management goals, the FWC has issued an additional 21 Targeted Harvest Area permits that encompass 79 new areas. THA permits allow a managing authority to work directly with a designated FWC-contracted nuisance alligator trapper, making the process for removing nuisance alligators more proactive and streamlined.

THA permits, which have been in use for almost two decades, define the area’s boundaries, the duration of the permit and how many alligators can be removed. Currently, there are 260 THA permits issued that cover 1,460 sites throughout the state with more THAs expected to be added.

Serious injuries caused by alligators are rare in Florida. The FWC works diligently to keep Floridians and visitors informed about safely coexisting with alligators, including providing informational tools such as a video, infographic, and brochure.

Clean Up Of Red Tide Fish Kills Continues

Contractors working for Lee County have removed more than 1,400 tons of fish from Lee County beaches and waterways since beginning work in September. That total doesn’t include fish collected by Lee County Parks & Recreation staff before the contractor began work, fish collected from Boca Grande or fish collected by the City of Sanibel.

Efforts to mitigate water-quality issues throughout Lee County continue under the leadership of the Lee Board of County Commissioners with county staff, contracted vendors and several state entities, including the Florida Department of Environmental Protection (FDEP), the Florida Fish & Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) and the Florida Department of Health (DOH).

The county has a grant agreement in place with DEP for reimbursement of $1.3 million to assist with red tide clean up. The state funds are being supplemented by Tourist Development Tax reserves. Lee County plans to allocate funding necessary to cover emergency beach clean-up expenses through this fiscal year, which ends September 30.

Lee County is in receipt of two newly purchased Surf Rake machines for beach and shoreline cleanup at $60,000 apiece, and parks and rec staff have begun using the equipment on beaches.

Lee County Parks & Recreation staff has been cleaning county owned and operated beaches, parks and boat ramps affected by the red tide fish kill. The county has hired Crowder Gulf, a debris-removal contractor, to assist in cleaning the beaches and shorelines, using both on-land and boat operations. Areas cleaned so far by Lee County and its contractor include Boca Grande, Sanibel Causeway Islands, Fort Myers Beach (including Access 40 north to Crescent Beach, Lynn Hall Park and Bowditch Point Park), Bonita Beach, Captiva Island bayside (South Seas to Tween Waters), Upper Captiva/Safety Harbor canal and Pine Island’s southern cays in St. James City.

The City of Sanibel, which reports having collected 309.6 tons, and the Town of Fort Myers Beach and Captiva Erosion Prevention District continue their clean-up efforts in their areas. The city has passed a resolution urging President Trump to recognize a major disaster exists in Lee County because of the high concentration and prolonged presence of harmful red tide in the Gulf of Mexico and harmful blue-green algae blooms in the Caloosahatchee River and surrounding waters.

FWC Biologist Honored With Resource Award

Kathleen Smith, a biologist with the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC), has been honored with the Florida Department of Environmental Protection’s Resource Manager of the Year award for her work at the Corkscrew Regional Ecosystem Watershed Wildlife and Environmental Area (WEA) over the past six years.

The award, presented to her at the recent Governor and Cabinet’s meeting in Tallahassee, recognizes outstanding resource management achievements by the hundreds of resource managers who protect state properties.

Smith was recognized for her passion and commitment to conserving wildlife while working in partnership with the South Florida Water Management District that co-manages this WEA, which is in Lee and Collier counties. One focus has been work on the federally endangered Florida bonneted bat. Smith has shared 240,000 acoustic bat call signatures collected, and then analyzed the data used to develop monitoring and permitting protocols for this rare native species.

Smith also recognizes the CREW WEA is not just important for listed species but is a popular recreational destination. She has worked hard to maintain public access when hydrological restoration projects caused closures to roads and areas within the WEA.

“It is abundantly clear that Kathleen accepted the position of the CREW WEA area biologist with the aim to expand its duties, and to greatly enhance the research, monitoring and restoration of the species and habitats that make CREW WEA such a unique treasure to the region,” said her supervisor Dan Mitchell, who nominated her for the award.

“Kathleen’s impact on conservation goes beyond the footprint of CREW, as she has assisted with conflict wildlife issues in the area involving bears and panthers. She has a great ability to communicate with the public and goes the extra mile – like translating information into both Spanish and Creole languages to communicate better with Farm Workers Village residents in Immokalee on wildlife issues such as being Bear Wise.”

Kathleen possesses all the traits of an exemplary resource manager, including a strong work ethic, leadership ability, tremendous organizational and interpersonal skills, and dedication to going above and beyond her regular job duties,” said Kipp Frohlich, director of the FWC’s Division of Habitat and Species Management. “We are so proud that she is being recognized for her great work, and we are truly fortunate to have her on our FWC team.”

Smith’s work ethic and dedication might have been best exemplified last year when her housing was significantly damaged by Hurricane Irma.

The hurricane didn’t slow her down one bit,” said her supervisor. “Despite personal hardship, she worked tirelessly on clearing trails, preventing further damage and coordinating repairs at CREW WEA.”

Schools And Airport To Receive Mass Casualty Kits

The Rotary Club of Fort Myers South recently announced that the Fund-A-Need initiative for 2018, in conjunction with the 2018 Law & Order Ball, will provide funds to local law enforcement for mass casualty kits for Lee County schools, Florida Gulf Coast University, Florida SouthWestern State College and Southwest Florida International Airport.

The goal of this year’s Fund-A-Need initiative is to raise enough money for all Lee County schools to receive two mass casualty kits in addition to being available in common areas of Southwest Florida International Airport. Local healthcare supplier, LeeSar, will source and supply the kits based on the Lee County EMS standards.

A mass casualty kit provides multiple first aid supplies to stop bleeding and treat injuries until emergency assistance arrives. A vital component of these kits will be 10 tourniquets, bandages, and quick-clotting agents to “stop the bleed” within 1.9 seconds. Each kit can help 15 people in the event of an emergency.

Roger Mercado, Rotarian and event chair, explains the reason this was the cause chosen for this year’s ball. “Fort Myers Rotary South and the Law and Order Ball strives to meet the unmet needs of our law enforcement partners. As we begin the new school year, from elementary to college, there is a heightened awareness regarding safety and security. As Southwest Florida prepares itself for another tourist season, our airports will be packed. Through the suggestion of our partner agencies, we are trying to equip schools at all levels and our local airports with mass casualty kits to prepare ourselves for any disaster or crisis.”

Captain Mike Miller of the Lee County Sheriff’s Office explains why these kits are necessary. “We have to gauge for the unexpected, especially now there’s been a whole lot of tragedies happening in the schools. The kits can be helpful in any emergency situation, providing help to the wounded until emergency services arrive. We can actually treat multiple people and minimize the loss of life or serious injury.”

The Law & Order Ball was created to not only honor local law enforcement but to raise funds for various related needs. Trauma kits were also a focus in 2016 when the Rotary Club of Fort Myers South through the Law and Order Ball raised $60,000 to fund personal or car “tactical” trauma kits for the officers to wear or to have available in the vehicles.

Retiree Choices Affect Financial Strategies

by Jennifer Basey

Up on retiring, many people relocate to enjoy a more favorable climate, or to be closer to grown children, or to live in an area they’ve visited and enjoyed. If you, too, are thinking of moving someday, you’ll want to study possible locations, but you also need to be aware that where you eventually decide to live can greatly affect your savings and investment strategies – both now and during your retirement.

Here are some relocation costs to consider:

Housing – Not surprisingly, the larger the city, the more expensive the housing is likely to be. Also, locations near an ocean or the mountains tend to be more costly. But the type of housing you select – house, apartment or condominium – also can affect your financial picture in terms of initial expense, maintenance and possible tax benefits. Plus, you can now find newer types of arrangements, such as senior cooperative housing, in which you own a share of the community and have a voice in how it’s run.

Health care – If you are age 65 or older when you retire, you’ll have Medicare to cover some of your health care costs, though you’ll still likely need to purchase some type of supplemental coverage. However, out-of-pocket health care expenses may vary in different parts of the country, so this is something else you’ll want to check out before relocating. Of course, the availability of good medical facilities may be just as important to you as health care costs.

Taxes – You may hear about people moving to a different state to lower their tax burden during retirement. A few states don’t have personal state income taxes and many others offer favorable tax breaks on retirement income, so, if taxes are a major concern, you’ll want to research the tax situation of prospective retirement locations. You may also want to consult with your tax advisor.

These aren’t all the areas you’ll need to consider when estimating your total cost of living in a retirement destination, but they should give you a good idea of what you can expect. And your choice of where to live as a retiree can affect your financial strategy in at least two ways: how you invest today and how much you can withdraw from your retirement accounts when you’re retired.

Regarding how you invest today, you should evaluate whether your current investment strategy is likely to produce the resources needed to support you adequately in the retirement location you’ve chosen. So, for example, if you think you’re going to live in a fairly expensive place, you may need to reduce your expenses, delay retirement or work part-time.

Your choice of a retirement destination also may affect how much money you withdraw each year from your 401(k) and IRA. When choosing an appropriate withdrawal rate, you’ll need to consider other variables – your age, the amount of money in your retirement accounts, other available assets, etc.

But your cost of living will be a key factor. A financial professional can help you determine the withdrawal rate that’s right for you.

When you retire, it can be a great feeling to live where you want, but you’ll enjoy it more if you’re fully aware of the costs involved – and the financial steps you’ll need to take.

Boating Safety Exams Now Offered Online

Access to Florida’s Boater Education Temporary Certificate Program has been expanded, thanks to work done by the Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) to make allowances for online course providers to offer the required courses over the internet.

In August of 2017, the FWC amended Florida Administrative Code 68D-36.108 to allow the temporary certificate exam to be offered in an online version. This change has made it easier and more convenient for both vessel operators and vessel liveries to comply with Florida’s boater education laws, which require liveries to verify that customers born on or after January 1, 1988, have met Florida’s boating safety education requirements before allowing them to rent their vessels.

Online temporary certificate exam providers will create a system that allows 24-hour, seven-day a week accessibility to the exam using tablets, laptops, or other electronic devices. This added convenience will make it easier for both visitors and residents by allowing them to take the test before a vacation to Florida.

Currently, one online boating safety education provider, Boat Ed, has completed the process to offer the exam online. Boat Ed has been a leader and innovator in boating safety education since 1995. Study or learning materials are available on the Boat Ed site to prepare students for the exam, improve their boating knowledge and increase their chances of successfully completing the exam on the first try. The exam costs $3 and study materials are available for an additional charge. A link to the exam can be found at www.boat-ed.com/florida/parental.

Prior to this change, paper exams were the only option and were required to be completed and passed by rental vessel operators. The ability for liveries to continue to offer paper exams has not changed with the addition of this online option. Liveries can still purchase and administer the paper exams, as long as their contract and insurance are valid.

The temporary certificate exam is a knowledge check, not a full education course. It cannot be converted into a boater safety identification card that is valid for life. Temporary certificates are not valid in any other state and do not meet boater safety education requirements in other states.

The online exam will be 25 questions, randomly selected from a large pool of questions. Upon successful completion of the exam, students will be provided an electronic proof of their successful completion and their passing score. A livery will be able to inspect this proof to ensure that a prospective vessel renter has met Florida’s boating safety education requirements.

The new change offers various benefits to liveries:

Liveries are not required to contract with any other company to use the online exam.

A link that will send customers directly to the online exam can be provided by liveries.

Livers are not required to continue purchasing paper exams from the FWC.

The burden of mailing paper tests back to the FWC is removed with the online option.

Livers will be able to provide speedier service to customers who take the exam in advance of renting.

The FWC encourages liveries to transition to the new online exam system to increase accessibility and streamline the testing process for renters interested in enjoying Florida’s beautiful waterways by boat.

Making The Most Of A Small Bedroom

by Trinette Nelson

Decorating a small bedroom might seem challenging, but there are so many simple ways to make the space equally functional and stylish.

First, make sure to stick to a strict color palette. Decorating with too many hues will make the room look more cramped and cluttered than it is. A monochromatic color scheme can create a soothing and open atmosphere.

Letting as much light in as possible is another simple way to open the space. Dress the windows with voile drapes instead of dark curtains. Don’t limit wall decorations to art. Consider hanging multiple large mirrors. It creates the illusion that there’s double the amount of space and bounces light around the room.

Finding storage space can often present a challenge. A floor-to-ceiling fitted storage unit is the perfect answer. Not only is it extremely functional, but it can add a hint of character and personalization to the room. Freeing up the floor space in a small bedroom is key, so do it whenever possible.

Consider an innovative approach to the furniture selection, such as a hanging nightstand or set of floating shelves.

Making the most of a small bedroom is easy. If you’re ready to free up the space in your small bedroom, a design professional can easily assist with space planning.

It May Be A Long Shot, But Red Sox Could Tie Or Set A New Record

by Ed Frank

The Boston Red Sox have a record-breaking opportunity in front of them as the 2018 season winds down. The team has a winning record of 88-37 through 125 games, a (.704) percentage to break the record. That’s an ambitious task, but not impossible. Here’s why:

The Red Sox need to win 29 of the 37 games remaining in a single season.

The record is held by the Seattle Mariners who went 116-46 in 2001 and the Chicago Cubs who won 116 games way back in 1906 in a 152-game schedule.

Here’s the scenario at the beginning of this week:

Through 125 games played, Boston was 88-37, a (.704) winning percentage, the best by far in baseball.

Sox Could Tie Or Set A New Record

It May Be A Long Shot, But Red Sox Could Tie Or Set A New Record

If the 116-winning mark is broken, that would be icing on the cake.

The Miracle Chase Division Title And Just One-Half Game Out Of First Place

With just 13 games remaining in the season’s second-half, the Fort Myers Miracle baseball team trailed first-place Charlotte by just one-half game in the Florida State League South Division.

The Miracle began this week with a record of 33-23. Of the 13 games remaining, the final seven will be home games starting Monday – four against Bradenton and three with Clearwater. The regular season ends September 2.

Two first-round draft selections by the Minnesota Twins have given the Miracle a big boost in the later stages of the current campaign.

Shortstop Royce Lewis, the No. 1 overall pick in 2017 is hitting .307 in 34 games played with the Miracle. And Alex Kirilloff, an outfielder, who was a first-round pick, number 15, pick by the Twins in 2015 was hitting .375 in 52 games with the Miracle.

The Fort Myers Miracle are inviting all Harry Potter fans to the ballpark on Saturday, September 1 as Hammond Stadium turns into the Hogwarts School of Witchcraft and Wizardry.

The Miracle also are giving away two tickets to The Wizarding World of Harry Potter at Universal Orlando; contest details will be announced through social media, and the lucky fan must be present at Harry Potter Night to win.

The Miracle are offering a special $15 ticket promotion that includes a general admission seat, souvenir wand, a juicy Kayem hotdog and a fountain drink. Fans should use the promo code “Harry Potter” at checkout when purchasing tickets online, and then can choose to sit in a section based on their house preference from the Potter series: Gryffindor, Slytherin, Ravenclaw or Hufflepuff.

Fans are encouraged to dress as their favorite character from the series: Harry Potter, Hermione Granger and Ron Weasley, or even Severus Snape, Albus Dumbledore, Voldemort and Rubeus Hagrid.

“Our costume nights have been some of our most popular games all season,” said Chris Peters, Miracle general manager and president.

“Hopefully some of our wizards and witches can put a spell on the players and carry our team to victory.”

Prizes will be awarded for the best costumes.

The Alzheimer’s Association and financial services-firm Edward Jones recently entered into an historic partnership, whereby Edward Jones has committed $4.7 million over two years to support the mission of the Alzheimer’s Association, according to Jennifer Basey, a financial advisor in Fort Myers.

Funding through the partnership will enhance the association’s care and support programs, including the 24/7 Helpline at 800-272-3900 and provide educational materials on brain health as well as funds for critical Alzheimer’s disease research and grassroots awareness activities.

In addition, the Alzheimer’s Association will provide services, support and education on brain health and Alzheimer’s disease to Edward Jones’ associates and clients.

“With more than 12,000 branch office locations in the United States, this commitment from Edward Jones will move the Alzheimer’s cause forward,” said Donna McCullough, chief development officer, Alzheimer’s Association. “Together we will reach more families who need information, resources and guidance as they face an Alzheimer’s diagnosis and caregiving challenges. In addition, funding will support critical research exploring the causes of, and treatments for Alzheimer’s disease.”

The partnership has several facets. Edward Jones will also serve as the nationwide presenting sponsor of the Alzheimer’s Association Walk to End Alzheimer’s, an event that raised more than $77 million in 2015 to support Alzheimer’s Association care and education programs, fuel research and advance public policy. The Alzheimer’s Association will provide education programs to associates at Edward Jones and will work to ensure their associates are equipped to share the resources of the Alzheimer’s Association with clients.

“We’re thrilled to be teaming up with the Alzheimer’s Association to help find a cure for one of the greatest threats to the health and wealth of families, including the millions of families that we serve in North America,” said John Beuerlein, Edward Jones partner with responsibility for the firm’s newly-created Senior Investor Council. “We are proud to make this commitment to the mission of the Alzheimer’s Association and its critical fight to end Alzheimer’s disease.”

The Edward Jones Alzheimer’s Research Fund will make grants to research projects chosen by the Edward Jones Senior Investor Council from peer-reviewed and best-in-class research projects presented by the association. The Senior Investor Council will be looking to fund the most impactful research possible to move the cause forward.

Children’s Charity Group To Focus On Mental Health

Southwest Florida Children’s Charities, Inc. is kicking off its 2019 Southwest Florida Wine & Food Fest fundraising season with the announcement of a new organizational focus on mental and behavioral health.

With a 10-year history of raising $25 million in lifesaving funds in support of organizations committed to pediatric health care and education, SWFL Children’s Charities, Inc.’s annual signature fundraising event will now shine a brighter light on mental illness.

The majority of the proceeds from the 2019 Southwest Florida Wine & Food Fest’s auction will be allocated to local organizations dedicated to enhancing mental and behavioral health, with another portion of the funds continuing to support pediatric health care services at Golisano Children’s Hospital and pediatric healthcare educational programs at Florida Gulf Coast University and Florida SouthWestern State College.

SWFL Children’s Charities, Inc. has named Christin Collins, Brooke Denson and Debbie Toler as chairpersons of the 2019 Southwest Florida Wine & Food Fest. The Grand Tasting and Live Auction will take place at noon on February 24, 2019, at the Hyatt Regency Coconut Point Resort and Spa in Bonita Springs. The theme of the 2019 event is Building Healthy Minds, aligning with SWFL Children’s Charities, Inc.’s new mental and behavioral health focus.

“With a 10-year history of raising $25 million in lifesaving funds in support of organizations committed to pediatric health care and education, SWFL Children’s Charities, Inc. is proud to expand our focus to include mental and behavioral health services,” said SWFL Children’s Charities, Inc. chairperson Christin Collins. “The health and well-being of our children and families is of utmost importance to us, and we are committed to doing our part to support organizations that are working to make a positive impact in the lives of those affected by mental illness.”

The theme of the 2019 event is Building Healthy Minds, aligning with SWFL Children’s Charities, Inc.’s new mental and behavioral health focus. SWFL Children’s Charities, Inc. is also announcing a new partnership with the Southwest Florida Community Foundation to enhance its grant application and selection process. The partnership will be instrumental in selecting the annual beneficiaries of the Southwest Florida Wine & Food Fest, leveraging the Southwest Florida Community Foundation’s vast resources to implement criteria to assess potential beneficiaries of the mental and behavioral health focus, as well as the stewardship of funds and monitoring of performance and results.

“The demand for mental health services is far greater than what is currently available in our region, and we received an overwhelming response in 2017 through our event’s Fund-A-Cause for mental and behavioral health. Since then, the momentum has continued to grow,” said Toler. “Thousands of local children are affected by these invisible illnesses, and as an organization, we see an opportunity to truly serve as a champion for mental and behavioral health within our community. We are thrilled to support this initiative in a greater capacity through our annual fundraising event, working together to build healthy minds and break the stigma against mental illness.”

Help In Case You’re Losing Your Mind

by Suzy Cohen, RPh

Dear Readers: Don’t you hate it when you are introduced and you can’t remember the person’s name? What about remembering whether or not you already told someone that story? It’s like one day you go from young to old.

This stuff seems to happen more and more as you age. Why does it happen to some of us, and not to others? I’ve wondered. I think it has to do with elevated homocysteine, at least in part. Emerging research about homocysteine connects it to neurofibrillary tangles, and those are associated with progressive memory disorders like Alzheimer’s.

Did you know that NSAIDs and oral contraceptives are strong drug muggers of folate? If you deplete folate (vitamin B9), you block your methylation cycle, homocysteine builds up and memory becomes impaired.

Perhaps maintaining brain function is related to declining levels of another B vitamin called “methylcobalamin.” It’s also known as vitamin B12, a nutrient that is manufactured by your intestinal flora.

Today, health food stores and online e-tailers offer various supplements that you can buy over the counter, but of course, ask your doctor what’s right for you. I couldn’t possibly know what’s right for each of you, and this article reaches millions of people, so again, find out if these simple nutritional fixes are ideal for you:

Acetyl-L-Carnitine – The amino acid Acetyl-L-Carnitine crosses the blood-brain barrier more readily than regular plain L-Carnitine, and it helps the body make acetylcholine, the brain’s super neurotransmitter that is necessary for healthy mood and optimal cognitive function, as well as muscle health, a side benefit of it.

Lion’s Mane – A 2014 study concluded that lion’s mane promotes the growth of nerve cells in the brain. Lion’s mane increases NGF (Nerve Growth Factor), which then encourages the growth of new neurites. NGF encourages neurones to connect to each other, communicate better and, simply put, this helps you learn faster and remember things better.

Bacopa Monnieri – Bacopa monnieri exerts a strong protective effect on the brain because it inhibits the production of acetylcholinesterase, an enzyme that breaks down acetylcholine, and acetylcholine is a neurotransmitter that you want a lot of in your brain.

Gotu Kola – Gotu kola may help to increase the growth of neurons, promoting brain function, reducing mental fatigue and supporting memory.

Phosphatidylserine – Phosphatidylserine begins to decline with age. It helps “connect the wires” upstairs and improve nerve impulse firing.

Green Tea – It’s found in green tea, and EGCG crosses the blood-brain barrier. A 2012 study in mice found that supplemental EGCG promotes brain plasticity in the hippocampus area of the brain.

Today should be an important day for you, particularly if you’re now really thinking seriously about your memory for the first time. I’m not a fan of the “wait and see” approach when it comes to your brain. Our life experiences and family relationships as well as friendships are important memories. Your job depends on your ability to remember the simplest tasks. If you’d like to read the longer version of this article, just sign up for my newsletter at www.suzycohen.com, and I’ll email it to you.

Unprocessed, whole fruit is a healthy choice for most people, especially over processed fruit products or juice. Some people say they want to avoid fruit due to sugar but I don’t see how that’s possible when you make pastries. This doesn’t make sense.

Fruit is a healthier choice than sugary desserts. There are many fun, creative ways to blend fresh fruit with protein and vegetables for balanced meals or snacks.

While one mango has a whopping 45 grams of sugar, they can be used in small amounts to make mango salsa to top fish or chicken, or blended with herbs and olive oil to make a salad dressing or marinade for grilling meat and veggie skewers. Another favorite:

Free Pain Clinic Receives National Grant

The Southwest Florida Free Pain Clinic has been selected as one of six recipients nationwide to receive a grant from the NORCAL Group Foundation, a foundation dedicated to improving healthcare in local communities.

The Southwest Florida Free Pain Clinic currently offers a unique treatment model for low-income, uninsured pain patients utilizing medical and chiropractic care, massage and physical therapy, modalities, and health and exercise counseling to treat patients at the source of their pain without the use of drugs. NORCAL Group Foundation funding will assist in expansion of services for patients in need.

“We are excited to expand services from one night per week, to a day-time operating clinic,” said Alan Gruning, DO, executive/medical director of the Southwest Florida Free Pain Clinic.

“The support we have received from community individuals and now the NORCAL Group Foundation has turned this dream into a reality. We have secured a lease space and will be in our own facility this fall.”

Goals for the clinic expansion are as follows:

- Combat the epidemic of prescription pain medication abuse by treating pain at the source and negating the need for pain medications
- Decrease utilization by pain patients of emergency departments and hospital inpatient services, with the resulting financial savings to the healthcare system
- Evaluate the impact a free pain clinic has on the local healthcare system, by working directly with hospitals to diagnose and treat inappropriate patients through a holistic approach
- Evaluate the decrease in prescription drug use by patients treated using a Functional Medicine model
- Create a template that can be utilized by other healthcare systems to successfully diagnose and treat uninsured pain patients at the source
- There are so many opportunities to impact healthcare in local communities,” said Joy Corso, president of the NORCAL Group Foundation.

The work the Southwest Florida Free Pain Clinic and our grant recipients are doing is a great example of meaningful efforts to improve local healthcare for both patients and physicians, and we are very proud to support these endeavors.

Southwest Florida Free Pain Clinic is one of six organizations nationwide that were awarded funding for initiatives and programs focused on patient care, patient safety and physician wellness.

World Premiere

their enhancements, because they can no longer pay for the required maintenance. They go from young to old.

The two-act play consists of numerous vignettes that show us how Rich and Gretchen came to be in this situation. We watch Gretchen visit her old friend Cindy (Tamicka Armstrong) as she tries to find out who she was five years ago before she met Rich. Rich used to be a drinker, and now he’s a teetotaler. His old friend Ted (Patrick Day) plays a big role in their lives. Gretchen was transformed from a slightly trampy young woman into a well educated one with a master’s degree, who speaks French. They both wonder who they will be when their repurposed memories are removed.

The stage setting has a backdrop of an electrified brain with removable compartments that exemplify the concept of swapping out old elements of our life for new memories, talents and personality traits. Kudos to the stage crew for handling these maneuvers. A continuing theme is the concept of avatars in video games where it is possible to build your own avatar and actually become that avatar. Rich’s company designs virtual playgrounds for the 10 million people on this planet who are serious gamers.

The play is serious, but not without humor. All the actors give top notch professional performances. Repossessed is a treat for people who like to discuss their friends. It’s the perfect way for Theatre Conspiracy to begin its 25th consecutive season. There are some wonderful surprises in the storyline. The opening night audience loved the production.

Repossessed plays through August 26 at Theatre Conspiracy in the Alliance for the Arts, located at 10091 McGregor Boulevard in Fort Myers. Reserve your tickets by calling the box office at 939-2787, or visit www.artinlee.org/theatre.
PAWS Of Sanibel

Matilda And Capie

Hi, my name is Matilda. My foster mom calls me Tilly for short. I am about 11 months old and was lost in the area of East Lake Road, off Casa Ybel late last Friday night, August 3. Some kind people took me in for the remainder of the night. On Saturday morning, the lady from PAWS took me over to Coral Veterinary Clinic in Fort Myers to see if they had me on file. I was not on file but they did a combo test (negative), had FVRCP and Rabies vaccinations and was treated for fleas. I did not have a microchip. If PAWS can’t find my people, I will be available for adoption in about two weeks. If you are my kitty, you or know who my people are, please call Pam at PAWS at 472-4823. You can also call if you are interested in meeting me and perhaps giving me a new forever home if my people can’t be located.

Hello, I’m Capie. I was just born on June 2, so I’m only 9 weeks old. Some great kids on vacation at Seaside Island Resort on Captiva found me on the side of the road on July 9 and took me to PAWS. I was very tiny back then. I’ve been going to the vet for checkups and vaccinations, etc. I’m now up to 2 pounds, 7 ounces. I’m told that I’m a very handsome guy. My fur is kind of blue/grey, and I have interesting eyes and eyebrows. I love to run and chase golf balls and climb on cat trees. I would be very happy if someone would adopt me and take me to my forever home. Call Pam at PAWS at 472-4823 and come meet me.

Sasha

This is Sasha. She was picked up Wednesday night, August 15, on Airport Road off of Casa Ybel by the Sanibel Police after a call from a local resident. Sasha appears young, approximately 1 to 2 years old, has no microchip and is a tan/black tabby. It appears she is not yet spayed. She is very sweet and gentle. Sasha is being boarded at Coral Vet in Fort Myers. Her combo test for FIV/FeLV/Heartworms was negative. She has been given immunizations for FVRCP, FeLV, Rabies, and has a heart-worm and flea preventative.

Trina and Turbo

Hello, my name is Trina. I am a 3-year-old female terrier mix who is a pint-sized cutie that has ears for days. I have an underbite that will make you smile every time you see me. I am shy for about 2.2 seconds and will warn up almost immediately. I am curious about everything around me and these ears perk up with interest when I see or hear anything. I am at the perfect age where I am past the puppy chewing stage but young enough to have a lot of playful living left. Stop by to meet me today.

My adoption fee is $75.

Hi, I’m Turbo. I am a 4-month-old male domestic shorthair who is a part of Lee County Domestic Animal Services’ Fab Five. I am one of five kittens left in the shelter after our big Clear the Shelters event last Saturday. As part of the Fab Five, my adoption fee is being waived because...

Public Assistance Discussions Encouraged

The Florida Division of Emergency Management (DEM) recently reaffirmed its commitment to holding public meetings with local stakeholders in support of the Public Assistance (PA) application process. Counties are encouraged to work with their affected cities, municipalities, partners and constituents in order to identify any unmet needs and coordinate with division staff. DEM stands ready to work with the local partners and schedule meetings with the specific intent of addressing any outstanding questions or concerns associated with the federal PA process. Project status with FEMA, pending requests for information or general guidance in providing correct documentation, are all potential topics for discussion.

“We have made incredible progress since last year’s storms in ensuring Floridians receive these critical FEMA reimbursements as quickly and with as much financial security as possible,” said Division Director Wes Maul. “We understand that it can be incredibly challenging for communities that have just been devastated by a hurricane to navigate this complex federal process. We look forward to working with our local partners to ensure they quickly and successfully receive the funding that they deserve while avoiding any potential vulnerability to federal deobligations.”

Over the past year, DEM has participated in public meetings to discuss the PA process and also made Recovery Bureau staff available at numerous public, private, industry and outreach events across Florida. These interactions have proven extremely valuable in addressing the needs and concerns of communities that have been impacted by recent storms and are now engaged in the reimbursement process for hurricane response and recovery costs. The division looks forward to continuing this important dialogue through further targeted and effective discussion.

Interested county partners should reach out directly to DEM Legislative Affairs Director Angela Bonds at angela.bonds@em.myflorida.com or 850-815-4128. For additional updates, follow us on Facebook at www.facebook.com/FloridaSERT and on Twitter at www.twitter.com/FLSERT.

Gulf County Bay Scallop Season Now Open

State waters off Gulf County, including St. Joseph Bay, recently opened to bay scallop harvest. This area, which includes all state waters from the Mexico Beach Canal in Bay County through the westernmost point of St. Vincent Island in Franklin County, will remain open through September 30.

Harvesting bay scallops is a fun outdoor activity in which the whole family can participate. It also brings an important economic boost to coastal areas in the open region.

The bay scallop population in Gulf County’s St. Joseph Bay appears to be improving, but is not yet fully recovered from the impacts of a fall 2015 red tide event. Ongoing restoration efforts will continue through the season. In order to maximize the success of these efforts, swimming, boating, fishing and scalloping in the restoration area marked with Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) buoys south of Black’s Island are prohibited during and after the scallop season.

For more information on bay scallop regulations including daily bag limits, visit www.myfwc.com/fishing and click on Saltwater Fishing, Recreational Regulations and Bay Scallops.
