Wheat is Requiring Premise Prices

The wheat market has not improved in any material way from the low point reached during the past week, though there is a tendency in the market to firm up. The demand for wheat has been relatively small, and the prices have consequently been weak. The farmers who have been selling wheat recently have been doing so largely to meet current needs. The market is awaiting developments in the wheat growing districts to determine the future course of prices. The prospects for a good crop in the wheat growing districts are considered favorable, and the farmers are expected to look to the future with confidence. The prices are not expected to show any material change in the near future.

The Last Two Are Lepers

Old Settlement of a New Family

The last two are lepers of the last generation resident in the house. The older one of the two is of the age of about one hundred years, and the younger one of the same age is about a hundred and twenty years. The older one of the two is a great character, and the younger one is a good character. The two are the last two of the generation who lived in the house, and the last two of the generation that lived in the house.

The Whitehead Award to British Nursery

A. C. Whitehead, K. N. R. Whitehead, and A. C. Whitehead, K. N. R. Whitehead, were awarded the Whitehead Award to the British Nursery. The award is made for the best nursery in the United Kingdom. The British Nursery is one of the oldest and best nurseries in the country, and the award is a just recognition of the high standard of its work. The British Nursery is a prominent feature of the nursery trade, and the award is a great honor to the nursery trade in general.
