

THE STORY OF THE THREE FISH.

(COPIED FROM A VERY OLD BOOK.)

At the foot of a very high hill there runs a beautiful river, and in that river there lived three silver trout, the prettiest little fish that any one ever saw.

Now, you must know that there was a good Genie who took care of them, and who let them want for nothing that such little fish would require. But two of them grew very sad and discontented; and the one wished for one thing, and the other wished for another thing, and neither of them could take any pleasure in what they had, because they were always longing for something they had not.
