Marathon wants rebuild of buildings but county ownership an issue
Marathon for Public Works storage as part of the new community center. The Marathon Recreation Center would be razed and a new complex that’s three times the size would be built. The complex would be named after Community Leader Carla Shellington. The city agreed to make a decision on the new community center that’s two years behind schedule. The new complex will nearly double the size of the current center.

Two arrested in 2011 robbery

An anonymous tip that two men had been arrested for a 2011 Marathon robbery came to the Monroe County Sheriff’s Office.

The individual said two men were observed on June 5 and June 6 at a Marathon location.

The robbery took place Sept. 27, 2011, at a Kmart on 11th Street, in Marathon. The suspects denied stealing anything but one man pointed a gun and they walked away.

A woman and a man were identified as the pair or suspects.

CRIME FRONT

2 charged with impersonism

One man was a male, the other drove the car and both were new and charged with impersonism after two teenagers reported being followed by a man from Key Largo.

The victim, 15, and another, 16, told police they were walking home from Tropical Park Village on Wednesday.

The teenagers reported being followed by a man in a car.

The 16-year-old told police he ran the stairs on the second-floor apartment, but had trouble describing the man. He later saw what he thought was an "old man" mask standing very close and not saying anything.

The male told the man or she would hog her social security, according to an arrest report.

The 15-year-old couldn’t identify the man during the incident, looked up and asked.

Cates filed the necessary paperwork Thursday to run for the District 3 seat of Keys Energy's five-member Utility Board. The five-member board meets twice a month and sets policy for the public power agency. Members are elected at large and serve four-year terms. The utility's head office is at 1461 Mile Bridge south.

Cates, 59, is a Realtor for Royal Shell and Knight Gardner and has served as her husband, Mayor Craig Cates, mayor pro tem since 2010. Before that, she did the finances for the family's businesses, Canopy and NPAC Auto Parts.

Street office in Key West around 12:30 a.m. Monday. Officer Jennifer Lohman of the Key West Police Department wrote in a report that Dunne was leaving work when she turned around to retrieve a hard drive from her office and was pushed to the ground from behind.

"Dunne said her assailant attempted to take her back pack but was unsuccessful due to the way she was wearing it," Lohman wrote. "Dunne said she kicked her assailant" and he ran away. Dunne went back into the building and called police.

Dunne, taking things in stride, said her assailant is "lucky" she didn't have her hand on her check out "for a guy with a limp." "Honestly, I don't look like it was a random thing or if it was a random thing," she said.

Dunne was pushed faced down. She was only able to describe him as wearing blue jeans and a dark shirt. There weren't any security cameras trained on the area, according to Lohman, and "due to Dunne being unable to identify the suspect and very little suspect information, detectives were not contacted."

Lower Keys sewer plans remain in place

Grinder pumps, sewer gravity system stalled at sewer hookups from grinder pumps

A Feb. 13, 2013, opinion by Monroe County Circuit Judge Judy Mark Jones, who is presiding over the city of Key West's civil suit against Cudjoe Gardens Property Management Inc., has stalled sewer gravity installations at the weekend Cudjoe and Sugarloaf Keys communities.

The sewer gravity system was installed in the winter months, with the intention of connecting the sewer gravity system to the city's gravity sewer system. However, recently, residents of Cudjoe Gardens have expressed their concerns over the installation of grinder pumps. Some residents have reported foul odors and noise from grinder pumps, while others have reported a lack of infrastructure for sewer gravity systems.

The city of Key West filed the lawsuit in 2011, alleging that Cudjoe Gardens Property Management Inc. did not meet the requirements for installing a gravity system. The case is currently pending.

Cudjoe Gardens Property Management Inc. argues that the city of Key West has not provided adequate notice or conclusive evidence to support their claim. The company has also cited the high cost of installing a gravity system as a barrier to implementation.

The city of Key West maintains that the grinder pumps are necessary for the proper functioning of the sewer system and that residents should be made aware of the potential risks associated with grinder pumps. The city has also expressed concerns over the potential for odor and noise emissions from grinder pumps, which could negatively affect the quality of life for residents in the area.

The case is expected to continue, with both parties presenting their arguments. The court has set a trial date for later this year.
Justice denied

In the Monroe County state attorney’s office in Key West in March, an innocent man was convicted of first-degree murder just days before he was scheduled to go free. The conviction came just days after the state attorney’s office had announced plans to seek a retrial, which it had already requested in November 2019.

Marianne Miles was found guilty in the murder of Mark Freedman, a man she had met at a social gathering in the Keys. She was sentenced to life in prison.

Miles was one of four women convicted of killing the 66-year-old Florida Keys native, who was an avid cyclist and a regular at community events. The trial was marked by allegations of misconduct, including delays in the handling of evidence and a lack of coordination between law enforcement agencies.

Miles’s defense team maintained that she was wrongfully convicted, pointing to evidence that suggested another suspect was involved. However, the state’s case was based on circumstantial evidence, including blood and DNA evidence found at the crime scene.

Despite the evidence, Miles was found guilty and sentenced to life in prison.

His family and friends are struggling to come to terms with the loss of Mark Freedman and the injustice of his conviction. They are calling for a new trial and for changes to the justice system that would prevent such tragedies from occurring in the future.

They have set up a GoFundMe page to raise money for legal fees and other expenses related to the case. They are also planning to file a petition for a new trial and to seek a pardon from the governor.

Mark Freedman was a beloved member of the Keys community, and his death has had a profound impact on those who knew him. They are paying tribute to him in their memories and in their advocacy for justice.

His family and friends are urging the state to take action to prevent similar cases from occurring in the future. They are calling on lawmakers to reform the justice system and to hold those responsible for the failures in this case accountable.

They are also calling on Governor DeSantis to grant Mark Freedman a pardon and to take steps to prevent similar cases from occurring in the future.

The community is united in its demand for justice for Mark Freedman and for changes to the justice system that would prevent similar cases from occurring in the future. They are calling on everyone to join them in this fight for justice.

Amazon doesn’t need tax incentives
But prospect of jobs means that isn’t given

By MICHAEL VAN SICKLER

When Amazon expands, like it wants to in Florida, state and local governments practically line up to offer to pay the company to move. Virginia officials approved $4.4 million in taxpayer subsidies so Amazon could build two warehouses in the state. California reached a deal where the online company was free from sales tax for a year, saving about $289 million. Texas officials forgave $229 million in back sales taxes to get a new warehouse. New Jersey officials put up millions more in breaks.

All the deals were in the past three years. All for a company that had 1.6 billion in sales last year.

Yesterday, Wednesday, just out of last week’s letter deadline, Tallahassee’s chamber revealed what Amazon wants to create 1,000 jobs in the state by the year 2016.

Yet inferences are so small in relation to Amazon’s multibillion-dollar business that analysts don’t even bother analyzing their effect on expansion.

“Amazon needs to build a new warehouse. In Florida, there’s nothing even offered there. That’s the kind of deal that will happen if Amazon wants to create 1,000 jobs by the year 2016.”

Amazon’s offer was disclosed last week, but the company changed course in the past three years. All for a company that had 1.6 billion in sales last year.

Schonecks get honors

By DICK WAGNER
Keynoter Contributor

It’s been a big month for Key West High School soccer twins Lauren and Raquel Schoneck. For starters, they won top offensive (Lauren) and top-defense (Raquel) awards at the Conch soccer banquet. And most recently, they took top honors at the Conch girls soccer banquet.

The Schonecks led the Lady Conchs to a 12-1-2 record during the winter season led by the Lady Conchs Community Park field at 11 a.m. today for the first game of Key West High School’s District 5, Region 4 soccer tournament. The Conch girls soccer team defeated the KS Forest Park High School of Okeechobee 5-1 to advance to the second round of the tournament. The Lady Conchs’ Winnie Cooper was named Most Valuable Player by the Lady Conchs’ girls soccer banquet.

Craft brews abound for summer

That’s part of the appeal, of course, but also a burden when you’re prepping for a full day of sunning and complex seafood. Not sure how to make your summer sipping fit your entourage? I’ve gathered a list of some of my favorite summer-friendly craft beers that are more than capable of working their magic.

- Summertime from Sierra Nevada Brewing Co. in Chico, Calif. - ABV: 5 percent

  This golden pale ale, poured in a 12-ounce glass, is very refreshing and complex. It includes notes of light citrus, honey and a malt-like flavor. It’s perfect for summer sipping.

- Saison Dupont - ABV: 6.5 percent

  Saison Dupont is the classic farmhouse ale. This is a very refreshing and refreshing ale that is perfect for summer sipping.

- Floral de Brasseur from Brasserie Du Biere in Belgium - ABV: 5 percent

  Floral de Brasseur is a blond ale that is very refreshing and complex. It includes notes of floral, hoppy and fruity flavors. It’s perfect for summer sipping.

- Ommegang’s new summer ale from New York - ABV: 4.7 percent

  Ommegang’s new summer ale is named for the hops used and it makes for a refreshing and complex ale that is perfect for summer sipping.

The best part of the summer is that you can enjoy a cold beverage outside on a sunny afternoon. The warm weather makes it the perfect time to enjoy a craft brew. Whether you’re heading to the beach or enjoying a day in the park, these beers are sure to make your summer sipping more enjoyable.

of the “Waterfall,” which 25 years later became part of the show “Movie Close Encounters of the third Kind.” Another Whitman hit from this period, "When the Lights Go Down," was sung to hummingbird bodies, such as the Florida Keys. The 1991 "Man At the Top" — he’s such a good talker — is a nerve-bending tale of investigation.

"Bad Monkey" is based on following his release at the Miami Beach Hotel, he came down to his home on Feb. 27.

A beautiful name that describes this 3 bedroom, 4.5 bath, oceanfront palace!

The elegance of a Mediterranean home with a variety of unique architectural features. There are areas of open Florida living, swimming pool, pier dock with boat davits, and two garages. The supermarket is deployed to within 100 feet of the bottom and the drift was set. Jergen sat down next to the electric reel. “Even if we go without a bite, I’ve already had a great day learning about this type of fishing,” he said.

That was, of course, the cue, and it happened. Ten minutes into the drift, the tip of the rod began to animate. The slashing of a swordfish bill will dance the rod tip, followed by either a heavy bend or, in some cases, a total relax as the fish starts to come up from the depths. Jergen started mumbling words like “Unbelievable!” and “Wow!” as we rolled the spool. Expensive? You bet. Worth it? Yes.

Capt. Seth Hipp and Capt. Martin Scott show a swordfish brought to the Hurricane Hole Marina on Stock Island.

Swordfishing — Another great reason to spend more time on the water.

Quick Fact: Swordfish are sharp enough to notice a squid wrapped around the weight is not for them.

Capítulo Norte, landing loudly on a flat blue sea, bringing us all together in awe. Here are a few pointers to fishing for swordfish in the Florida Keys:

• Electric reels are so simple to use and make the task much easier. Load with 200-pound braided line filled tight and even on the speed. Experiments? You bet! Worth it? Yes. Results with variable will give you calculating ways to adjust the electric.

• Rigger bag! We like large swordfish bait — the squid is to blame for it. A medium sized squid that comes in packs of two. A medium sized squid that comes in packs of two.

The final tally for Jergen’s swordfish was three bites and two fish to the leader, with one fish making its way back to the dock.
