Hazen glanced at the check for $3, but he said, "I must have made a mistake."

"No, sir," said the driver. "It's correct."

Hazen was surprised. "But why?

The driver explained, "It's because you promised to pay for the oysters and refreshments for all who would come.

Hazen realized that he had forgotten to do so.

Local News in a Nutshell

THE VETERINARIAN

A Swell Horse.

The veterinarian arrived at the stables and was greeted by the horse's owner. "What's wrong with him?"

The veterinarian examined the horse and said, "He has a common cold."

"How long has he had it?"

"Only a few days," said the owner.

"Then you should take him to the vet's office right away," said the veterinarian.

"I will do that," said the owner.

The veterinarian continued his examination and found several other problems.

"He needs a change in his diet and exercise," said the veterinarian.

"I will take care of that," said the owner.

The veterinarian administered some medications and sent the horse back to the stable to recuperate.

Remember

The veterinarian

advised the horse's

owner to remember

to give the horse

enough rest and proper nutrition.

"Thank you," said the owner.

"You're welcome," said the veterinarian.

The horse was returned to the stable and the veterinarian

left, having done his duty.

Sunday's

Weather
