Historic Downtown Fort Myers, Then And Now:

City Incinerating Plant

by Gerri Reaves, PhD

This circa-1924 photo shows one of Fort Myers’s less picturesque boom-time scenes – the city incinerator. While the 1920s is best remembered for Mediterranean-Revivalist structures, brick streets and well-designed public spaces, the “invisible” and less lauded municipal plants and utilities were crucial in putting the boom in the boom.

It’s all too easy to overlook the engineering that brought water, gas and electricity to the growing city and the systems that cleared away sewage and garbage.

Garbage and sewage disposal, after all, lack the aesthetic appeal of fine architecture, river-walks, pleasure piers, parks, public art and beautifully landscaped roads.

Mid-decade, city leaders and planners generally agreed that the garbage-disposal system needed upgrading.

Not only was it insufficient to deal with growth but it was “untidy” and the surroundings “neglected,” to echo the renowned city planner Herbert S. Swan, who was hired to write a 1926 plan for Fort Myers.

The historic photo supports that opinion.

At that time, Fort Myers streets were swept of refuse after midnight. Three light trucks collected garbage and another collected trash.

The waste was disposed of at the municipal incinerator pictured here, which was located on the north side of Anderson Avenue (now Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Boulevard/MLK) and east of Evans Avenue and the railroad tracks.

Then, as today, citizens preferred that garbage to be out-of-sight and out-of-mind. No one wanted the unsightliness and odors of waste disposal in close proximity to schools and homes.

As early as 1923, the incinerator needed repair or reconstruction, thus introducing the idea of moving it farther from the business district.

Today commercial buildings stand on the former incinerator site just east of the railroad tracks (visible on left)

For example, in February 1924, as discussions of building a new incinerator got underway, petitions were circulated demanding that the location be not at the present site but “out at the edge of the city.”

In the case of Fort Myers, that meant pressing east to the edge of what is today’s historic Dunbar neighborhood.

By late 1926, construction began on a new incinerator. Oddly enough, the new site – on the grounds of today’s IMAG History & Science Center at Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. Boulevard (MLK) and Cranford – wasn’t all that far from the former one.

A municipal gas plant was also built there, and major improvements didn’t stop with that.

In 1937, the city’s first non-sulphur water plant was built across Anderson from the incinerator seen in the photo.

Today, that red-brick building is the Public Works Annex that faces Evans and the railroad tracks.

Today, well-kept commercial buildings are located on the former incinerator site.

Visit the former sites of the less visible and appreciated historic municipal plants and ponder their roles in making Fort Myers livable.

Then visit the following two research centers to learn more about how and where garbage was disposed of in early Fort Myers.

Vegetarian Chef Challenge Winner Honored

Lee Health’s culinary team celebrated National Vegetarian Awareness Month with the 5th annual Vegetarian Chef Cook-Off at Lee Memorial Hospital on November 12. Evelyn Williams from Gulf Coast Medical Center and Chris Chrombok from Lee Memorial Hospital were the other two competing chefs.

The four chefs traveled to each hospital and prepared plant-based dishes. Tasters at each campus cast their votes for their favorite dish and the top two chefs advanced to the final cook-off. The cook-off coincided with the start of the American Heart Association’s Eat Smart Month.

During the final cook-off, the chefs had 20 minutes to create a hot entrée for the five guest judges using plant-based ingredients. Williams’ entree of Jamaican jerk cauliflower served with brown rice and green beans bested Luzarraga’s smoked chickpea wrap with spinach, carrots, cucumber and tahini sauce. Williams also served an almond milk/pineapple/strawberry smoothie in sauce. Williams also served an almond milk/pineapple/strawberry smoothie in sauce. Luzarraga from HealthPark Medical Center captured top honors with the start of the American Heart Association’s Eat Smart Month.

“The Vegetarian Chef Cook-Off is always a fun and interactive way to introduce people to plant-based food choices,” said Larry Altier, Lee Health System director of food and nutrition services. “The chefs enjoy this because it allows them to be creative with these healthy ingredients. We hope this annual event inspires people to try to incorporate more plant-based options into their meal choices.”

Balanced nutrition is a key component of a healthy lifestyle, and a vegetarian diet can help reduce the risk of heart disease, stroke, cancer, diabetes and obesity.

Ghostbird Play Much More Than A Mere Fish Story

by Tom Hall

Boxes are for what we keep. But delve into playwright Barry Cavin’s new offering by the same name, and you’ll discover that boxes are also repositories into which we place ourselves and others. Escaping their confines is never easy. Abandoning the protection of their familiar boundaries is characteristically disquieting. For some, it may be downright unwelcome.

These are just some of the themes involved in Ghostbird Theatre Company’s recently completed production of Cavin’s Boxes Are For What We Keep. The opening number, a communication in a different spatial hybrid, consists of two short plays which each depict different versions of the same fable, a simple story about two fish that are caught, held captive and then released. One returns to the sea, but the other chooses to remain in her cage.

“The versions of this story, as with the Gospels, have their own turns, twists, distortions, amplifications and truths,” Ghostbird explained in A Note in their playbill. “Boxes, certainly, contain our most precious items, but they also can be prisons, comfortable coffins, hermetic enclosures, all of our own making.”

As a playwright, Cavin’s productions are deep, multi-layered, enigmatic affairs. His love of aphorisms is surpassed only by the German philosopher Friedrich Nietzsche. Cavin’s own role, as he sees it, is to provide food for thought. Some is savory, sumptuous and thoroughly delectable. But most of the thoughts invoked by Cavin’s plays are tart, acerbic and hard to digest.

And then there’s that inevitable aftertaste. Cavin’s stories stay with you long after you have left the house. The first fish story of Boxes Are For What We Keep is a case in point. It depicts two hillbilly fishermen by the name of Earl and Otmer, convincingly played by Terry Tincher and Jim Brock. They sit on the bank of a dark lake or river, dangling bright plastic lures from long cane poles, ultimately luring two creatures that go by the name of Knee and Nose, played by Scott Michael and Katelyn Gravel. It turns out that Knee and Nose can not only speak, they have better command of the English language than their hillbilly captors. Otmer is hungry and wants to fry up and eat the creatures, but Earl pushes their catch into separate display boxes. Earl has a plan for his talking monsters. He intends to make a boatload of money showing off the curiosities to a string of paying customers.

To borrow an aphorism from Nietzsche, “There are no facts, only interpretations.” The box into which we place people is not some objective reality. Labels such as Muslim, immigrant, liberal or conservative are just interpretations — shorthand terms that rarely reflect the full measure of the person bearing the moniker we have pinned on them. It is only by getting into the water and swimming with the “monster” that we can see them as they really are.

Cavin incorporates this latter fish story into the fabric of Part 2 of the play through an enthralling poem that Stella Ruiz lyrically relates in her trademark sinuous, syncopated style. But the metaphor is in operation in a different fashion in an exchange that takes place between a couple named Rebekah and Abraham, played by Katelyn Gravel and Jim Brock.

Here, we are left with the implication that just as boxes can hold heirlooms and memorabilia, our memories can serve as boxes that bind us together, but also prevent us from seeing what we and our partner have truly become.

In the final segment of his trilogy, Cavin places Ruiz in a psychological box as she interacts with her therapist, played by Dan De La Rosa. The optics in this scene are incredibly powerful. Seated behind a backlit screen, all we see is Ruiz’ silhouette and that of various paper machete puppets created for the show by Caitlin Rosolen-DeJesus. But it’s the incisive dialogue and razor-sharp repartee between woman and doctor that overpowers the audience, with Ruiz often turning the table and dissecting, emasculating and verbally castrating her therapist with such surgical precision that Sigmund Freud himself might have been reduced to tears.

This final, penultimate scene drives home the point that the boxes we build to hold conceptions of ourselves and others frequently do us more harm than good. They delimit, confine, even imprison us. Yet, they are so familiar and comfortable that we cling to them tenaciously — even as they lead or contribute to our ultimate demise. To live, or at least to live fully, we must cast off the boxes that circumscribe our existence.

If we don’t, we psychologically die. Boxes are for what we keep. But to achieve our full potential, we must be willing to destroy the very boxes we construct.

Or to borrow one final aphorism from the old German: “If a temple is to be erected, a temple must be destroyed.”

Of course, this is just a fish story, and as Cavin’s Abraham said, “Why must it mean anything?”

Pre-Registration For Kindergarten Deadline Nears

With 12 business days left to sign up, nearly 800 students have pre-registered for kindergarten in the 2019-20 school year. This new program allows parents to turn their paperwork in early and receive a student number for their child so that they can enroll them for school next year online.

“We hope to see many more before the pre-registration period ends November 30.”

Pre-registrations can be taken at any of the following three student enrollment offices, which are open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday:

- 2855 Colonial Boulevard, Fort Myers
- 1262 Wings Way, Suite 207, Lehigh Acres
- 360 Santa Barbara Boulevard, North Cape Coral

The student enrollment offices will be closed for Thanksgiving on Thursday, November 23 and Friday, November 24. Students entering kindergarten in August must be 5 years old on or before September 1, 2019.

The documents required to pre-register include:

- Physical exam (dated within the last year)
- Florida Certificate of Immunization
- Proof of address
- Original birth certificate
- Social security card (if available)
- Custody documents (if applicable)

Once pre-registered, parents are then advised to tour the elementary schools in their zone. A pre-printed application will be mailed in January allowing parents to go online and rank their schools in order of preference for student enrollment.

The first application period will be from January 14, 2019 to March 1, 2019.

Parents with questions can email: studentenrollment@leeschools.net

John Gowdy captured top honors in the Master Sculptor Solo Division at the 32nd annual American Sand Sculpting Championship with his sculpture A Tribute to the Wildland Firefighters of California on the beachfront at Wyndham Garden Fort Myers Beach last weekend.

Melineige Beauregard took second place with You Make My Heart Burn, while Seveline Beauregard placed third with Dance and Breathe. Melineige Beauregard also seized Sculptor’s Choice with her artwork.

Presented by the Seminole Casino Hotel, the championships will continue with the Advanced Amateur and Doubles Division competitions taking place this week. The 16 Solo Division sculptures will remain standing.

Guests are welcome to attend the championships daily through Sunday, November 25 from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Activities include:

- Quick Sand Speed Sand Sculpting – An audience-participation show in which two sculptors go head-to-head for a 10-minute sculpting competition, sculpting a subject selected by someone in the audience.
- Photo Opportunity Sculptures – Designed so you can step into the sculpture, become a part of it and have your photo taken. You can also have the sculpture customized by carving family names, dates to make it your own - family vacation photo, Christmas card, souvenir, post card, etc.
- Kids Zone – An area where the kids can practice building their own sand sculptures as well as numerous kid’s activities.
- Sand Sculpting Demonstrations and Lessons – Learn the Tricks of Master Sculptors.
- Sand Vendor Village – More than 40 vendors from around the country will be offering a great selection of food, beverages, specialty retail and arts and crafts.

Admission is just $7 with children age 4 and younger free. Both active and retired military veterans can attend the event any day and receive a $1 off with military ID.

The fight against childhood hunger just received a major boost. Southwest Florida Children’s Charities Inc. has chosen the local chapter of Blessings in a Backpack as a new beneficiary of the 2019 Southwest Florida Wine & Food Fest. The annual event has raised more than $25 million for children since it began in 2008.

“We’re thrilled to become a part of this cornerstone fundraising endeavor for our community,” said Cecilia St. Arnold, executive director of Blessings in a Backpack of Southwest Florida. “The need is great, and Southwest Florida Children’s Charities has stepped up to play a vital role in addressing it.”

More than 60,000 elementary school students in Lee and Collier counties receive free and reduced-price breakfasts and lunches during the week, but the federal program doesn’t cover them when school isn’t in session. Blessings in a Backpack gives nutritious, kid-friendly, easy-to-prepare meals to more than 3,000 local children on Friday afternoons so that they have food for the weekend.

A portion of the money raised through the Wine & Food Fest will help Blessings in a Backpack feed more children. The event also benefits Golisano Children’s Hospital and several institutions and organizations focused on the wellbeing of children.

The theme of this year’s Wine & Food Fest is Making Waves: Building Healthy Minds, and the majority of funds will be directed to local children’s mental and behavioral health initiatives. Organizers will partner with the Southwest Florida Community Foundation to allocate the proceeds.

The distinguished event is one of the top-grossing wine festivals in the U.S. and is the highest earning annual fundraiser in Lee County. It features elaborate vintner dinners leading up to the Grand Tasting, which brings together gourmet foods from top local chefs and exquisite wine poured by winemakers and winery owners. The Grand Tasting will take place at the Hyatt Regency Coconut Point Resort & Spa in Bonita Springs on February 24, 2019 at noon. Tickets are available by calling 433-4260.

To learn about all the ways you can help feed hungry children, visit www.blessingsinswfl.org.

Christmas Carol Sing-Along
St. Peter Lutheran Church will hold a sing-along with special guests Church of God of Prophecy Gospel Choir and Tropical Storm on Tuesday, December 4 at 7:30 p.m.
Church of God of Prophecy Gospel Choir has sung in several churches in Lee County as well as outside the Lee County area with great reviews. Formed in Lehigh Acres in 2010 with about 12 members, the group has grown since then to approximately 25 singers.
Tropical Storm, a popular men’s quartet, will be singing a few Christmas songs from their latest album. Tropical Storm is based in Southwest Florida, formed in 2005. The group has sung at many venues from Punta Gorda to Naples with rave reviews.
There will be free admission to the sing-along. Come early for best seats, and refreshments will follow the concert.
St. Peter Lutheran Church is located at 3751 Estero Boulevard on Fort Myers Beach. Call 463-4251 for more information.

Fort Myers Boxers Win Six Championships
T he Fort Myers Police Athletic League (PAL) boxers competed in the recent USA Boxing 2018 Florida State Champions in Palatka, Florida and captured six state championships and one silver award. Coach Jose Ojeda along with Assistant Coach Rudy Martinez took their team of seven boxers to the competition and all won individual awards along with the team trophy as Best Team of Show and MVP Award in the Junior category.
“This team has worked very hard to prepare for competition and to come home with all these individual trophies as well as best team is a tribute to their determination and drive,” said Coach Ojeda.
Awards went to the following boxers in these categories: Danilo Diez, age 15, Junior Open, 132 pounds; Terry Sanders, continued on page 14.
The northern raccoon is an intelligent and curious critter. The dexterity of its fingerlike five toes on its front paws is second best among animals to a monkey. The raccoon is known to have the ability to grasp and manipulate food that it finds in the wild. It can also make its way through an unlocked door by using its grip to turn doorknobs and, once inside a home, to open jars if it wishes.

Raccoons are known for their “mask” around their eyes. This black fur feature has been said to help reduce glare and enhance the nocturnal animal’s excellent night vision. Interestingly, raccoons can run at speeds of up to 15 miles per hour. The male raccoon can also be referred to as a boar, while the female counterpart is named a sow. Juveniles are called kits. It is said that raccoons have adapted so well to urban life that they are now more common in cities than in the country.

At CROW, a sub-adult, male northern raccoon was admitted from North Fort Myers after it had gotten itself into quite the predicament. The young raccoon stuck its head in a soup can and could not yank it back out.

“The can covered the raccoon’s entire face and was stuck around the base of the widest point of the skull. Only the tips of its ears were sticking out,” said Dr. Robin Bast, CROW staff veterinarian. “The raccoon was quiet in the cage prior to being examined, likely from exhaustion due to previous attempts to free itself. However, it quickly became stressed when handled since it was unable to see its surroundings and was unable to defend itself.”

The CROW veterinary team, concerned with the raccoon’s ability to breathe, immediately used a can opener to remove the bottom of the can. The raccoon was given sedation medication so the team could safely cut the can away, however, as soon as the medication began to take effect, the raccoon relaxed and the can was easily slipped from his head.

“For the raccoon’s safety as well as the staff’s, we quickly sedated the raccoon with injectable medications,” said Dr. Bast. “Thankfully, there were no complications. Quick thinking by wildlife rehabilitator Morgan Hester led us to grab a can opener to safely cut an opening so the raccoon could breathe, without accidentally cutting its face in the process.”

The veterinary staff performed an exam and found the patient to be in great health. He reportedly did not sustain any cuts or injuries from the can. The raccoon was housed at the clinic overnight until he fully recovered from the medication. The next morning, he was returned to the same area he was rescued in North Fort Myers.

“Luckily, this raccoon had no lacerations or bruising related to the can. It was in good body condition and was otherwise apparently healthy,” said Dr. Bast.

Curious critters can get themselves into different predicaments. Fortunately, CROW officials have seen it all.

“Unfortunately, it is not uncommon for wildlife to get tangled up in trash items such as plastics, cans, etc. – particularly for raccoons, which are good at scavenging from dumpsters in urban areas,” said Dr. Bast. “We had an anhinga admitted to the hospital last week that was starving because it had a dryer sheet wrapped around its beak. In years past, I’ve also removed a Skippy peanut butter jar from a raccoon and a Gatorade bottle from a skunk.”

CROW (Clinic for the Rehabilitation of Wildlife, Inc.) is a non-profit wildlife hospital providing veterinary care for native and migratory wildlife from our local area. The hospital accepts patients seven days a week from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mail donations to P.O. Box 150, Sanibel, FL 33957. Call 472-3644 or visit www.crowclinic.org.
Cold Front Options

by Capt. Matt Mitchell

Last week’s cold front was the strongest so far this winter. Wind, rain and much cooler morning temperatures than we are used to kept even the most diehard anglers off the water for a few days until conditions improved. As usual, getting back on the water after a major temperature drop feels like you’re starting over. Fishing started out a little slow, which was expected, but after just a few days, it rebounded.

Finding bait is always the first challenge after a major cooldown. Every winter we wait for a strong enough cold front to push the bait to the warmer, less fluctuating, deep water of the causeway bridges. The deep water around the causeway bridge pilings will soon be the go-to bait spot all winter but, as of now, shiners have been very scattered with either lots of smaller ones coming from out along the beaches or the bigger stuff in smaller umbers being caught while chumming out on the flats. Bringing live shrimp when returning to fishing after a cold front is always a good choice, not only a back up. In the first few days following the cold front, I caught a wide variety of species on shrimp. I could not even get a bite on a shiner until later in the day when water temperatures gradually warmed up.

During the coldest period of the day, I like to fish low and slow by putting a live shrimp on a quarter ounce jig head to not only slow it down but to pin it to the bottom. Some days during cold periods, this will draw a strike when nothing else does.

A live shrimp on a jig head also works well when thrown in fast-moving current and when it’s allowed to sweep by the structure. All winter long, this is a great way to fish all of our local passes. On the first few days after the cold front when I struggled to find my clients any kind of decent fishing action, this shrimp on a jig head method kept the rods bent. The variety of fish we caught on live shrimp was crazy, when you found the right rip or eddy in the pass. We caught snook, redfish, black drum, snapper, sheepshead and grouper. Basically everything that swims in our waters eats shrimp.

Capt. Matt Mitchell has been fishing local waters since he moved to Sanibel in 1980. He now lives in St. James City and works as a back country fishing guide. If you have comments or questions, email captmattmitchell@aol.com.

Tailed Bracken
by Gerri Reaves

Tailed bracken (Pteridium aquilinum var. pseudocaudatum) is native throughout the southeastern U.S., as well as parts of the Midwest and New England. A member of the bracken fern family, it is also called eastern or tailed bracken fern, as well as brake fern.

In the wild, it grows in dry or sandy pastures, pinewoods and hammocks, and is very adaptable in a landscape setting. This long-lived hardy perennial makes an excellent low-maintenance groundcover. Unlike most ferns, it will grow in drier areas and will endure sun, growing one to three feet tall.

Although it prefers partial shade. It’s a good choice for shady spots, for example under trees where other species will not grow. It is not salt tolerant. Cattlemen and farmers consider it a pest because it is poisonous for grazing livestock.

The erect stalks branch into threes, and the arching triangular fronds are twice-divided with blunt tips and a coarse texture. The stiff fronds are handy for floral arrangements.

Rounded leaflets measure about a half-inch long. The spores found on their undersides are spread by the wind. This bracken also spreads — sometimes aggressively — via creeping hairy rhizomes, or root-like horizontal stems.

Very deep roots endow the plant with fire and drought tolerance.

Cattlemen and farmers consider it a pest because it is poisonous for grazing livestock.

Tailed bracken has been used for a variety of medicinal and manufacturing purposes. Even though the furry fiddleheads are eaten in some cultures, consumption is not recommended because the plant is carcinogenic.

Mission BBQ in Fort Myers presented the Fort Myers Police Department (FMPD) with a check for $1,500 for the 2018 Cops & Joggers 5K/Fallen Officers Memorial Foundation. The donation was based on restaurant sales of Hometown Heroes Red Cups.

Mission BBQ Community Ambassador Michelle Palladino recently presented the check to FMPD Lt. Jeffery Bernice.

The annual Cops & Joggers 5K on October 13 was dedicated to the memory of fallen FMPD officer Adam Jobbers-Miller and fallen Highlands County Deputy William Gentry. The event was the 11th annual and drew more than 1,000 runners, a record of participants.

Former TV Intern Wins National Production Award

Former Lee Schools TV student intern Vince Marcucci has been awarded a National Student Production Award Student Emmy for General Assignment Light News Feature by the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences (NATAS). His assignment title was Teachin’ & Beachin’.

Nominees were selected from high school student entries across the country in 23 programming and craft categories. The awards presentation was live-streamed from the Los Angeles campus of Emerson College on Tuesday, October 18 and was hosted by Tom Bergeron, host of ABC’s Dancing with the Stars.

Marcucci, who is now a student at the University of Central Florida, will receive a certificate from NATAS and a crystal pillar award with the Emmy logo that will be presented to the School District of Lee County.

More than 200 students were culled from the 19 regional chapters of The National Academy of Television Arts & Sciences and selected by industry professionals and university professors to advance to the national competition. Marcucci is the second nationally awarded student from the Lee Schools TV Student Intern Program.

Theater To Host Winter Break Camp

This winter break, the Laboratory Theater of Florida is offering a full theater experience camp for students age 9 to 14. The camp will culminate with a performance of Seeing Red by award-winning local playwright Louise Wigglesworth.

The camp includes an age-appropriate introduction to all aspects of theater production, from set design, lighting design, props, scene study, improvisation, movement exercises and acting. There are parts for all ages and genders. Each student will take ownership for one aspect of the performance.

The camp dates are December 24, 26, 27, 28, 31 and January 2, 3, 4, 7, 8. Morning drop-off will be 8:30 to 9 a.m. with afternoon pick up between 4 to 4:30 p.m.

Workshops will be taught by teachers and theater professionals. The camp culminates in a performance for friends and family during camp hours on January 8.

Lab Theater is located at 1634 Woodford Avenue in Fort Myers. For more information and registration, parents should email educate@laboratorytheaterflorida.com. Cost for the entire theater experience camp is $300 per student, and scholarships are available. Space is available on a first-come, first-serve basis. Registration forms are available online at www.laboratorytheaterflorida.com.

Redevelopment Agency Videos Win State Award

The Fort Myers Community Redevelopment Agency (CRA) won a statewide award from the Florida Redevelopment Association (FRA) on October 25 for three 30-second videos created by Main Sail Video Productions, Inc. The award was received at the FRA’s annual conference at the Sanibel Harbour Marriott Resort & Spa in Fort Myers.

The commercials explain the role the CRA has in rebuilding and redesigning Fort Myers for the future. They accomplished this by showcasing personal accounts of business owners who received CRA assistance.

Those included were:
- Nils Richter, an owner of the Social House restaurant in downtown Fort Myers, who notes how the Fort Myers CRA is very supportive of anyone bringing in a new and unique business by helping business owners navigate how to set up shop in Fort Myers community redevelopment areas, including areas such as licensing, seating and store opening hours.
- John and Sue Benkert, owners of CPR Tools, a data recovery and security company, who discuss how the Fort Myers CRA made moving their business from Hendry County easy because the CRA’s incentive programs are tied directly to the community—and what a nice community Fort Myers is.
- Joe Bonora, managing director of Aileron Capital Management which is building several projects in Fort Myers including Grand Central, a new apartment complex with retail shops and the new Krispy Kreme on Cleveland Avenue, who states how the Fort Myers CRA was truly instrumental in getting their projects underway, by providing both assistance with the permitting process as well as tax increment incentives that helped the financial numbers work when considering building in a redevelopment area over other parts of the county.

Golden Baby Shoe Awards

I Am Truly Thankful

Happy Thanksgiving to you and yours, and thank you so very much for following my column over the years. In the spirit of the Thanksgiving holiday, allow me to list some of the things that I am thankful for:

I’m thankful for my family. I have a loving, devoted, smart and very patient wife who has put up with me for over close to 30 years. We started out with nothing to our names save our student loan debt. It seemed as if our adventure had just begun.

We have three daughters of whom we couldn’t be more proud. While I lost my mother to leukemia a few short years ago, I am thankful for the 11-plus years we had with her since her initial diagnosis. She danced at all of her grandchildren’s bar/bat mitzvahs, which is wonderful to reflect upon fondly.

I’m thankful that I’m alive and well. This may sound trite, but some may recall from previous columns that I almost died in a terrible bicycling accident about 15 years ago. I am an avid road cyclist, but on a July afternoon in 2004, a car cut me off while I was enjoying my ride. My helmet saved my life, but I had four skull fractures and problems with my neck and spine. The accident required hospital stays and surgery, but today I’m still on the bike and doing well. I am thankful for those motorists who are considerate of us cyclists and beg the rest of you to please watch out for bicyclists both on the bike paths and on the road.

I’m thankful for my career and the people with whom I work. I truly enjoy what I do for a living. My firm is established in this community, dating back close to 30 years. We started out with nothing to our names — a smart and very patient wife who has put up with me for over 30 years. I’m thankful to live in Southwest Florida. I grew up in Indianapolis but have lived in Florida for more most of my life. The people here are kind and empathetic. While our summers are hot, our temperate winters and ability to enjoy what I do for a living. My firm is established in this community, dating back close to 30 years. D ear Readers,

We want our kids to be appreciative and not take things for granted, and learning to be grateful can improve kids’ relationships, ability to empathize and overall happiness. If you are looking for ways to reinforce the importance of gratitude or would like to find other meaningful ways your kids can show appreciation, here are some tips.

Set an example. Kids learn a lot from watching their parents. Show them what it means to be grateful by offering a genuine “thank you” to a waitress who serves your food or a helpful neighbor. Thanking children for doing things that are helpful, even when they are chores like putting away toys, reinforces the behavior and lets them know they’re appreciated.

Point out generosity. Call attention to it when people, including your kids, do things that go beyond what’s expected like helping without being asked, being especially thoughtful, or taking extra time to do something because it’s important to someone else. Send the message that you will notice if they knock themselves out for you, or for someone else.

Have a talk. For some kids, especially young children or those who have trouble understanding emotions, it can help to have a talk about how showing appreciation makes other people feel. Try asking your child how he feels when people say thank you to him for doing something nice, and then how he feels when they don’t. Going over his own feelings will help him understand how his behavior affects others and make it easier for him to understand the emotional benefits of being grateful.

Find fun ways to say thanks. There are lots of ways to show gratitude. If your child isn’t comfortable talking to strangers or has a hard time expressing herself in writing, work together to come up with a different way for her to show her appreciation. She could try giving a smile or a thumbs up if someone holds the door, or show grandma how much she loves her new coat by drawing a thank you picture or card or sending a smiling selfie.

Share the love. Encourage kids to think of people who help them, from school personnel to the local firemen, and say thanks with cards or cupcakes. Making them and giving them are fun, and they help kids see how connected we all are.

Put things in perspective. Talk to your kids about those who are less fortunate. Don’t scare them, but don’t keep them in the dark either. Understanding that not everyone has the same advantages will help them develop compassion for others and gratitude for their own privileges.

Make gratitude part of bedtime. When you tuck him in at night, ask your child to tell you three things he’s grateful for. Even if he’s had a bad day, it will help him and you end each day on a positive note.

Give kids credit. Be mindful of the fact that your child may have her own way of expressing gratitude, even if it doesn’t fit your expectations.

For years, rumors of the “Marsh Girl” have haunted Barkley Cove, a quiet town on the North Carolina coast. Catherine “Kya” Clark is a figure of mystery and prejudice in the coastal community in the 1950s and ’60s. Six-year-old Kya watches her mama walk out the door, wearing her special alligator shoes and carrying a suitcase. She stares at her mother’s back waiting for her to turn and wave. Her mother’s back is neither. Kya’s mother was no longer able to endure her drunken husband’s beatings. Soon after her four siblings leave, Kya grows up in the care of her sometimes violent father, who eventually disappears, too. Kya has survived over the years by her four siblings leave. Kya grows up in the care of her sometimes violent father, who eventually disappears, too. Kya, unknown to the marsh. She is resourceful and sells it to her friend Jumpin’. He and his wife, Mabel, are the only villagers.

The timelines merge toward the end of the book.

Kya has survived over the years by knowing the marsh. She is resourceful and clever. She learns to catch seafood and sell it to her friend Jumpin’. He and his wife, Mabel, are the only villagers who show any kindness to her. The older Kya becomes, the more she Different kids communicate in different ways. For example, your child may be more comfortable giving a hug than a verbal thank you, or might show her appreciation by helping out around the house. Tuning in to your child’s unique way of being thankful will let her know that even as she’s learning new ways to give back, you see and appreciate the thoughtful person she already is.

Can You Benefit From An Annuity?

by Jennifer Basye

eirement isn’t cheap. You may have heard that you will need 70 percent to 80 percent of your pre-retirement income, but if the real figure might even be higher, depending on your circumstances. And retirement isn’t short, either — you could spend two or three decades as a retiree. Taken together, these factors highlight the need to identify as many sources of retirement income as possible. One of these sources might be an annuity.

A fixed annuity is an insurance product that allows you to make a lump-sum investment and can provide insured payments to you for a designated period. It can also provide death benefits, income for life, tax deferred accumulation, a long-term investment — if you pull money out within the first several years after purchase, you likely will face some prohibitive surrender charges. These charges decline each year, typically reaching zero after seven years. Such withdrawals also may be subject to a market value adjustment.

In order for life — you can take your annuity payout as a lump sum or choose to receive payments for a set number of years, or for the rest of your life. Your income amount will be determined by the value in your contract and your life expectancy.

Death benefit — if your annuity is still paid, although some annuities provide a death benefit to the beneficiary you’ve named. Typically, this lump sum will be greater of your account balance or the total of all premiums paid, although some annuities provide additional options. Be aware, though, that the death benefit may be taxable.

As is the case with all investments, a fixed annuity does have some caveats. Most important, an annuity is a long-term investment — if you pull money out within the first several years after purchase, you likely will face some prohibitive surrender charges. These charges decline each year, typically reaching zero after seven years. Such withdrawals also may be subject to a market value adjustment.

One more thing to keep in mind: Different annuities come with different fees, and the higher your “real” return will be. Consequently, you will want to compare fees before investing.

If a fixed annuity is appropriate for your situation, you may find it can join your other income pools — Social Security, 401(k), IRA, etc. — to provide you with the resources you need to enjoy the retirement lifestyle you’ve envisioned.

Moving from the foyer to the living room, people will gravitate to the seats. Ensure that no one is the “odd man out,” left in the separated chair. Seating arrangements should encourage conversation; face couches, sectionals, and chairs facing each other to aid in the process.

The dining room and kitchen are co-hubs for lively conversation. Make them welcoming by layering cloths on the tables and lighting a few mood candles. The centerpiece should be lively but not overbearing, as it shouldn’t act as a barrier between guests.

Most of your guests will be visiting this area, so don’t overlook the powder room. These small spaces are often overlooked but can be the key to a successful get-together. Offer luxury items such as scented soap, fresh floral arrangements and plush towels.

Make the rest of the rooms feel like home by adding accent pillows, a few extra throws and interesting accessories (perhaps from past adventures) that have a story to share.

Life Insurance

Immediate Annuity

J. Brendan Ryan, CLU, ChFC, MSFS

Immediate or income annuities should have a prominent place in a person’s retirement planning. Annuities, which can only be issued by life insurance companies, have two phases: the deferral phase; and the payout phase. In the deferral phase, a person puts money into the policy and leaves it there until a later date. While it is in the annuity, the funds earn interest or investment return. But unlike a certificate of deposit, a savings account or a mutual fund, the gain that is credited to the account is not currently taxed but only taxed when the gain is withdrawn. Then it is taxed as ordinary income.

In the payout phase, there are a number of options as to how to receive the funds.

Annuities can be funded with a rollover from a qualified plan, another annuity, a life-insurance policy or with a sum of after-tax dollars taken out of savings. A fixed annuity pays a level amount; a variable annuity pays a fluctuating amount depending on the performance of the subaccounts inside the annuity.

An income annuity is important in retirement planning because it guarantees income that one cannot possibly outlive. It can also be guaranteed for two lifetimes in a joint annuity. After all, the basic purpose of retirement planning is to be sure one has adequate sources of income for a comfortable retirement and that those sources do not run out before the retiree and, in most cases, retiree and spouse, take their last breath.

How can an insurance company do this? By the law of large numbers. Company actuaries can predict that in a large pool of clients, a certain number will die each year though they do not know which ones. And their numbers tell them the incidence of dying for the whole pool over the years. Armed with that information, the insurer can offer guarantees that are backed up with their huge reserves.

An income annuity can guarantee for one or two people an income for life that will stop at the end of life (or two lives in the case of a joint annuity). Or, it can guarantee those one or two lifetimes with an extra guarantee. It can guarantee that, even if the one or both of the annuitants die, in no case will payments stop until a total of 10 or 20 years of payments have been made. Or the guarantee could say that even if death of the annuitant(s) causes the payments to stop, if the amount paid out over the years does not equal the amount paid for the annuity, then the difference will be refunded in lump sum or in installments to the named beneficiary. But beware – the more guarantees that are built in, the less the monthly payments will be to the annuitant(s).

Enough of the abstract discussion. Let’s look at a few examples:

If a 57-year-old woman pays $100,000 for an immediate fixed annuity that lasts only as long as she lives (life only), she would receive $447 per month for the rest of her life. If she chose to have the income last at least 10 years even if she dies sooner (10-year certain), it would pay $444 per month.

For $100,000, a male age 65 could expect to receive $558 per month (life only) or $553 per month (10-year certain).

A male age 70 could pay $100,000 for an immediate annuity and get $612 per month (life only) or $586 (10-year certain).

Son Follows Pioneer MLB Umpire
Father In A Different Baseball Role

by Ed Frank

This is the story of a son that followed his father into Major League baseball. But it’s not your usual “like father, like son” story.

Kevin Gregg is the 38-year-old vice-president of media relations for the Boston Red Sox. He joined the Red Sox organization in 2013 as media relations director and was promoted recently to vice president.

Now here is the twist to the father-son baseball story: Kevin’s late father, Eric Gregg, was a Major League umpire for 24 years and just the third African-American umpire in the Major Leagues.

He was a prominent umpire during that long tenure and worked the 1989 World Series, All-Star games, postseason championship games and the first night game in Chicago’s historic Wrigley Field.

In a recent interview, we asked Kevin what influence his dad had on him pursuing sports communication, and did he ever consider his dad’s umpiring profession?

“Dad had a great influence on me,” he said. But he decided early on that umpiring wasn’t for him. “It’s not a fan-friendly job, and it takes you away from home for long periods of time, sometimes a month,” he added. Baseball road trips are usually no longer than 12 days.

His father did, however, provide him an early spark for the love of baseball, taking him to spring training and on some road trips when he was just 10 or 11 years old.

Now that the waters have cooled after the Red Sox record-setting 108 regular season wins and their march to the World Series championship, the fourth in the last 15 years, he said his off-season days are not as hectic.

“Now it’s more like a 9-to-5 job, and I’m able to take a few days off.”

But it’s a pressure-packed job during the regular season trying to keep the players, the team and the Boston organization happy and “keeping everyone in the loop.” He said they work hard with the players to develop good media relations skills – a practice that begins even down in the Minor Leagues.

A principal task in the off-season is preparing and editing next year’s voluminous media guide.

During the regular season he attends and works every home game and travels with the team to all postseason games. In addition, this past season he traveled to 54 road games.

“It’s a dream job. I love baseball and am proud to work for the Red Sox,” he said.

He is a graduate of James Madison University where he majored in sports management. Prior to joining the Red Sox, he worked one year in media relations for the Philadelphia 76ers basketball team and six years in the communications department of the Philadelphia Phillies baseball team.

There is another very important reason why he loves the Red Sox. It was here where he met his wife, Stephanie, who is the Red Sox senior director of fan services. Their first child, a boy, is due December 12.

Perhaps the future holds a third Gregg in Major League baseball.

Elite Colleges Target City Of Palms Talent

Top-flight recruits committed to Villanova, North Carolina, Arizona, Florida, Auburn, Maryland, Memphis and Virginia Tech will soon play in Fort Myers. The 46th annual Culligan City of Palms Classic features six of the top 25 players in the current ESPN 100 Class of 2019 college basketball recruiting rankings.

The event returns this year to Suncoast Credit Union Arena at Florida SouthWestern State College from December 17 to 22. Mike Krzyzewski, Roy Williams and other college basketball luminaries have appeared in the stands over the years for what has become a must-see talent showcase.

“T"his year’s field proves once again why the Culligan City of Palms Classic is the No. 1 high school tournament in America,” said John Naylor, tournament executive director. “You’d be hard-pressed to find this much basketball talent in one place anywhere in the world.”

Cole Anthony, now at national powerhouse Oak Hill Academy in Mouth of Wilson, Virginia, after an offseason transfer, supplies the brightest star power, along with the duo of Vernon Carey Jr. and Scottie Barnes from defending City of Palms champion University School in Fort Lauderdale, Florida. All three are listed within the top five of their respective recruiting classes in ESPN’s rankings.

The trio remain uncommitted, but nine players from the ESPN 100 who’ve chosen elite NCAA schools are also City of Palms-bound. They are: Josh Green, IMG Academy in Bradenton, Florida – Arizona
Armando Bacot, IMG Academy in Bradenton – North Carolina
DJ Jeffries, Olive Branch in Olive Branch, Mississippi – Memphis
Tre Mann, The Villages Charter School in The Villages, Florida – Florida
Jeremiah Robinson-Earl, IMG Academy in Bradenton – Villanova
Isaia Okoro, McEachern in Powder Springs, Georgia – Auburn
Makhi Mitchell, Woodrow Wilson in District Heights, Maryland – Maryland
Anthony Harris, Paul VI in Fairfax, Virginia – Virginia Tech

The event begins with free admission to a clash between intracity rivals Fort Myers and Canterbury on Monday, December 17 at 12:30 p.m. Also new this year is the five-game North Law Firm City of Palms Premiere, a one-day showcase featuring five teams from the tournament’s 16-team main draw with five more Florida programs in a one-day event on Saturday, December 15 at Lehigh Senior High School.

Single-day preferred, reserved and general admission tickets are now on sale. Six-day preferred and reserved packages are also available, and so is a VIP parking pass. For prices and seating information, visit www.cityofpalmsclassic.com, call 1-800-440-7469 or visit the Suncoast Credit Union Arena box office at 13351 FSW Parkway in Fort Myers or the Barbara B. Mann Performing Arts Hall box office at 13350 FSW Parkway in Fort Myers on Monday through Friday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The tournament offers discounted group rates. Call John Naylor at 489-1085 for more information.*

Women in Business, a committee of the Greater Fort Myers Chamber of Commerce, held its Sparkle, Don’t Stress monthly networking event at Bell Tower Shops in Fort Myers on Wednesday, November 7.

Chamber members set up display and product tables outside Bistro 41 as dozens of chamber members and future members sampled products and learned more about the local businesses. Women in Business is dedicated to helping women achieve their fullest professional and personal potential, and the committee offers a variety of networking and educational programs throughout the year.

The nonprofit spotlight for November’s social event was the Children’s Advocacy Center of Southwest Florida, which has a mission of improving the lives of children and their families through a coordinated response to child abuse and neglect.
Gratitude

by Kay Casperson

his is an excellent time of year to discuss gratitude, because everyone is already in the mindset of giving thanks and taking a more in-depth look at all there is in our lives to be grateful for. But what if we took a closer look at the real meaning of gratitude in our lives.

Gratitude is so much more than saying the words “thank you.” Of course, those words are extremely important, but there is so much more to feeling gratitude than just being thankful. As a matter of fact, when you genuinely have a sense of gratitude, it overpowers all other feelings inside.

There is an overwhelming sense of gratitude above and beyond thankfulness when something happens in your life that changes it for the better, like having a child or getting married. You can also feel this sense of gratitude when you accomplish something amazing or when you’re feeling extremely loved, appreciated or blessed by someone or something in your life and your circumstances change for the better.

I teach my children to say thank you every day for things that people do for them, but gratitude is something that cannot be taught, because it is a feeling that we experience when our lives are truly impacted in a good way. So, the question is, how can we experience gratitude more often in our everyday lives? Let’s take a closer look at the different areas of your life to find out.

People – How are your relationships with others? There have been studies that show that having gratitude attracts more positive people into your life and if you encourage this in others, you can strengthen your relationships even more.

Goals – What do you have yet to accomplish? To ensure that you are heading in the right direction, take a look back at the past and all of the things you have already overcome and achieved. Now, celebrate your accomplishments, and your appreciation and gratitude will shift you into high gear towards the future.

Health – Being grateful can completely shift your physical and mental health into a more favorable outcome. In fact, there are scientific studies that prove that gratitude can work as well as good medicine can. The power of being grateful will completely change your mindset. Instead of focusing on what you do not have or what you have not done, say the words, “I have all that I need” or “my life is full and flowing with blessings” or “I am following my heart’s path.” Then you will start to see how big gratitude can become in your life.

There are a few suggestions that I would make in order to keep gratitude in your life every day:

Make a list of the things you’re grateful for and update it regularly so that you can clearly visualize all of your blessings.

Speak positive words of encouragement to yourself about how far you have come and where you have yet to go;

Practice kindness to others and find something good to do for someone every day to feel empowered and fulfilled;

Surround yourself with people who love you and appreciate who you really are, and encourage you to be all you can be;

Pray and give thanks for all of your blessings and you will continue to see them flow freely into your life daily.

My affirmation for you this week is: “I am allowing my heart and my life to be filled with an overwhelming sense of gratitude today and every day.”

FGCU Videographer Debut At Festival

n less than a year, Jasmine Kettenacker has made her mark on Florida Gulf Coast University (FGCU). Her distinct documentary style is unique to FGCU and has changed the way certain video stories are told on campus. One creation recently earned her a Suncoast Regional Emmy nomination alongside her colleague Tim Clark. But before she walks the red carpet in Orlando this December, Kettenacker heads back to her native Missouri for the film festival debut of St. Louis Slam, her short documentary about a women’s tackle football team.

“I thought it would be cool to do a documentary on women’s football,” Kettenacker said of her film debuting at the St. Louis International Film Festival.

Kettenacker said of her film debuting at the St. Louis International Film Festival.

In 1998, director Martin Campbell released his film The Mask of Zorro. It received high praise from movie critics and the general public and is considered a box office success. Little did he know, it also inspired a 13-year-old kid from St. Louis to become a filmmaker.

“I started researching the film and got really interested in how movies are made,” Kettenacker said. “Eventually went to screenwriting camp, but I realized that wasn’t for me. I quickly changed to shooting and soon recognized I had a knack for editing.”

Kettenacker’s interest in filmmaking grew, and she enrolled at Hollins University, a women’s institution in Virginia, as a film major. She discovered her passion for documentary filmmaking, which often revolved around athletic storylines. In 2011, she created a documentary about a boxing program for children that is operated by the St. Louis

In Praise Of Pumpkins And Pumpkin Seeds

by Suzy Cohen, RPh

I love pumpkin-spiced lattes and tea... pumpkin seeds on my salad and pumpkin soup. Pumpkin pie, mmm! I love all of it. Pumpkins should be eaten because of their taste, plus all their healing benefits. Let’s go over the seven most important nutrients found in pumpkins and their seeds.

Alpha and Beta Carotene – After eating pumpkin, your body converts the alpha carotene into vitamin A to help you maintain vision, a healthy immune system and a strong skeletal system. In a 2011 study, researchers confirmed that high concentrations of alpha carotene are strongly correlated with a reduced risk of all the following: cancer, cardiovascular disease, diabetes and respiratory diseases. Another study found that those with high blood serum levels of alpha carotene were less likely to die from heart disease in their lifetime. This compound is very similar to beta carotene.

Squalene – This compound promotes both skin and eye health. You might not have heard about squalene, but this antioxidant acts similarly to beta carotene, and it protects your skin from UV light damage and other forms of potentially dangerous radiation. There is also evidence that the compound is involved in retinal health.

As pumpkin seeds are an excellent natural source of squalene, eating them helps with vision and beatu.

Vitamin E – Pumpkin seeds contain natural vitamin E including gamma tocopherol. Vitamin E protects the outside wall of our fragile cells and protects them from free radical damage. The gamma-tocopherol content of pumpkin seeds is particularly high, at 19 mg per 100-gram serving. Gamma tocopherol, we have recently learned, has powerful cancer protective properties, helping specifically with both colon and prostate cancer.

Lignans – Perhaps the most interesting and significant of the phytonutrients in pumpkin seeds are lignans. Lignans exhibit anti-estrogenic activity in the body, which help to balance hormones and protect the body against hormone-dependent cancers, like breast cancer. Lignans are also found in flax seed.

Magnesium – Pumpkin seeds are very high in magnesium, a mineral that half of U.S. adults under age 70 are deficient in. Magnesium is your relaxation mineral, because it induces a calm sensation.

Tryptophan – Eating pumpkins will make you happy. They’re high in tryptophan which is an amino acid that converts in your body to the famous mood-boosting serotonin. This neurotransmitter is what SSRI drugs target too. And this is fascinating, a 2012 study found that pumpkin seed consumption was more effective at relieving depression than the prescribed antidepressant imipramine.

Beta-cryptoxanthin – Beta-cryptoxanthin is another carotenoid that we transform into vitamin A in the body. There is a study that suggests beta-cryptoxanthin has been found to reduce a person’s chance of developing nicotine-induced lung cancer. So if you’re a smoker, eat pumpkins!

No matter what time of year, you can eat pumpkin seeds or use the oil. I praise pumpkins for their ability to fight inflammation, cancer, aging skin, poor vision, diabetes, lupus, lung issues, rheumatoid and multiple sclerosis.

Local Hospitals Gain Top Grades For Safety

The Leapfrog Group recently announced its Fall 2018 Hospital Safety Grades, awarding Gulf Coast Medical Center, Cape Coral Hospital and Lee Memorial Hospital with the highest possible score of A. All four Lee Health adult acute care hospitals saw their safety scores improve over their scores from this spring. HealthPark Medical Center retained its “B” grade, just missing an A grade by .03.

In all, Gulf Coast Medical Center saw an increase of 0.3127 for a 3.5352 raw score, Cape Coral Hospital increased 0.2690 for a 3.3180 raw score, Lee Memorial Hospital gained 0.8012 for a 3.1958 raw score and HealthPark Medical Center jumped 0.0419 for its 3.1273 raw score.

“These scores are a testament to the efforts we have taken to reduce hospital-acquired infections and improve overall patient safety throughout the health system. There are safety coaches at every one of our hospitals trained to promote safe practices and empower staff to spot potentially dangerous situations, and we are committed to continuous improvement,” said Dr. Alex Danan, president, HealthPark’s chief medical officer.

Banned Flavor Additives

by Ross Hauser, MD and Marion Hauser, MS, RD

We always encourage our patients and their caregivers to eat real food, rather than processed foods. And now there is another reason to do so! In the beginning of October, the Food and Drug Administration officially banned the use of seven different food additives. It will be tough to recognize them on most labels though, since these dangerous additives are only labeled as “artificial flavors.” However, they are typically added to products to mimic “natural” mint, citrus and cinnamon flavors. The FDA went forward with this move after both food safety experts and environmentalists brought to light research demonstrating that six of the additives caused cancer in different lab animals. The seventh flavor had already been removed from the FDA’s approved list because many manufacturers in the food industry had already stopped using it.

The six artificial additives linked to cancer include benzophenone, ethyl acetate, Eugenyl, methyl ether, myrcene, pulegone and pyridine. Interestingly, the FDA determined these additives did not pose a public health risk at the “low levels” of intended use by the food industry, but amended the food additive regulation under something called the Delaney Clause. This law requires that the FDA cannot approve anything that causes cancer to humans or animals at any dose. This wasn’t the first time these food additives had seen controversy, as a few companies had sued the FDA for a response back in 2016.

Companies have two years to replace these additives and, being that all of these artificial flavorings have natural counterparts, our hope is that these companies will choose to use the natural options. Nonetheless, we continue to advocate eating fresh foods and cooking homemade meals from scratch as much as possible, using fresh, preferably organic foods while avoiding processed foods and ingredients. Eat fresh, live healthy!

Lee County Domestic Animal Services

Penny And Mojo

Penny is a 1-year-old female pit bull mix who arrived at the shelter with spoty hair loss due to Demodex. She was treated for the condition and, after medications, medicated baths, good nutrition, less stress and plenty of TLC, she has been transformed. She even rocked the runway at the Fashion Show at the Fall Pet Fest. Come meet this absolutely delightful volunteer/staff favorite. Adoption fee is $40.

Mojo is a 3-year-old male domestic shorthair who has been in foster care after having surgery on his leg. He is now completely healed and is now ready to find his new family. He is an overall quiet, laid-back cat. He likes things simple and quiet. He also loves his cat naps and loves to look out the window, so leave the blinds open. Free adoption for Mojo and other cats through November 30.

The shelter is open to the public Monday through Saturday at 5600 Banner Drive in Fort Myers. Adoptions are available 10:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Saturday. For information, visit Lee County Domestic Animal Services at www.leegov.com/animalservices or call 533-7387.

Haven on Earth Animal League

Trixie And Dylan

Hello, my name is Trixie. I’m a beautiful 2-year-old female calico with a very sweet personality. I am very mellow and loving and would like a home to call my own. I have been fully vetted and brought up to date on all vaccines. My adoption fee is $55.

Hi, I’m Dylan. Aren’t I just adorable? I’m only 8 months old, so I’m quite the playful kitten. I like other cats and hope I can find a home with another young kitty to play with. I’m neutered and up-to-date on all vaccines. My adoption fee is $100.

We are being cared for by Haven on Earth Animal League. For more information, call Diane at 860-833-4472 or email havenonearthanimalleague@yahoo.com.

PAWS Of Sanibel

Brava And Lucy

Two very unusual and beautiful sisters are up for adoption. One is a tortoiseshell cat with white or calico features, while the other is a dilute tortoiseshell. These photos do not do them justice, as they are much more adorable in person. Adopt one, or keep them together and adopt both. They are four and five months old. They come with complete vet check-up, all shots, tests, wormed, treated with flea preventative and spayed.

Call Pam at PAWS at 472-4823 to adopt one or both.

Sonny and Cher

This is Sonny and Cher. Some of you may remember them. Three years ago, four kittens, the momma and three kittens were trapped between the Sunset Beach Resort and Lantana condominium on West Gulf Drive. All were adopted (Lana, Tanner, Sonny and Cher) to lovely people.

However, Sonny and Cher’s mom has reached a time in her life when she feels she must move in with family over on Pine Island. Unfortunately, in addition to her granddaughter being allergic, her son operates a business out of his home that is directly on Pine Island Road and the doors are always opening and closing, so it’s not safe for kittens. These are very special kittens, and need to be together forever. Call Pam at 472-4823 if you can give these sweethearts a new home.

Keep Pets Indoors

Harry’s story; a tale of caution for all pet owners on the islands:

Harry is a Bichon Frise Retired Federal Employee. He used to run all over Casa Ybel Road. My grandmother came to bring my sick mom some soup, and I ran out the door. I was only outside 10 minutes before my mom found me, but I was attacked by a horrible monster. The doctor thinks it was a bobcat, but I don’t know. I had never seen anything like it before, as this was my first (and last) trip outside. I got away and ran home to my mom. I’ve been to many doctor’s offices, and had surgery, so the doctor could remove what remained of my eye. It hurts bad, but I feel very lucky.

Please be extremely careful that your pets don’t ever get out the door. It happens a lot when people drop by. You have people working in your house, or you have house guests. It’s best to put pets in a room without access to the outside door whenever you think others will be coming and going. If at all possible, never allow your pets access to doors leading outside. Pets that get outside are killed very quickly by predators here on the islands. Do everything you can to protect them. They are counting on you to keep them alive and well.

Wild Turkey Tikka Masala

2 wild turkey thighs (skin removed)
5 tomatoes, diced small
½ cup bell pepper, diced small
½ onion, diced small
2 tablespoons tomato paste
1 cup chicken or vegetable broth
2 garlic cloves, minced
1 tablespoon fresh ginger, minced
3 tablespoons cilantro, roughly chopped
1 teaspoon curry powder
1 teaspoon smoked paprika
1 teaspoon cumin
1 teaspoon turmeric
Oil, for cooking
Sea salt and fresh ground pepper, to taste

Preheat a large pan to medium-high heat and add 1 teaspoon oil. Season the turkey thighs with salt and pepper and sear on both sides. Remove from pan and set aside.

Reduce heat to medium and add 1 teaspoon oil. Sauté bell peppers and onion for 2 minutes, then add garlic and ginger. Sauté for one more minute. Stir in tomato paste and mix well. Next add all the dry spices and stir until fragrant, about 30 seconds. Add the tomatoes (do not drain) and broth, stirring to combine.

Place the turkey thighs in the sauce. Bring to a boil then reduce to simmer and cover for two to three hours (cook time will depend on size of turkey thighs). Stir every thirty minutes. Add stock or water if liquid evaporates or gets low. When meat is tender and ready to serve, stir in heavy cream and cilantro. Serve over noodles or rice.

Fresh From Florida food fact:
Tikka Masala is an Indian dish traditionally served with chicken as the protein. We have adapted this recipe to use wild turkey.

Trivia Answers

1. The River - November 23, 2018

My Stars ★★★★★

For Week of November 26, 2018

Aries (March 21 to April 19) A project benefits from your organizational skills that get it up and running. Your success leaves a highly favorable impression. Don’t be surprised if you get some positive feedback soon.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) Spend time on practical matters through the end of the week. Then begin shifting your focus to more-artistic pursuits. Resist being overly critical. Just allow yourself to feel free to create.

Gemini (May 21 to June 20) Restating those creative projects you had set aside for a while will help provide a much-needed soothing balance to your hectic life. Besides, it will be like meeting old friends again.

Cancer (June 21 to July 22) A change in plans could make it tough to keep a commitment. But stay with it. You’ll get an A-plus for making the effort to do what’s right and not taking the easy way out by running away.

Leo (July 23 to August 22) The Lion’s enthusiasm for a workplace policy review is admirable. But be sure you know who is really behind the resistance to change before pointing your finger at the wrong person.

Virgo (August 23 to September 22) You can expect to have to do a lot of work through midweek. Devote the rest of the week to checking your holiday plans in case some need to be adjusted to accommodate changes.

Libra (September 23 to October 22) Try to avoid signing on the dotted line in the early part of the week. You need time to study issues that weren’t fully explored. Later in the week might be more favorable for decision-making.

Scorpio (October 23 to November 21) A development could snarl travel schedules or other holiday-linked projects. Some flexibility might be called for to deal with the problems before they get too far out of hand.

Sagittarius (November 22 to December 21) Relatives seek your advice on a matter you’d rather not be involved in. If so, use that Sagittarian tact to decline the “offer,” so that no one’s feelings are needlessly hurt.

Capricorn (December 22 to January 19) A shift in planning direction might help you speed up your progress toward achieving that long-planned goal. Trusted colleagues are ready to offer some valuable support.

Aquarius (January 20 to February 18) An unexpected demand for settlement of an old loan could create some pre-holiday anxiety. But you might not really owe it. Check your records thoroughly before remitting payment.

Pisces (February 19 to March 20) It’s a good time to get into the social swim and enjoy some well-earned fun and games with those closest to you before you have to resume more serious activities next week.

Born This Way: Your ability to sense the needs of others makes you a wise counselor for those seeking help with their problems.

Strange But True

• It was 20th-century American singer and songwriter Bobbie Gentry who made the following sage observation: “Euphemism is a euphemism for lying.”

• In a match between a 200-pound mountain lion and a 20-pound porcupine, the lion is likely to be the loser – and probably will die if it tried to take a bite of the desired prey.

• The next time you’re annoyed by a bad case of the hiccups, consider poor mountain lion and a 20-pound porcupine.

• Marilyn Monroe’s iconic film Some Like It Hot (which in 2000 was named the greatest American comedy film of all time by the American Film Institute) originally was titled Not Tonight, Josephine!

• At one time the Catholic Church considered it sinful to eat a hot dog.

• For a nation based on a foundation of democracy, the U.S. certainly has a lot of states (that were originally colonies, of course) named for British royalty or nobility. The state of Virginia, for instance, was named for Queen Elizabeth I, known as the “Virgin Queen” – and Georgia was named in honor of King George II. King Charles II got both North and South Carolina, while the Duke of York and Albany – later King James II – was honored when the state of New York was named. Even France got in on the action: When explorer Robert de la Salle claimed a large chunk of territory for France in 1682, he named it Louisiana, after King Louis XIV.

Art League Events

Art League of Fort Myers (ALFM) will be holding a Community Art Montage during Art Walk on Friday, December 7 from 6 to 9 p.m.

The public is invited to help paint, draw and apply whatever to the league’s mixed media canvas. Each person adds a little of what art means to them. The final piece will be displayed in various locations around Fort Myers.

The Art League of Fort Myers will also be hosting a two-show reception on Friday titled Holiday Arts and Artist of the Month Jana Smith.

Members will also hold Open Studio on Wednesdays from 9:30 a.m. to noon. Learn about and sign up for classes.

Art League of Fort Myers is located at 1451 Monroe Street in downtown Fort Myers. For more information, visit www.artleagueoffortmyers.org or call 275-3970.

Animal Shelter Gains GuideStar Platinum Level

Cape Coral Animal Shelter (CCAS) recently earned the 2018 Platinum GuideStar Nonprofit Profile Seal of Transparency, the highest level of recognition offered by GuideStar, the world’s largest source of nonprofit information.

“We are excited to convey Cape Coral Animal Shelter’s results in a user-friendly and highly visual manner,” said Board President JoAnn Elardo. “Our organization’s foundation is based on being transparent about our work. By updating our GuideStar Nonprofit Profile to the platinum level, we can now easily share a wealth of up-to-date organizational metrics with our supporters as well as GuideStar’s immense online audience, which includes donors, grantmakers, our peers and the media.”

To reach the platinum level, CCAS added extensive information to its nonprofit profile on GuideStar: basic contact and organizational information; in-depth financial information; qualitative information about goals, strategies and capabilities; and quantitative information about results and progress toward its mission. By taking the time to provide this information, CCAS has demonstrated its commitment to transparency and to giving donors and funders meaningful data about the organization.

Leftover Cooking Oil Disposal

Lee County Solid Waste Division officials would like to remind residents of the county’s cooking oil recycling program.

While many families deep fry turkey over the holidays, disposing of the leftover cooking oil does not have to be a challenge. Residents may deliver liquid cooking oils at no charge to the Household Hazardous Waste Facility located at 6441 Topaz Court from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, and 8 a.m. to noon on the first Saturday of each month. Transport used oils or grease in sealed, unbreakable, leak-proof containers. This service is available year-round.

Never pour cooking oil and grease down the kitchen’s drain. This causes costly problems for a home’s plumbing and the county’s sewer plants. In addition, do not dispose of cooking oil in regular garbage collection. This may cause spillage on roadways and make it unsafe for your neighbors and collection crews.

Lee County Solid Waste administrative offices will be closed for the Thanksgiving holiday on Thursday, November 22 and Friday, November 23 and will reopen on Monday, November 26.

For more information about recycling and waste disposal, contact Lee County Solid Waste at 533-8000 or visit www.leegov.com/solidwaste.
