Inaugural Alzheimer's Awareness Day a success'

By KIM LEATHERMAN

SEBRING — The therapy department at The Palms of Sebring created a purple wonderland in their facility for the inaugural Alzheimer's Awareness Day on Thursday afternoon. Purple is the color that represents Alzheimer's disease. Some 70 people visited the facility throughout the afternoon to learn about the memory-robbing disease and find resources to assist with the care of a loved one.

When Crystal Loomis heard that The Palms was entertaining the concept, she asked to organize it. Straight out of the gate, she got the Alzheimer’s Association involved. She printed the materials and created brochures for attendees. Loomis and the therapy team got to work calling businesses for door prizes. “All of us at The Palms are so proud of Crystal and her team,” Julia Mercer, director of marketing, said. “They worked very hard to make this inaugural event a great success. We can’t wait to do it again next year.”

Loomis addressed the audience and shared resources for those who have the tragic disease and their caregivers as well. Loomis had a personal stake in the day’s success as her great-grandfather died from Alzheimer’s disease.

Refreshments were offered and therapy dogs visited.

Funds were raised for the Alzheimer’s Association by selling memorial signs for a dollar. Visitors wrote the names of their loved ones who were affected by the disease and hung the signs on the wall. The Palms will be initiating a GoFundMe account to raise funds to be designated to the Alzheimer’s Association. In lieu of releasing helium balloons, most attendees threw birdballs while others blew bubbles. Loomis felt that such significance was wonderful, honoring loved ones who are either going through the disease or who have lost the battle with it. Loomis has said that she wants to make the day an annual event. She is looking forward to evolving the awareness day to reach even more people.

Loomis would like to see a support group form from the event as well.

Every year, on the summer solstice, people across the country raise money for the association that is fighting for a cure. Teams and individuals don purple and find an activity to do. Anything from climbing mountains, jumping rope and bake sales. Because the summer solstice is the longest day from sunrise to sunset, it is called “The Longest Day.” The idea is that the longer the day, the longer the fundraising.

In a unique twist, the new city manager, who has only been in the position for three months, is earning the same pay that the previous city manager earned after six years and six months in the position.

How many citizens of Avon Park are questions the pay increase given to the new city manager Dora Smith. Former City Manager Leslie Fisher was terminated from a similar position in 2012. She accepted the position with a salary of $55,000. In making the motion, Deputy Mayor Brenda Gray suggested that the city would save $7,000 because the new city manager would not need the health maintenance organization. We wonder if that was the insurance package for $50,000. We do not believe all city employees were offered $35,000 pay raise, if they wanted the $17,000 raises for those city workers.

Furthermore, are all city employees’ insurance plans worth $17,000? Yes, in a unique twist, the new city manager, who has only been in the position for three months, is earning the same pay that the previous city manager earned after six years and six months in the position.

The Freshwater fishing forecast is based on June assuming the regular rainy season forecast. All fishing factors considered, anglers will enjoy fishing during the week before the heat becomes unbearable in the mild summer wind of Florida's lakes, with depths of 10 feet or less.

Plants use oxygen all day, but at night they use far less, and the water becomes more oxygen-deprived. This means that the lake will accept less oxygen and will accept less food. This will result in less oxygen available to the fish, which will cause them to move to deeper water, where there is more oxygen available.

The full moon occurs on the 25th, however since the lunar orbit is not circular the Sun’s gravitational effect will be very weak at best. hitting my marks and trying not to overdrive the car right at the end. When Simon [Lamb] and Nikko [Ilegret] started to battle, I was able to get a little bit of a gap and I just tried to put the hammer down and give it everything I had. Having a left rear tire that was in good shape at the end gave us a good run through the Carousel because you can get in there a little bit better without the car going sideways. When I was out there, I knew I had a good enough gap that I could win without having to run defensive if I just hit my marks.”

Dean captured the pole for both this weekend’s races and he said having the pole doesn’t necessarily mean good things will happen at Road America.

“You qualify in a little bit of luck but we’ve been coming here for years now, since our first sea- son in 2012, and in that time I’ve been on quite a few poles,” Dean said. “But there’s so much strategy out there, and it’sstrategy on the fly. You can’t plan it – you have to react and you have to make decisions. The car was working well. I had a really good car off the corner, which gives you the ability to pull a good hard. But the biggest thing was working track position and getting in the right position to get away, because if you are battling with someone, you can forget about it.”

“Starting on pole in an 86 is great,” Lamb said. “You have a pretty good run through the Carousel because you can get a good run without the car going sideways. When I was out there, I knew I had a good enough gap that I could win without having to run defensive if I just hit my marks.”

12 feet or greater, fish migrate to the ‘high dissolved-oxygen level depths’ within the lake, usually in the 12- to 18-foot depths. 23°F/63°F During the Florida summer season anglers must adapt their strategy to hunt for feed- ing fish with open-water strategies instead of flipping and pitching strategies. The deeper lakes also offer more of the ability to dissemble fish-feeding patterns, in that fish are able to move deeper to find a comfort zone and therefore operate normally day to day.

Once you locate sum- montime fish-population depths, you’ll be on fish for the summer season.

Best Fishing Days

Wednesday through Friday the full moon will either create good fishing nights if there is no clouds, and very good fishing days if there is nighttime clouds.

Major Fishing Periods: Today the moon is underfoot at 10:43 p.m. and solar noontime at 1:28 p.m. of July 24-29, 2018. The moonset occurs during the 10-12 hours. A feed intensity rating of 4-5 for both periods increases to a 6 rating. However the better period will be determined by nighttime cloud cover density.

I expect this feeding period to remain at this time all week.

The Minor Fishing Periods: Today the moonrise occurs at 5:27 p.m. and the sunset at 8:26 p.m. and the high dissolved oxygen period of the day also occurs during this period. So therefore until Wednesday, a feed rating will climb to 4-5 range from 5-9 p.m.

The moonset today occurs at 4:02 a.m. and will not become a factor until Wednesday and Thursday when the moonset and sunrise occur within the same hour. In the second half of this week, an early morning rise will occur but I believe will be weak due to low oxygen levels at this time of day.

Seasonal Safety Notes:

Alligators are in their ‘mating season’ which occurs from April through August. Males are very aggressive and any shallow body of wa- ter will have dangerous gators so be aware. Expect gators to be in your pools and other areas near small waterways. Gates will be ‘where they usually are not’ so scan areas for gator activity. Intakpupap.info News:
The lake level is at 38.31 feet above sea level, which is slightly above the max-level (38.25 feet) in the 9-inch manage- ment-threshold range for 9-inch. The minimum level is 37.50 feet currently, and will remain at this annual low mark until July when it is raised six inches over a six-week period. This seasonal ‘rain-buffer schedule’ is necessary because the lake fills six times faster than water is able to be released during major rain events. Currently three of four spillway gates are open 16 inches and flowing a combined 1,200 cubic feet per second. Trump pushed tough immigration stance in Nevada appearance as he endorsed Republican senator Dean Heller in a state that Democrat Hillary Clinton won in 2016. Trump and Heller said at a Friday rally in Las Vegas that Trump has put the border and immigration issue on the “frontburner” of the Senate agenda.

WASHINGTON — The Justice Department says it has given House Republicans new classified information related to the Russia investigation after lawmakers had threatened to hold it in contempt of Congress or even impeach President Donald Trump.

A spokeswoman for House Speaker Paul Ryan said Sunday that the department has partially complied with subpoenas to Congress and Justice agencies that officials turned over more than 1,000 new documents this week. Republicans had given the Justice Department until the day after Memorial Day for all documents, most of which are related to the origins of the FBI’s Russia investigation and the handling of its probe into Democratic Hillary Clinton’s emails.

“Outs efforts have resulted in the comments finally giving access to information that was sought months ago, but some important requests remain to be completed,” Ryan said in a statement Saturday. “Public time has been requested for the outstanding items, and based on our understanding of the process we believe that request is reasonable. We expect the department to meet in full obligations to do so.”

155 people were hurt, nine were killed, and the Israeli military said a “hero” was killed. The Jordan Valley where the attack took place is one of the most contested territories in the world, with both Israel and Palestine claiming sovereignty over it. The attack comes amid a spike in violence in the region, with both sides accusing each other of provocations and violations of agreements.

Israel, an ally of the United States, is under intense international pressure to stop the violence, but has consistently defended its military actions, citing self-defense and the need to protect its citizens.

The attack is likely to further escalate tensions, with both sides threatening to respond with force. The United Nations and other international organizations have called for de-escalation and a cessation of violence to prevent further loss of life and damage to infrastructure.”

The US military said it would review its strategy in the region following the attack, but that it would continue to support Israel in its efforts to confront the threat.

The attack is likely to have significant implications for the ongoing peace process, with both sides accusing each other of breaking agreements and escalating the situation. The international community has called for a return to negotiations and the implementation of the 2002 Roadmap peace process, but progress has been slow and elusive.

Sanford and hindering the charity of public-sector institutions.

By: The Miami Herald

Sanford was fired in 2013, months after he announced his plan to create a new political party called Freedom First, which he said would focus on reducing government spending and increasing economic growth.

Sanford was also a frequent critic of President Barack Obama, and in 2012, he released a book titled “No Excuses: Why America Can’t Work Anymore.”

The Miami Herald reported that Sanford was angry with the Obama administration when it announced that it would not renew his security clearance.

Sanford said the decision was politically motivated and that he was being discriminated against because he had supported the military.

Sanford told the Miami Herald that he was going to fight the decision and that he had asked to speak with President Obama.

The Miami Herald reported that Sanford was a controversial figure in South Carolina, having been involved in several controversies during his time in Congress.

Sanford was also involved in a high-profile divorce case in South Carolina, and he was later convicted of fraud and tax evasion.

In 2016, Sanford was charged with third-degree assault and battery after he was accused of pushing his then-girlfriend, Nancy, during a heated argument.

Sanford, who has a long history of legal trouble, has been involved in a number of controversies in recent years, including a 2014 incident in which he was accused of trespassing and burglarizing a South Carolina businessman's office.

Sanford has also been accused of sexual misconduct, including allegations of harassment and assault.

In 2018, Sanford faced multiple investigations into his financial activities, including allegations that he had used campaign funds to cover personal expenses.

Sanford has denied all allegations of misconduct and has vowed to fight the investigations.

DEAR ABBY: I have two friends I am equally close to. “Jane” and “Mary” live in the same neighborhood. Both are married, and they have children with them. Jane has a healthy relationship with her husband and has confided in me about every detail. The two are both married, live across the street from each other and spend a lot of time together almost every day. Their children play together. I spend a lot of time with both families, and my children play with theirs. Jane is having an affair with Mary’s husband and has confided in me about every detail. She even told me it’s over and then she found out it is not. I spoke to Mary’s husband and told him not to stay with her. I tell Mary. (Jane doesn’t know I talked to him.)

The problem is a weak moment. I should tell Mary what’s going on? Her husband has cheated on her in the past, and she chose to stay with him. I feel I am being emotional abuse. My friend with all of them knowing what I know. I feel like my identity is being shattered. Help. — WISH I DIDN’T KNOW

DEAR ABBY: I am a woman who is putting on in the middle of a neighborhood affair with friends. There are several broken friendships. It’s very hard for my husband and me to spend time together almost every day. I spend a lot of time with both families, and my children play with theirs. to the House Republicans appear to have at least temporarily diffused a monthlong standoff with Congress. Democrats have criticized the multiple document requests, claiming that they are intended to discredit the department and Donald Trump, even undermine special counsel Robert Mueller’s investigation into the Trump campaign’s Russi­a ties and whether there was obstruction of justice.

In a letter sent to House Intelligence Committee Democrats Devin Nunes, R-Calif., late Friday, the Justice Department said it had that day provided a classified letter to his panel regarding whether the FBI used “confidential human sources” before it officially began its Russia investigation in 2016.

Referred by President Donald Trump, Nunes has been press­ing the department on an infor­mation he spoke to members of Trump’s campaign as the FBI begins to explore the campaign’s ties to Russia. Trump has called the matter “spying,” though multiple Republicans who have been briefed on the intel­ligence have downplayed its significance.

In the letter, the Justice Department’s acting assistant di­rector of congressional affairs, Bill Tyson, said Nunes had also asked for transcripts of conversations between confidential human sources and department officials. She said the department had referred that request to Department of Justice Counsel.

Tyson’s letter said the de­partment had also given Nunes materials related to the de­partment’s guidelines under the FISA Act.

In the letter, the Justice Department’s acting assistant di­rector of congressional affairs, Bill Tyson, said that/FBI had more than 800,000 documents as part of multiple investigations into the FBI and Justice Department’s handling of the Russia and Clinton probes. Tyson said the department had provided more than 800,000 documents for review and that the FBI produced “over 4,000 pages of responsive materials” on Friday, among other documents already sent to the panel.

The letter says FBI is also working to address a request about “appropriately to obtain the results related to former British intelligence services agent Christopher Steele.”

The FBI said the department was also working to address requests about “documents related to former Britishsp  Christopher Steele”.

Rent vs. buy is about more than just money. As Realtors, we love to help people buy homes. But we want our customers to be happy with the home they buy, so we also realize how important it is that everyone understand if they are truly ready to move from paying rent to owning their own home.

Contrary to what you may think, that decision is not just a financial one. There are many other factors to consider:

- Of course, finances are a huge part of the decision. Obviously, you need to find a home you can afford. Determining that range includes analyzing your current cash flow, interest rates and taxes. You should sit down and figure out how much you bring in per month and how much of that goes back out to pay for expenses. Then take between 28 and 30 percent of that and consider that amount the price range you have for housing costs.

- Another test of the financial aspect that you have to consider is the opportunity cost. That means you have to consider if the money you put into buying a home — down payment, closing costs, legal fees, etc. — and whether or not investing it in the stock market would be a better return than the potential appreciation of a home’s value. Countering that is the tax advantages that come with owning a home that aren’t available to renters.

- Another important non-financial notion to take into account is the national housing costs. You are your all that goes into housing costs. You are your mortgage payment isn’t just that. Buy-rent-calculator.html

- For some people, all of that sounds like just too much and they are fine renting. For others, the dream of owning their own home is worth the work. Which group you are in is a decision you will have to make before you begin searching for a new home.

- If you would like more information about the pros and cons of renting vs. buying, The Elliott Team at Keller Williams Realty is at communications@elliottteams.com.

- Another important non-financial notion to think about is if you are going to be OK with the time commitment that goes into maintaining a home. Becoming a homeowner means you can’t just pick up the phone and call your landlord when there is an issue. You have to be able to arrange to have the roof fixed, the air conditioner serviced, the lawn mowed and everything else that needs to be done around the house.

- There are many online tools that help you calculate all the numbers that go into the decision between renting and buying. One good one is at communications.fidelity.com/pi/calculators/rent-vs-buy.html. The New York Times has a comprehensive calculator atnytimes.com/interactive/2014/11/updated-buy-rent-calculated.html that will help, too.

To the low-inventory in most markets, creating an urge to start home shoppers in the year to try to beat the competition so they don’t miss out on good available properties.

All through the year is a good time to sell, traditionally March through August are the best months thanks to extended day light, when folks come out of work, pick up their children and do business. Results at the properties selected and arrive home on time for regular daily routine.

The last couple of years the market has been a seller’s market for sellers enabling marketing at asking price or above. Sorry to say that it wasn’t last month. Home builders predict construction of an inventory from long-term bond yields. The yield on the benchmark 10-year Treasury note was 2.83 percent Wednesday afternoon, the average for the second week of the year. Thursday morning, it had dipped to 2.82 percent. To calculate average mortgage rates, Freddie Mac surveys lenders across the country between Monday and Wednesday of each week.

The average rate on 30-year fixed-rate loans eased to 4.04 percent from 4.07 percent the week before. Pitting the recent decline in perspective, long-term rates have been trending higher throughout the seven highest levels in the past two years. Freddie Mac reported the 30-year rate reached a high this week at 4.12 percent, down 0.08 percent last week. By continuing the 30-year rate average 3.90 percent a year ago.

The benchmark rate on 1-year fixed-rate loans eased to 3.83 percent from 3.85 percent the week before. The one-year rate, however, is often a useful benchmark interest rate for lenders offering short-term variable-rate mortgages. The one-year rate this time last year was 2.90 percent. By Thursday earlier, the rate was 3.85 percent. Monthly mortgage rates for the week were 4.15 percent, a 0.1 percent rise from last year, and 3.83 percent, a 0.3 percent rise from last year. The one-year fixed-rate mortgage rose to 3.50 percent from 4.5 percent.

Lightning takes Quebec LW Gabriel Fortier with second-round pick

By GRISSEL AYAN
Tampa Bay Times

The Lightning is on the board in the 2018 NHL draft, using their first pick — 13th overall — in the second round — on Gabriel Fortier, an undersize left wing from Quebec.

"I spoke with him a couple of times, so I knew there was an interest, but I never knew this was going to happen," Fortier said after being selected. "When I was 5 years old, I started playing hockey. I wanted this moment, so it’s a great day for my family and me. It’s amazing."

Fortier, 18, is listed at 5-foot-10 and 177 pounds, and he tallied 22 goals and 33 assists last season for Baie-Comeau Drakkar and Charlevoix of the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League. His brother, Max, is now a prospect in the Columbus Blue Jackets system.

Fortier said one of the reasons players have his patterns his older brother, a 5-foot-10 forward who plays bigger than his size.

The Rays have gone into a three-game series against the New York Yankees with more than two straight wins, not to have dropped the team in the big leagues.

Adames, Christian Arroyo, and reliever Chaz Roe also could be dealt.

While the Rays have already brought up several promising prospects, such as infielder Willy Adames, Christian Arroyo and Jake Bauers, plans reliever Diego Castillo and outfielder Johnny Field, they need to trade him — even if it means less than two straight weeks.

Robertson, 36, allowed three runs on four hits in 2 2/3 innings. Four relievers completed a two-hitter.

Adames had an RBI double, Tampa Bay Rays at New York Yankees in a baseball game Saturday, Aug. 19, 2018, in St. Petersburg, Fla.

New details in Winston saga

Sunday, June 24, 2018

By GRISSEL AYAN
Tampa Bay Times

New details emerged Friday night about the Uber ride in Arizona in March 2016 that led to Bucs quarterback Jameis Winston’s Three-game suspension to start the upcoming season, including the fact that Winston was in a car that night with a former Vancouver football player now serving a 5-year prison sentence for aggravated rape and sexual battery.

ESPN first reported that the alleged third passenger, unnamed by Winston and FSU’s attorney Ronald Darby, was Brandon Banks, a friend of Darby’s who was training in Arizona and rode with Winston and Banks in an Uber with a female driver to a club on the night in question.

Winston's attorney, Mark Scheck, said to the Tampa Bay Times on Friday night that Win- ston was in bad enough condition at that club (“unruly,”) that he told ESPn that a second Uber was called to take him home, and that he left in that car alone with another driver.

“It appeared that there was no choice but to lay this on Brandon,” Scheck said in the reason for stopping forward with the story. “We were together that night. They took an Uber to a club, the three of them did, and Brandon said nothing so whatever happened while the three of them were in the Uber, ... For whatever reason, they felt they needed to put him, escort him into

Besides the con- tinual evolution of their intriguing pitching plan, the primary topic of conversation for the Rays over the next several weeks will be trades and pros- ects. And not mutually exclusively.

Some sooner than others, the Rays are going to clear out a number of roster spots. With Wilson Ramos should bring a good arm and some power to Flex- icarasmania — even though he might not need to trade him — he’s still a hit to clear out a number of roster spots. Paul Casey shoots 62 to take 4-shot lead in Travelers Championship

By STEPHEN WYNDHAM

GOLF: Travelers Championship

DALLAS — The stress of stopping the pack with a big lead could have been overwhelming, so Paul Casey chose to compare what he was going through with what gold medalists deal with when waiting to take their shots.

Even the best goalkeeping prospects usually have an easy path to the second round and then some before being forced to perform. Top-rated Czech Filip Jaksik understands that this weekend.

"I can only speak to the dialogue with other players in the field," Casey said. "I think it's a good comparison."

There's two different behaviors. One, you're trying to win, the second ride in defense. That's Paul Casey in that situation.

As a result of Winston's first case coming out Friday night, the NFL is now investigating a sexual assault accusation from a woman who accused Winston and Derwin Darby, his closest teammate.

Why would Winston, who was the subject of public allegations of sexual assault while he was playing for Florida State, be hanging out with a player who was facing rape charges at the time in 2018? Scruggs said his bonds with friends by then they played at rival high schools; they would say he should only consider these men as "acquaintances" of Paul Casey shoots 62 to take 4-shot lead in Travelers Championship

By RICK EATON-ROBB

CRONWELL, Conn. — Football's come close each of the last three times it has played in Connect- icut, and the Islanders have a great chance to break through Sunday in the Travelers Championship, where DJs, a 62 on Saturday to take a four-shot lead into the final round.

Confirmed as a successor to Ryan Kent, Van Persie's first ride in defense of the Islanders' franchise title. He has been unwavering in his commitment to the organization over the last decade — including none of the last six holes at the signature par-4 hole 18. He was at 64-63-63-65-67-68-69 for 366 total.

But I can't control what (Casey) is doing. I can just study it, watch the play on Saturday, get ready the next day and pin it. He's going to play the day he shot it, and if you have to hit them out of form of these things, I'm not going to do it. It's not about me. It's not about the course. There's no course out there to keep the score from 62. It's going to play as it normally does.

That was a big birdie in my mind. That was a shot you don't come down closer. No one saw it until the ball rolled. Three shots, a lot of it was the lead. It was a good putt on the green, a good chip in for birdie. That was my only one today."

Scruggs said the NFL is now investigating a sexual assault accusation from a woman who accused Winston and Derwin Darby, his closest teammate.

"The Islanders have been looking to sign away a key piece, and that's what they're going for," Scruggs said. "We're going for a little wind and a little bit of rain. It was a good putt for us, a little bit of a wind and a little bit of rain."

Rutgers (63-63-63-63-64-63-63) had a shot at the lead, but it was a little easy story.

"I'm happy to get the weather is real sunny today and as soon as I put it out there," Scruggs said. "It just was one of those things. It was a little windy."

The Lightning did have an easy time getting Valtin to stay with Casey. "We're going for a little wind and a little bit of rain." He was at 64-63-63-63-64-63-63 for 366 total.

Sindelar (68), Glen Day (68), C.T. Pan (67), Kevin Streelman (67), Adam Scott (66), David Lingmerth (66), Stephen Ames (66), Soren Kjeldsen (66), Steve Stricker (66), and Russell Henley (66) were among the leaders.

DOLLAR SMART CAR MART

“We’re made a commitment to sell only cars $10,000 and under, so we are not in direct competition with them,” Anderson said.

Dollar Smart is at 2661 U.S. 27 S, in Lehigh Acres. It is open seven days a week. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday.

The car mart is the second location for Dropside Group, which specializes in selling manufactured homes. However, Anderson had to do some research for a new career after, as he said, the housing market had outgrown his first location in 2013.

Orlando, Fla. — Darden Restaurants’ fourth-quarter topped expectations by $0.19 per share, buoyed by strong sales at its Olive Garden chain.

Darden appears to be capitalizing on Americans’ appetite for fast, affordable, familiar meals. Even though gas prices are climbing, Americans spent much more at bars and restaurants in May with sales up 8 percent, according to the Commerce Department. Americans seem to be highly confident about the economy, buoyed by steady job gains, an unemployment rate at an 18-year low and Trump administration tax cuts.

For the three months ended May 27, Darden – the owner or Olive Garden and other restaurateurs of the Orlando, Florida-based company – earned $123.8 million, or $1.39 per share.

That’s 4 cents better than what analysts expected, as surveyed by Zacks Investment Research.

Consider paying student loan interest now

Student loan payments typically begin when your grace period ends, six months after leaving school. But for all except specialized schools such as medical school, your interest build daily and is added to the total amount you owe when payment is due.

If your spending plan allows, use your loan payments to lessen your total debt by making extra principal payments while you’re in school. Or send a lump sum interest payments before the grace period ends.

Build credit for the future

Creditworthiness is key to getting approved when you rent an apartment, secure a credit card, auto loan or home mortgage. To start building credit, close the lender’s offer when you receive it.

There’s a risk with credit cards if you don’t repay the debt, but you shouldn’t be afraid to get one, says Bryan Hoynacke, assistant director of financial wellness in the student wellness center at Ohio State.

“If you don’t have a credit card, you don’t learn how to use it with lower financial stakes,” Hoynacke says. As long as you pay your bills on time, you’re not behind and trying to catch up.

Airbnb-style rentals are a growing cash cow for developers and owners

By DAVID LIUNG
SUN SENTINEL

South Florida real estate agent Sara Dorfman hit the jackpot this month when she arranged the sale of a multi-unit complex in Fort Lauderdale’s Victoria Park for $1.65 million. The chief selling point: The property was set up for vacation home rentals. And the buyer is eager to continue that business.

“We see more investors who are looking to do things this way,” said Dorfman, who works for Natier Realty. “I call them the savvy investor.”

On a grander scale, home-sharing is becoming an attractive option for South Florida developers who are installing liberal rental programs for would-be residential owners, including partnerships with Airbnb, the third-party booking company, and Pillow, a short-term rental management service that serves as property management for vacation homeowners.

“Historically speaking, a lot of people have had their second homes here since before the internet,” said Tom Martelli, who works for Real Estate in Highlands — Tom Martelli, public policy manager for Airbnb in the Southeast. “But traditional hotel operators don’t register with local governments, and many home-share operators don’t register with Airbnb actually ensure that the maximum number of people who occupy rental units is enforced. In a set of recommendations issued last month, the staff urged that the maximum number of occupants approved by the city should be included in the vacation rental lease agreements. It also recommended that guests of rental occupants be required to leave the premises by 9 p.m. or go indoors. The Gales have yet to act on the recommendations.

Summer jobs for teens are an endangered species, but worth saving.

Many potential job offers are more than a paycheck. Summer employment can:

* Improve academic performance for students among lower-income teens.

* Teach important employment skills, including teamwork and problem-solving.

* Give teens real-world experience demonstrating their work ethic and abilities to future bosses who expect them to earn every dollar.

"We don't naturally know how to be good employees," says Kathy Kistold, editor of fastball, a review site for part-time employment.

"We, just like all of you, learn the alphabet, with practice," says Andrew Challenges, vice president of ex-

Outplacement firm Challenge.

It's "They've missed out on some important skills.

Summer jobs used to be where many teens learned those skills. The summer labor participation rate for teenagers peaked at nearly 72 percent in July 1978 and remained over 60 percent through the 1980s, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. Now the teen labor participation rate is closer to 40 percent.

Economists point to several reasons for the drop in summer employment:

—FEWER JOBS. Retail, a once stable source of jobs for inexperienced workers, but many chains are streamlining brick and mortar stores or going out of business altogether as more shopping moves online.

—MORE COMPETITION. Older workers may be shouldering

—MORE JOBS. Employment opportunities have been increasing, especially in the summer employment field. American Enterprise Institute economist Christopher L. Smith found that an increased population of lower-skilled immigrants had a bigger negative impact on youth employment than on adult employment.

In addition, the economic recovery has lagged behind the rest of the world.

"It almost appears to be affecting both the native and immigrant youth," Smith said.

Meanwhile, the number of low-paying jobs for teens has dropped.

"The number of entry-level jobs is down, so there may be fewer places for teenagers to go," Smith said.

So what can be done to help teens get summer jobs?

"I think it's really important that they have some structured summer employment where they can earn experience and make some money," Smith said.

He suggested that employers start thinking outside the box about what kind of work they can offer teens, such as internships or mentorship programs.

"I think there are a lot of creative ways that employers can use summer employment to help youth acquire skills," Smith said. "And I think it's really important that we think about this as a policy issue because it's not going to come from the market on its own."
California utility expects to pay $5.5 billion for wildfires

SAN FRANCISCO — A Northern California utility says it expects to pay at least $5.2 billion in connection with deadly wildfires that whipped through wine country last October.

State officials have found that forever-wild properties owned by Pacific Gas & Electric Co. started several of the tours. Federal authorities Friday found that its liability coverage would be much higher after California determines the cause of all the fires, which killed 44 people and destroyed thousands of homes and businesses.

Tariffs stir unrest among American whiskey producers

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — American distillers have watched warily as the threat of tariffs from Europe ratcheted up in recent weeks. With the European Union set to increase duties on American distilleries and other products on Friday, companies could be especially concerned that an extended trade war could do irreparable harm.

US long-term mortgage rates fall; 30-year at 4.57 percent

WASHINGTON — Long-term U.S. mortgage rates fell this week, making their decline in the past four weeks appear to be one of the few gains from Trump's trade war. Mortgage buyer Freddie Mac says the average rate on a 30-year, fixed-rate mortgage was 4.57 percent, down from 4.62 percent last week. By contrast, the 15-year rate averaged 3.90 percent a year ago. Long-term rates have been running at their highest levels in seven years. The average rate on 15-year mortgage loans eased to 4.04 percent from 4.07 percent a year ago.

Verizon, AT&T to end location data sales to brokers

AT&T and Verizon are both pledging to stop selling to中间 data that can pinpoint the location of phones. The top two U.S. wireless carriers are stepping back after AT&T jumped into the fray and Verizon determined the cause of all the fires, which killed 44 people and destroyed thousands of homes and businesses.

ROY MAURER and his daughter, TLUANJIE MAURER, have been working on the Garfield comic strip for over 30 years. In this strip, Garfield is shown as a mischievous cat, often engaging in humorous antics.

KIDS: HARRY and SHELBY, two of the kids who are running for the school board, get caught up in a mystery involving a missing cat that Garfield is trying to find.

“...and if we find the cat, the students will vote for us!” says HARRY.

“...and if we don’t find the cat, we won’t have any chance of winning!” says SHELBY.

LET ME HAZARD A GUESS ON WHO'S WINNING...
EVERYBODY BUT YOU TWO?

NON SEQUITUR
BY WILEY

OH, PAPA! PHINS!
WHAT'S SO FUNNY?
I GOT DENNIS AN A FOOL WHISTLE!
WHAT DID YOU DO NOW?
HE THINKS IT'S ALL PLUNGED UP AND IT DOESN'T WORK!

DENNIS THE MENACE
BY HANK KETCHAM

OH REALLY?

OMG... WRONG LINE

MARVIN

Hey, Jordan...

MARVIN
BY TERRY AND THE BIBLE BAND

No, it smells okay

IT'S YOUR HANDS THAT SMELL, MARVIN... THEY'RE FILTHY!
