Sixth person arrested in connection with shooting

Another suspect is in custody stemming from a shooting incident that spanned more than three days in Sumter County in July.

Jeryan Ford, 25, remained in the Sumter County jail Thursday on two counts each of attempted first-degree murder and conspiracy to commit murder, as well as charges of possession and sale of cocaine and felony theft. His bail amount was unavailable Thursday.

Ford was placed in the Sumter jail Wednesday after being transferred from Indian River County, where he was arrested last week. Sumter sheriff's officials are still looking for another suspect in the case, Patrick Rashawn Mobility.

Ford is the sixth suspect to be placed in the Sumter jail in connection with the shootings which started on July 23 when Tony Warthen, 34, of Webster, was shot in the face after an argument at a popular Fourth Street hangout in Webster.

The next day, Ford, Mobility and Antwan Doss Williams, 24, were accused of firing more than 40 bullets into a home full of people in the 6300 block of County Road 738 in Webster, which left no injuries, according to sheriff's officials, who believe all of the shootings are related.

There was a police chase later that day into a heavily wooded and marshy area in Lake County, where the group jumped out of their vehicles. A search involving more than 75 officers failed to find them.

Williams was arrested Wednesday.

BELLEVIEW man convicted of cooking meth

MILLARD K. IVES | Staff Writer

Apparently a 45-year-old defendant could escape allegations that he threw a methamphetamine concoction, often referred to as “shake and bake,” of a car window as law enforcement closed in on him in Clewiston.

A Lake County Judge Thursday afternoon found Robert Daniel Burnette guilty of several charges, including principal to manufacture meth and possession of meth drug paraphernalia.

The same judge reduced a trafficking charge of meth — that could have brought a minimum sentence of 15 years alone — to attempted possession.

Burnette, of Belleview, could get up to 10 years in prison in the convictions and will be sentenced at a later date.

A key witness against him was Justin William Fathers, 39, of Okeechobee, who was arrested with him in October last year and testified as part of a plea deal on his similar charges.

LEESBURG Undercover drug operation leads to 3 arrests in Sumter

MILLARD K. IVES | Staff Writer

Three people were jailed Wednesday in Sumter County during an undercover drug operation.

According to the Sumter County Sheriff’s Office, 26-year-old Donaul Linnell Bell had agreed to travel from St. Petersburg to Bushnell Wednesday afternoo afternoon to the Wendy’s restaurant on County Road 44 to sell heroin and crack cocaine to a man. Bell, however, didn’t know that man was an undercover agent with the sheriff’s special investigation squad.

Once the drug transaction was complete, Bell was taken into custody without incident and charged with sale of heroin and cocaine, possession of cocaine with intent to sell, keeping a drug shop and driving with a revoked license.

He also was charged with child abuse after it was discovered during SEE DRUGS | A4

CLERMONT woman and 2 men charged with wire fraud, conspiracy

Three people — including a 37-year-old Clermont woman — have been accused of defrauding more than 100 victims out of more than $10 million.

Jenifer E. Hoffman, 41, of Apopka, and Bryan T. Zuiga, 37, of Coldwater, Mich., have been indicted on one count of wire fraud and 11 counts of wire fraud. United States Attorney A. Lee Bentley II stated in a press release that it involved the largest state that was ever wired.

Defence lawyer Morris Caravelli, left, sits beside his client, Robert Borgis, as they listen to the Lake County Jury’s verdict Thursday afternoon.

LEESBURG Enemies beware

TALLAHASSEE If former Florida Gov. Charlie Crist wins his old job back as a Democrat, he could be in a position to seek political revenge against two Republican politicians whom he once counted as friends and now disdain him.

Crist used to call himself a “job Bush Republican,” and Bush campaigned to help Crist get elected governor in 2006.

But Crist, who is in tight race with Gov. Rick Scott, would likely weigh the opportunity to try to destroy Bush or Rubio’s campaign.

“It would be fun. It would be a great story,” said Dan Smith, a University of Florida political science professor.

Florida and its 29 electoral votes — more than 10 percent of the 279 needed to win the White House — are a coveted prize in presidential elections. It’s the largest state that the Democrats have won in the past four elections.

LEESBURG No charges filed in girl’s pool drowning

MILLARD K. IVES | Staff Writer

Citing lack of culpable negligence, Lake County juvenile prosecutors said Thursday they won’t file charges against a 3-year-old girl who apparently climbed into neighbor’s above-ground swimming pool in Leesburg this month as her mother and father were asleep.

According to Hugh Rase, assistant State Attorney, police investigation determined that Jayanna Brown and her 4-year-old brother were supposed to be sleeping the morning of April 24 in their Rosine Drive home as their mother also slept — with both doors and back doors locked.

The apparently told investigators the children were able to push a screen window in their bedroom, climb out and ride their tricycles to the neighbor’s unfenced yard two houses down, where they are sometimes off a tree.

Principal added Jaden said she eventually climbed up the pool ladder and her 4-year-old brother.

Fathers could go either way, as California and Nevada are traditionally Democratic and Texas is solidly Republican. Of the last six presidential elections, Democrats and Republicans have each carried Florida three times, and in the last five the candidate who won Florida became president.

Some observers downplay the impact any single voter or voter group can have in a presidential election, though they can play some role by raising money, helping with campaign infrastructure and public appearances.

For instance, Crist gave Sen. John McCain a big boost in his 2008 presidential bid when he endorsed him days before the primary. McCain’s Florida victory helped him secure the nomination, though he ultimately lost to Barack Obama.

“It’s a huge resource,” said Brian Ballard, a lobbyist who served as McCain’s Florida finance chairman. “It was certainly rare to have.”

Scott played a less important role in Republican nominee Mitt Romney’s 2012 efforts. Specifically, Scott was expecting a tough re-election fight and needed to save his fundraising reserves for his own campaign, said Ballard, who worked for Romney in Florida.

Crist is already parlaying Bush’s remarks into a Southern strategy. He is running ads attacking the Obama administration’s handling of the Royal Caribbean cruise ship Carnival Triumph, which broke down in the Gulf of Mexico during a monthlong voyage. The Obama administration’s response, Crist says, has been “educationally interrupted by ap

Sgt. James Vachon, sheriff’s spokesperson, said the driver of the car sped off, so in the pursuit the patrol car came around a corner, someone in the car reportedly threw a rock and hit the patrol car. Deputies later identified the bottle as a “two-pot,” which is a weapon used to catch the drug by shaking the toxic ingredients. Drug Companies Fear Release of “Jacked Up” Pill

Big Pharma executives are nervous. Analysts expect new natural “Jacked Up” pill could put a huge crimp in sales to men over 50. Pill said to restore strength; energy, metabolism, sex-drive, memory and focus back to health-levels of a 30-year-old man.

It’s hard to believe that in America today, a pill that could change the lives of millions of men is in danger of being yanked from the shelves. And it’s not because Big Drug companies fear losing their profits.

Right now, the pharmaceutical industry is desperately trying to stop shipments of the widely anticipated “Jacked Up” pill. The pill, made for men over 50, was released early last month. Yet, despite Big Pharma’s efforts, sales have already exceeded expectations.

“I’m over 50 and healthy...with a strong body, a healthy sex drive, a clear mind and youthful looks; you aren’t likely to be buying expensive prescription pills”.

Jaw-Dropping Results
The name says it all. The “Jacked Up” pill helps elevate body fat, builds muscle mass, increases energy, improves circulation and mental capacity — and how testosterone levels go to a whopping 15 to 30% are attributed to its effects.

What You Stand to Lose If Big Business Wins
Who would want this new pill stopped? Since the “Jacked Up” pill is so effective, drug companies can’t patent it (like they did with Viagra) and make profits. Plus, if it’s out over 50 and healthy, with a strong body, a healthy sex drive, a clear mind and youthful looks, you aren’t likely to be buying expensive prescription pills. That’s the very reason big business is trying to pull it from the shelves.

How It Works
The “Jacked Up” pill works by reversing the testosterone production in older men (so they stay in their early 20s). This formulation doesn’t force dangerous synthetic testosterone into your body like injectables do. Instead, it works with your body to produce testosterone naturally — and the results have been extraordinary. Men report “FIERCE, STRONG, WITH MORE ENERGY, FOCUS, DRIVE, AND OVERALL INSURGABLE LIBIDO” like you body obtains or feels like it did in the prime of your life.

Evert so slightly, the National Football League is starting to feel pain.

It’s not much. The league can certainly handle it. But politicians and, more to the point, advertisers are reacting to the league’s blundering response to some of its players’ off-field violence.

In Minnesota, Gov. Mark Dayton was quoted as calling Minnesota star running back Adrian Peterson’s actions a “public embarrassment” to his team and state, and saying the Vikings should not have reinstated him until child abuse allegations are resolved.

Peyton, the league’s 2012 Most Valuable Player, faces charges that he used a branch to whip his 4-year-old. He says he was disciplining the boy. What the small child did that stirred his professional football playing father to hit him with a stick and leave a mark has not been explained, nor that there could be an explanation.

California Lt. Gov. Gavin Newsom urged the 49ers to bench defensive lineman Ray McDonald, allowing McDonald to play is a “painful affront to every victim of domestic violence and sends a troubling message.” Newsom and his wife, Jennifer Siebel Newsom, said in a statement.

Coach Jim Harbaugh says he is “waiting for the facts, waiting for the facts.” The Santa Clara County District Attorney’s office has not decided whether to charge McDonald with domestic abuse following his arrest on Aug. 31 for leaving bruises on his pregnant fiancée.

The National Football League can ignore politicians. But it probably took notice when the Raydison hotel chain, a Vikings sponsor, announced it had suspended its advertising after the team reinstated Peterson.

Raydison takes this matter very seriously, particularly in light of our long-standing commitment to the protection of children, the company said. “We are closely following the situation and immediately Raydison is suspending its limited sponsorships with the Minnesota Vikings while we evaluate the facts and circumstances.”

As Harvey Bursch, the official best of the NFL, issued a statement suggesting it is losing patience with the league: “We are not yet satisfied with the league’s handling of behaviors that so clearly go against our own company culture and our moral code. We have shared our concerns and expectations with the league.”

The NFL and Baltimore Ravens did suspend running back Ray Rice, but only after TMZ aired footage showing him in an Atlantic City casino execute knocking out his girlfriend with a single punch.

Commissioner-NFL Commissioner Roger Goodell appointed four women, including a new vice president of social responsibility, to help shape the league’s policies on domestic violence, sexual assault and violence.

The NFL has a great deal to say. It claims to be the top platform for all social issues, by its players. But the league’s actions suggest its definition of zero tolerance is insufficient. What the company tolerate is too much for many advertisers.

In an entry by Daniel Webster called “Duty of American Citizens” there is this: “This lovely land, this glorious liberty, these bequest of their forefathers, the land, this glorious liberty, these bequest of their forefathers, the country to fight with jihadists, it would be well to consider because many of the defectors have for their freedom — religiosity, patriotism, and faith in God and patriotism. As I see it, too many Americans who have gone to fight with jihadists, it would be well to consider because many of the defectors have for their freedom — religiosity, patriotism, and faith in God and patriotism. More than a hundred Americans who have gone to fight with jihadists, it would be well to consider because many of the defectors have for their freedom — religiosity, patriotism, and faith in God and patriotism. We sustain.”

Our fathers from being British or American, we must first agree on what they are. Since the turbulent ’60s, some Americans have chosen to ignore, even oppose, values taught to their forefathers. These men begin with personal responsibility, hard work, capitalism, self-reliance, faith in God and patriotism.

As it is, too many students pay little heed to the Pledge of Allegiance. Few will serve in the military, or feel compelled to “give back” to their country as did those who fought and died for freedom.

What we used to teach is no longer taught in many of the defectors have for their freedom — religiosity, patriotism, and faith in God and patriotism. The entire nation. More than a century ago, Webster concludes: “But what we used to teach is no longer taught in many of the defectors have for their freedom — religiosity, patriotism, and faith in God and patriotism. For the future generations we used to teach, or risk losing not only the present, but also the entire nation.”

WHY DO AMERICANS HATE AMERICA?

Cal Thomas

Before some hand-wringing over British citizens who have chosen to fight with ISH, Prime Minister David Cameron said he thinks one reason for the defection is that too many of the defectors have forgotten what it means to be British. As a means of fighting the radicalization of young people, he wants all of Britain’s schools to again teach “British values.”

It is a disastrous approach. We would do well to consider because an unknown number of Americans (FBI Director James Comey says he doesn’t have a precise number because they are “hard to track”) have abandoned their country to fight with jihadists.

In order to teach values, whether British or American, we must first agree on what they are. Since the turbulent ’60s, some Americans have chosen to ignore, even oppose, values taught to their forefathers. These men begin with personal responsibility, hard work, capitalism, self-reliance, faith in God and patriotism.

as lands, and seas, and skies to civilized man, without society, without knowledge, without morals, without religious culture? And how can these be enjoyed in all their extent, and all their excellence, but under the protection of wise institutions and a free government?”

Who decided these virtues were outdated and no longer worth teaching in new generations, especially “millenials,” who seemed so cynical about them? Even conservatives, who still valued those virtues in theory, were doing less in practice to affirm them. Too many have their children in public schools that challenge their beliefs. Too many conservative families are breaking up, instilling conditional love in their children.

As Peter Beinart wrote in last February’s National Journal, “The various attributes conservatives say make America special — religiosity, patriotism, and morality — are ones they’ve inadverently undermined. In it any wonder millennials are less impressed with their country?”

In a letter to his wife, Abi, gay, John Adams wrote to “Phryne.” You will never know how much it cost the present Generation to preserve your Freedom. I hope you will make good use of it. If you do not, I shall repent Heaven, that I ever took half the Pains to preserve it.”

If we could question those Americans who have gone to fight with jihadis, it would be interesting to see what they were taught in school and how they came to hate America so much. Meanwhile, we had better get back to teaching the current and future generations what we used to teach, or risk losing not only the present, but also the entire nation.”

First Academy ready for key test against Windermere Prep

FRANK JOLLEY | Staff Writer

The Villages — First Academy of Leesburg’s first road trip of the regular season will be its biggest of the season.

The Eagles traveled into west Orange County today for a late afternoon game against Sunshine State Athletic Conference rival Windermere Prep in a matchup of undefeated teams. Windermere Prep will likely be looking for revenge after last season’s 46-20 loss to Sleepy Hollow Sports Complex. In that game, First Academy of Leesburg standouts Byron Mason and Kyle Fox compiled nearly 500 yards of total offense while playing multiple positions on both sides of the ball. Mason also returned kicks against the Lakers.

But, Eagles coach Sheldon Walker is quick to point out that Mason is no longer part of the program, having graduated in the spring. Nonetheless, Walker believes his team still has the talent to get out of Windermere with a win. “There’s a lot of talent on this team,” Walker said. “I’ve been blessed to have a great coaching staff to work with our kids and we have players who are willing to make the sacrifices they need to make in order to win. We don’t have as many players to rely on Cooper all over the state, but the Ga- tors (2-0, 1-0 SEC) face third-ranked Alabama (3-0, 0-0), which opened as a 1 1/2-point favorite. “I’m excited about the matchup,” Hargreaves said. “Everybody knows what’s coming. I’m going to be covering him and I’m excited about it.”

A 5-foot-11 sopho- more from Tampa, Hargreaves emerged as a standout cornerback last year. He started the final 10 games, finishing with three interceptions, 13 pass-breakups and countless accolades. He was on just about every freshman All-American team out there and opened this season with even more hype.

Not only was he com- pared to former Florida standout cornerbacks, but he was widely considered to be a shutdown corner.

Danny Trevathan returns to practice after breaking leg

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. — Former Leesburg standout Danny Trevathan is back with the Denver Broncos after missing time with a broken foot. The linebacker made his first practice appearance since Aug. 12.

“I felt good. Didn’t feel too dead at the end. Didn’t throw up,” Trevathan said. “I’ve been blessed to have a great coach and a great program, having been injured in a rollover accident.

The Villages’ Kyle Fox races to an overall win at the Buffalo Invitational

FOX ACHIEVED THAT GOAL ON SATURDAY. After placing third in this year’s race, Fox achieved that goal with a first-place finish at the Buffalo Invitational Thursday for Kyle Fox.

As a freshman at last year’s Buffalo Invitational, Fox set out a goal to finish first at this year’s race. Fox achieved that goal with a first-place finish of 17:19.7 to lead The Villages to a fifth-place finish at Thursday’s Buffalo Invitational at The Villages Polo Club. It’s all about the team obviously in cross country, but I did just want to get out and get the win,” Fox said. “I’ve been in second and third a few races, never got a first. It was nice coming here and running a good race. It wasn’t my fastest, but it was smart.”

TALLAHASSEE — Welcome Sean Maguire to big-time college football.

Florida State’s little-known redshirt sophomore will start the first game of his college career on national television, against former Florida quarterback and Heisman Trophy winner Tim Tebow.

And if that wasn’t enough on his plate, the winner of the Clemson-Florida game has played in the ACC title game the last five years.

Bob Murray said the Eagles' defense is active with the ball, with third-year linebacker Blake Sims a reliable, experienced quarterback for Coop. He's shown significant progress this season — largely because he's handling adversity well. He's also shown a lot more poise and composure in the pocket, and his deep throws have been more accurate.

The Lakers' defense has been solid all year, allowing just 17 points per game and forcing 18 turnovers. They've also scored 18 points in two games.

Mount Dora High School

Mount Dora is hungry to put an end to the same thing that has happened in the last two games — a win in its first loss. The Hurricanes were able to do that against Leesburg last Friday, pushing their winning streak to three against the Tigers and jumping over 50 points. The Hurricanes have stepped up their game this season and allowing just over 15 points a game. Mount Dora has dropped its first two games of the season, 34-17 to Leesburg High School in its first loss. The Hurricanes are averaging nearly 33 points a game this season and allowing just over 15 points. Mount Dora has stepped up its game under first-year coach Bull Maresco. This is the last year the Hurricanes will play in the Lake Region has good athletes, but we are really playing well in all phases. We can’t let our kids get complacent about being at home. If Leesburg can protect the ball and play better defense against the juggernaut class of 3A in 2014, they will be in the mix for three straight years. The Hurricanes have an experienced wide receiver and running back division on offense. Mount Dora has a strong running game and a tough defense in 2014. The Hurricanes are averaging over 400 points a game and allowing just over 15 points a game. The defense has struggled the last two weeks, giving up 30 points to South Lake and Lake Minneola. The Buccaneers have a total of 76 points (38 ppg.) in last year’s match against the Minneola. The Hurricanes are averaging 13 points a game and allowing a total of 40 points a game. The Minneola average 13 points a game and allowing 13 points a game. The Minneola have outscored its opponents 70-41. In his first game as head coach, Kevin Evans is the team’s top rusher with 387 yards and three touchdowns. He has three games. He has yet to rush for a touchdown. Mount Dora’s high-powered offense scored 144 points, while allowing 50. South Lake quarterback Nick Garland has thrown for 505 yards with four touchdowns in three games. He has two point completions of at least 50 yards. His passing completion percentage in the teams’ top shutout with 437 yards and six touchdowns, followed by Champions Gate’s start Kevin Meade. Police: Cardinals RB Dwyer head-butted wife

PHOENIX — Arizona Cardinals running back Jonathan Dwyer was arrested Wednesday on aggravated assault charges in connection with a domestic dispute involving his wife. Dwyer was taken into custody at the Cardinals’ practice facility and headquar ters in Tempe. He spent a night in jail and made a brief court appearance before being released on a $2,000 bond early Thursday.

The arrest came at a time when the NFL and its commissioner are under fire over a series of violent off-the-field incidents involving some of the league’s star players, including Ray Rice, Adrian Peterson and Greg Hardy.

The NFL has said the incident was under investigation.

On Thursday, the Cardinals placed Dwyer on the reserve/non-football illness list. A person with knowledge of the situation said Dwyer had signed a one-year, $750,000 contract right away, gaining 1,512 yards from scrimmage in four seasons, scoring a touchdown during Sunday’s game against the Saints in his first season with Arizona.

The arrest came at a time when the NFL and its commissioner are under investigation in two altercations that occurred on July 21 and 22 at his Phoenix residence. Police said Dwyer had been at the residence before the Cardinals reported to training camp. His wife left the scene after the altercations, but came forward a week ago after Dwyer apparently sent suicidal text messages including a photo of a knife.

In the first encounter, police say Dwyer attempted to kiss and dern his wife, but she refused. Someone who heard the argument reported what they saw to police, who showed up at the apartment but did not make an arrest. Dwyer had a, a and said the woman had not made the reason for the illness designation public.

The keeper of the egg – who is guarding the hen house?

A few years ago I wrote a column about the keeper of the egg. It was one of those columns that resonated with mothers and grandparents who made copies of it for their daughters and granddaughters. One grandparent wrote me that she had saved the column to give her grandchildren when they became teen-agers and start to wonder if in hopes that it would help young women to understand their roles in the future of their coun- try and our human race as the keeper of the egg.

I would like to dedicate this column to young teenage girls who still believe it is their responsibility to do their job and keep a watchful eye over their young. The job of parenting has become a more important and difficult challenge today than it has ever been. Our young people today are more informed, more knowledgeable, and more sophisticated than in previous generations.

We like to think that the schools are our best assis- tants in raising our chil- dren to be responsible adults and good citizens. But today schools and parents are not always on the same page. Sometimes schools think they should be raised by a set of standards dictated by an impersonal curriculum instead of by living with a family, where many parents teach their children to be guided by moral stan- dards. Schools, thinking this is naive, teach the same chil- dren the consequences of immoral actions to suit their suits and parental authority is sometimes nullified.

One of my sons-in-law, the father of a daughter and a son, argued that “my keeper of the egg” column belonged to the role of fathers and young men. He felt that young men are just as responsible themselves to be the first defender of our republic.

The keeper of the egg is one who must say no when it comes to putting herself in a compromising situation. My friends and I were discussing our experi- ences when we were young. We were taught the old-fashioned notion that a young woman should remain a virgin until marriage. Af- ter marriage, if we were not financially ready to begin a family, we did not have many options and the ones we had were not fail-safe. We laughed about our ignorance, inexperience and clumsiness and our unsuccessful attempts to prevent that first pregnancy. I don’t believe young women have changed so much since our generation. There certainly was promise in those days just as there is to- day. A child born out of mar- riage today is accepted lov- ingly by most families, as it should be, but parenting has never been an easy job in the best of circumstances and a child born outside of a loving relationship is especially dif- ficult for a young mother.

The keeper of the egg has an important responsibility that is no different than it ever was. Teenage girls and young women have a very impor- tant role to play in the form- ing of our future generations. Today’s women are raising babies well into their 20s, so waiting for a more convenient time is no longer a problem. I don’t believe a young woman can postpone motherhood. Parents who are raising their young- ests are what this old world needs. Parents who have life experiences must be prepared to raise a child.

Responsible parenting will never go out of style. I must confess my first thoughts about who is re- sponsible for that pest, un- developed ovum. Parents of girls must cherish them and teach them to understand their importance as the mothers of the next gen- eration. Young men should also understand the impor- tance of their relationships with the young women they love.

Civilians have always opposed motherhood. Remember Sarah, the moth- er of Isaiah, Elizabeth, the mother of John the Bat- tist, and of course Mary, the mother of Jesus? Most famous men revere their mothers and some who aren’t so famous do as well. “The hand that rocks the cradle rules the world,” and young women should be cherished as the mothers of our next generation.

Young women should un- derstand that when they play their role, they will have the most important asset and res- ponsibility, as well as their father’s, in the future of their country. They have the abil- ity to control who will popu- late the world of the future.

A Culver's restaurant and a Panda Express are in the works for Clermont.

The site plan for a 3,654-square-foot Culver's restaurant has been approved for the southeast corner of U.S. Highway 27 and Johns Lake Road near Wal-Mart, according to Clermont's Planning Manager Curt Henschel. The target opening for the Culver's in Clermont is in 2015, according to Paul Pitas, the company's director of public relations and Communications. There are no existing Culver's in Central Florida. Culver's signature products are its custards and "Butter-Burgers," which are on a buttered bun, according to Pitas. Culver's, which was started in Wisconsin in 1984, has restaurants in 22 states with the heaviest concentration of restaurants in the north Midwest, Pitas said.

"It's kind of like getting the first Wi-Fi," Clermont Economic Development Director James Hitt said. "People in different states look for those connections to their past or their relatives and as soon as something like this comes in it puts us on the map for a location to come to." South Lake Chamber of Commerce President Ray Fratello noted the nearby residential population. "It's going to be a very, very close restaurant to a lot of population that is residential and with Walmart right there, as obviously as a magnet and a major destination, there's going to be a lot of traffic coming through there," San Fratello said. Hitt said the Panda Express restaurant would be near the I-4 Wholesale Club and IHOP by 27 and Steve's Road. The only existing Panda Express in Lake or Sumter counties is in Lady Lake, and its menu includes items like honey sesame chicken, orange chicken, grilled teriyaki chicken, broccoli beef, and egg rolls, according to its website. "We've really diversified our possible choices for eateries in south Lake particularly the Clermont area," San Fratello said. Panda Restaurant Group confirmed they will have a location in Clermont by the end of 2015.

NEW YORK — UPS will hire up to 95,000. Kohl's plans to take on 67,000. FedEx 50,000. Wal-Mart will add 60,000. One after the other, a flurry of major U.S. retail and transportation companies announced sharp increases this week in the number of temporary workers they plan to hire for the holiday season. Collective hiring plans reflect another wave of major U.S. retailers, says Bernard Baumohl, chief global economist at the Economic Outplacement consultancy, predicts retail sales will add more than 800,000 seasonal workers for the October-through-December period. Such hiring last topped that figure in 1999, when stores added 845,500 temporary workers. It credits brightening confidence among consumers. "The last two years saw holiday hiring return to pre-recession levels," said John Challenger, CEO of the Chicago-based outplacement firm. "This year, we could see hiring return to levels not seen since the height of the dot.com boom... There are more people who are sure about their spending." The outlook for job and income growth have both improved, says Bernard Baumohl, chief global economist at the Economic Outplacement Group.
Economic Indicator

Economic indicators are a crucial element for investors, as they can provide insights into the future health of the US economy. According to ANZ economists, the Conference Board’s index of leading indicators rose by 0.3% in August, following a 0.1% increase in July. This increase suggests that the economy is poised for continued growth. The index, which is composed of a number of economic indicators, is designed to anticipate economic changes three to six months in advance. The latest reading is due out today.

Consider using a plumbing service if you experience slow drains in your home. Here are some tips that might help:

1. Use a plunger: This can be effective if the clog is not too severe.
2. Hot water: Running hot water can help loosen the clog.
3. Baking soda and vinegar: Mix baking soda and vinegar together, wait for a few minutes, and flush with hot water.
4. Plunging: If the above methods don't work, try plunging the drain.
5. Calling a professional: If the clog persists, it might be best to call a professional plumber.

Dear Angie:

Why does my bathroom sink drain so slowly? I removed the piping below and it was clear. Meanwhile, the tub and toilet drain normally. Also, how much could it cost to repair the sink drain problem?

— LOW, LEXANA, MICHIGAN

Dear Tony: It’s quite likely you are experiencing a partial clog composed of hair and soap scum, but there are other possible causes, including:

- Old piping deteriorating from within
- An object that went down the drain and is stuck in the pipe
- A problem with your main drain line, such as clogging

When we posed your plight to several plumbers who’ve earned high ratings from Angie’s List members, they said a hair clog was the likely culprit.

One described how from shaving or beard-trimming goes down the drain, becomes coated in hair, and forms bird-nest-like scoops that trap soap bits and other items.

The pros say only an on-site inspection can determine for certain the cause of a slow or stopped sink drain.
