CHANGING TIMES and the Growth of MOPH

CHANGE IS COMING whether we like it or not. We have to adapt to it or face the consequences. Since the Internet landed in our culture in 1993 our country has seen more change driven by technology than in the previous 200 years. Google, Facebook, Apple and Amazon together are valued at over $3.2 trillion. Apple has broken a record by becoming the first corporation in world history to be valued at over $1 trillion and is now the largest corporation on Earth. Amazon is close behind. Google, alone, is worth more than the big three airlines, the big three auto corporations, McDonald’s, Coke and Pepsi Worldwide, IBM, the four big TV networks, eBay, Yahoo and AOL combined. One-third of all people on the planet are on Facebook.

The average age of the CEOs of these four companies is 43.5 years. These young executives are Iraq War-era people. They were in their impressionable mid-20s during the terrorist attack on 9/11. These CEOs have lived with war all of their adult lives, like we have. Most are liberal and hate war and the politics of war. But they love us. They love the combat-wounded military that protects the very ground on which they have built their companies. They don’t hold us accountable for any war, popular or not.

Why aren’t we talking to these people? Not just the four giants but the top 20 corporations in America. Well, we are, starting now. We’ve been meeting with large, branded corporations, high net worth individuals, venture capital companies and both profit and non-profit funding organizations. We are putting them in the pipeline. By the time this Purple Heart Magazine reaches you we will have announced early funds that are coming out of the end of the pipeline. There will be more.

The headquarters staff is intact without one resignation. We have added staff, funding and direction to the soul of the MOPH, the service program. We are gearing up our service program for an expected increase in claims in 2020 in the aftermath of the surge in Iraq and Afghanistan. We are forging working strategic relationships with other U.S. service programs and raising the funds to allow strong functions, growth and stability to the Order. An announcement is soon coming.

I have had meetings with several TV networks in New York that will be our distribution partners in our national TV outreach, promoting our legacy program in TV households across America, led by major celebrities. This will take seven months to establish. The revenue and public relation benefits will present enduring stability to the Order.

I’ve established a Post-Vietnam Recruiting Committee. This very important committee will develop a strategy and tactics that will bolster our membership. Only 10 percent of the Purple Heart recipients in the U.S. are members of the MOPH. I see this as a tremendous opportunity. Very soon the committee will publish its plan and expected results. Until now, the Order has been shrinking.

“Come gather around people wherever you roam and admit the waters around you have grown and accept that soon you’ll be drenched to the bone and you better start swimming or you’ll sink like a stone for the times they are a changin’.” —Bob Dylan

We had 1,000 new members last year but 1,200 died. We will end that membership decline. You will witness growth.

The MOPH deserves a much higher level of success than we have experienced in the past. We are moving forward. We are unique in our blood brotherhood and sisterhood. We shed our blood for America.

We will pull together to stabilize and glorify our beloved MOPH. *
I WOULD LIKE TO THANK YOU for your vote of confidence, and the opportunity to serve you. Together we will continue to grow the MOPH philosophy of “helping our veterans and their families, and never forgetting our fallen heroes and the families they left behind.” One of my goals this year is to assure that all department and active chapters receive a life membership rebate check. This will take a collective effort by the region, department and chapter commanders. Working together we can achieve this goal. Another goal is to use the internet as a tool to disseminate information to our Patriots in a positive manner that is informative, factual and educational. With help from all six region commanders, John Flener will develop web pages. The goal is to give the user, with just a click of a button, easy access to current and accurate information, informing them of activities transpiring in each region.

The tracker program on the MOPH website is a great tool to gather information on what reports have been submitted to national headquarters by regions, departments and chapters. It also allows the user to print a bad address report. Bad addresses cost our organization thousands of dollars each year, and can be eliminated if each chapter attempts to communicate with these members and determine their status. This program will give the user, depending on their access level, an overview of the members of the order, how the departments are operating, which chapters are active and may need some support or assistance, or possibly need to be closed. Submitting all requires reports to national headquarters (election report, finance report, 990 and life membership report) to be on time, with accurate information and proper signatures. This is critical to the survival of the Order. The reports are just one part of the puzzle that helps the Order maintain their nonprofit status. These reports are also used to determine the department delegate counts at the national convention, and life membership rebate checks that are issued to each qualifying department and chapter. These checks can be used to fund programs at the department and chapter levels to assist veterans and their families.

It is important that each department and chapter adjutant have a current copy of the key filing dates report. To obtain a copy of the report due dates: (1) go to the MOPH web home page, www.mophhq.org (2) select forms, (3) select key filing dates, and (4) print a copy for your records.

I had the opportunity to read a book, Shackleton’s Way: Leadership Lessons from the Great Antarctic Explorer, by Margot Morrell and Stephanie Capparell, which I was recently given by Commander Doug Greenlaw at the 2018 national convention. There were some interesting statements in the book about surviving a crisis that we need to consider as we move through the next year. Following are some insightful quotations from the book.

1. “Let go of the past. Don’t waste time or energy regretting past mistakes, or fretting over what you cannot change.”
2. “Don’t be drawn into a public dispute; rather engage in respectful competition. You may need their cooperation in the future.”
3. “Never insist on reaching a goal at any cost. It must be achieved at a reasonable expense and undue hardship.”
FIRST, I’D LIKE TO SAY HOW HONORED I am to have been appointed as the national chaplain for the Military Order of the Purple Heart. I will do my best to continue the legacy established by the previous national chaplains and do what is beneficial for the MOPH and its Patriots. As I have always practiced, I will, to the best of my ability, “do the right thing for the right reason and at the right time.”

That being said, now is the time to do the right thing in the Order. We must stop all this bickering and backbiting among ourselves, stop putting out false rumors by email, etc., and start striving to work together for the good of the Order and to better our organization. This will help us all to do our best for each other and accomplish the goals set for our Patriots’ benefit. How can our national leadership team work to help veterans nationwide if they are constantly having to defend their actions and put out the little fires of discontent? The time to begin is now, so let’s work together and be sure our endeavors are pleasing to the Lord (Ecc. 9:10: whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might).

If we can put our differences aside and work together for the good of the Order by supporting our national leadership to ensure that the legacy of the Order will continue, we can accomplish much as we’ve done in the past.

May God bless as we pray for our nation and our commander and all of the MOPH leadership. If you have any needs or prayer requests please feel free to contact me. I am here to serve. *

AS WE THINK ABOUT THOSE WHO HAVE LOST SO MUCH (their homes, valuables, schools, lives and businesses) as a result of Hurricane Florence and Michael, we hope that every one that is still displaced knows that we are here to help in so many ways. As the MOPH and all its members send money and supplies to the ones that have been so devastated and have lost everything from the rain, wind, and floods, we ask everyone to think about them and do what you can to help. We have one thing in common; we shed blood for our country and we will work together. Let us help bring them comfort as they rebuild their homes, schools, and businesses and put their lives back together. Let all members find comfort in knowing we are standing with them to help. God Bless our Country and the Military Order of the Purple Heart.

4. “Be bold in vision and careful in planning. Dare to try something new, but be meticulous in your proposal, to give your idea a good chance of succeeding.”

5. “Let all the people involved in the crisis participate in the solution.”

6. “Give constant feedback on performance; it helps speed up the process.”

7. “Be patient. Sometimes the best course of action is to do nothing, but watch and wait.”

8. “Go-for-broke risks become more acceptable as options narrow. Sometimes, the potential rewards at the end of a daring venture justify the risk of suffering a spectacular failure.”

If you get a copy of this book you will find that it is full of informative and insightful topics from team building to crisis management that can be used in building a successful organization.

Again, thank you for the opportunity you have given me to serve you and the Order as the National Jr. Vice Commander. *

Region II Preps for a Busy 2019

I would also like to thank the Region II department commanders for showing confidence in me to lead. I look forward to serving the region to the best of my ability and working with the department and chapter commanders.

There are 11 departments and 108 chapters in the region; 26 of these are delinquent chapters. My goal is to work with commanders to reduce the number of delinquent chapters by either consolidating, dissolving or reconstructing the existing chapters.

The region has 9,929 members. We need to try to meet a goal of 200 new members or better in the coming year.

I would like to see the first responder program kept alive. I realize that this puts a financial burden on the departments and chapters furnishing plaques to police officers and firemen wounded/injured or killed in the line of duty, but it is definitely a worthy cause and shines a positive light on MOPH in the community.

The sad fact is a lot of what we want to do costs money, so let’s get creative and see if we can remedy some of our financial short falls. Any ideas are welcome. All in all, it’s for the good of the Order.

I feel we should show support by volunteering and donating financial aid for our state-run veterans nursing homes and cemeteries as well as showing support for VA-run hospitals and clinics.

I am proud to be a member of the MOPH, no matter how painful it was to qualify (ouch!). I know you are too. ♡

I am pleased to inform you that MOPH has had several legislative victories over the past few months. Here are some of the highlights:

In May, Congress passed the VA MISSION Act. This comprehensive legislation consolidated all non-VA care programs, including the Choice Program, into a single Veterans Community Care Program, while also providing additional resources to build internal VA capacity. Equally important, this bill accomplished the long-standing MOPH goal of finally expanding the VA Caregiver Program to veterans of all eras.

In August, the FY 2019 National Defense Authorization Act became law. It included the language of the Purple Heart and Disabled Veterans Equal Access Act, a bill that was strongly supported by MOPH, which will authorize all disabled veterans, all Purple Heart recipients, regardless of disability rating, and their eligible caregivers to shop at on-base military exchanges and commissaries, beginning in January 2020. It also authorized Space Available (Space-A) travel for all veterans with a permanent service-connected disability rated as total.

In addition, for the second year in a row, the U.S. Senate unanimously passed a resolution, designating August 7 as National Purple Heart Recognition Day. This was followed by an official message from President Trump, commemorating National Purple Heart Day this year.

And in September, the 2019 Defense Appropriations Act finally eliminated death gratuity payment delays in the event that a service member dies during a government shutdown. This means that never again will congressional gridlock prevent grieving military families from getting the financial assistance they need and deserve.

While these accomplishments are significant, there is still more to do before the end of the 115th Congress. MOPH will continue to push for the passage of the National Purple Heart Hall of Honor Commemorative Coin Act, the Purple Heart Preservation Act to prevent memorabilia dealers from profiting from the sale of Purple Heart Medals, and legislation to extend the waiver of the VA Home Loan funding fee to active duty Purple Heart recipients. Please be on the lookout for more information regarding these important bills.

As always, I would like to thank all of you for your support, and I look forward to our continued success in the future.

EDUCATION AND opportunity. For many, the two go hand in hand and are part of the very freedoms for which our members fought and sacrificed. For some though, and for a variety of reasons, education and opportunity have remained elusive. This is where the MOPH Scholarship Program comes into play, awarding approximately 80 scholarships to Purple Heart recipients and their spouses, children and grandchildren each year. The scholarships provided through the MOPH open the door to opportunities for our fellow Purple Heart recipients and their family members, like Bob Fields and his grandson Adam.

Bob Fields earned his Purple Heart serving in the 1st Air Cavalry Division during the Vietnam War. And Bob’s dedication to serving his country didn’t end when he left the military. He returned home to the city of Joplin, Missouri, where his grandson Adam would be born, and became a city land surveyor.

Bob was more like a father figure to Adam. As a young boy, Adam remembers taking long walks with Bob. His grandpa would often take him to see the construction sites where he was working, and Adam enjoyed helping his grandpa with his surveying.

Those early memories spurred Adam’s interest in construction. Soon, Adam was continuing his grandfather’s commitment to civil service, first by doing volunteer construction work for a charity that builds homes for the needy, then by pursuing a civil engineering degree.

Adam worked hard, and the scholarships he earned supported his education at Missouri University of Science and Technology. Still, he found himself out of funding with one year left before he finished his degree.

With support from our membership, and from gifts to the Purple Heart Foundation, we’re able to offer scholarships to our members, and their spouses, children and grandchildren. Thanks to Bob’s service and membership, Adam was eligible to apply for one of the 80 competitive scholarships that were awarded this year. And through his hard work, he won a scholarship that will allow him to complete his degree this spring.

Adam will be the first member of the Fields family to finish a four-year college degree, and Bob is incredibly proud of him. Your support of these scholarships means the world to members like Bob and to their family members. “You are truly helping change the lives of others,” says Adam. “You help students to not only begin college, but finish college. I could not have completed college without this help.”

After he graduates, Adam hopes to get a job working on our great country’s infrastructure. And when Bob watches Adam receive his diploma, he’ll know that his sacrifices for America helped make this moment possible.

“Thank you for helping me make my grandfather proud.” —Adam Fields, MOPH Scholarship Award Recipient
Veterans are the core of America. They protect us from danger on land, air and sea. Veterans give their lives and limbs for America. They have also allowed us to have the rights that we have today, such as freedom of speech and religion.

Veterans remind us of the freedom that we often take for granted. They have fought for our country and our independence. They fight for freedom and they sacrifice their lives for citizens of America. Veterans have given Americans opportunities that no other country has.

To be a veteran, you must have bravery and courage as well as a love for your country. Being a veteran takes sacrifice, and you must be willing to do anything for your country.

A veteran is someone who will defend American until the day they die. Veterans have and will protect our past, present and future. Veterans believe that freedom is worth dying for. They will protect this land at any cost. They will leave their families to risk their lives if it means that they can keep their freedom.

Being a veteran is both physically and mentally demanding. While some veterans may show a clear sign of service, such as a missing limb, other veterans may have scars that can’t be seen. Many veterans suffer from PTSD due to their prolonged exposure to combat. These veterans may have symptoms such as insomnia or self-destructive behavior.

Veterans are the most important part of America. A famous news reporter, Elmer Davis, once said, “This nation will remain the land of the free so long as it is the home of the brave.”

Without veterans, we would not have the freedom we have today. Without veterans, there would be no United States of America.

The essay was written for the National Elks' Americanism Essay on why veterans are important to America. Kyleigh won second place in the nation.
This Day in History: November 11

World War I Ends

AT THE 11TH HOUR ON THE 11TH DAY of the 11th month of 1918, the Great War ends. At 5 a.m. that morning, Germany, bereft of manpower and supplies and faced with imminent invasion, signed an armistice agreement with the Allies in a railroad car outside Compiègne, France. The First World War left nine million soldiers dead and 21 million wounded, with Germany, Russia, Austria-Hungary, France and Great Britain each losing nearly a million or more lives. In addition, at least five million civilians died from disease, starvation or exposure.

For the most part, the people of Europe greeted the outbreak of war with jubilation. Most patriotically assumed that their country would be victorious within months. Of the initial belligerents, Germany was most prepared for the outbreak of hostilities, and its military leaders had formatted a sophisticated military strategy known as the “Schlieffen Plan,” which envisioned the conquest of France through a great arcing offensive through Belgium and into northern France. Russia, slow to mobilize, was to be kept occupied by Austro-Hungarian forces while Germany attacked France.

The Schlieffen Plan was nearly successful, but in early September the French rallied and halted the German advance at the bloody Battle of the Marne near Paris. By the end of 1914, well over a million soldiers of various nationalities had been killed on the battlefields of Europe, and neither for the Allies nor the Central Powers was a final victory in sight. On the western front—the battle line that stretched across northern France and Belgium—the combatants settled down in the trenches for a terrible war of attrition.

In 1915, the Allies attempted to break the stalemate with an amphibious invasion of Turkey, which had joined the Central Powers in October 1914, but after heavy bloodshed the Allies were forced to retreat in early 1916. The year 1916 saw great offensives by Germany and Britain along the western front, but neither side accomplished a decisive victory. In the east, Germany was more successful, and the disorganized Russian army suffered terrible losses, spurring the outbreak of the Russian Revolution in 1917. By the end of 1917, the Bolsheviks had seized power in Russia and immediately set about negotiating peace with Germany. In 1918, the infusion of American troops and resources into the western front finally tipped the scale in the Allies’ favor. Germany signed an armistice agreement with the Allies on November 11, 1918.

World War I was known as the “war to end all wars” because of the great slaughter and destruction it caused. Unfortunately, the peace treaty that officially ended the conflict—the Treaty of Versailles of 1919—forced punitive terms on Germany that destabilized Europe and laid the groundwork for World War II.

Dedication of the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier

Exactly three years after the end of World War I, the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier is dedicated at Arlington Cemetery in Virginia during an Armistice Day ceremony presided over by President Warren G. Harding.

Two days before, an unknown American soldier, who had fallen somewhere on a World War I battlefield, arrived at the nation’s capital from a military cemetery in France. On Armistice Day, in the presence of President Harding and other government, military and international dignitaries, the unknown soldier was buried with highest honors beside the Memorial Amphitheater. As the soldier was lowered to his final resting place, a two-inch layer of soil brought from France was placed below his coffin so that he might rest forever atop the earth on which he died.

The Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at Arlington National Cemetery stands atop a hill overlooking Washington, D.C. Congress approved the burial of an unidentified American soldier from World War I in the plaza of the new Memorial Amphitheater.

The Tomb of the Unknown Soldier is considered the most hallowed grave at Arlington Cemetery, America’s most sacred military cemetery. The tombstone itself, designed by sculptor Thomas Hudson Jones, was not completed until 1932.

The white marble sarcophagus has a flat-faced form and is relieved at the corners and along the sides by neoclassic pilasters, or columns, set into the surface. Sculpted into the east panel, which faces Washington, D.C., are three Greek figures representing Peace, Victory and Valor. The six wreaths, three sculpted on each side, represent the six major campaigns of World War I. Inscribed on the back of the Tomb are the words:

Here rests in honored glory an American soldier known but to God

The Tomb sarcophagus was placed above the grave of the Unknown Soldier of World War I. West of the World War I Unknown are the crypts of unknowns from World War II, Korea and Vietnam. Those three graves are marked with white marble slabs flush with the plaza. The tomb was put under permanent guard by special military sentinels from the 3rd U.S. Infantry Regiment (The Old Guard), headquartered at Fort Myer, Virginia.

In 1998, a Vietnam War unknown, who was buried at the tomb for 14 years, was disinterred from the Tomb after DNA testing indicated his identity. Air Force 1st Lt. Michael Joseph Blassie, who was shot down near An Loc, Vietnam, in 1972 was returned to his hometown of St. Louis, Missouri, and was buried with military honors, including an F-15 jet “missing man” flyover and a lone bugler sounding taps.

It has been decided that the crypt that contained the remains of the Vietnam Unknown will remain vacant. The crypt cover has been replaced with one that has the inscription “Honoring and Keeping Faith with America’s Missing Servicemen, 1958-1975.”

MORE THAN A CENTURY AGO, Perry Loyd found his life and country at a crossroads. Loyd was training to become a soldier in what was then known as Camp Jackson, working toward becoming a soldier for a country that roundly despised him. When the United States declared war on Germany in April 1917, it was decided that there was no more room for Loyd and other African-Americans in the armed forces, claiming quotas had been met.

“At this time in history, existing all-black Army regiments were not allowed to fight in combat roles overseas,” said Loyd’s grandson, Perry James, a guest speaker at a breakfast for military retirees July 26 at Fort Jackson’s NCO Club. “They were instead diffused in territories throughout the United States.”

World War I proved to be a turning point for freedom, citizenship and self-determination for African-Americans, James said. “They envisioned themselves as torchbearers for democracy,” Perry said, and the denial of combat roles prompted a huge backlash.

The U.S. Department of War relented to a certain degree, creating two combat divisions of African-American Soldiers in 1917: 92nd and 93rd Divisions. Perry Loyd served in the 371st Infantry Colored Regiment within the 93rd Division at Camp Jackson.

“The first black troops sent overseas belonged to service units,” James said. “Because the work these units did was absolutely critical to the war effort, commanders promised special privileges to them if they yielded high results. As the war continued and soldiers took to the battlefields, black soldiers became responsible for digging trenches, removing unexploded shells from fields, clearing disabled equipment and barbed wire, and burying soldiers killed in action.”

Despite this, these soldiers received the worst treatment of all black troops in World War I and suffered casualties at a rate of 45 percent.

“My grandfather was wounded at the battle of the Argonne Forest, which was a major part of the offensive,” James said. The battle was part of the Meuse-Argonne Offensive and stretched along the entire Western Front. It was fought from Sept. 26, until the Armistice of Nov. 11, 1918, during which Loyd was wounded. With the end of the war, Loyd was promoted to sergeant, discharged and returned to his life as a sharecropper in Sumter County, South Carolina.

Perry Loyd died in 1946 at the age of 61, a decade before the birth of his grandson, who was named for him.

James said interest in his grandfather was rekindled after visiting his grave, and learning that a Purple Heart he had earned had never been delivered. He set about correcting that problem, but history had erased many of the records of his grandfather’s life. His military records were destroyed in a fire in St. Louis, while many of his personal effects were lost in a house fire years later.

“From a forensic standpoint, it was very difficult to get verifiable information,” James said. “Through networking with people, I was able to talk to a gentleman at the National Archives, who was able to dig through the archives and find evidence of his service and his injury.”

“I had to stick with it. I just couldn’t give up,” James said.

A CENTURY AGO, “the war to end all wars” raged throughout Europe, a war that racked up nearly 37.5 million casualties, including upwards of 8.5 million deaths.

This year marks the centennial commemoration of the end of World War I on November 11, 1918. The theme for the 2018 Veterans Day poster is “The War to End All Wars.” The year’s poster, as selected by the Veterans Day National Committee, depicts the remembrance poppy and a barbed wire fence.

The barbed wire represents the thousands of miles of wire that was spread by both sides in WWI. The poppy has been used since 1921 to commemorate military personnel who have died in war and was inspired by the World War I poem “In Flanders Fields.”

But why poppies?

The answer is half biology, half history. The common, or “corn” poppy, grows throughout the United States, Asia, Africa and Europe and is native to the Mediterranean region. Its seeds need light to grow, so when they’re buried in the earth, they can lay dormant for 80 years or possibly even longer, without blooming. Once soil is disturbed and the seeds come to light, poppies nobody knew existed can then bloom.

During World War I, this beautiful phenomenon took place in a Europe decimated by the first truly modern war. In Belgium, which was home to part of the Western Front in its Flanders provinces, the soil was torn up by miles of trenches and pocked by bombs and artillery fire. The Battles of Ypres, which took part in a portion of Flanders known as Flanders Fields, were particularly deadly and took a toll on the physical environment, too. Hundreds of thousands of soldiers breathed their last on soil laid bare and churned up by the mechanics of war.

After the Second Battle of Ypres, a Canadian doctor named John McCrae noticed red poppies growing near one of Flanders’ Fields’ mass cemeteries. He wrote a poem, “In Flanders Fields,” in 1915, which was eventually published in Britain. “In Flanders fields the poppies blow,” wrote McCrae, “between the crosses, row on row.” It went on to become the war’s most popular and most recognized poem in the United States and Great Britain.

The poem, which muses on the existence of poppies in a cemetery, encourages people to take up the torch in honor of their fallen countrymen.

An American woman named Moina Michael read McCrae’s poem and vowed to wear a red poppy every day until she died. She began to distribute silk poppies and her work led women from Allied nations to sell artificial poppies to raise funds for war victims after the war. A symbol had been born—one that persists to this day.

Nearly five million American families sent their fathers or mothers or sons or daughters to serve in the Armed Forces during World War One. Countless other families had members who supported the war effort in industry, farming, shipping and many other fields. All those who served then are gone now, but the commemoration of the centennial of World War One is the nation’s opportunity to make a permanent and comprehensive record of how and where those family members served, and what they did for the country, before the succeeding generations’ memories of that service are lost forever.

The U.S. World War One Centennial Commission calls on the families of those who served to help tell the Stories of Service of their forebears and relatives 100 years ago in our Stories of Service section.

Many Americans are still alive who listened to their fathers, grandfathers and great-grandfathers, or mothers, grandmothers and great-grandmothers, tell the story of their service in World War One. This first-person knowledge will vanish with the passing of those individuals who heard those stories, so the time is now for family members to capture that precious but endangered information. Other family members will have knowledge of their forebears’ service from letters, diaries or other records, or from family stories regarding artifacts from the war.

The Commission asks other Americans to help discover the names of those who served and record that knowledge in the Commission’s permanent record.

School classes, scout troops, veterans’ groups, genealogical organizations and other groups can research the names found on their community World War One memorials, or in their own records, discover what they can about those individuals, and add that information to the permanent record. Organizations and institutions providing care for the elderly can be extremely important in this effort. Many retirement facilities and homes have residents who have no families to record their memories of their forebears who served in the Great War. Interviewing such residents and entering that information will help rescue that soon-to-be-lost first-person data and makes a great community project.

Those who served in World War One have left behind many artifacts and souvenirs of their experiences a century ago. Americans who no longer have a place to store or display these artifacts from their predecessors, but who want to preserve them as part of the historical record and the nation’s public memory, will find a broad range of opportunities for and resources about finding new homes for old memories.

The United States Navy Memorial’s Navy Log is a lasting legacy of honor that tells the story of America’s Sea Service veterans. Navy, Marines, Coast Guard and Merchant Marine veterans from World War One are eligible to be listed in the Navy Log, but they are no longer with us to enter their information.

Families and others who need help or want information on how to get started on researching family history and World War One service can find links to extensive genealogical research resources, and “how to” information on “Genealogical Resources” page.*

WASHINGTON — In the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs’ (VA) drive to help improve lives of veterans through health care discovery and innovation, a team led by VA researchers recently identified three genetic mutations that govern cholesterol levels, which could lead to the development of new drugs to treat cardiovascular disease and diabetes.

Detailed results of the study can be found in the Oct. 1 issue of Nature Genetics, a scientific journal.

“This is fantastic news, not just for veterans, but for all Americans suffering from these diseases,” said VA Secretary Robert Wilkie. “VA researchers have been improving the lives of veterans and all Americans through health care discovery and innovation for decades. Their groundbreaking research has resulted in three Nobel prizes and numerous other national and international honors.”

Using data from VA’s Million Veteran Program (MVP), the researchers found that three genes—PDE3B, PCSK9 and ANGPTL4—could be targets for treatment of heart disease, abdominal aortic aneurysm and diabetes, respectively. VA research showed that those with specific mutations to the genes had better cholesterol and triglyceride levels than those without the mutations.

The PDE3B mutation appears to protect against heart disease. A mutation in PCSK9 seems to decrease the risk not only of heart disease, but also abdominal aortic aneurysm, a condition in which the aorta is enlarged, which could lead it to rupture and cause life-threatening bleeding. The ANGPTL4 mutation was linked to lower risk of Type 2 diabetes. The research was supported by VA, the National Institutes of Health and Stanford’s Department of Medicine.

MVP is a national, voluntary research program funded by VA’s Office of Research and Development. MVP partners with veterans receiving care in the Veterans Health Administration to study how genes affect health. As of late September 2018, MVP had enrolled more than 700,000 veterans. It is already one of the world’s largest databases of health and genomic information.

The Nature Genetics publication is one of the first major papers describing scientific findings from MVP. The publication highlights the power of researchers having access to data from large numbers of individuals. In this instance, researchers were able to identify several novel genetic factors that affect people’s blood lipid [cholesterol and triglyceride] levels. Such findings may lead to new approaches to diagnose people at risk for cardiovascular disease, as well as identify candidate therapeutic targets.*
THE MILLION VETERANS PROGRAM (MVP) is a national, voluntary research program funded entirely by the Department of Veterans Affairs Office of Research & Development. The goal of MVP is to partner with Veterans receiving their care in the VA Healthcare System to study how genes affect health. To do this, MVP will build one of the world’s largest medical databases by safely collecting blood samples and health information from one million Veteran volunteers. Data collected from MVP will be stored in a secure manner and will be coded for researchers so that they cannot directly identify you. Researchers will study diseases like diabetes and cancer, and military-related illnesses, such as post-traumatic stress disorder.

Veterans who are users of the VA health care system at one of the enrolling sites are able to participate at this time. MVP is rolling out at VA medical centers across the nation. Once a site is open for enrollment, veterans can schedule an appointment by calling toll-free 1-866-441-6075, or walk-in to local MVP clinic to participate today. Find clinics still enrolling: research.va.gov/mvp/all-clinics.cfm.

Active involvement in this program includes:
• Filling out surveys about health and health-related behaviors;
• Providing a blood sample (containing DNA and other substances) that will be stored for future genomic analyses;
• Allowing secure access to VA and VA-linked medical and health information, including past and future health records; and
• Agreeing to future contact

“HONORING OUR PRESENT, REMEMBERING THE PAST AND PRESERVING THE LEGACY”
OVER THE HOLIDAYS, there are various ways to help our veterans through what may be challenging times, and to assist those veterans who may not have family to be with. You can help veterans who serve, honor and protect by volunteering your time, donating items or simply by making a cash contribution to a worthy cause.

Here are some of the many ways you can reach out and make a difference in the life of a veteran this holiday season:

- Call a local USO branch or area Armed Services recruiter. They may have a local donation program list available.
- Help a specific group of veterans, such as homeless veterans or veterans in need of employment.
- Contact a local Veterans Association residential home or hospital. Often times there are older vets who either are hospitalized or in residence, without family or friends around to keep them company during the holidays. Most of these centers plan fundraisers where you can further help. Contact them and check how you can best provide your service and time.
- Reach out to local military hospitals where disabled vets are in recovery. Typically there are pre-determined donation lists consisting of typical things that service members may need to aid in their recovery, such as blankets, gloves, DVDs, cookies and home-baked goods, socks and much more.
- Knit a veteran a lap blanket or quilt for use at a convalescent home.
- Donate your used car.

Ways to Help a Veteran

- Give monetarily
- Planned giving—wills, trusts, charitable gift annuities
- Organize a fundraiser (you can even do this online through Facebook)
- Volunteer
- Donate the Following:
  - Airline/hotel and credit card points/miles
  - Bonds or stocks
  - Car
  - Clothing
  - Entertainment tickets
  - Furniture
  - Household items
  - Toys
- Volunteer with Wreaths Across America. Each December they coordinate wreath-laying ceremonies at Arlington National Cemetery, in locations nationwide, at sea and abroad. If you’re unable to participate, you can donate to help buy wreaths. ✯
MILITARY BUDGETS, which are often already stretched to their limits, do not contain a lot of money for buying Christmas presents. However, military families are also some of the most deserving people during the holiday season. To help thank military families for the sacrifices made year-round, many organizations offer programs to make Christmas possible for deserving military families, especially those with children who deserve to have a joy-filled Christmas.

Here are some programs and options available to military families in need and how people can assist:

Pay Away The Lay Away
Military Benefits is proud to have partnered with Pay Away the Layaway to support military families by paying off their layaway balances at the Exchanges and retail stores. Pay Away Layaway is a national 501(c)3 nonprofit organization all volunteer organization, which means most of the money goes directly to military families.

Adopt-a-Family for the Holidays
Numerous organizations offer adopt-a-family programs. Military families who can show proof of need submit their wish lists to the organization and donors adopt the families by purchasing items from their wish lists for Christmas. Because of the popularity of adopt-a-family programs, you must fill out an application months before Christmas in order to get on the list. Pay attention to deadlines and get your application in as soon as the window opens, because spaces fill up fast.

Full Circle Home
Full Circle Home gives deployed servicemen a chance to send a gift box to their wives back home. Gift boxes contain pampering items, such as lotions, bubble baths and spa socks. They also feature a handwritten note from the serviceman.

Military Installation Support
The family centers at military installations offer assistance in many forms during the holidays, including programs such as Santa’s Shop, in which donations are taken for military families in need. Contact the local installation for how you can help. For assistance, reach out to the Family Readiness Group, Chaplain or MWR.

Operation Christmas Spirit
Operation Christmas Spirit supports local military families in the form of holiday gratitude by: “Adopting” over 100 families and fulfilling their Christmas wish lists with gifts for all family members and gift cards to do their own shopping; Sponsor gifts and crafts at unit holiday parties; “Adopt” single Marines and sailors, giving them gifts and gifts cards to celebrate whether near or far from their families.

Operation Holiday Joy
Donate to Operation Holiday Joy. One hundred percent of your donation goes to food and toys this holiday season and you can designate your donation to a specific program.

Operation Homefront
Operation Homefront offers many programs for military families throughout the year and Christmas is no exception. The organization partners with Dollar Tree to provide toys for military children. To receive a gift, you must register for your local Operation Homefront Toy Distribution. If your family lacks the funds for a holiday meal, you can also attend one of the organization’s holiday meal events and receive all of the fixings for the perfect Christmas dinner.

Red Cross

The Red Cross provides many military family services including but not limited to financial assistance and deployment services.

Spirit of Sharing

The Adopt-A-Military Family program provides commissary cards, gifts, toys and much more to military families in need.

Soldiers’ Angels

Soldiers’ Angels sponsors Operation Outreach Holiday Support. Lower enlisted families can sign up to receive a $50-$100 gift card to help pay for a holiday meal and gifts for children ages 15 and under. Families must sign up for the program by December 15 and are matched with donors from around the United States.

Toys for Tots

The U.S. Marine Corps Reserve Toys for Tots Program collects new, unwrapped toys during October, November and December each year, and distributes those toys as Christmas gifts to less fortunate children in the community in which the campaign is conducted. The program is for all children, including military kids.

Trees for Troops

Every family needs a Christmas tree and Tree for Troops, sponsored by the Christmas Spirit Foundation, offers free Christmas trees for military families. Trees are available at 62 bases throughout the United States.

Veterans Service Organizations

Many Veterans’ Service Organizations provide a wide variety of holiday support to service members, veterans, and their families. Program benefits often include meals, food, gift cards, and adopt-a-family or adopt-a-veteran programs.

USO

Local USO offices provide a variety of holiday assistance programs including holiday dinners, events with Santa, toy and food drives and much more. Contact a local USO office.

Wreaths Across America

Donate to Wreaths Across America, which coordinates wreath-laying ceremonies on a specified Saturday in December at Arlington, as well as veterans’ cemeteries and other locations in all 50 states and beyond. They organize a week of events including international veterans’ tributes, ceremonies at state houses and a week-long “Veteran’s Parade” between Maine and Virginia.

ADDITIONAL WAYS TO SUPPORT THE MILITARY THIS HOLIDAY SEASON

Care packages, holiday cards and letters, thanking our veterans and military families are all ways we can provide additional support.
Three Idaho Boys Show True Reverence for Our Flag

by Dale Wilson, National Historian

I WILL SOON BE BIDDING HAWAII “ALOHA” and moving to Hayden, Idaho. It thus pleased me greatly to see an article online describing how three boys tasked with lowering and folding Hayden Meadows Elementary School’s American flag went to great lengths to ensure it did not touch the ground.

According to Amanda Reallan, who had arrived a little early to pick up her children, the boys were struggling to fold the flag without letting it touch the ground. Suddenly, one of them laid down on the sidewalk between the other two boys to prevent that from happening.

Ms. Reallan recorded the event with her cellphone camera and later posted the photo on her Facebook page to show “how these boys went above and beyond to respect our nation’s flag!” The photo soon went viral.

The boys—Jack LeBrick, Casey Dolan, and Naylan Tuttle—learned respect for the flag and how to handle it properly from school custodian “Mac” McCarty, according to NBC affiliate KHQ-TV of nearby Spokane. McCarty, a 20-year Air Force veteran, expressed pride for all three after watching LeBrick crawl under the flag to protect it.

People from around the nation have been contacting the school to offer their thanks to the boys for their inspirational efforts. My hope is that our members—especially the Americanism officers in our departments and chapters—will take the time to send a note of encouragement to Principal Lisa Pica to pass along to the boys. The address is: Hayden Meadows Elementary School, 900 E. Hayden Ave., Hayden, ID 83835. *

THE FAMILIES OF OUR COMBAT-WOUNDED SUFFER GREATLY—emotionally, psychologically and financially. The overwhelming stress of the recovery process can threaten to tear a family apart.

Wounded Warriors Family Support provides family retreats to combat-wounded veterans and their families by sending them to Orlando, Fla., or Yellowstone National Park.

Family retreats give wounded veterans the opportunity to decompress and share in positive experiences with their spouses and children, strengthening the bonds of their families and making lasting memories.

We provide the families of wounded or injured veterans and the widows and children of our fallen heroes with six nights at Bahama Bay Resort and passes to Universal Orlando, Sea World Orlando and LEGOLAND Florida, or families may choose four nights in the peaceful, non-stress environment of Yellowstone National Park.

The Will To Survive
John Zale

Since 1982, John Zale had been an active member of MOPH New York Chapter 0264. For 30 years, little more was known about Zale other than he was a WWII Army veteran who was a Purple Heart recipient. Zale was always busy, especially at the VA or with the Boy Scouts, but was always available when the chapter needed some manpower. It wasn’t until after his death in 2012 that the true story was told by his daughter Karen, who had both authored and published the book.

The Will to Survive is a detailed story of strife and valor as well as despair and hope. Zale (né Zubrzycki) served in the U.S. Army in the Pacific Theater. His story is one of survival. Being wounded in action during the Battle of Bataan in the Philippine Islands, he survived the notorious Bataan Death March when the troops were surrendered to the Japanese Imperial Army. As a prisoner of war he endured unimaginable horror on the hell ship that took him to Mukden, Manchuria, where he was a POW for three-and-a-half years. His story is one of beatings, starvation, torture, tropical diseases, malnutrition, slave labor and human medical experimentation.

"After the war," says the book, “the liberated prisoners of war were ordered not to discuss their experience with anyone. The men returned home but Post-Traumatic Stress Syndrome (PTSD) had not yet been identified. Zale was able to deal with the mental trauma by involving himself with his Boy Scout troop, family and assisting other veterans. The purpose of this book is to be a voice for the voiceless. To tell the story of what the dauntless prisoners of war endured.

Moreover, Karen Zale explains, this is a story of hope. Her father found a path that helped him deal with PTSD. Perhaps his story will be an inspiration to others.” (The Villager—Ellicottville, N.Y.)

The Will to Survive is available online at www.lulu.com/shop/karen-zale/the-will-to-survive/paperback/product-23767332.html. The author is donating all profits to WNYHeroes, Inc.

One of our most important initiatives is the Helping our Veterans (HOV) Program. After a successful pilot year in 2017-2018, the HOV program has been extended for another year. Funds are available for units and departments to create projects to help and support veterans. During the initial year of the program, 19 units and departments participated.

Some of the past HOV Projects included an ice cream social with root beer and purple (grape) ice cream floats for over 150 veterans in Nebraska. One Southern California unit sponsored a meet and greet with coffee, sandwiches and cookies to acknowledge and appreciate our older veterans residing in a veterans’ home. Florida Unit 776 provided Christmas cards to veterans. The Department of Wisconsin provided blankets for women veterans. Michigan Unit 1985 provided hats and blankets for veterans; Georgia Unit 425 sponsored a Christmas drop-in for veterans and their families. Unit 2001 is currently helping veterans that were impacted by the Carr Fire with HOV funds.

The HOV program is only one of the ways the Auxiliary supports our Patriots and helps our veterans. Here are some other ways your Auxiliary is in action:

- Facilitating the donation of knitted and crochet hats, scarves and blankets for veterans in VA hospitals and homes across the country through the “We’ve Got you Covered Program”
- Providing scholarships to veterans and their families
- Packing backpacks for homeless veterans
- Providing bus passes for veterans and patients at the VA
- Participating in Veterans Day parades
- Visiting our sick and home bound veterans through the MOPHA Senior Heroes Project
- Attending funeral services to honor our veterans
- Supporting our own members many of whom are caregivers for our veterans
- Advocating on a daily basis with health care providers, the VA, insurers and our legislators

As we celebrate 2018-2019 as the Year Of The Unit, we appreciate all of the dedication and hard work of our members across the nation as they serve our veterans.

The Auxiliary has been called the backbone of the Order. We work closely with our chapters to meet the needs of our Patriots and members. With our name change last year to the Military Order of the Purple Heart Auxiliary (MOPHA), we are expanding our membership base. Members now include spouses, siblings, children, grandchildren and parents of Purple Heart recipients. As we become more family-oriented and reach out to our junior members and post-9/11 family members, we encourage you to invite your family to join.

Quilt Raffle Will Assist with Fundraising — Enter Now!

THANK YOU SO MUCH to everyone who has supported and encouraged me on the journey to election as your Junior Vice President (JVP) this year. I really look forward to working with everyone this year and making sure each member gets communication and updates.

One of my duties as JVP is Ways and Means (fundraising). One of the items we will have this year is a quilt raffle. Zina Steinsiek, of Florida, graciously offered to donate two quilts. We have both a king and a queen quilt with shams that include Purple Heart embroidery on the quilt and shams.

Additionally, at the request of a number of members, we will have the flag lapel pins that have ribbon hanging to hold your MOPHA or other pins.

Lastly, I will be sending out periodic suggestions for fundraising for our members within your units and departments. If you need assistance with ideas on ways to raise money, feel free to reach out to me.

Please know that I’m here to help support you to make your regions, departments and units more successful. If you’re a member reading this that doesn’t have a department or unit, please reach out and make sure we have your contact details so you can stay informed.

WE ARE AT THE BEGINNING of our holiday season, the time of the year that we gather together with family and friends to give thanks for our many blessings. It is also a time that we remember three wise men following a star to find a baby born in a stable, a baby who came to save mankind.

Just as those wise men followed that star, on Veterans Day we must remember there were men and women who followed stars on a flag to protect this country and its freedoms. These veterans have given us one of the best gifts one can receive from man, freedom. So on Veterans Day take the time to honor and thank our veterans. Thank God for instilling in the heart of each veteran a willingness to follow the flag with the stars and for their bravery and sacrifices. “All gave some, some gave all.”

We then transcend into Thanksgiving where we gather to share great meals, memories and loads of football with family and friends, but for many there will be an empty chair due to the sacrifice that their veteran has made for that precious gift called freedom. They followed the stars on a flag.

Later we get busy baking, shopping and going to holiday parties, all leading to the celebration of the birth of Christ—a baby born in a stable, who came to save mankind, just as veterans serve to save this country and keep it safe. There will be many families who will be celebrating without a loved one, whether it be from death or from serving our country on domestic soil or in a foreign land. They have all given us that precious gift called freedom. They all followed the stars on a flag.

As you sit down to enjoy your Thanksgiving dinners and unwrap your gifts during the Christmas holiday, remember to say a prayer for our veterans and their families, always giving thanks to God for those who gave us the precious gift of freedom by following the stars.

Merry Christmas and may God bless each of you and your loved ones during this season.

“Blessed are they that mourn: for they shall be comforted.”
Matthew 5:4

* As reported to the MOPHA National Chaplain, per Bylaws Article VIII, Section 6 requirements
Thresholds Of Opportunities

GREETINGS FROM MICHIGAN. I want to thank Region II for your support and encouragement in electing me as your Region II President, representing Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio, West Virginia and Wisconsin. Yes, I am ready to step up to the plate and dig in. Grab your shovel and join me. I have a passion for our current soldiers and veterans and their families. My husband, Douglas Larabel, retired from the U.S. Army with over 23 years. I loved our military life and love being with our brothers and sisters in the Military Order of the Purple Heart.

We have many thresholds of opportunities within the MOPHA. Some doorways are small and some doorways are large enough to walk through.

- Communication opportunities: Newsletter, Zoom Conference Calls, Facebook, Email, Phone Calls and texting. Share your photos of your events/projects with your region presidents to place in our newsletters/magazines for other units to obtain ideas to help veterans.
- Encouraging each other in the small things to start.
- Recognizing others’ abilities, skills and gifts.
- Problems provide opportunities for change, growth and how we can do something better.
- Opportunity to increase our membership consisting of parents, grandparents, spouses, widows, widowers, siblings, children and grandchildren of persons who have been awarded the Purple Heart.
- Procrastination leads to a lost opportunity.

As we walk through each doorway of opportunity, let us pick up our shovels and dig in. I encourage you to read the Constitution, Bylaws and Procedures Manual, as it is a great resource in functioning within the MOPHA.

As we celebrate Veteran’s Day, November 11, we say welcome home, thank you for your service.

RICK AND BARB CHERONE made a presentation to Darlene Rogers, Department of Wisconsin President, of two afghans that were knitted and donated by an incarcerated veteran. The afghans were raffled off at the department convention and added over $200 to the Ways and Means.

OMAHA MOPHA UNIT 260 collected baby items for 28 Omaha mothers and families: diapers, lotions, clothing, toys, towels and baby blankets made by Jean Windreich. These items were given during an event at Nebraska-Western Iowa Health Care System on May 6. Members, from left, are Elaine Kemper; Linda Eledge; Barbara Counihan; Department of Nebraska President and Omaha Unit Secretary, and Jean Windreich, Omaha Unit President.

MOPH AND MOPHA, 91 Lamoreaux, Grand Rapids, Michigan, on August 7 combined efforts at a local Family Fare with viola donations totaling $640.20! Members, from left: Doug Besteman, Patriot; Doug Larabel, Chapter Treasurer; Chris Cole, Unit President; Karen Larabel, Region II President; Ardis Keizer, national musician and Unit Jr. Vice President.
