What Can I Do for You?

- Create a LibGuide for a course.
- Provide library instruction.
- Help on a digital project (teaching or research).
- Consult with you for your research.
- Find resources.
- Purchase books.
- Purchasing materials with ongoing costs such as journals and databases is more difficult, but feel free to discuss these potential purchases with me.

Make sure to check out the LibGuides and to add them to your syllabi: French and Francophone Studies; Italian Studies; Portuguese Studies; Spanish Studies.

New Resources

- Lynda: An online video library with thousands of courses, taught by recognized experts who are passionate, effective teachers.
- Browzine: It is the leading service researchers use to browse, read and stay current with the journals important to their areas of research.
- El Nuevo Herald: Newspaper in Spanish from Miami.
- Lexicon of Greek Grammarians of Antiquity: It serves as the first point of reference for information on the ancient grammarians for scholars of Greek and Latin antiquity, in particular for research into the history of philology, grammar and ancient scholarship.
Quick Facts
A few things to remember

- The University of Florida Digital Collections are getting bigger and bigger! The 500,000 item has been loaded into the Florida Digital Collections (UFDC) in November. There are now more than 12 million pages in our digital collections. Make sure to check out some of the great resources we have been digitizing. For instance, check out our Spanish Borderlands Collections or European Collections. New items and collections are added regularly and these documents are a great resource for research and for teaching.

- The Graduate Students Research Series is happening again this semester. UF Librarians Hélène Huet (European Studies), Richard Freeman (Anthropology), and David Schwieder (Political Science) will present a series of research-focused sessions to help graduate students with the following topics: Finding Scholarly resources (Feb.9), Reading Scholarly Sources (Feb.23), Making Sense of Your Scholarly Sources (March 16), and Tips for Writing an Effective Scholarly Paper (March 30). All sessions are period 7, 1.55-2.45 in room 212 in Library West. No registration is required.

- The scholarly communications workshops are back. Sessions include Copyright Essentials for the Graduate Researcher, Authors' Rights and Responsibilities, and Can I Use That? Fair Use for Teaching. For registration and additional information, please visit http://bit.ly/UF_ScholComm.

- The George A. Smathers Libraries have reinstated UF’s Open Access Publishing (UFOAP) Fund, which began accepting applications on January 1, 2017. Faculty, graduate students, staff and post-doctoral researchers who are the first named or corresponding author of open access scholarly articles accepted for publication after November 15, 2016 and who do not have access to funding through grants or other financial means of support are eligible to apply for financial assistance in paying article processing charges assessed by open access journals.
