ORLANDO — George Zimmerman’s attorney is going to ask the state of Florida to pay for some of his client’s nonlawyer legal bills.

A spokesman for attorney Mark O’Mara confirmed Tuesday that lawyers want to ask the state to pick up the bill for as much as $500,000 in legal expenses he has incurred in representing the former neighborhood watch volunteer.

State law allows defendants to recover certain legal expenses reimbursed by the state if they are acquitted.

Zimmerman was acquitted last month of all charges for fatally shooting Trayvon Martin.

The acquittal touched off protests nationwide.

Some of the costs that could be reimbursed include expert witness fees, depositions and an animated video depicting Zimmerman’s account of what happened during that fateful night with Martin last year.

State may keep school relief

CLEARWATER — Florida may be keeping a safety net protection that kept schools from getting F grades on the latest state report card.

Interim Education Commissioner Steve Yager said Thursday that state officials will discuss in October whether to keep in place a rule that would limit a school grade from dropping more than one letter at a time.

This “temporary” rule for 2012 was adopted but the State Board of Education narrowly voted to keep it intact for this year. If the board were to vote yes it means the rule would be in place for grades handed out next summer.

Each year the state hands out A-F grades and they are used to reward top schools and sanction those that get failing grades.

Boys’ organs being donated

MIAMI — The family of the 15-year-old south Florida boy who was infected by a rare and deadly brain eating amoeba says his organs are being donated.

In a Facebook posting late Monday, the family announced that Zachary Reyno’s organs were going to others who were “wailing on a miracle.”

In January, the family’s Facebook posting said, “His spirit will be with us forever. We have lost a great son, brother and friend.”

any child to be left out of the fun and an in-a-lifetime experience due to lack of funds.

Ripple said when she was a fourth-grader, she was involved in a school trip going to Washington, D.C., but had to be kept from getting an etching from the Vietnam Veterans Memorial.

The cost per student stayed the same, but includes the bus ride, hotel stay and ground transportation to and from different attractions. Ripple said that is about $224 per student, which is twice to raise $5,760 total.

The Eastside Middle School Curricular Fund is also accepting donations from four fund-raisers.

Students in the patrol group are younger students safe-guarding their classes and school destinations. The students also help in the cafeteria during break. Ripple said she lost students and help with the Accelerated Reader program in the school library.

Ripple said she is a variety of fundraisers throughout the year. Ripple said fundraisers will be held outside Walmart and car washes, as well as outings at Moo’s, Fire House Subs and McDonald’s night where the students bus sofas for Escambia County Schools.

The students are also skit- ted to participate in the Belladonna Park 2013-14 season.

The students plan to sell belladonna on April 1 during spring break, March 24-28.

Ripple said T-shirts to be sold for $10. The proceeds can contribute $50 to raise $10,000 for the Griffis family.

A Simple way to save a life

The electrical impulses that control the heart’s rhythm must not exit normally. The multielectric shock from an AED "resuscitates" the heart and allows it to resume normal function.

But there are still some challenges related to AEDs. One problem is the lack of an AED in every store.

There are no guarantees about AEDs, but they can help save lives.

Dear Pharmacist,

I need more options to protect my vision. I take prescription eye drops, but I'm already doing that.

— R.J.

Dear R.J.,

I am sorry to hear that you are always researching ways to protect your vision, but it is so precise for these patients. There are several things that can be done for this. If you see your pharmacist concerning the use of Timolol, astatin, Restatine, Zafatin, or Astatin, or the “vichewy” version of these, Latine, supplements are usually prescribed. Numerous multi-tasking formulas are sold at pharmacies, and they contain all the key nourishing ingredients like minerals, omega-3 fatty acids and B vitamins. These lay a good foundation, but may not be enough. So even if you take Timolol or Astatin, for example, it’s probably all right to take one of the multi-tasking formulas, too, or both for that matter.

Since we are dealing with your eyes, get your cholesterol blood levels checked at your next physical examination. Blood levels for a new patient are often done without prescription. Astaxanthin is sold worldwide, it gets my stamp of approval for macular degeneration and glaucoma, and the research from my research. This is a soft gel, it is not an eye drop. Astaxanthin can be thought of as a cousin of beta carotene. Because it can reduce anthocyanin and “eye fatigue” by 50 percent and I work on a computer. Take this. Astaxanthin is a protective antioxidant. It never goes pro-oxidize like other nutrients. Forget your eyes, studies prove it helps joint pain, supports healthy cholesterol levels, eases skin lines and improves endurance. Since I take 3 mg Buvinatin every day.

DEAR PHARMACIST

Simple fixes yield big improvement in blood pressure

By LINDSEY SINNER

CHICAGO — New research suggests giving patients patients to take medicine and no-score medical visits can help drive down high blood pressure, a major contributor to poor health and mortality nationwide.

These efforts were part of a big health care pro- gram involving more than 300,000 patients with high blood pressure. At the beginning, fewer than half had brought their blood pressure under control. That increased to a remarkable 80 percent, well above the national average, the researchers said.

The research involved Kaiser Permanente in Northern California, a network of 23 hospitals and 75 doctors’ offices, which makes monitoring treatment easier than in independent practices.

The number of heart attacks and strokes among Northern California members dropped dramatically dur- ing roughly the same time as the 2010 study Dr. Marc Jaffe, the lead author and health care system’s chief heart disease risk reduction pro- gram, is now wondering if he will know if the blood pressure program can be called for those desirous, but he thinks that it at least contributed. Results have continued to improve since the study ended. In 2011, 65 percent of roughly 200,000 Kaiser patients had recommended blood pressure levels.

The study was published in the latest Journal of the American Medical Association.

In 2013, the Kaiser group introduced a system-wide program involving its 2,800 primary care doctors to tackle the problem. It created a registry of adult members with high blood pressure, based on medical records. At the start, about 44 percent of Kaiser members were in registries. That number had increased to 72 percent by 2008, and registries had their blood pressure checked at least once yearly.

The registry grew and by 2010, the portion under control reached 80 percent of 353,000 patients. That compares to 44 percent of people with blood pressure problems already had a blood pressure check yearly.

Marc Jaffe, the lead author of this research, said it’s impossible to measure even after the study ended.

It surely contributed, he said. The program can be credited for producing a big improvement in blood pressure.

Columbia High has an early chance at redemption as the Hurricanes host Gainesville High in a rematch of their only regular season loss last year. Although these are two vastly different schools with graduation taking its toll on both squads, both the Hurricanes and Tigers are expected to be among the top teams around the state this season.

“This game definitely has a buzz (with the players) just for the fact that they defeated us the last two seasons,” Columbia head coach Brian Allen said. “They want to get a win against us after losing a couple of years in a row.”

Allen said although the Hurricanes are a different team this season, he expects much of the same from Gainesville.

“They’re trying to retool similar things and be a strong run-oriented team,” Allen said. “They lost a bunch of players, but they’re still GHS.”

While this game is sure to up the intensity for the start of the season, Allen said he doesn’t necessarily care where the Tigers finish this season, there’s not much we can do about that. This will be a good chance for the FORT WHITE — Fort White High’s volleyball team got a taste of how tough District 5-4A might be.

The new district kid, FR Yonge School, came to Fort White on Tuesday and defeated the Lady Indians 25-18, 25-10, 25-16.

The jump serves of Sammy Manahan, Gabby O’Connell and Ja’cara Walker were devastating for Fort White. Walker had 15 service points that included eight aces. She led the Blue Wave in assists with 18. Kayla Simmons, the only senior on the team, led with eight kills.

Despite not winning a point on serve through the first set, Fort White only trailed 2-5 in game one. PK Yonge took over from there.

Ashley Casen, Jordan Walker and Bailey Johnson had two points each on serve and Leah Johnson added an ace. Brooklyn Jackson led with eight digs and Casen had six assists. Mallorie Godfrey had three kills and she and Emily Bealic had blocks.

“The biggest problem is we thinking and knowing we can win,” Fort White head coach Kelbie Ronsonet said. “The more they play together against better teams, we will do that.”

Fort White hosts Suwannee High at 6 p.m. today.

Fort White High’s Ashley Cason goes up for a block against Lafayette High during a preseason classic on Thursday.

DEAR ABBY

Fear of 911 publicity causes some not to make the call

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

value, calling 911 is the lesser of two evils. Out-of- control abusers have been known to maim and kill the ones they "love." Ask yourself if your friend's husband is worth risking her life for. It makes more sense to risk a 911 call being broadcast, than the media is that it draws viewers and listeners -- "if it bleeds, it leads" in news. The public either, so I'd take a little reputation to avoid a practice of the media is that it draws viewers and listeners -- "if it bleeds, it leads" in news. Your best defense is to remind your taxes, your superiors, your co-worker, your friends and new acquaintances that you have a family history of abuse. Dealing with abusers can seem like a personal and colleagues are on a doctor-advise restricted diet to manage. Remember those emotions souls that socializing is more about the company than the food, and you are agreed that they understand.

DEAR ABBY

March 23-April 20: Your intuition will help you gain approval and pick up knowledge. Pick up knowledge that will make it easier to deal with those who see their ways and likely to cause problems. VIRGO (Aug. 22-Sept. 22): Your emotions will escalate and your emotions under control. Practical choices will far outweigh an impulsive short-term fix. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Your best defense is to ask for a meeting with your spouse, or research a health issue. CANCER (June 21-July 22): Your best defense is to take what is offered, and make suggestions that can lead to a more positive situation that will enable you to move forward with greater determination. Taurus supports and shares the good news. A partnership will bring you closer to your goals and personal changes.

Lake City Middle School takes to the field against Suwannee Middle School on Tuesday.

Falcons hold off Bullpups, 12-8, in season’s opener

By BRANDON FINLEY
bfinley@lakecityreporter.com

Lake City Middle School had the Cooper effect in Tuesday’s season-opening win against Suwannee Middle School as a pair of touchdowns from Tre and Eddie Cooper propelled Falcons to a 12-8 win. Suwannee struck the scoreboard first with a lateral pass from Alex Scarborough to Booshay McQuay from 43 yards out to take an 8-0 lead with 5:23 remaining in the second quarter after a two-point conversion from McQuay. Lake City answered on the following drive with its own score. Ethan Umstead took the kickoff back 54 yards to set up the Falcons at the Suwannee 16-yard line. Tre Cooper had a 10-yard run and Eddie Cooper capped off the drive with a score from three yards. The two-point conversion failed to leave the Falcons down 8-6. Suwannee knocked on the door again before the half with McQuay setting things up after a 30-yard run, but Andrew Beaton recovered a fumble with 47 seconds remaining in the second quarter to send things into the half. Tre Cooper broke a 20-yard run to start the second ball and Delan Blair found Nate Maness for 25 yards on a fake to set up Tre Cooper for the go-ahead score on the one-yard line. The Falcons led 12-8 when Suwannee took over on its final possession and the Bullpups would drive inside the Falcons’ 10-yard line before the clock expired.
