Lake Townsen: A future home for our Gopher Tortoises

The relocation of gopher tortoises and recipient sites were discussed in a previous article published in The Hernando Sun. State of Florida seeks private partnerships for Gopher Tortoises conservation. Plans have been underway to establish a gopher tortoise recipient site in Hernando County at Lake Townsen Preserve, about 15 minutes north of Brooksville.

Lake Townsen Preserve is one of the seven preserves that make up Hernando County’s Environmentally Sensitive Lands program which was established in 1988. One objective fulfilled in Lake Townsen is gopher tortoise management.

The Lake Townsen Preserve Management Plan states, “The gopher tortoise (Gopherus polyphemus) population has declined in recent decades as forest has diminished in the absence of fire. Regular prescribed burns will be conducted in accordance with the burn plan to reduce fuel accumulations, reduce oak and sand pine densities in sandhills, and increase open space with improved forage for GTFs. Machinery may be used to reduce hardwoods and sand pine densities where fire is ineffective. The Board of County Commissioners has approved development of a Gopher Tortoise Recipient Site on about 300 acres of suitable soils for receiving GTFs that need to be relocated from other County properties. This recipient site will require habitat improvement, permitting, and development of a Gopher Tortoise Management Plan for the preserve.”

The plan also states that prescribed burns will be needed to restore and maintain the habitat at Lake Townsen Preserve. “This unit is primarily comprised of overgrown sandhill and is in urgent need of habitat restoration, primarily the application of controlled fire. The objective will be to restore the sandhill to maintenance condition where frequent prescribed burns can be used exclusively to maintain the habitat and support a gopher tortoise recipient site permitted by FWC.”

Michael Singer, Hernando County Conservation Lands Specialist, has been preparing to turn 272 acres of Lake Townsen Preserve into a gopher tortoise recipient site, however there are land management criteria that must be in place before this area can be established as a recipient site. “The way the site was initially... it was overgrown sand hill. All the little oak trees and other hardwoods had grown so thick and dense; I haven’t been maintained and managed over the years, because it was vacant property,” Singer said. “I don’t think anything started happening until it came into the Sensitive Lands Program. This property just sat and had become overgrown because things around it were being built,” said Singer.

The majority of the habitat restoration started prior to Singer’s position with the ESL program back in August of 2017. “Most of the mechanical work has been done,” Singer said. “They also did herbicide treatment on [selected] hardwoods.”

To get this particular area of Lake Townsen Preserve ready, the ESL program has plenty of items on the to-do-list to complete, below are just a few.

-Reducing the canopy cover
The desirable amount of canopy is 40% or less and in order for areas to get to that percentage there would be a need to remove hardwoods and cut the understory to let more light in. A canopy is the area aboveground or upper layer formed by a collection of mature trees crowns. Having locations with dense canopies tend to blockout sunlight to the ground.

-Pruned burned
This is to reduce leaf litter and ground debris as well as open the ground for new growth. “Prescribed burns will promote new growth, it will actually help a lot of plants, especially in this type ecosystem that need fire for germination,” Singer said. “It will also help to prevent wildfires.”

Removal of the trees that went down during hurricane Irma is also needed in order to create open space for the desired gopher tortoise habitat. “When Hurricane Irma came through it hit this area really hard,” Singer said. “We might need to come in and do some chopping and realize so it will burn. The only thing that might happen with the excess debris— it might burn a little too hot and damage some of the trees that we want to keep.”

-Increase ground cover of herbaceous vegetation
The ground cover should sustain 30% or more herbaceous plants for the gopher tortoises, such as a variety of grasses and wildflowers.

-Soft Release Area
This is a designated area within the site. This area will require silk fencing that is burial partially underground to help protect the gopher tortoise from traveling outside the recipient site. “Tortoises have a strong homing instinct, they want to go back to where they came from,” Singer said. “You hold them in that area for about six months and eventually they will dig a new home.”

-Vegetation and Gopher Tortoise Surveys
Gopher tortoise surveys are conducted in about 15% (40 acres) of the proposed site and 100% of the site prior to the application process. A gopher tortoise survey was completed by Mike Singer inspecting a gopher tortoise burrow.
Man reunited with dog lost in Gulf of Mexico storm

ENGLEWOOD, Fla. (AP) — A Florida man says he’s been reunited with his dog after the animal fell off his sailboat during a storm.

News outlets report that Shane Hale and his small dog, Harley, set sail for the Florida Keys on Saturday but got caught in a bad storm that night about 3 miles (5 kilometers) off Englewood, which is north of Fort Myers.

Hale says Harley was wearing a life jacket and attached to the boat with a tether, but the dog apparently slipped out of the jacket after falling in the water.

Hale posted about the lost dog on social media and learned the next day that Harley had made it to a nearby beach.

He says the dog caught a mild case of pneumonia but was otherwise fine.

Lauren Anzalone indulges her second passion and begins a spare time adventure
By Sue Digley
Hernando Sun Writer
“It all began when I was in middle school,” she said. “I’d always loved drawing and painting at school and then my parents bought me a camera — that was the moment when I fell in love with photography.”

Most Lauren Anzalone, 23, a teacher at Fox Chapel Middle School in Spring Hill, photography is a talent, “you don’t.”

in her last year of high school, she joined the Photography Club led by Trevor Barlow, a multiple subject teacher at Nature Coast Technical High School in Brooksville. Barlow remembers Anzalone as being incredibly enthusiastic to learn as much as she could about photography.

“She’s someone who has vision and a keen eye,” he said.

He explained that photography is so much more than just clicking a button.

When I fell in love with photography and the creative space it gave, Anzalone started college and earned her degree in Education at St. Leo University so she could start a career in teaching.

“Almost always wanted to be a teacher,” she said. “It’s a very rewarding profession. Although, I’ve always had a passion for photography, teaching is also my love.”

Anzalone explained that choosing a career in teaching was “my realistic dream job — it’s a lifelong career, challenging and so inspiring to engage students in learning.”

What prompted me back on the path doing more photography was a trip I took with friends to a local farm.

Anzalone related how the she and some friends visited Sweetfields Farm in Missaukee for a photo shoot in the sunflower maze.

“Visiting the farm just fed me up all over again,” she said.

“I’ve graduated from the camera my parents bought me all those years ago and invested in DSLR equipment,” said Anzalone.

Although, I’ve always had a passion for photography, teaching is also my love.

“It’s very reassuring to get ‘Likes’ on your work. I mean it’s total strangers who take the time to make a comment on a photo. Even if it’s critical, try to absorb any advice I can get. I love a challenge.”

Anzalone’s assignments include Georgia and St. Augustine with plans are in the making for Mexico and Cuba. If you would like to schedule a consultation, portrait session, or more information, contact Lauren Anzalone directly at anza@laurenanzalone.com.

Wedding of Dreams

The famous wedding of Richard and Jennifer Lewis (played by Richard Roper and Jennifer Lyon) was set to be one of the most anticipated events of the season. Richard, a successful businessman, and Jennifer, a talented actress, were deeply in love and eager to tie the knot. The weddingplanners had worked tirelessly to ensure that the event would be the talk of the town.

On the day of the wedding, everything was in place. The venue was decorated with the most exquisite flowers and the most elegant decorations. The guests were dressed to the nines, eagerly awaiting the ceremony.

Richard and Jennifer walked down the aisle, hand in hand, surrounded by the love and joy of their friends and family. The air was thick with emotion as they exchanged vows in front of the altar. The ring ceremony was a highlight, with each piece of jewelry symbolizing a precious moment in their relationship.

As the newlyweds left the church, the crowd erupted in applause. The reception was just as spectacular, with delicious food, live music, and entertainment that kept everyone dancing late into the night. It was a day that they would never forget, a day that would forever be etched in their memories.

Richard and Jennifer's wedding was more than just a celebration of their love; it was a celebration of love in all its forms. It was a reminder that no matter how much the world changes, the bond of love remains constant. It was a day that brought joy to many, and it set the stage for all the adventures that lay ahead.
For most hunters taking to the woods this Fall, turkey hunting is a bit of a fallback. Since they are so abundant, and occasionally walk by a treestand, a few bowhunters take advantage of the chance encounters. It’s a happy coincidence that Fall turkey season runs parallel to the state archery hunting season, which opens September 14th in our zone. When it comes to fall turkeys, a few calls with my voice did the job of a few after getting a bit of a head start. Personally, I was one of the targets of opportunity hunters for a while and would take a shot at one if it presented itself. Then one day while killing time, I stumbled onto a flock of birds feeding beneath a canopy of low oaks and spooked them. They took flight and went off in alarms, headed in every direction. I knew then that they would be hoping to regroup at the same spot, but a few calls with my voice and a pair of jakes walked back in. Once I had one of them short-beards step into a clear line of sight, my arrow flew an invitation to dinner his way.

The weekend offers a good chance to bring them into range. If you start your hunt too late, all of the birds will scatter in the same direction. But, if you get inside fifty yards or so and then start to move, you’ll get a much better scatter. You can target the shallow or slosh that takes you in the opposite direction of the majority of birds, if they’ll let you. If you notice a flock, take a seat and make a shot.

One myth I’ve heard for many years is that fall turkeys don’t vibrate. Fall turkeys will make every sound they can when they feel the need, but mostly their talk is of a social nature. There’s no urgency to their calling as in the spring with hormones raging. Fall birds are more concerned with finding food, danting and entertaining as much company as they can. Take advantage of that with assembly yelps, just remember to maintain a form, not a bunt. Turkeys have a deeper tone with a slower cadence aiming to the calling. And if on the ground, don’t forget searching in the leaf litter for your lost jake out in the woods.

Another thing to consider is that turkeys in general can be territorial and once fall turkeys are locked onto food sources, they are usually quick to defend their turf. A solo jake decoy positioned at a wind point will usually won’t be tolerated, and if you throw spurs at the interloper. For best results, toss some kee-kee calls from time to time sounding like a lonely and lost jake. Toms may just swing by to inspect the source. This is a good time to either pick him up or run him off. Either way, it will bring them into range.

One of Toby's hunting buddies, Bokua Kreriors with a handsome fall turkey taken with a traditional recurve bow.

No. 1 Hernando (1-0, 0-0): It was an overall dominating performance by Hernando last week when they defeated Fivay 40-7. The Leopards were able to receive solid performance across the board on offense and defense, with this week’s contest against Dakota Ridge of Littleton, Colorado being one of Hernando’s toughest of the season.

No. 2 Springstead (8-0, 0-0): Fivay is very much the only TD by 28 points. The Rams’ defense did a great job of restricting the offense of the Rams. Hernando quarterback Brett Fields, who rushed for 106 yards and two touchdowns, was running back Israel Fields, who rushed for 99 yards on 19 carries. The Rams’ defense was able to hold their offense to just five carries, nabbed two assisted tackles and returned a kickoff for a touchdown. No. 3 Nature Coast (5-0, 0-0): No team out of Hernando had a tougher season opener than Nature Coast Technical, as they went on the road and faced Ridgeview. Though the Sharks tallied 36-27, Nature Coast was able to get close portions of the game, but they couldn’t complete it. Hernando’s victory was driven by senior Koby Winn, who rushed for over 200 yards. The Rams will now turn their attention to Bankhead South Sumter this week.

No. 4 Weeki Wachee (3-0, 0-0): There was never any doubt that Springstead was going to feature a very good team this fall, but the Eagles made sure to drive home that point last week in their season opener contest. The Eagles dominated in the first half of 41-0 and cruised to an easy season opening victory. This week Springstead will face off against a more formidable opponent in Wekiva Warach at home.

No. 5 Central (0-1, 0-0): The Hornets are still coming from a season opening 37-20 loss to Lake Worth and have to quickly regroup as they’ll face a Springstead team that has a tough stretch ahead with Fremont, Hudson Fivay, Central and then Inverness Citrus.

Kazmier was quick to point out that there was plenty of great performances by his players all across the board. From running back David Hale Bronson to freshman sensation Jordan Williams, who noticed his first career varsity interception, it was truly a team effort for the Leopards. “Fivay is very much dominating performance by Hernando last week when they defeated Fivay 40-7. The Leopards were able to receive solid performance across the board on offense and defense, with this week’s contest against Dakota Ridge of Littleton, Colorado being one of Hernando’s toughest of the season.

The regular season for prep football in the state of Florida began last week and we here at the Hernando Sun want to give you the Hernando County reader all the insight you can get during the 2018 campaign. We will be doing weekly Top 5 ranking of the five teams with Hernando County being one of them. We will be doing the Hernando Sun Top 5 Prep Football Poll running into Week 2 of the regular season.

No. 1 Hernando (1-0, 0-0): It was an overall dominating performance by Hernando last week when they defeated Fivay 40-7. The Leopards were able to receive solid performance across the board on offense and defense, with this week’s contest against Dakota Ridge of Littleton, Colorado being one of Hernando’s toughest of the season.

No. 2 Springstead (8-0, 0-0): There was never any doubt that Springstead was going to feature a very good team this fall, but the Eagles made sure to drive home that point last week in their season opener contest. The Eagles dominated in the first half of 41-0 and cruised to an easy season opening victory. This week Springstead will face off against a more formidable opponent in Wekiva Warach at home.

No team in Hernando County was about other than Central in the season opener. There was always going to be the growing pains to start for first-year head coach John Warren. The Bears are young and must change around culture.

Springstead made some positive strides. Under the direction of head coach Kyle LaRiviere, the only thing that eluded the Eagles last season was clinching the elusive post-season birth.

The Eagles just fell out of contention in competing for a district championship after falling in the Class 7A, District 8 semifinals against rival Land O’ Lakes. The loss still leaves with WebSocket players, and she also serves as an additional motivation to get back into playing high-caliber exhibition matches. This season, the goal was to build campaign was a success nonetheless, with the team going 16-6. They head into this fall with higher expectations.

Springstead has played well early on and is 3-1 to start the season, with the Eagles only losing one game to Nature Coast Tech in the opener. Since then, the Eagles have racked up six wins in total, the most recent being a win over Zealottos, Central Pinellas’ Greenbar, and Central Pinellas’ Citrus.

The upcoming slate of contests for the Eagles will very much test Springstead to the highest extent, as the club will face off against rivals Hernando, Weeki Wachee, Land O’ Lakes and Mitchell. The latter two contests will be 7A-8 district matchups. The Eagles will face all three of those teams this season with another game against Nature Coast Tech on March 23, and with the Eagles playing under new management, the season will take place on October 18 in a matchup that will be sure to attract a lot of fans.
