

literacy to one of the world's highest; preparing skilled workers for a dynamic industrial society; and encouraging and strengthening the habits and practices of democracy, equality, and religious tolerance. Florida's public schools today must aim to do as much--and more.