AP airport taxiway project to improve safety

By MARC VALDEZ

AVON PARK — Work is expected to begin soon after the first of the New Year on a more than $1.5 million taxiway project at the Avon Park Executive Airport.

The City Council approved the contract Nov. 13 with the low bidder on the project — Dickerson Florida, Inc., Ft. Pierce.

The total estimated cost of Dickerson Florida’s part of the project to realign and extend Taxiway F is $1,521,215.

Interim Finance Director Danielle Phillips said there were a total of three bids for the project. They will be pulling up the taxiway, reconstructing, re-configuring and putting down new asphalt.

The cost of the entire project is $1.7 million, including engineering, she said. Work will likely start around the first of the year and should be completed sometime in March.

Pilot Jim Remfry said the taxiway project will result in a safety issue at the airport. There is vehicular traffic with people coming in the gate and then walking across a runway, he said. They are going to tear out the existing taxiway and construct a perimeter taxiway.

There are going to be two-terminus taxiways that will have to go all the way around the end of the runway. Remfry said if you were driving a vehicle or taking an aircraft across two runways that are intersecting in the same area at the same time, he said. It will cause some inconvenience about taxi time, but the safety factor far exceeds that.

Walk-a-Thon raises 5K for KLC

SEBRING — It was more than a good day for a walk Friday at the Kindergarten Learning Center. It was a great day for the Turkey Trot Walk-a-Thon.

The school fundraiser was held from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. with mostly sunny skies as students walked and ran along the bus loop in the front of the school.

Music helped get the students in the mood to move, as “Johnny B. Goode” by Chuck Berry and an upbeat dance version of “Supercalifragilisticexpialidocious.”

Principal Karen Doty explained it is an event to raise money for the school and that the money goes back to the kids on campus.

“We picked up a couple of bombs, some good things like treats for Fun Friday, the 100 Day Celebration and the End of the Year. It was a great day for the Turkey Trot Walk-a-Thon.”

SEBRING — When Gov. Ron DeSantis emptied a seat on the South Florida Water Management District Governing Board earlier this year, Mayor Benjamin Butler, dairyman from Highlands County, said he put in an application in February and didn’t think anything of it until Delaney called him up, “out of the clear blue,” to schedule a meeting. They talked for 20 minutes and Butler found himself on the board.

It wasn’t that big of a surprise, nor is it new for his family. His grandfather, Robert K. Butler, served on the board from 1979–1988, 40 years and one month before he took the seat. It’s not a new endeavor for his family, either. The Butler family has been involved in water management since the 1940s.

The class that raises the most money gets an ice cream treat, which was Malach Rovers’ class, whose students raised $1,310. Aiden Bailey, in Brittany Richardson’s class, raised the most donations for the school bringing in $500. Overall the Turkey Trot raised $4,995.25.

“Sometimes we buy things for the school when we need a new die-cut and we bought playground equipment and things like that,” she said.

5 THINGS you must do today:

1. Louisa May Alcott secretly wrote pulp fiction. Before writing "Little Women" she wrote a pulp fiction under her own name: "April Love." She has "April Love" written on her tombstone.

2. Oct 7, 1943, the 1943 Jeep Delaney was flown low. It really got my family's attention when it landed on our rooftop. We saw a plane flying low. It really got my family's attention.

3. Lewis tote said it took a while, but he put the two together and came up with the line that was living alone was the plane that hit the Pentagon. His base was burned by the explosion, and it was pretty frightening. Many families believe that the pilot was being Delaney's personal assistant and he feels like God set his steps into the path of Delaney. Besides their military background, they have a mutual respect for each other, Lewis said.

4. "As long as it's all going down buildings," Bergeron said.

5. The men can also bond over music. They have the same love of country music. They share the same love of country music.

26 killed as small plane crashes in Congo

The Associated Press

GOMA, Congo — A small plane crashed into homes shortly after takeoff Sunday in Congo’s eastern city of Goma, killing 26 people, including the aircraft’s passengers and crew, as well as residents on the ground, the government of the central African nation said.

The 19-seat Dornier 228-200, owned by private carrier Busy Bee, was headed to Beni, about 220 miles north of Goma, Congo’s eastern city of Goma, when it crashed in the Mapendo district near the airport in the North Kivu province, according to the government.

The plane was on fire.

“We have managed to recover two that was quickly sent to the hospital before the fire spread. Plane crashes are frequent in the central African nation of Congo because of poor maintenance and lax safety standards. None of Congo’s commercial carriers, including Busy Bee, are allowed to fly into European Union airspace because of safety concerns.

Supreme Court says Ginsburg released from hospital

The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court says Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg has been released from a Baltimore hospital after being treated for a possible infection. The 86-year-old Ginsburg returned to her home in Washington, D.C., on Saturday, said Supreme Court spokeswoman Kathy Arberg said Sunday.

Ginsburg spent two nights at Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore. She was taken there Friday after experiencing chills and fever.

The court says she received intravenous antibiotics and fluids and that her symptoms abated.

Ginsburg has had four occurrences of cancer, including two in the past year. She had lung cancer surgery in December and received radiation treatment for a tumor on her pancreas in August.

Ginsburg has been on the court since 1993, appointed by President Bill Clinton. Only Justice Clarence Thomas has served longer among the current members of the court.

HAYNEVILLE, Ala. — Few details were available Sunday morning about the circumstances surrounding the fatal shooting of an Alabama sheriff's deputy, and no man had been arrested.

When the census is conducted, it provides crucial data that informs decisions and funding at all levels of government. The accuracy of the census data is vital for ensuring that resources are distributed fairly and that communities have access to the services and support they need.

The census is conducted every 10 years and is mandated by the U.S. Constitution. It is used to determine how billions of dollars in federal funds are distributed to states and communities across the country.

The data collected through the census is used to:
- Determine how many congressional representatives each state will have in the House of Representatives.
- Allocate federal funds to states and communities based on population size.
- Inform the distribution of federal funds to programs and initiatives.
- Help plan for the future needs of communities, such as education, healthcare, and public safety.

The accuracy of the census data is crucial, as it directly impacts the distribution of federal funds and resources. It is important that everyone in the United States is counted to ensure that all communities receive the support they need.

To participate in the census, you can fill out the questionnaire online, by phone, or by mail. The deadline for completing the census is September 30, 2020.

By participating in the census, you are ensuring that your community receives the support it needs and that your voice is heard. Let's all do our part to ensure an accurate census for 2020.

In the third quarter, McKeel took control of the game. Brown, Rosalind and Desirere Rodriguez would slow the tempo down. They took most of the time off the clock with efficient passing and shot selection. McKeel would lead 28-23 heading into the final quarter.

McKeel dominated the fourth quarter. They would outscore the Dragons 13-5 and put the game out of reach.

“We are still in the process of learning,” Sanders said. “We got a lot of young players that don’t have the experience, so we are still in that process of learning and learning to play together.”

McKeel was led in scoring by Bailey Brown with 23 points as team-mate Hannah Hammonds contributed six points. Javia Thompson scored six points.

Kansas started to figure things out after the two-point loss to Duke. The Jayhawks have won their past three games with double-digit, including a 122-57 blowout of Minnesota last week. The Jayhawks open against host Chaminade. “We didn’t get off to a great start, but we have been a little bit better since then, but I like our guys,” Self said. “We have a good blend of veteran experience and youthful experience, so to speak.”

Practical tips for avoiding a deep vein thrombosis

DEAR DR. ROACH:
My brother-in-law has had blood clots in his legs twice before. Now he has another one in his calf, and tests showed severe in his lungs! What causes blood clots, and how can you prevent them?
— M.K.E.
ANSWER:
The body must have a robust ability to stop bleeding, which needs to be ready at any time. That ability has a cost, possible inappropriate clotting inside the body. Most people will never have a problem with inappropriate clotting, but there are dozens of medical conditions that can increase the risk. Some of these run in families. Prolonged immobility, such as during a hospitalization or even on long plane rides, is a clear risk factor for blood clots. All types of cancer increase the risk of blood clots, as does surgery. People with some genetic conditions are at higher risk, one that’s common is the factor V Leiden mutation.

What have I learned on how you can do about a genetic predisposition? There is some advise that can help people who are at risk for other reasons to avoid blood clots. For those people at lower risk, here are some practical tips for avoiding them:
— Stay active and avoid sitting for long periods of time. Get up once an hour, even if only for a minute. — If you can’t move — for example, if the “seat belt” sign is on or you’re turned on a long plane ride — at least move your arms and work the muscles of your legs. — Use an adequate water during travel.

People who have already had a deep vein thrombosis, a blood clot deep in the leg veins, should get specific medical advice about preventing another one, including possibly using medications.

DEAR DR. ROACH:
I am a fairly healthy. The condition on the safety of long-term use of aspirin seems to be worth thinking about. — C.H.
ANSWER:
Taking aspirin is recommended for people with known coronary artery disease, that is, in blockages in the arteries of the heart. This is a true whether or not they have had a heart or surgical bypass graft.

For those without known blockages, recent studies have shown that the slight benefit from aspirin than previously thought, largely because of the small number of blockages that have been identified in the decades since the initial trials on aspirin were published.

Some of the studies did not examine the benefit of aspirin on preventing colon cancer. The benefits of reducing both heart disease and cancer must be weighed against the risks of putting off aspirin therapy. For those without known blockages, recent studies have shown that the risk of a blockage is higher in older people, even in people with no visible blockages, so no expert groups recommend aspirin therapy. One advantage of older people over younger is that they’re likely to have a very Night to recommend aspirin to a person in his or her without known blockages.

DEAR DR. ROACH:
My brother-in-law has had blood clots in his legs twice before. Now he has another one in his calf, and tests showed severe in his lungs! What causes blood clots, and how can you prevent them?
— M.K.E.
ANSWER:
The body must have a robust ability to stop bleeding, which needs to be ready at any time. That ability has a cost, possible inappropriate clotting inside the body. Most people will never have a problem with inappropriate clotting, but there are dozens of medical conditions that can increase the risk. Some of these run in families. Prolonged immobility, such as during a hospitalization or even on long plane rides, is a clear risk factor for blood clots. All types of cancer increase the risk of blood clots, as does surgery. DEAR ABBY:

I would like to advise on how to discuss sensitive mat- ter with your son and daughter-in-law’s babysitter. She watched your grandson Monday through Friday while they are at work. They live with me, and I work from home, so I am around all day while she’s sitting with the babysitter.

Overall, it seems good, but we have discovered her asleep in my son’s bed—a couple of times. She also changes into my son’s clothing occasionally, which makes my daughter-in-law very uncomfortable.

My daughter-in-law needs to have a discussion about it with her but doesn’t know how to approach the matter. My suggestion was for her to be clear and tell the woman she’s uncomfortable with the behavior and ask her if she thinks that’s okay?—Not Sitting Well

DEAR NOT SITTING: Your daugh- ter-in-law should ask the babysitter why she’s crawling into my son’s bed and getting on her employer’s clothes because, frankly, what’s going on is bizarre. The sitter should be told that it is not being paid to sleep on the job. And further, that dressing in the hus- band’s attire is forbidden, and if it were, she would be replaced.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I took our children trick-or-treating in my rural neighborhood because we live in a rural area, and there’s no tradition of going from door to door. We found a letter taped onto our windshield telling us how rude we were for bringing our kids to more populated areas to trick or treat. It happens every Hallow- e’en. Don’t let it get you down. It happens every Hallow- e’en in your own?—Tricked, But Not Prejudiced

DEAR TRICKED: Whose wishes should parents have in their health-care decisions? They say he’s yours and she’s theirs. I have said I and our daughters will help make those decisions. Am I wrong? This causes a lot of grief for those who have not thought about their health-care decisions. They say he’s theirs and we have said he’s ours. We are not sure what to do. What do you recommend?—Whose Choice In The West

DEAR WHOSE CHOICE: The choice of who should make a patient’s health-care decisions should be unable to do it for himself should be your HUSBAND/ WIFE. Those wishes should be formalized in a health-care directive and shared with family members. Once someone becomes an adult, the respon- sibility for carrying out those wishes rests with one’s spouse or children rather than with one’s parents.
