ELECTRIFICATION

According to reports this part of the Island will have electricity in the very near future. It is believed that the "light will go on" on November 11, 1961 (St. Martin's Day); we have not been able to confirm this as yet.

We are very pleased however to report that the poles are all up; from Grand Case to the frontier at Cole Bay, and most of the street wiring is completed - The power-house is built at the foot of Grand Case and the generators are already here.
