A Boca Christmas

'Twas the night before Christmas
 down here in Boca,
 I was sitting at Starbucks,
 ... drinking my mocha.
 I know we're all Jewish,
 but was wondering still,
 if Santa would come here
 and give us a thrill.
 On my way home,
 no Christmas lights did I see,
 on the houses, the windows,
 not even the trees.
 What a strange feeling.
 Not a decoration in sight.
 Was it really December
 or a warm summer's night?
 I drove past Toojay's,
 there were lines out the door.
 People were waiting for kishka and more.
 The restaurants were busy,
 Christmas dinners not planned.
 Never, not here,
 we're in Boca Land .
 At home all was quiet.
 I left out Kosher wine,
 In case Santa came to Boca
 for the very first time.
 Snoozing came easy
 to me Christmas Eve.
 I wasn't waiting for presents
 to be left under a tree.
 I could hope all I want.

I could fuss and then see,
 if Santa would make time
 for little old me.
 Then all of a sudden
 he pulled up in his Jag, with a sack full of presents
 each sporting a tag.
 Oh Bloomies, Oh Saks,
 Oh Neiman's and more.
 He knows where to shop,
 he frequents my stores!
 He looked for the lox,
 the bagels and deli.
 He came to Boca first
 to fill up his belly!
 "I have a long night ahead,
 I want you to know.
 From Boca I leave for New York and the snow."
 He stayed for a while,
 he chatted and ate.
 Then he left in a flash
 before it got late.
 What a great night
 I thought with a sigh.
 That jolly old Santa
 is a really nice guy.
 As I cleared off the table
 I heard with delight
 "Shalom to you all,
 and OY, vat a night!!"
 Best wishes
 for a happy new year....

Preparing for Christmas

For every meaningful activity, preparation is imperative. The celebration of Christmas, each year, is no exception, though I am not speaking of the usual, mundane activities associated with this significant holiday.

Indeed, most people think of Christmas only in terms of shopping, sending cards, exchanging gifts, not to mention the usual sights, sounds, and smells of the season, besides other factors associated with this festival, noticed everywhere.

Thus, the preparations in which many engage themselves for Christmas is limited to the foods they choose, the parties they enjoy together, the presents they give or receive, not to mention some of the excesses into which so many also go!

There is no question that Christmas is indeed an ideal time for giving, a time for joy and celebration, a season when beautiful music fills the air in a great variety of locations.

Nevertheless, Christmas is much more than all that which, sadly, is often left out completely.

While much of what has been mentioned may have a place as part of the festivities throughout the season, its true significance is in the Person Whose birthday is celebrated on December 25.

Jesus, the Son of the living God, condescended to come down to earth and be born of a virgin, so as to identify Himself with the people He came to save through His eventual death on the cross. Sadly, as St. John records in his Gospel, "He came to His own, and His own received Him not; but as many as received Him, to them He gave the right to become the children of God, even to those who believe in His name"(John 1:11-12).

Christmas is, and shall always be, about Him Who came to bring us life, and life more abundant!

Thus, in preparing for Christmas, we must never lose our focus no matter whatever else we do. We need to gaze upon Him with grateful and believing hearts, since He is the greatest gift anyone can receive at Christmas time, or at any other occasion!

Quote of the Week:

*My son, if sinners entice you, Do not consent.
 Proverbs 1. 10*

Christmas Special

MERRY
Christmas

Continuing with our tradition that we began last year, The Boca Raton Tribune once again wants to share with our readers this historic piece of writing to remind us of the innocence and pureness of the Christmas season.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus

Dear Editor: I am 8 years old.
Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus.
Papa says, 'If you see it in THE SUN it's so. Please tell me the truth: is there a Santa Claus?'
Virginia O'Hanlon

Eight-year-old Virginia O'Hanlon wrote a letter to the editor of New York's Sun, and the quick response was printed as an unsigned editorial Sept. 21, 1897. The work of veteran newsman Francis Pharcellus Church has since become history's most reprinted newspaper editorial, appearing in part or whole in dozens of languages in books, movies, and other editorials, and on posters and stamps.

New York's Sun

September 21, 1897

VIRGINIA, your little friends are wrong. They have been affected by the skepticism of a skeptical age. They do not believe except [what] they see. They think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds. All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little. In this great universe of ours man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world about him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge.

Yes, VIRGINIA, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and gene-rosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! how dreary would be the world if there were no Santa Claus. It would be as dreary as if there were no VIRGINIAS. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We should have no enjoyment, except in sense and sight. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished.

Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies! You might get your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus, but that is no sign that there is no Santa Claus. The most real things in the world are those that neither children nor men can see. Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there. Nobody can conceive or imagine all the wonders there are unseen and unseeable in the world.

You may tear apart the baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen world which not the strongest man, nor even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside that curtain and view and picture the supernal beauty and glory beyond. Is it all real? Ah, VIRGINIA, in all this world there is nothing else real and abiding.

No Santa Claus! Thank God! He lives, and he lives forever. A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, ten times ten thousand years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood.

Confessions for the Holidays

By Ben Stein | Dec 15, 2006

*The following was written by Ben Stein and recited by him on CBS Sunday Morning Commentary, December 18, 2005.

Here at this happy time of year, a few confessions from my beating heart:

I have no freaking clue who Nick and Jessica are. I see them on the cover of People and Us constantly when I'm buying my dog biscuits. I still don't know. I often ask the checkers at the grocery stores who they are. They don't know who Nick and Jessica are, either. Who are they? Will it change my life if I know who they are and why they've broken up? Why are they so damed important?

I don't know who Lindsay Lohan is either, and I don't care at all about Tom Cruise's baby.

Am I going to be called before a Senate committee and asked if I'm a subversive? Maybe. But I just have no clue who Nick and Jessica are. Is this what it means to be no longer young? Hm, not so bad.

Next confession: I am a Jew and every single one of my ancestors was Jewish, and it does not bother me even a little bit when people call those beautifully lit-up, bejeweled trees Christmas trees.

I don't feel threatened. I don't feel discriminated against. That's what they are - Christmas trees. It doesn't bother me a bit when people say 'Merry Christmas' to me. I don't think they're slighting me or getting ready to put me in a ghetto. In fact, I kind of like it. It shows that we're all brothers and sisters celebrating this happy time of year.

It doesn't bother me one bit that there's a manger scene on display at a key intersection at my beach house in Malibu.

If people want a creche, fine. The menorah a few hundred yards away is fine, too. I do not like getting pushed around for being a Jew, and I don't think Christians like getting pushed around for being Christians. I think people who believe in God are sick and tired of getting pushed around, period. I have no idea where the concept came from that America is an explicitly atheist country. I can't find it in the Constitution and I don't like it being shoved down my throat. Or maybe I can put it another way. Where did the idea come from that we should worship Nick and Jessica and aren't allowed to worship God as we understand him? I guess that's a sign that I'm getting old, too. But there are a lot of us who are wondering where Nick and Jessica came from and where the America we used to know went to.

Santa, friends and helpers make Boca Fire Rescue toy delivery a success

BOCA RATON -- On Saturday December 17th and Sunday December 18th, Santa Claus, Mrs. Claus, elves and friends boarded a fire engine and delivered toys to good boys and girls throughout the city of Boca Raton.

Instead of his usual red sleigh, a fire engine driven by members of the Firefighters of Boca Raton Local 1560 loaded with gifts took Santa to visit the children. The fire engine pulled down the street with the siren and air horn sounding to announce Santa had arrived.

This is the 21st year that members of Boca Raton Firefighters Local 1560, family and friends have been doing this event. For a $20 donation per gift, Santa and his elves will deliver each gift on a fire engine to the child's home.

This year's proceeds will assist in sending holiday care packages to troops overseas, and funding college scholarships for eligible students within our community.

The firefighters of Boca Raton and special volunteers donated their time to make this program a successful part of their commitment to serving the community.

at La Salette Shrine

My home town of Attleboro, Massachusetts, isn't a tourist trap. But there is one attraction which draws local residents and tens of thousands of travelers around Christmas time.

Most people who've traveled through southern New England have seen the Shrine of Our Lady of La Salette. It's open nearly every day of the year, and provides a wonderful spot for walking, meditating and clearing one's mind.

At Christmas, the 10-acre Shrine becomes a holiday showplace with as many as 300,000 bulbs on the trees, hedges and religious symbols that dot this wonderful and beautiful spot.

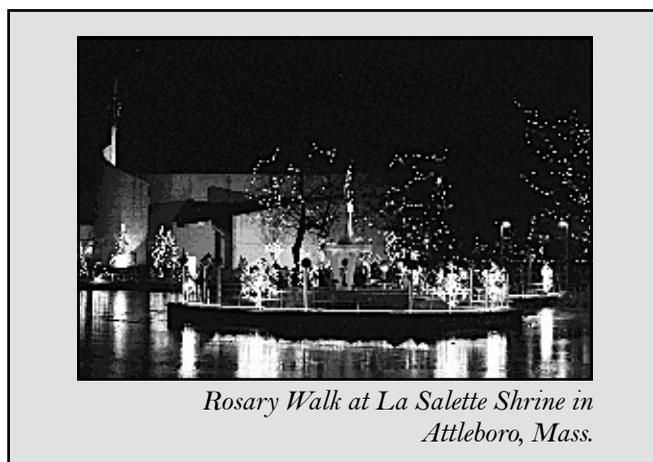

Every Christmas since we've moved to Florida, my wife and I think of the holiday seasons when we visited La Salette. It's practically a must for everyone from Attleboro and its environs to visit. I remember the large parking lot filled with cars, and, at the far end, buses from many other states and even as far away as Canada would line up.

A visit to La Salette usually meant one thing – wear something warm. It wasn't uncommon to see lots of people gathered in the cafeteria nursing cups of coffee and hot chocolate and enjoying something to eat.

The lights go on at La Salette on Thanksgiving Day and shine every evening through Jan. 1. I remember riding with my parents in the car late on Thanksgiving just to get a look at the light display. The traffic on lower Park Street was heavy in both directions, and often, police had to direct vehicles as they entered the Shrine grounds, going down the hilly driveway to the parking lot below.

Brave souls who didn't mind the cold walked the semi-circular realm of displays – the outdoor chapel, the crèche, the stairways lined with voting candles that shone through the dark red glass. There was the tomb of Jesus, with its large votive candles, and the Stations of the Cross along the walkway.

One site I remember well is the stairway leading up to a large crucifix. Those with passionate needs would climb those stairs in hopes of bringing God's attention to the matter. I remember my mother climbing up those slate-rock stairs on her knees to pray for my younger brother when he was a small boy afflicted with a serious illness.

La Salette has a wonderful bookstore and gift shop, another spot for warmth on a cold night. Nearby was the chapel where Masses were said on a daily basis.

I don't know if he is still there, but Father Andre Patenaude – Father Pat, we used to call him – was one of the top brass. He was a wonderfully friendly man and a great singer. He has released a number of albums, and has a melodious tenor voice much like Neil Sedaka.

There is a special personal addition to the Shrine this year, one that my late mother asked for. My brother recently sent a photo showing a plaque on the Rotary Walk memorializing our parents. I know she spent a lot of time there, and it's a fitting honor.

If you can't visit La Salette in person, log onto www.lasalette-shrine.org And as you look at pictures of the heavenly lights, have a wonderful and merry Christmas season.

Letters to the Editor

To the editor:

WOW, what a wonderful issue (Edition 78). Your tribute pages to Gloria Drummond were so deserved by a woman who changed the landscape for quality healthcare access to the Boca Raton community and now the region. Thanks for a great overview of her life, which as the tribute from Boca Raton Regional Hospital acknowledges: "Memories become treasures". I also wanted to thank you for your warm wishes for Jon and my 25th wedding anniversary. Seeing our photo and your wishes were both unanticipated (which made it that much more special) and much, much appreciated. It is a milestone that we are blessed to celebrate!

THOUGHTS FROM THE PUBLISHER

By Douglas Heizer

We wish you a Merry Christmas, a very, very Merry Christmas

I want to wish everyone a Merry Christmas. And to those honoring Hanukkah, Kwanzaa or celebrations specific to other faiths, I want you also to enjoy your special time.

Let me talk about Christmas for just a bit. Like the song says, "It's the most wonderful time of the year." That's true of any year.

It's great when a year is good and everyone has some cash jingling in their pockets when holiday time comes around. But this year, as in the past few years, a lot of people don't have very much money to pay the bills and also to buy presents.

Sometimes, we have to forget about the "now" in favor of the traditional. We have to think of the Miracle in Bethlehem more than 2,000 years ago. Even if you don't believe that Jesus Christ was the Messiah, we have to believe that he was a man with a very special message, who was gifted with a charisma that reached to all parts of the world. And whose memory is memorialized by millions.

Jesus Christ, the Son of God, could have come to this world on wings of Glory. But he didn't. He came the same way your and I arrived on this planet – as a baby nurtured in the womb and born into the world. But Christ was born on a day that would be celebrated for all times.

No matter how you perceive Jesus, he did not come with royal robes and flights of angels. He was born in a manger – in a stall where horses and cattle feed. There was nothing spectacular about his arrival on earth – much the way there was nothing spectacular in many of our lives this past year – or in the past few years.

Jesus was never rich in a material sense. His family was poor, and he eked out a living the way his father, Joseph, did – as a carpenter. As he grew, he went to the Temple and taught his lessons. Yes, Jesus was also a teacher.

In our world today, carpenters and teachers do not receive substantial amounts of pay. But their work is important because it provides us shelter and gives us an education – things vital to our lives.

In life, Jesus never ruled as the Son of God. If anything, he rejected the regal world for that of his Father in Heaven, where we all want to dwell someday. He told us how to do it. He told us he loved us – he loved all of us, imperfect as we humans are. We are sinners, but he will always forgive. Even as he died on the cross, he forgave us.

To this day, he hears the cries of the poor and the wails of the homeless. And while some feel Jesus doesn't treat us all fairly, this just isn't so. We are the ones who must work for a living, pursue happiness, which is not guaranteed, and learn the lessons of life that are sometimes difficult to fathom, but are necessary.

Now is not a time to fall into depression, but rather, it's the time to celebrate. To hang colorful wreaths and ornaments. Share the spirit of the season. It costs nothing to share good will with other men and women.

We have seen how those with more material things help those with less by donating food and toys. There is a special feeling we share just by walking down the street and saying "Hi" to people we don't even know.

It's the spirit that's important, not the materialism. At this time of year, we must abandon sadness for a happier demeanor.

We need to keep the good mood and the faith of good days into the future as we wish all of you a very Merry Christmas.

POSITIVE LIVING

By Dr. Synesio Lyra, Jr.

Your Ever-Present Past!

can teach us about ourselves, about the world, about the here-and-now, and about the emerging future!

The past, though long gone, remains ever-present in your life. Even things you may have forgotten can easily return to mind, either to haunt you or to bless you. Although one's past is forever gone, it still influences one's present, whether for good or for ill. We look to the past only to move in a fresh direction; we don't return to yesterday to stay there, for only tomorrow invites us into new possibilities and hope!

No one can live in the past, but nobody can discard it completely either. That's why in the Bible the verb "remember" is often found. It is used as a means of bringing back to mind whatever can encourage us in the present and lead us forth into the emerging future. It is also a means of reminding us that issues that appear impossible in our current predicament may have already been successfully resolved in years past. Therefore, we remember!

In many ways the past has been removed far from us, but we can still visit it from time to time for what it

The very concept of memory is perpetually cherished by any human, because the term frequently denotes something pleasant, worth remembering. Bad memories, however, are also lodged in the human mind but these need not remain central in one's heart and remembrance. Everyone has the ability to put away every corrosive influence that, if left undetected or untouched, can bring ruin into a person's life!

One problem is that many who faced unpleasant life experiences, tend to hold on to them indefinitely instead of eliminating them at the earliest possible chance. Whenever distressing events hold us captive, they inflict on us unnecessary, harmful pain, often with paralyzing or even lethal consequences.

Such is indeed the picture of a person who remains in the grip of past hardships, enslaved by bad memories, and incapable of moving forward. Yet, the impacting effects of such experience need not become central in a life, for they can be avoided altogether.

Certain memories, whether good or bad, may remain within one's recollections as long as that individual breathes. But even then, they need not become dominant in that person's experience; they can be transcended by newer, pleasant, positive thoughts!

In my evaluation of certain humans, I've come to discover that some people's clock stopped ticking a long time ago. Other persons advanced their clock too far ahead into a future that won't arrive for quite some time, while a few freeze their clock in the present, not allowing it to make progress beyond a fixed moment. Christians must take their clue from Him Who is the Alpha and Omega, the beginning and the end, the Lord of all time! While giving heed to the present moment in which you live, there's no need to ignore the past altogether, nor be unconcerned about the future.

St. Augustine provided a good balance in the challenge he once offered: "Trust the past to the mercy of God, the present to his love, the future to his providence." That we all can do!

YMCA of South Palm Beach surpasses 2011 goal; raises $300,000 in seven weeks

BOCA RATON — YMCA of South Palm Beach County's CEO Dick Pollock announced Dec. 9 at the Y Annual Campaign Celebration Breakfast and Holiday Party that the organization not only met their goal for the 2011 Annual Community Support Campaign, but surpassed it by over $70,000 and exceeded the amount raised in 2010.

This feat was achieved in only seven weeks by a group of 900 campaigners and donors made up of YMCA members, staff and Board Members, a class of preschoolers from the Boynton Y, and the local Palm Beach County community.

The funds raised support the YMCA of South Palm Beach County's Financial Assistance Program, giving over 2,500 families in need the ability to take part in all the Y has to offer, from preschool and youth sports to aftercare.

"I want to recognize the efforts of all involved, but in particular, special thanks go to the Campaign Chairs," Pollock said. "Because of their leadership and dedication, the 2011 Campaign raised $300,000 — this is $70,000 over the established goal and an impressive $80,000 more than last year's campaign.

We are grateful for their continued and unwavering commitment to the Y."

The Association Annual Community Support Campaign Chair was Paul Adkins. The Peter Blum Family YMCA of Boca Raton Campaign Chairs were Craig Ernst and Devon Falcone and the De-Vos-Blum Family YMCA of Boynton Beach Chairs were Jody Rivers and Nicole Cummings.

Wee Dream Ball raises funds for Zimmerman Family Toddler Program

BOCA RATON -- Passionate long-term donors and enthusiastic new friends came together at the recent Wee Dream Ball with a single, united goal — to ensure that the disadvantaged children at Florence Fuller Child Development Centers (FFCDC) will continue to have access to educational and wellness programs that prepare them for Kindergarten and beyond.

Under the leadership of Linda & Ralph Behmoiras and Amy & Mike Kazma, the Bollywood-infused Wee Dream Ball contributed an astounding $366,000 to the two Florence Fuller Child Development Centers in east and west Boca Raton.

"We are awed by the ongoing support of our multi-year sponsors who are committed to our mission to create a brighter future for at-risk children in our community," said Linda Behmoiras.

Amy Kazma added: "This year it was crucial that we secured funding for the need of quality early childhood education. Our donors understand the importance of preschool and afterschool programs for low-income families and realize that every child deserves a chance to reach their full potential. We are especially grateful to Gail Wasserman, our honorary chair, who is truly a Big Heart Helping Little Ones."

Board member Jay Foreman, along with MC Alberto of Pure Energy, led the evening's activities and DJ Andre ensured that the dance floor was always full. The evening's appeal called Giving from the Heart, was introduced by Denise & Jordan Zimmerman and raised an unprecedented $106,000 for the centers' Zimmerman Family Toddler Program.

JARC takes to the greens for annual benefit golf tournament

BOCA RATON - The Jewish Association for Residential Care (JARC) will host its annual golf tournament Monday January 16, 2012, to benefit JARC's much needed programs for their extraordinary clients.

The tournament will be held at the Del Aire Country Club in Delray Beach and will include something fun for everyone. For the non golfers; cards, Mah Jong and other games are available and all guests will enjoy a gourmet brunch as well as a cocktail reception and awards ceremony.

This year's event chair is Claire Abrams along with pro chair, Joe Jones. Tournament play will feature men's foursomes, women's foursomes and mixed foursomes along with 9-holers.

Golfers can enjoy the day's festivities for $250 per person and card players for $100.

"I am thrilled to chair this event. The tournament and cards was a fabulous success in the past and we look forward to a great day for a great cause this year," said Claire Abrams.

Kids decorate cookies, collect toys for St. Mary's Medical Center

BOCA RATON - A couple of dozen kids got a chance to decorate cookies at a Boca Raton restaurant Sunday afternoon. They also collected toys for St. Mary's Medical Center.

The children did their award-winning work at Saquella Cafe, in Royal Palm Place. Three winners were chosen, and received prizes for $75 for first place, $50 for second place and $25 for third place. Avi Sekerel, chef/owner of Prosecco Cafe in Palm Beach Gardens, where a similar cookie decorating contest was held Saturday, and Saquella Cafe, said "This is a wonderful way to celebrate the holidays. The children can have fun decorating and eating the cookies - which we will bake at our restaurants - but they will also be donating toys to the children that are at St. Mary's. We are proud to be able to get the community involved in a wonderful family-centered event that captures the true spirit of the season."

Participants decorated their cookies as gingerbread men, Christmas trees, dreidels, and menorahs using icing, sprinkles, colored sugar, and chocolate supplied by Saquella.

The toys were turned over to the Parent-Child Center's Child Life Program at St. Mary's "When children are ill and in the hospital, they are unable to celebrate the holidays with their loved ones. The gifts that the children receive from caring individuals, really make a difference during their hospital stay," said David Tkac, the director.

The Parent-Child Center, Inc. has two special programs, the Child Life and Pediatric Oncology Support Team (POST) programs, which are dedicated to providing medical psychosocial support services to children who have acute or chronic health conditions and their families. Both programs provide services to children in the Children's Hospital at St. Mary's Medical Center.

Winners were: Sonya

Smith-Tembe, first; Ben Sekerel, second and Romy Hurwitz, third. Romy gave $5 from her award to the fund for toys at St. Mary's Medical Center.

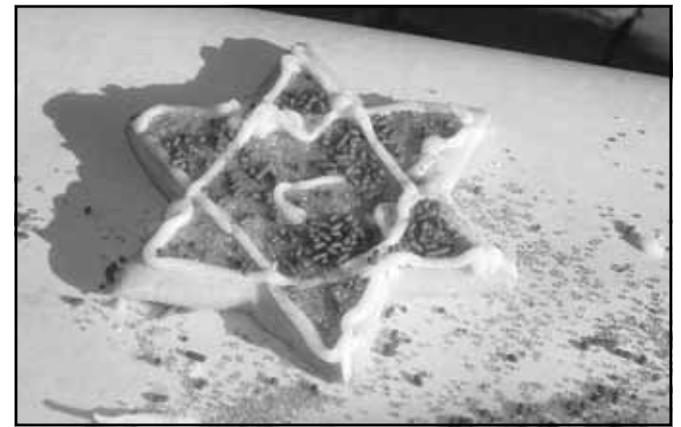

Judges were: Dale King, managing editor of the Boca Raton Tribune; his wife, Julia Hebert and Leslie Gray Streeter from the Palm Beach Post.

Batmasian proposes rental housing development on Wildflower site

BOCA RATON -- Since purchasing the property that once housed the long-closed Wildflower restaurant, the Boca Raton City Council has been seeking a "revenue generating" use for the land.

A new restaurant seems the popular choice for the prime parcel located on the Intracoastal at East Palmetto Park Road.

But downtown property mogul James Batmasian recently urged the council to scrap the restaurant idea in favor of rental housing. He said there are currently 150 to 200 eating spots in the downtown, all of which "are suffering" because of the poor economy, heavy competition and the "need for more bodies" in East Boca.

Rental property, he said, would deliver those bodies, to dine at the existing restaurants and help keep them afloat.

Batmasian and architect Douglas Mummaw made a presentation at a recent council workshop. City officials had no questions for either of them and took the matter under consideration.

The city bought the property for $7.5 million in 2009 after deciding the site has strategic importance to the downtown. But Batmasian noted that both the Wildflower and Maxwell's Chophouse previously failed on that block.

"Another restaurant is certainly not a guaranteed business plan for the Wildflower property," he said. "A restaurant would have to be substantial, similar in size to the original Wildflower restaurant, in order to lease the land from the city."

Batmasian said the city would be hurt if the restaurant succeeds since it would draw customers from other eating places that may be on the financial edge. But failure of a new restaurant would also hurt as it would add another empty building to the cityscape.

He said a rental housing development would be compatible with surrounding homes. He also said the Wildflower land could be used for public access to the Intracoastal and revive Silver Palm Park on the south side of the Palmetto Park Bridge.

In total, Batmasian said he wants the site to have the dual function of a public park/boardwalk along the water, with some modest-sized (900-1,000 square feet) rental apartments.

The priority of the concept would be to extend the public park realm of Silver Palm by creating a continuous boardwalk and additional boat docks. This would create continuity beneath the bridge and "give the water to the public."

Wildflower property.

"Moving parking into a compact structure both below and at grade, would mitigate parking concerns," Batmasian said. "Small-scale rentals would mean an increase in residents living east, which would help promote commerce as these individuals would be shopping locally, dining and paying taxes in the east Boca quarter."

The council is currently considering five potential uses for the Wildflower: an outdoor center, a dockside market or three eating spot plans from the Hillstone Restaurant

Group, Guanabanas Restaurant and Bricktops.

Following an Oct. 18 meeting, the council received 61 emails. Eleven favored passive recreation while 45 opted for a "destination" such as a restaurant, concession, amphitheater, a place for food trucks or a site for art shows, among others.

Carver students' work to be displayed on bus shelters, water bills

DELRAY BEACH -- Carver Community Middle School and the city of Delray Beach began celebrating Florida city government by proclaiming October 2011 as Florida City Government Month.

This year, the city expanded its award-winning civics education to include a new program that teaches middle school students about the importance of water conservation through an understanding of the city's water and wastewater operations.

The new water conservation program included presentations from city staff on the municipal drinking water operations and water conservation efforts to 100 CCMS students as well as a field trip for 20 students to the City's Water Treatment Facility and the South Central Regional Waste Water Treatment Plant.

During the field trip, students got a hands-on opportunity to see both plants in action and how they can protect/conservate water resources.

In addition, students were educated how water, after it is used, is collected, treated and safely returned to the earth to recharge the aquifer.

Following the field trip, the middle school students were encouraged to participate in the "Delray Beach Water Conservation Poster Contest." They created art posters on water conservation, which were evaluated by the City's Art Board. Selected art works will be converted into glass panels and displayed in bus shelters around Delray Beach. Students also wrote articles that will be featured in city water bills, reaching 25,000+ residents.

Students also wrote news articles educating the public on the importance of water conservation. Selected articles will be published in the city's monthly newsletter, which is included in more than 21,000 residential and business utility bills.

During a City Commission meeting on December 6, participating students were recognized for their efforts in promoting water conservation and received a personalized proclamation from the mayor and City Commission.

Boca Police Safety Tip

Q: When is the next Citizen's Police Academy and what will I learn?

A: The next academy is scheduled to begin on January 12, 2012. This 11-week course is free of charge and will meet every Thursday evening from 6:30pm-9 p.m. and will be located at our police training facility (6500 Congress Avenue) or the police department (100 NW 2nd Avenue); depending on the topic. Topics will range from hands-on demonstrations about the use of laser and radar units, Taser and stop stick demonstrations to learning how cases get investigated – including crime scene techniques such as evidence collection. In addition, each student will be allowed to participate in one 4-hour ride-a-long with a police officer. Applications are available on line at www.BocaPolice.com or contact Mary Ann O'Brien at mobrien@ci.boca-raton.fl.us for any questions.

FAU gets $3.5 million grant for school leadership development program

BOCA RATON – Florida Atlantic University was recently awarded a $3.5 million Race to the Top grant for Job-embedded Principal Preparation Programs through the Florida Department of Education.

The grant will provide funding for an innovative leadership development partnership between FAU's College of Education's Department of Educational Leadership and Research Methodology and Broward County Public School's Department of Human Resource Development.

The grant will fund the Principal Rapid Orientation and Preparation in Educational Leadership Program (PROPEL), which will be based at FAU's Davie campus. The program will institute streamlining and reform of current educational leadership and research methodology and of human resource development programs to develop a model of professional development that will facilitate qualified, motivated teachers to move into the role of successful principals within the Broward County School District.

"FAU's College of Education and Broward County Public Schools have been collaborating for some time on developing an innovative educational leadership program," said Valerie J. Bristor, dean of the College of Education at FAU. "We look forward to working together to move teachers into the role of principals who will successfully improve student achievement."

Daniel Reyes-Guerra, assistant professor in the Department of Educational Leadership and Research Methodology at FAU, will serve as the principal investigator for the program and will have overall programmatic and fiscal responsibilities. He also will chair a steering committee of FAU faculty and Broward administrators who will oversee the co-construction, development and delivery of the academic program.

PROPEL is designed to address the need for principals who can effectively respond to the challenges faced by urban school leaders in today's challenging environments. Its purpose will be to build a joint educational leadership program to improve student achievement by implementing research-based strategies and concrete evaluative measures centered on job-embedded experience.

It will accomplish this by starting groups of 30 highly qualified teachers each year and, through a rigorous and accelerated program, prepare them to be principals of high-need schools.

The first two groups of 30 will be grant-funded. The first cohort will act as the pilot of the newly developed program. The second cohort will run through a reformed model based on the experiences of the first cohort, thus developing continued program improvement. The program has built-in measures to become self-sustaining by the third cohort.

Broward County Public Schools is the nation's sixth largest school district, running 232 traditional schools, 76 charters and one virtual school with diverse socio-economic, racial, and cultural demographics including immigrants from 173 countries, speaking 53 languages.

New qualifying dates set for Boca Raton city election

BOCA RATON – New qualifying dates candidates in Boca Raton elections will go into effect starting with the city election March 13, 2012.

The City Council recently adopted an ordinance which amends the City Charter to change the candidate qualifying dates from the first seven days of February to the first seven business days of January.

So, the official qualifying period for the March 2012 election begins at 8 a.m. on Tuesday, January 3, 2012 and continues through Wednesday, January 11, 2012, ending promptly at 5 p.m.

The council seats held by Constance Scott and Anthony Majhess will up for contention in the 2012 election. Both have announced plans for re-election while no one has come forward yet to challenge either.

Official qualifying packets are available in the Office of the City Clerk, 201 W. Palmetto Park Road. For questions or additional information, contact the City Clerk's Office at 561-393-7742.

Man charged with cruelty to animals after killing girlfriend's dog

The Palm Beach County Sheriff's office and Animal Care & Control apprehended a man who was charged with cruelty to animals after he allegedly killed his girlfriend's dog.

In September, Animal Care and Control responded to a complaint that came in anonymously regarding a man fatally beating his girlfriend's dog (Pomeranian) and then burying the dog in the back yard.

Animal Care & Control questioned the girlfriend who stated her boyfriend got bitten by her dog and he then slammed the dog down on the ground and the dog passed away a few hours later.

The boyfriend stated the dog bit him when he tried to put the dog in a cage and he just pushed the dog away. Animal Care and Control retrieved the dog and brought it for a necropsy. Even though the dog was decomposed, the procedure found 7 broken ribs on the dog, severe internal hemorrhaging and internal bruising.

After a thorough investigation, the boyfriend, identified as Benson Thelismont, was arrested cruelty to animals!

Jewish Federation of South Palm Beach County Major Gifts Event

It was an evening of glamour and purpose – one marked by the act of giving. To honor those who donated at least $10,000 to the 2012 UJA/Jewish Federation of www.sun-sentinel.com Palm Beach County, a special evening of camaraderie, cocktails, education and emotion was held, anchored by special guest (and former anchorman) Dan Rather.

The annual Major Gifts event was held at St. Andrew's Country Club in www.sun-sentinel.com. It was there that guests got to pose with Rather for a friendly chat and photograph, and it was there that guests heard from those who help to anchor (and support) the UJA/Jewish Federation of South www.

sun-sentinel.com/news/local/palmbeach/" Palm Beach County.

"We are thrilled to be celebrating our most generous donors with a night of substance and sophistication amid the warmth of our Federation family. This is the largest and most prestigious fundraising event of our season," said Wendy Pressner, chair of the Major Gifts Event.

Not only was there a sparkle in the air, but Jewish hope and courage stood firmly on solid ground at the event. After everyone sang the Star Spangled Banner, the Hebrew song of hope, Hatikvah was chanted by the guests.

But it was the generosity of Anne and Norman Jacobson that was brought to the forefront of the evening. Because of their donation a charitable annuity trust (with $1 million) will be created that will pay $50,000 a year to the Create a Jewish Legacy Campaign, leaving a $2 million endowment to pay $100,000 to the Create a Jewish Legacy Campaign in perpetuity. Guests were the first to hear that the Federation's Jewish Community Foundation will be renamed the Anne and Norman Jacobson Jewish Community Foundation of South Palm Beach County.

David Pratt, Jewish Community Foundation Chair, was elated about the gift and the new naming of the Jewish Community Foundation of South Palm Beach County. "With incredible generosity, Anne and Norman Jacobson have made a gift that will allow our Jewish children and grandchildren and future generations to continue to thrive in our community."

To make the ethereal real - two Holocaust survivors spoke at the event about how they had met years' ago in the concentration camps. The women now both live in Palm Beach County and were reunited after 60 years at Café Europa. To see a video of their reunion check out www.youtube.com. The event also honored those inducted into the Ketubah Society. "The Ketubah Society pays tribute to the dedicated and generous individuals, couples and families who have made cumulative financial commitments of one million dollars or more during the Federation's 32-year history." Ketubah Society members Larry Phillips and Phyllis and Harvey Sandler welcomed new members William Newman, Dollsey and Seymour Rappaport, Ellen R. Sarnoff, and Ruth Weinberger.

Guest speaker Dan Rather had a few things to say about politics and the state of the union (so to speak). He spoke quite candidly, like someone who is not running for office (or a promotion). "The 2012 election will cost $3 billion but the election story needs coverage. We should know who gives how much to whom, expecting to get what. It is special interest and money that has polluted our political system."

He did have a few things to say about the current state of the news. "The media has really changed. The standards are lowered by the Hollywood-ization and corporate-ization of the media. Only six companies own 80 percent of the media. This is a problem. The free press is the red beating heart of our country."

To the 300 guests who attended it was a gracious evening of acknowledgment and gratitude for what will be the future of the Jewish Federation of South www.sun-sentinel.com/news/local/palmbeach/" Palm Beach County. For more information, call 561-852-3160 or email melis-sac@bocafed.org"

Getting Warm and Sentimental in "Le Havre"

We don't normally think of the French as being warm and sentimental. Think again. "Le Havre" is as warm and sentimental a film as any I've seen all year.

Le Havre is a port city in the south of France. As such it is a portal for the flotsam and jetsam of the world. Sometimes that flotsam and jetsam takes human form.

Finnish writer-director Ari Kaurismaki has crafted a heart-warming tale of the human kindness of strangers. Yeah OK, Kaurismaki is Finnish, but his characters and setting are French or French-speaking Africans.

There are many immigrants from former French colonies of Africa to the homeland of France. Some are legal. Many are not.

Idrissa (Blondin Miguel) is just such a person. Idrissa is a 12-year-old boy from the former colony of Gabon. He is one of a crowd of illegal immigrants packed in a Marcel Marx (Andre Wilms) and Idrissa (Blondin Miguel) is in such great need.

When the box was opened, the immigration police were there to bust them. Idrissa was one of the lucky ones to flee successfully. Desperately he appeals to the first person he saw; an elderly shoeshine "boy."

Marcel Marx (Andre Wilms) is a classic underachiever. Apparently he is perfectly happy working one of the most menial jobs and caring for a sickly wife Arletty (Kati Outinen). Marcel has the proverbial heart of gold, and there is no way he can't help the cute little kid who

There are other good people in Le Havre: Chang (Quoc Dung Nguyen), a recent immigrant from Vietnam, and Francois (Francois Monnie) the friendly local grocer. Even the jaded cop Monet (Jean-Pierre Darroussin) has a soft spot for the appealing alien boy.

In short if you need a little mood elevation, "Le Havre" may make you feel better, and you'll even have some gentle laughs at the same time.

BOCA FOOD FINDS

By Denise Righetti

The Spaniard Tapas Bar & Café

I had the great pleasure of organizing and attending a Media dinner recently at the brand new restaurant that just opened up in the former Moquila location in Downtown Boca called The Spaniard Tapas Bar & Cafe. Amongst the distinguished guests were popular food columnist Jan Norris, Leslie Streeter of the Palm Beach Post, Peter Leonard, host of The Food for Thought Radio Show & co-host of The Talk of The Town Radio Show, Deby Goldfarb of Stepping Out Florida, Cary Roman from LivingFla, Linda Haase from The Boca Raton Observer, Shawn & Karen Alleyne-Means from HerLife Magazine, Misha Grosvenor from Broward/Palm Beach New Times and Taylor Morgan from South Florida Dines.

The night got off to a great start as we were greeted by Chef Jorge Luis Fernandez who poured each of us a unique Spanish beer called Estrella Inedit, served in an unusual and attractive bottle- which resembled more of a wine bottle and was even served to us in wine glasses. We were told that this beer was the collaboration between Executive Chef Fernan Adria of elBulli (a famous Chef from Barcelona), elBulli's Sommelier and Estrella Damm brewing company - conceived & created specifically for food pairings. I'm not much of a beer drinker myself, however I did give it a try and found it to be pleasantly crisp and clean with a hint of orange under tones. Once everyone arrived, we were seated at a long table where Chef Jorge stood in front of an easel and drawing board. He let us know that we were in for a fun evening and that this was going to be an "Interactive Experience". We hadn't been told of the menu in advance and the Chef wrote on the board the name of each dish and described it to us prior to the staff presenting each one to us. After we had a chance to savour each dish, he asked us our feedback and if he accurately presented the dish in the description. We all had a great time with our contributions.

The first dish to arrive was a plate of Cured Pork Loin with Manchego Chees and Spicy "Chorizo", Walnuts and Dates. Freshly baked breads and a Mixed Olive Cocktail with homemade Pickle Garlic and Wild Capers accompanied this course.

Next up was the Chilled "Andalucian Gazpacho" with a "Typical" Spanish garnish. The soup itself was great, but when topped with the assorted garnishes of apples, diced peppers, tomatoes and croutons- it became elevated to a whole new level. This was a real unique treat.

The next dish was Roasted Sweet Piquillo Peppers filled with Calamari and Shrimp, and served in a Goat & Cream cheese Bechamel sauce. The filling was smooth and creamy and slightly sweet which contrasted nicely with the bechamel sauce, which was slightly more rich, had a hint of fresh anisette and tied the whole dish together perfectly. The Baked Corvina with Clams and Shrimp came in a lightly scented Saffron Broth Fume topped with White Asparagus. The fish was so flaky and tender while the flavors of the broth were so intense. We weren't provided spoons for this dish, so I ended up using the delicious bread as a vehicle for mopping up what remained in my bowl once the fish was all gone!

We were served a Lemon Sorbet with Dry Cava as a palate cleanser to prepare us for our next course which was the star of this evening's delights: the Black Seafood Paella with Cuttlefish and Aioli. Now, I have only had paella maybe once in my life and never "black" paella. Chef Jorge took the time to explain the proper technique for eating his paella. He instructed us to incorporate his wonderful aioli (not too mayonnaisey, not too eggy, oily or garlicky- just right!) into each bite and you know what, he was not joking. Combining the aioli with the rice and seafood made each bite a taste of heaven. To complement each course we served throughout the evening a variety of delicious white and red wines. We finished with a Viennese assortment of desserts, European Coffees and sweet Sherry. Not one of us left hungry and all of us left very excited and eager to come back for more!

The Spaniard Tapas Bar & Cafe is located at 99 SE Mizner Blvd., Boca Raton, FL 33432 Restaurant: 561-347-7000, Catering: 954-609-0656

TheSpaniardTapas

They are open Tuesday - Sunday for lunch and dinner; closed on Mondays.

Chef Jorge also designs custom menus that can meet all culinary needs and tastes for parties of any size. From 1,000 people or more to just one. The Spaniard will plan and cater corporate meetings, events, team-building activities, weddings, garden parties and festivals. Interested in taking a cooking class? Gather your friends and co-workers and have a blast cooking with Chef Jorge, aka "The Crazy Spaniard".

What Does It Take To Have Beautiful, Strong Healthy Nails?

Even if you go to a fancy nail salon it's no guarantee you nails will be strong and healthy...strong and healthy starts at home.

Many people say they're having serious problems with their nails . . . some even have problems when keeping their nails short. You will learn here how to take care of the top surface of the nails, as well as the nutrition it takes to develop strong healthy nails. This part does not happen overnight – but stick with it and it will work.

Basic Information.

Fingernails—and toenails, too—are products of your epidermis and are composed of the protein keratin. Each nail grows outward from a nail root that extends back into a groove of skin.

Fingernails normally grow at the rate of 1/8th inch a month, approximately 2 or 3 times faster than toenails. Growth slows in old age. Sudden or significant changes in the appearance of the nails can be a first sign of illness. Abnormal or unhealthy nails may be the result of a local injury, a glandular deficiency, or a deficiency of certain nutrients.

Contrary to common belief, the structure of the nails is not related to the structure of bone, and taking extra calcium will not strengthen brittle nails. Neither will taking gelatin.

With severe malnutrition, after an injury or during a course of some kinds of chemotherapy, nail formation is impaired. During the several weeks of such impaired formation an area of thinning of the nails can be seen. The width of this zone of thinning of nails corresponds to the duration of the injury or the use of, for example, chemotherapy.

How To Get The Nail To GROW Strong and Healthy.

A protein deficiency can cause opaque white bands to appear on the nails or cause them to become dry, brittle and very thin. Insufficient amounts of complete proteins and/or vitamin A slow down the rate of nail growth (which is also affected by various drugs). A shortage of vitamin A in the diet may also cause dryness and brittleness. A lack of the B vitamins causes nails to become fragile, with horizontal or vertical ridges appearing. The B complex is also a factor in fungus infestation found underneath the nails. Frequent hangnails usually indicate an inadequate intake of vitamins C, folic acid, and protein. An iron deficiency can disturb the growth of the nails, causing dryness, brittleness, thinning, flattening and eventually the appearance of moon-shaped nails. White spots can be caused by a zinc deficiency.

Any nail abnormality usually indicates that the diet is not adequate; a well-balanced diet supplying all essential nutrients is recommended.

Nutrients that may be beneficial in treatment of nail problems: Vitamin A, Vitamin B complex, Folic acid, Vitamin C, Calcium, Iron, Zinc, and Protein. If you have a nail problem that is the result of poor diet or illness, and you plan to do something about it, think in terms of three months because that's how long it will take before you see the results of improved nutrition through your diet and supplements.

Meanwhile, here are some measures that will help strengthen your nails and keep them that way:

1. Wear rubber gloves whenever you use soap and water or do any kind of manual activity; and have them larger than your usual glove size.

2. Use your fingers, not your nails, to pick things up. This, of course, is easier said than done! If you have long nails, use the sides of your fingers.

3. Carry a small Band-aid in your handbag. If a nail cracks, put it on immediately, then mend your nail as soon as you return home. You can buy a "mending kit" of some kind in almost any drug-store.

4. Always keep a coat of some type of polish, even clear polish, on your nails for protection.

Boca Hospital names Schilling new medical director for Women's Institute

BOCA RATON — Boca Raton Regional Hospital has announced the appointment of Kathy Schilling, MD as Medical Director at its Christine E. Lynn Women's Health & Wellness Institute.

Dr. Schilling joined Boca Raton Regional Hospital in 1988 and became the Medical Director of Imaging and Intervention for the Center for Breast Care at the Women's Health & Wellness Institute two years later. Under her stewardship, the Center has become the most experienced and comprehensive program in the region, performing over 90,000 diagnostic and therapeutic procedures a year.

An internationally-known radiologist and pioneering researcher in the field of women's breast health, Dr. Schilling performed the world's first positron emission mammography (PEM) biopsy at Boca Regional. She authored a subsequent study that showed that PEM and breast MRI had comparably high ability to detect cancerous lesions.

Dr. Schilling is also the principle investigator of the SOMO-INSIGHT 3D Automated Breast Ultrasound (ABUS) technology for the detection of cancer in women with dense breasts. The hospital is one of six sites nationally participating in this clinical research study.

After attending Miami School of Medicine, she completed her internship at Jackson Memorial Hospital in Miami and completed her residency and fellowship programs at Mount Sinai Medical Center in Miami where she served as Chief Resident of Radiology. In 2001, she was awarded the Weizmann Institute of Science Women of Vision Award.

"It is with great pleasure to announce the appointment of Dr. Schilling to Medical Director of the Institute," said Jerry Fedele, president & Chief Executive Officer of Boca Raton Regional Hospital. "She has demonstrated significant leadership capabilities at the Center for Breast Care and her contributions to women's healthcare and research are immeasurable. We are most confident that she will play an integral role in the evolution of the Women's Institute."

In September of 2010, the Christine E. Lynn Women's Health & Wellness Institute at Boca Raton Regional Hospital received a $10 million donation from philanthropist, Christine E. Lynn. Today the Institute is built on the four pillars: clinical excellence, education and research, cutting-edge technology and quality. The Institute serves as a "centralized address" for women's health care needs and information, providing a convenient one-stop shop for women, with coordinated access to the broad spectrum of services.

County Commission honors Boca business leader M.J. 'Mike' Arts

At the Board of County Commissioners meeting on Dec. 6, Commissioner Steven Abrams presented a proclamation declaring December 6, 2011 as "M.J. Mike Arts Day" in Palm Beach County.

Arts, now retired, was president of the Greater Boca Raton Chamber of Commerce for 20 years and also served on the Boca Raton City Council.

Boca Hospital doc first in PBC to implant new anti-heart failure device

BOCA RATON — Boca Raton Regional Hospital is the first hospital in Palm Beach County to implant the Unify Quadra™ cardiac resynchronization therapy defibrillator (CRT-D) and Quartet® Left Ventricular Quadripolar Pacing Lead in the treatment of heart failure disease.

The new pacing technology, developed by St. Jude Medical, offers additional options that can reduce the need for another procedure to reposition a lead. It also provides physicians with the ability to more efficiently and effectively manage the individualized needs of patients with heart failure.

Murray Rosenbaum, MD, an electrophysiolo-gist at the Christine E. Lynn Heart & Vascular Institute at Boca Raton Regional Hospital, was the first in Palm Beach County to implant the pacing system.

"Boca Raton Regional Hospital is proud to be among the first hospitals in the country to implant this state-of-the-art device," said Dr. Rosenbaum. "We're committed to providing our patients with this smart technology that will help improve their quality of life."

Cardiac resynchronization therapy (CRT) is delivered by an implantable cardioverter defibrillator (ICD) or a pacemaker. CRT is designed to optimize the heart's pumping function and help the heart perform in its most natural state by synchronizing the left and right ventricles of the heart through timed electrical pulses.

Some 23 million people worldwide are afflicted with congestive heart failure, and 2 million new cases are diagnosed each year worldwide.

"This new system is designed to manage the dynamic challenges of heart failure," Dr. Rosenbaum said. "Based on the clinical experiences and publications to date, this innovative CRT system has the potential to redefine the standard of care in resynchronization therapy for heart failure patients around the world."

“Once again, we have chosen a deserving recipient who has achieved success in her professional career and who continually makes a difference in the community of Boca Raton,” said McLellan. “In her daily life, Dr. Rendon manages to be both a clinical woman of science and a person of incredible caring and commitment to others.

The award luncheon will be held Feb. 23 from noon to 1:30 p.m. at the Boca Raton Marriott at Boca Center, 5150 Town Center Circle Boca Raton

Dr. Rendon's state of the art, 7,000-square-foot facility is a completion of her life-long mission. Her goal is one of passion and profession to her patients.

Dr. Rendon - the previous chairperson of the Department of Dermatology of Cleveland Clinic Florida, - also serves as a clinical associate professor to the Department of Dermatology at the University Of Miami School Of Medicine and in the Department of Biomedical Sciences at Florida Atlantic University in Boca Raton.

She has gained notoriety through serving as the spokesperson for Procter & Gamble's Head & Shoulders' brand as their “global celebrity dermatologist,” and has been a speaker, advisor to and physician trainer for a multitude of companies, including Merz Pharmaceuticals, Allergan, Galderma, GlaxoSmith-Kline, Johnson & Johnson, Mediceis, L'Oreal, among others.

She is a generous donor to The Junior League, Boca Raton Regional Hospital Foundation, Spirit of Giving, and Soroptimist causes as well as to a multitude of others.

“Motherhood, an unquenchable thirst for knowledge, a passion for her patients, and compassion for her community all position Dr. Rendon as one of the pivotal members of our community,” said McLellan.

“Although she has been featured on numerous television news and entertainment programs, and many global magazines including Prevention, Vogue, Allure, Elle, her international presence hasn't taken away from who she is, and that is someone that is truly beautiful from the inside out.”

Blimp ride, Naples trip among items sold at Chamber's Holiday Auction

BOCA RATON -- A ride in the Goodyear Blimp, a weekend in the Naples Grand Resort, 3D Custom Photography. These were a few of the favorite things at the Greater Boca Raton Chamber of Commerce's 30th Annual Holiday Auction with a Cause!

The event, held Wednesday, December 14th at Via Mizner Golf & Country Club, supported the Chamber's educational programs and networking events throughout the year, and a portion of the proceeds will benefit the Chamber's Golden Bell Education Foundation and Habitat for Humanity of Palm Beach County.

“It's always fun to get a great deal on a truly unique gift,” said Troy M. McLellan, President & CEO of the Greater Boca Raton Chamber of Commerce. “This auction combines unique gift options for attendees, the ability to have their purchases benefit charitable causes and the ability to network and benefit their business – all at the same time. We are grateful for our members and friends who come out to support the Chamber and the Holiday Auction year after year.”

The evening featured live and silent auctions and was, once again, facilitated by champion auctioneer Bob Nichols. Cuisine and beverage vendors included American Fine Wine Competition, Boca Dunes Golf & Country Club, Hooters Boca Raton, Oceans 234, Philippe Chow, and Stir Crazy.

Nancy Deatley of First Citizens Bank and Beth Johnston, IOM, Executive Vice President of the Greater Boca Raton Chamber of Commerce.

Kata and Ed Breman of Accelerate Exceed.

BUSINESS BITS

BOCA RATON -- Whelchel Partners Real Estate Services, launched in 2010, has developed a successful business with its full service commercial real estate brokerage. Stemming from its strong roots within the local community, Whelchel Partners has played a pivotal role in helping businesses, owners, and investors with commercial leasing, sales, and customized real estate services.

Hospice of Palm Beach County has announced that James W. Smith, Jr. has achieved the status of Fellow of the American Academy of Hospice and Palliative Medicine. The Fellowship designation is based on the achievement of a significant body of work in the field of hospice and palliative medicine. Dr. Smith has been on staff at Hospice of Palm Beach County for the last seven years. He dedicates a great deal of his time to the education and training of hospice and palliative care to second and third year medical students. Dr. Smith serves as the organization's internal expert on pediatric end-of-life care. In addition to his work with Hospice of Palm Beach County, he has been in family practice since 1984.

BOCA RATON-- BKF Capital Group Inc., a publicly traded company, has announced that Greg Heller has joined the firm as senior vice president. His responsibilities include the pursuit of BKF Capital's corporate strategy to acquire companies that show growth characteristics at a reasonable valuation. "Greg brings a wealth of experience in mergers and acquisitions, the capital markets and corporate finance strategy to BKF," said Steven N. Bronson, the firm's chairman and CEO. "

BOCA RATON -- MobileHelp, a medical alert company in HYPERLINK "http://www.orlandosentinel.com/topic/us/florida/palm-beach-county/boca-raton-PLGEO100100412020000.topic" \o "Boca Raton" Boca Raton, is expanding its office space in the city with plans to add 55 jobs, said the Business Development Board of Palm Beach County. The majority of the jobs will be in sales, customer service and technical support, said Elias Janetis, founder. The average salary is in the low $40,000s with benefits, he said. The employer provides medical alarm service for seniors by integrating cellular technology, GPS and medical alarm technology.

Christmas Thoughts

Christmas means many things to different people. A teacher asked young Patrick Murphy: "What do you do at Christmas time?" Patrick addressed the class: "Well Ms. Jones, me and my twelve brothers and sisters go to midnight mass and we sing hymns; then we come home very late and we put mince pies by the back door and hang up our stockings. Then all excited, we go to bed and wait for Father Christmas to come with all our toys. "Very nice Patrick," she said.

"Now Jimmy Brown, what do you do at Christmas?" Well, Ms. Jones, me and my sister also go to church with Mom and Dad and we sing carols and we get home ever so late. We put cookies and milk by the chimney and we hang up our stockings. We hardly sleep, waiting for Santa Claus to bring our presents. Realizing there was a Jewish boy in the class and not wanting to leave him out of the discussion, she asked, "Now, Isaac Cohen, what do you do at Christmas?"

Isaac said, "Well, it's the same thing every year...Dad comes home from the office. We all pile into the Rolls Royce; then we drive to Dad's toy factory. When we get inside, we look at all the empty shelves...and begin to sing: 'What A Friend We Have in Jesus'. Then we all go to the Bahamas."

To merchants it is the busiest, most profitable time of the year. To employees, we hope for a big Christmas bonus. For many teen-agers & adults it is a time of fun & parties. For children it is a time of unbearable waiting for Christmas morning. Clearly Christmas has become a mix of the sacred and the secular, and like it or not, believe it or not, we all have to deal with it.

The birth and life of Jesus was in a real historical context.

The biblical account makes numerous references to historical characters like Caesar Augustus, Archelaus, Publius Quirinius all of whom can be verified as having actually existed. The events of the taxing, the slaughtering of babies, the visit of the Magi, all have other non-biblical references as well.

His birth was predicted in Scripture

Born of a virgin Isaiah 7.14

Born in Bethlehem Micah 5.2-4

"In the Old Testament there are sixty major messianic prophecies and approximately 270 ramifications that were fulfilled in one person, Jesus Christ. Using the science of probability, we find the chances of just 48 of these prophecies being fulfilled in one person to be right at 10157 (a one followed by 157 zeros)". (A Ready Defense, Josh McDowell, pg.210)

In Luke 2.19 it says that Mary "treasured all these things, pondering them in her heart." Another word for "ponder" means "to bring together," not unlike what someone would do with the pieces of a jigsaw puzzle.

Like Mary, as we hustle through this Christmas, I hope we will take some time to consider, even contemplate, the real details of the Christmas story and all their implications.

DIVORCE FLORIDA STYLE

By Mike Gora

Changing Times

Q: My wife and I have been going through a difficult divorce for some time. We have a mediation coming up. We have two boys, ages 11 and 8. I travel for business and we have worked out a visitation schedule which fits our lives, although she has about 70 percent of the overnights.

One of the remaining issues is whether she will agree to a clause stopping her from moving with the boys outside of South Florida. My lawyer tells me that such a clause makes little difference; she could still move, with court approval. Is she correct?

A: Ultimately, your lawyer is correct. However, not having such a clause in your settlement agreement has a serious effect. Relocation is governed by a Florida Statute, which provides a list of factors that a court must consider, before allowing the move. That statute has changed from time to time.

For several years, before the current statute was passed, there were appellate cases, which said that the residential parent was favored with a presumption for allowing the move. The statute eliminated the presumption and concept of residential and non-residential parent. Since the statute change, many more relocations have been denied, then before the statute was changed.

Under the cases interpreting the new statute, the most tightly drawn anti-removal language does not prevent a judge from allowing removal. If the judge does not find, after applying the statute, that it would be in the children's best interest to allow the move, and that the move would allow a meaningful relationship between the remaining parent and the children, permission will be denied.

The non-relocation clause in a marital settlement agreement gives the judge a hook to deny permission to re-locate which might make the difference in the outcome of the case.

The judge may require a far stronger reason for your wife's wish to move than if there were no limitation clause.

Either way, it might take months to get the issue into court. Her reasons to move might change or evaporate. A basic premise of Florida law is that it is generally best for children to have regular access to both parents.

PET OF THE WEEK

Dear Santa,

They say you can make Christmas wishes come true. Can you please make mine come true? I've been good all year, and all I want now is to get out of this place! I can't even tell you how long I've been here, but it feels like I've been here forever. Yes, really nice people do come in to pet me and my friends, and some of us get to leave with them. The nights are the hardest, because ...it's so lonely, and we find ourselves crying a lot.

Why doesn't anyone love us? What did we do wrong?

We can't figure it out. The people who work here at the shelter are really nice, but they work really hard and get tired. They do their best to give us hugs and kisses and stuff, but we know they really want someone to come and take us to a new home.

All we want for Christmas this year is to find new mommies and daddies, so we can make them the happiest people in the world. When we love people, it's unconditional...we just want a chance to show people that that's really true. We miss curling up in someone's lap, playing with the kids, and all the things that make life so wonderful when we have humans to love and take care of us.

We know you're really busy right now, but could you please, please, please just tell everybody about us? Presents under the tree are great, but we think that WE could be the greatest gift ever because we are the gift that just keep on giving and giving.

Thank you Santa, for being our friend!

Love,

Shannon, Foxy, Cindy, Cosmo, Hansel, Mickey, Pearl, and all of the rest of us here at the shelter.

FAU Owls fall to Miami Hurricanes in double-overtime in Orange Bowl Classic

SUNRISE, FL - Florida Atlantic met the University of Miami in as part of the Orange Bowl Classic on Saturday, and the game matched the title as the two teams engaged in an offensive shootout. However, FAU ultimately fell short, losing 93-90 in double overtime.

The Owls (4-7) had to overcome a sluggish start to the game, as Miami scored 10 of the game's first 12 points in just over four minutes. FAU rallied to tie the game at 13, before the Hurricanes pushed the lead out to 10 at 25-15. Another Owl rally cut the lead to two late in the half, but FAU surrendered a layup at the buzzer that put the Hurricanes ahead 34-30 at the half.

The second half of the game was a back and forth affair, with neither team able to than a minute left in regulation, when Kore White slammed home back-to-back dunks to Grier his one of his Orange Bowl Classic record-tying seven three-pointers as time expired to send the game to overtime.

FAU once again found itself down by three points late in the first overtime, and Grier again delivered the game-tying triple to knot the score at 82. The Owls then had to dig in on the defensive end to force the second overtime.

After a Kore White dunk and two Miami misses from the free throw line, the Owls had the ball and a chance to tie, but a three-pointer at the buzzer was just short. Grier led all scorers with a career-high 27 points. Raymond Taylor scored 20 points and tied an OBC record with nine assists in the game.

Dolphins-Bills game observations

By: Chris Nelson

- I thought Matt Moore rebounded nicely from his mild concussion in Week 14. He only completed 50 percent of his passes, but Brandon Marshall dropped three (including two touchdowns) and Moore threw some very nice balls.

- You've got to hand it to Reggie Bush, don't you? He's really proving he can be a feature back this year and is running as well as I've ever seen him. I still question how long he can hold up, but he'll be great if Daniel Thomas can be a reliable partner.

- Brandon Marshall has dropped so many passes this season it's ridiculous. He's still got good numbers on the season, but he'd have great numbers if he'd hauled in the touchdowns he should have. On the other side of the coin, Brian Hartline has been making incredible catches all season and had another one here just before he got drilled by a defender. He's impressing me more and more all the time and I'd love to see what he'd do in a great offense.

- John Jerry held up fairly well in place of Jake Long (back) at left tackle, though it's hard to entirely judge his play when the Bills don't have a pass rusher on the roster. The unit as a hole was iffy at first but really got going and opened up holes for Bush in the second half.

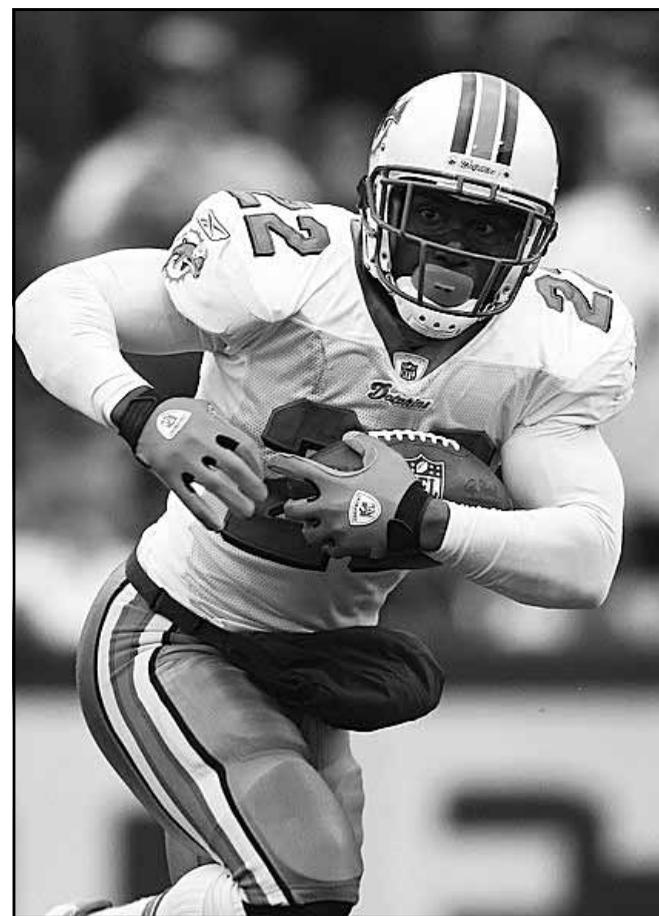

- I thought the tackling on defense was pretty weak at first, which I would mostly attribute to the cold conditions. Everyone looked like they were going half-speed early on and too cold to really hit somebody, which inflated C. J. Spiller's numbers.

- Jared Odrick and Randy Starks got nice pressure from the inside, disrupting Ryan Fitzpatrick on multiple occasions and each notching a sack. Cameron Wake was the biggest beast of the day, drawing multiple penalties while recording six tackles and a sack.

- Reshad Jones lucked into a pick, but Vontae Davis made two great plays on interceptions. He's really having a nice second half after being hampered by a hamstring injury and temporarily in the dog house.

- Dan Carpenter and Brandon Fields are great at their jobs. What else is there to say?

- Davone Bess averaged a healthy 16 yards on six punt returns, but his performance also signified just how weak of a returner he is. Watching the game, Buffalo's coverage was weak and there were at least two times where a great returner would have broken it all the way. The slow-footed Bess was caught easily from behind.

Lampkin, Garcia Kingly in Overtime Win Versus Royals

By Lance Thomas

BOCA RATON, Fla.—Lynn University's men's basketball tallied an overtime win with the help of Jeremy Lampkin's 21 points and Josh Garcia game tying three-pointer at the end of regulation to defeat the Queen College Royals 81-79 on Monday.

Lampkin led Lynn (7-5) with 21 points on an 8-for-12 night from the floor. Josh Garcia collected 11 points with three buckets from behind the arc.

The Blue & White jumped out to a six point advantage after a DeMario Fountain three with 16:40 on the clock in the first half. Lynn built its first-half advantage to as much as 14 after Slobodan Miljanic connected on two free throws with 05:20 remaining to make it a 36-22 game.

The Knights ended the first half up nine with the score Lynn 46, Queens 37. LU posted an impressive 60 percent shooting from downtown during the first half and out-rebounded the Royals 16-10.

Lynn held its nine point advantage till the 15:15 mark in the second half when Queens posted an 11-3 run to take its first lead of the game since 14:24 on the clock in the first half. The Royals' run continued as they went up 60-56 with 10:44 left in regulation.

The advantage swayed back and forth the rest of the second half until Queens looked to put the Knights away after Brandon Nichols made two free throws to put his Royals up 72-69 with 54 seconds left.

On the ensuing passion, Garcia hit one of the biggest buckets of the season for Lynn on a three from the corner in front of the Lynn bench to knot the game at 72 with 29 seconds left.

The Lynn defense answered the call and stone walled the Royals to preserve the tie and send the game to overtime.

Lynn battled through a 28.6 percent clip from behind the arc in the second half while Queens collected a 48.1 percent mark from the floor in the second period.

Lampkin gave the Blue & White the first advantage in overtime after going one-of-two from the free throw line with 04:24 left. Then it was Lampkin again with a huge dunk to extend Lynn's tilt to three after a Queens turnover.

The Royals answered right back with back-to-back buckets from Brent Evans to claim the lead at 76-75 with 02:45 left in overtime.

Senior captain Michel Vidal then stole the lead back for LU with two clutch free throws with 02:28 on the clock with the score 77-76.

Down by one, Queens' Nate Blackburn connected on a three with just under a minute and a half left to take the score to Lynn 77, Queens 79.

The next possession, Lampkin found Garcia open for an easy layup to, once again, tie the game.

With the game tied at 79 and less than a minute on the clock, Fountain planted his feet on the baseline and collided with Queens' Daniel Bailey. Fountain earned the charge and a chance for the Knights to win the game with 42 second to play.

As the shot clock began to dwindle for Lynn in a tied game, Fountain knifed his way into the lane and drew a foul. Fountain converted both free throws and the Blue & White went up 81-79 with 12 seconds left in the game.

The suspense continued as Blackburn's three pointer clanked the iron but while grabbing the offensive rebound, the Royals leading scorer, Brandon Nichols was fouled. At the free throw line with less than two seconds left and down by two, Nichols missed the first free throw. The intentional miss on the second free throw caromed off the rim and over the back of the goal. The Knights were able to run out the remaining 1.4 seconds and collect their first overtime win of the season.

Lynn shot 48.2 percent from the floor for the game while hitting 47.8 percent of its shots from behind the arc. The Knights' perimeter defense allowed Queens a mere 14.3 percent shooting from behind the arc.

Vidal was one point away from a double-double with 14 rebounds and nine points. He also dished out a team-high six assists. Miljanic added 14 points, six rebounds and five assists.

Lynn starts the heart of Sunshine State Conference play in a New Year's Eve face-off versus the Saint Leo Lions starting at 4 p.m. in its next game. Stay tuned to LynnFighting-Knights.com for information concerning live coverage of the Saint Leo game.
