These and more are the kind of religious fetters that bound and still bind the Negro and the Coloured people of this day.

Some hundred years ago slavery ended and the White man congratulated HIMSELF on HIS great achievement: He had set the slave free. Forgotten was the fact that HE HAD ENSLAVED HIM.

But the ordeal of the Black man was not to end with his emancipation.

To be continued.

A BRIEF SKETCH OF THE NEGRO AND LABOUR
IN THE ANTILLES.

By L.A. Salomons

In refineries, workshops, and all construction fields, the Negroes of the Antilles have proven they can meet any test demanded by this civilization.
Over the last 40 years, Aruba and Cura-cao have brought about this achievement by giving the Negroes the opportunity to master a trade, and in doing this have up-graded themselves.

Today we could look forward to employment in the mother country (Holland).
